"My dear Clara," said Elsa, "I shall never speak to Clifford Swan again."

"Oh, don't say that, Elsa! Please! Why won't you?"

"I shall never have a chance, I know that man too well. And you, of all people."

"Why me, of all people?"

"He's positively afraid of you. He thinks you the most formidable tease on earth, and he can't stand teasing."

"Then what do you think he'll do?"

"My own private belief," said Elsa, speaking very deliberately, "is that he will pack up and go to the Klondike, without saying a word to anybody."

The catch in her friend's voice as she spoke these last words brought a most unusually serious look to Clara Henderson's habitually jocund face, which was still glowing under the combined influences of laughter and a rapid bicycle ride.

"Elsa," she said, "give me that letter."

"What are you going to do with it? No, I can't, Clara. It will look like running after the man."

"Well, then, good-by. What time is it? Ten minutes to three. Good-by."

"What are you going to do?"

"I want my letter."

"Your letter?"

"Yes. You must have sent me some letter, or young Nick wouldn't have brought me Mr. Swan's."

"But it doesn't matter. I can tell you, now you're here. It was to meet me—about that picnic, you know——"

"Never mind," said Clara. "I'm going to have my letter."

And she whirled away, much as she had come, only without laughter.

Clifford Swan was sitting at his desk, on his high stool, experiencing cold chills, wondering how a man so easily upset as he was by a trifle could have held his position in a bank all these years and risen—repeating to himself mechanically, "Can these things be, and overcome us like the shadow of a cloud?" Still more vividly imagining what Elsa Davis had said in the letter, wondering how much of it Clara Henderson had read, and dreading her terrible laugh. But he would not face that terrible laugh, he thought; he would sooner make a will, leaving everything he had to Elsa, and then——

"Mr. Swan," said the young clerk, who was becoming really uneasy by this time, "a lady wishes to see you."

"Tell the lady I'm very busy."

The young clerk stared at what seemed to him the obvious untruth of the allegation, but nevertheless he took the message to the paying teller's window in the front office.

"Mr. Swan, the lady says she has some very important business to settle with you, and will you please speak to her for two minutes?"

"Who is the lady?"

"I know her face, but she didn't give me her name. She wears a brown velveteen bicycle——"

"Light hair done up in a coil?"

The young clerk nodded.

"Mr. Edwards," said Swan, "I don't think I'm very well to-day."

"I noticed that you weren't looking well before you went to lunch."

"Mr. Edwards, I think I'll go home for to-day. My wheel is in the back hall, I think. Please tell Mr. Glinn I'll be all right to-morrow."

The young clerk stared and walked away to the front of the bank. Then, as Clifford Swan reached his hat and turned to go to the back hall, he heard a ripple of feminine laughter, echoed by half a score of clerks.

"He'll go out the back way, I suppose. Thank you," sounded in the dreaded voice of Clara, the tormentress.

Clifford Swan thanked his stars and the city authorities that the street before the back entrance was paved with asphalt and not thronged with vehicles at that hour. Over the asphalt he sped, longing to look behind him, but afraid to attract attention. If he seemed anxious as to who was following, passers-by might think he was fleeing from the bank and the law. On he went, not knowing exactly where to speed to, until, after a brilliant quarter of a mile, he came to the South pike, and its familiar smoothness allowed him to turn into it. As he turned he ventured to look over his shoulder and saw nobody of whom he need be afraid. So on he pedaled.

After the most unpleasant three minutes' spin he had ever known on that road he was beginning to hope that he had escaped Clara Henderson's terrible teasing, when, "trr-r-r-ing," a bicycle bell sounded behind him.

"You must be very busy to-day, Mr. Swan," a clear voice called aloud—"and very sick. Do you always ride like this when you are very busy—and sick?"

Physically, Clifford Swan kept his balance, only turning to raise his hat; morally, he collapsed.

"Oh, Miss Henderson?" he said, "how d'ye do? No, I'm not feeling very well to-day."

"Still, you're not sick enough to be in bed, are you? I would like to speak to you, if you don't mind, just for a minute. You have a letter of mine, I believe?"

All this conversation was going on as they wheeled, side by side, out the South pike.

"I? Oh, yes, I beg your pardon. I didn't mean to read it."

"That's of no consequence," said Clara. "But please give it to me. I want to see what Elsa says——"

"Hi! Hi!" came from behind the two. "My! Can't you go when you get a move on you, Mr. Swan?"

It was young Nick.

"Sister says I gave you the wrong letter. So I brought you this when I got through oiling up my machine."

Young Nick held out a letter to Swan.

All three with one accord dismounted by the roadside.

"Please give me my letter," said Clara.

And Swan, with smiles and nervous apologies, produced Elsa's little note from an inside pocket.

"Will you allow me?" he asked, as he took his own letter from young Nick.

Clara nodded and turned her attention to her own little note. Young Nick stood wide-eyed while these two read:

"Sister changed her mind after you went, Miss Clara," he said.

It took Swan a long time to even glance through his three sheets of upright calligraphy. Clara displayed the patience and self-restraint of a waiting angel.

At last she said, "Now, it wasn't so very dreadful, after all, was it, Mr. Swan?"

"Oh, no," said Swan, "not at all. Nick, please tell sister for me that I'll be around this evening."

"No, Nick," said Clara. "You hurry on home and tell sister that I've caught Mr. Swan and I'm going to bring him with me right now." Then, as young Nick flew down a side street by way of making a short cut, she turned to Swan and asked, "How do you feel now—better?"

"Thanks," said Swan, "I feel decidedly better now."

And he had good reason to.—Chicago Chronicle.

Even the jay birds are hollering "Dewey." The next time you see a jay bird, listen to his note: you will find that it sounds exactly like "Dewey."

STORY ABOUT SCHLEY.

How That Eminent Naval Officer Got His First Command.

How Commodore Schley got his first command is an amusing episode in his early career. After leaving the Niagara he was promptly promoted to a lieutenancy and assigned as executive officer of one of the ninety-day gunboats, the Owasco of the Gulf squadron. Her commanding officer—his name is of no consequence, and he is dead now—was a devotee of John Barleycorn, and periodically had to retire to his cabin, where he usually stayed a week. The Owasco was stationed off Mobile, and was one of a small squadron of which Captain James Allen of the Richmond was senior officer.

One day a quartermaster of the Richmond reported to Captain Allen that the captain's gig of the Owasco was approaching, the captain's pennant flying. Supposing his visitor to be the captain of the Owasco, Allen put on his uniform coat, the side boys were ordered, and the boatswain's mate made ready for the three pipes at the gangway. When the Owasco's gig came alongside the man who sprang up the ladder was Lieutenant Schley.

"I expected to see Captain —— of the Owasco," said Allen, with slight sarcasm.

"I am commander of the Owasco, sir," said Schley.

"Since when?" asked Allen.

"An hour ago, sir," said Schley.

"Where is Captain ——?"

"Locked up in his cabin, sir, drunk."

"Who locked him in?" asked Allen.

"I did. I first put him under arrest, and then shut him up in his cabin. Then I took command of the ship, and here I am to report for orders."

Allen was fond of a joke, and he was at first disposed to laugh at the young man's summary action, but he said:

"Well, the first order I'll give you is for you to lower that pennant in the gig, go back to your ship, sir, unlock that cabin door, and restore Captain —— to duty. Then report to me in writing if the captain's illness still incapacitates him, and I will know what to do. Don't be in too great a hurry to get command of a ship, Mr. Schley!"—New York Ledger.

SERMONS OF THE WEEK

Two Kinds of Men.—We admire the man of strong choice who has a mind of his own, and is able to show a preference when the temptation comes to waver between two certain courses in life. We have no praise for him who is ever unsettled in his convictions, who is vacillating and cannot be found the same any two consecutive moments.—Rev. Robert MacDonald, Baptist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Divine Providence.—Lord God of the United States. Our nation is pledged unalterably to him. In the cabin of the Mayflower read the charter: "In the name of God. Amen." Which are the three cardinal propositions of the Declaration of Independence? "God created men equal," "Appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions," "A firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence."—Rev. S. E. Young, Presbyterian, Pittsburg, Pa.

Modern Warfare.—There are times like the present when it seems as though the animal were at the top, and the affectional nature suppressed, and the conscience were ruled out of court; and yet, if you study the methods of modern warfare, as compared with those of the past, you see how pity and tenderness and care walk by the side of every gun, hide in the rear of every battlefield to attend to the wounded and suffering.—Rev. M. J. Savage, Unitarian, New York City.

Mission of the Church.—The final mission of the church is to permeate the community in which it is located with a religious and spiritual influence. It rests on every member of the congregation, however, to see to it that the religious influence of the church is not confined within its four walls, but goes out into the society on the outside.—Rev. C. B. Allen, Baptist, Omaha, Neb.

Moral Standards.—Many professed Christian business men have a double standard of honesty—one for religion and one for business. City, State and national governments deem it right to license iniquity, while denying the same right to the individual. The voice of Christ rings out clearly and emphatically against these double standards of morals.—Rev. T. E. Cramblet, Disciple, Pittsburg, Pa.

Heathen Scholars.—The thinkers of the East, India, China and Japan, have not been lacking in thinking ability. In many instances they have been men of giant intellect, they have written books in abundance, but have made no advancement. They are to-day, except when they have been enlightened by divine revelation, where they were a thousand years ago.—Rev. W. B. Hartzog, Baptist, Columbus, Ohio.

Obedience.—A bright and happy eternity awaits all who change their attitude of opposition or of indifference to one of willing obedience to the call of the Gospel. The wilderness of the world is full of voices. Voices call you to obedience. Voices are loudly vociferating their wide and angry disclaimers against such an attitude. To which voices will you listen?—Rev. E. T. Lee, Presbyterian, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Human Game in Maine.

A Maine humorist announces his intention of appealing to the next Legislature for the amendment of the game laws, limiting the number of guides or fellow-sportsmen who may be shot by deer-hunters to not exceeding three in any one season by any one hunter. He says this is an amendment greatly needed for the preservation of guides, who are now threatened with extinction.

Tallest of Royal Women.

The tallest of the royal women in Europe are the Queen of Portugal and the Crown Princess of Denmark.

Some enterprising manufacturer should put a Dewey 5-cent cigar on the market without delay.

Every Bullet Its Own Doctor.

In spite of the terrible increase in the destructiveness of modern warfare the tendency of the times is to make a conflict as humane as practicable. For this reason the use of copper covered bullets has been frowned upon, and a Philadelphia physician has a plan that he claims will wonderfully mitigate the suffering of a man whose body has been perforated by the modern small caliber bullet. It is well established that the velocity and penetrating force of these bullets are so great that unless they chance to strike a bone they will pass entirely through a man's body without his knowing it. The physician's idea is to attach a small wad of aniseptic cotton to the rear of the bullet. This would be covered by the shell of the cartridge and could not interfere with loading or firing. As the bullet passes through a person the wad will antiseptic ize the wound and prevent consequent suppuration. It may be possible to so nicely adjust the adhesion of the wad to the bullet that as the missile passes out it will leave the wad to plug the hole and stop bleeding. Ultimately this system might do away with the necessity of a large medical corps, as each bullet would carry medical treatment for the unfortunate it wounded.—Philadelphia Record.

Truth and Fiction.

"Struwwelpeter," one of the pictures, represents a little maiden, supine in bed, very ill—and no wonder—with an immense cherry tree growing out of her mouth. This was the sad result of swallowing the stones along with the fruit, in spite of all warnings. But we all know that truth is stranger than fiction, and the Petersburgskaya Gazeta of June 26 and July 8, 1897, quotes the following exemplification of this saying from the foreign papers:

"A little girl 7 years of age, Amelia L., whose father worked at the sawmills in Belgard (Ain), was at play the other day, when she managed to push the seed of a plane tree deep into her ear. Shortly after she began to experience acute pains, and it was found that the seed had taken root in the waxy secretions of the ear and was growing apace. The father proceeded to cautiously uproot the intrusive plant, and the girl has now recovered."

If this story is true, it is to be hoped that Miss Amelia L., now that her ear is once more free and in working order, will incline it to hearken to the exhortations of her elders and will not go on planting plane trees in such obviously uncongenial soil.—Notes and Queries.

Position In Society.

To all those who spend their time wondering how other people live we would suggest that an examination of the plaintiff's petition in the case of Schneider versus Hosier, 21 Ohio St. 98, might throw some light on the subject. It was a suit under a civil damage act, and the plaintiff alleged in her petition that she "was the wife of one Zimri Hosier, on whose good conduct, frugality and personal labor she was dependent for the support of herself and their seven minor children, for the proper culture and moral training of the latter, and, to a good extent, for her own position in society. The said Zimri Hosier, when not intoxicated or laboring under the effects of intoxication, was an industrious laboring man and regularly earned and received for his labor $1.50 a day." There's management for you. Seven children and a wife supported, the children properly cultured and morally trained and the wife's position in society maintained—all on $1.50 a day. Perhaps there may have been extenuating circumstances in the intoxication of Zimri.—Law Notes.

A Bag Full of Breath.

The "pneumatophor," an Austrian invention for enabling miners, firemen, etc., to breathe when surrounded by after damp, smoke or noxious fumes of any kind, consists of an airtight rubber bag containing a steel bottle of pure oxygen at a pressure of 100 liters and a metal protected glass bottle containing a 25 per cent solution of caustic soda. The oxygen can be admitted by a hand screw into the bag and drawn into the mouth through a rubber tube, the nose being closed by a clip. The turn of another hand screw breaks the glass bottle, allowing the caustic soda to flow out and be absorbed by a knitted network in the bag to absorb the carbonic acid exhaled, allowing the oxygen to be rebreathed, the apparatus being capable of furnishing oxygen enough to last from 30 to 90 minutes, as has been attested by numerous experiments.

Arithmetic and Medicine.

It is an honest quackery that confesses its own blunders, still ignorant that they are nothing worse.

A whaling skipper, in the old days, carried a medicine chest and a table of directions. One of the rules ran, "For sore throat with fever, give a tablespoonful of No. 15."

"Well, it so happened," explained the captain, "that No. 15 was all used up, so I gave the man a dessertspoonful of No. 5 and another of No. 10, and I don't think the chap that drew up the table could have been good at figures; or else, what's just as likely, the medicines were all shams. Either way, it was hard on poor Bill. He died in half an hour, with a dreadful pain in his inside."—Exchange.

Misapprehension.

Wickwire—If you do not work, you ought not to eat.

Hungry Higgins—There you go ag in, jumpin on me for eatin. I eat cause I have to, not cause I want to.—Indianapolis Journal.

To "knock the spots off anything" is an allusion to the traditional skill of western cowboys and famous rifle shots, who would shoot the spots out of a card held between the fingers of a friend.

The color of snuff depends on the extent to which fermentation has been allowed to it.

You Need It

And because of that need it is your duty to take Hood's Sarsaparilla in order that you may enjoy the good health it will give. If you are troubled with any disease that is caused or promoted by impure blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla will cure you. It has a record of wonderful cures unequalled by any other medicine. Try a bottle now and realize its great toning and strengthening power.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

A LIVING WITNESS.

Mrs. Hoffman Describes How She Wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for Advice, and Is Now Well.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before using your Vegetable Compound I was a great sufferer. I have been sick for months, was troubled with severe pain in both sides of abdomen, sore feeling in lower part of bowels, also suffered with dizziness, headache, and could not sleep. I wrote you a letter describing my case and asking your advice. You replied telling me just what to do. I followed your directions, and cannot praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me. Many thanks to you for your advice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me, and I will recommend it to my friends.—MRS. FLORENCE R. HOFFMAN, 512 Roland St., Canton, O.

The condition described by Mrs. Hoffman will appeal to many women, yet lots of sick women struggle on with their daily tasks disregarding the urgent warnings until overtaken by actual collapse.

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometimes past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

Mail Orders filled the day received.

"Summer Specials,"

Our book that tells what will be worn this Spring and Summer—just what you want—profusely illustrated—free on application to

Mail Order Dept.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

San Francisco.

California's largest—America's grandest Shopping place

SAVE YOUR CROP!

Cheap Irrigation

Write for Circulars and Information of the . . .

Hercules Gasoline and Oil Engine and Pumping Plant

The most Economical and Efficient—Used Everywhere—HERCULES Gasoline Engines are used wherever Power is needed, for running Graders, Sprinklers, Dryers, Pumping, Etc.

OVER 3000 IN USE.

HERCULES GAS ENGINE WORKS

Office, 405 SANSOME ST.,

San Fancisco, Cal.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 837. New Series No. 28.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 9. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 12, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1480.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	120
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

REMEMBRANCE.

We never can forget her, we would not if we could;
A flower so she seemed, too frail for earth's cold storms;
A woman, far too gentle for human lips to chide;
A mother, true, forgiving, who all life's ills withstood.

A wife, so faithful, patient, who lived a life so pure,
A sister, loved and loving, so kind to one and all;
No wonder why we mourn her; none ask us why we weep,
The loss that we have suffered, how will our hearts endure?

A friend she was at all times, and worthy of the name;
A truer never lived in this cold world of ours;
Her face, a benediction, shed light where'er she went,
Through life's too fitful fevers she always was the same.

And she has gone before us, and left us for a while,
Within our hearts her memory forever is enshrined.
Oh, happy past! Oh, happier life in Eden, soon to be,
There, thy thy arms will hold me; no tears, but thy sweet smile.
—Boston Traveler.

STOLEN EVIDENCE.

NEW ever knew how it was first discovered that Miss Dinker was a kleptomaniac; but it was a fact, and people made the best of it. Old Miss Dinker was tolerably well off, or her habit of appropriating other people's property would have got her into trouble. But Cumminseed was used to Miss Dinker. When she visited the village store, and put a piece of tape up her sleeve, the watchful shopman added its price to her bill. When she took her neighbor's forks the neighbor sent a polite message to Miss Jane Dinker to have them restored; and Miss Jane, who was old Miss Dinker's niece, would find them up chimney or down cellar, and restore them.

Old Miss Dinker knew that she was deserving of blame in thus indulging her desire for stolen fruit, but as she often remarked when reasoned with, "she couldn't help it."

She was a generous old lady, too, and kindly, and if she taught Jane that man was a deceiver, and that spinsterhood was blessed, she meant well.

Capt. Richard Murphy told another story when his ship lay in port, and he himself rested at a little hotel in Cumminseed. And Jane, won over by his merry voice and jolly ways, forgot her aunt's precepts, and one day ran away with him, leaving a penitent little note for her aunt and begging her forgiveness.

The old lady was naturally indignant, but when, three days after, the Captain brought Jane back under his arms, established her in a beautiful little house, which he had purchased, and sent for "the old lady to make up," Miss Dinker relented, took tea with her niece and deigned to approve of her choice, and so the village scandal was silenced for a while, and people called on Mrs. Capt. Murphy.

They lived together for five years in great contentment and a little boy was born to them, and all went prosperously, but at the end of that time the sword that always hangs by a hair over the head of a seafaring man's life fell at last. The Captain's vessel was a wreck, and the Captain and crew perished in midocean, and Jane, after hoping against hope, and refusing to believe when no one else doubted, and listening night and day for a step that came not and could never come, accepted the truth at last and put on her widow's cap and took the awful truth in place of suspense, and tried to live and bear it for her boy's sake.

Then there came from some far-off place a man who proved himself the Captain's brother and who claimed his property, alleging that Jane Dinker had never been married to John at all. Jane was furious, but she could only vow that a clergyman of the Episcopal Church had married her. She could not remember the name of the church nor of its pastor, nor had she what the brother called "'er lines." The marriage certificate, as she declared, the Captain always kept among his private papers and had taken to sea with him. She advertised in a New York paper for the clergyman who had performed the service, but no answer came, and finally the law and popular opinion declared that the widow had never been a wife, and she was left povertystricken and helpless, and not a friend in the world but old Miss Dinker. She came out nobly.

Alas, all the rest of Cumminseed held a contrary opinion. They shuddered at the thought of having associated with such a creature, and wondered how she had dared to impose upon them so. They sent her to Coventry and tabooed her. I think some of the dearest creatures would have tarred and feathered her if they could. Jane Dinker had the comfortable Yankee pride of "respectability" in its Yankee sense strong within her soul, and this scorn quite crushed her. She hid herself from human eyes as much as possible, and went thankfully home with old Miss Dinker, whose income had grown smaller in these years, and who really showed great generosity in taking her disgraced niece to her bosom.

And now that she had countenanced poor Jane, and opened her house to her, she also had lost her friends, and people grew hard upon her.

"You'll tell your aunt, Miss Jane, that I shall proceed to law if I lose another spoon," said one angry matron, to whom Jane had been forced to speak.

When her boy grew older there were children near by who, if he ventured into their company, were dragged away as though he had the plague. And when Jane would have placed him at the one good school, Aunt Dinker having allowed the money, the lady who presided thereover gently hinted that it would not do.

And little Richard, clinging to her hand, asked, as they went home, "What is it, mamma?" Then poor Jane wished that she were dead.

Old Miss Dinker called in high dudgeon upon the schoolmistress, and remonstrated in vain. The fact that she stole a spelling book during her brief stay did not further her object. When a little boy was sent for it at dusk Jane wished herself dead again. If only she could have had pride in anything or anyone, she thought; but life was all shame to her.

"Habits are hard to break,' 'she said, "but I'll try. Only you oughtn't to be so hard on me when I've stuck to you so." And then she revealed a plan which she had concocted for giving the boy an education. "I'll put him to the best school in New York," she said. "I'll keep the story that they tell—lie as it is—to myself, and I'll pay his bills regular. 'Taint likely I'm agoing to see him grow up without eddication. We'll make him a clergyman or a doctor. We'll snap our fingers in the faces of these critters. I'll take him up myself to-morrow and he shall come down every Saturday night."

"I shall miss him so," said Jane. "But it's for his good, and thank you, aunt."

So Jane spent the night in tears, and in the morning Aunt Dinker went to the city, taking with her little Richard.

Jane suffered a great deal that day, and when at night she saw Aunt Dinker return alone she could not find voice to speak to her. But the old lady was in good spirits. She sat down before the fire with her shawl on and told Jane how pleased Richard was with the journey and how Miss Speers had admired him. And Jane brought her the tea and she took it sitting by the fire, but still kept her shawl on; and, moreover, the shawl looked curiously thick and bunchy.

Once before had Jane seen the same thing, and it had resulted in the appearance of somebody's work-box. Her heart misgave her.

"Aunty," she said, in trembling tones, "are you cold?"

"Not particularly," said Miss Dinker.

"Then sha'n't I take your shawl?"

"When I ask you to do so."

Jane was silent. Old Miss Dinker fidgeted. Finally Jane burst into reproaches.

"Oh, aunty! couldn't you help disgracing my poor boy, to steal in New York, where they have no mercy on you, and at the school, where I hoped he could hold his head as high as any one? Oh, aunt, aunt!"

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Jane. I've been a good aunt to you; and as for the school, I never touched a thing. I put my hands in my muff, and sat just so, and made a plat of it. And it's nothing much to make a fuss over it. I took it almost without thinking. It came in so handy."

"What is it?" asked Jane, desperately.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Aunt Dinker; "and if they want it they can have it. From the school to the depot there came up a rain. I had on my best bonnet, so I looked about me, and there was a church open and in I popped.

"Well, as I stood there, out came a gentleman that I knowed was the clergyman, and says he: 'Walk in ma'am, and wait for the rain to be over. There's a fire in the vestry.' And he left me before the grate in the nicest little room. And I waited until the streets were dry. The sexton came and talked to me, and told how they'd been a weddin' there, and they'd just gone. And, somehow, when I got into the street, this was under my shawl!"

"She's committed sacrilege at last," cried Jane. "Oh, dear! oh, dear!"

"'Tain't neither," cried Aunt Dinker. "It's only a shabby old book." And as she spoke she unfolded her shawl and tossed upon the table a dingy leathern tome, on the covers of which was marked in black letters:

"Marriage register of St. Grace's Church, 1860-1873."

Jane seized upon it with a low cry.

"St. Grace's Church!" she said. "Aunt, aunt, that was the name. That was where I was married." And her trembling fingers turned over the pages, and her eyes sought out the date, and suddenly glittered with joy. "It is here!" she cried, "here! here! here!" and cast herself down upon the floor and sobbed as she had never sobbed before for very thankfulness; while Miss Dinker, bending over the pages, saw written there, in a plain, old-fashioned hand:

"On the 20th of June, by me, Oliver Sparkle, Captain Richard Murphy to Jane Dinker, spinster, of the town of Cumminseed, N. J.

"Witness—B. Britters, Clerk."

When Jane Murphy arose from the floor she was an altered woman. Proof of her matron dignity and of her boy's birthright was in her hands, and before the next sundown all Cumminseed knew the truth. The pastor of St. Grace's came from New York at her summons to swear to his book and his deceased predecessor's signature, and legal proceedings were instituted to restore the widow to her rights. Of course they were successful.

To-day no one is more respected in all Cumminseed than Mrs. Captain Murphy, although she has never quite forgiven her neighbors' cruelty. And Aunt Dinker, growing quite old and unable to go abroad, indulges her singular propensity by stealing napkins from the linen press. There is good in all things, Jane Murphy often says. She never will deny that since such great good came to her of old Aunt Dinker's kleptomania.—Toledo Blade.

Some men go to war because they can't get married and some because they can't get a divorce.

OUR SUNDAY SERMONS

A FEW SUBJECTS FOR ALL TO PONDER OVER.

Words of Wisdom, and Thoughts Worth Pondering Upon Spiritual and Moral Subjects—Gathered from the Religious and Secular Press.

Where Jesus Preached.

EVERY village, apparently, heard once and again the voice which spoke as never man spoke, and saw miraculous proofs of his divine mission. Among these, Capernaum, Bethsaida, and Chorazin are specially named as having seen "most of his mighty works" wrought in them. Capernaum, perhaps at the place now known as Khan Minieh, just above the little open plain of Gennesareth, was the border town of Antipas, and, as such—what with its position on the road from the north, and its busy fisheries, supplying in part the markets of distant towns—plumed itself on being a place of considerable importance, though Josephus calls it, more than once, a village. Bethsaida, or "fishtown," appears to have been at the spot now called El Tabighah, a little north of Capernaum—a delightful site at the mouth of a fine, rushing stream, which turns the stones of two mills, but has no other buildings near it—the mills themselves, indeed, being ruinous enough. It could never have been more than a village, but Jesus was contented with a humble theater for his labors.

Chorazin lies behind, a little farther north, on a swell of black lava, marking the volcanic activity of long past ages. I never saw such a place. Its little houses are still entire, the massive blocks of basalt of which they are made defying time. They are mere one-roomed cubes, flat-roofed, with a pillar of stone in the middle where they are larger than usual. The ground is strewn with countless black boulders, and the bed of a winter torrent in a hollow below is filled with them. Nothing could ever have grown in such a neighborhood, nor can I imagine what made such a site be chosen for the poorest hamlet.

Yet in these three paltry places Jesus, as I have said, "wrought most of his mighty works." That they should have turned a deaf ear to him, and ignored his wonders, was, no doubt, due in part to the prejudice excited against him by the religious leaders; but this, he tells them, was no excuse. That they are now silent desolations, and have for ages been equally forsaken, is a striking commentary on his words, that even Capernaum, though so proud and ambitious, would "go down into Hades."—Cunningham Geikie.

Comfort One Another.

Comfort one another;
For the way is growing dreary,
The feet are often weary,
And the heart is very sad.
There is heavy burden bearing,
When it seems that none are caring,
And we half forget that ever we were glad.

Comfort one another;
With the hand-clasp close and tender,
With the sweetness love can render,
And looks of friendly eyes.
Do not wait with grace unspoken,
While life's daily bread is broken;
Gentle speech is oft like manna from the skies.

Comfort one another;
There are words of music ringing
Down the ages sweet as singing
Of the happy choirs above.
Ransomed saint and mighty angel,
Lift the grand deep-voiced evangel,
Where forever they are praising the eternal love.

Comfort one another;
By the hope of Him who sought us
In our peril—Him who bought us,
Paying with His precious blood;
By the faith that will not alter,
Trusting strength that will not falter,
Leaning on the One divinely good.

Comfort one another;
Let the grave-gloom lie behind you,
While the Spirit's words remind you
Of the home beyond the tomb.
Where no more is pain or parting,
Fever's flush or tear-drop starting,
But the presence of the Lord, and for all
His people room.
—M. A. Sangster.

Personal Appearance of the Savior.

The following found on the fly-leaf of an old Bible printed at Oxford, in 1679, may be of interest to many of our readers: "A description of the person of Christ. It being the usual practice of the Roman governor to advertise the people and the senate of such material things as happened in their respective provinces in the days of Tiberius Caesar, Publius Lentulus at that time being president, wrote the following concerning Christ: 'Conscript Fathers: There appeared in these our days a man of great virtue named Jesus Christ, who is now living among us, and of the Gentiles is accepted as a Prophet of Truth; but his own disciples call him the Son of God. He raiseth the dead and cureth all manner of diseases. A man of stature somewhat tall, and comely, with a very reverend countenance, such as beholders may both love and fear. His hair is of the color of a filbert fully ripe, plain to the ears, whence downward it is more orient of color, somewhat curled and waved about his shoulders. In the midst of his head is a seam or partition of the hair, after the manner of the Nazarites. His forehead is smooth and delicate; his face without spot or wrinkle, beautiful with a comely red; his nose and mouth exactly formed; his beard thick, the color of his hair, not of any great length, but forked; his look innocent; his eyes gray, clear and quick; in reproving, terrible; in admonishing, courteous; in speaking, very modest and wise; in proportion of body, well shaped. None have seen him laugh, but many have seen him weep; a man for his singular beauty surpassing the children of men.'"

An Example of True Courage.

"Don't speak to that fellow; he's a coward."

Two young soldiers of Company F, of the Seventh, were crossing the parade ground on their way to company quarters, and one had saluted and spoken to a comrade passing by.

"Why; the boys in his company all seem to like him. What's the trouble?"

"There was a drunken fellow in front of a saloon, on Market street, last night, when this fellow from Company E came marching up. The drunken brute called him all sorts of names and dared him to fight, and he never even answered, but turned the corner and came right over to Mack and me.

"I asked him why he didn't lick the fellow, and he said he didn't believe in fighting.

"'I guess you're afraid to fight that drunken bully,' said Mack. And he just simply said, 'I guess I am.'"

"Well," said his hearer, he doesn't look like a coward."

Of course, this story soon spread through the garrison, and the young man was made the mark for the scoffs and jeers of a certain class among his fellows.

In a little while, however, the regiment was called to the front, and his detractors were astonished to find their so-called "coward" was one of the bravest of the brave, and by his gallant conduct he proved that it was not cowardice but true Christian manliness that made him afraid to fight a helpless, drunken man.—Ram's Horn.

The Mystery of God.

In their desire to search out the hidden things of the world men have climbed the sky in balloons, have braved the ice and cold of the polar regions, have circumnavigated the earth many times, have delved deep into the earth, have fathomed and measured the seas, yes, have even weighed the heavenly bodies and determined their distances, yet how far they are still from comprehending the mysteries of the physical universe. If, then, men cannot find out the wonders of creation, how much less can they expect to find out, and measure, and formulate the Creator.

A Great Question.

It is one of the great questions of our modern Christian life: How can one who is following Christ come into safe and saving contact with the world? There is but one answer, the example of Jesus. He met men as a man should meet his brother. A good man may meet a wicked brother in such a way as will encourage his brother in his wickedness, and at the same time work injury to himself; or he may meet him in such a way as will be helpful to himself, and may prove helpful to his brother.

Remember the Singer.

How precious the memory of a writer of uplifting hymns! The late Rev. Henry Francis Lyte, author of "Abide with Me," and other hymns sung the world over, has been dead half a century. Brixham church, Devon, where he ministered for many years, is now in course of rebuilding. With gifts and words of sympathy for the object, come loving and grateful expressions which testify to the service the poet yet fulfills. Such a ministry has an immortality of its own.

Zion.

"Zion" is a sacred name to us; it conjures up in our mind the past history of our people; it is a symbol of the law, which continues to be "our life and the length of our days." But for all that it can no longer be to us a watchword for a re-establishment of Israel as a separate nationality or a separate body politic.

Epigrams by Dr. Frank Crane.

Most thought is in ruts.

Christly heresy is modest.

Never teach the unteachable.

Orthodoxy is yesterday's heresy.

Jesus never made an issue of trifles.

Jesus tried his best to be a good Jew.

There is no peace save in compromise.

Beware of a heretic with a brass band.

The widest man belonged to the narrowest race.

Jesus never contemned his own people—the Jews.

Never unsettle a fool's convictions—he will find worse.

Institutionalism derives its power from human docility.

True reformers are primarily creative—only incidentally destructive.

The brain is laziest; we will submit to any formula rather than think.

If all men were independent thinkers there would be no solidarity or society.

The original and independent thinker may get fame; he is certain to get trouble.

No family, church or state exactly suits us; if we are to have comfort we must bend a little.

The morality of the masses will ever be more a matter of environment than of individual effort.

Ready-made clothes are driving out the tailors; and ready-made ideas are driving out originality.

Those who would sacrifice progress to security forget that there is no security without progress.

It is a poor move to leave the mysterious island of faith to betake one's self to the heartless sea of infidelity.

There is no permanent good in a new doctrine which does not have its roots deep in the common convictions of the age.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

A COLUMN OF PARTICULAR INTEREST TO THEM.

Something that Will Interest the Juvenile Members of Every Household—Quaint Actions and Bright Sayings of Many Cute and Cunning Children.

Uncle Sam's Animal Reservation.

Did you ever read about Uncle Sam's big menagerie out West? It is known as the Yellowstone National Park, but the great reservation is really a place of refuge for many varieties of animals now nearly extinct in America. The most prized of all the animals are the bisons. Half a century ago thousands of these creatures roamed at will over the Western prairies. Now there are only a few hundred in existence, and a small herd of them is in the national park.

In addition to these there are some 40,000 or more animals, many of the species being on the increase in numbers. There are great numbers of elk and antelope. There are beavers, porcupines, coyotes, mountain lions and so forth. Expert hunters and trappers have charge of Yellowstone Park and are paid handsome salaries by the United States government to protect the reservation from the encroachment of poachers.

Southern "Joggling Board."

Through the South and particularly in Louisiana the children have a plaything known as the "joggling board." One sees it under the big oak trees and pepper trees on the well-kept lawns about great houses, and on the hard-beaten earth in front of the negro cabins. It is a piece of plank an inch thick, a foot wide and twelve or fourteen feet long. Poor children place it between rails in fence corners or between two stumps; the children of the rich have frames made like the legs of a chair with rounds. This is sunk in the ground and the board placed on the top rungs. Some children use ordinary carpenter's horses.

KEEPS THE CHILDREN QUIET AND HAPPY

The board is very springy and children will sit on it by the hour "joggling" away contentedly when nothing else will keep them quiet. A traveler through the South said he had not seen a swing or "teeter" in his whole journey, but that every child was provided with a more or less satisfactory "joggling board."

A Clever Pig.

When Jack entered the sitting-room the other day and found Mary on the floor with her farmyard toys arranged in orderly array before her, he bethought himself of a story he had read. Said he:

"Molly, that fat pig reminds me of a very clever one that got the best of a big dog on shipboard."

"Tell me about it," said Mary.

"Yes, I will. I read it only yesterday. This pig and dog were once passengers on the same ship, and became quite good friends. They used to eat their cold victuals off the same tin platter. They never quarreled or fought, and the only thing that made any trouble between them was the dog's kennel. Mr. Piggy did not understand why the dog should have a warm, sheltered house to creep into out of the cold and wet, while he should have to slip about on the deck in the cold.

"The kennel was not large enough to hold both, and piggy seemed to think that if he could get first possession of it at night, it should belong to him. If the dog found piggy in it, he would growl and show his teeth, but piggy would not come out.

"One wet afternoon the dog concluded to retire early, so he went to his kennel and curled down for a snooze. Piggy had the same mind; but, when he got to the kennel, he found it already occupied. He gave a grunt of dissatisfaction. A bright idea came into his mind. He would play a trick on doggy. Trudging off to the place where their dinner plate was lying, he pushed it to a part of the deck where the dog could see it. Turning his back to the kennel, piggy began to rattle the empty plate, and munch as though he had a good meal before him. That was too much for doggy! Piggy having a feast and he not there to enjoy it? Never! Out he ran to the plate, and he had no sooner got his nose in it than piggy was off like a shot and safe inside the kennel. Wasn't that cute of him?"

"Yes, indeed. Did doggy get him out?"

"No, indeed; he could not make piggy budge. That night he had to sleep on the soft side of a board, while piggy had his house all to himself."—Youth's Temperance Banner.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

"Say, mamma," asked little 5-year-old Willie, "are you goin' to give me another piece of pie?" "Why do you ask, Willie?" said his mother. "Because," was the reply, "if you ain't I'll eat this piece real slow."

"Why, Minnie," said a mother to her 4-year-old daughter, "you ought to be ashamed to have such dirty hands. You never saw my hands like that, did you?" "No, I dess not," replied the little miss, "but I bet my dwanma did."

"It seems to me, Henry," said a father to his 5-year-old son, who was very forgetful, "that everything I say to you goes in at one ear and out at the other. "Well," replied the youthful observer, "I reckon that's what I've got two ears for."

"Now, Tommy," said his mother, as she handed him an apple; "you must divide honorably with your little sister Bessie." "What's 'honorable,' mamma?" he asked. "It means the one that divides takes the smallest piece," was the reply. "Well," said the little diplomat, "then I'll give it to Bessie and let her divide."

Little Clara, aged 4, was in the habit of asking God in her prayers to bless her father, mother and Miss Brown, her governess. One evening, not feeling very kindly disposed toward the latter, she concluded her prayer as follows: "Dod bwess my papa and my mamma, but 'ou needn't bozzer 'bout Miss Brown zis time."

The teacher of a juvenile Sunday school class had been talking to her pupils about death and finished by asking: "Now, who can tell me when all men are equal and there is absolutely no distinction between the rich man and the poor man?" "I can," replied one little fellow." "When is it, Freddie?" she asked. "When they go in swimmin'," was the unexpected answer.

CAST IN HEROIC MOULD.

The Brave and Daring Fellows Who Man the Torpedo Boats.

The men who entered into the war against Spain with the greatest enthusiasm are the young officers of the navy. One reason why the navy youngsters welcome the war is that it affords opportunities for feats of daring and heroism, which open the doors to fame and promotion.

A few years ago it was freely asserted that the days of romantic daring and the chances for individual heroism had departed from the work of naval warfare forever. It was said that men-of-war were becoming simply big fighting machines, that they would have to be manned by engineers and machinists and that the manner in which they were intended to fight precluded the possibility of a display of personal daring. But there has been a change in this respect and the change has been brought about chiefly by that small, agile and exceedingly dangerous class of craft known as torpedo boats, which navy officers consider the greatest production of modern naval science.

The torpedo boat is so small and her guns are so few that she carries only about twenty men. They are commanded by a lieutenant, and so it happens that all our torpedo craft are under the direction of young men. They are the pick of the navy, too, for it takes a man of daring, steady nerves and cool judgment to direct a torpedo boat, and this combination of qualities is not found in every man, even among those in the higher ranks.

How brave a man it takes for torpedo boat work is easily seen when one looks at the work expected of them in time of war. The torpedo boats are the light cavalry of the navy; they are intended to travel much faster than the larger vessels and so carry little weight. Their sides are of steel, and are only a quarter of an inch thick. A single shot from the guns carried on the military masts of the big warships would send one to the bottom. Her own guns would make no impression on the thick plates of an armorclad.

The torpedo boat's only weapon of offense is the torpedo. That is a deadly weapon, and its 200 pounds of guncotton will destroy the finest ship that floats, but to fire it with accuracy the torpedo boat must be less than half a mile from her target, within easy range of the latter's guns.

Yes, it takes a brave and a cool man to sail one of these cockleshell craft up to a big man-of-war, to know that if one of the shots that rain about her strikes home it will mean death to all on board, to keep straight on, beneath the fire of heavy guns, to wait long enough and not too long before launching the torpedo on its mission, and then to wait again in calmness until that silent missile has reached the mark and wrecked her, or has failed and disappeared.

A Russian Admirer of Emerson.

Ambassador Andrew D. White has an article in the Century on "A Russian Statesman." Mr. White says:

But the most curious—indeed, the most amazing—revelation of the man I found in his love for American literature. He is a wide reader, and in the whole breadth of his reading American authors were evidently among those he preferred. Of these Hawthorne, Lowell, and, above all, Emerson, were his favorites. Curious, indeed, was it to learn that this "arch persecutor," this "Torquemada of the nineteenth century," this man whose hand is especially heavy upon Catholics and Protestants and dissenters throughout the empire, whose name is spoken with abhorrence by millions, within the empire and without it, still reads as his favorite author the philosopher of Concord! He told me that the first book which he ever translated into Russian was Thomas a Kempis' "Imitation of Christ;" and of that he gave me the Latin original from which he had made his translation, with a copy of the translation itself. He also told me that the next book which he translated was a volume of Emerson's essays; and he added that for years there had always lain upon his study table a volume of Emerson's writings.—Century.

SHEAR NONSENSE

She—Now, can you guess my age, Major? Gallant Major—No, I can't; but you don't look it.—Tit-Bits.

Josh—It's a wonder none of them fellers ever found the north pole. Hiram—Mebbe it ain't there.

Hoax—I'm not going to call on a single girl during Lent. Joax—Going in for the married ones, eh?—Philadelphia Record.

"Poor Timmie! Folve years in Sing Sing! I do feel sorry for him." "Bedad, an' yure shympathy's trowed away. He's surrounded by frinds."—Harlem Life.

Rastus, Jr.—Poppie, is we gwine toe hab turkey fo' mah birfday? Rastus, Sr.—'Pends on de moon, chile, de night befo'. 'Pends on de moon.—Inter Ocean.

Little Sister—What's the diff'rence 'tween 'lectricity and lightnin'? Little Brother—You don't have to pay nuthin' fur lightnin'.—Detroit Free Press.

Sponger—Say, old man, can you oblige me with a cigar? Fred (who knows him)—Sorry, but I've the only one I'm smoking, and another which I shall smoke shortly.

Mistress (severely)—If such a thing occurs again, Norah, I shall have to get another servant. Norah—Oi wish yez wud; there's aisily enough wurruk for two av us.—Puck.

Daughter—But, pa, Mr. Sweetser has accumulated a competence. Pa—Competence be blamed! Money is the thing. You want a husband who can support you.—Transcript.

"Johnson wants to borrow some money of me. Do you know anything about him?" I know him as well as I do you. I wouldn't let him have a cent."—Indianapolis Journal.

Perkins—Has Slopay ever paid you that ten dollars he borrowed last year? Dobson—No. I guess he has forgotten all about it; he is just as social and friendly as he ever was.—Puck.

Attorney (sternly)—The witness will please state if the prisoner was in the habit of whistling when alone. Witness—I don't know. I was never with the prisoner when he was alone.

De Short—You notice, perhaps, that I have sold my gold watch, and now carry a silver one. Harduppe—Yes, old man; it's only another proof of the old saw: "Circumstances alter cases," you know.—Life.

Brady—Did ye hear av the folght betuxt Hinnissey and O'Gawligan? Grady—Oi did not. Was it to a finish? Brady—That was Hinnissey's intintion, but Hinnissey was knocked out before he got that far.—Boston Transcript.

"Your son," said the professor, "has been laboring under a misapprehension." "Perfess," exclaimed Farmer Corntossel, with joy in his voice, "ye don't mean it!" "Mean what?" "That Josiar has been workin'."—Washington Star.

Paterfamilias — Look here, Dick, you've been a bit wild yourself in your day and I'd like some advice. What am I to do with Harry? The young rascal exceeds his allowance every month. Cousin Dick—Increase it.—Chicago Journal.

She—How is it you were not at Westend's reception? He—I stayed away on account of a personal matter. She—May I ask what it was? He—Will you promise to keep it secret? She—Yes. He—Well they failed to send me an invitation.—Collier's Weekly.

Mrs. Betterhawse—I am told that you allow your husband to carry a latchkey. Mrs. Graymair—Yes, but it does not fit the door. I just let him carry it to humor him. He likes to show it to his friends and make them think he is independent.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mosher—What are you doing with all those bits of card in your pocket? Wiswell—They are seat checks at different theaters. It says on each, "Retain this check." It's an awful bore, to be obliged to carry so much pasteboard around. But, then, what's a fellow to do?

Lady (in employment office)—As there is only my husband and myself in the family, I think you ought to be willing to come for less than you ask. There are only two persons to cook for. Domestic—But, mum, when I'm wid you there'll be three.

"Habberjohn doesn't seem to have a very lovable nature." "Well, no. If Habberjohn were at a banquet and some one should discover that there were thirteen at the table all eyes would instinctively turn toward Habberjohn as the one to go."—Indianapolis Journal.

Clara—Well, aunt, have your photographs come from Mr. Snappeschotte's? Miss Maydeval (angrily)—Yes, and they went back, too, with a note expressing my opinion of his impudence. Clara—Gracious! What was it? Miss Maydeval—Why, on the back of every picture were these words: "The original of this is carefully preserved."

A clergyman new to a living in the west of England was told that an old man in his parish was of an exceedingly crusty disposition, so he determined to make friends with him the first opportunity he had. Overtaking him in the village one day, he said: "This is cold weather, John." Receiving no reply, he tried again: "I said this is cold weather, John." Turning angrily around, the old man replied: "Well, who said it warn't? D'ye want to argy the p'int?"—Answers.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, AUGUST 12 1898

PRINCIPLES OF THE IRRIGATION PROPAGANDA.

CREATING OF RURAL HOMES AS A NATIONAL SAFEGUARD.

1. We urge upon the American people the profound importance of the social, political and philanthropical features of the great irrigation movement, its ultimate aim being that we may become a nation of rural homes, rather than a nation of great cities.

RECLAMATION OF THE ARID DOMAIN BY FEDERAL IRRIGATION WORKS.

2. We favor the construction by the federal government of storage reservoirs and irrigation works wherever necessary to furnish water for the reclamation and settlement of the arid public lands.

STATE CONTROL OF WATER AND UNITED OWNERSHIP OF LAND AND WATER.

3. The value of the irrigated farm and the security of the homes thereby created are alike dependent upon sufficient public control of the water supply, and the prevention of water becoming a speculative commodity. We believe that the waters of all streams should ever remain public property, and that the right to its use should inhere, not in the individual or in the ditch, but in the land reclaimed.

OPPOSITION TO UNCONDITIONAL STATE CESSION OF PUBLIC LANDS.

4. We favor the cession of the public lands of the nation to the respective States and Territories only upon conditions so strict that they will insure the settlement of such lands by actual settlers in small tracts, and absolutely prevent their monopoly in large bodies under private ownership.

FEDERAL STORAGE RESERVOIRS TO SAVE WATERS NOW WASTED.

5. We favor the preservation and development of our national resources by the construction of storage reservoirs by the federal government for flood protection and to save for use, in aid of navigation and irrigation, the flood waters which now run to waste and cause overflow and destruction.

NATIONAL ARID LAND COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE WATER SUPPLIES.

6. We urge the creation by Congress of a National Arid Land Commission which shall, by surveys and maps, ascertain and show the area of arid public lands which can be reclaimed by irrigation, from both surface and underground sources, and shall enforce the preservation of the forests and woodlands as sources of water supply, and shall recommend to Congress such legislation as may be advisable and necessary to the end that the arid public domain and the water necessary for its irrigation may be preserved by the people and for actual settlers and home builders.

STATE IRRIGATION WORKS AND DISTRIBUTING SYSTEMS.

7. We believe that the irrigation district system has inherent defects which can only be obviated by a State system under which the State would acquire, construct, own and control the irrigation system, the right to the water for irrigation to be granted by the State and inhere in the lands irrigated, which should ultimately bear the cost of construction and maintenance in proportion to the benefits received, the share to be borne by each tract of land to be fixed and segregated, and no lands to be burdened without benefit or without original consent of the owner.

In response to overtures for peace the terms offered by the United States to Spain are substantially as follows: The relinquishment of all claim of sovereignty over or title to the island of Cuba, as well as the immediate evacuation by Spain of the island; the cession to the United States and immediate evacuation of Porto Rico and other islands under Spanish sovereignty in the West Indies, and a like session of an island in the Ladrones. The United States will occupy and hold the city, bay and harbor of Manilla, pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace, which shall determine the control and disposition and government of the Philippines.

Bismarck's life, even in the years of his retirement, exercised some restraining influence on the young Emperor. He did not hesitate in speaking his mind very freely at times. Now, however, the young man will probably feel more free to indulge in his weakness for seeing how close he can drive to the edge of a precipice.

Gen. Merritt evidently regards the situation as very grave. The insurgents, not the Spaniards, are the chief element of danger. There are ten million of natives in the Archipelago, and if the attitude of those about Manila is a criterion it is not strange that Merritt does fancy the situation.

The Supreme Court of the United States has at last affirmed the repeated decisions of subordinate Federal and State courts on the subject of extra lateral rights in mining locations—that is, the right of a locator to follow the dip of his vein outside of his vertical side line.

Adolph Sutro died in San Francisco August 8th. In the great drainage tunnel of the Comstock mines he has a memorial that will outlast the work of any other man of the Pacific Coast.

At the close of the war the troops will be subject to the same rigid physical examination as when enlisting. This is to prevent pension frauds.

A Chicago report says that the largest wheat crop in the history of the United States is being harvested. The winter wheat yield, which aggregates from 375,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels will be increased to the extent of nearly 350,000,000 from the spring wheat region. The "bumper" crop of 1891 will be eclipsed this year by 100,000,000 bushels, from present indications.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DERBY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for County Assessor, subject to action of the Republican County Nominating Convention.

A. O. COLLINS.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

THE undersigned respectfully announces himself a candidate for Supervisor, Third District, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

Fish Springs, August 11, 1898.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California situate lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The N½ 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 12 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12,854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SEAL.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The N½ 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 12 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12,854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $8.80, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SEAL.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation):

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of the certain mines, mining claims and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL]

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff.

P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., July 19, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on SATURDAY, September 3, 1898: David Vaughn, for the S. W. ¼ of Sec. 2, Tp. 15 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: John C. Willett, of Citrus, Cal.; William J. Lake, Julius C. Roeper and David A. Johnson, of Independence, Cal.

Any person who desires to protest against the allowance of such proof, or who knows of any substantial reason, under the law and regulations of the interior Department, why such proof should not be allowed, will be given an opportunity at the above mentioned time and place to cross-examine the witnesses of said claimant, and to offer evidence in rebuttal of that submitted by claimant.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., July 5, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that Joseph V. Skinner of Citrus, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 760, for W½ SW¼ Sec. 19, W½ NW¼ Sec. 30, T. 14 S., R. 36 E., M.D.M., before Register and Receiver of Independence, Cal., on Saturday, the 13th day of August, 1898.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Sandy McIvor of Citrus, Cal., John T. Veale of Citrus, Cal., Chas. A. Skinner of Thebe, Cal., Weis Garrick of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

NOTICE TO VOTERS

NOTICE is hereby given that the Great Register of Inyo County is now open and will remain open up to and including the 14th of August, 1898.

Further notice is hereby given that the additional days for registration may be sworn to before any Deputy County Clerk or County Assessor in the different towns and precincts without charge. Affidavits can also be sworn to before any Justice of the Peace or Notary Public. All naturalized citizens who have not been registered before must present papers when applying for registration.

All unregistered citizens are notified to apply for registration at once.

All parties desiring to register can do so with the following named deputies in the various precincts:

Round Valley—C. A. Hilton.
Bishop—W. O. & J. E. Meroney.
Big Pine—A. K. Engley & S. G. Gregg.
Independence—Clerk's office.
Georgetown Creek—W. L. Hunter.
Lone Pine—Fred Burkhardt.
Keeler—J. J. Morton.
Darwin—Henry Miller.
Owenyo—Ed. Walker.
Panamint—R. Decker and T. H. Beneby.
Mountain Springs—H. C. Hamilton.

D. J. HESSION, County Clerk.

Dated June 8, 1898.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SODA WATER .....

..... ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.

Will ship to all points, in first class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,

Bishop, Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address

F. A. HYDE,

630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

CHAS. DEMITRUS,

TONSORIAL ARTIST

Norman House, Independence.

SHAVING, 15 cents; Hair-Cut, 25 cents; Children's Hair Cutting, 15 cents. First-class work guaranteed.

HORSESHOEING

.... AND ....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty-second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows:

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.
[SEAL.]

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No. 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wressle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Bishop, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst (location) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode and surface ground, 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively, being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian,

Running thence on a true course, along the line of cropping; the variation being 15 degrees east,

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.31 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; hence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lower Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 49 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.24 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.70 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 7¼ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.63 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 8; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 22 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.63 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.27 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 4 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the lode; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C. No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.515 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.35 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on a true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.45 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; then on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing 42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northwest corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks mark d K, the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 1.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant and stake H No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 8¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 2½ degrees west 7.7 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K on west of lode bears south 1½ degree west 765 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode, in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H, the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No 1 and K. No. 1 the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine south 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake L. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 2½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 8¾ degrees east 11.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1½ degrees east 4.45 chains to the stake at the eastern terminus of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

So of five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132, 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder, within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 12 1898

Mrs. J. J. Morton came up from Keeler on Tuesday's train.

R. P. Hession came down from Big Pine this morning and expects to return to-morrow.

J. S. Gorman has been canvassing the political situation in the southern end of the county.

Irv. H. Mulholland leaves for Sacramento to-morrow to attend the Democratic State Convention.

R. P. Hession of Big Pine is rusticating in the mountains west of town with the family of D. J. Hession.

Mrs. H. Levy left for Oakland last Tuesday, where she will spend several months visiting with relatives and friends.

George Thorpe came in from the Keys mine on Wednesday. The engine broke down and repairs had to be ordered from San Francisco.

J. J. Gunn returned home Tuesday from a trip to the southern end of the county. He says that it is extremely hot on the desert.

Dan Hunt and Joe Travers left town this morning for Ballarat. They have been up here about two months and enjoyed their vacation immensely.

J. W. Murphy arrived home last Tuesday from a trip to Johannesburg. He avers that, in comparison to that country, Independence is situate in a frigid zone.

Wednesday last Miss Edna, youngest daughter of Supervisor Eldred, had her right leg broken by the kick of a horse. Dr. Middleton set the injured member and the patient is doing well.

Wm. Arcularious, the veteran freighter of southern Inyo, was in town the other day. His big wagons and train of "mools" have been on the road all the while, notwithstanding summer temperature.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Eibeshutz will leave for San Francisco to-moroow morning. A trip to Portland is contemplated before they return. Mr. Eibeshutz will attend the Democratic State Convention at Sacramento next Tuesday.

H. Levy has had Messrs. Cartier & Stecker prepare the necessary plans and has ordered the lumber for extensive improvements on the Independence Hotel. Work will be pushed as rapidly as possible and when completed the new building will be a great addition to the town.

The new smelter of the Inyo Development Company, on the Sorba-Lane mine near Darwin, has a success heartily hoped for but unexpected by older smelters of this county. Twenty-five tons of ore is reduced per day, and the shipments up to last week amounted to twenty tons of bullion and about thirty tons of copper matte. The operation will have a very important bearing on future mining operations out in the eastern mountains, where there is smelting ore of all kinds in quantities almost beyond estimating, and ought to stimulate our local railroad toward an extension in that direction.

Louis C. Finney, a native of Iowa, 56 years of age, died suddenly on the street at Big Pine about 6 o'clock in the morning of Friday last, August 5th. For the last forty years he has been a pioneer—ranging the Rocky mountain territory and thence to the western ocean. For the last ten years Mr. Finney has been afflicted with heart trouble, but possessed of the most indomitable courage and energy he has endured all the hardships incident to a pioneer's life with a stoicism which would have been the admiration of the old Spartans. Mr. Finney's brother, A. A. Finney, of Bodie, was in Big Pine last Monday and adjusted affairs of the deceased.

Will Make Borax.

It is now an assured fact that another valuable enterprise will soon be inaugurated in Southern Inyo. As the result of correspondence on the subject, J. W. Murphy left town about two weeks ago for Johannesburg and met George H. Bradford and Stephen L. Harris. They went direct to the borax marsh in Salt Wells Valley and the gentlemen were so well pleased with what they saw there that they came immediately to Independence and entered into an agreement with the owners, I. J. Woodin, A. V. Davidson and J. W. Murphy, by the terms of which a complete modern plant capable of manufacturing 100 tons of refined borax per month is to be placed at the marsh within 90 days, and within 6 months borax is to be placed on the market at the rate of 100 tons per month or more. The parties are possessed of unlimited means, and are wide-awake business men. This will be a great benefit to Southern Inyo.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending August 11, 1898:

Highest barometer	29.838	9th
Lowest "	29.677	5th
Highest temperature	102	11th
Lowest "	60	7th
Mean "	81.0
Average dew point	26.0
Average humidity	14.7
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	22. S	7th
No. clear days	7
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

United States postal receipts for this year are expected to reach the unprecedented total of $100,000,000. A large percentage of increase in receipts over last year is shown in all the larger cities of the Union.

Church Notice.

The order of religious services will be as follows until further notice:

Independence—Preaching service every Sunday evening commencing at 7:30.

Lone Pine—Every Sunday morning (excepting the last Sunday of each month) commencing at 11 o'clock.

George's Creek's—The first and third Sunday of each month to commence at 2:30 o'clock.

Liberty—The last Sunday of each month to commence at 2 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to be present at these services.

THOS. H. NICHOLAS, Pastor.

Card of Thanks.

To the citizens of Big Pine, who performed the last sad rites for my deceased brother, Louis C. Finney, who died at Big Pine August 5th, 1898, I return my sincere thanks.

A. H. FINNEY.

Contracts have been let in Chicago which will result in supplying the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power similar, if not far in advance of that now being furnished at Niagara. The Snoqualmie Falls Power Company has closed contracts for the completion of its plant. The enterprise is undertaken by Chicago parties, and the project is perhaps the most wonderful development of hydraulic power yet undertaken in this country. Snoqualmie Falls is twenty-two miles from Seattle and about the same distance from Tacoma in an air line, and has an unbroken vertical fall of 270 feet, and it is the only waterfall of commercial atility west of Spokane. The flow of the river is equal to 70,000 horse power at low water, and the plan of installation is such that at a small additional expense for dams and reservoirs the entire drainage from the snowfields of the Snoqualmie watershed of 1000 square miles will be available, making over 100,000 horsepower whenever business of the adjacent cities may demand. The power house is hewn out of the solid rock 250 feet beneath the crest of the fall, where the immense waterwheels connect direct with generators from which the electricity is transmitted by wire to Seattle and Tacoma.

Some Eastern papers refer to the fact that the war of independence lasted eight years and cost only $135,000,000. It is well to remember, however, that it costs about as much to fire one of the big modern guns as it did to fight a battle in "ye olden time."

The developments of war has robbed Key West of the distinction of being the most southerly city in the United States. Ponce now holds that position on the map.

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT,

STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me je29 tf JOHN CLARKE.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND

U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Pub li patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday	January 1st
"	February 5th
"	March 5th
"	April 1st
"	April 30th
"	May 28th
"	July 2nd
"	July 30th
"	August 27th
"	September 24th
"	October 22nd
"	November 26th
"	December 24th

THOS. C. ROLAND, W. M.

P. H. MACK, Sec

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION,

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. MCKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. MCQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24 tf

S. P. M'KNIGHT C. E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET,

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j19-tf

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for Assessor of Inyo Co., Calif., subject to the action of the Democratic-Free Silver Fusion Convention.

J. R. ELDRED.

Dated Big Pine, Inyo Co., Calif., July 30, 1898.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

A. M. GIVEN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention

J. J. GUNN.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be candidate for the office of assessor of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

GUILFORD P. BOURLAND.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. L. HUNTER.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I will be a candidate for the office of Assessor of Inyo County, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. W. YANDELL.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

MATZEY MERTEN.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Nominating Convention.

D. J. HESSION.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

CLAY HAMPTON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney of Inyo County, subject to action of the Democratic Convention.

P. W. FORBES.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION

AND

PRIMARIES.

A MEETING of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo County was held at Independence July 23d and arrangements made for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, to assemble at

BIG PINE, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20TH, 1898,

At the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10TH, 1898,

In accordance with the following apportionment, upon the vote for Wm. J. Bryan in 1896, upon the basis of one delegate for each precinct and one delegate for every fifteen votes cast therein, and one for each fraction of eight or over, to wit:

Round Valley	2	George's Creek	3
Lincoln	4	Lone Pine	3
Laws	2	Cerro Gordo	1
Bishop	4	Keeler	2
East Bishop	1	Olancha	1
Poleta		Darwin	3
Big Pine		Modock	2
Fish Springs	2	Panamint	2
Taboose	2	Mountain Springs	1
Independence	7	Ballarat	1
Citrus	4		56

Polls are to be open from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock p. m., at the following places and under charge of the following officers, viz:

Round Valley—Inspector, John S. McGee; Judges, John Shipley and I. F. Smith. Polls at the school House.

Lincoln—Inspector, John Barlow; Judges, T. F. Hutchison and Thos. Thompson. Polls at School House.

Laws—Inspector, Barton McGee; Judges, Jas. McNally and John Dehy. Polls at the school House.

Bishop—Inspector, Jno. E. Meroney; Judges, H. N. Gunter and A. L. McGee. Polls at Court House.

East Bishop—Inspector, W. L. Coats; Judges D. A. Bradshaw and A. Dell. Polls at office of W. J. Dunn.

Poleta—Inspector, George Storey; Judges, F. J. Reed and L. B. Heise. Polls at Collins' House.

Big Pine—Inspector, Geo. E. Mitchell; Judges, W. P. Baker and Geo. W. Hall. Polls at Callow's Hall.

Fish Springs—Inspector, Jas. Jones; Judges, A. W. H. Smith and J. H. Coe. Polls at School House.

Taboose—Inspector, L. C. Montague; Judges, Jas. Hall and J. W. Harbaugh. Polls at school House.

Independence—Inspector, George W. Brady; Judges, A. V. Davidson and David Stubblefield. Polls at School House.

Citrus—Inspector, J. A. Pfohl; Judges, ——— and W. H. Ramsey. Polls at Pfohl's House.

Georges Creek—Inspector, J. S. Hunter; Judges, John Strohmeyer and J. W. Calbreath. Polls at School House.

Lone Pine—Inspector, Felix Meysan; Judges, Abraham Diaz and N. L. Apple. Polls at school House.

Cerro Gordo—Inspector, Patrick Clinton, Judges, J. Kelly and Jos. Stoffle. Polls at Clinton's House.

Keeler—Inspector, J. J. Morton; Judges, Sam'l Levy and Mike Anton. Polls at School House.

Olancha—Inspector, Ira W. Brown; Judges, W. T. Grant and W. H. Walker. Polls at Walker's House.

Darwin—Inspector, Paul Pfefferle; Judges, Henry Jacesson and Henry Mettler. Polls at Store.

Modock—Inspector, John Doody; Judges Thos. Gunn and Arthur Smith. Polls at Minnietta Boarding House.

Mountain Springs—Inspector, A. V. Lewis, Judges, H. C. Hamilton and J. M. Davis. Polls at Company's Office.

Ballarat—Inspector, T. H. Henebry; Judges, R. Decker and J. McHugh. Polls at Decker's Office.

Panamint—Inspector, John Curran; Judges, F. Russell and Pat Langley. Polls at store.

VOTING TEST:

Are you now in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold by the United States at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of any other nation?

E. ROBINSON, Chairman.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs

Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates

-- -x- --

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.

R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:05 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	4[illegible]	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:20 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:34 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:20 a m	3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.

E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:57 a m	2:20 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for

LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with

CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

HOITT'S SCHOOL FOR BOYS,

At Burlingame, San Mateo county, Cal., is one of the most thorough, careful and practical "Home School" to be found on the Pacific Coast. Accredited at State and Stanford Universities. Thorough preparation for business. Send for catalogue. IRA G. HOITT, Ph. D., Principal. Re-opens Aug. 9th.

Cervera (shouting from the harbor of Santiago de Cuba to Sampson)—Just tell them that you saw me.

PROPOSED ALLIANCE WITH ENGLAND.

If the United States and England should form an alliance, the combined strength would be so great that there would be little chance for enemies to overcome us. In a like manner, when men and women keep up their bodily strength with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, there is little chance of attacks from disease. The old-time remedy enriches the blood, builds up the muscles, steadies the nerves and increases the appetite. Try it.

"What is a phenomenon, Uncle Billy?" "A phenomenon is a small boy about your size who never bothers anybody."

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE,

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

John—Did you invest in one of those sure thing games? Jim—No, John—There you show some sense. Jim—Save some, too.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY,

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

They Disappeared

Afflicted With Hives Until Hood's Purified Her Blood.

"My daughter was afflicted with hives, which terminated in boils. I urged her to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which she did, and in a short time the hives disappeared. I earnestly recommend this medicine to every one who may be afflicted with impure blood." MRS. CHAS. COYNER, Pleyto, Cal.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, indigestion

Mail Orders filled the day received.

"Summer Specials,"

Our book that tells what will be worn this Spring and Summer—just what you want—profusely illustrated—free on application to

Mail Order Dept.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

San Francisco.

California's largest—America's grandest Shopping place.

S. F. N. U. No. 838. New Series, No. 29

Magnetizing a Soap Bubble.

Oxygen is a million times less "attractable" or "susceptible" than iron, and therefore experiments to show its attractability have to be extremely delicate. It was with one of them that Professor Fleming concluded his lecture. He took a soap bubble—soap and water, by the way, being diamagnetic—and filling it with air placed it in the field of a very strong electro magnet. The bubble did not quiver. Then he filled another bubble with oxygen, and again turned on the current. Instantaneously the bubble inclined itself toward the magnet. It bobbed back again when the current was turned off, but at a second attempt, when again the current was turned on, the attraction so unsettled it that it burst.—London Graphic.

The fatigue felt after exertion is now usually attributed to the presence in the muscles and blood of the chemical products that result from action.

PRETTY SHOW OF PATRIOTISM.

Any Girl with Dextrous Fingers Can Carry Out This Idea.

Put a small, circular table in the center of the room, and, after draping it with silken American colors, make an "Uncle Sam" hat out of pasteboard and fill it with flowers that represent our country's colors. The band around the hat should be of blue, and the stars on it should contain miniatures of our latter-day heroes. This sketch shows the result obtained by following the above instructions. Any girl with dextrous fingers can carry out the idea.

MADE BY DEFT FINGERS.

CAT MASCOTS THE VIZCAYA.

Spaniards Have Pets on Warships Same as Do Americans.

The Spaniards have animal mascots aboard their warships the same as do American man-o'-warsmen. The pet of the Vizcaya, it seems, is a mammoth cat, with an unpronounceable name and very bad manners. This Spanish feline has a disconcerting habit of sleeping inside the big guns of the Vizcaya, and more than once she has been literally dragged from death at the cannon's mouth.

THE VISCAYA'S MASCOT.

Emile Zola as He Is.

This is how Zola is described by Stuart Henry in "Hours with Famous Parisians:" A business-man, no emotion, no ideals, no imagination, no poetry, in his personal intercourse. He does not try to win or entertain you. He takes no personal interest in you, and does not expect you to take any personal interest in him. He talks frankly and freely about everything, but in a secular way. He makes life seem to you merely a commercial career. Fiction for him is editions of 100,000 francs a year. His magisterial and magnificent panoramas of descriptions, unequaled for their kind, are all measured off in his mind as so many rods of printed matter at so much a rod. No personal magnetism, no sentiment, no perfume, no rose colors. Life has been for him a blunt, rude, brutish thing. He has conquered merely because he has worked harder than any one else. With him naturalistic literature succeeds only by the sweat of the brow. What loins of strength, nevertheless! What Titanic capacities to achieve! He towers over all his Parisian contemporaries, as Victor Hugo towered over his epoch.—New York Tribune.

Biting the Nails.

A simple and very effective way to cure children of the bad habit of biting their nails is to wet the fingers with quassia tea and allow them to dry. When tasted it will be a bitter reminder to cease the practice. If there are no sore places on the finger tips, a very little colocynth powder, which is intensely bitter, may be dusted over them. When, however, dipping the finger ends in some bitter tincture falls, as it sometimes will, each finger end ought to be incased in a stall until the propensity is eradicated.

Heaviest Baby Ever Born.

The heaviest baby known is reported from a village near Brussels, where a farmer's wife has just given birth to a child weighing over twenty-one pounds, which is declared by experts to be the heaviest known.

The relations of a man's wife always expect more of him than he expects of himself.

CAMPAIGNING IN CUBA.

The Insurgent Army Divided Into Small Bands—The Day's Routine.

Emory W. Fenn, late major in the Cuban army, has written an article for the Century, entitled "Ten Months with the Cuban Insurgents." Mr. Fenn says: Our operations were confined to the province of Santiago de Cuba, a large proportion of the inhabitants of which are blacks, descendants of native Africans, imported in the days of slavery. Most of the men are of medium stature, with broad shoulders and well-developed muscles. They are peaceful in disposition, seldom, if ever, quarreling among themselves, and are brave and fearless in battle. As no attention has been given by the Spanish authorities to their education, less than one-quarter of the country people in this province are able to read and write; but they are gifted by nature with a large amount of intelligence. Their homes are hardly more than roofs. The families are large, often numbering from sixteen to eighteen. Children under five years seldom wear clothing. Lamps are almost unknown, candles being generally used.

Vegetables are plentiful, and meat is now furnished to the families by the prefect, an officer of the civil government appointed for each township to protect and care for the families, also to furnish horses, vegetables, and other articles necessary for the troops in his vicinity. As the Cuban soldier relies mainly upon vegetables, and, when the enemy is not near at hand, often camps in the same place for weeks at a time, it is necessary, in order not to exhaust the supply, to divide the forces into small bands of from fifty to five hundred men, according to circumstances. The vegetables chiefly used are green plantains or banana, but not the variety sold in this market), green bananas, sweet potatoes, pumpkins, and the nutritious yucca. These vegetables are either boiled or roasted on the coals.

The camp is usually chosen in an opening near a road, where fresh water may be had and grass found for the horses, the officers and assistants being, as a rule, mounted. If the camp is for a short time only, no huts are built; but if it is expected to remain for several days, the soldiers erect small shelters. A majority of the officers are provided with a large piece of canvas, which is stretched as a roof over their hammocks. The hammocks are hung to trees, or to posts driven into the ground. Each soldier does his own cooking, but each officer is attended by an assistant. Fires are started with flint and steel, no matches being used, except, perhaps, for a short time after the capture of a town. The principal fire-wood is cedar.

As soon as a camp site has been selected, guards are placed, but only on the roads, as the Spanish troops never enter the woods. The horses are then unsaddled and taken to pasture, hammocks are hung, and fires are built. Soldiers who are not supplied with vegetables are allowed to look for them; and, while usually they are to be found near at hand, it is sometimes necessary to go several miles before finding them. At night staff-officers are required to do guard duty near headquarters, to receive any messages that may arrive, and to see that all is quiet in camp. Reveille is sounded on the bugle at daylight, and every one, officers included, is obliged to turn out. Coffee or sambumbia (sweetened water) is then made, and about one hour later roll-call is sounded, after which the soldier has very little to do but rest until 5 p. m., when roll-call is again sounded. Retreat is sounded at eight, when every man must be in camp, and at nine "silence" is sounded, and all remove their clothing and retire for the night.

The Cubans eat but two meals a day, one about 11 a. m. and the other about 3 p. m. They often march by moonlight, and many of their attacks are made at night, while the Spanish forces never march or attack except by day. In a Spanish camp the horses are not unsaddled during the day, and at night the men often do not remove their clothing, and the entire camp is well guarded. Medicine is scarce, and fever is common.

War Veterans in the Senate.

A Washington newspaper correspondent, glancing over the membership of Congress, directs attention to a fact as remarkable as it is interesting, says the New York Mail and Express. Out of a total of ninety men in the United States Senate, more than one-third—or thirty-two—are veterans of the civil war, which ended a full generation ago, while two of these thirty-two, who are to-day actively engaged in solving a new war problem, were participants in the struggle with Mexico more than half a century ago. The House, too, despite the lapse of time and the advancement of young men in political life, has a large percentage of men who were active in the rebellion. This is a record of American vigor of which the country may well be proud.

The Largest Bible in the World.

In 1857 Mindon-min, King of Burma, erected a monument near Mandalay called the Kutho-daw. There he built seven hundred temples, in each of which there is a slab of white marble. Upon these seven hundred slabs is engraved the whole of the Buddhist Bible, a vast literature in itself, equal to about six copies of the Holy Scriptures.

This marble Bible is engraved in the Pali language, thought to be that spoken by Buddha himself in 590 B. C. Photographs of some of these inscriptions have reached England, and Prof. Max Muller—perhaps the greatest linguist in the world—has examined them. But alas for all this merely human ingenuity and perseverance! If His Majesty Mindon-min thought to perpetuate the teaching of the Great Buddha by causing it to be graven on the rock, he nourished a vain ambition.

The climate of Burma is moist, and its effects have already wrought havoc on the surface of the white marble, and the photographs show a partial effacement of some of the Burmese characters in which the Pali text is engraved. This is certainly the largest known copy of any portion of literature. Even the National Encyclopedia of China, in five thousand volumes, occupies a comparatively small space.—Saturday Evening Post.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

In Australia spring begins Aug. 20; summer, Nov. 20; autumn, Feb. 20, and winter, May 20.

All the flowers of the arctic region are said to be either white or yellow, and there are 762 varieties.

There are three times as many muscles in the tail of the cat as there are in the human hands and wrists.

If the surface of the earth were perfectly level, the waters of the ocean would cover it to the depth of six hundred feet.

The first botanical garden in Europe was laid out by Cosmo de Medici at Pisa, in 1544. It was enriched by plants from every part of Europe, and with many from Africa and Asia.

The age of whales is ascertained by size and number of laminae of the whalebone, which increase yearly. Ages of three hundred and four years have been assigned to whales from these indications.

The New York Legislature has given $10,000 to Cornell University to establish a college of forestry. A tract, not exceeding 30,000 acres in extent, is to be purchased in the Adirondack State park, and the college, with a faculty comprising one professor, two instructors, a forest manager, and a proper number of rangers, is to give practical instruction in the latest forms of scientific forestry.

According to an English weekly journal it is estimated by a competent foreign authority that only nine hundred persons out of one million die from old age, while 1,200 succumb to gout, 18,400 to measles, 2,700 to apoplexy, 7,000 to erysipelas, 7,500 to consumption, 48,000 to scarlet fever, 25,000 to whooping-cough, 30,000 to typhoid and typhus and 7,000 to rheumatism. The averages vary according to locality, but these are considered accurate as regards the population of the globe as a whole.

A few miles southwest of Syracuse, New York, in a cavity whose bottom is 220 feet below the surface of the adjacent upland, lies Janesville Lake, a body of water 500 feet in diameter and 60 feet in depth. Eastward from the lake extends a gorge through which flows Butternut Creek. Professor Quereau of Syracuse says that in former times a river flowed here and that Janesville Lake is the pool that was formed under a great waterfall. Steep cliffs rise around it on three sides, and "all the features of a dry Niagara are here disclosed in great detail."

One of the methods of testing the question of the existence of a perceptible atmosphere on the moon is the observation of a star at the instant when it disappears, or emerges from behind the moon. If there were a lunar atmosphere it should produce some effect on the appearance of the star. No such effect has ever certainly been observed. Recently this method has been rendered more delicate, perhaps, by the application of photography. Photographs of stars, made as they are about to disappear behind the lunar disk, show no indications of change in the intensity of the image, such as would be expected to occur if the moon had a perceptible atmosphere.

Attractive to Customers.

How to attract "trade" is the successful shopkeeper's consideration. In certain portions of Germany the telephone is introduced by tobacconists as an additional attraction to customers. Any one who buys a cigar may, if he desires, speak over the tobacconist's instrument to a subscriber to the telephone service.

The Cumminsville Sage.

"Analayze a great man," said the Cumminsville Sage, "and 10 to 1 you will find he is only some common, ordinary chump who did not know any better than to take himself seriously."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Every mother of a pretty girl is a board of strategy.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

Dishes can be quickly washed and rinsed by a new apparatus which has racks to hold the dishes in a revolving pan, which has a perforated bottom to drain the water into a pump cylinder, when it is forced to the top of the cover and discharged against the dishes repeatedly.

A Tennessee woman has patented a thread holder and cutter for spools, consisting of a clamping band to engage the end flange of the spool, provided with a flat spring on its outer face, with a cutting blade at one end, the end of the thread being held under the spring to prevent it from unwinding.

Dirt can be eradicated and handled easily by a newly patented machine, which is mounted on rails, an overhead track being provided on which a carriage supports a series of pulleys, over which the ropes run. The buckets are hoisted up to the carriage and locked, when the carriage is drawn over the track to any desired point for dumping.

Carpets can be cleaned without removing them from the floor by a new machine which has metal strips set inside a casing to beat the carpet as the cleaner runs over the floor, a fan being mounted in the top of the casing to draw the dust into a water compartment which has an air passage covered by a moistened screen to retain the dust particles.

Bicycle riding can be learned alone without the danger of falling by using a new English trainer, which has a pair of rollers set in a frame to support the bicycle wheels and revolve as the pedals are turned, a pair of rods preventing the wheel from overturning and yet leaving enough play to enable the rider to balance himself as he learns.

The free edges of newspapers are sealed, to prevent resale or reading without buying, by a new machine which has a paste receptacle, which feeds onto a roller mounted on levers, in such a manner that it is brought in contact with one edge of a partially folded paper, after which the last fold is made and the edges are pressed together.

A European inventor has designed a steam candy kettle which is hung on a pivoted shaft with a lever to rock it back and forth, a coil of pipe being placed around the kettle and connected with a steam pipe by a universal joint. A covering of asbestos surrounds the steam pipes to force the heat in toward the kettle.

LITERARY LITTLEBITS

Another of Laura E. Richards charming idyls of the Maine coast, entitled "Love and Rocks," is soon to appear.

Louis Zangwill, whose new novel, "Cleo, the Magnificent," has recently been issued, will now drop his pseudonym of "Z. Z.," under which he wrote "A Drama in Dutch," "The Beautiful Miss Brooke" and other novels.

It may not be generally known that the late William James Linton, the poet and engraver, whose death recently occurred, was the husband of the distinguished English novelist and essayist, Mrs. E. Lynn Linton.

The late Alphonse Daudet is said to have been an ardent music-lover. At his Thursday evenings there was always music. The masters he admired particularly were Gluck, Beethoven, Wagner, and, above all, Chopin.

The University of Jena has conferred the doctor's degree on Pater Leontius Alishan, an eminent Armenian scholar, who is also popular among his countrymen as a poet. He is 77 years old. One of his former friends was Alexander von Humboldt.

Justin McCarthy has two volumes nearly ready for the press; one, entitled "England's Nineteenth Century," to be issued in the Story of the Nations series; the other, reminiscences of distinguished Europeans and Americans whom Mr. McCarthy has known, and the title of which he has not yet decided upon.

The title of the new book which W. H. Mallock will publish through the Macmillan Company in the course of a few weeks will be "Aristocracy and Evolution." Its aim is to demonstrate that the chief progressive movement of society is due to a minority, the part played by the majority being altogether subordinate, alike in the sphere of thought, government, and wealth production.

The third of the Critic's new series of "Authors at Home" is devoted to Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the most famous of living American physicians. Like Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Dr. Mitchell is no less eminent in letters than in medicine, and bids fair to become even more so. Unlike Dr. Holmes, however, it is in fiction that his greatest success has been made. Dr. Mitchell's father was a physician who dabbled in verse and prose; one of the grandsons is a poet and playwright, and another a physician. The family home is in Walnut street, Philadelphia, and the account of the author's home life is written by Harrison S. Morris, director of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts.

Continuous Laughter.

Strange as it may seem, John Breiner falls into convulsions of laughter because a clot of blood is pressing his spinal cord. At least the doctors attribute his laughter to that cause. For three hours one night recently the man laughed uproariously without a moment's hesitation.

Two weeks ago Breiner was taken sick while at work in an iron mill. Since then he has been confined to his bed. He has almost lost the power of speech, and is unable to utter a word. But his laughter is free and apparently natural, as if he were intensely amused.—Bethlehem (Pa.) special to New York World.

Imitation may be the sincerest flattery, but more men acquire wealth by doing as they see others do not do.

Much of the experience a man gets comes too late to benefit him.

In a Bad Way Anyhow.

George Ober once overheard some acquaintances in the hotel lobby at Hastings-on-the-Hudson discussing the demise of one Bill Jones, a well known character in that lively country village. Ober immediately joined the group, whereupon the following conversation ensued:

"'Did I understand you to say Bill Jones was dead?'

"'Yep. Died last Thursday.'

"'Is that possible?'

"'Yes, that's right.'

"'So Bill Jones is dead. Well, well!'

"'Yes, he's dead.'

"'Do you know, I can scarcely believe it, poor chap! Poor Bill! I knew him well. So he's really dead, is he?'

"'Well, if he ain't dead, he's in a darned bad predicament. I saw him buried.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Where They Marry to Kill Time.

One strange feature of Australia social life is the perfectly casual way in which men marry for no ostensible purpose except the purpose of vanishing wearily around the corner immediately after the ceremony. In a Sydney case now on hand the husband, it is alleged, married in 1894 and shortly afterward made his tired, indifferent exit around the corner and never came back. In 1896 he married again and immediately faded away up the street. He never lived with his second wife. When he was arrested on a charge of aggravated harem, he offered no explanation whatever. Apparently he only did it because a fellow must do something.—Sydney Bulletin.

A French Way to Cure Baldness.

A French surgeon announces a novel cure for baldness, which, however, is only within the reach of the wealthy. The first thing is to find some poor, starving wretch with a fine head of hair of the color which the patient desires. The former having consented to part with his hair for a stipulated sum, the doctor scalps the pair delicately and applies the hairy scalp of the subject to the bald client, and vice versa. With luck the graft is said to be a success.—New York Sun.

Theatrical Villain.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Was there any villain in that play you saw last night?

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Not on the stage. He sat a few seats from me, though, and insisted upon climbing over my lap to go out between the acts.—Yonkers Statesman.

In France it is illegal to capture frogs at night.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Women Everywhere Express their Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. T. A. WALDEN, Gibson, Ga., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before taking your medicine, life was a burden to me. I never saw a well day. At my monthly period I suffered untold misery, and a great deal of the time I was troubled with a severe pain in my side. Before finishing the first bottle of your Vegetable Compound I could tell it was doing me good. I continued its use, also used the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, and have been greatly helped. I would like to have you use my letter for the benefit of others."

Mrs. FLORENCE A. WOLFE, 515 Mulberry St., Lancaster, Ohio, writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I was troubled with what the local physicians told me was inflammation of the womb. Every month I suffered terribly. I had taken enough medicine from the doctors to cure anyone, but obtained relief for a short time only. At last I concluded to write to you in regard to my case, and can say that by following your advice I am now pefectly well."

Mrs. W. R. BATES, Mansfield, La., writes:

"Before writing to you I suffered dreadfully from painful menstruation, leucorrhœa and sore feeling in the lower part of the bowels. Now my friends want to know what makes me look so well. I do not hesitate one minute in telling them what has brought about this great change. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is the greatest remedy of the age."

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.

Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,

ADNEY, CARR & CO.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once.

DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

Stop drinking colored tea. Try Schilling's Best.

INYO INDEPENDENT.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.
Independence, Cal.
FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 10. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 19, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1481.

INYO INDEPENDENT
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.00
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

AN AMBITION.

The person to be envied most
In this eventful life
Is not the one who counts his gains
Afar from storm and strife;
Nor yet the potentate who wears
A crown upon his brow;
It is the man who stands around
And tells the others how.

And if the project finds success,
The benefit he'll share;
And if it fail, he'll simply say
'Twas none of his affair.
He joins the triumph every time
And dodges every row,
The man who simply stands around
And tells the others how.

I would not be a warrior great
Nor hold a sceptred sway;
I would not be a bard to wake
Emotions grave or gay.
If fate would graciously consent
My choosing to allow,
I'd be the man who stands around
And tells the others how.
—Washington Star.

GRANDFATHER'S COURTSHIP.

"DO YOU youngsters want a war story," sighed Grandpa Sawyer, glancing fondly over the merry group of children and grandchildren that had assembled to celebrate his sixtieth birthday; and wondering what he could possibly say on this august occasion that had not been repeated at least a score of times.

"You might tell them about the time you fainted dead away," suggested grandma, with her tender, pensive smile, as she bent caressingly over his latest namesake fast asleep in her arms.

Yielding to the clamorous entreaties of more than a dozen young voices, the veteran slowly proceeded: "You see, I was just out of Andersonville, and a little shaky even on an ordinary occasion, and this was a most extraordinary occasion, being the day your grandma graduated at Holyoke.

"I first enlisted for three months, full of fight and sure of victory, and I looked so fine and tall in my blue uniform, I thought I'd go and say good-by to Dr. Miller's daughter. I was only a common farmer, and she had another beau, a student at Amherst, but I remembered once at a party, when she had to choose a partner, she selected me instead of Jim; so I thought I'd go and tell her I was off for Dixie in the morning. I thought maybe she'd cry a little as my mother did, or say something fine about my laying down my precious life for the dear old flag; but she didn't say much, and I didn't stay long, for Jim was there.

"Martha went with me out to the gate. I reached out my big, sunburned hand, and she took it in both her own and held it quite a bit, and she said: 'Bennie, I'm sorry you're going to the war; you're too young a man, and too good a man to stand up and be shot at.' Then Jim appeared on the scene, and I went away half cursing my honest hand for being so big and so brown, while Jim's was as white as a lily with a great flashing diamond on the smallest of his slender fingers.

"Talk about standing up as a target for bullets; that's nothing—nothing at all compared with lying down to starve in a foul prison. As the days passed into weeks and the weeks so long, into months so much longer, that I lost all count, how many and many a time I looked at my white, bony hands and wished they were as big and as tanned as they used to be, and when I would have prayed for an ending of my misery, how well I remembered that Martha had said I was too young to die, and the way she had held my hand still thrilled me, and kept me alive and out of the clutch of old Giant Despair, and I said over and over to myself a thousand times, with grim determination, what Dr. Miller had so often repeated: 'While there is life there is hope,' and at last I was exchanged and discharged. Oh, how happy I was to be set free! I did not 'regain my freedom with a sigh,' like the poor prisoner of Chillon, but with a great joy that buoyed me up for the long, weary journey home, and enabled me to assist others who were still weaker.

"When at last the stage set me down in the familiar village postoffice I was so weary and wasted no one seemed to recognize me, but looked at me in a pitying way I could not understand, and so I did not speak to any one, but staggered down the hill to the old farmhouse, trying in vain to scent the supper or the clove pinks. I did not know my precious mother had been dead almost a year, but when I reached the gate I felt the change. It hung by one hinge, and swayed and creaked with a dismal sound that seemed to me like the groaning of a ghost. It weakened me so that I had to rest a while before going down the long walk still lined by my mother's flower beds; but oh, how neglected they looked! As I neared the porch I saw a red calf tied to a lilac bush, one that my mother had herself planted on the very day she was a bride, and then I seemed to know that she was gone. War kills women as well as men. She thought her only boy was dead, and she had nothing to live for—nothing but an empty home.

"That was too good a house to be long unoccupied, and Dr. Miller had rented it to a needy family of foreigners, requesting that my room should be left just as my mother had last arranged it.

"Oh! how I had cheered myself with a picture of that waiting tea table! But I didn't drop down into my accustomed place, for even the table had been moved into the little, overcrowded kitchen, and the robust woman who did her best to serve me could not understand my simple language, but she did comprehend my sorrow and weariness and bitter disappointment, and after I had taken a glass of milk she allowed me to go right up to my ownary chamber, where everything was sacredly familiar. How deliciously soft and clean the bed seemed, and I cried myself to sleep like a tired, homesick baby.

"The first thing I heard in the morning was, not the chirping of the robins, as in the olden time, but the loud bawling of that steer calf under my window. I covered my head with the bedclothes, and was the poor, weak baby over again. When I awoke later in the day good Dr. Miller was sitting by my bedside. He helped me dress, and took me home to breakfast, where the talking, as well as the cooking, was all United States, but somehow I wasn't hungry, and longed to ask what had become of Martha.

"I soon found out. Her father was going to Holyoke the very next day to hear her valedictory, and he took me along with him. It was a long drive, but we took it slow and easy, and I had my fill of fresh air, and recovered my appetite. We were a little late to the exhibition, and found the chapel already crowded, but the good doctor finally succeeded in getting a seat well up in front, and there, right before us, was Amherst Jim, just as slim and white as ever. He fingered his watch chain and petted his mustache and made his diamond glisten and devoured the platform with his eyes, just as he used to in the old red schoolhouse when Martha was going to speak her piece. Now he was a full-fledged physician, and Dr. Miller's partner. We had a long time to wait. The essays were lengthy and learned, and Martha's was the very last. The other graduates wore white, but she was all in black, with a crape collar. I looked questioningly into her father's face. He put his arm around me, and whispered: 'She wears mourning for your mother—and for you.'

"For my mother and for me—oh! the pain of it! oh, the joy of it! and whether it was the pain or the joy, or the crowded room, or the way Jim looked at Martha, I cannot tell, but somehow everything slipped away into nothingness.

"When I came back to consciousness the folks were all gone, all but Dr. Miller and his daughter, and Martha was holding me as handy as she is holding that blessed baby now, and I was just as quiet and submissive.

"I don't know much of anything but submission for a long time after that. I didn't know I was helpless in bed in the Miller mansion, with Jim for night watch, mixing the medicine to suit himself, and always telling Martha I was slowly improving, and I could not see the noiseless hand that was stretching a pontoon bridge over the last river, but when my hand was wet with the cold surf, I reached it feebly toward Martha's, and she took it firmly, just as she did when I was going away to the war, and she said: 'Bennie, oh Bennie! you are too young to die; if only you will live, my mother shall be your mother,' and then she laid her warm cheek down on that cold hand and it thrilled me back to life again, and the good old doctor whispered, 'While there's life, there's hope,' and after that he was the night watch, and Martha was the day watch, and Jim dropped out, and Martha's mother was my mother.

"Martha's children are my children; her grandchildren are all mine, too, and poor Jim never had any. I have outlived him by a quarter of a century, and I'm good for twenty-five years more, but I want you youngsters distinctly to understand this is my last war story—positively the last."

Two chubby arms were wound around grandpa's neck, and a reproving little kiss was dropped upon the veteran's forehead. Little Mattie well remembered that he had said those very words, "positively the last," on his very last birthday, and so her grateful caress must needs be a little reproving, for had he not often counseled her, "Tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," and did not grandma sometimes say, "Consistency is a jewel?"

Possibly the tender rebuke was quite lost upon grandpa, but the others all appreciated it, and truly, a little child shall lead them.—New York Ledger.

The Proper Care of Umbrellas.

Judge Dustin, in speaking of his stay in England, said: "Umbrellas are carried every day, for showers there are liable to occur at any moment." It seems, therefore, that we cannot do better than to follow the directions of an Englishman on the proper care to take of an umbrella:

"Do not let it dry while opened, as this strains the silk and makes holes at the seams.

"Do not place it to dry with the handle up. In this case the moisture lodges in the center, where the ribs meet, causing the silk to decay.

"Never put it in the wardrobe without unrolling it, for after a long period of dry weather you may have the misfortune of finding that the continuance of the pressure has cut the silk between the ribs.

"If you are satisfied for the present with your umbrella, and are not anxious to be obliged to purchase a new one, see that it drips on end with the handle down, unless the handle is valuable and easily injured by damp. Such an umbrella cannot be cared for according to any fixed rules."—Scientific American.

Revive a Southern Scene.

A Southern husking bee, with slaves, slave-drivers, and all, is to be one of the exhibits at the Paris exposition in 1900.

A girl seldom objects to a young man stealing something from under her very nose.

RELIGIOUS COLUMN.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO ALL DENOMINATIONS.

Words of Wisdom, and Thoughts Worth Pondering Upon Spiritual and Moral Subjects—Gathered from the Religious and Secular Press.

How We Know God.

MANY people say they know God in nature. They see him in the lofty trees or in the beauty of the flowers. Others find God in His word. Every gracious invitation is His voice of love, and in the thunders of His law they feel His majesty.

But we believe there is another and more certain way by which we may know God. There come times in most of our lives when nothing but God will do. I do not mean by this times of great affliction or trouble; but times when, as it were, the scales fall from our eyes, when these things that we see, handle, and love so well, look to us as they really are, only transitory, constantly passing away, and we say, as did Solomon, "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity."

Then our hearts cry out for the living God, we want our feet on the Rock of Ages. God hears our cry, and comes so close that a great awe and hush falls upon us. It is Immanuel, God with us, and we think of Abraham, when God talked with him beside the tent door. And for a short time, at least, we live the life eternal. Nothing in such hours could shake our faith in a living, personal God.

But, alas, we come down from the mount and are soon absorbed again in the busy cares and pleasures of this life. Yet the memory of such hours abides with us, and is a safeguard in times of doubt or temptation. And so we believe God in this way gives to His children the truest revelation of himself.

"If a man love me, he will keep my words; and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him."—The Evangelist.

Chimney Sweep's Mission.

The converted prize fighter or gambler is occasionally heard of in this country doing mission work, but a more interesting figure than most of these is that of J. T. Kingsbury, a chimney sweep, who is conducting a successful mission in south London. Kingsbury is a fine specimen of the average workingman. Gifted to an extraordinary extent as far as oratorical talent is concerned, he is able to wield a wonderful power over his fellows. He is now known all over south London, and whenever the chimney sweep evangelist is announced to speak there is invariably a good audience. The work of the Peckham Rye mission has so prospered that the hall is not only crowded on Sundays, but often at the week night meetings large congregations are to be seen.

There are hundreds of Christians who fail to show upon their faces the happiness they should feel, but Mr. Kingsbury does not belong to this class. He is known by all those with whom he comes in contact as one of the happiest and pleasantest of men. When preaching he often exclaims that in his younger days he was a sweep by trade and a sweep by nature, but by the grace of God he has forsaken the latter profession and been cleansed from the soot of sin. Mr. Kingsbury has some very loyal helpers, and as superintendent of his mission he insists that all who are willing shall lend a hand. At his open-air meetings he calls upon his workers. Sometimes a carpenter steps forth, then a wood hawker, a sawdust dealer, a sailor, a clerk, in fact, many kinds of trades and callings are represented.

Little Kindnesses.

The blessings which the weak and poor can scatter
Have their own season. 'Tis a little thing
To give a cup of water; yet its draught
Of cool refreshment, drained by fevered lips,
May give a shock of pleasure to the frame
More exquisite than when nectarian juice
Renews the life of Joy in happiest hours.
It is a little thing to speak a phrase
Of common comfort, which by daily use
Has almost lost its sense; yet in the ear
Of him who thought to die unmourned will fall
Like choicest music, fill the glazing eye
With gentle tears; relax the knotted hand
To know the bonds of fellowship again
And shed on the departing soul, a sense
More precious than the benison of friends
About the honored deathbed of the rich
To him whose eyes were lone, but another
Of the great family is near, and feels.
—Thomas N. Talfourd.

One Man's Church.

A Georgia colored man, Andrew Bonner by name, is manifesting his religious enthusiasm in a substantial, though unusual way. Bonner is a simple-minded negro, filled to overflowing with what his admiring wife terms "de ol' time religion." He resides with her in College Park, a village a few miles from Atlanta. His ambition for years has been to build a church for the benefit of some of his own race, the material used to be procured with his own earnings and no workmen to assist him in the rearing of the edifice.

With utter disregard of legal measures, Andrew selected two years ago a site for the church of his dreams, which he expects to be a monument to his memory long after he has returned to dust. The fact that he does not own the ground has never disturbed him. When far-sighted white friends urged him to wait until the ground could be bought for the purpose he paid no heed to the proposition, but kept to his original purpose. Every spare penny was spent by him for lumber and nails. The work has necessarily been slow, but now, after twenty-four months of patient labor, Andrews gazes with pride upon the building, which is almost covered.

The old man is said to have sometimes denied his family bread that he might save money for his pet project.

The Sabbath.

The commandment reads "Remember the Sabbath to keep it holy." It does not state whether the Sabbath is the first or last day in the week. It is true that the Jews kept the last day and doubtless had done so since the time of Moses, but the Sabbath was instituted ages before Moses and ages before Abraham. It was instituted with the creation of the world. Let us bear in mind it is not the day that makes the Sabbath, but the condition of the soul, for the real Sabbath is a state of the soul. The Jewish church was a representative church and all its modes of worship and every ceremony was a symbol of a spiritual truth or principle. The number seven is the type of perfection. The Sabbath was called the seventh day because it is a representative of the highest and most perfect condition of the soul after victory has been achieved and regeneration is completed. Therefore, the Sabbath is a symbol of heaven and a promise of heaven. It was instituted for man's well-being, both physically and spiritually, and not as an arbitrary law to make any certain day more holy than another. The reason why we keep Sunday for our Sabbath is because the whole Christian world does so, and the early church, inspired by the Holy Spirit, chose Sunday for the Lord's day.—Rams Horn.

Bible Facts and Figures.

The Bible contains 3,566,480 letters, 810,697 words, 31,175 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The longest chapter is the 119th Pslam; the shortest and middle chapter the 117th Psalm. The middle verse is the 8th of the 118th Psalm. The longest name is in the 8th chapter of Isaiah. The word and occurs 46,627 times; the word Lord 1,855 times. The 37th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of the second book of Kings are alike. The longest verse is the 9th of the 8th chapter of Esther; the shortest verse is the 35th of the 11th chapter of John. In the 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra is the alphabet. The finest piece of reading is the 26th chapter of Acts. The name of God is not mentioned in the book of Esther.—Exchange.

Cannot Touch It.

Your external circumstances may change, toil may take the place of rest, sickness of health, trials may thicken within and without. Externally you are the prey of such circumstances, but if your heart is stayed on God no changes or chances can touch it, and all that may befall you will but draw you closer to Him. Whatever the present moment may bring, your knowledge that it is His will, and that your future heavenly life will be influenced by it, will make all not only tolerable but welcome to you, while no vicissitudes can affect you greatly, knowing that He who holds you in His powerful hand cannot change, but abideth forever.—Jean Nicolas Grou.

Character.

Greatness and goodness are not means but ends.
Hath he not always treasures, always friends,
The good, great man?—three treasures, love and light,
And calm thoughts regular as an infant's breath;
And three firm friends, more sure than day and night—
Himself his Maker and the angel Death.
—Coleridge.

No Bounds to God's Mercy.

Let no man despair of God's mercies to forgive him, unless he be sure that his sins be greater than God's mercies It is impossible for that man to despair, who remembers that his Helper is omnipotent.—Jeremy Taylor.

Subjects of Thought.

Thinkers are the pioneers; they go before to prepare the way for those that are to come after.

Life is like a nutmeg grater. You have to rub up against the rough side of it to accomplish anything.

Some of the best lessons we ever learn we learn from our mistakes and failures. The error of the past is the wisdom and success of the future.

Not to know what happened before we were born is always to remain a child; to know, and blindly to adopt that knowledge as an implicit rule of life, is never to be a man.

Gratitude consists adequately in these two things: first, that it is a debt; and, second, that it is such a debt as is left to every man's integrity, whether he will pay or no.

Good literature is as necessary to the growth of the soul as good air to the growth of the body, and it is just as bad to put weak thoughts into a child's mind as to shut it up in an unventilated room.

What comfort, what strength, what economy there is in order—material order, intellectual order, moral order! Order means light and peace, inward liberty, and free command over one's self. Order is power.

If a picture is daubed with many glaring colors, the vulgar eye admires it; whereas he judges very contemptuously of some admirable design sketched out only with a black pencil, though by the hand of Raphael.

The right human bond is that which unites soul with soul; and only they are truly akin who consciously live in the same world, who think, believe, and love alike, who hope for the same things, aspire to the same ends.

BATTLE OF THE ALAMO.

It Was One of the Most Thrilling Fights in American History.

THE battle of the Alamo, Texas, was one of the most thrilling fights in American history, says a correspondent. The Mexican bombardment of the place had lasted eight days and nights, almost without cessation.

On the evening of the eighth day—it was March 3, 1836—about two hours before sunset, it suddenly ceased.

Col. Barrett Travers, taking advantage of the lull, immediately collected his little army of patriots in single file, and delivered to them one of the most stirring and portentous addresses of history. Among other things he said:

"Our fate is sealed. Within a few days—perhaps a few hours—we shall be in eternity. * * * Our business is not to make fruitless efforts to save our lives, but to choose the manner of our death. * * * Let us resolve to withstand our enemies to the last, and at each advance to kill as many of them as possible. Kill them as they scale our walls! Kill them as they leap within! Kill them as they raise their weapons and as they use them! Kill them as they kill our companions, and continue to kill them as long as one of us remains alive!

"But I leave every man to his choice. Should any man prefer to surrender or attempt to escape, he is at liberty to do so. My own choice is to stay in the fort as long as breath shall remain in my body and die fighting! This will I do even if you leave me alone! Do as you think best, but no man can die with me without affording me comfort in the hour of death!"

STORMING OF THE ALAMO.

Col. Travers then drew his sword, and with the point traced a line upon the ground a few feet in front of his men; then, resuming his position, he said:

"I now want every man who is determined to stay and die with me to form upon that line."

With one exception this order was immediately obeyed. Every sick man who could walk arose and tottered to his place. Col. Bowie, who was dying of typhoid fever, asked that his cot might be carried to the line. The one exception, a man named Rose, could not muster sufficient courage to reach the mark. He was allowed to attempt to escape and by a miracle succeeded in getting through the Mexican forces. When it was all over he was the only man of the garrison who was alive.

It was not until the morning of March 6 that the storming of the Alamo took place. It was not a battle, but a slaughter. The 4,000 Mexicans swarmed over the walls, and the little handful of Texans within killed, and killed—and died. Col. Bowie, sitting on his cot with his back to the wall, with death already written on his face, and with a strength that seemed supernatural, slew the enemy with his sword until they heaped about him so heavily that he could no longer strike. He fell, his body pierced in a dozen places. At the end of his cot was his nurse, an old Mexican woman, o'd even then, who caught the stricken soldier and supported his head on her arm.

And then, when the fighting had ceased, there were 2,000 dead Mexicans and the 200 dead Texans heaped together in the ancient church. With bloody hands the surviving Mexicans sorted out the Texans and carried them into the plaza, where they piled them up, with rails between, and so burned them. Surely no more acceptable incense than that altar smoke ever ascended to heaven!

The Alamo Church is shaped like a cross, and it was upon this crucifix that the martyrs died.

Ants and Their Cows.

The fact that ants used aphids for milch cows was discovered nearly a century ago, but the special care given to their live stock has been a subject of more recent study, says the Chautauquan. Almost any one may have observed ants running up and down the trunks of trees and shrubs. It is no joy of climbing nor desire for a wide outlook that leads the ants to ascend trees, but because the leaves of the trees afford pasturage for their small cattle, the aphids. These little creatures exude voluntarily drops of a sweet liquid known as honey dew. The process of milking is this: The ant comes up to the aphid and pats it on the back with her antennae, at which the flattered and pleased aphid gives forth the honey dew, which the ant eats with every sign of enjoyment.

It might seem at first glance that the benefits of this relationship accrue only to the ants. However, this is not the case. The ants are fierce defenders of their flocks, and make it very uncomfortable for the many insect enemies of the aphids. Some species of ants build sheds over the aphids upon the trees and other species remove them to the safety of their own nests; but the special claim of the ants as aphid protectors lies in the care of the aphid eggs, which are shown as much attention as their own.

THE PLIMSOLL MARK.

What It Is and What It Has Done for the Merchant Sailor.

The death recently in London of Samuel Plimsoll, popularly known as the "sailors' friend," removed a man who earned the gratitude of merchant seamen through many acts of kindness and justice. The most famous of his labors for the sailor was the establishment of the Plimsoll Mark. The Plimsoll mark may be found on 99 of every 100 merchantmen to-day. It is a circle, crossed in the center by a horizontal line. Before the law establishing this load line there were no restrictions on private merchant vessels as to the amount of load. Owners were restricted only by their fears for the safety of their vessels, and many a ship was so overloaded, meeting heavy weather, she sank with all on board. To correct this evil Mr. Plimsoll had worked out by experienced shipleaders a system of tables showing how many tons a vessel of a certain displacement could safely carry, and by an act of Parliament this rule was applied to every merchant vessel under the British flag, and on the outside of each vessel's hull the Plimsoll mark was painted. It did not matter how much more room there was for cargo; when the ship was loaded so that she sank to the Plimsoll line no more cargo could be taken on penalty of a heavy fine, and no seaman was required to sail on a vessel whose Plimsoll mark did not show above the water.

The legislation which provided this safeguard for the lives of seamen was opposed strenuously by ship owners, by shippers, and even by marine insurance companies, and, strange as it may seem, was a fruitful subject for derision by Jack in the forecastle, but as the wisdom of the precaution has been justified by years, prejudice has vanished and the Plimsoll mark has been adopted by most civilized nations.

SAMUEL PLIMSOLL.

Vanity of Dummy Shoes.

It is said that a coquettish trick prevails among the women at the seaside and watering-place hotels in Europe They have extra sets of tiny boots and shoes made, not for wear, but to be left outside their bedroom doors. It seems that foreigners, particularly Frenchmen, are in the habit of scrutinizing closely the ladies' boots in the corridors of hotels. The furnishing of such tiny sets is a recognized part of the boot and shoe trade in Paris. It is also said that similar sets of very small boots, and shoes, and slippers are sold by the big shoe houses of Paris to be placed on exhibition with the bride's trousseau. The French boot makers say that the Madrid ladies have the smallest feet, the Peruvian and Chilian ladies next. Ladies from the United States are also remarkable for their small feet. Russian ladies have heavy, splay feet. In Northern Europe the best-shaped feet are those of the women of Sweden. In Paris, the Jewesses are noted for their small feet, and are very particular about their chaussure. German women have large, flat feet, and English women are noted on the Continent for awkwardly made boots and shoes. Dona Bertha, wife of Don Carlos, the Pretender, wears a five-and-a-half. Lady Malet, wife of the ambassador, has a phenomenally small foot.—Saturday Evening Post.

To Remove Grass Stains.

Grass stains may be removed from light summer frocks by damping the soiled part in a little alcohol and rubbing well until no trace of the grass is left.

FLASHES OF FUN.

"She has loved him silently for many years." "Heavens! What won't a woman's love accomplish?"—Philadelphia North American.

Dear Bargains.—Kirby (gloomily)—Wheat went down from $1.05 to 94c to-day. Mrs. Kirby—I thought you men didn't believe in bargain days.—Truth.

Giles—I just heard that Hawkins referred to me as a perfect idiot. Smiles—Oh, don't mind what Hawkins says; he always exaggerates more or less.—Chicago News.

Citizen—Unless my eyes deceive me, you are the party I gave ten cents to yesterday. Beggar—I am, sir. Did you think a dime would make a new man of me?—Truth.

"Of course," observed the thin wheelman, "water won't run up hill." "Well," replied the fat wheelman, who was still puffing and blowing, "I don't blame it."—Puck.

Briggs—Was the Boston girl pleased when you proposed? Griggs—Immensely. She said that in twenty minutes' straight talk I didn't make one grammatical error.—Life.

Millie—Why do you never speak to Mr. Marples now? He is uncouth, but I feel sure he is a diamond in the rough. Clara—So do I. That's why I'm cutting him.—Boston Globe.

He—Have you heard of this new cure for nervous prostration? The patient is not allowed to talk. She—I'd just as soon die from prostration as exasperation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hiram—Hurry up, Mandy, an' git away from this buildin'. Mandy—What's yer hurry, Hi? Hiram (chuckling)—The feller in the elevator forgot to collect our fares.—Truth.

"George, dear, you remember that lovely sideboard that was so cheap? Well, I've discovered a plan to make room for it." "How, my dear?" "By taking a larger flat."—Brooklyn Life.

Mrs. Quiverful—Do you know, dear, that I think the baby sometimes cries in her sleep? Mr. Quiverful (savagely)—I don't know about that, but I know she often cries in mine.—Pick-Me-Up.

Application.—"I am very much afraid that our friend Mr. Fritters lacks application," remarked the business man. "Not at all," replied the friend. "He applies to me for a loan once a week regularly."—Washington Star.

Excited Lady (at telephone)—I want my husband, please, at once. Voice (from the exchange)—Number, please? Excited Lady (snappishly)—Only the fourth, you impudent thing.—Boston Globe.

Scorcher—They say that it has a bad effect on the brain to ride with your head down between the handle-bars. Sprocket—Don't you believe a word of it. The men who ride that way haven't any brain to be affected.—Boston Transcript.

A young Englishman, being asked at dinner whether he would have some bird's-nest pudding, said to the hostess: "Ah, yes; bird's nest pudding. And what kind of bird may have made it?" "Oh, it was the cook-coo made it," was the prompt reply.

"You are advertising quite early in the year," said the summer-resort landlord's friend. "Yes; I always fix up my announcements at this time of year. You see, I am a thoroughly conscientious man, and I wish to be able to state that there are no mosquitoes."—Washington Star.

Miss Homewood—Charley Brushton told me that I was looking pretty this morning, Miss Point Breeze—That isn't what he told me he said to you. "What did he say?" "He said he told you that you were looking as pretty as ever."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

The Judge—I believe I shall leave it to you this time. About how many days do you think I ought to give you? Perry Patettie—Honest, your honor, I don't just know. Do you think it is goin' to be an early spring or a late one?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wayworn Watson—Here is one of these story writers who says in the papers that genius is nothing but hard work. Perry Patettie—Nothin' but hard work? And to think that I used to have a great respect for them fellers who could write!—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I understand that you have been called to another charge," said the interviewer. "No," said the minister, who had been struggling along at the tail end of the little church debt, "by the blessing of Providence this is a cash situation that I take."—Indianapolis Journal.

It Would Be Costly.—He watched the pompous man getting measured for a suit of clothes. "It's an excellent thing," he said at last, "that a man's egotism is not included in the measurements, or some people would go broke paying for one suit."—Chicago Evening Post.

"I would go with you to the end of the earth," he asserted passionately. "Not with me you wouldn't," she replied, coldly. "Why not?" he demanded. "For two reasons," she answered. "One is that I'm not going away, and the other is that there isn't any." When one meets the prosaic new woman one has to be careful what he says.—Tit-Bits.

Mrs. Fadde, faith curist—How is your grandfather this morning, Bridget? "He still has the rheumatics mighty bad, mum." "You mean he thinks he has the rehumatism. There is no such thing as rheumatism." "Yes, mum." A few days later: "And does your grandfather still persist in his delusion that he has the rheumatism?" "No, mum; the poor man thinks now thot he is dead. We buried 'im yisterday."

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, AUGUST 19 1898

Upon the practical end of the war a week ago, August 12th, the proctocol signed by representatives of the American and Spanish peoples provides:

1. That Spain shall relinquish all claim of sovereignty over and title to Cuba.

2. That Porto Rico and all other Spanish Islands in the West Indies and an island in the Ladrones, to be selected by the United States, shall be ceded to the latter.

3. That the United States shall occupy and hold the city and bay of Manila pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace, which shall determine the control, disposition and government of the Phillippines.

4. That Cuba, Porto Rico and other Spanish islands in the West Indies shall be immediately evacuated and that commissioners be appointed within ten days, who shall, within thirty days from the signing of the proctocol, meet at Havana and San Juan respectively to arrange and execute the details of the evacuation.

5. That the United States and Spain shall each appoint not more than five commissioners to negotiate and conclude a treaty of peace. The commissioners are to meet in Paris not later than the 1st of October.

Food riots are feared at Fort Yukon and other Alaska points, growing out of the failure of the transportation companies to get supplies in there on the prevailing low water. Major General Merriam will dispatch a battery of artillery to St. Michael, the officer in charge having orders to proceed at once up the Yukon River to Fort Yukon and open a military post for the coming winter. The expedition will also carry a large quantity of extra provisions and supplies to relieve distress. When St. Michaels is reached the commanding officer will promptly levy on any river boats he may find, seizing them if necessary, and will transport his troops and supplies to their destination with all possible dispatch. A form of military government will be established and good order maintained in Alaska, even if it requires the services of the soldiers and artilery.

Nineteen mining companies on the Comstock have given notice of their intention to reduce the par value of their shares from $100 a share to amounts ranging from $1 to $3 a share. A concerted movement is on foot to drain the lower levels again, though we do not see any connection between these facts. It is probable that an attempt will be made to reduce miners' wages. If this were accomplished the San Francisco stock exchange might as well close up.

Bills relative to the development of irrigation systems ought to a prominent feature of the legislative session next winter and if laws can be devised that will stick and effect something without injustice California law-makers will glorify themselves. Many other States will try it and ultimately the federal government will have to take a hand in it.

The issue of the 13th inst. of the Los Angeles Mining Review has one of the best mining illustrations we have ever seen in print—a view of the surface works of the Yellow Aster mines at Randsburg, with the town in the distance. The property is yielding an average of $60 000 and paying dividends of $25,000 per month.

F. A. Leach, Superintendent of the San Francisco mint, estimates the output of Klondike gold at about $5,000,000 and gives facts and considerations to back up his figures. This is an enormous shrinkage from the $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 that have been promised by all sorts of newspaper authorities lately.

President Dole will be Governor of Hawaii until Congress shall have prepared a form of Government for the islands. This is as it should be. Carpetbagism should be kept at the minimum in all the annexed territory of the United States.—Los Angeles Express.

Troops will continue to be rushed to Manila, as that country requires a good deal in the way of preserving peace—and always will. But the Government has decided upon sending a company to the Yosemite and Sequoi Parks.

A London specialist says that the most expensive drug is called physostigmine, an ounce of which would cost nearly $1,000 000. It is prepared from the Calabar bean, and used in diseases of the eye.

In proportion to population, Texas has furnished more troops for the war than any other State. Texas pays each enlisted man $7 a month in addition to his government pay.

Gold receipts at the Denver mint for July were $2,031,349, a gain of about 40 per cent over the corresponding month of last year.

The Supreme Court has declared marriages at sea, contracted with an express view to beating the law, illegal No one ever thought they were anything else.

The litigation over the Sutro millions will equal that in the estates of Sharon, Blythe, Fair and other infamies.

The bicycle craze has decreased the consumption of cigars in America by about 1,000,000 a day.

Havana was taken by the British forces August 10, 1762, just 136 years ago, after a forty days' siege; but it was returned by the treaty of Paris signed in February, 1763. We have Havana now and got it without bombardment or siege; it will never be restored to Spain, whether the Cubans want to govern it or not. A Santiago correspondent makes the assertion that many of the officers of the Cuban army, including General Garcia himself, contemplate favorably the annexation of Cuba to the United States without waiting to try the experiment of self-government. This kind of talk begins early, but will be the outcome—as was intended—notwithstanding the declaration of Congress to the contrary.

Ambassador Hay is slated to succeed Secretary of State Day. Something may now be expected to be said about the hey-day of politics.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00

MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.

DAVID HOLLAND.

Lone Pine, Aug 16, 1898.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 19, 1898.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for County Assessor, subject to action of the Republican County Nominating Convention

A. O. COLLINS.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

THE undersigned respectfully announces himself a candidate for Supervisor, Third District, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

Fish Springs, August 11, 1898.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for Assessor of Inyo Co., Calif., subject to the action of the Democratic Free Silver Fusion Convention.

J. R. ELDRED.

Dated Big Pine, Inyo Co., Calif., July 30, 1898.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re election to the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

A. M. GIVEN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention

J. J. GUNN.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be candidate for the office of assessor of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

GUILFORD P. BOURLAND.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. L. HUNTER.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I will be a candidate for the office of Assessor of Inyo County, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. W. YANDELL.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to the action of the Republican County convention.

MATZEY MERTEN.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Nominating Convention.

D. J. HESSION.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

CLAY HAMPTON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney of Inyo County, subject to action of the Democratic Convention.

F. W. FORBES.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., July 19, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on SATURDAY, September 3, 1898: David Vaughn, for the S. W. ¼ of Sec. 2. Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: John C. Willett, of Citrus, Cal.; William J. Lake, Julius C. Roeper and David A. Johnson, of Independence, Cal.

Any person who desires to protest against the allowance of such proof, or who knows of any substantial reason, under the law and regulations of the Interior Department, why such proof should not be allowed, will be given an opportunity at the above mentioned time and place to cross examine the witnesses of said claimant, and to offer evidence in rebuttal of that submitted by claimant.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL]

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; F. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo in the office of the clerk of said Superior court

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 35 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12851, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SEAL

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate lying and being in the county of Inyo State of California, to wit: The NE 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 22 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11 232 from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $67.20, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896 upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SEAL

P. W. Forbes Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiff, vs.

J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The fract N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all fract Section 5, Township 17 south, and fract S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 35 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $58.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SEAL

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes ____ No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:

L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wunderlich, its attorney in fact, whose residence and post-office address is Bishop, Inyo county California, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES and HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively being Lots Nos. 44, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east

South 24½ degrees west 11 36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11 36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of lodge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; hence north 65½ degrees west, 4 545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10 35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lower Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4 30 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12 47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12 37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4 545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminous of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L. No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72¼ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 15.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No. 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19 23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 4 degrees east 11 36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the lodge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4 32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6 21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6 85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2 33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.31 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4 545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2 52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4 27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2 88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2 87 chains to point of beginning, containing 42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3 30 chains distant In T. 19 South, Range 42 East Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east running along center of the claim south 88½ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K, the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88½ degrees west 1 42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1 30 chains distant and stake H No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 8¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 28½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1½ degree west .765 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88½ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114 41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4 545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88½ degrees east 22 72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H, the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4 545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No 1 and K No. 1 the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88½ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K No. 2 bears north 88½ degrees west 6 30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 2½ degrees east 1 30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8 10 chains to stake from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1 58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2 42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8 03 chains to stake K. M. No 3;

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 19 1898

Bar silver rated at 59⅝c in New York last Monday.

Note Jeweler Scott's advertisement this week, quoting prices for watch repairing.

The reported Texas fever in Tulare County is greatly exaggerated. Of 28 cattle of a herd quarantined only one was found on examination to have the tick.

By grapevine line from Onion Valley it is learned that during the past ten days' stay up there of J. C. Irwin he has, by arduous attention to business, succeded in landing one trout.

Quite a number of Independence young fellows have become interested in the project of forming an Athetic Club, and a meeting for the purpose will be held at the Pavilion to-morrow (Saturday) evening, at 8 o'clock.

Frank Sorba, of Darwin, was in town yesterday. He reports that the Lane mine is in bonanza, having already in sight ore for 60 days' run of the smelter. There is no longer any doubt about its successful and continuous operation.

With many people off to the mountains and apparently legal holiday prevailing there is a notable dearth of items of local interest. The farmers are busy but the doctors are not, and the preachers' spare time is not consumed in filing marriage certificates.

Registration of new voters closed last Monday, according to the latest statute on the subject made and provided. As yet not all of the affidavits have been received at the Clerk's office, so that the total number or the increase of Inyo voters cannot now be ascertained.

Some day the Road Commissioner for this district and the County Supervisors collectively should consider the propriety of placing a culvert over the town creek where it crosses the street, immediately east of the Court House square. It ought to be made passable for teams, although a foot-bridge and path would be better than nothing.

Irv. Mulholland and A. W. Eibeshutz of Independence passed through to Sacramento last Sunday. They are delegates to the Democratic State Convention, and are in favor of McGuire for Governor.—Hawthorne Bulletin.

Foregoing is our latest and only news about the delegates or Convention, which assembled four days ago.

Jack Davies has returned with his big team from the Panamint country. He was in the valley during a time when the weather was unpleasant—hot, in fact, as the mercury indicated 123 degrees every day for a week or more. Mr. Davies reports that the Anthony mill in Pleasant Canyon is running steadily, being at present engaged crushing a lot of 150 tons of ore from the Radcliffe mine, with other contracts ahead.

There is a favorable outlook for a very important deal in the upper belt of mines around Pleasant Canyon, Panamint mountains (the Telescope range, properly), including the group known as the Montgomery properties, the Radcliffe mine and probably water rights on the outside. All the ledges have been extensively developed. A party of four mining men and experts lately passed a hot experience in examining them, whereas the mines generaly lie under snow in the winter months. It is understood that the syndicate have already secured one-half of the Radcliffe mine at the cost of $20,000.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending August 18, 1898:

Highest barometer	29.908
Lowest "	29.596
Highest temperature	99	12th
Lowest "	65	18th
Mean "	83.5
Average dew point	28.6
Average humidity	15.3
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	29 W	13th
No. clear days	5
No part cloudy days	2
No. cloudy days	0
No rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

Church Notice.

The order of religious services will be as follows until further notice:

Independence—Preaching service every Sunday evening commencing at 7:30.

Lone Pine—Every Sunday morning (excepting the last Sunday of each month) commencing at 11 o'clock.

George's Creek's—The first and third Sunday of each month to commence at 2:30 o'clock.

Liberty—The last Sunday of each month to commence at 2 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to be present at these services.

THOS. H. NICHOLAS, Pastor.

Just before our army in Porto Rico received orders to stop shooting on account of the declaration of peace a detachment of field artillery met with a "repulse" at the hands of the enemy. According to critic Ambrote Bierce this furnishes another humorous feature of the war.

All the great packing houses, ware houses and much other property of Fresno City was destroyed last Saturday night by fire, entailing a loss of $350,000 to $400,000, and throwing several hundred people out of employment.

The funeral of Rear Admiral Kirkland was held at Mare Island Navy Yard on Monday last.

SWAMPERIES.

BIG PINE, Aug. 17.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—The lively hamlet of Big Pine greets the less-favored portion of our peaceful nation with the announcement: That the first "thresh" of our bountiful grain crop has verified the forecast of the most optomistic prognosticator. The machine, Guilford Bourland proprietor, will make the circuit to old Camp Independence and return during the present month. This section will turn out more grain this year than usual. The people who depend on the mountain streams for the irrigating element have been quite well supplied, while the proprietors of the canals fed from the river are a little shy of water at the present writing.

The last time T. B. Rickey visited Inyo he was accompanied by Charles Summers. Rumors were rife to the effect that Rickey had diverted a large amount of water from the upper sources of Owens River, much to the detriment of original appropriators. Summers—who should know whereof he testified—assured our people that no such diversion of water had been perpetrated. A number of Big Piners visited Bishop, pursuant to advertisement, for the purpose of investigation and possible remedy. The ditch-owners to the north of us wouldn't enthuse to any alarming extent on the proposition of a legal kick. Whether they thought it looked too much like flying in the face of Providence, or because they were a little closer to the molasses barrel, or that there wasn't any kick coming no how, your innocent scribe can't say. However, I'll say this much to you gentlemen—keep out of a water suit if you can.

S. W. Bauser and Prof. Dixon are turning ont an excellent article of lime, burned on the southwest of the town. These enterprising citizens have discovered and located an immense marble deposit on Big Pine creek near the old Warrior mine. An expert from the Inyo marble works has visited the quarry and pronounced it an excellent article.

The Big Pine knowledge shop, under the efficient management of Mr. Wonacot of Bishop, is rapidly assuming shape and proportion. It is expected that this addition to the hamlet will be dedicated by the assembled wisdom of the fusion convention, September 22th.

One of those little incidents which baffle the theories of self-appointed moralists occured here last week, viz: Nathan Gilbert of Deep Springs dropped into the rim of the hamlet suffering from acute thirst, superinduced by the rapid evaporation in vogue of late. He invited the congregation to "jine" him. Seven argonauts responded eloquently. A census was taken, resulting as follows: The congregation represented 508 years of the joys and sorrows of earth, and an average of 63.4 years to the credit of each. They all confessed to having been addicted to reasonable use of the "ardent" from boyhood, and stated that so long as they could get the kind of truck administered by Tom Callow they would not "jine the temperance."

As I write a large and respectable delegation is arriving to meet our folk to consider the prospect of a fair. Our people are anxious to have a fair, and will support the candidate for Assembly who will attempt to foster the interests of the rural people in the matter of State aid for autumnal exhibitions in the counties of the State.

Our people had a very lively meeting yesterday, to consider the water storage proposition. A committee of investigation was appointed, to report next Saturday. Will report progress from time to time.

SWAMPER.

The last number of the Congressional Record has just made its appearance, containing a lot of speeches made last spring. Among the instructive lessons gathered from a perusal of its contents is the amazing number of things the average United States Senator didn't know about the so-called Cuban republic at that time.—S. F. Post.

Shipbuilder Scott says the warship of the immediate future will be a battleship of cruiser speed, heavily armed and armored. He declares that such a combination is possible, and with the example set by the Oregon in evidence there will be few to dispute him.

Warships and Admirals and Generals will begin to scatter, and we hope that now is "When Johnny comes marching home again." We also hope that the United States will not essay to keep the Philippines or any part of them.

Tobacco seeds are so minute that a thimbleful will furnish enough plants for an acre of ground.

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT,

STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me

je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND

U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Publi patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

MISCELLANEOUS.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION

AND

PRIMARIES.

A MEETING of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo County was held at Independence July 23d and arrangements made for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, to assemble at

BIG PINE, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20TH, 1898,

At the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10TH, 1898,

In accordance with the following apportionment, upon the vote for Wm. J. Bryan in 1896, upon the basis of one delegate for each precinct and one delegate for every fifteen votes cast therein, and one for each fraction of eight or over, to-wit:

Round Valley	2	Georges Creek	3
Lincoln	4	Lone Pine	8
Laws	2	Cerro Gordo	1
Bishop	6	Keeler	2
East Bishop	1	Olancha	1
Poleta	1	Darwin	3
Big Pine	6	Modock	2
Fish Springs	2	Panamint	2
Taboose	2	Mountain Springs	1
Independence	7	Ballarat	1
Citrus	1		56

Polls are to be open from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock p. m., at the following places and under charge of the following officers, viz:

Round Valley—Inspector, John S. McGee; Judges, John Shipley and I. F. Smith. Polls at the school House.

Lincoln—Inspector, John Barlow; Judges, T. F. Hutchison and Thos. Thompson. Polls at School House

Laws—Inspector, Barton McGee; Judges, Jas. McNally and John Dehy. Polls at the School House.

Bishop—Inspector, Jno. E. Meroney; Judges, H. N. Gunter and A. L. McGee Polls at Court House.

East Bishop—Inspector, W. L. Coats; Judges D. A. Bradshaw and A Dell. Polls at office of W. J. Dunn.

Poleta—Inspector, George Storey; Judges, T. J. Reed and L. B Heise. Polls at Collins' House.

Big Pine—Inspector, Geo. E Mitchell; Judges, W. P. Baker and Geo. W. Hall. Polls at Callow's Hall.

Fish Springs—Inspector, Jas Jones; Judges, A. W. H. Smith and J. H. Coe. Polls at School House

Taboose—Inspector, L. C Montague; Judges, Jos Hall and J. W. Harbaugh. Polls at School House.

Independence—Inspector, George W. Brady; Judges, A. V Davidson and David Stubblefield Polls at School House.

Citrus—Inspector, J. A. Pfohl; Judges, ——— and W. H. Ramsey. Polls at Pfohl's House.

Georges Creek—Inspector, J. S. Hunter; Judges, John Strohmeyer and J. W. Calbreath. Polls at School House.

Lone Pine—Inspector, Felix Meysan; Judges, Abraham Diaz and N. L. Apple Polls at School House

Cerro Gordo—Inspector, Patrick Clinton, Judges, J. Kelly and Jos. Stoffle Polls at Clinton's House.

Teeler—Inspector, J. J Morton; Judges, Sam'l Levy and Mike Auton Polls at School House.

Olancha—Inspector, Jas W. Brown; Judges, W. T. Grant and W H. Walker Polls at Walker's House

Darwin—Inspector, Paul Pfefferle; Judges, Henry Jackson and Henry Mettler. Polls at Store.

Modock—Inspector, John Doody; Judges Thos. Gunn and Arthur Smith Polls at Minnietta Boarding House.

Mountain Springs—Inspector, A. V. Lewis, Judges, H. C. Hamilton and J. M Davis. Polls at Company's Office.

Ballarat—Inspector, T. H. Henebry; Judges R. Decker and J. McHugh. Polls at Decker's Office.

Panamint—Inspector, John Curran; Judges, F. Russell and Pat Langley. Polls at Store.

VOTING TEST:

Are you now in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold by the United States at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of any other nation?

E. ROBINSON, Chairman.
I. H. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

SODA WATER .....

..... ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

NO. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates. Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop, Cal.
C. E. JOHNSON.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,
PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

CHAS. DEMITRUS,

TONSORIAL ARTIST

Norman House, Independence.

SHAVING, 15 cents; Hair-Cut, 25 cents; Children's Hair Cutting, 15 cents. First-class work guaranteed.

HORSESHOEING

AND

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE.
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
DRY-GOODS, CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS.....25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING.....25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING.....$2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv	10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6		11:25 a m		4:45 p m
Clifton	18		12:10 p m		4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26		12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38		1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	42		1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	46		2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	94		2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	98		3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Gillis	78		3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100		5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
		No. 3.		No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv	6:00 a m	Ar	7:25 p m
Kinkead	113		6:37 a m		6:48 p m
Luning	125		7:10 a m		6:15 p m
New Boston	131		7:30 a m		5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137		7:50 a m		5:34 p m
Rhodes	142		8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	150		8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	152		9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar	9:30 a m	Lv	3:50 p m
Junction			10:10 a m	Ar	3:25 p m
Basalt	167		11:10 a m		2:25 p m
Summit	175		12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	183		12:50 p m		12:35 p m
Benton	193		1:30 p m		11:50 a m
Hammill	204		2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv	3:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	239		4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbets	253		4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	267		5:35 p m		7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281		6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290		6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar	7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—or soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.		LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO
Reno	Lv	8:15 a m	Lv	1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs		8:37 a m		2:26 p m
Franktown		9:05 a m		3:05 p m
Carson		9:30 a m		3:45 p m
Mound House		10:12 a m		5:45 p m
Gold Hill		10:55 a m		6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar	11:05 a m	Ar	6:55 p m
	TO RENO.		TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv	5:55 p m	Lv	7:45 a m
Gold Hill		6:06 p m		7:56 a m
Mound House		6:48 p m		8:30 a m
Carson		7:10 p m		9:55 a m
Franktown		7:44 p m		10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs		8:08 p m		11:13 a m
Reno	Ar	8:30 p m	Ar	11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE ITEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

HOITT'S SCHOOL FOR BOYS,

At Burlingame, San Mateo county, Cal., is one of the most thorough, careful and practical "Home School" to be found on the Pacific Coast. Accredited at State and Stanford Universities. Thorough preparation for business. Send for catalogue. IRA G. HOITT, Ph. D., Principal. Re-opens Aug. 9th.

Sunday-school Teacher—What is the lesson we are to draw from this war with Spain? Little Willie Wicklemeyer—They ain't no lesson in it fer us. We're teachin' Spain a lesson.

REDUCTION IN BICYCLE PRICES.

It is said that western capitalists are contemplating the organization of a great bicycle company, which hopes to make first-class wheels and sell them as low as $10. Whether this be true or not, the fact remains that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a first-class remedy for the stomach, liver and blood, and the price puts it within everybody's reach to be well and strong. For fever and ague it is a specific.

Groom—A ring round the moon is a sign of rain. Bride (sweetly)—And a ring round a woman's finger is the sign of——. Groom (sadly)—Reign.

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. Allen's Foot-Ease cures swollen, smarting feet or tight shoes and makes walking easy. It cools the feet and makes sweating feet, blisters and callous spots rest easy. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps, trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Some people find spelling Pague's name with the letter——c inserted.

CIGAR RIBBONS.

A collection of cigar ribbons will be sent for 25 cts. to Globe Cigar Co., 1194 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

"I have my prompt use of Piso's Cure for consumption."—Mrs. Lucy Gillaspie, Marquette, Kans., Dec. 12, '95.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Victorious

America's Greatest Medicine Conquers Disease and Suffering.

Impure blood is the foe of mankind, the cause and promoter of scrofula, salt rheum, boils, sores, pimples and eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, malaria, and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes these diseases by making the blood rich and pure.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure indigestion. 25 cents.

SAVING GRACE OF A HOBBY.

It Revives Hope and Enthusiasm and Makes Life Worth Living.

"A priceless thing is a hobby. The daily tasks by which hosts of women support life are favorless, barren, almost hopeless. To such ones a hobby may offer the dearest hopes of ultimate freedom from the unwelcome daily task. It will at any rate serve to entertain and give point and flavor to an otherwise blank existence," is the position taken by Carrie E. Garrett discussing "Woman's Dreams and Hobbies" in The Woman's Home Companion.

"Hobbies have the power to concentrate and absorb the scattered energies which might otherwise be expended in purposeless flirtations, building superfluous bonnets, reading cheap sensations, gossiping away precious moments, picking out our friends' foibles, dissecting our own emotions and wishing vaguely for everything which is attainable. If the hobby did nothing else but prevent these frivolities, it would be a boon to humanity.

"Man found out the value of hobbies long ago. Almost every man who is good for anything has a purpose which he thinks is quite the most magnificent one which a man could pursue. It is no matter whether it is lawmaking, pillmaking or shoemaking, he pursues it with absorbing enthusiasm and strives to make the best laws or pills or shoes (as the case may be) to be found anywhere.

"Woman has found that it is not enough to merely look pretty; that love cannot be her 'whole existence' (the poet to the contrary notwithstanding), and that even with the richest plenitude of gowns, jewels and enjoyments life still needs a purpose. If it is at all a respectable purpose and pursued with general zeal, it cannot fail to thrive and increase and bear fruit."

Cuban Bric-a-brac In Vogue.

Curiosities and bric-a-brac from Cuba are now slowly coming into vogue. Oddly enough, they were quite fashionable 40 and 50 years ago. A favorite and one of the most beautiful objects imaginable is a bunch of crystals from one of the famous caverns in the limestone district. Some of these are as clear as rock crystal, and are not alone many faceted but are often covered in part with masses of large and small crystals of great brilliancy. When the faceting occurs in certain patterns, the crystal has the fire of a precious stone and, in a well lighted parlor will throw colored lights and fires in every direction. Still another beautiful object is a mass of fine fern leaf coral, which is found near the keys in the middle and eastern part of the island. Some of this is so delicate that it suggests a petrified cobweb.—Margherita Arlina Hamm in New York Mail and Express.

In ten years the school attendance in Buffalo has more than doubled, although the population has not increased in any such proportion.

DEAR MADAM:

Your bread needn't smell of soda or alum or lime.

Schilling's Best baking powder has no lime or alum or excess of soda. 43

"WHEN Joe Peterman and Polly May get married," was a standing jest in Pineville.

Joe and Polly lived on adjoining five-acre lots, with only a fence between them. It was not a very high fence nor a strong one either, for it was almost rotted down in many places.

It was said that years ago Joe and Polly had been sweethearts, but that they had quarreled about some trifling matter, and that they had not spoken to each other since that day.

Jonessy had just been elected justice of Pineville, and was looking around to see where the fees of the office were to come from.

As there was nothing for him to do in the office, he thought that it was his duty to go outside of it and hunt up something. In debating the question with himself as to what would be most likely to bring him in a fee, his mind, of course, turned to marriages.

"When Joe Peterman and Polly May get married," he repeated to himself, smiling. "Well, it is a duty I owe to this community to end that quarrel of theirs the first thing, and it is a duty I owe to myself to see that they get married as soon afterward as possible."

So Jonessy took a walk out to Joe Peterman's place, and found the latter at home.

"Joe," he said, after some talk on subjects in general, "Joe, I came out to see you on official business."

Joe's eyes flew wide open.

"I haven't been doing anything wrong, have I?" he asked, with trembling voice.

The truth was that Joe had thrown a brickbat at Polly's cat the night before, and without really intending to do so, had hit her and knocked her out of his favorite peach tree, and had felt rather mean about it ever since.

"Well, I don't know," Jonessy replied, cautiously, for he could see that Joe had something on his mind, and thought to draw him out. "You see, Joe, the right and the wrong generally depends on the circumstances attending the case."

"That's what I reckoned," said Joe. "You see I saw her coming through the fence, and tried to make her go back."

"And she wouldn't go?"

"No."

"What did you do next?"

"Soon as I spoke she ran up that peach tree, and went to clawing and scratching the bark."

"She did, eh?"

"She did. Then I got mad, like a fool," said Joe, hanging his head. "I picked up a brickbat and threw it at her, and down she came, kicking her legs like drumsticks."

"Didn't she say anything?" asked Jonessy.

"Who?"

"Why, Polly May, of course."

"You didn't think that it was Polly I treated that way, did you?" asked Joe.

"No, hardly. But who was it?"

"It was Polly's cat, Jonessy. I thought that perhaps Polly had seen it, and gone to you and entered a complaint against me."

"No, she hasn't done it yet, Joe, but there is no telling how soon she may do so," said Jonessy. Then he added, confidentially, "If I were you I'd go over and see her and settle the whole thing out of court."

After Jonessy left him Joe stood and scratched his head for some time. The whole thing was a puzzle to him. Had Jonessy known more than he pretended? If so, had Polly told him? And if Polly had, was it at her suggestion that Jonessy had come and told him to go and see her?

"It is ten years since we spoke," he mused, with a sad smile, while a mocking bird was singing blithely in a tree close by.

Then suddenly he burst out laughing. "The idea of Polly climbing a tree," he cried. "And me throwing brickbats at her, and she falling—ha-ha-ha!"

But Jonessy walked homeward in quite a different mood. Somehow he felt that his mission had been rather a failure. Still, every once in-awhile, a gleam of hope darted upward and he thought that he could see a fee of office afar off.

As he walked along, musing and dreaming he found himself suddenly face to face with a woman carrying a huge basket on her arm.

"How do you do, Judge?" she cried, cheerily, letting her basket down to the ground. "I was real glad to hear that you was elected."

"Thank you, Polly. I was just thinking about you when you bobbed up," said Jonessy. "Have just been over to see your neighbor, Joe Peterman, and was on my way home with my thoughts full of both of you."

Polly frowned.

"Joe isn't going to have me to court, is he?" she asked.

"Can't say, Polly. I reckon that depends as much on you as on him."

"Well, he had no business coming in through the window like he did," Polly cried. "It served him only right that the window fell down on him like it did and caught him by the leg. Of course, when I grabbed him by the throat to keep him from squalling, and he cut me on the wrist, I was mad enough to kill him. But I kept my temper, and I didn't hurt him any more than I could help," she protested.

"But Joe didn't——" Jonessy began.

"Of course Joe didn't. Joe never would listen to reason," cried Polly.

"But, Polly, Joe——" Jonessy began again.

"That's all right, Jim Jonessy; you have Joe's side of the story, and I am going to tell mine," cried Polly. "After I got him loose I bothered with him all day, and doctored him, and that night, after dark, I carried him in my arms to the fence and set him down on the other side."

"Goodness, Polly, you don't mean to tell me that you carried him in your arms?" Jonessy exclaimed.

"Well, I just did, and I'll swear to it before Joe or anybody."

"I wouldn't do it if I was you," said Jonessy, earnestly. "Why, there isn't a soul in Pineville would believe you could do it."

"Could do what?"

"Why, carry Joe Peterman in your arms, of course."

"Jim Jonessy, you are a fool!" she cried, very red in the face. "It is Joe's old Dominick rooster I have been talking about."

"Why, yes, of course," stammered Jonessy, in confusion, trying to smile. "I was just teasing you, Polly, knowing that you and Joe were such old friends."

"But did Joe say he was going to take me to court?" she asked.

"Not exactly, but I advised him to go and talk the matter over with you. Say, Polly, you two ought to make up. You take my advice," said Jonessy.

Then Jonessy went one way and Polly went the other, each one busy with many thoughts.

That evening Mrs. Jonessy asked her husband how many fees the new office had brought him.

"This is the first day, you know," he smiled faintly. "I have just been setting the wheels in motion to-day, and the fees will come in after awhile."

"Yes; when Joe Peterman and Polly May get married," she said, laughing.

Jonessy had accomplished something that day. He had set Joe and Polly thinking about each other. Joe's long, lantern-jawed face, usually sober and solemn, had relaxed into smiles several times, and once he had actually caught himself humming an old song that had lain forgotten for years within him. On the other hand, Polly's round and rosy face, that was supposed to wear a smile even in sleep, was very thoughtful and sad. And while bending above the steam from the fragrant teapot, at the supper table, her eyes seemed filled with unshed tears.

"Poor Joe," she sighed, as she sat down to her lonely meal. "I thought sure that he would get over it and marry some one else, but it seems that he doesn't care any more than I do for anybody, and both of us just persist in being wrong, when only a word from either of us would make things so different."

Just then a cat came in at the open door, and when Polly saw that it limped slightly on one leg she sprang up from the table and caught it in her arms.

"Poor Kitty," she murmured. "I wonder who hurt you? You can't tell, can you?"

"I can," said a manly voice in the doorway, and a moment later Joe entered the room. "Jonessy told me today that you intended to sue me for throwing a brickbat at your cat," he said.

Polly eyed her visitor closely for a moment, and seeing that his eyes were upon her supper table instead of upon herself, the hard lines that had come around her lips relaxed into a smile.

"Come in, Joe," she said, gently. "Will you take a cup of tea with me?"

"Then you ain't mad because I crippled your cat?"

"Joe," she cried, trying to look severe, "will you take a cup of tea with me?"

"Yes. You ain't mad, Polly?"

Polly did not reply, but busied herself refilling the teapot, and making room for him at the table.

When Joe was seated at the table Polly sat down opposite to him and watched him in silence for several minutes.

"So Jim Jonessy has been telling you that I was about to take you to court for crippling my cat, has he?" she said at last. "I met him when he came from your house, and he hinted that you might have me prosecuted because your old Dominick rooster came over here and got himself crippled the other day."

"I never said no such thing, Polly," cried Joe.

"Nor did I," said Polly.

"I never mentioned rooster to him."

"And I never said cat."

"I wonder how he found out?" cried Joe.

"I guess our consciences gave it away. When I think of it now, he never said rooster to me until I had told him all about it myself," said Polly, smiling.

"I remember now, that it was the same with me and the cat," said Joe. "I know I wanted to tell you how sorry I was, and it was all I could think of when Jonessy came to see me."

"I am sorry, too, Joe," said Polly, "and I hope you won't think that I done it on purpose."

Somehow the summer dusk gathered around them, and neither seemed to notice it, as they talked on and on across the table between them. After awhile, however, Polly rose and went to the open door, where Joe followed her.

"Say, Polly," he said, taking her unresisting hand, "I have been sorry for everything all these years; won't you say that you forgive me?"

Polly looked up into his face.

"I have been sorry, too, Joe. Oh! so sorry."

Now, in Pineville, a good many things are dated from the time "when Joe Peterman and Polly May got married."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"I CAN," SAID A MANLY VOICE IN THE DOORWAY.

Three Kinds of Kisses.

The kiss was unkown, I think, among the aboriginal tribes of America and of Central Africa, writes Dr. D. G. Brinton, in Science. From the most ancient times, however, it has been familiar to the Asiatic and European races. The Latins divided it into three forms—the osculum, the basium and the suavium; the first the kiss of friendship and respect, the second of ceremony and the third of love. The Semites also knew the kiss, and Job speaks of it as part of the sacred rites, as it is to-day in the Roman church.

The Mongolian kiss, however, is not the same as that which prevails with us. In it the lips do not touch the surface of the person kissed. The nose is brought into light contact with the cheek, forehead or hand; the breath is drawn slowly through the nostrils, and the act ends with a slight smack of the lips. The Chinese consider our mode of kissing full of coarse suggestiveness, and our writers regard their method with equal disdain. Darwin and other naturalists have attempted to trace back the kiss to the act of the lower animals who seize their prey with their teeth.

Composing Music.

Sir Arthur Sullivan discourses interestingly to an interviewer about his methods of work. It appears that there is a vast deal of drudgery and manual labor in the work of musical composition which cannot be avoided or delegated to another—much more than in the case of literary composition. But the two are alike in this, says Sir Arthur, that it is as vain in the one as in the other to "wait for an inspiration." This seems to him very like "a miner seated on the top of a shaft and waiting for the coal to come bubbling up."—New York Evening Post.

Ill-Omened East Wind.

There are twenty-two allusions in the Bible to the east wind, nineteen of them being of a disparaging character.

Between the farmer and Uncle Sam, any man who doesn't get a job at marching or following a farm horse in a field, should be married off to some New Woman who will support him.

The lantern that the law compels wheelmen to carry is a sort of legal light.

A Total Disability Claim of $1,650 Paid to a Man who was Afterward Cured.

The Monitor, a newspaper published at Meaford, Ont., Canada, first discovered this case two years ago, and published it at length, which now seems, owing to the cure of it, to be a miracle. The facts were so remarkable that many people doubted the truth of them. They said "It is too remarkable; it cannot possibly be true; the paper is mistaken, and the man, although he may think himself cured, will soon relapse into his former condition," etc., etc. The accuracy of its report called in question, the Monitor determined to find out definitely whether the facts were as stated and whether the man would really stay cured. They accordingly kept a close watch on the case for two years after the first article appeared, and have just now published another article about it in which the original reports are completely verified, the cure is permanent, and they publish a fac simile of the check given by the Canadian Mutual Life Association for $1650.00 amount of total disability claim paid by them to Mr. Petch.

The first account stated that the patient (see address below) had been a paralytic for five years, that there was such a total lack of feeling in his limbs and body, that a pin run full length could not be felt; that he could not walk or help himself at all; for two years he was not dressed; furthermore, that he was bloated was for that reason almost unrecognizable, and could not get his clothes on. The paralysis was so complete as to affect the face and prevented him from opening his mouth sufficiently wide to take solid food. The doctors called the disease spinal sclerosis, and all said he could not live.

For three years he lingered in this condition. Then by some friends he was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He took them and there was a slight change. The first thing noted was a tendency to sweat freely. This showed there was some life left in his helpless body. Next came a little feeling in his limbs. This extended, followed by prickling sensations, until at last the blood began to course freely, naturally and vigorously through his body, and the helplessness gave way to returning strength, the ability to walk returned, and he was restored to his old time health.

The above is the substance of the first article published by the Monitor. Now follow some clippings, taken from the same paper two years afterward, and there is not the slightest shadow of a doubt, in view of this testimony, that Mr. Petch's cure is permanent. Here follows the account:

On being again questioned, Mr. Petch said: "You see those hands—the skin is now natural and elastic. Once they were hard and without sensation. You could pierce them with a pin and I would not feel it, and what is true of my hands is true of the rest of my body. Perhaps you have observed that I have now even ceased to use a cane, and can get about my business perfectly well. You may say there is absolutely no doubt as to my cure being permanent. Indeed I am in even better health than when I gave you the first interview."

"Do you still attribute your cure to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?" asked the Monitor.

"Unquestionably I do," was the reply. "Doctors had failed, as had also the numerous remedies recommended by my friends. Nothing I took had the slightest effect upon me until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To this wonderful medicine I owe my release from the living death. I have since recommended these pills to many of my friends, and the verdict is always in their favor. I shall always bless the day I was induced to take them."

Such is the history of one of the most remarkable cases of modern times. Can any one say, in the face of such testimony, that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not entitled to the careful consideration of any suffering man, woman or child? Is not the case in truth a miracle of modern medicine?

To make the evidence complete we publish above a fac simile cut of the check received by Mr. Petch from the Canadian Mutual Life Association, being the amount due him for total disability. It is unnecessary to add that this life insurance association did not pay this large amount of money to Mr. Petch, except after the most careful examination of his condition by their medical experts. They must have regarded him as forever incurable.

Mr. Petch's address is as follows: Reuben Petch, Griersville, Ont., Canada.

He Did Not Recognize Whey.

The special correspondent of a well known trades paper furnished a most satisfactory laugh awhile ago for a friend of his who lives up in northern New York state, and he does not know it yet. He had gone up the state to visit some mill or other, and the before mentioned friend volunteered to drive him over to his destination. Now, while the special correspondent has a wonderfully general fund of information he knows little about the country, and when they were passing a large cheese factory he exclaimed: "Why, there's a creamery! Just wait a minute while I go in and get a drink of buttermilk."

With this he jumped out of the carriage and entered the building. My country friend says that whey is not pleasant to take and that even the pigs won't eat it. But when the special correspondent asked for buttermilk the people in the factory gave him a big glass of thin, aciduous liquid, which he swallowed down at a draft. The drive was then continued. The special correspondent seemed to be very thoughtful. He finally exclaimed in his explosive fashion:

"Well, Smith, I don't know what breed of cows you raise up here, but that was the darndest buttermilk I ever tasted."—Paper Mill.

Two Steps at a Time.

One evidence of the ever hustling characteristics of the average New Yorker is shown on the stairways of the up town station of the elevated railroad at Park place and Church street. The steps of these stairways are covered with rubber, but every other step has large iron rings imbedded in the rubber.

This was caused by the fact that the New Yorker is never content to wait even one minute for a train, and that when he hears one approaching as he is at the foot of the stairs he will rush up the stairs two steps at a time hoping to catch the train.

As a result the elevated railroad officials noticed that the rubber matting on every other step was wearing out twice as quickly as the rest. For a long time they pondered as to the cause, and one day Manager Fransioli solved the problem. To know was to act in his case, and the steel re-enforced rubber now lasts if anything longer than the ordinary mats on the other steps.—New York Sun.

To be perfectly proportioned a man should weigh 28 pounds for every foot of his height.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known

Yellow Label

on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

MADE ONLY BY

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.,

Dorchester, Mass.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION 25 CTS
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

Ancient Playing Cards.

The ancient Tarot packs were the earliest playing cards known to our forefathers. They consisted of 72, 77 or 78 cards. These cards are still used in remote parts of Italy, France and Switzerland and are made in Florence, the designs being handed down from generation to generation.

Ostriches, which are supposed to flourish only in very warm climates, have been raised successfully in southern Russia, the feathers being of good quality and the birds healthy.

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.
Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEDDLE

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

BUY THE GENUINE SYRUP OF FIGS

... MANUFACTURED BY ...

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

☞ NOTE THE NAME.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

☞ This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

S. F. N. U. No. 839. New Series, No. 30

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 26, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 11. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 26, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1482.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	120
One Month	40
Single Copies	10

THE CAPTAIN'S BOY.

My papa come home yesterday and said to mamma he Had just got word to start away and help set Cuba free.
My mamma looked at him awhile and went up to his side,
And took his hands and tried to smile, but couldn't—so she cried.

My papa's captain of the Blues—they're soldier boys, you know,
And so we've been expecting news that he would have to go,
And every night my mamma tried to show she didn't care;
But through the day she cried and cried, when papa wasn't there.

And so when papa saw how bad she felt, he kissed her then,
And told her not to be so sad, for he'd come back again,
And then we all sat there awhile, and papa looked at me—
I wisht they was some other style of setting people free.

"Why must you go away to fight?" my mamma said, at last;
"I don't believe that war is right—the day for that is past!
Why must they call on you, for oh, what wrong have you to battle for?
Why don't they just have people go who got the country into war?"

"I haven't anything to say about the wrong or right,"
My papa said, "I go away, when they tell me to, and fight;
I'm not supposed to think or know—all I have got to do
Is take up arms at once and go, when others tell me to."

My mamma covered up her face and had to cry again,
And everything about the place seemed kind of solemn, then,
And so we all sat there awhile, and papa looked at me,
And I wisht they was some other style of setting people free.
—Cleveland Leader.

THE RETURN OF ULYSSES.

JOSEPH BINNS walked rapidly away. Excitement reddened his cheeks. His eyes glittered. Gradually the mood worked off, his steps slackened, and he sighed hard from time to time.

He and his Anne had married too young. He acknowledged the wrong to his wife, and when earning good wages across the seas sent money home to her. But his letter came back through the dead letter office. He walked along the winding lane, not heeding his way. He never thought of Anne as an old woman, nearly as old as himself. He could see her in his mind's eye as she appeared in their courting days. A prettier lass there had not been in the whole country side. Fleet as a deer, timid as a fawn, with soft blue eyes, and such pretty fluffy hair. Sweethearts had plagued her enough, but she flouted them all for Joe's sake.

Then how pretty she had looked when her baby came. He had taken off his boots and crept in on tiptoe to see them. She was lying back on her pillow, her arm round a little bundle of clothes. Her face was white, but lighted with such a beautiful smile, he could think of nothing but a picture he had once seen of the Mother Mary and the Holy Child. The peevish moods, the fretful baby were all later developments, and he had not been patient. God forgive him! the girl was only 20 when he left her! What a fool he had been!

The night advanced. One by one the stars came out and the glow-worms shone in the grass below the hawthorn hedge. All nature seemed nearer to the heart of God. The old man felt himself drawn into the mystery of that magic stillness. A soft, an overwhelming sense of something he had missed through all his life took possession of him. He lifted his white, lined face to the starlit sky of the summer night.

"Our Father," he whispered. "Our Father which art in heaven, so help me I will find her and do my duty by her till I die." He went on talking to himself under his breath for a few minutes, then he gripped his stick, squared his shoulders like an old soldier, and marched steadily ahead into the darkness.

A few days later Lucy Haws set out to pay another visit to her uncle. She walked slowly as she approached a tiny cottage standing back from the lane behind a low briar hedge. The diamond-paned casements were bare, the door nailed up, the garden gate broken on its hinges. An air of neglect and desolation pervaded the little dwelling place. Peering over the hedge with keen curiosity was a man, whom Lucy at first glance took for a tramp.

She could have vowed he was crying when she first looked at his side face, but when he turned at her approach there was such eagerness and hope in his whole mein that she thought she was mistaken.

"Can you tell me who lived here, miss?" he asked, touching his hat politely.

"Yes, certainly," said the girl; "old Widow Jones. Poor thing, she's in the Union now, and there's none to look after her bit of garden. It's in a bad state. She'd fret awful to see it."

"Is it maybe the Widow Jones that was once known as Anne Binns?" he asked, after a quick look over the hedge at the bit of garden.

"Yes, but that was years ago, before I was born; but folks have been talking a great deal about her lately."

Again the man stared over the hedge. Lucy liked the look of him, and waited for him to speak again. But he seemed to have forgotten she was there, so after a last speculating look at his white hair and tall figure she went on her way.

Joseph Binns walked up the path and round the cottage, peeping in at the window back and front. He surveyed the neglected garden, and thought hard for some time. Then he proceeded to the village and hired a small bedroom for a week. When he was going to bed that night he pulled his blind down, and looked carefully to see there was no chink or crack through which his movements could be observed. Then he began to undress.

He wore a moleskin waistcoat, bare with age but still warm and thick. He put the garment across his knee and ripped the lining up the center. After this he thrust in his hand and drew out some rustling papers, which he flattened out and fingered separately with tender care. Joseph Binns had been wise in his generation.

"My poor old girl—she shall have 'em all," he muttered. "I'll do the thing proper and pretty. My word, little Anne won't know herself."

It was pathetic how he still cherished the idea of youth in respect to the woman he was seeking.

The village had delightful food for gossip during the next week.

A stranger took possession of Widow Jones' empty cottage, and each day brought with it some wonderful transformation. The garden was laid out, the window cleaned and decorated, the gate mended, the rooms scrubbed and colored. The climax was reached when a big cart of piled up furniture drew up in the lane.

Then the neighbors came flocking with offers to help, but Joseph Binns admitted no one into his house but Lucy Haws. He had to make a confidant of some one, and Lucy had taken his fancy.

At last all was ready. The cottage was fit for a bride to enter. Lucy clapped her hands with delight. Joe's heart swelled with proud exultation and anticipation. A haven of rest for the waning years of his life with the old sweetheart of his youth. Not a cloud should mar their happiness.

"And now go right away, as quick as ever you can, and fetch her home," said the girl, with a catch in her voice, as she helped the old man into his coat and gave him his hat.

The old man was trembling with emotion. A pony and cart were waiting in the lane. He got in and drove quietly away in the direction of a large gray building standing out against the hill some three miles distant from the village.

The porter came out from the lodge.

"This isn't visiting day," was the gratuitous remark before Joseph Binns in his excited mood could frame a request.

"I've come to fetch some one"—he brought out the words with difficulty—"some one who doesn't need to have to stop here any longer. I'm her lawful husband and want to take her away. Anne Jones is her name—Widow Jones, that was Anne Binns."

Again the porter stared at the old man, then he looked away and said in an even voice void of expression:

"Anne Jones, known as Widow Jones, died at 6 o'clock this morning. Coroner's inquest 'morrow at 'leven, fun'ral at 3."

The old man stood quiet and motionless. The sun beat fiercely down on the white gates. The clock in the tower began to strike, and each stroke rang out like a funeral knell. The horse between the shafts turned its head and stared with almost human eyes on the statue-like figure of the aged man.

And when the clock stopped striking there rose from the golden corn across the road the thrilling song of a soaring lark, which flew towards the sun till only a tiny speck showed darkly against the blue of heaven.—The Englishwoman.

HE FLED IN FRIGHT.

Remarkable Experience of a Hottentot with the German Language.

If any one in speaking to you used the word Hottentotenstrottertrottermutterattentaeterlatten gitterwetterkotterbeutelatte, its harmonious sound would assure you that it was German, and such it really is, being taken from a Dresden paper, Der Weidmann. Here is the explanation of it: Among the Hottentots (Hottentotten) the kangaroos (beutelratte) are very numerous. Many of them roam about the country, free and respected; others, less fortunate, are caught and shut up in a cage (kotter) furnished with a cover (lattengitter), which shelters them from bad weather. These are then called, in German, lattengitterwetterkotter, and the kangaroo, once imprisoned, takes the name of lattengitterwetterkotterbeutelratte. One day an assassin (attentaeter) was arrested, who had killed the Hottentot mother (Hottentotenmutter) of two children, one half-witted, the other a stammerer (strottertrotteb). This mother, in the German tongue, is designated by the word Hottentotenstrattertrottelmutter, from which it follows that the assassin takes the name of Hottentotenstrotertrottelmutterattentaeter. The murderer was shut up in a kangaroo cage (beutelrattenlattengitterwetterkotter), from which he shortly escaped.

But, fortunately, he soon fell into the hands of a Hottentot, who went joyously to the mayor of the village, exclaiming: "I have caught the beutelratte!" "Which one?" asked the mayor; "we have several."

"The attentaeterlattengitterwetterketterbeutelratte."

"Of which attentaeter are you speaking?"

"Of the Hottentotenstrottertrottelmutterattentaeter."

"Then why couldn't you say at once that you had caught the Hottentoten strottertrottel mutterattentaeterlattengitterwetterkotterbeutelratte?"

It is said that the Hottentot fled in affright.—Critic.

An old maid sees a lifelong enemy in every old bachelor she meets.

The man who seeks damages in court is sure to get what he's looking for.

SILK AND WASH GOODS

SUMMER STYLES SHOW NEW MATING OF MATERIALS.

Frivolous Fluffery and Practical Utility and Sense Are Thus Combined to Make Very Attractive Garments—How Taffeta Should Be Trimmed.

Fickle Fashion's Fancies.

New York correspondence:

SUMMER styles this year show one entirely new ruling in the mating of materials. This permits—yes, indorses as extremely fashionable—the combination of silks and wash goods. There is always something offensive in a wash gown so elaborately betrimmed that it is quite evident it cannot go to the tub, and it would seem that a combination of silk and wash stuff could not be effected without thus offending. Models are offered, however, which accomplish the apparently impossible. One of these has the artist's attention here. It was a gown of soft pique, the sort that folds and drapes prettily. The skirt was plain, except for a deep hem with hemstitched top, the stitching being much exaggerated, so that through the openings could be seen the glint of the green silk (it may be lawn) petticoat worn beneath. The bodice was a blouse, its lapping over side turning back in a single rever. This rever was overlaid with very dainty handwork embroidery, finished with ruffle to match, and was set on green taffeta silk that showed softly through the open work. An edge ruffled of the embroidery to match extended to the belt, which was folded green taffeta. Band cuff and frill finished the sleeve to match the rever. A stiff collar of embroidered lawn held by a soft tie of green taffeta completed the costume.

Another pictured response to this ruling is at the left in to-day's illustration. It was of lawn, its bodice blousing softly into the belt, its skirt falling full from the belt with the usual apron or Spanish flounce at the foot. The sleeves were draped full over the bare arm. An elaborate collar of very heavy gold embroidery and elaborate silk braiding was laid over bright cerise satin. This collar extended cape-like over the shoulders and curved almost to the waist, front and back. Its fastening was not traceable, being hidden in the embroidery design on the shoulder. A high folded stock of silk fitted close under the ears completed it. For the tub this is entirely detachable from the gown, as is the belt to match, but is distinctly a part of the gown when worn with it. The lawn in this model was light green over lining lawn of the same shade.

AS TAFFETA IS TRIMMED.

Willowy women are favored by dress styles just now, and that being the case, it is small wonder that graceful, even romantic, elaborations are to the fore. The new style of cloak—call it a cape if you like that better—is one of these. It hangs in natural folds from the shoulders, reaches almost to the foot of the dress in back, and curves from the sides to the fastening at the neck, hanging softly together almost to the waist in front. It is finished all around with a ruffle or a double ruffle, and in some of the shorter models the ruffles are three. The ruffles narrow towards the neck fastening, and the collar is a stiffened frill. In soft cashmere, surah, soft taffeta, broadcloth or almost any material that hangs gracefully the cloak is at its best. As a rule, it is made in delicate colors, and silver-gray is lovely. The original of this sketch was soft gray cloth unlined. For a carriage garment it is most fit, or for country walking. It is often lined with very light weight silk, but quite as often is unlined.

A LATTER-DAY BLUE SERGE.

The polonaise, real or in effect, more often the latter, crops out constantly. So far it is made so elaborately that it does not constitute a bid for very general favor, but that may change, especially since its present exclusiveness will make swell dressers cling to it. As the women of the million are forever copying the women with millions of money, we are likely before long to get it in some form or other. At the right in this illustration is a brand new polonaise design, the gown being bright blue taffeta, the polonaise effect coming from embroidered lace. It was entirely open in front, with Eton jacket lines in the waist portion, while below the belt it continued to slope away, extending to half way down the skirt at the back. A very elaborate collar with enveloping upstanding frills was added, worn frills to match being filled in ed, frills to match being filled in between the Eton-jacket edges. The gown was distinctly novel, and was a very costly affair, the lace being shaped for its use.

THREE NEW TYPES BROUGHT BY SUMMER.

Whether the trimming takes polonaise form or not, it is pretty sure to be elaborate if the dress material is taffeta. Gowns of this silk are the most profusely trimmed ones of the season. Chosen for the third of the accompanying sketches was a gown of turquoise-blue taffeta, with plain trained skirt. The bodice was a glitter with rows of puffed frills of white chiffon brilliantly spangled, the entire bodice above the belt and the top of the sleeves being thus covered. The frills below the belt curved from the side fastening of the belt, three rows being set on. From the left shoulder a panel of white taffeta embroidered in gray and spangled narrowed to the right bust, where it was caught under a black velvet rosette of huge proportions. From here the panel extended in a still narrowing line to the fastening of the belt, and then swept down the skirt.

Summer would hardly be recognizable if it didn't give a chance for blue serge suits. Though the goods remains much the same, and it now is a bit finer of quality, the manner of making it responds quite as sturdily to changes of fashion as do elegant stuffs that do not last as long. In the last of these pictures is the up-to-date blue serge suit. Its skirt trailed and had a Spanish flounce set on in curved lines, several rows of narrow scarlet braid serving as heading. The bodice was slightly bloused, a white muslin frill hiding the buttons in front and extending from collar to belt. Two sets of tucks curved from this frill to the side seams, and rows of scarlet passed over the tucks on each side of the frill from collar to belt, both of the latter being braided. A novel feature was the pair of light braided tabs set below the belt to either side of the front. Under these were commodious pockets.

Copyright, 1898.

Don't go round looking for trouble unless you really want to find it.

ANECDOTE AND INCIDENT

Barthe, the French dramatic author, falling once upon a friend whose opinion he wished to have regarding his new comedy, found him dying, but, notwithstanding, proposed to read the play. "Consider," said the man, "I have not more than an hour to live." "Aye," replied Barthe, "but I assure you that this will occupy only half that time.

A newspaper correspondent at the battle of Atbara was walking softly about the camp so as not to disturb the sleepers on the night before the fight, when he overheard a sentimental Seaforth Highlander say to a comrade: "Ah, Tam, how many thousands there are hame across the sea thinking o' us the nicht." "Right, Sandy," replied his chum; "and how many millions there are that don't care a ——. Go to sleep, you fool."

When Depuy de Lome was Spanish minister at Washington he had something of the reputation of a dinner-table wit. The papers were filled with conjectures as to whether Maceo had or had not been killed by the Spaniards, and at a dinner one evening a well-known Washington lady asked De Lome if "Maceo was really dead." "Madam," said De Lome, with the most courtly manner, "Maceo may not be dead, but he is certainly buried."

While Lincoln was practicing law in Springfield, the fire-hose company, desiring to buy some new apparatus, sent out subscription papers, and one youthful collector called upon the future President. He was closely examined on the purpose of the subscription, and finally Lincoln agreed to subscribe in this fashion: "Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll go home to supper—Mrs. Lincoln is generally good-natured after supper—and then I'll tell her I've been thinking of giving fifty dollars to the brigade, and she'll say: 'Abe, will you never have any sense? Twenty dollars is quite enough.' So to-morrow, my boy, you come around and get your twenty dollars."

Captain Sigsbee tells a story of a man-of-war's man from the Maine who was called before the board of inquiry to testify concerning his experience at the time of the disaster. The old seadog was solemnly sworn, and was then cautioned by Captain Sampson not to indulge in any hearsay statements, but to confine himself absolutely to what he saw and knew. After these impressive preliminaries Captain Sampson said: "Now tell us what you know about the explosion of the Maine." Jacky hitched his quid of tobacco from the left to the right cheek, hitched up his trousers, and said: "I was a-corking it off in me 'ammick and 'eard a noise and waked up in the 'orspital. That's all I know about it, sir."

The late Benjamin H. Brewster, President Arthur's Attorney General, whose face was terribly disfigured by scars, was once engaged in a case as attorney for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the opposing counsel, in his closing speech, made a most brutal attack on him. "The dealings of the railroad," he said, "are as tortuous and twisted as the features of the man who represented it." Mr. Brewster gave no outward sign that he felt this cruel blow until he had finished his argument. Then he said: "For the first time in my life the personal defect from which I suffer has been the subject of public remark. I will tell you how I came by it. When I was 5 years of age, I was one day playing with a younger sister, when she fell into an open grate where a fire was burning. I sprang to her assistance, dragged her from danger, and in doing so I fell myself, with my face upon the burning coals. When I was picked up my face was as black"—and his finger transfixed his antagonist—"as that man's heart."

A lady was traveling from Providence to Boston with her weak-minded father. Before they arrived he became possessed of a fancy that he must get off the train while it was still in motion; that some absolute duty called him. His daughter endeavored to quiet him, but it was difficult to do it, and she was just giving up in despair, when she noticed a very large man watching the proceedings intently over the top of his newspaper. As soon as he caught her eye he rose and crossed quickly to her. "I beg your pardon," he said, "you are in trouble. May I help you?" She explained the situation to him. "What is your father's name?" he asked. She told him, and the large man, leaning toward the troubled man, had addressed him by name, shaken hands cordially, and engaged him in a conversation so interesting and so cleverly arranged to keep his mind occupied, that he forgot his need to leave the train, and did not think of it again until they were in Boston. Here the stranger put the lady and her charge into a carriage, received her assurance that she felt perfectly safe, had cordially shaken her hand, and was about to close the carriage door, when she remembered that she had felt so safe in the keeping of this noble-looking man that she had not even asked his name. Hastily putting her hand against the door, she said: "Pardon me, but you have rendered me such a service, may I not know whom I am thanking?" The big man smiled as he answered, "Phillips Brooks," and turned away.

Peter the Great as Wrestler.

One of the stories of Peter the Great which President Faure heard during his stay in St. Petersburg was of the young dragoon. Once in the imperial palace—so the story goes—Peter was at table with a great many princes and noblemen, and soldiers were posted within the hall. The czar was in a joyous mood, and, rising, called out to the company, "Listen, princes and boyars! Is there among you one who will wrestle with me, to pass the time and amuse the czar?" There was no reply, and the czar repeated his challenge. No prince or nobleman dared wrestle with his sovereign. But all at once a young dragoon stepped out from the ranks of the soldiers on guard. "Listen, orthodox czar," he said; "I will wrestle with thee!" "Well, young dragoon," said Peter, "I will wrestle with thee, but on these conditions—if thou throwest me, I will pardon thee; but, if thou art thrown, thou shalt be beheaded. Wilt thou wrestle on those conditions?" "I will, great czar!" said the soldier. They closed, and presently the soldier, with his left arm, threw the czar, and with his right he prevented him from falling to the ground. The sovereign was clearly beaten. The czar offered the soldier whatever reward he should claim; and the soldier ignobly claimed the privilege of drinking free, as long as he lived, in all the inns belonging to the crown. What became of him history does not say.

WHAT THE LAW DECIDES.

The right of a city to forfeit the franchise of a street-railway company for breach of the condition on which it was granted is sustained, in Tower vs. Tower & S. St. Railroad Company (Minn.) 38, L. R. A. 541, where the company had become insolvent and failed to operate the road for more than one year.

The rule that a pedestrian should stop, look and listen before attempting to cross a railroad track was applied, in Hoelzel vs. Crescent City Railroad Company (La.) 38, L. R. A. 708, to a person crossing an electric street railway.

The right of a street railway company to use the trolley system without the sanction of the Mayor and City Council is sustained in Hooper vs. Baltimore City Passenger Railroad Company (Md.) 38, L. R. A. 509, where its charter authorized the use of any motive power which those authorities might sanction or which should be authorized to be made use of in the city by another corporation, while the Legislature has subsequently given other companies the right to use the trolley system in that city.

Where testimony as to insanity had been given both by expert and nonexpert witnesses, it is held, in Ryder vs. State (Ga.) 38, L. R. A. 721, that it is error to charge the jury that the testimony of the experts was entitled to great weight, and also that of parties who associated with the person in question and lived in the same community, but it is said to be better to leave all these matters to be weighed by the jury and let them determine the probative value of the testimony of each witness. With this case is an extensive note concerning nonexpert opinions as to sanity or insanity.

My Neighbor as Myself.

Success tells this story of Henry Ward Beecher. Addressing his congregation at one time Mr. Beecher told of a man who had always been lucky and who bought a farm in Pennsylvania on which he discovered very large oil deposits. Another man, who had worked very hard all his life to save five or six thousand dollars, thought he would buy the adjoining farm and make his fortune in oil also. He purchased it and began to bore, but seemed to strike obstacles innumerable until his money was all exhausted. Saturday night was coming and his men were clamoring for money, but he had none to give them. They had struck solid rock in their borings, and there was no possibility of the poor man getting capital enough to proceed until he should strike oil. So in this unfortunate extremity he went to his lucky neighbor and told him his pitable condition, begging him to buy the farm.

"It is all I have," said he, "and it has taken me a lifetime to get the few thousand dollars which I have spent and lost on this farm."

The neighbor protested that he did not want the land; that he had all he needed; but the poor man pressed so hard that he finally succeded in getting a check for $6,000 for his farm.

This was Saturday. The unfortunate man was able to pay his workmen, and was happy to be out of the disastrous venture. But the purchaser of the farm requested the men to keep right on boring in the rock, and said he would pay them. Hardly four days passed before they struck oil in abundance; and, when the former owner of the farm heard of this, it seemed as though he couldn't get to the purchaser of the farm quickly enough, to see if he could buy it again.

"But I told you I did not want it," said the buyer. "You urged me to take it, telling a pitiful story of losing your hard-earned capital. I took it under protest."

But the man pleaded and expostulated, and the buyer finally sold the farm back again for just what he had given.

"Now," said Mr. Beecher, "all in this congregation who would have done the same thing rise."

Not a person stood.

What It Meant.

Chollie—The idea of a man sending a business letter with a P. S."

Chapple—Doosid bad form, surely.

Chollie—But that isn't the worst of it. In this case it means "Please settle."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Some people believe they are honest because they refuse to carry off an umbrella bearing an engraved plate with the owner's name on it.

A prisoner must be deeply interested in the testimony of a witness when he hangs on his words.

JOLLY JOKER.

"I guess I'll wed and settle down," said Krupp. He wedded, now he's settling up.—Cornell Widow.

"Did you ever notice the expression of the face of the Venus de Milo?" "Oh, yes; she looks all broke up."—Truth.

"Some queer poetry has sprung up out of this Cuban affair." "Yes. Isn't it marvelous how war has been staved off so long?"—Philadelphia North American.

"Louise coaxed her mother for an hour before she secured permission to accept Mr. Widderly's Christmas gift." "Well?" "And then he didn't send her anything."—Chicago Record.

First Poet—I am going to have my revenge upon the editor. Second Poet—How? First Poet (in a hoarse whisper)—I've sent to him a poem, and I've poisoned the gum on the return envelope.—London Fun.

Willie—Do grown people ever get childish? Mamma—Yes; in old age. Why? Willie—'Cause when papa was trying to find the electric bell last night he hollered, "Button, button, who's got the button?"—Judge.

"It is sad," murmured the Musing Theorizer, "to think that every man has his price." "Yes," admitted the Intensely Practical Worker, "and it is a sad fact that half the time he can't get it."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I suppose classical music is all right in its place," said Maud. "I'm sure it is," replied Mamie; "I don't care to listen to it myself, but sometimes you have to play it in order to get a man to go home."—Washington Star.

"Want a situation as errand boy, do you? Well, can you tell me how far the moon is from the earth, eh?" Boy—Well, guy'nor, I don't know, but I reckon it ain't near enough to interfere with me running errands." He got the job.—Ex.

Inventor—I'm working on an appliance that will revolutionize things in this country if I succeeed in perfecting it. Friend—That so? What is it? Inventor—An air-brake that will stop a grocery bill in half its own length.—Chicago News.

"She is very frigid in her manner," remarked Willie Wishington. "Perhaps," was the reply, "but she has a heart of gold." "So I have been informed. But I am tired of trying to cross a conversational Chilkoot Pass in order to reach it."—Washington Star.

A countryman walked into a newspaper office to advertise the death of a relative. "What is your charge?" he asked of the clerk. "We charge two dollars per inch." "Oh!" said the countryman, "I can't afford that; my friend was six feet three inches."—Tid Bits.

A vindication: "Have you anything to say?" asked the sheriff, as he strapped the murderer in the electric chair. "I just want to point out what fools those people were who said I was born to be hanged," replied the criminal, with a smile of triumph.—Philadelphia North American.

Manager—Look here, Mr. Plotz, I believe in realism; but I don't think it is necessary to carry it to such extremes. Author—What is that? Manager—Why, in the second act of this new play of yours the servant is required to break fifty dollars' worth of bric-a-brac every night!—Puck.

Brother Goodman—Ah, it grieves me to hear of Brother Hunker's death. We can ill afford to lose such men. Deacon Kinders—It is a great loss, but let us take it philosophically. His widow will now probably furnish the memorial window that we need to complete our set.—Cleveland Leader.

"I wonder what the reason of a man's natural aversion to shopping is," he remarked, as his wife, with a frown, inspected some purchases he had made for her. "It is a wise provision of nature," she answered, with a sigh; "it prevents a great deal of good money from being wasted." —Washington Star.

A Glens Falls teacher was trying to impress on the class the lessons of Washington's birthday, and among other questions she asked: "If the Southern Confederacy had succeeded, what would Washington have been the father of?" "Twins," was the prompt reply of one of the boys.—New York Tribune.

"You have called me a liar," shouted the angry citizen to the offensive citizen, "and you will live to regret that speech, sir." "That jest shows the difference in fellers," remarked Cowboy Bill, who happened to be present; "when a man calls me a liar, he don't live to regret it. No, sir!"—Pick-Me-Up.

She was reading in a low, thrilling voice: "When the packing begins in earnest, it seems as though there could be no spot on the earth's surface unshaken." He roused himself from a somnolent attitude in an easy-chair. "Who wrote that, Marie? He's been through it, whoever he is. I wonder whom he married?" "Why, you great stupid," said she, "it's Nansen writing about the ice."—Household Words.

Fuddy—Talk about savink women! I suppose my wife is the most economical woman going. Duddy—What has she been doing now? Fuddy—She has been wanting a new cloak, and the other day she said, "I wish I had fifty dollars to get that cloak with." Then she thought a moment, and added, "No, I won't be extravagant. I wish I had forty dollars. Perhaps I might be able to get it for that." Now, that's what I call economy."—Boston Transcript.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, AUGUST 26 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L. HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

Again has Admiral Dewey shown the excellent stuff that is in him—demonstrated that he is a diplomat as well as a warrior, and that he is equally at home in taking care of Governments as in capturing them. His assault upon Manila, resulting in its surrender by the Spanish authorities, at the time that Spain and the United States were considering proposals of peace, might not receive the approval of an incompetent and ludicrous Board of Strategy, but at the same time it was a master stroke in its way. It has relieved the situation of many embarrassing questions that would have arisen to harass us and would have helped to feed the jealous greed of Kaiser Wilhelm. At the same time, Dewey acted well within the right in doing what he did when he did. For, if it be contended that he should not have attacked Manila while he knew that peace proposals were under consideration, that would virtually be an assertion that a war can be suspended at any time at a vital point by the losing party by merely making a bluff at overtures for peace. The American people will recognize that Dewey has ever done just the right thing at just the right time.

A naval program for presentation to Congress, involving the immediate construction of fifteen warships, has been adopted by the naval board of experts to whom the subject has been referred by Secretary Long. It provides for three sea-going barbette turret battleships of 13,000 tons displacement and a minimum 18½ knots speed when the vessels are loaded their deepest draught, or an average speed above 19 knots under ordinary cruising conditions; three first-class armored cruisers of 12,000 tons and 22 knots speed; three second-class protected and armored cruisers of 6,000 tons displacement and 20 knots speed, similar to the Maine type but highly improved, and for six protected cruisers of 2,500 tons and 16 knots speed.

Timber in the Government parks and reservations is being destroyed in vast quantities, and the unreserved forest is falling before the flames like stubble. California can well afford to spend a million a year to protect these forests. Some plan should be devised for summer police in the mountains, and everybody who enters the forests, camping, hunting, prospecting or to cut timber, should be identified and located. Whoever may be caught handling fire carelessly, leaving campfires to smolder, throwing cigarettes in the duff or in any way endangering the timber by carelessness or design should be severely punished. The man who will draw the statute to protect the forests and to punish forest arson will be a public benefactor of the first class.

Democracy has nominated James G Maguire for Governor of the State. His able and clean public record while in Congress is as near a guarantee of gubernatorial honesty and ability as we can arrive at. Apart from party affiliations Maguire seems to be, above all others, the man that meets the occasion, and James G. Maguire will be the next Governor of California. That prediction is based upon the fact that in California there are more voters whose principles cannot be purchased than in any other State in the Union.

It is estimated that more than one hundred miles of cars were required to transport last season's orange crop to the Eastern markets. Not only was the crop the largest ever produced in Southern California, but the cash return was also the largest, notwithstanding complaints about low prices.

If any of the European powers feel inclined to indulge in war now they may have the whole field, so far as the United States is concerned. All that we shall ask will be the privilege of selling supplies and reading the war news.

Hereafter, all petitions for voluntary bankruptcy must be filed with the United States courts, in accordance with the new law passed by Congress, providing for uniform bankruptcy regulations for the entire country.

Four persons have been sent to jail for 100 days each for killing trout with dynamite. All the fault to be found with this arrangement will be by the four. Still, 100 days is a pretty light sentence for the offense.—S. F. Call.

To Emperor Vilhelm, der Crazy—Yoost look a leedle bid out. Ven der vorm turns, he vas a tamned bad man to fool mid.—Sacramento Bee.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Notice of Sale of Mining Property.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that in pursuance of an order of sale made by the Superior Court of the County of San Diego, State of California, on the 12th day of August, 1898, in the matter of the estate of W H. Halbert, deceased, the undersigned administrator of said estate, subject to confirmation by said Court, will sell at private sale an undivided one half interest in and to the following described mining property, situated in the Panamint Mining District, in the County of Inyo, in the State of California, which said mining property consists of seven claims located under the following names, to wit: "John G. Carlisle Mining Claim," "Grover Cleveland Quartz Mining Claim," "Kentucky Mine," "Texas Mining Claim," "Sun Rise Mine," "Never Give Up Quartz Mining Claim," "Joker Quartz Mining Claim." Abstract of title to said claims can be seen at office of V. E. Shaw, over First National Bank, San Diego, California.

The sale will be made on or after September 12th, 1898, and bids will be received at the office of V. E. Shaw, Rooms 7 & 8, over First National Bank, in the City of San Diego, in the State of California. Said sale will be for cash in Gold Coin of the United States, ten per cent upon the amount of bid payable upon the acceptance of the bid and the balance of purchase price payable upon confirmation of sale.

C. F. KAMMAN,
Administrator of the Estate of W H. Halbert, deceased.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., August 25, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and receiver at Independence, Cal., on OCTOBER 3d, 1898, viz: William Vaughn, for the W ½ Lot No. One, in N.W. ¼ Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: David Vaughn, Robert Roberts, John Willet and William J Lake, all of Citrus, Inyo Co. Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

Thomas Summers, the Administrator of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 17th day of September, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court

Dated August 26th, 1898.
P. H. MACK, Attorney for Administrator.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR MEMBER OF ASSEMBLY.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for Member of Assembly, Sixtieth District, subject to action of Joint Democratic Convention of Alpine, Mono and Inyo Counties.

WHITE SMITH.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.

DAVID HOLLAND.

Lone Pine, Aug 16, 1898.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for County Assessor, subject to action of the Republican County Nominating Convention

A. O. COLLINS.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

THE undersigned respectfully announces himself a candidate for Supervisor, Third District, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

Fish Springs, August 11, 1898.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for Assessor of Inyo Co., Calif., subject to the action of the Democratic-Free Silver Fusion Convention.

J. R. ELDRED.

Dated Big Pine, Inyo Co., Calif., July 30, 1898.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

A. M. GIVEN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention

J. J. GUNN.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be candidate for the office of assessor of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

GUILFORD P. BOURLAND.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. L. HUNTER.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I will be a candidate for the office of Assessor of Inyo County, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. W. YANDELL.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

MATZEY MERTEN.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Nominating Convention.

D. J. HESSION.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

CLAY HAMPTON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney of Inyo County, subject to action of the Democratic Convention.

P. W. FORBES.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1893, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.
[SEAL.]

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No. 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Winkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Bishop, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively, being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of lodge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; hence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rock marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L N o 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 15.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No. 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 2.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 4 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the lodge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 6 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3 the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 84 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.03 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.45 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South Range 42 East Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K, the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 15.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant and stake H No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 2½ degrees west 7.70 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1½ degree west 7.65 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rock marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H. the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No 1 at K No. 1 the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake L. No 2 and K No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 2½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.10 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Keyes north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine south 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 8½ degrees east 14.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminus of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.23 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176 ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations, a pages 131, 132, 132, 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

A y and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claim are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

OFFICIAL.

tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L N o 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 15.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No. 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 2.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 4 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the lodge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 6 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3 the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 84 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.03 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.45 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, AUGUST 26 1898

Don't forget the dance to-night.

Norm. Mairs came down from Long Valley yesterday.

Superior Judge Lamar arrived home from Mono last evening.

Regular meeting of Inyo Lodge, No 221, F. & A. M., to-morrow evening.

A. E. Sutherland came in Monday from a trip to Ballarat, returning the same day.

Jas. A. McKenzie, Esq., of Lone Pine, now represents Inyo on the Democratic State Central Committee.

D. Holland has been canvassing his chances in the lower end of the county. He went north yesterday.

Mrs. Wm. Rowan, of Bishop, is in town, the guest of her sisters, Mrs. A. S. Nibecker and Mrs. P. W. Forbes.

John Davies' big team will roll out to-day for the Panamint country, where it will be employed in hauling ore.

Gallants, attention! The young ladies of Independence have arranged for a social dance at Mairs' Hall to-night.

A. O. Collins arrived yesterday from a trip south as far as Darwin. Mr. Collins is looking after his fences in the Assessorship fight.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Webb and Miss Irma Webb arrived last evening from Long Valley, where they have been spending the summer.

C. F. Fuller, the well known prospector, returned last week from the Greenhorn mountain country. He says that lower Kern river has evaporated.

The Hanford Sentinel says that for the first time in recent history the Tulare lake, "the biggest pond of fresh water this side of the Rocky mountains," is dry.

Thos. Leatherdale, mill-man of Pleasant Canyon, is in town. The business and mining outlook for Southeastern Inyo generally, he says, was never brighter than now.

If the Carson & Colorado Railroad had been built along the foothills it would have created business and several thriving little villages would have sprung up. —Bodie Miner.

W. H. Uhlmeyer was a passenger on last Monday's train, en route to San Diego. He went down to look after a real estate transfer, and expects to be gone about two weeks.

Mrs. C. W. Craig, with her son George, of the former Inyo Index, and at present of the Redlands Citrograph family, is visiting Independence with her daughter, Mrs. F. E. Densmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Irv. H. Mulholland returned home on Monday last, and—it is perhaps unnecessary for this scribe to remark—were well pleased with the result of their brief trip to Sacramento.

A social dance will be given this evening at Mairs' Hall, under the auspices of the young ladies of Independence. Supper will be served in Dr. Blair's garden, from 11 until 1 o'clock. Admission to dance $1 per couple and supper 50 cents per plate.

Paul W. Narboe and son, W. H. Moore and W. A. Ragle, of Tulare, arrived at Independence yesterday. They have spent six weeks on a camping trip through the mountains, by way of Kern river, and after recruiting here for a few days will return home by a different route.

E. Robinson came down from Monache on Wednesday. About a week ago he lost his saddle horse, a large brown animal of handsome style and unbranded, and fears he is stolen. Anybody knowing the whereabouts of such a horse will please notify Mr. Robinson, at Independence.

At the meeting of the young men of Independence and vicinity, held on Saturday evening last, steps were taken which insure the organization of a strong Athletic Club. Dr. G. P. Doyle presided, Geo. S. Wood acting as Secretary. An Executive Committee was formed and authorized to secure a hall and send for apparatus, which has been done. There are forty-four subscribers, and permanent officers will be elected in the near future.

Public Administrator Woodin has received a letter from H. B. Beers, of Genoa, Nevada, making the following inquiry: "Did M. Willard, a surveyor, who died in your county a short time ago, have his surveying instruments with him? * * " The inquirer, or his informant, is mistaken, as no such event is known to have occured in this county. Perhaps some of our Nevada or Mono exchanges will take notice and throw some light upon the matter.

Chas. Anthony is personally superintending the operation of his replaced and reconstructed quartz mill in Pleasant Canyon, Panamint mountains. Except a small run on low-grade ore—which produced $18 per ton—from his Mineral Ranch mine, the mill has been working steadily on custom ore, and has engagements offered to last the year out. The plant consists of a steam-power, rock breaker, 5-stamp battery and Johnston concentrator, and mine-owners have been well satisfied with results.

The 3-stamp mill at Postoffice Springs near Ballarat is being operated by Geo. Montgomery on very good gold ore from the "O Be Joyful" mine at Tuba Canyon. This ledge of cheerful name, which belongs to Mr. Montgomery and a partner, was exploited for a time by bonders, who threw it up. It is "in bonanza" now, and very like to have reduction works of its own without regard to outside investors. The ore works $48 per ton, unselected and broken down as it comes.

Republican State Nominations.

[By Special Dispatch to the INDEPENDENT.]

RENO, Nev., August 26.

Governor—Henry T. Gage, of Los Angeles.

Lieutenant-Governor—Jacob H. Neff, of Placer.

Secretary of State—Charles F. Curry, of San Francisco.

Controller—E. P. Colgan.

Treasurer—Truman Reeves.

Attorney-General—Tirv L. Ford.

Clerk Supreme Court—George F. Root.

Justices Supreme Court—W. C. Van Fleet, T. B. McFarland.

Surveyor General—M. J. Wright.

Superintendent of Public instruction—J. Kirk.

Superintendent of State Printing—A. J. Johnson.

Railroad Commissioners—E. B. Edson, N. Blackstock.

Board of Equalization—Alex Brown, F. Matterson.

ENTERPRISING BIG PINE.

Will Hold a County Fair—Water Storage, Etc

BIG PINE, Aug. 24.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—Meetings seem to be the fad now on tap at the hamlet. Last week the good people met to hear the report of the investigating committee appointed to ascertain the feasibility of storing water at the lakes to the west of the town. The report was quite favorable to the project; the committee was composed of experienced men, and they insist that the circumstances and natural facilities for holding back the waters of these lakes are unsurpassed in the mountains of the State. A singular instruction given this committee was one by virtue of which it could map out the particular lands which could have the benefit of the stored water. Another committee was appointed to draft by-laws of the coming Water-Storage Company of Big Pine, to report to-day; then an attorney will be employed to secure a charter.

The enterprising ones of the town also congregated to canvass the proposition of holding a Fair here. The meeting was held on Monday evening. The report of the soliciting committee showed $460 already pledged for the enterprise. They also reported that T. W. Hill of the Bodle ranch had generously tendered the use of a portion of said ranch for a race track. A committee of five was selected to appoint a Board of Directors for the management of the Fair, which is to be holden September 20, 21, 22 and 23. This will hit the time two crowds of wisdom will be convened at Bishop and Big Pine to select the victims of victory and defeat at the county election on the 8th of next November. The new school house will be utilized for a pavilion. It is expected—if the outlying settlements stand in—that the first effort of the hamlet in this direction will be crowned with success.

Your friends congratulate you as a candidate, and appreciate the compliment offered the slope by the selection of an Invoite so conversant with the interests of the State in the matters involved in the administration of the office of Surveyor-General. This precinct will reaffirm the statement in November. The work of the Inyo delegation to the late State Convention is heartily approved here, and the vote for Marion De Vries for Member of Congress from the Second District will be larger than that of 1896.

Miss Ora Eldred started home from Nevada Tuesday of last week, and her sister, Miss Clara, came up from the Bay on Wednesday. They were called home by the lamentable accident suffered by their sister Edna. It is hoped that her leg may be saved by treatment in San Francisco, whither she went on Tuesday accompanied by her parents.

The friends of E. H. Ober will be pleased to learn that he is now the father of one of the most promising young sprinters on the turf; he will be a year old on the 14th day of August, 1899. Dr. Middleton wears the honor of becoming a grandsire with a dignity nowise mitigating his youthful appearance.

SWAMPER.

County Superintendent H. C. Hampton was in town last Wednesday on official business. So far as reported to him up to the present the teachers engaged for the various school districts for the ensuing term are as follows: Round Valley, Miss E. Travis; Laws, Jas. Dehy; Irving, Mrs. E. M. Clark and Miss Isbell; Bishop, H. C. Hampton, Miss L. Shirley and Miss Maud Truscott: Warm Springs, Miss J. Pearce; Riverside, Miss Eva Gunter; Valley, Mrs. M. E. T. Stevens; Station, Mrs. Bigelow; Big Pine, Walter Hanby and Miss M. Mevsan; Fish Springs, Miss Florence Williams; Milton, Miss I. D. Gregory; Independence, A. E. Janvier; Union, Miss M. Gregory; Lone Pine, —— —— and Miss Lea Darrah; Keeler, Miss Mabel Chalfant.

Eduard Chenot, the merchant, who happens to be an expert shot as well as a skilled angler, is taking a vacation 'way up on Oak Creek. O. C. Harper has charge of the store.

Miss Blanche Bunney left yesterday morning for San Jose, to begin her second term at the State Normal School.

People would like some "precipitation" reported by the weather man.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending August 25, 1898:

Highest barometer	29.890	25th
Lowest "	29.633	20th
Highest temperature	99	20th
Lowest "	60	23d
Mean "	83.5
Average dew point	78.4
Average humidity	21.3
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	26 W	21st
No. clear days	6
No. part cloudy days	1
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

Church Notice.

The order of religious services will be as follows until further notice:

Independence—Preaching service every Sunday evening commencing at 7:30.

Lone Pine—Every Sunday morning (excepting the last Sunday of each month) commencing at 11 o'clock.

George's Creek's—The first and third Sunday of each month to commence at 2:30 o'clock.

Liberty—The last Sunday of each month to commence at 2 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to be present at these services.

THOS. H. NICHOLAS, Pastor.

BORN.

NIBECKER—At Independence, Cal., August 26, 1898, to Mr and Mrs. A. S. Nibecker, twin sons.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION

...AND...

PRIMARIES.

A MEETING of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo County was held at Independence July 22d and arrangments made for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, to assemble at

BIG PINE, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20TH, 1898,

At the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10TH, 1898,

In accordance with the following apportionment, upon the vote for Wm J. Bryan in 1896, upon the basis of one delegate for each precinct and one delegate for every fifteen votes cast therein, and one for each fraction of eight or over, to-wit:

Round Valley	2	Georges Creek	3
Lincoln	4	Lone Pine	3
Laws	2	Cerro Gordo	1
Bishop	6	Keeler	2
East Bishop	3	Olancha	1
Poleta	2	Darwin	3
Big Pine	6	Modock	2
Fish Springs	2	Panamint	2
Taboose	2	Mountain Springs	1
Independence	7	Ballarat	1
Citrus	1		56

Polls are to be open from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock p. m., at the following places and under charge of the following officers, viz:

Round Valley—Inspector, John S. McGee; Judges, John Shipley and I. F. Smith. Polls at the school House.

Lincoln—Inspector, John Barlow; Judges, T. F. Hutchison and Thos. Thompson. Polls at School House

Laws—Inspector, Barton McGee; Judges, Jas. McNally and John Dehy. Polls at the school House.

Bishop—Inspector, Jno. E. Meroney; Judges, H. N. Gunter and A. L. McGee. Polls at Court House.

East Bishop—Inspector, W. L. Coats; Judges D. A. Bradshaw and A. Dell. Polls at office of W. J. Dunn.

Poleta—Inspector, George Storey; Judges, T. J. Reed and L. B. Heise. Polls at Collins' House.

Big Pine—Inspector, Geo. E. Mitchell; Judges, W. P. Baker and Geo. W. Hall. Polls at Callow's Hall.

Fish Springs—Inspector, Jas. Jones; Judges, A. W. H. Smith and J. H. Coe. Polls at School House

Taboose—Inspector, L. C. Montague; Judges, Jas. Hall and J. W. Harbaugh. Polls at school House.

Independence—Inspector, George W. Brady; Judges, A. V. Davidson and David Stubblefield. Polls at School House.

Citrus—Inspector, J. A. Pfohl; Judges, —— —— and W. H. Ramsey. Polls at Pfohl's House.

Georges Creek—Inspector, J. S. Hunter; Judges, John Strohmeyer and J. W. Calbreath. Polls at School House.

Lone Pine—Inspector, Felix Meysan; Judges, Abraham Diaz and N. L. Apple. Polls at School House

Cerro Gordo—Inspector, Patrick Clinton; Judges, J. Kelly and Jos. Stoffle. Polls at Clinton's House.

Keeler—Inspector, J. J. Morton; Judges, Sam'l Levy and Mike Anton. Polls at School House.

Olancha—Inspector, Ira W. Brown; Judges, W. T. Grant and W. H. Walker. Polls at Walker's House

Darwin—Inspector, Paul Pfefferle; Judges, Henry Jackson and Henry Mettler. Polls at Store.

Modock—Inspector, John Doody; Judges, Thos. Gunn and Arthur Smith. Polls at Minnietta Boarding House.

Mountain Springs—Inspector, A. V. Lewis; Judges, H. C. Hamilton and J. M. Davis. Polls at Company's Office.

Ballarat—Inspector, T. H. Henebry; Judges, R. Decker and J. McHugh. Polls at Decker's Office.

Panamint—Inspector, John Curran; Judges, F. Russell and Pat Langley. Polls at Store.

VOTING TEST:

Are you now in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold by the United States at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of any other nation?

E. ROBINSON, Chairman

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

SODA WATER.....

.....ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates. Will ship to all points, in first class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS, Bishop, Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00

MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal

HORSESHOEING

...AND...

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION,

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. MCKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. MCQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug4-tf

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., July 19, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on SATURDAY, September 3, 1898: David Vaughn, for the S. W. ¼ of Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: John C. Willett, of Citrus, Cal.; William J. Lake, Julius C. Roeper and David A. Johnson, of Independence, Cal.

Any person who desires to protest against the allowance of such proof, or who knows of any substantial reason, under the law and regulations of the interior Department, why such proof should not be allowed, will be given an opportunity at the above mentioned time and place to cross-examine the witnesses of said claimant, and to offer evidence in rebuttal of that submitted by claimant.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address F. A. HYDE, 630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
ALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS.....25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING.....25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING.....$2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates

-- -X- --

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	42	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:54 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	Lv 4:00 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers t the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—or soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:53 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:16 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:20 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:30 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE ITEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains o Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leav- promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by Paraffine Paint Co. 116 Battery St San Francisco.

Sample free.

COULD NOT SLEEP.

Mrs. Pinkham Relieved Her of All Her Troubles.

Mrs. MADGE BABCOCK, 176 Second St., Grand Rapids, Mich., had ovarian trouble with its attendant aches and pains, now she is well. Here are her own words:

"Your Vegetable Compound has made me feel like a new person. Before I began taking it I was all run down, felt tired and sleepy most of the time, had pains in my back and side, and such terrible headaches all the time, and could not sleep well nights. I also had ovarian trouble. Through the advice of a friend I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and since taking it all troubles have gone. My monthly sickness used to be so painful, but have not had the slightest pain since taking your medicine. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too much. My husband and friends see such a change in me. I look so much better and have some color in my face."

Mrs. Pinkham invites women who are ill to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is freely offered.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE BRAIN BAG NEEDLES

Hand or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all sack sewers. For sale by all Gen'l. Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 820 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

The Nervous Preacher.

In preaching his extempore trial sermon before Bishop Tait and Dean Stanley a candidate for priest's orders grew very nervous and stammered, "I will drive my congregation into two—the converted and the unconverted."

This proved too much for the bishop's sense of humor, and he exclaimed, "I think, sir, as there are only two of us, you had better say which is which."

Greedy.

Office Boy—Please, sir, can't I go to dinner now? It's almost an hour past my time, and I'm awfully hungry?

Employer—Hungry? Well, I wonder if anybody ever saw such a greedy boy. Here you have been licking envelopes and postage stamps all the forenoon and yet you complain of being hungry!—Pearson's Weekly.

A plant grows in Assam the botanical name of which is Gymnema sylvestre and which has the peculiar property when chewed of temporarily neutralizing the sense of taste as regards sweet and bitter things, while sour and saline substances remain unaltered. The Hindoos claim that the plant is an antidote to snake bite.

Belgian and German Farming.

In Belgium a two acre holding is sufficient to maintain a farmer and his family. The typical two acre farm in that country contains a patch of wheat or rye and another of barley. Another fair portion grows potatoes. A row of cabbage grows all round on the sloping sides of the ditches, with a row of onions just inside, leaving bare walking room between them and the grain. The shade trees round the house are pear trees. Every foot of land is made to produce, and the farmer keeps pigs and chickens.

In Germany, out of 5,276,000 farms, 1,223,000, or 23 per cent of the whole, are each under 2½ acres in extent, and of the farms above 56 per cent are cultivated by the owner himself, over 28 per cent partly so, or about 85 per cent altogether, leaving 15 per cent out of every 100 per cent that are let to tenants. In Germany, notwithstanding this small size of a large proportion of the farms, 178 out of every 1,000 inhabitants are nevertheless engaged in agriculture, whereas in England no more than 52 are thus occupied, in Scotland only 61, though 195 per 1,000 in Ireland being thus engaged raises the proportion in the whole United Kingdom to 73 out of that number, less than half, however, the percentage so employed in Germany.

In the House of Commons.

Members are not allowed to refer to each other by name in debate. The only member who is properly addressed by name is the chairman who presides over the deliberations of the house in committee. On a member rising to speak in committee he begins with "Mr. Lowther," and not with "Mr. Chairman," as at public meetings. When the speaker is in the chair, the formula is "Mr. Speaker, sir."

In debate a member is distinguished by the office he holds, as "the right honorable gentleman the chancellor of the exchequer," or by the constituency he represents, as "the honorable gentleman the member for York." Some make use of the terms "My honorable friend" or "My right honorable friend."

In case of family relations the same form is usually observed. Occasionally "My honorable relative" or "My right honorable relative" is heard, but "My right honorable father" or "My right honorable brother," though no doubt allowable, has not been hitherto used.—Nineteenth Century.

Love's Sweet Work.

A London paper tells this touching story of Professor Herkomer: "His aged father, who lived with him in his splendid home at Bushney, used to model clay in his early life. He has recently taken to it again, but his fear is that soon his hands will lose their skill and his work will show the marks of imperfection. It is his one sorrow. At night he goes to his early rest, and when he has gone his talented son goes to his studio, takes up his father's feeble attempts and makes the work as beautiful as art can make it. When the old man comes down in the morning, he takes the work and looks at it and rubs his hands and says, 'Ha, I can do as well as I ever did.'"

She Paralyzed 'Em.

Counsel—What is your age, madam?

Witness—Forty-seven, sir.

Counsel—Married or single?

Witness—Single. I never had an offer of marriage in my life, and if it is of any interest to the court I don't mind saying that I have worn false hair for nearly 30 years.

Counsel—Hem! That is all, madam. There is no use trying to shake the direct testimony of so truthful a woman as you are.—London Tit-Bits.

You cannot afford to drink colored tea.

It undermines health, and the coloring hides defects.

Schilling's Best needs no coloring; it is good enough. 2

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

Dodson's Scheme.

"I say, old man," said Dodson, as he loaned his friend Blobson a nickel to pay his car fare, "why don't you try my scheme?"

"What scheme?" growled Blobson, as he mentally tried to figure out how much his wife had realized in her midnight raid.

"Why a scheme to break your wife of going through your pockets when you are asleep."

"I say, old man," cried Blobson eagerly, "if you have any scheme by which I can break my wife of going through me, for heaven's sake put me on to it, and I am your friend for life!"

"Well, you see, I used to suffer from this thing until I discovered means by which I broke my wife of the habit. I gathered together all the counterfeit money that I had accumulated in 20 years of business and filled my pockets with it. The next morning I discovered that it was gone. That same day my wife went shopping and was arrested for passing counterfeit money. It looked very black for her when they found the rest of the stuff that she had, and she was just ready to faint when I arrived on the scene. Of course I played the indignant husband and threatened to sue the whole outfit for damages. But the scheme worked. Since then the only thing my wife will accept is a check."—Detroit Free Press.

Monitors and Torpedo Boats.

A monitor is a peculiar battleship, having a low freeboard, light draft and flush deck and guns mounted in heavily armored revolving turrets placed on the deck. A monitor is a floating battery more than a ship and derives its name from the first of the class ever constructed, which battled with the Confederate ironclad Merrimac in Hampton Roads. The original Monitor was described as resembling a great cheesebox on a plank, but it did valuable service and revolutionized naval warfare.

Torpedo boats are the racers among the war vessels. They are swift, small craft, designed to launch torpedoes near large vessels. In order to do its work properly the torpedo boat must go close to the object of its destructive designs, and having placed the instrument of destruction in position its next object is to get away and out of the reach of the enemy. A torpedo boat must be small, and the men who form its small crew must be absolutely fearless.

A torpedo boat catcher is designed expressly to catch or to destroy torpedo boats. In order to be fitted for the work the boats are larger than the torpedo boats. They can make better time and carry heavier armament.—New York Tribune.

Vicious Bluefish.

The greatest enemy to the best species of fish is found in the vicious, voracious and dangerous bluefish. In size ordinarily as long as your arm, with teeth like barbs, he can snap in halves a fish of his own size, and nearly all fish stand in mortal dread of him. Generally traveling in schools—sometimes as much as five miles in length—they will in short order decimate a school of shad, spot, menhaden or such like. In his stomach can be found numbers of smaller fish, according to size.

We have opened one which contained a trout of almost his own size, while another contained a shad nearly as large. Still others are found having within themselves one or more of their own species of smaller size. But their destructiveness does not end here. We have seen them behind a school of shad, spot or menhaden, and sometimes schools of mackerel and cod, snapping and slashing their prey until the water was all a foam. They eat until they can hold no more, but their viciousness is not abated. With a snap a shad is sundered and spit out, and the next shares the same fate. They never tire, and the fish destroyed, but unbeaten, cover the surface of the water.—Exchange.

At the present rate of increase the population of the earth will double itself in 260 years.

THE CLIMATE OF CUBA.

Because of frequent rains in Cuba malarial fevers are a common ailment there, just as they are in many sections of the United States. Ailments of this kind, no matter in what part of the globe they occur, are quickly cured with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Besides being a specific for malarial trouble, these Bitters also make pure blood, strong nerves and muscles, and firm, healthy flesh. They have no equal for dyspepsia and constipation.

Husband—That man you've invited here used to kiss you before we were married. Wife—So did you. "But I've gotten over it, and he hasn't

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

"How do you charge for a ride in the balloon?" "Forty cents going up." "And down?" "Four dollars."

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the best of all cough cures.—George W. Lotz, Fabucher, Ia., August 26, 1895.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia Pa

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

A Healthy Look

Because the Blood is Made Pure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Previous to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla my blood was in a very bad condition, but since the use of a few bottles of this medicine I am feeling better than ever before in my life. My complexion is now clear and my skin has a healthy look." LOREN GODWIN, San Luis Obispo, California.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

THE BABY'S PENSIONERS.

They are all heroes; Captain Jim,
Wounded and sore distressed,
With weak and wobbling dexter limb
And stitches in his breast;
And Colonel Price, with one arm gone,
And crippled Major Mears,
And eke the humble Private John,
Who's minus both his ears.

They do not bluster of their wars,
Nor tell how these occurred;
And of their stitches, stumps and scars
They never say a word.
Not one of all the band declaims
With fervor fierce and hot
Of circumstances, dates and names
Concerned with battles fought.

And yet I know that Major Mears,
And also Captain Jim,
Could tell us tales to fetch our tears
And make our eyes grow dim.
And even humble Private John,
Whose head's so smoothly round
Because both of his ears are gone,
Could cause our hearts to bound.

But modestly these heroes bold
Forego temptations to Grow eloquent of days of old,
When hearts were brave and true—
Crippled in wretched wise and maimed,
They only wait the end—
To pass from view unsung, unfamed,
With not a mourning friend.

Vain be your sympathetic tears!
Alas! They cannot charm
Back to his head the private's ears
Nor mend the colonel's arm.
The only hope for these poor, racked
Victims of Baby Paul's
Is for some congress to enact
A pension list for dolls.

A DREAM REALIZED.

JOHN OVERTON sat alone, smoking his pipe. He could hear the men as they laughed and poked around the campfire, but he could not join in their merry-making. Five years ago he had left his Eastern home to endure the privations of a mining engineer in a new country. A scheme carried out successfully placed his name permanently before the scientific world. He felt elated that night, yet his thoughts would turn to her. In the years that had gone by much of the bitterness of that quarrel had passed away. After all, she was only a girl then, sweet Priscilla Grey.

His mother had dreaded to see him go away so far. She had enough for both, but when he and Priscilla quarreled the course of his life seemed changed.

His mother had died since, and he had come into her fortune. Yet still he tarried. He had grown to love the West.

"Why is the paleface brother sad?"

"Why, you naughty little girl, why did you stray so far from home at this time?" Overton exclaimed, as he looked upon the dark, sweet face so near his own.

"Father came to see you, and I came, too. I am going away, Overton. The heart of Robin aches within her. She loves the mountains, she loves her father, she loves Overton. When he is sad she is sad. When he is gone the winds sigh more deeply in the pines; the brook, as it leaps over the stones, is not so gay. Even the sun shines not so brightly when Overton is not here."

As her sweet, monotonous tones ceased Overton looked into her face. Her mother had been the daughter of a noble chief of a tribe of Indians, and her father was an officer at the fort. She was, perhaps, 15, and carried herself with the dignity of her race. She had her father's classic features, but the sadness of her mother's people shone in her great black eyes.

When Overton came to the Northwest country he had some work to do at the fort where she lived. He had killed a huge snake one day. An instant later and it would have been upon her. Since then she had loved him with the unreasoning affection of an animal. Her father joined them as they sat there. Taking Robin's hand, he drew her to him.

"Poor little one! I am going to send her East, Overton."

"No better plan could suggest itself. You should have sent her some time ago. Be a good little girl, Robin. Learn a lot, but don't forget your old friends."

"I shall never forget," and turning quickly, she glided away.

Unusually bright, her constant companionship with her father had deepened her intellect. They learned to love her in the school. With careful treatment her skin grew fine-grained and fairer. Her hands were small, soft, and dimpled. She did not look like an alien, and few could guess that Indian blood ran in her veins.

Her habitual sadness never left her, but her smiles were ready and often. She combined the best of the two races from which she sprung, and a more charming woman was never introduced into the gay world than Robin, daughter of Captain Strathmore.

Overton had made rapid strides in his profession. The years seemingly left no impression on his handsome face. To his heart he still clasped his dream of Priscilla.

She had been married, and was now a widow, still as lovely and as fair as in her sweet girlhood, so rumor had it.

For the first time in many years he decided to go home, back to the old haunts, the old friends, and Priscilla.

Alas! He found them changed. The old house was the same, but his mother had gone away. At the club new faces greeted him. Selfish, narrow, aimless men stagnated in the little town. He felt then and there like taking the next train back where he could breathe the pure, sweet air and feel the freedom and ambition of the plains.

A relative was to entertain that evening, and he was the guest of honor. He came in a little late, and paused a moment in the corridor. Looking across the room, he saw the object of his dream, the Priscilla of long ago. She was certainly lovely, but——

Accustomed as he was to read human nature, he saw in that face everything which he left out of his ideal.

She had thrown him over for a rich man. He had thought that she had been forced to it by her parents, and had pitied her so much.

She looked so complacent, so self-satisfied, so worldly. Everything she did seemed to be for effect.

"What an idiot I have been." He turned and walked to the piazza. "What an artificial atmosphere! I am going back by the first train."

He turned to go, but before him stood a magnificent woman. Was it her expression or was it her face that reminded him of that one old masters so loved to portray?

Her regal head, her beautiful face, had the dignity of a queen. As she smiled he thought of the running streams in the mountains, the music of the pines of the beautiful Western country of his adoption; then her sweet, monotonous voice broke the silence:

"Has the paleface forgotten the Robin of the springtime?"

His lips could form no words. He opened his arms and clasped her to his heart.—Philadelphia Item.

Natural History

The barking bird, which is common in Chiloe and Chinos, islands of the South American Archipelago, It is called by the natives "Guidguild," "but its English name," says Darwin, "is well given, for I defy any one at first to feel certain that a small dog is not yelping somewhere in the forest." The Toucan, of South America, has, according to Mr. Waterton, the same peculiarity, and one of the favorite tricks of the mocking-bird is to imitate the bark of a dog, which it does to such perfection as to deceive even the most experienced ears.

There is no part of the ocean that is without birds. The seaman ploughs the waters with his craft; one boundless expanse of sky and water meets his glance, no ship, no boat is to be seen, but there sweeps before him that mighty flyer, the Wandering Albatross, which knows neither distance nor solitude, regardless alike of storm or calm. So it is with those other ocean wanderers, the Stormy Petrels. Like the albatross, they have no distinct circle of distribution. They wander over all the seas, and cover such enormous distances in a day's flight that no distinct limits can be assigned to their habitations. They are at home, and brave the storm in every latitude and in every sea.

A shark's egg is one of the oddest-looking things imaginable, and has no more resemblance to an egg, strictly speaking, than it has to a paving stone. In one variety it is pillow-shaped, and has a long "horn" or "feeler" at each corner. The average size is about two inches by two and three-quarters, and the color almost pure black. It is unprovided with shell, as we understand that word, but the contents are protected by a thick leathery covering, which has almost as much elasticity about it as a covering of India-rubber would have. The feelers mentioned catch hold of and wind themselves round pieces of seaweed and other floating objects (just as a grape-vine tendril would do), and hang there until the egg is hatched, providing it does not get destroyed. One variety of shark lays eighteen eggs during the month of April. These float about until early in December, when the little sharks emerge, the period of incubation having been about nine months.

The Baby.

"She is a little hindering thing,"
The mother said:
"I do not have an hour of peace,
Till she's in bed.

"She clings unto my hand or gown,
And follows me
About the house from room to room,
Talks constantly.

"She is a bundle full of nerves,
And willful ways;
She does not sleep full sound at nights,
Scarce any days.

"She does not like to hear the wind,
The dark she fears;
And piteously she calls for me
To wipe her tears.

"She is a little hindering thing,"
The mother said;
"But still she is my wine of life,
My daily bread."

The children—what a load of care
Their coming brings;
But, O! the grief when God doth stoop
To give them wings.
—Independent.

Under Sealed Orders.

The custom of having warships sail "under sealed orders" has arisen from the desire of maritime powers to prevent their plans from becoming known to the enemy.

In the American navy such orders come from the President, and are delivered to the commander of a ship or squadron by a confidential messenger, who knows nothing of their contents.

Sometimes they are in cipher, but they are always sealed with the official seal of the Navy Department, and the package cannot be opened until the time marked on it, which is usually several hours after the hour of leaving port.

By this precaution the newspapers are prevented from disclosing, prematurely, movements which may be of the greatest importance, and the spies of the enemy are rendered useless so far as their ability to discover the secret of such movements is concerned.

Sailing under sealed orders is now the common naval practice in time of war.

The Spider's Thread.

An eminent naturalist says that every thread of what we call the spider's web is made up of about 5,000 separate fibers. If a pound of this thread were required it would occupy nearly 28,000 spiders a full year to furnish it. The author of this statement does not inform us how long the thread would be, but it is safe to say that it would reach several times around the world.

Cloves for the World.

The two little islands of Zanzibar and Pemba furnish four-fifths of the cloves consumed by the world.

The other half gets all the happiness out of marriage that the better half puts in.

After a man quits a job, he tells around that it was necessary to hire three men to do his work.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

The Doctor Slocum System Has Proven Beyond Any Doubt Its Positive Power Over the Dread Disease.

EXTERMINATING THE CURSE OF AGES

By Special Arrangement with the Doctor, Three Free Bottles Will be Sent to All Readers of This Paper.

The Doctor Slocum System, as the name implies, is a comprehensive and complete system of treatment, which attacks every vulnerable point of the disease and completely vanquishes it. It leaves no point unguarded; it leaves no phase of the trouble neglected; it cures, and cures forever Weak Lungs, Coughs, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Consumption and all other throat and lung diseases by absolutely obliterating the cause.

FREE

EDITORIAL NOTE.—The Doctor Slocum System is Medicine reduced to an Exact Science by the World's most Famous Physician. All readers of this paper, anxious regarding the health of themselves, children, relatives or friends, may have three free bottles as represented in the above illustration, with complete directions, pamphlets, testimonials, advice, etc., by sending their full address to Dr. T. A. Slocum, the Slocum Building, New York City. This is a plain, honest, straightforward offer, and is made to introduce the merits of The New System of Treatment that Cures, and we advise all sufferers to accept this philanthropic offer at once. When writing the Doctor please mention this paper. All letters receive immediate and careful attention.

"Not to take a cure for an otherwise fatal disease is to practically commit suicide."

If You Suffer

From Epilepsy, Epileptic Spells, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Falling Sickness, Vertigo, etc., have children or relatives that do so, or know people that are afflicted, My New Discovery,

Epilepticide,

Will cure them, and all you are asked to do is to send for a Free Bottle and try it. I am quite prepared to abide by the result. It has cured thousands where everything else has failed. Please give full name, AGE, and postoffice and express address

WM. H. MAY, M.D., May Laboratory, 94 Pine St., New York City.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—All sufferers are advised to send for Gratuitous Expert Advice and a Free Bottle of this New Discovery, which is an Unfailing Cure for any and all of the frightful forms of Epilepsy and allied nervous diseases. When writing Doctor May, please mention this paper.

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS.

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.

Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,

ABNEY, CARR & CO.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 840. New Series No. 31.

INYO INDEPENDENT.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.
Independence, Cal.
FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 12. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 2, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1483.

INYO INDEPENDENT
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor
RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.
One Year (post paid) $4 00
Six Months 2 00
Three Months 1 25
One Month 50
Single Copies 10

A SLUMBER SONG.

Baby, you stand by a gate that leads
Into a land of dreams;
There's a drowsy watchman here who heeds
Never the straggling gleams
Of light that stray from the far-off sun—
Always for him its twinkling begun—
And we stand by the gate
And watch and wait,
And watch—and wait!

Little one, hear what the stream sings of
Here in this quiet land;
It sings of the joy of mother love—
Sings to birds in the sand—
To the strange, tall birds, with dreamy eyes,
That look at you, dear, in mute surprise,
While we stand by the gate,
And watch and wait,
And watch—and wait!

If you open the gate no one will know;
The guard will never guess.
You must open it gently, slowly—so,
No one has heard, unless
Those dreamful birds, or the dreamland sheep,
Heard you stealing through their land of sleep
While I stood by the gate,
To watch and wait,
And watch—and wait!

Oh, strange are the birds and the sheep that dwell
Here in the land of dreams,
But you must not see, and you must not tell,
However strange it seems,
Or they'll never let you in again,
And it would not please you, baby, then,
Just to stand by the gate,
And watch and wait,
And watch—and wait!
—Utica Globe.

THE FORGER.

THEY were alone together, the old man and his son, the one who had toiled for so many years, and the one who had spoiled his few years of manhood.

"If you can't find £500 I will be arrested for forgery. Now you know the worst, father." And the young man endeavored to appear indifferent, and failed to do so.

"I've not £50 left," said John Cairngate Sr., "and you know that, John."

The young man laughed unmerrily.

"I understand," he said, "you mean that sooner than part with your money you would rather I went to prison. I don't blame you; perhaps I should do the same in your case. I thought I'd appeal to you before giving myself up, but of course you are not compelled to help me out of this scrape. I know that well enough."

"You've had all my money, my poor boy;" and the old man stood up and opened the office safe, and, taking from it his banker's passbook, he handed it to his son. The latter looked at it and threw it down impatiently.

"You wouldn't have shown this to me if your money was at the bank. Perhaps you do not quite understand my position. I have forged my friend's name to a bill. It becomes due to-morrow. I have seen the man who discounted it, and tried to get the bill renewed. He won't do it, smells a rat, I fear, and if I don't take it up to-day it will be presented to-morrow, and I am ruined."

"Will your friend help you if you confess the truth and I pay him back little by little?"

"I don't think so for a moment. I put a parallel case to him in order to feel the ground and he said that he would have no mercy on a forger, even if it were his own brother."

"My poor boy, my poor boy, how could you have done it?"

"It's no use discussing that, father; it's done now. Possibly no one would believe me if I said that it was done in a moment of great pressure; that at the time I believed that I should be absolutely certain to have the money to take up the bill long before it was presented. I suppose all forgers tell that tale, and I am going to bear my punishment without making excuses. Only I thought you would help me this once, for I have an offer to join Frank Paston in Port Elizabeth, and I would go there at once. It would be a new life for me, and I would try hard to make it a better one. Father"—and the face was softened now, and the voice pleading—"give me this chance. Remember me as I was to you when you first called me into the world. Indeed, I will strive to deserve your love."

The old man sat with his face hidden in his hands, rocking quietly to and fro in his chair.

"I will work to pay you back, father. I shall be out of the way of temptation in Africa, even if I was inclined to forget this lesson. Tell me that my life is not to be wasted."

Still the old man said nothing, but sat rocking to and fro, to and fro.

"I know that at your time of life, father, £500 may mean a great deal to you, but every penny shall be paid back."

"Do you mean this, John?" And the senior looked up, the lines on his face deepened and the gray of it more pallid.

"Indeed I do. I ought to have come to you long ago, and told you this, but I hoped until almost the last moment that I could spare you the shame of knowing that I had disgraced your name."

"If I managed this for you, how soon could you start, John?"

"In a week, father."

"It is not soon enough. It must be to-night."

"I will if I can."

Old John Cairngate opened the Times and looked at the shipping advertisements.

"The Union Line has a steamer leaving Southampton by to-morrow morning's tide. Go to their London office; if they haven't a berth left ask for this gentleman"—and he gave the young man a card, on which he penciled a name—"tell him as a favor I beg him to find you one, even if you have to mess with some of the crew."

"Yes, father."

"Now, I only want one promise from you in return. You and I part forever. You must not seek to communicate with me in any way. More than this, you must cut yourself off from England for a time, and refuse to see even an English newspaper, or to receive a letter from an English friend. You understand that you are exiled."

"Yes, sir," the voice was hard again.

"How much money have you?"

"Just enough for a second-class passage; no more."

Mr. Cairngate brought a small box from the safe and took £5 from it.

"Take this, and now go, and keep your promise."

"Good-by, father, and thank you. Think less hardly of me some day," and he offered his hand, but it was not seen, and the gray head was rocking between the withered old hands again, and so the young man went quietly out.

* * * * *

It was twelve months later, and young John Cairngate was waiting to see the passengers in from the Cape steamer. The new life at Port Elizabeth was not altogether a pleasant one, but he was prospering. The worst of it was it was deadly dull, and, true to his promise, he would not look at an English newspaper. Then, as the few passengers landed, a voice hailed him by name. It was the first time he had heard it for many a day, for here he was John Dunkley.

"John Cairngate, old fellow——"

It was an old club friend, whom he had last seen in London shortly before he left.

"Who would have thought of seeing you here?" called out the newcomer, and then as he stepped ashore he shook hands with the exile.

"Of course I understand why you went and did not leave your address," added Barton; "but none of the fellows think worse of you for what happened. It wasn't your fault, old chap; one can't be responsible for one's relatives. You needn't have left as you did."

John Cairngate's eyes asked for information, and there was a fear in them that was evident to the other man.

"Good heavens! Cairngate, you don't mean to say you don't know, and that I——"

"Why do they say I went away?" asked Cairngate.

"Well, old chap, your father, of course——"

"What about him? Tell me at once."

"I thought you knew, of course."

"I know nothing. Tell me at once."

"How could they have kept it from you? He forged a bill for five hundred. Was convicted on his own confession. There, old chap; don't give way. I wish I had bitten my tongue out before I had told you."—Pick-Me-Up.

MOISTURE IN WOOD.

Sixty Per Cent. of the Bulk Can Be Converted Into Liquid.

Over 60 per cent. of wood may be converted into liquid. The strongest hydraulic pressure would not squeeze one-half of 1 per cent. of moisture from dry wood; but by putting the same material into an iron retort and converting it into charcoal by means of heat, the gases and smoke, to the extent of fully 65 per cent. of the weight of the wood, may be condensed into pyroligneous acid, from which are obtained wood alcohol, acetate of lime and wood tars. A cord of wood weighing 4,000 pounds produces about 2,650 pounds of pyroligneous acid and 700 pounds of charcoal. The pyroligneous acid from one cord of wood produces 9 gallons of 82 per cent. crude wood alcohol, 200 pounds of acetate of lime and about 25 gallons of tar, besides 35 bushels of charcoal. After the pyroligneous acid is neutralized with lime the wood alcohol is distilled off, the lime holding the acetic acid in solution. After the separation of the wood spirit, the remaining liquid is boiled down in pans to a sugar, which is dried and becomes the acetate of lime in commerce. Acetate of lime is used for making acetic acid. Fully three-fifths of all the wood alcohol and acetate of lime produced in the world are made in the United States. A considerable quantity is also produced in Sweden. Over 15,000 acres of forest per year are cleared in the United States. Wood alcohol affords a perfect substitute for grain alcohol for manufacturing and mechanical purposes, and at less than one-third the cost. It is used principally as a solvent in the making of shellac varnish and in making celluloid and photographic paper. It makes beautiful dye tints, is antiseptic and is used for liniments and for skin rubbing in bathhouses.—Mining and Scientific Press.

English Town Without a Mayor.

According to the St. James Gazette, at Bury St. Edmunds Town Council the depaty mayor said he had to announce with regret that up to the present no suitable inhabitant of the borough had been found willing to undertake the important duties of mayor for the ensuing year. The meeting would therefore be adjourned for a month, in the hope that someone would be forthcoming during that time.

Couldn't Eat It.

Friend—I suppose you've had some hard experiences?

Returned Klondiker—Oh, yes! I've seen times when we hadn't a thing but money.—Tid-Bits.

One of the greatest dampers to a man's ambition is the knowledge that the mantle of greatness is usually worn as a shroud.

If you know the rules, and violate them, don't complain if you are punished.

Real love is like a bottle of soda water; it should sizz and fuzz just like there wasn't anything else on earth.

FIGHT TO THE DEATH.

TWO KENTUCKY FAMILIES EXTERMINATING EACH OTHER.

The Bakers and Howards Have Been Settling an Old Quarrel by Shedding Each Other's Blood—State Troops Were Called to Subdue Them.

Mountain Feud.

The history of the Baker-Howard feud, which assumed such large and dangerous proportions as to cause State troops to be sent to Manchester, Ky., for the protection of the court, is one of the most interesting in the annals of mountain wars. The men engaged in this feud are descendants of the same pioneers. Their ancestors have lived there for more than 100 years. Many of the families have intermarried, until nearly everybody in Clay County is related by blood lines to everybody else.

The Howards are members of the fighting Howards of Harlan County, who, led by Wilson Howard, killed about thirty of the Turner faction in Harlan and Bell Counties. Wilson was afterward legally hanged after he had boasted of killing ten men with his own hand. There is a Wilson Howard in the Clay County family, but he was so unfortunate as to fall early in the fight. Old man A. B. or "Bal" Howard, who is the leader of the faction that bears his name, is 52 years old and has tried to lead a correct life. He has been a member of the Christian Church for many years, is a Free Mason, and has served his county one term as Sheriff and two terms as Deputy Sheriff. While Sheriff he lost all his wealth and went into voluntary liquidation. He has tried hard to keep down the inherited fighting blood, but now that he has been drawn into the fight he is as anxious to win as any other mountain fighter. He recently said he could go into Harlan County and get 500 fighting men to come back and clean out the Bakers root and branch. When he made this declaration his eyes flashed fire, and although he is bent from suffering from the wounds the Bakers gave him in the fight when his son Wilson was killed, he straightened up and with head erect emphasized his words by stamping the ground.

A. B. HOWARD.

The trouble between the Bakers and the Howards came up last December over the purchase by Tom Baker of a judgment for $40 and costs that had been rendered against A. B. Howard. Howard's son, James B., now County Assessor, had bought a spring wagon and his father had gone on his note. Not paying for it, suit was brought and judgment rendered. Before Baker bought the judgment he had gone into partnership with A. B. Howard, through his sons Israel and Carter, who were made parties to the contract, in order that none of Howard's creditors could levy on his logs. Thus, when his own partner tried to get the better of him, as he considered it, old man Howard became very angry, and there were some sharp words between Tom Baker and the Howards. Howard refused point blank to pay the judgment and Baker levied on the logs, as the partnership papers had not been made out. Howard fought him in a magistrate's court, but through the influence of Baker's father a compromise was effected, and it looked as if there would be no further blood-letting.

Israel Howard and Tom Baker had had a little shooting scrape over the matter a few days before the compromise was made, and Tom received two slight flesh wounds, which soon healed. Several days after the compromise old man Howard found Tom Baker at the log pit taking out undivided logs. They quarreled and Baker drew a pistol and threatened to shoot Howard on the spot. Howard was unarmed and he soon talked Baker out of the notion of shooting. As Howard walked away, however, Baker threw an auger at him. This opened the breech between the Bakers and the Howards, and when a tide came about a week later old man Howard, his sons Israel and Carter and Burch Store went to the log pit and took the undivided raft out of the mouth of Crane creek, and Israel and Carter remained on it and floated it down the Kentucky river to Frankfort.

A. B. Howard and Burch Store started back home with the five horses that had been used in pulling out the logs. They overtook Israel and Harlan Shackleford and invited them to ride two of the horses. A little further on they came upon Wilson Howard and Will York, and they were invited to ride the remaining horse. The party was riding slowly through the deep mountain mud, little dreaming what was in store for them.

They were cracking jokes, and those who had been walking were congratulating themselves on having a chance to ride, although to one of them it proved a ride to death. When they reached the house of John Baker they say Baker's wife run to the large farm bell and ring it violently, although it was much too early in the morning for dinner.

They had scarcely passed Baker's house when a volley was fired at the cavalcade from ambush. Old man Howard was struck in the back, but he managed to stay on his young horse, which carried him out of range around a point in the road. The second volley struck Burch Store, killing him instantly, the bullets striking him in the neck and in the breast. The third volley came almost as Store fell from his horse, and Wilson Howard rolled off his horse with a bullet in his back that paralyzed his limbs. The other horsemen rode away as fast as possible. When they got out of sight Wilson Howard said Tom Baker and Charles Wooton came to them and fired an explosive bullet into the abdomen of the two wounded men. Wilson Howard died shortly after telling the story of the shooting.

When James B. Howard, who was in town, heard of the shooting he was almost crazy with excitement, and, although his friends begged him not to go to the scene of the killing, some six miles away, he got his horse and galloped toward the place. When nearly there he stopped at Murray's store, where persons were buying grave clothes for Store and Howard, and for the first time heard that his father was not dead, but he was told by the doctor who attended him that he could not get well. Rushing out of the store, intent on going to the side of his father and his dead brother, he met old man George Baker face to face. Without stopping to consider that he was in no danger from the old man who had tried so hard to make peace, and who never carried a pistol, young Howard leveled his gun at Baker and shot him dead. After staying a short time with relatives in Harlan County Howard gave himself up to a kinsman, so the latter could claim the reward of $250. The Bakers were charged with killing Wilson Howard and Burch Store, and with shooting old man Howard, but they were acquitted on the examining trial, on April 17. The next day Sid Baker, a son-in-law of A. B. Howard, and no kin to the other Bakers, met Charles Wooton on the road. After watching each other for several minutes, they both drew their weapons at the same time. A shooting followed in which Wooton was so badly shot in the back that he has never been able to walk, and the physician who attends him says that he will die before very long. June 2 Tom Baker met Will White on the road near White's house and shot him to death with an explosive bullet. Nobody has been punished for any of these crimes, and it was to make the guilty pay the penalty that Gov. Bradley called out troops.

CLAY COUNTY COURT HOUSE.

BARRICADE OF THE HOWARD FACTION.

SHERIFF B. P. WHITE.

Just as He Put It.

Modest people should have a care. If carried to an extreme, modesty is liable to become ridiculous, as in a case reported by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Years ago a member of the Indiana Legislature, in a brand-new suit of broadcloth and a silk hat, gold-headed cane and white lawn tie, wandered up into the sanctum of the Courier-Journal, stood around in a listless way, looked over the papers, went down-stairs and came back several times. He was asked to take a seat, which he declined elaborately, and ended by drawing his chair in a confidential way up to the "Roundabout" man's desk.

"Couldn't you," he said, "put in the paper that I am at the Galt House with my bride, and just fling in something about my being a prominent Indianian? I don't care anything about this sort of thing myself, but you know how the women are. I want fifty copies of the paper sent to this address." He laid down two dollars and a half, grinned, got red in the face, said "Good morning," and vanished.

Next morning he read that "Mr. John Huckleberry requests us to say that he is at the Galt House with his bride; that he is a prominent member of the Indiana Legislature and that he himself, personally, cares nothing for newspaper notoriety, but that a society note would be very gratifying to Mrs. Huckleberry. He added that he wanted fifty copies of the paper for distribution to his constituents."

Paper.

Paper horseshoes are now being used by some of the Chicago blacksmiths. The horseshoers themselves are not responsible for the innovation, but it is due to some of the owners of fine horseflesh. After being saturated with oil or turpentine the paper is glued together in thin layers with a cement which does not become brittle when drying, being a mixture of Venetian turpentine, powdered chalk, linseed oil and lacquer. The holes through which nails are driven to fasten the shoes to the hoof are stamped through the paper when moist. Then the shoe is placed under a hydraulic press and subjected to a strong pressure.

When fitting the shoe to the hoof it can be filed or planed to fit as snugly as may be necessary. The shoes made of paper are said to be stronger and better than those of iron, just as car wheels of paper are superior to those of iron. Another advantage claimed is that a horse wearing paper shoes is not likely to slip when traveling on slippery roads.

Coral Flower Gardens.

No gardens on earth can match the gardens of the sea that encircle the northern part of Australia. As the tide ebbs in the azure of sunset, coral reefs peer out, symmetrically arranged in beds and intersected by emerald channels as if they were the colossal flower beds of some great sea king. Corals of all hues and tints can be seen fathoms deep in the channels. The coral polyps, although they build islands and help to extend continents, are most delicate organisms, and die on the least exposure, and leave behind them their skeletons, but even their skeletons are things of beauty.

River Bank Protection Wanted.

From Great Britain comes a call for a method of preventing the current of a river from wearing away the banks. The claim is set forth that the present system is unsatisfactory because, while the banks may be strengthened, nothing is done to deflect the current from weak points nor to diminish its force.

One of the worst things about friends is the manner in which they abuse each other.

About all some people do is to follow other men around complaining of the way they do their work.

THE GOSPEL OF GRACE

EXPOUNDED BY OUR RELIGIOUS EDITOR.

Words of Wisdom, and Thoughts Worth Pondering Upon Spiritual and Moral Subjects—Gathered from the Religious and Secular Press.

If Christ Were Here in the Flesh.

SUPPOSE Jesus were here! That interrogatory or exclamation has been quite common since the advent of several books like those of Mr. Stead and Congressman Howard, who tried to relate what might happen "If Christ Came to Chicago," and "If Christ Came to Congress." Several writers in addition to these, have attempted to put the Savior into modern conditions, and then describe what might be expected to happen. We have been told how he would fulminate in his wrath against ruling iniquity, and how he would overthrow temples of commerce and halls of congress and would not spare the pillars of a cold and barren church. Such views do not accord with the reputation which the Lord gained when he was once on earth. "He came not to judge the world, but that the world through Him might be saved." It is true that the day will come when the Christ will sit in judgment and before Him every knee shall bow, but that day is not yet here. We are still within the dispensation of grace. The Lord is in our midst. He is, this very hour, going up and down in the earth pursuing his divine mission of seeking and saving the lost sheep of his kingdom. If Christ were here in bodily presence we would find him most frequently in scenes of extreme need, and squalor, and sin. He comes not to consort with the affluent, and proud, and mighty, but to spread his pallet with the poor, the outcast and the humble. He comes to call, not the righteous, but sinners to repentance. And who is not a sinner?—Ram's Horn.

Nothing to Do.

"Nothing to do!" in this world of ours,
Where weeds spring up with fairest flowers,
Where smiles have only a fitful play,
Where hearts are breaking every day!

"Nothing to do!" thou Christian soul,
Wrapping thee round in thy selfish stole;
Off with the garments of sloth and sin,
Christ the Lord hath a kingdom to win.

"Nothing to do!" There are prayers to lay
On the altar of incense, day by day;
There are foes to meet within and without,
There is error to conquer, strong and stout.

"Nothing to do!" There are minds to teach
The simplest form of Christian speech;
There are hearts to lure with loving wile
From the grimmest haunts of sin's defile.

"Nothing to do!" There are lambs to feed,
The precious hope of the Church's need;
Strength to be borne to the weak and faint,
Vigils to keep with the doubting saint.

"Nothing to do!" and thy Savior said,
"Follow thou Me in the path I tread."
Lord, lend Thy help the journey through,
Lest faint, we cry, "So much to do!"

Religious Gadabouts.

Some time ago the following advertisement appeared in a certain paper: "A minister's widow offers a comfortable home, with superior board, in a large house near several places of worship." "Near several places of worship!" A most desirable arrangement for the nomads of the religious world. Probably her lamented partner had often bemoaned the wandering habits of some of the members of his flock, to whom the arrival in the neighborhood of a new pulpit star was an irresistible temptation to leave their own place in the sanctuary empty. She would take advantage of this roving tendency, and pitch her tent in a region where the restless spirits of the age might find a center from which they could easily indulge their erratic tastes.

I fear that the rovers have increased in numbers of late years. The ease of transit from place to place is quite a godsend—or rather, perhaps, we should say, a devil-send—to itching ears. There are celebrated preachers whose congregations are swollen by the number of religious squatters that visit their sanctuaries. To them each place of worship is a sort of "no man's land" or "everybody's acre." They get their spiritual living as the traveling showmen obtain their temporal supplies, by carrying their baggage—in their case a big Bible tucked under their arm—from place to place. Over the coffee cups on Sunday morning there is a lively discussion on the question, "Whom shall we hear to-day?" And in the case of a want of unanimity, the members of the family go their several ways, and at the dinner-table relate their various experiences, dissect the sermons and enlarge on the peculiarities of the preachers they have heard. This practice is unfriendly to the progress of the spiritual life. It weakens, if it does not destroy, the spirit of worship, because it makes more of hearing the minister than it does of quiet harkening to the voice of God. It fails to recognize that the great purpose of the gospel ministry is to build up the Christian life, course upon course, so that it may grow into a holy temple of the Lord. It ignores the privilege of Christian worship and fellowship with kindred hearts, one of God's most precious means of quickening, and stimulus to all that is good and holy. The sacred electricity of contact soul with soul in constant worship together has a sanctifying power over the whole man. It is a blessing of family life carried into a higher sphere. The house of God is not a hotel, a caravansary, but a home with common interests and pleasures, in which all should play a part. The song and prayer ought to be a common outgoing of brotherly and sisterly hearts, praising in the same devout key and pleading for gifts that will satisfy the mutual wants of the worshipers. Knowledge of one another helps us all. The vagrant worshiper is just a stranger, caring for nobody but the preacher, and often only caring for him during the time that the strange voice supplies him with a mental tonic or a spiritual pick-me-up.—Christian Intelligencer.

Won with a Word.

I am sometimes startled at the ease with which a soul can be won. And I am often humiliated when I think of the many times and the many opportunities in my life which I have wasted and not used for the winning of souls to Christ. I want to illustrate the ease with which a soul can be won. Not very long ago, in a strange city, as the hackman got down off his box and opened the door to let me out, I dropped a quarter in his hand and as I did so I grasped his hand and said to him: "Good-night; I hope to meet you again in glory." I had often done that and I thought nothing of it in this case. I went into the house, met my host and retired for the night. About midnight my host knocked at my chamber door and said: "Chaplain, that hackman has come back and he says that he has got to see you to-night. I told him he had better wait until morning, but he said, 'No, sir, I must see him to-night and I know that he will be willing to see me.'" When the hackman came up, a broad-shouldered, rough-looking man with a great whip in his hand, he stood there in my presence with the tears rolling down his cheeks like rain. Said he, "If I meet you in glory, I have got to turn around. I have come to ask you to pray with me." What a privilege it was to pray with that man! What a privilege to point him to Jesus—and yet I never saw him before in all my life. There are 10,000 men in this country that have not had an invitation to come to God in all their lives.—Bishop McCabe.

Alone with God.

No great purpose has ever been achieved by any individual until his spirit has first gone out into some wilderness solitude, and there discovered its absolute invincibility when it relies upon no help but that of God. This is the experience of all the greatest among men. They go apart from their fellows for a while, like Moses into the land of Midian, or like our Lord Himself into the wilderness, or like St. Paul into the Arabian desert, and there, in solitary communion with God, they come to themselves. From that communion with God, from that highest of all companionships, they drink in strength to fit them for the work of their lives. Alone with God they see visions which fill their souls; visions which never fade afterward, even in the light of common day, but which serve as beacon lights to guide them, through storm and darkness, till the purpose of their lives is fulfilled.—Edwin H. Eland.

Be Cheerful.

We should train ourselves to see the good things, the brightest things of life. There are few habits more common, even among Christians, than this of seeing and remembering unpleasant things and being blind to and forgetting the pleasant things, and there is no habit which is more inimical to cheerfulness.

The truth is, there are in the ordinary life a thousand pleasant things to one that is unpleasant. It is a shame, therefore, to let the one roughness of pain spoil for us all the gladness of a thousand good things, the one discordant note mar for us all the music of the grand symphony.

Subjects of Thought.

Be wise, soar not too high, but stoop to rise.

Deep streams move with silent majesty, shallow brooks babble over every tiny stone.

If somebody would only pull the sled uphill for us life would be one long, delightful slide.

Nothing engages our interest and attention more than some of the things that never happen.

"It is the length of patience, and endurance, and forbearance, that much of what is good in mankind and womankind is shown."

Every man carries in his head a mental camera, with which he is always taking snap-shots of his fellow men. Some, if not all, of these plates are worth developing.

Life is a train of moods like a string of beads, and as we pass through them, they prove to be many-colored lenses which paint the world their own hue, and each shows only what lies in its focus.

A farmer who should sit still and hope for a rich harvest when he had neither prepared the ground nor sown the seed would justly excite our ridicule; yet we do exactly the same thing when we hope that the months or years may yield to us fruits which we have never planted, and benefits which we have never earned.

If courage casts out fear, it also casts out egotism. Indeed these two are close companions, and are rarely sundered. It is because we are so self-centered that we are afraid of what will be thought or said of us. As far as we forget ourselves this fear drops from us. A great principle, a noble idea, taking possession of one, drives out thoughts and fears about self.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L HUTCHINSON .. of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

JUDGE MAGUIRE'S ANALYSIS OF THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Judge Maguire's remarks concerning the late Republican Convention will be read with interest. He says:

"The Republican platform, as published in the Post, is a most extraordinary piece of composition. What is good in it is seriously copied from the Democratic platform adopted last week. That document seems to have been taken as a framework and filled in largely with the personal abuse and misrepresentation of one which the convention has made so conspicuous a part of its declaration of principles. Their framework was good, but their filling is bad. I think it is the first time in our political history a State Convention representing a great convention has descended, in its platform, to personal abuse of an opposing candidate and to solemn criticism of his opinions on questions not involved in the campaign. The abusive part of the platform is false and was known to be false by the corporation attorneys who penned it. What motive inspired the falsehood—whether malice, averice or fear—I need not say; but it had a motive and that motive was not far removed from the professional employment of some leading members of the corporation-ridden convention. The statement in this Republican platform that, 'at the commencement of the late war' I stated that 'the seizure as prizes of war of our navy of certain Spanish vessels was no better than piracy' is an absolute and wilful falsehood. It was denied at the time of its original publication, and investigation then made by representatives of the San Francisco Call demonstrated its falsity. Since that time no honest man has repeated it and no intelligent man has believed it. This personal vilification not only belittles its platform but brands it and its platform with a stain that highminded men must regard as infamous.

"What could be more absurd than the plank in opposition to 'the doctrine of the single tax,' which the platform declares to be both 'socialistic and anarchistic'? Socialism and anarchy are directly contrary theories of social organization. The doctrine, therefore, cannot be both socialistic and anarchistic. In truth, it pertains to neither socialism nor anarchy. It is inconsistent with the theory of socialism and impossible in a state of anarchy. It is inconsistent only with government by popular sovoreignty. I think it strange that a committee of twenty-one American citizens could be found who would allow such a declaration to pass unchallenged. But why is the declaration in opposition to the single tax inserted in the platform? Has any political party declared in favor of its adoption? Could any or all of the officers to be chosen at the ensuing election adopt the single tax or bring about its adoption? No. The Constitution of the State renders such action impossible. Before the Legislature and the Governor combined can make provision for the single tax a constitutional amendment must be adopted by a majority of the people of the State authorizing such legislation. More than that: As long as fourteen State Senators or twenty-seven Assemblymen shall oppose it no such constitutional amendment can be submitted to the people. It is therefore perfectly apparent that the convention did not consider its opposition in any way necessary to prevent the adoption of the single tax at the present time, and that this negative plank was inserted for an ulterior purpose, namely: To divert public attention from the real issue of opposition to corporate monopoly represented by the Democratic platform. This insulting attempt to fool the people will meet with popular ridicule and repudiation.

"The declaration that the last Congress 'unanimously passed a law providing for the collection of the indebtedness due from the Central and Western Pacific railroads to the Government' is not true in any particular. The law in question was passed by the present Congress at its last session. It does not provide for the collection of the debts, but postpones their collection under former laws and provides for refunding them. The platform commends the course of Mr. Barham in voting to refund the Central Pacific railroad debts, of Mr. Hilborn in voting against it, and of Mr. Loud in not voting at all. It favors foreclosure of the Pacific Railroad liens after indorsing the act postponing foreclosure. The promise to reduce freights ane fares is as vague and unsubstantial as could be made. The convention was quite courageous in making any reference whatever to the improvement of San Pedro harbor, in view of its notorious record on that subject.

"It distinctly approves of government by injunction and condemns Democratic opposition to it. It declares for the gold standard and urges further attempts to secure an impossible international agreement to abolish the gold standard. It favors the construction of the Nicaragua canal, but does not oppose Government subsidy for that purpose to a private company. Presumably, therefore, it favors construction on the Pacific Railroad plan. On the whole, it is the most unstatesmanlike platform that I have ever read."

One of the most graceful acts ever done by the Democrats as a party in this or any other State was the adoption at Sacramento of a resolution indorsing the work of the administration during the war epoch, and extending congratulations to President McKinley. The section of the preamble reciting that the result "has been accomplished by the union of all our people, irrespective of condition or party affiliations, animated by the most ardent patriotism and inspired by the desire to carry liberty to a downtrodden people," is American to the core.

MARRIED.

GIALIAM-CURTIS—At Big Pine, August 21, 1898, by Rev. W. F. McClure, George W. Gilliam and Mrs. M. E. Curtis.

DIED.

WHOOLEY—At Camp Independence, August 31, 1898, Michael Whooley, a native of Ireland, aged 52 years.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FAIR PRIVILEGES.

BIDS FOR TRACK and other Privileges will be received by the Board of Fair Directors, at Big Pine, Cal., up to September 15th.
Address, R. W. THOMAS, President.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR MEMBER OF ASSEMBLY.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for Member of Assembly, Sixtieth District, subject to action of Joint Democratic Convention of Alpine, Mono and Inyo Counties.
WHITE SMITH.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.
DAVID HOLLAND.
Lone Pine, Aug 16, 1898.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.
WM. D. DERY.
Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for County Assessor, subject to action of the Republican County Nominating Convention.
A. O. COLLINS.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

THE undersigned respectfully announces himself a candidate for Supervisor, Third District, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention.
JAMES JONES.
Fish Springs, August 11, 1898.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for Assessor of Inyo Co., Calif., subject to the action of the Democratic-Free Silver Fusion Convention.
J. R. ELDRED.
Dated Big Pine, Inyo Co., Calif., July 30, 1898.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
A. M. GIVEN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention
J. J GUNN.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be candidate for the office of assessor of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
GUILFORD P. BOURLAND.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
W. L. HUNTER.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I will be a candidate for the office of Assessor of Inyo County, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
W. W. YANDELL.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
MATZEY MERTEN.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Nominating Convention.
D. J. HESSION.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
CLAY HAMPTON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney of Inyo County, subject to action of the Democratic Couvention.
P. W. FORBES.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows:

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes
	No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No. 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wenkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide, respectively being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of lodge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; hence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rock marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.04 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.24 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L. No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.59 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 2.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 1.92 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE, "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location, in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 4 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1.)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C. No. 2 north end of lode, north 56 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.8 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.45 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing 1.42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks mark d K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant and stake H No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 8¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 2½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.75 chains to stake, from which stake K on west of lode bears south 1½ degree west 765 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rock marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K No. 1, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 8¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 2½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine south 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 8¾ degrees east 11.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the easterly terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.22 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176 ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Caetus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mining mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.
Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff.
P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; N½ 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 35 east, M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
F. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.
J. M. Keeler, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The fracl N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all fracl Section 5, Township 17 south, and fracl S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $18.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2 1898

Assessor Chalfant has been in town for the past two or three days on official business.

The dancing and supper party of last Friday night proved a grand success in every way.

Geo. H. McCord, of Kings County, is the Republican nominee for State Senator from this district.

Chas. S. Lewis, formerly of the INDEPENDENT force, left to-day for Rochester, N. Y., his future home.

W. C. Wilson, the Mojave merchant, was in town yesterday, homeward bound from a Mount Whitney excursion.

Republican primary elections occur to-morrow afternoon, for the selection of delegates to the nominating Convention.

Irv. H. Mulholland has gone across the High Sierras, per mule-back. He has instructions to get back in time to vote.

There is an apple tree in town from which ripe fruit is falling and at the same time displays a brand new crop of blossoms.

Miss Lucie Harper, of Virginia City, Nevada, is expected by to-night's train, and will, we hear, instruct the pupils of Taboose school district.

Monday last the United States Land Office, Independence district, was removed to the new building on the north-east corner of Edwards and Main streets.

Messrs. Boland & McKenzie have been testing and experimenting with a Wilfly concentrator, with results so satisfactory that they have ordered one, which they will place at Keeler for the purpose of working Cerro Gordo silver lead ores.

In the last issue of this paper occasion was taken to intimate that the weather clerk ought to put more "precipitation" in his reports. The item was only put in to fill a two-line space, but it rained the next day all right. Great is the power of the press.

In the nomination of Irv. H. Mulholland as the Democratic candidate for the Surveyor-Generalship, Inyo has for the second time been recognized on a State ticket. The first was Judge A. R. Conklin's race for the Lientenant-Governorship. We congratulate our fellow-Inyoite on his good fortune in landing this nomination.—Inyo Register.

The members of the Athletic Club will give a social hop for the benefit of their treasury to-morrow evening, at the Pavilion. The boys "stood in" valiantly last week at the girls' entertainment, and the young ladies should repay the compliment by turning out in goodly numbers to-morrow. Dancing will begin promptly at 8:30 and quit at 12. Admission, $1 a couple.

There are 340 new voters registered in the county, distributed in the precincts as follows: Round Valley, 11; Lincoln, 17; Laws, 11; Bishop, 30; East Bishop, 23; Polita, 3; Big Pine, 44; Fish Spring, 10; Taboose, 3; Independence, 32; Citrus, 9; Georges Creek, 20; Lone Pine, 22; Cerro Gordo, 4; Keeler, 4; Olancha, 2; Darwin, 25; Modock, 3; Mountain Springs, 5; Ballarat, 18; Panamint, 44.

J. D. Mairs and J. W. Murphy were in town during the week, having completed the construction of a trail through the Kearsage Pass connecting with trails leading anywhere and everywhere all over "the other side." For this purpose about $150 was subscribed by Independence and the work has been well done. The heretofore dangerous "steps" have been blasted through or around, and a smooth, safe trail is the result, and so fixed that rocks cannot fall into it. The work was continued over the summit to Bullfrog lake, about twenty miles from this town. The Sierra Club will amend its map accordingly.

Concerning the Fair our Big Pine correspondent says: The program shows a liberal string of purses, and the public can rest assured of a square deal at the track from start to finish. The track (a half-mile circular) was surveyed by Prof. Dixon, and is rapidly approaching completion under the direction of A. P. Smith and Harry Ober. The premium list will soon make its appearance, confirming the statement of the liberality of the management in the matter of awards. A committee of three—Mrs. Clara Mitchell, Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Showalter—will determine the premiums in the departments of cookery and ladies' home industry. The committee on evening entertainments report: A literary contest, agricultural address, baby show and a rousing hop for Friday evening, September 23d.

A party comprising S. G. Druillard of Sheriff's office, Wm. Borgwardt, T. A. Baker, City Marshall, and H. Vincent Wallace, an assayer, of Bakersfield, spent a couple of days in town during the week. A part of their "outing" was occupied by a trip from Rowan's ranch to the trail up Division creek, crossing the divide to headwaters of south fork of Kings river, with a return to this side again via. Rawson creek. They were amazed at the value and grandeur of that region, unsurveyed by the Government, unpoliced by the State and devastated by sheepmen. Amongst other features, including a "find" of fine looking silver ore, they discovered a vast natural reservoir of water. In an area of less than 15 miles in length by 3 or 4 in width, 35 lakes were seen, two of at least one-half to three-fourths of a mile long by 400 to 600 yards wide and of an average depth of 80 feet. These lakes should pour their contents into Kings river, and the expenditure required to tap them would be comparatively small when the advantages to farmers and others are considered.

Sudden Death of Frank Sorba.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner Woodin was summoned to Keeler by a telegram and messenger announcing the death of Frank Sorba. The deceased came in from Darwin last Monday, reaching this place on the following morning, and on Wednesday evening started back. He consulted Dr. Woodin during his brief stay here, but kept moving about until he fell dead at Keeler, presumably from heart disease.

Frank Sorba was born in Corsica, in 1864. The last twenty-four years of his life, until very lately, were spent in active mining, in Cerro Gordo, Beveridge and Panamint, but his greatest success was with the now noted Sorba mine at Darwin, where his aged father, Ambroise Sorba, still resides. The old gentleman is a cousin to the late President Faure of France. The sudden passing away of Frank is sad in many respects, as he was a brave but kind-hearted man, only too liberal for his own good.

Thank You.

We desire ty think the young ladies of Independence who worked so hard to raise the necessary funds to send our little Helen to San Francisco to be examined by a specialist to see if anything can be done for her eye.

We also desire to thank the Odd Fellows for their generous gift, and all others who so generously contributed for the above object.

THOS. H. and S. J. NICHOLAS.

Mining Exhibits

BIG PINE, Aug. 29.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT — At a recent meeting of Board of Directors of Fair management the Secretary was instructed to address all Inyo County mine proprietors, soliciting mineral exhibits for the coming Fair. Hoping you and all others may loan or contribute specimens for that purpose, I remain, truly yours,

E. SPENCER,
Sec'y Board Directors.

[redacted]

Church Notice.

The order of religious services will be as follows until further notice:

Independence—Preaching service every Sunday evening commencing at 7:30.

Lone Pine—Every Sunday morning (excepting the last Sunday of each month) commencing at 11 o'clock.

George's Creek's—The first and third Sunday of each month to commence at 2:30 o'clock.

Liberty—The last Sunday of each month to commence at 2 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to be present at these services.

THOS. H. NICHOLAS, Pastor.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending September 2, 1898:

Highest barometer	29.884	29th
Lowest "	29.476	31st
Highest temperature	92	26th
Lowest "	54	31st
Mean "	74.2
Average dew point	26.8
Average humidity	24.3
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	30 N.W.	29th
No. clear days	6
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	1
No. rainy days	2
Precipitation for week	0.10

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

At the Nevada Mission Conference, held at Carson last week, Rev. Thos. H. Nicholas, of the Independence charge, was appointed to that of Loyalton, in Sierra Valley. We have not learned who is to be his successor here.

And now the great white Tzar of Russia appeals to all Europe to disarm, a profoundly wise thing to do—for Europe.

LEGAL.

Notice of Sale of Mining Property.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that in pursuance of an order of sale made by the Superior Court of the County of San Diego, State of California, on the 12th day of August, 1898, in the matter of the estate of W. H. Halbert, deceased, the undersigned administrator of said estate, subject to confirmation by said Court, will sell at private sale an undivided one-half interest in and to the following described mining property, situated in the Panamint Mining District, in the County of Inyo, in the State of California, which said mining property consists of seven claims located under the following names, to wit: "John G. Carlisle Mining Claim," "Grover Cleveland Quartz Mining Claim," "Kentucky Mine," "Texas Mining Claim," "Sun Rise Mine," "Never Give Up Quartz Mining Claim," "Joker Quartz Mining Claim." Abstract of title to said claims can be seen at office of V. E. Shaw, over First National Bank, San Diego, California.

The sale will be made on or after September 12th, 1898, and bids will be received at the office of V. E. Shaw, Rooms 7 & 8, over First National Bank, in the City of San Diego, in the State of California. Said sale will be for cash in Gold Coin of the United States, ten per cent upon the amount of bid payable upon the acceptance of the bid and the balance of purchase price payable upon confirmation of sale.

C. F. KAMMAN,
Administrator of the Estate of W. H. Halbert, deceased.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

Thomas Summers, the Administrator of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 17th day of September, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell as much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court.

Dated August 26th, 1898.
E. H. MACK, Attorney for Administrator.

The Eleventh

ANNUAL FAIR

EIGHTEENTH AGRICULTURAL DISTRCT,

INYO, MONO AND ALPINE COUNTIES,

WILL BE HELD AT

Big Pine, Cal., Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23, 1898

The following racing events will occur, under the management of the Board of Directors:

SEPTEMBER, 1898.

TUESDAY, 20th—Running—Indian Pony race, one mile dash $15.00
Saddle horses, half-mile dash 50.00

WEDNESDAY, 21st—Trotting, one mile and repeat, 2 in 3, 3-minute class 75.00
Half mile and repeat, 2-year olds .. 50.00

THURSDAY, 22d—Running—Half mile dash, free for all 100.00
Gents Bicycle Race—One-half mile and repeat, 2 in 3 ..... 15.00

FRIDAY, 23d—Trotting—One mile and repeat, 2 in 3, free for all ... 100.00
Ladies' Bicycle race—One half mile dash, entrance free 15.00
Squaw Race—One-eighth mile 5.00

FREE for Inyo, Mono and Alpine Counties.

Entrance, 10 per cent of purse.

Entrance closes 6 p. m. on the day preceding the race.

National trotting rules to govern trotting races and California State Agricultural rules to govern running races.

Not less than three to enter and two to start.

For any further information as to above racing address

A. P. SMITH,
Big Pine,
California.

For information concerning Stock and all other Exhibits address

R. W. THOMAS,
President Board of Directors.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞ Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

POLITICAL.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION

... AND ...

PRIMARIES.

A MEETING of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo County was held at Independence July 22d and arrangments made for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, to assemble at

BIG PINE, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20TH, 1898,

At the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10TH, 1898,

In accordance with the following apportionment, upon the vote for Wm. J. Bryan in 1896, upon the basis of one delegate for each precinct and one delegate for every fifteen votes cast therein, and one for each fraction of eight or over, to-wit:

Round Valley	2	Georges Creek	3
Lincoln	4	Lone Pine	3
Laws	2	Cerro Gordo	1
Bishop	6	Keeler	2
East Bishop	3	Olancha	1
Polota	1	Darwin	3
Big Pine	4	Modock	2
Fish Springs	2	Panamint	2
Taboose	2	Mountain Springs	1
Independence	7	Ballarat	1
Citrus	1		56

Polls are to be open from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock p. m., at the following places and under charge of the following officers, viz:

Round Valley—Inspector, John S. McGee; Judges, John Shipley and I. F. Smith. Polls at the School House.

Lincoln—Inspector, John Barlow; Judges, T. F. Hutchison and Thos. Thompson. Polls at School House.

Laws—Inspector, Barton McGee; Judges, Jas. McNally and John Dehy. Polls at the school House.

Bishop—Inspector, Jno. E. Meroney; Judges, H. N. Gunter and A. L. McGee. Polls at Court House.

East Bishop—Inspector, W. L. Coats; Judges D. A. Brassbaw and A. Dell. Polls at office of W. J. Dunn.

Poleta—Inspector, George Storey; Judges, T. J. Reed and L. B. Heise. Polls at Collins' House.

Big Pine—Inspector, Geo. E. Mitchell; Judges, W. P. Baker and Geo. W. Hall. Polls at Callow's Hall.

Fish Springs—Inspector, Jas. Jones; Judges, A. W. H. Smith and J. H. Coe. Polls at School House.

Taboose—Inspector, L. C. Montague; Judges, Jos. Hall and J. W. Harbaugh. Polls at School House.

Independence—Inspector, George W. Brady; Judges, A. V. Davidson and David Stubblefield. Polls at School House.

Citrus—Inspector, J. A. Pfohl; Judges, ——— and W. H. Ramsey. Polls at Pfohl's House.

Georges Creek—Inspector, J. S. Hunter; Judges, John Strohmeyer and J. W. Calbreath. Polls at school House.

Lone Pine—Inspector, Felix Meysan; Judges, Abraham Diaz and N. L. Apple. Polls at School House.

Cerro Gordo—Inspector, Patrick Clinton, Judges, J. Kelly and Jos. Stoffle. Polls at Clinton's House.

Keeler—Inspector, J. J. Morton; Judges, Sam'l Levy and Mike Anton. Polls at School House.

Olancha—Inspector, Ira W. Brown; Judges, W. T. Grant and W. H. Walker. Polls at Walker's House.

Darwin—Inspector, Paul Pfefferle; Judges, Henry Jackson and Henry Mettler. Polls at Store.

Modock—Inspector, John Doody; Judges, Thos. Gunn and Arthur Smith. Polls at Minietta Boarding House.

Mountain Springs—Inspector, A. V. Lewis; Judges, H. C. Hamilton and J. M. Davis. Polls at Company's Office.

Ballarat—Inspector, T. H. Henebry; Judges, R. Decker and J. McHugh. Polls at Decker's Office.

Panamint—Inspector, John Curran; Judges, F. Russell and Pat Langley. Polls at Store.

VOTING TEST:

Are you now in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold by the United States at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of any other nation?

E. ROBINSON, Chairman.
I. H. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., August 25, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on OCTOBER 3d, 1898, viz: William Vaughn, for the W. ½ Lot No. One, in N.W. ¼ Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: David Vaughn, Robert Roberts, John Willet and William J. Lake, all of Citrus, Inyo Co. Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., July 19, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on SATURDAY, September 3, 1898: David Vaughn, for the S. W. ¼ of Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John C. Willett, of Citrus, Cal.; William J. Lake, Julius C. Roeper and David A. Johnson, of Independence, Cal.

Any person who desires to protest against the allowance of such proof, or who knows of any substantial reason, under the law and regulations of the Interior Department, why such proof should not be allowed, will be given an opportunity at the above mentioned time and place to cross examine the witnesses of said claimant, and to offer evidence in rebuttal of that submitted by claimant.

S. W. AUSTIN,
Register.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00

☞ All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal

HORSESHOEING

... AND ...

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. MCKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. MCQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

SODA WATER .....
..... ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates. Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop, Cal.
C. E. JOHNSON.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	42	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	3:30 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Sumamit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an impesing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers t the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—on soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:20 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE ITEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains o Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leav promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the mo ning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

STORIES OF RELIEF.

Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. John Williams, Englishtown, N. J., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I cannot begin to tell you how I suffered before taking your remedies. I was so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without falling. I had womb trouble and such a bearing-down feeling; also suffered with my back and limbs, pain in womb, inflammation of the bladder, piles and indigestion. Before I had taken one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great deal better, and after taking two and one-half bottles and half a box of your Liver Pills I was cured. If more would take your medicine they would not have to suffer so much."

Mrs. Joseph Peterson, 513 East St., Warren, Pa., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have suffered with womb trouble over fifteen years. I had inflammation, enlargement and displacement of the womb. I had the backache constantly, also headache, and was so dizzy. I had heart trouble, it seemed as though my heart was in my throat at times choking me. I could not walk around and I could not lie down, for then my heart would beat so fast I would feel as though I was smothering. I had to sit up in bed nights in order to breathe. I was so weak I could not do anything.

"I have now taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and can say I am perfectly cured. I do not think I could have lived long if Mrs. Pinkham's medicine had not helped me."

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double-breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Didn't Suit Him.

"What are you doing now?" asked the man from the country who was looking over a drug store with a view to a possible purchase.

"Charging the soda we expect to sell today."

"Do you know all the people that come in here to buy things?"

"Of course not. We have hundreds of strangers every day, especially among those who come to patronize the fountain."

"That's what I reckoned, and me and you can't make no dicker. I hain't a goin to buy no business where they charge all the sodey in advance and then peddle it out to every Tom, Dick and Harry what comes along. What I want to buy is a drug store doin a strictly cash trade."—Detroit Free Press.

Why, Certainly.

Customer—I wish I had as good a head of hair as you have. I have tried everything to remedy my baldness, but with no good results.

Watchmaker—Have you ever tried rubbing your head with steel?

Customer—Certainly not. That seems to me ridiculous.

Watchmaker—Why ridiculous? Isn't it a fact that steel makes the hair spring?—Boston Courier.

Friendship.

Hazen—I like to see a man stick by his friends. Now, for instance, if a man told you I was an ass you wouldn't join right in with him, would you?

Dilby—No, sir. I'd rebuke him. I'd tell him that the truth should not be spoken on all occasions.—Boston Transcript.

In general the eggs of an insect are destined to be hatched long after the parents are dead, so that most insects are born orphans. Probably it is this that makes insects behave so horribly.—Boston Globe.

Though many guests be absent it is the cheerful man we miss.—African Proverb.

Which do you like best—grocer-bills or doctor-bills? Use the wholesome baking powder—Schilling's Best. 35

HERCULES
GAS
ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

Tobogganing In 1765.

It is interesting to note in Smollett's "Travels Through France and Italy" that when the novelist was making an excursion in March, 1765, from Nice across the Maritime Alps to Turin he descended the Piedmontese slope of the Col di Tenda toward Cuneo on a toboggan.

"Having reached the top of the mountain," he tells us in letter 38, "we prepared for descending on the other side by the leze, which is an occasional sledge made of two pieces of wood, carried up by the coulants (local guides) for the purpose. I did not much relish this kind of carriage, especially as the mountain was very steep and covered with such a thick fog that we could hardly see two or three yards before us. Nevertheless our guides were so confident and my companion, who had passed the same way on other occasions, so secure that I ventured to place myself on this machine, one of the coulants standing behind me and the other sitting before me as the conductor, with his feet paddling in the snow, in order to moderate the velocity of its descent. Thus accommodated, we descended the mountain with such rapidity that in an hour we reached Limon. Here we waited two full hours for the mules which traveled with the servants by the common road."

This is simply tobogganing used as a practical means of transit for travelers in the Alps.—Chambers' Journal.

Given as a Medicine.

A rebuke emphasized by a kindness is apt to be remembered. One day an officer walked into the office of one of the well known business men of the west.

"What do you want here?" he said to the officer.

"I've come to attach the wages of one of your men for a debt."

"Who is the man?"

The officer named him, and he was at once summoned to his employer's office.

"How long have you been in debt?" was the first question asked.

"Been behindhand for 20 years. I can't seem to catch up," said the man.

"But you have a good salary."

"I know it, but I can't get out of debt."

"You must get out, or you must leave here. How much do you owe?"

The whole was not much less than $1,000, but the employer immediately wrote his check for the amount, and said, as he handed it to the man:

"This will pay all your bills. If I hear of your running in debt again, you'll have to go."

It was what the doctors call "heroic treatment," and it not only astonished the man, but "revolutionized" him. He settled with his creditors, and then, by carefulness, kept out of debt.

Better than a genius for making money is the habit of paying as you go.—Youth's Companion.

Sailing on Fresh Water.

A Pittsburger who at one time served an enlistment on the United States steamship Michigan, a vessel of the United States navy which is stationed on the great lakes, tells a story of Charles V. Gridley, captain of the flagship Olympia, which led the fighting at Manilla.

Young Gridley, shortly after graduation at the Naval academy, was ordered to the Michigan for duty. A few days after he had reported the commander ordered the usual boat drill, and the crew went through the process of abandoning the ship. When the cutter of which Gridley was in command had gone a mile or two away from the vessel, the young officer, who had never before sailed on fresh water, inquired sharply for the water cask, which he discovered had not been placed in the boat.

"What do you fellows do for drinking water when you are called away from the ship?" he asked the cockswain with some asperity.

"Sure, sir," replied that worthy, "we generally dip over the side."

Gridley had nothing more to say, but the joke has been in circulation ever since.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Battleship and Cruiser.

The difference between a battleship and an armored cruiser is technical, and experts have stumbled over the matter. A battleship is supposed to have heavier guns and armor and to be better fitted to withstand hard knocks from an opposing force. But this does not always hold good, as may be seen in the case of the Maine as compared with the Brooklyn. The Maine was a battleship, but she was not so large nor so heavily armored as the armored cruiser Brooklyn. On one point there seems to be no dispute, and that is the fact that the cruisers are faster than the battleships, and it is conceded also that in most instances the battleships are better protected.—New York Tribune.

A Weak Brother.

Penn had a very strong aversion to tobacco. Once he came unexpectedly upon some of the Friends who were enjoying the fragrant weed, but out of respect for their great leader they hid their pipes, which, however, still continued to emit smoke. Perceiving this, the governor said pleasantly, "Well, friends, I am glad to see that you are at last ashamed of your old practice."

"Not entirely so," replied one of the brethren, "but we preferred laying down our pipes to the danger of offending a weaker brother."—London Tit-Bits.

A Change of Opinion.

"There's a good deal of human nature in a puppy," remarked the philosopher, calmly watching Fido tearing his best hat to pieces. "Almost as destructive as one of my little nephews."

Mrs. Bouncer—Why, professor, don't you see he's got your hat!

The Professor—Thunder, so he has! I thought it was one of the boarders' hats. Take that, you whelp!—Boston Transcript.

America's Greatest Medicine is the Medicine for You.

Do not experiment with untried preparations. Be satisfied only with the greatest and best, Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured multitudes of people and is kept on hand in thousands of homes as the only safe and reliable family medicine. It will defend you from the dangers of the heated season

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

Love Story of the War.

She was a bit haughty to me on that particular day, but I didn't care, for I was desperately in love with another girl.

The "she" of whom I am writing is my wife, and as my pencil traces the paper, she sits by my side, smiling and cooing softly to our youngest grandchild, a lovely baby boy.

I can't recall the day that I have not known my wife. We were children together in our lovely home in the Blue Hills. By some freakish relationship, for which one of our ancestors was responsible, Jane Merriam was nominally my aunt, though several years my junior. Her father and mother died before she was 12, and from that day on she made her home with our family, with whom she was connected by distant blood ties. I was away at school at the time of her bereavement and upon returning for vacation found her at the old Marcelline homestead. "Aunt Jane," the younger children called her, and I soon fell into their way, although she was Jennie to me, and we were playmates.

"Aunt Jane" was a beautiful child, with dark hair and rich gray eyes, and she had grown into a handsome girl, when at the expiration of my college term at Richmond I returned to my home in the Blue Hills to hang up my shingle as a lawyer. It was just a year before the breaking out of the war. I was getting along famously, when all my calculations were upset, and I enlisted in a company of volunteers from our little place to help Lee defeat the enemy.

It was on the day of my departure that Jane Merriam gave me that haughty answer, with which my story begins.

"Aunt Jane," I had said, when I told her I was going away that night, "I'll be back in less than six months. By that time we'll have driven the Yankees across our lines, and I'll celebrate the victory by marrying the girl I love."

"You don't know what you are saying," answered Aunt Jane, with a haughty stare. "I fear the Yankees will do us all great harm." Tossing her beautiful head that I might not see her furiously blushing face, she ran into the house.

There was Yankee blood in Aunt Jane, although of a distant strain. Her great grandmother had come from England to marry Jane's handsome ancestor, from whom she inherited her dark beauty. "Aha!" I whistled softly to myself, "Aunt Jane's sympathies are a trifle divided!" I said nothing to the family about my discovery, but hurried away to take leave of Cousin Lucy Gordon. I had been in love with Lucy before I went away to college, and I fancied myself more desperately smitten than ever now that I was to bid her farewell. We were distantly related, Lucy and I, and she was of the same age as Aunt Jane, barely 21. Two women were never more strangely contrasted. Lucy was a butterfly, a doll with golden curls, eyes like the summer sky, lips like cherries and kittenish ways. She shed bitter tears and kissed her farewell. Without much coaxing on my part she promised that she would wait for me till the end of doom to become my wife. So I went away happy after all, for sweet Lucy's promise was the talisman that strengthened me and bade me hope in the terrible days that followed.

Several gushing, girlish letters came from her in answer to my passionate avowals of undying love and fealty. How they sweetened the hardships and dull, aching moments of those interminable days and nights!

I had been in several battles and a number of the boys from our place were either killed or maimed. Charlie Ferguson, my collegemate and the son of the district attorney of Marcelline, with whom I had been reading law, escaped without a scratch. Our good luck made us vow to stick together through it all, or see each other's bodies home, should fate deal more unkindly with us than it had.

YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'RE SAYING.

Months passed without a word from home. Then a letter came from Lucy, postmarked New York. It bore the marks of having been opened, censored and rescaled, to prevent contraband information, before it was sent to its destination—Lee's camp.

Lucy had been sent to New York by her parents to some of Aunt Jane's relations to escape the dreariness of the war at home. Aunt Jane was asked to join her, but she chose to remain with my father and mother and the smaller children in the dear old, desolate Marcelline home. The little sweetheart's letter was as gushing as ever. It was filled with endearing terms, and recounted enthusiastically how delightfully she was being entertained by a select circle of New York friends. Somehow, the ingenuous ring in the butterfly nature was lacking, that dictated that first letter from her new home, and my heart ached for it.

We were nearing the days of Gettysburg, and needed all the encouragement that should be given to men who realize that they are fighting for a lost cause. Our army had been victorious at Chancellorsville, and from all over the South came the clamor for Lee's army to invade the Northern States. Early in June our forces were centered at Culpeper, and Charlie and I were two of 100,000 men ready to sacrifice our life's blood for Lee and our country. In the waning days of June my friend received a letter from home. I caught him reading it in a corner of our tent by the light of his pipe, for the sun was just going down behind Culp's Hill.

"From home?" I asked anxiously.

"Yes, from Aunt Jane. She sends her love to you and bids you not to grow discouraged."

"Any word from Lucy?"

"None."

I had never known Charlie to be so reticent about his letters, which he usually handed me for perusal. But this I saw him put away in his breast pocket.

In the days that followed I had little time to wonder what had made my mate so downhearted and gloomy. Then came that memorable day in July, which none can forget who lived to tell its tale of horror. Charlie was shot by my side on Seminary Ridge. I saw at a glance that he was badly wounded and picked him up in my arms to carry him back to the lines.

REVERENTLY I OPENED IT.

There I laid him down, putting him in the care of one of our boys, whose arm was shattered by a bullet.

"Stay with him," I begged, "until I return, and if he should be dead, do not let his body be buried. I promised to return it to his poor old mother." Toward night, when the battle ceased, I hastened back to my friend Charlie. He had died while I was gone, and his body lay in a long trench with hundreds of others ready to be covered with earth as soon as the men who had dug this wholesale grave could catch their breath and complete their terrible work. The guard I had put over him stood by the side of the ditch where he lay.

"Lieutenant," said he, "Mr. Ferguson requested me to tell you that the letter in his breast pocket should not be taken out by any one but you. He also bade me tell you to read it."

Gently I lifted the body in my arms and from his pocket extracted the document he had left me. I thought it perhaps a memorandum of his last wishes, which he wanted me to carry out. The receptacle over his heart carried nothing but a letter. It was from Aunt Jane.

Reverently I opened it. I knew that Charlie was fond of her, but I never dreamed that he loved her and had asked her to be his wife.

Tenderly but firmly she refused him. "I love another," she wrote. "You may guess it is my old playfellow, Ben Sutliff, but he will never know. He is madly in love with Lucy—she has forgotten him. Yesterday we received the announcement of her marriage with a wealthy Boston merchant. Do not tell Ben this! He needs all his courage. It would be cruel to blast his hopes in these hard, trying times."

My eyes filled with tears as I read Aunt Jane's letter. A sigh for Lucy, yes, fickle Lucy, wrung itself from my heart; but the pain her faithlessness gave me was wiped out by Aunt Jane's divine love.

I placed the letter in the pocket over my heart. There it lay until I returned to Marcelline at the close of the war. Aunt Jane stood by the gate to welcome me. My father had died, but my mother was still there to greet me.

That night under the trees of the old homestead, with no other face but the moon for a witness, I told Aunt Jane of my find.

She turned scarlet and then deadly pale, but before she had time to fly from me I caught her in my arms and exacted the promise that made her my wife.—Utica Globe.

A Queenly Milkmaid.

The Queen of the Belgians and Princess Clementine, while driving in a pony-cart one day last summer, had a charming rural adventure, which the London Post describes:

They stopped at a farmhouse to buy a glass of milk. Nobody but an old, paralyzed woman was in the house, and she replied that no milk was left in the jugs, and that she was unable to go to milk a cow.

"Never mind," said the queen; "if you will allow me, I will go to the pasture. Just tell me where the jugs are."

"But, my dear lady, you are from the town, and you will never be able to milk a cow," objected the old woman.

She was mistaken, however, for a little later her majesty returned with a half-filled jug. Meantime, Princess Clementine had laid on the table three bowls, a loaf and the needful knives and plates. The old farmer's wife was served by the princess, who, it appears, greatly enjoyed the adventure.

The Largest Congregation.

The largest congregation in America is that of St. Stanislaus Kostka, in Chicago, which has 30,000 communicants. The number of attendants at the several Sunday services frequently exceeds 15,000.

A woman never gets so old that she outlives an attachment for the wedding presents which were given her.

A PHILIPPINE HEROINE.

One of the Philippine insurgent leaders is a beautiful woman whose life seems to be charmed. She has often rushed bravely into the very teeth of death from guns and cannon, but has never been wounded. Frequently we see people in this country who live so long that their lives seem charmed also, but the only charm about it is that they keep up their strength and vitalize their blood with that celebrated remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Happy Innocence.—"I wonder if those Busbys use laudanum on their baby nights?" "No. Busby sings it to sleep." "I did not know Busby could sing." "Well, the baby isn't old enough to be critical."

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

One War Correspondent—There is one religious rite I could take delight in. Another One—And what is that? "Swinging a censor."

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Two bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me of a bad lung trouble.—Mrs. J. Nichols, Princeton, Ind., Mar. 26, 1895.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

RIDING ON A DOOR.

The Steed Which a Cyclone Furnished an Impromptu Traveler.

Christian Van den Harvner, familiarly known in Celina, O., as Cyclone Johnny, is perhaps the only man living that enjoys the unique distinction of having ridden a cyclone astride a house door for a distance of over a quarter of a mile. This remarkable feat was performed not as a matter of choice, but perforce of necessity by the above named person when the cyclone swept across Celina in May, 1886.

Cyclone Johnny's description of the cyclone is graphic and thrilling. He was living at the time eight miles west of Celina, and on the night of the cyclone he and Mr. Bryan's family were watching the raging of the storm in the west. The electric display was wonderful, and to him it seemed as though the world was about to come to an end by fire. The flashes were so brilliant that the eyes could not withstand them. The family became alarmed and decided to go to the cellar for safety. The cellar was directly underneath the porch, on the west side of the house, and Harvner assisted in getting the children to this place of safety, and he was the last one to leave the house. Just as he stepped upon the porch and before he released his hold upon the doorknob the storm swept down upon him in all its fury. He went sailing through the air, over the tops of trees, the uppermost branches of which tore his clothes from his body. The gait he traveled was terrific, and it seemed but a second from the time he started until he found himself safely dropped into a large field uninjured, save for the scratches inflicted upon him as he sailed over the top of the trees. This field was a little over a quarter of a mile from Mr. Bryan's house, and Harvner wandered around in the darkness and driving rain until he met a searching party, among whom was Mr. Bryan, who, together with his entire family, were saved by their opportune flight to the cellar.

Encouraged.

"Has my daughter been profiting by your instructions in art?" inquired Mr. Blykins.

"Yes," answered the teacher. "I was a little discouraged at first. But I can now assure you that she is getting on."

"What progress has she made?"

"She has finally become convinced that she doesn't know more about it than the old masters."—Washington Star.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

The Only Thing to Do.

There was a time when the Illinois Central railroad was being constantly sued. This story illustrating the avidity of plaintiffs is related by the Louisville Courier-Journal. Emily A. Storrs, the famous Chicago lawyer, was approached by an old man with a note one day. The note had been found among the effects of a deceased relative.

"What's the nature of the note?" asked Mr. Storrs.

"I don't know, sir," replied the old fellow.

"Have you any idea who wrote it?" asked Mr. Storrs.

"No, sir," answered the note bearer.

"Well, do you know anything about the note at all?" asked Mr. Storrs.

"Nothing at all, sir," answered the old man.

"Well," remarked Mr. Storrs thoughtfully, "the only thing I can see to do in the premises is to sue the Illinois Central railroad."

Government Secret Codes.

Every government and almost every department has its secret codes of signs, figures or words devised by some clever code composer for use in the transmission of messages of supreme importance and with regard to which secrecy is of vital consideration. One which is said to be the cleverest of all those now in use is employed by the United States state department. It is called the "sphinx." The "sphinx" was devised by one of the officials in the state department and is as susceptible to changes as the combination lock of a safe. Hundreds of messages have been sent by it, and it defies all attempts to unravel its meaning by those unacquainted with the key.

Her Huge Secret Society.

A well known Washington woman was doing the cathedral cities of England last summer. Throughout her tour she wore a tiny American flag pinned to the waist of her traveling dresses. A good many of the English people whom she met did not understand or pretended not to understand what the flag stood for.

"You belong to some secret society, I perceive," said an English woman to whom she was introduced, pointing to the diminutive starry banner.

"[illegible] extended the Washington wom[illegible] of u[illegible]

"[illegible]

"yo[illegible]

"bu[illegible]

that [illegible]

day[illegible]

"I [illegible] the mean, subtle smile of a man who has saved money.—London Tit-Bits.

Wooing in England is, as a rule, the preliminary to a happy union. The latest statistics show that the average annual number of applications for divorce does not exceed 575, which is certainly small, considering that the number of Englishmen and English women who marry each year is 450,000.

In England less than a century ago it was not unusual for a man to sell his wife into servitude.

"A Perfect Type of the Highest Order of Excellence in Manufacture."

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa

Absolutely Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

..Costs Less Than ONE CENT a Cup..

Be sure that you get the Genuine Article, made at DORCHESTER, MASS. by

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.

ESTABLISHED 1780.

Bad Digestion, Bad Heart.

Poor digestion often causes irregularity of the heart's action. This irregularity may be mistaken for real, organic heart disease. The symptom are much the same. There is, however, a vast difference between the two; organic heart disease is often incurable; apparent heart disease is curable if good digestion be restored.

A case in point is quoted from the New Era, of Greensburg, Ind. Mrs. Ellen Colsom, Newpoint, Ind., a woman forty-three years old, had suffered for four years with distressing stomach trouble. The gases generated by the indigestion pressed on the heart, and caused an irregularity of its action. She had much pain in her stomach and heart, and was subject to frequent and severe choking spells, which were most severe at night. Doctors were tried in vain; the patient became worse, despondent, and feared impending death.

A Case of Heart Failure.

She was much frightened but noticed that in intervals in which her stomach did not annoy her, her heart's action became normal. Reasoning correctly that her digestion was alone at fault she procured the proper medicine to treat that trouble and with immediate good results. Her appetite came back, the choking spells became less frequent and finally ceased. Her weight, which had been greatly reduced, was restored, and she now weighs more than for years. Her blood soon became pure and her cheeks rosy.

[illegible] case is of general interest be[illegible] the disease is a very common [illegible] That others may know the [illegible]s of cure we give the name of the [illegible]cine used—Dr. Williams' Pink [illegible] for Pale People. These pills con[illegible]all the elements necessary to give [illegible]life and richness to the blood and [illegible]e shattered nerves.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.
SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE
Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by
Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

LOST,

The opportunity of saving MONEY, if you do not buy from us. We positively guarantee to give you a DISCOUNT of 5 to 25 per cent from any Price List, issued by any Pacific Coast Cash or Department Store. We can sell you everything you need, write for full particulars.
GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS,
218 CALIFORNIA STREET, San Francisco, Cal.
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in General Supplies.

Trade Mark. BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Trade Mark.
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once.
DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 841. New Series, No. 32

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 13. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 9, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1481.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	100
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

MY BAD LITTLE BOY.

Did you ever see him, my bad little boy,
Down on the sands by the sea?
That is his picture—my boy's own self—
With his big eyes smiling at me!
With his hands in his pockets, his hat awry,
And his face all covered with tan;
Oh, he was a bad little boy—my boy,
Who never will be a man!

He kept me busy from morn till night;
I lived in a Babel of noise!
He would romp and play in the roughest way,
After the fashion of boys.
He spilled my ink and he broke my pen,
I had never a chance to write,
Till the mystical music of winds and waves
Had lulled him to sleep at night.

But once in a while he would come and lay
His curly head on my knee,
And watch the Sun King going down
To his kingdom under the sea,
And talk in his odd little way of things
Too deep for my duller ken
After the fashion of some little boys—
Boys who will never be men.

Alas and alas for my bad little boy!
It happened one summer day
That the light went out of the tired eyes
And the little feet lagged on the way,
And just as the sun was going down
To his kingdom under the sea,
The angels came for my bad little boy
And took him away from me.

There is quiet now when I want to write,
There is never a toy on the floor,
Nobody teases the cross old cat,
Nobody pounds on the door,
Nobody loses or breaks my pens,
Nobody spills my ink;
I have plenty of time to read and work,
I have too much time to think.

And I think as I sit here alone to-night
In the shadowy silence and gloom
I would give the wealth of the world to see
My bad little boy in the room,
To hear the rollicking ring of his laugh,
To see him among his toys,
Or playing at leap frog over the chairs
After the fashion of boys.

I would give the world—for I miss him so—
To have him with me again!
My boy who has entered the silent ranks
Of the boys who will never be men,
And I think if an angel looked down to see
His song would lose some of its joy,
For all that was dearest in life to me
Is gone with my bad little boy.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A PRISONER IN ARMS.

CHANCITA sat on the rose-covered porch listening, but with inattentive ears, to the marching and countermarching of the militia which was drilling in the block below.

The troops were hourly expecting a call to active service in the war with Spain, but Chancita was not thinking of war, but of love.

To-night Manuel would come for his answer, and she had decided at last to give him her promise. The reproachful eyes of Tom Reilley haunted her, and her conscience remonstrated, but Chancita shrugged her shoulders in disdain. It is true she had encouraged Tom. Had even gone so far as to contemplate with pleasure the possibilities of the three rooms over his grocery, for the home-making instinct was strong in Chancita, but Tom was so hopelessly slow—unresponsive and as awkward as a schoolboy when she was kind, and when she openly scoffed at him he had never a word to say in reply, but stood looking at her with a pained, uncomprehending look. Now Manuel—the hot blood rushed to her cheeks at the thought of La Fiesta and the moonlight walk in the park. She thrilled at the memory of the way Manuel's arm had stolen around her and his dark head bent over hers until his mustache brushed her cheek. She had resented the kiss with a blow, and then Manuel, seizing her hands, had kissed her again and again til she lay trembling and subdued in his arms.

But Chancita's thoughts were interrupted by Lupe Valencia, who came running down the street with a shawl thrown over her head, Spanish fashion.

"Chancita," she exclaimed, breathlessly, as soon as she was within speaking distance, "Mrs. La Spada has been arrested. She wrote a letter to the Spanish Premier——"

"What folly," interrupted Chancita. "Mrs. La Spada cannot so much as scratch her name with a pen, and, as for writing a letter——"

"But 'tis true. I was there when they took her. She cautioned me to say nothing, for 'twas Manuel who wrote it, and she would not betray him."

"And what then? Can we no longer write to Spain without arrest?"

"O, the letter was opened at the postoffice. It urged the Spaniards to attack Santa Barbara; told how there was only one gatling gun on the coast south of San Francisco, and that all the troops were to be called away, leaving us defenseless."

"The traitor," exclaimed Chancita, springing up. "The double-dyed traitor. To enjoy the good things of a country and then—a stab in the back."

"Manuel hoped great things from the Spaniards—perhaps even a rancho in Cuba."

"It was a regular Judas trick."

Lupe shrugged her shoulders and slipped away, saying: "Well, there was no harm done. I just come over to tell you the news."

"Mother," called Chancita through the pen door, "if Manuel comes tell him he will find me near San Morro watching the drill."

Manuel did not follow Chancita. He felt that he had received his answer, and turned away with an angry light in his eyes and a curse on his lips. His family was in too great disfavor for him to care to mingle in a crowd of loyal citizens.

Tom Reilley, although a new recruit, was winning the approbation of the officers by his military bearing and the skill with which he executed the maneuvers of the drill, but his heart was heavy, for to him enlisting had meant more than the mere facing of danger. It meant relinquishing the last hope of winning the beautiful Spanish girl whom he loved.

Suddenly he looked up and met Chancita's gaze. Surely there was no anger there. Admiration shone in her eyes, and there was a wistful look in the drooping corners of her scarlet lips. Never had he seen her face so soft and tender. Forgetful of military discipline, Tom would have left the ranks and gone to her but for the sharp reprimand of the Captain, which recalled him to his duty.

However, the drill was soon over, and Chancita, womanly wise, lingered.

Walking home under the shadowy trees, Tom carried his first assault against the Spanish. Never was an attack more sudden nor a surrender more complete. What was said is a secret between them and the stars, but Chancita found herself a prisoner within the barricade of his arms.

"And the banns shall be published next Sunday," declared Tom, triumphantly.

"Why such haste?"

"That I may have a wife to look after my interests at home," said Tom, gazing tenderly at the sweet face resting against his shoulder.

And Chancita, smiling contentedly back at him, consented.—Boston Post.

AN ISOLATED RACE.

Ainos of Japan, Who Had Never Seen a Foreigner.

Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd writes for the Century, from personal observation, an article entitled "In Aino Land." Mrs. Todd says: In the summer of 1896, as a lay member of the Amherst College expedition which visited northern Japan to view the total eclipse of the sun, I had the rare opportunity of seeing the absolutely primitive "hairy Aino" of that region. In the southern portion of the island, near Hakodate and Sapporo, and about Volcano Bay, travelers have visited these shy and silent people. But several hundred miles north are many Ainos who, until the summer of 1896, were strangers to the members of any race but their own or the few Japanese who are establishing small fishing villages along the coast. The dwellers in the province of Kitami are too distant to be sought by visitors; and a foreign woman, the Japanese officials informed me, had never before reached Kitami.

Skirting the rough western coast by steamer, and rounding Cape Soya, the eclipse party located at Esashi, which must not be confused with another town of the same name near Hadodate. The news of the arrival of strange white foreigners spread quickly among the neighboring villages. Walking with stately tread, bushy-haired and bearded groups of Ainos often passed the expedition headquarters, apparently looking for nothing unusual, and giving no evidence of curiosity, yet never failing to see every foreign figure within their range. Humbly accompanying their lords, women and children frequently followed, far less imposing than the men. Somewhat larger, and apparently stronger, than the Japanese, although not taller, the older men are actually patriarchal, with long beards, and masses of thick hair parted in the middle. Many faces have a benign and lofty expression.

Driven gradually through ages from the south to Hokkaido, the Ainos are among the few races yet retaining, in this over-civilized world of ours, an utterly unspoiled simplicity. Their origin has never been satisfactorily traced, but they were certainly in Japan long before the present race of Japanese had arrived, and names clearly originating in the Aino tongue are still retained all over the empire. Gentle and subservient to the conquering race, it is evident that they formerly held more egotistic views than now, even fancying themselves the center of the universe, as is shown perhaps by an old national song:

Gods of the sea, open your eyes divine,
Wherever your eyes turn, there echoes the sound of the Aino speech.

Guarded by a Snake.

There was a stampede among workmen engaged in cleaning the Canner street sewer to-day. The sewer is a five-foot affair, and several men, under the direction of Daniel Lawlor, were inside sweeping the accumulation of sand and filth that covered the floor of the conduit knee deep.

Mr. Lawlor was in advance of others, laying out the work, when he heard a prolonged hiss issuing from an "eye" in the sewer, directly ahead of him. Turning his lantern in that direction he saw a huge snake of the most venomous species coiled upon a pile of hardened sand. Its head swayed from side to side, and its forked tongue played with lightning rapidity.

An alarm was given, and the workmen ran pell-mell for a manhole. Finally two of them ventured back into the sewer and killed the reptile with spades after an exciting fight. It was three feet long, and as big around as a man's wrist.—New Haven Spec. New York World.

In de Mawnin'.

De good Lawd hide me out er sight,
Fer dey got a ship th'ows dynamite,
En blows you up laik a streak er light;
En de war won't end in de mawnin'!

De good Lawd keep me day en night
Fum de ship dat come wid de dynamite,
Or I'll go ter glory on a streak er light,
En de war won't end in de mawnin'!
—Atlanta Constitution.

OUR SUNDAY SERMONS

A FEW SUBJECTS FOR ALL TO PONDER OVER.

Words of Wisdom, and Thoughts Worth Pondering Upon Spiritual and Moral Subjects—Gathered from the Religious and Secular Press.

Children.

THANK God for children, living or dead, here or in heaven! A childless home is like a leafless tree; the summer winds make scant music through the boughs, and the summer sun ripens no fruit on the branch. A cradle is often a "Gate Beautiful" in life where the soul receives some of the most precious gifts of healing; a gate through which the heart often finds its way up to the throne of God and out into the mysteries of the eternal world. Most profitable instructors—may our children be to us in many ways. Believe it, O parent, that when God sets a child in the midst of us he puts a looking glass there to see ourselves in. Our faults or our vices are often made to glare back terribly from the countenance and the conduct of those who sin our sins over again. Sharp schooling that, where the parent becomes the pupil! On the other hand, when I have seen a truly Christian pair looking with grateful joy on the child of their love as he came home with his prize from school, or as he stood up before the church to confess Jesus Christ in the fresh beauty of a youthful self-consecration, then I saw the mirror of childhood giving back the beautiful reflection of parental piety and grace. The early death of children has so often been turned to a glorious gain by the conversion of their parents; no trial is so often made a sanctified trial as that. The hand of a departed darling has led father or mother, or both of them, Christianward.—Rev. T. W. Cuyler, D. D.

Ye that Seek Me.

Come, while the blossoms of thy years are brightest,
Thou youthful wanderer in a flowery maze;
Come, while the restless heart is bounding lightest,
And joy's pure sunbeam trembles in thy ways;
Come, while sweet thoughts, like summer buds unfolding,
Waken rich feelings in the careless breast;
While yet thy hand, the ephemeral wreath is holding,
Come and secure interminable rest.

Soon will the freshness of thy days be over,
And thy free buoyancy of soul be flown;
Pleasure will fold her wing, and friend and lover
To the embraces of the worm will have gone!
Those who now love thee will have passed forever—
Their looks of kindness will be lost to thee;
Thou wilt need balm to heal thy spirit's fever,
As thy sick heart broods over years to be!

Come, while the morning of thy life is glowing,
Ere the dim phantoms thou art chasing die;
Ere the gay spell, which earth is round thee throwing,
Fades like the crimson from a sunset sky,
Life is but shadows—save a promise given
That lights the future with a fadeless ray;
Come, touch the scepter—win a hope in heaven
And turn thy spirit from this world away.

Then will the shadows of this brief existence
Seem airy nothings to thine ardent soul—
And, shadowed brightly in the forward distance,
Will, of thy patient race, appear the goal;
Home of the weary, where in glad reposing,
The spirit lingers in unclouded bliss,
While o'er his dust the curtained grave is closing—
Who would not early choose a lot like this?
—Willis Gaylord Clark.

Only Believe.

I approached the clerk of a steamer and asked: "Can I engage a stateroom on this evening's boat?" "Yes," was the answer. I turned and looked at the diagram or "plan" of the steamer's saloon and, selecting a certain room, asked that particular room be set down to my name. "I cannot promise you any one particular room at present, sir," replied the clerk; "our returns are not all in from the hotels, and I know not yet what numbers have been taken. But I will take your name and secure a good room for you." Feeling doubtful of the slim prospect, it being the season of midsummer and the traveling heavy by this route, I ventured to suggest: "Perhaps it may be that all the rooms are taken up, sir; how, then, shall I know that I shall have a room?" The gentlemanly clerk looked up into my eyes, and with a friendly, firm voice, replied: "Because I tell you so." I could only answer: "Your word is sufficient, sir; excuse me for doubting you."

As I walked away and through the crowded streets, I repeated several times within myself, "I have the stateroom; his promise is given to me; his honor requires he should fulfil it." When, an hour before the boat started, in the evening, I returned the clerk at once recognized me and, pointing to a certain number on the diagram, observed: "I have retained that room for you; it is among the best." And I had all day cheerfully "believed that it would be even as it was told me." (Acts 27: 25.) It is unnecessary to add even a word to apply this simple incident to God and his promise, or to man in his duty to believe him. It applies itself. If the promise of a man is to be taken at par, the word of God is greater and cannot fail. The "word of the Lord" is come unto us in those exceeding great and precious promises, and shall we not joyfully trust in them? And this is Christ's wonderful check, signed with his name, handed over to us to be filled up: "I say unto you, what things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."—Rev. W. H. Boole.

The Way to Prison.

As the heavy prison bolts turned on the minister, he looked sadly on the prisoners in their strange garments, and thought with more and more anxiety of his errand. He had come to see a young man of his congregation who had been convicted of forgery. The heart-broken parents had begged him to visit the prison, hoping the peace of the gospel might reach him, even in his gloomy cell.

As the minister kindly greeted him, the youth scarcely replied, but gazed with a sort of defiance. He began giving the mother's tender message, with all the interest the church felt in his welfare. At last the prisoner broke out:

"Do you know that you caused this?"

"What have I done?" replied the pastor, striving to understand his language.

"I began the business in your Sunday school. Don't you remember the Sunday school fair, when they first set up the raffling, and hid a gold ring in a loaf of cake? Just for twenty-five cents, too. I got a whole box of little books. I was pleased with my luck, and I went in afterward for chances. Sometimes I lost, sometimes I gained. Money I must have for lotteries. I was half mad with excitement; so I used other folks' names and here I am. Don't let the church come blubbering around me. They may thank themselves. Their raffling was what did it. It ruined me."—Ram's Horn.

Dr. Frank Crane's Epigrams.

The gospel is of a person not a plan.

The atonement was not to save us from the penalty of sin, but from sin itself.

God was in Christ; the atonement is the divine self sacrifice.

The only way to save men is by self-sacrifice, and in Christ God set us example.

We are not to be Christians, believing about Christ—we are to be very Christs, living and dying for men.

Christ's value to us is simply as he reveals to us the character of God.

The only way to take away my sin is to take away me; to kill sin in me is to kill me; this God does, for if any man be in Christ he is a new creature, the old man is dead, he has put on the new man—that is, God's influence as Christ upon us endows us with a new consciousness.

The sin against the Holy Ghost is the rejection of the present influence of God—it "hath no forgiveness," not because that it is an arbitrary "capital crime," but because it is refusing entrance to the only influence that can save us.

Curiosities of the Bible.

The following Bible curiosities are said to have been gained by a study of the good book by the Prince of Granada, heir apparent to the Spanish throne, during his thirty-three years' imprisonment at the Place of Skulls prison, Madrid:

"In the Bible the word Lord is found 1,853 times; the word Jehovah 6,855 times, and the word reverence but once, and that in the ninth verse of the 111th Psalm. The eighth verse of the 118th Psalm is the middle verse of the Bible. The ninth verse of the eighth chapter of Esther is the longest verse. The thirty-fifth verse, eleventh chapter of St. John is the shortest. In the 107th Psalm four verses are alike, the eighth, fifteenth, twenty-first and thirty-first. Each verse of the 136th Psalm ends alike. No names of words with more than six syllables are found in the Bible. The thirty-seventh chapter of Isaiah and the nineteenth chapter of II. Kings are alike. The word girl occurs but once in the Bible, and that in the third verse and third chapter of Joel; and the word boy but once, Zach. 8: 3. There are found in both books of the Bible 3,586,483 letters and 773,693 words.—Presbyterian Review.

For Jesus' Sake.

One of the first steps toward helping people spiritually is becoming acquainted with them. Just as a man needing a certain line of goods naturally turns first to the brand which he has seen oftenest advertised, so people in need of spiritual counsel will think first of their Christian acquaintances whose attitude is most open to inviting them. We may not see at a moment how a nod, a smile, a pleasant greeting, or a few moments' chat with those who would otherwise be strangers, can help Christ's cause; but these repeated expressions of good will are so many advertisements of the source whence spiritual help may be obtained, and the time is sure to come, sooner or later, when the cultivation of acquaintance will prove a means of leading to Christ.

Simplicity.

There is a grandeur in simplicity which is all its own. The plainest language is the most effective. The noblest acts seem at this time the simplest. True greatness is like the mountain that does not impress you with its massive ruggedness until you gaze back at it from the far-distant valley.

FLASHES OF FUN.

"Golightly boasts that he never changes his mind." "He can't. No one will swap with him."—Brooklyn Life.

"I can tell platonic love from other kinds of love." "How can you tell it?" "Platonic lovers always fall desperately in love with each other."

Wife (enthusiastically)—How much do you think we took in at the bazaar? Husband (quietly)—How many, you mean.—Boston Traveler.

Mr. Hunker—I have merely a speaking acquaintance with Miss Throckmorton. Mr. Spatts—You are very lucky; all her other acquaintances are listening acquaintances.—Judge.

Druggist—See here! Why didn't you tell that customer that we had something just as good? New clerk—Because he was after some postage stamps.—Puck.

"Old Grabber ought to be satisfied with the money he has." "He is satisfied—so much so that he wants a lot more of exactly the same kind."—Tit-Bits.

Sarah (yawning)—W-what's trumps? Alice—(indignantly)—What stupidity. Why, trumps was the card I turned up at the end of the deal—whatever that was.—Judge.

"Before a man is thirty he falls in love with every pretty girl he looks at." "Yes?" "And after he is thirty he falls in love with every pretty girl who looks at him."—Chicago Record.

"You have looked upon my face for the last time," he resolutely declared, as he put on his hat. "What are you going to do," she cried; "raise whiskers?"—Chicago Daily News.

Lady—Now that you have partaken of a good dinner, are you equal to the task of sawing some wood? Tramp—Madam, equal is not the proper word; I'm superior to it.—Chicago News.

Washington belle (to young naval officer—I suppose the hardships of your life at times, Lieutenant Sinecure, are simply frightful. "Ya'as, very. The cost of gold braid alone is something fearful."

"I saw a fine specimen of Whistler's art yesterday," said the girl who likes pictures. "Excuse me," said Mrs. Cumrox, gently; "but you mean you heard it, don't you, dear?"—Washington Star.

"Now that your son is a partner instead of a clerk, Mr. Hardly, does he help you in your business as much as formerly?" "A good deal more." "That's fine." "Yes; he never shows up at the office now."

Uncle (a lawyer)—Well, my boy, I'm sorry to hear that you are studying law. I can't see any way that a young lawyer can make money now. Nephew—Where there's a will there's a way.—Truth.

Benedick (scanning the butcher's bill)—What's this? A shilling a pound for shoulder of mutton? It seems to me that's rather high. Mrs. B.—Yes, dear; but you know that high shoulders are fashionable just now.—Tit-Bits.

"I'm proud of you," said the head of the firm. "I have letters from all over Kansas saying that they have seen our samples. How in the world did you manage it?" and he patted the traveling man on the back. "Cyclone."

"Ah," said a gentleman who was monopolizing the conversation, "it is easy enough to be good on $5,000 a year; but some of us have to be good for nothing, and"—looking round in self-satisfied way—"some of us are."

Mistress—Get dinner to-day on the gasoline stove, Bridget. Bridget—Plaze, mum, I did thry, but th' stove wint out. Mistress—Try again, then, Bridget—Yis, mum, but it's not come back yit. It wint out through th' roof.—New York Weekly.

"Thackeray a master of style!" repeated Chollie to the earnest person. "My deah fellaw, you pawsitively don't know what you are saying. I've seen dozens of pletchaws of the old Johnny, and not one of them showed a coat that had the least approach to a fit."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Author—How do you like my new play? Critic—It's simply great. The robbery in the third act is the most realistic piece of work I ever saw on the stage. Author (pleased)—Do you really think so? Critic—Of course I do. Why even the words spoken by the thieves are stolen.

A Word's Variations.—"Let me see," said the man who had picked up an old volume; "'don' means 'to put things on,' doesn't it?" "It depends upon circumstances," replied the friend, who was reading a newspaper. "At present the Don's sole purpose seems to be to put things off."—Washington Star.

Mr. Wellwood—How did you like Mme. Mebley? Miss Highrocks—She was wretched. Mr. Wellwood—I'm astonished to hear you say that. I thought she was in fine voice. Miss Highrocks—Oh, her voice may have been all right, but I'm sure the gown she wore never could have been made in Paris.—Cleveland Leader.

"The mask is torn off thy face!" she cried, with all the vehemence of the woman scorned, "and the cloven hoof is revealed!" The unworthy lover cowered back. "That," he muttered, for he was not unconscious of his deficiences, "doubtless arises from the fact that I cannot open my mouth without putting my foot in it."—Detroit Journal.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the girl with pensive, brown eyes and ink on her fingers, "I wish I had entered school a year sooner." "What is the matter, dear?" "Things are in such an unsettled state that I scarcely know what advice to give the country in my graduation essay."

MANILA OFTEN SHAKEN.

Dewey's Town Several Times Nearly Destroyed by Earthquakes.

The Philippine islands lie along the great belt of volcanic activity which extends from Japan to the Moluccas, says the Scientific American. Earthquakes, the usual accompaniment of volcanic activity, are too common to the Philippines to be remarkable, unless they tumble one's house about his ears. The light, basket-like dwellings of the natives, perched upon posts, sway about like cradles during these strange movements of the earth, and are often thrown out of perpendicular, but are rarely destroyed. The stone buildings of the Spanish, though usually built of light volcanic rock, or of coral, and with thick walls and low stories and projecting buttresses, to protect them from earthquakes, are frequently thrown down. Spanish Manila, the old walled town, the only city in the archipelago built of stone, has suffered most, and some of the streets are still blocked by the ruins of the great earthquake of 1880. In 1863 the city was nearly destroyed, and at frequent intervals since its foundation it has suffered loss of life and property. The Church of San Augustine was damaged badly in 1872.

STILL SHOWS ITS INJURY.

GEORGIA'S BIG BARREL.

It Has Two Stories, and Is Used as a Barroom.

The largest barrel in Georgia is located at Baldwin, a small town on the Southern Railway. Baldwin is just inside the Banks County line, which is a wet county, and, therefore, this large barrel is used as a bar-room and is known all over this section as "The Barrel." Its size is twenty-two feet long and sixteen feet in diameter, and if used as a barrel proper would hold about 40,000 gallons. It is so constructed as to have a first and a second story, but the second story has not yet been completed.

Mr. Henry Egli, one of the builders of this barrel, planned and designed it himself, and says that he thought of it seven or eight years ago, but had never had any inducement to build it, and when the town of Baldwin gave him two central lots 50x75 feet each to build it in their town he then, with this as an inducement, began the work and erected the barrel on one of these lots. He is the owner of the barrel, but not of the saloon. Mr. Egli has inherited the trade of a cooper, his father before him belonging to this class of workmen. He has built quite a number of very large tubs and barrels all over that part of the State.

THE BARREL BARROOM.

Last of the Defoes.

Lovers of Defoe, the author of "Robinson Crusoe," will regret to hear that James William Defoe, the last of the family and the great-great-grandson of the renowned writer, is still an outdoor pauper of the Chelmsford Union, in receipt of the modest pittance of three shillings a week. The old man, who is now in his 77th year, feels deeply the loss of his only son, Daniel, who died last year at San Francisco, Cal., at the early age of 22. The lad was originally placed at the Bluecoat School, but when his term had expired he chose a maritime life. One would have thought that among those who in childhood's happy hours have reveled in the pages of "Robinson Crusoe" they might have been some who would have come forward to free the closing years of the old man's life from the shadow of the almshouse.—London Chronicle.

A Legend of Aino-Land.

The legend runs that when a certain god and goddess were selected at creation to evolve from chaos the island of Yezo, they were endowed equally with materials and ability to complete the task. To the god were allotted the eastern and southern parts of the island, while the goddess was to attend to the western portion. They began together, vying amiably with each other during the progress of their work. But, alas! the goddess one day met a female friend, and, after the manner of women, stopped to chat with her. This friend, sister of Aioina Kamui (one of the most ancient forefathers—indeed the Adam of the Ainu race), must have been a seductive talker, for the two conversed idly a long time about their neighbors and acquaintances, while the god in the east kept steadily at work. Looking up suddenly, and seeing how nearly completed his portion was, and frightened at the state of her own unfinished regions, the goddess hastily drew together her remaining materials in a careless and slovenly manner, leaving this western coast in its present rugged and dangerous condition. But, add the Ainos in telling their legend, no one, even if disposed to grumble at the dangers of these shores, should presume to blame the Creator for such a state of things, as it is wholly the fault of his deputy and her tendency to gossip. The moral is said to be often pointed by their lords at women who talk too much: "Set a watch over your lips, and attend to your duties; for see how rough the west coast of Yezo is, and that all owing to a chattering goddess."—Century.

His Soul Was Heroic.

It was off the Horn. Waves such as are encountered only there in all the world raced irresistibly. The ship labored mightily through the night. In a lull the cry, "Man overboard!" rang from stem to stern. Without hesitation the helmsman put the wheel "hard up." The watch peered over the sides of the ship into the foam. All at once a man rushed up the companionway. He was in his night-clothes. Without waiting a moment, he leaped the rail, and plunged overboard. There was only death to be found in the boiling, benumbing waters. By some witchery of Neptune, a cross sea tossed the two men to leeward, and the ship dipped them up. They were both unconscious, and the hero had his man clutched by the hair. Even to the old sailors used to miracles of the sea the safety of the two was not so great a marvel as the fact that the man had dared to jump at all; for he was a timid, seasick landlubber making his first voyage, and his seeming cowardice had been the butt of savage scorn. How, then, had he outdared them all in recklessness? He was asked the question. How could he do it?

He answered simply that he had lain awake nights planning just what he would do if he heard the cry, "Man overboard!" It was so hard for him to overcome his instinctive fear of the water that he had mentally and systematically schooled himself to action. Thus, while his body cringed, his soul was heroic. This habit of mind made opportunity impossible to pass by. The intuitive response to his training swept him over the rail before he knew where he was.—Century.

Gipsy Dancing Girls of Seville.

In the Century Stephen Bonsal writes of "Holy Week in Seville." Mr. Bonsal says: On returning homeward we enter a gipsy garden, where, in bowers of jasmine and honeysuckle, the Gaditan dancing-girls disport themselves as they did in the days of the poet Martial. Penthelusa is as graceful and as lissome to-day as when, in the ages gone, she capured Pompey with her subtle dance—as when Martial descanted upon her beauties and graces in classic words centuries ago. The hotel-keepers in Seville are generally very careful to introduce their patrons only to gardens where the Bowdlerized editions of the dance are performed; but I commend to those who think they can "sift it out" the archaic versions which are danced naturally to-day, as they were in the days of the Caesars, by light-limbed enchainers of hearts, and flamenca girls with brown skins and cheeks that are soft like the side of the peach which is turned to the ripening sun; and in their dark, lustrous eyes you read as plain as print the story of the sorrows and the joys of a thousand years of living. Now they dance about with the grace of houris, the abandon of maenads or of nymphs before Actaeon peeped; and now, when the dance is over, the moment of madness past, they cover their feet with shawls, that you may not see how dainty they are, and withdraw sedately and sad from the merry circle, and sit for hours under the banana trees, crooning softly some mournful couplet in the crooked gipsy tongue.

Hissing.

Hising and applause in theaters began some time during the seventeenth century. "As the mediaeval plays in France," declares one writer, "were organized by the church, applause was forbidden, and in 1680, when a play by Fontenelle was produced, hissing was heard for the first time. The claque is said to have come into existence in France as early as the eighteenth century, when the number of comedians increased, and actors felt more and more the need of applause. In order to make it certain, the claque was hired. There was a rebellion against the claque almost as soon as the custom was first introduced, and its condemnation has been constant ever since. But the institution still survives in France."

Fire Insurance in Canada.

According to the Statistical Year Book published by the Canadian Government, in the twenty-seven years from January 1, 1869, to December 31, 1896, the people of Canada paid to the fire insurance companies of Great Britain, Canada and the United States $126,047,254 in premiums. During the same period the insurance companies returned to the people the snug sum of $86,958,343 for fire losses. In other words, the companies' profits from their Canadian business in twenty-seven years amount to $40,093,911, or nearly a million and a half of dollars every year.

"The fact that I was a good musician," said the lady from Johnstown, "was the means of saving my life during the flood in our town a few years ago." "How was that?" asked the young lady who sang. "When the water struck our house my husband got on the folding-bed and floated down stream until he was rescued." "And what did you do?" "Well, I accompanied him upon the piano."—New York Journal.

Flo—Do you love me, sweet? Will—Dearly. "Would you die for me?" "No, my precious girl; mine is an undying love."—Philadelphia Call.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRAKEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. BRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

"If we must pray for special favor," says an old writer, "let us pray for a sound mind in a sound body." Hercules' life with all its labors and sufferings is preferable to a life of luxury like that of Sadanapalus—a life of luxury and repose. The former brings virtue, the latter engenders misery—a field of misery into which virtue cannot enter. The human mind goes to weed when idle, and idleness "has brought sin into the world and all our woe." An idle man or woman does not encourage industry in others because it brings the contrast. One who has a sound mind, aided by a sound body, can accomplish so much more than the idle and luxurious that social intercourse of the one is divorced from the other. He who sets out to be habitually idle is like she who determines to be a professional invalid—inasmuch as each makes a success of the undertaking—and like the man who does neither good nor evil in the world, they cannot understand why they are not immensely popular. Since the whole object of education is teaching us to think, it will be a great day for many when they are taught to think how worthlessly they have financiered their time and what poor returns they have for the amount invested. The most valuable thing they ever owned is daily traded off for worse than worthless exchange.—Colusa Sun.

The railroad extension both ways to cover a gap through the lower Sierras between the Santa Fe and the Valley Railroads has taken on a most lively aspect. The deal is practically if not actually consummated for the organization of a corporation to build a railroad from Bakersfield across the Tehachipa mountains to Mojave or Rogers. By this means the great Santa Fe system will be connected with the San Joaquin Valley Railroad and gain an entrance to San Francisco over the latter road by the way of Bakersfield, Hanford, Fresno, Merced, Stockton and Port Richmond. In consequence, the 244,500 shares of Valley road stock have jumped to par, at the demand of Eastern inside speculators. The Sante Fe survey involves a tunnel over a mile in length through the Tejon Pass. The distance from Rogers to Bakersfield is about eighty-two miles, and the cost of construction the road is estimated at from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. An extension of the Randsburg Railway up Panamint Valley into Southern Inyo, as a feeder, will be almost inevitable and will then amount to that for which it is intended.

A number of capitalists in New York have about completed their plans for laying an American cable which will connect San Francisco with the Sandwich Islands, Australia and Asia. It was decided to lay the cable from San Francisco to Honolulu, thence to the Caroline group, thence to the Ladrones, one spur to run from the Carolines to Australia and another from the Ladrones to Manila and Yokohama or Tokio. The question of laying a wire from San Francisco to Sitka and thence to the Aleutian Islands was discussed. Work will be commenced at once on the Pacific ocean line, and it is stated that the President of the Pacific Cable Company is on his way to Vancouver, whence he will sail for Japan, the purpose of his trip being to make contracts with the Japanese Government and obtain from it a guarantee of support. The cost of the ocean line will be about $10,000,000, the distance being about 10,000 miles.

The Democratic nominee for Surveyor-General is Irving H. Mulholland, a resident of Independence, Inyo County. Mr. Mulholland is the editor of the INDEPENDENT, and for four years was Register of the Land Office at Independence. Inyo is in this Senatorial District and Tulare County should give Mr. Mulholland a rousing vote. He is in every way qualified for the office, and as Tulare and Kings counties have been in the habit of appropriating the Senator it would be perfectly proper to reciprocate by electing Mr. Mulholland Surveyor-General. —Tulare County Times.

There was not a dissenting voice in the committee on platform and resolutions of the Democratic party when a plank was presented favoring a Constitutional amendment to abolish the poll tax, nor was there any opposition in the convention when the platform was up for consideration. The injustice of collecting a head tax from the rich and the poor alike is now so generally admitted that not one man in that big convention could be found to stand up and argue in its favor.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F. Ginser, deceased, that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, all of the interest of said deceased at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to-wit: Mineral Hill, Mineral Layout, Breakaway, and Mineral Mound.

An undivided one fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled In the Matter of the Estate of John F. Ginser, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.

FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.

FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk. Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring Sts., Los Angeles, California.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

OMIE I. MAIRS, of Independence, hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for member of BOARD OF SUPERVISORS, Third District, subject to authority of the Republican County Nominating Convention

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR MEMBER OF ASSEMBLY.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for Member of Assembly, Sixtieth District, subject to action of Joint Democratic Convention of Alpine, Mono and Inyo Counties.

WHITE SMITH.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.

DAVID HOLLAND.

Lone Pine, Aug 16, 1898.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for County Assessor, subject to action of the Republican County Nominating Convention

A. O. COLLINS.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

THE undersigned respectfully announces himself a candidate for Supervisor, Third District, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

Fish Springs, August 11, 1898.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for Assessor of Inyo Co., Calif., subject to the action of the Democratic Free Silver Fusion Convention.

J. R. ELDRED.

Dated Big Pine, Inyo Co., Calif., July 30, 1898.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

A. M. GIVEN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention

J. J GUNN.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be candidate for the office of assessor of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

GUILFORD F. BOURLAND.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. L. HUNTER.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I will be a candidate for the office of Assessor of Inyo County, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. W. YANDELL.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a cantidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

MATZEY MERTEN.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Nominating Convention.

D. J. HESSION.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

CLAY HAMPTON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney of Inyo County, subject to action of the Democratic Convention.

P. W. FORBES.

POLITICAL.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION

AND

PRIMARIES.

A MEETING of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo County was held at Independence July 22d and arrangements made for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, to assemble at

BIG PINE, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20TH, 1898,

At the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for county offices and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10TH, 1898,

In accordance with the following apportionment, upon the vote for Wm. J. Bryan in 1896, upon the basis of one delegate for each precinct and one delegate for every fifteen votes cast therein, and one for each fraction of eight or over, to-wit:

Round Valley	2	Georges Creek	3
Lincoln	4	Lone Pine	3
Laws	2	Cerro Gordo	1
Bishop	6	Keeler	2
East Bishop	3	Olancha	1
Poleta	3	Darwin	3
Big Pine	6	Modock	2
Fish Springs	2	Panamint	2
Taboose	2	Mountain Springs	1
Independence	7	Ballarat	1
Citrus	1		56

Polls are to be open from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock p. m., at the following places and under charge of the following officers, viz:

Round Valley—Inspector, John S. McGee; Judges, John Shipley and I. F. Smith. Polls at the School House.

Lincoln—Inspector, John Barlow; Judges, T. F. Hutchison and Thos. Thompson. Polls at School House

Laws—Inspector, Barton McGee; Judges, Jas McNally and John Dehy. Polls at the school House.

Bishop—Inspector, Jno. E. Meroney; Judges, H. N. Gunter and A. L. McGee Polls at Court House.

East Bishop—Inspector, W. L. Coats; Judges D. A. Bradshaw and A. Dell. Polls at office of W. J. Dunn.

Poleta—Inspector, George Storey; Judges, T. J. Reed and L. B. Heise. Polls at Collins' House.

Big Pine—Inspector, Geo. E. Mitchell; Judges, W. P. Baker and Geo. W. Hall. Polls at Callow's Hall.

Fish Springs—Inspector, Jas Jones; Judges, A. W. H. Smith and J. H. Coe Polls at School House

Taboose—Inspector, L. C. Montague; Judges, Jos. Hall and J. W. Harbaugh. Polls at School House.

Independence—Inspector, George W. Brady; Judges, A. V. Davidson and David Stubblefield Polls at School House.

Citrus—Inspector, J. A. Pfohl; Judges, ——— and W. H. Ramsey. Polls at Pfohl's House.

Georges Creek—Inspector, J. S. Hunter; Judges, John Strohmeyer and J. W. Calbreath. Polls at School House.

Lone Pine—Inspector, Felix Meysan; Judges, Abraham Diaz and N. L. Apple Polls at School House

Cerro Gordo—Inspector, Patrick Clinton, Judges, J. Kelly and Jos. Stoffle Polls at Clinton's House.

Keeler—Inspector, J. J. Morton; Judges, Sam'l Levy and Mike Anton Polls at School House.

Olancha—Inspector, Ira W. Brown; Judges, W. T. Grant and W. H. Walker Polls at Walker's House

Darwin—Inspector, Paul Pfefferle; Judges, Henry Jackson and Henry Mettler. Polls at Store.

Modock—Inspector, John Doody; Judges Thos. Gunn and Arthur Smith Polls at Minietta Boarding House.

Mountain Springs—Inspector, A. V. Lewis, Judges, H. C. Hamilton and J. M. Davis. Polls at Company's Office.

Ballarat—Inspector, T. H. Hensley; Judges R. Decker and J. McHugh. Polls at Decker's Office.

Panamint—Inspector, John Curran; Judges, F. Russell and Pat Langley. Polls at Store.

VOTING TEST:

Are you now in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold by the United States at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of any other nation?

E. ROBINSON, Chairman.
I. H. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

LEGAL.

Notice of Sale of Mining Property.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that in pursuance of an order of sale made by the Superior Court of the County of San Diego, State of California, on the 12th day of August, 1898, in the matter of the estate of W. H. Halbert, deceased, the undersigned administrator of said estate, subject to confirmation by said Court, will sell at private sale an undivided one-half interest in and to the following described mining property, situated in the Panamint Mining District, in the County of Inyo, in the State of California, which said mining property consists of seven claims located under the following names, to wit: "John G. Carlisle Mining Claim," "Grover Cleveland Quartz Mining Claim," "Kentucky Mine," "Texas Mining Claim," "Sun Rise Mine," "Never Give Up Quartz Mining Claim," "Joker Quartz Mining Claim." Abstract of title to said claims can be seen at office of V. E. Shaw, over First National Bank, San Diego, California.

The sale will be made on or after September 12th, 1898, and bids will be received at the office of V. E. Shaw, Rooms 7 & 8, over First National Bank, in the City of San Diego, in the State of California. Said sale will be for cash in Gold Coin of the United States, ten per cent upon the amount of bid payable upon the acceptance of the bid and the balance of purchase price payable upon confirmation of sale.

C. F. KAMMAN,
Administrator of the Estate of W. H. Halbert, deceased.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

Thomas Summers, the Administrator of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 17th day of September, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell as much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court.

Dated August 26th, 1898.
E. H. MACK, Attorney for Administrator.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., August 25, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and receiver at Independence, Cal., on OCTOBER 3d, 1898, viz: William Vaughn, for the W ½ Lot No. One, in N.W. ¼ Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: David Vaughn, Robert Roberts, John Willet and William J. Lake, all of Citrus, Inyo Co. Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

FAIR PRIVILEGES.

BIDS FOR TRACK and other Privileges will be received by the Board of Fair Directors, at Big Pine, Cal., up to September 15th.

Address, R. W. THOMAS,
President.

The Eleventh ANNUAL FAIR

EIGHTEENTH AGRICULTURAL DISTRCT,

INYO, MONO AND ALPINE COUNTIES,

WILL BE HELD AT

Big Pine, Cal., Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23, 1898

The following racing events will occur, under the management of the Board of Directors:

SEPTEMBER, 1898.

TUESDAY, 20th—Running—Indian Pony race, one mile dash $15.00
Saddle horses, half-mile dash 50.00

WEDNESDAY, 21st—Trotting, one mile and repeat, 2 in 3, 3-minute class 75.00
Half mile and repeat, 2-year olds .. 50.00

THURSDAY, 22d—Running—Half mile dash, free for all 100.00
Gents Bicycle Race—One-half mile and repeat, 2 in 3 ..... 15.00

FRIDAY, 23d—Trotting—One mile and repeat, 2 in 3, free for all ... 100.00

FREE for Inyo, Mono and Alpine Counties.
Entrance, 10 per cent of purse.

Entrance closes 6 p. m. on the day preceding the race.

National trotting rules to govern trotting races and California State Agricultural rules to govern running races.

Not less than three to enter and two to start.

For any further information as to above racing address

A. P. SMITH,
Big Pine,
California.

Life member certificates of the 18th Agricultural District will be honored at the 11th Fair.

☞ The C. & C. R. R. will transport Exhibits free.

Premium List to be announced.

For information concerning Stock and all other Exhibits address

R. W. THOMAS,
President Board of Directors.

GRAND :-: CONVENTION BALL :-:

THE PEOPLE OF BIG PINE

Will redeem their promise of a Hop at Educational Hall—the largest in the County—on

Tuesday Evening, Sept. 20, 1898,

UNDER THE FOLLOWING MANAGEMENT:

Director and Floor Manager ..... E. H. OBER
Treasurer ..... SAM McMURRY, Jr
Secretary ..... G. W. HALL

Executive Committee:

ALLEN McDONALD, G. W. HALL, J. R. MILES, G. A. McAFFEE, H. C. OBER.

Invitation Committee:

BISHOP.
J. W. Hanby, W. L. Smith, Morton George, W. A. Chalfant.

ROUND VASLEY.
Willie Vaughn, Frank Evans.

POLETA.
John A. Collins.

TINNEMAHA
Upton Tracy, John Conners.

INDEPENDENCE.
Ernest Laird, Norman Mairs, D. J. Hession.

GEORGES CREEK.
J. S. Hunter.

LONE PINE.
Felix P. Meysan, Fred B. Stewart.

KEELER.
D. A. Johnson, Leon Marx.

The Best Music Obtainable. Supper at Williams House.

TICKETS, including Supper : : : : : : : : $2 50

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE
DEALER IN GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞ Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs

Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

—NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE—

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION,
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
—o—x—o—
Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.
—o—x—o—
Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.
OFFICE—GAL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—EAST LINK STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY
BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.
—o—x—o—
DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

SODA WATER .....
..... ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates. Will ship to all points, in first class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop. Cal.
C. E. JOHNSON.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.		From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv	10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6		11:25 a m		4:45 p m
Clifton	18		12:10 p m		4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26		12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38		1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	4[illegible]		1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	45		2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54		2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	65		3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Gillis	78		3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100		5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
			No. 3.		No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv	6:00 a m	Ar	7:25 p m
Kinkead	112		6:37 a m		6:48 p m
Luning	125		7:10 a m		6:15 p m
New Boston	131		7:30 a m		5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137		7:50 a m		5:35 p m
Rhodes	142		8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	150		8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	152		9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar	9:30 a m	Lv	3:50 p m
Junction			10:10 a m		3:25 p m
Basalt	167		11:10 a m		2:25 p m
Summit	175		12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	183		12:50 p m		12:35 p m
Benton	193		1:30 p m		11:50 a m
Hammill	204		2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv	3:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	239		4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbets	253		4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	267		5:35 p m		7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281		6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290		6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar	7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rail

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an impesing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras; and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers to the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—ere soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.		LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv	1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m		2:25 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m		3:08 p m
Carson	9:30 a m		3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 A m		5:15 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m		6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar	6:55 p m
	TO RENO.		TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv	7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m		7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m		8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m		9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m		10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m		11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:30 p m	Ar	11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains of Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00
Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.
Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9 1898

A. W. de Carroll, of Lone Pine, is visiting town to-day.

N. E. and A. L. Conklin were in from Taboose last Wednesday.

Dr. J. D. Blair's drug store is receiving a new coat of paint throughout.

George Collins, of Poleta, was here for a day or two on a probate matter.

Saturday last David Vaughn made final proof on his homestead, near Citrus.

The new Land Office building looks like a Sunday issue of the San Francisco Examiner.

The Railroad Company will transport all exhibits excepting live stock to the Fair free of charge.

The Indian school is in session at Camp Independence, with Miss Nellie Reynolds as teacher.

The people of Big Pine are working hard and leaving nothing undone to make the Fair a success.

There has been a filing in the local Land Office on 160 acres of coal land about 15 miles west of Randsburg.

E. Chenot has returned from the mountains in improved health, and finds his store improved and repainted.

Announcement of the grand "Convention Ball" at Big Pine, September 20th, will be noted elsewhere in this issue.

R. H. Blake and R. W. Thomas of Big Pine attended the Land Office last Saturday, proving up on a timber-culture claim.

Mr. Vaughn has erected a residence building on a lot north of the schoolhouse block—an extension of the town in that direction.

Term of Independence school begins next Monday. Teacher Janvier has arrived from the mountains, looking rugged as a miner.

Alvah K. Briggs, independent candidate for Sheriff, was hereabouts for several days, interviewing middle-of-the-valley voters, and has gone southward.

Democratic County primaries transpire to-morrow. Canvassing has been conducted on fair lines all around and all of the men now out would make good officers.

We have an intimation from Supervisor Eldred to the effect that school children will be in much less danger of breaking their necks while crossing the creek east of the court house lot, because he intends to fix it.

See notices of legal sales of mining property in the Telescope Range. The Halbert mines and the Mineral Hill group are within sight of each other and nearly on the same mountain, but at greatly different elevations. Some of the Ginser claims are not in South Park district, but in Panamint.

At Bishop, on Monday morning last, John Kewley Sr. died suddenly, dropped dead, from heart failure. He was 60 years of age, a native of the Isle of Man, and came to Inyo somewhere about twelve years ago from Esmeralda, when he bought the Jackson ranch near one of the Watterson places. By those who knew him he is spoken of as having been a good man.

Congressman De Vries will arrive here on the 19th or 20th inst. He will speak at Lone Pine, Independence, Big Pine and Bishop. Mr. De Vries made an excellent record in the last Congress, and is the nominee of the Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists for re-election. His opponent is F. D. Ryan, who is the Republican nominee.

S. B. Burkham of Bodie is the Democratic nominee for the State Senate from the 14th Senatorial district, comprising the counties of Calaveras, Amador, Mono and Alpine. Mr. Burkham is well and favorably known in Mono County. He is an active, intelligent gentleman, and should he be elected he would certainly represent the Fourteenth District with credit and satisfaction.

Our flag fluttering to-day gives evidence that California's own private holiday has arrived, the forty-eighth anniversary of her admittance into the Union as a State. Dixon and San Jose Native Sons and Daughters are giving grand celebrations at their respective towns. While the young Californians are shouting lustily for the present day the old-timers are exchanging reminiscences of those wonderful days of '49 and '50.

A singular instance of disaster from a curious cause which no one has ever calculated upon is reported from Bishop. At the ranch of James Shaw, while G. P. Bourland's best thresher was humming away a shot-gun cartridge fell upon the cylinder, exploded and set the whole business ablaze almost instantly. Loss—the machine, Will Brockman's wheat in stack and sack and all else except the live stock and horse power. Looks like this might be another good reason for giving "warning to hunters."

Water Storage for Big Pine.

September 5th articles of incorporation of the Big Pine Surplus Water Storage Company were filed with the County Clerk. The articles recite that the purposes for which the corporation is formed are to "collect and store surplus water, and to furnish the same for irrigation and other purposes." Its principal place of business is at Big Pine, and the corporation is to exist for fifty years. Its Directors for the first year are Louis Schalten, Edward Reinhakle, C. L. Meyers, John W. McMurry and J. C. Crocker. The capital stock is $4,000, divided into 4,000 shares of the par value of $1 each, of which 2,615 shares have been subscribed by residents of Big Pine and vicinity.

Delegates to Republican County Convention.

Round Valley—J. G. Birchim, C. A. Hilton.

Lincoln—Robert Love.

Lawa—P. D. Gunter, Wm. Symons.

Bishop—W. W. Watterson, W. L. Smith, J. W. Riggs.

East Bishop—Mark Watterson, C. B. Rawson, P. S. Partridge.

Poleta—George Collins.

Big Pine—John S. Miles, Jos. Schalten, Jas. Crocker, Lee Maupin.

Fish Springs—C. F. Fuller.

Taboose—A. L. Conklin.

Independence—S. A. Densmore, Wells Barnes, J. H. Kispert, Aug. Stecker.

Citrus—David Vaughn.

Georges Creek—J. F. Beale.

Lone Pine—Fred Burkhardt, J. J. Stewart, R. S. Carrasco, A. C. Stevens, David Pobst.

Keeler—H. L. Wrinkle.

Darwin—Charles Anthony.

The Athletic Club Dance.

The members of the Athletic Club have reason to congratulate themselves on the success, both socially and financially, of their hop Saturday evening. Mr. J. G. McLean in a short address reviewed the work of the Club and stated its plans for the future. At present it is the business of the Club to give every individual who so desires an opportunity for more perfect physical development. The apparatus has been purchased with a view toward strengthening every muscle of the body. Two days a week will be set apart for ladies' days, and a dance every two weeks will be given to pay the expenses of the Club. Eventually there may be facilities for mental as well as physical development.

Mining Exhibits.

BIG PINE, Aug. 29.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT — At a recent meeting of Board of Directors of Fair management the Secretary was instructed to address all Inyo County mine proprietors, soliciting mineral exhibits for the coming Fair. Hoping you and all others may loan or contribute specimens for that purpose, I remain, truly yours,

E. SPENCER,
Sec'y Board Directors.

On Friday evening last Irv. H. Mulholland returned from a brief trip over the Sierras, and on the following morning set out for San Francisco, to meet an appointment with all other State candidates and the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Central Committee. It is Mr. Mulholland's intention to visit all the counties, especially where present land interests of the State of California are mainly situated. It is pretty fair work for Inyo's candidate.

MARRIED.

HEALD-GROW — At Independence, September 8, 1898, by Hon. W. A. Lamar, Superior Judge, Mr. F. H. Heald of Garlock, Calif., and Mrs. Alice N. Grow of Chicago, Ills.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE
GENERAL MERCHANDISE

—Consisting of—

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates

—X—

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wrinkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES and HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rock marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.01 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L. No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72¼ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 13.21 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE, "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location, in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing 12 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant, and stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 28½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1¼ degree west .765 links; thence on a true course north 1¼ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K No. 1, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1¼ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1¼ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 14.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder, within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 884, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The frac'l N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all frac'l Section 5, Township 17 south, and frac'l S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $18.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the

WHAT WILL BECOME OF CHINA?

None can foresee the outcome of the quarrel between foreign powers over the division of China. It is interesting to watch the going to pieces of this ancient but unprogressive race. Many people in America are also going to pieces because of dyspepsia, constipation, blood, liver and stomach diseases. We are living too fast, but strength, vigor and good health can be retained if we keep off and cure the above diseases with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Optician—Yes, you see double. I can correct the fault with spectacles. Patient—Hurry. Maybe it isn't twins after all.

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE,

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

On the way home.—Jimmie—Didn't you hear the Sunday-school teacher say your conscience is what tells you when you do wrong? Tommy—It's a good thing it don't tell your mother.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia Pa

Piso's Cure for Consumption has been a God-send to me.—Wm. B. McClellan, Chester, Florida, Sept. 17, 1895.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

When Hot

Don't sweat and fret, but keep cool and take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This is good advice, as you will find if you follow it. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a first-class summer medicine, because it is so good for the stomach, so cooling to the blood, so helpful to the whole body. Make no mistake, but get only

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For sale by all general Misc. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

LOST,

The opportunity of saving MONEY, if you do not buy from us. We positively guarantee to give you a DISCOUNT of 20 to 75 per cent from any Price List issued by any Pacific Coast Cash or Department Store. We can sell you everything you need; write for full particulars.

GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS,

218 CALIFORNIA STREET, San Francisco, Cal.

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in General Supplies.

Fearless Men.

There is a condition possible to some few souls that if not really the highest attribute of humanity would be chosen by most men of noble mold were selection possible. It is the unawed tranquillity, the absolute inability to fear, that some men, not many, possess, or rather, one should say, by which some men are possessed. An instance of such courage on a low plane is that of Potemkin kicking aside the bloody head of his predecessor as he stepped to the block, an act almost indelicate enough to be humorous, yet withal significant of an iron nerve.

Somewhere in the late seventies another Russian, but this time a savant, gave a proof of what length a rapt intensity of purpose will carry a man to. In order to make good his theory that a suicide may be deliberate and unrepenting he subjected himself to hideous torture, ending in death, but under such circumstances that he might have relinquished his design at any stage of its progress. He lay on his back upon a bedstead from which he had stripped all the clothing, with a lamp placed underneath him so that the flame just touched his spine, rising at intervals to make notes, which were afterward published. They show a calm spirit of research and are slightly triumphant in tone, though touched into high relief once or twice by an expression of anguish.—F. Foster in North American Review.

Wifely Pride.

In the course of a conversation between two workingmen's wives one happened to remark that her husband always put on a clean white shirt on Sunday morning. The other replied: "I never care so much about the Sundays, but I aye like to see John wi' a clean shirt on Saturday afternoon, because he's gey hot tempered, and if he should take off his coat to fecht I like him to look clean and decent!"—London Telegraph.

Surmounting the Obstacle.

Her Papa—I'm afraid, young man, that you and my daughter would not be happy together. You might get along all right for a long time and agree on important matters, but what would happen when the little things came to worry?

Her Lover—Well-er-we could hire a nurse.—New York Journal.

FIERCE NAVAL FIGHT

THE WYOMING'S HEROIC BATTLE WITH THE JAPANESE.

Against Overwhelming Odds the American Commander McDugall Fought One of the Most Daring and Successful Engagements In the History of Marine Warfare.

Strange as it may seem, the Wyoming's oriental battle is an almost unrecorded chapter of our naval annals, though it ranks even higher in point of daring and success against overwhelming odds than the defeat of the Alabama by the Wyoming's sister ship, the Kearsarge. But the Wyoming never was in very great luck as a naval star. She had her part throughout the civil war in all the hardest of blockading and cruising service, and fought well whenever she had the chance, but she did not have the luck of getting into the papers. She was sent off at the same time as the Kearsarge to cruise for that scourge of the seas, the Alabama, and just missed her by the merest chance on two occasions in the China seas.

It was in 1863, toward the end of the dual reign of the tycoon and the mikado, when Japan was in the throes of civil war, and the forces of the rebel princes were resisting to the last the passing of the old feudal system. The Prince of Nagato was one of these, and from his tiny kingdom that fronted on the straits of Simonoseki he declared himself lord paramount of everything in sight, including the neighboring seas, from which he took generous toll as did ever the pirate chiefs of Tarifa. He had laid violent hands and hot shot upon the vessels of various powers, including Great Britain, France, the Netherlands and the United States.

Meantime Prince Nagato throve and flourished by the strait of Simonoseki, and failing one day to wring tribute or blackmail by any other means he fired on the American merchantman Pembroke and killed a couple of her crew. There was another diplomatic protest of the combined foreign representatives to the Japanese government, and Commander McDugall, who happened to be in port with the Wyoming, suggested that if the mikado could not take a fall out of his rebellious subject the Wyoming could and would without much urging. This struck the government as a good thing and an easy way out of the international difficulty, so McDugall was given carte blanche to settle accounts with the Prince of Nagato in behalf of all the powers concerned, and he forthwith sailed away.

It was the middle of July when the Wyoming found herself in the strait of Simonoseki and in sight of the shore batteries which were a part of the prince's defenses to seaward. Before she had time to open on the batteries two Japanese gunboats loomed up, one ahead and one astern, in the narrow strait, and presently a third came cruising out from among the neighboring islands. It was a nasty place for a fight, McDugall being without charts or pilots, and the odds were more than enough for Nelson himself, being 48 guns of the three Japanese vessels to the 26 of the old Wyoming, to say nothing of the batteries on shore. There was still a chance to run, barring some danger of grounding in the narrow channels among the islands, but the idea does not seem to have occurred to any one aboard the frigate.

Working to windward of the nearest Japanese, the Wyoming opened at long range and worked down on her till, when close aboard, there was nothing of the enemy left standing above decks. The other two vessels had come up in the meantime and engaged the American on either side, but she lay to and gave them shot for shot, port and starboard, till her gunners were smoke blind and the flame of the guns no longer served to light the battlecloud that rolled in white billows over the smooth waters of the strait. It was desperate work in the shallow water, but the Wyoming was the best vessel, and she outmaneuvered her two opponents from start to finish, though twice aground and once afire, with as many men knocked out from splinters and heat as from the enemy's shot.

Fighting themselves out of one smoke patch into another, the three combatants circled around like two crows and a kingbird till they had drifted down in range of the shore batteries, which gayly took a hand in the game. But McDugall ran across the bows of one of his enemies, raked her as he went and left her a floating wreck, and then turned his attention to the batteries. The Wyoming's men rigged the smith's forge on deck and tossed hot shot into the works ashore till they set them afire and the soldiers fled, and the other Japs on the remaining cruiser, deciding enough was as good as a feast, followed their example.

So McDugall mended his rigging and patched his bulwarks, and meanwhile sent word to the recalcitrant prince to come down and settle or he would sail inland and shell the royal palace about its royal owner's ears.

The prince, who was no less discreet than Colonel Crockett's coon, came down promptly, and of the resulting indemnity $300,000 fell to the lot of the United States. It was many years before this money got into the treasury of the United States, but meantime the state department had charge of it and had invested it so well that there was a very little short of $2,000,000 finally turned over to the government, which, after all, was pretty good pay for one day's fighting, with a loss of only five killed and six wounded.—Washington Post.

Sweet Revenge.

The judge had never taken a Turkish bath, but he was not feeling his best that morning, and it suddenly occurred to him to test its vivifying effects, so enthusiastically descanted upon by his young friends.

It seemed to the judge that the rubber was terribly rough, but, fearing to expose his inexperience and subject himself to ridicule by objecting to the regular treatment, he patiently endured being punched, pummeled, slapped, spanked, whacked and poked until he could not stand the torture a moment longer.

"Is—it—qui-ite—neces-sary—to—make—me—bla-ack—and—blue—all—ov-ver?" panted the judge, as irregularly as the rubber dug his fists in more or less vigorously.

"Never you mind; I'm fixin you," responded the rubber, redoubling his assaults and grinning diabolically—at least so it seemed to the judge.

"Who (slap, groan) are (thud, groan) you?" gasped the judge, a horrible suspicion dawning in his mind. "Your (whack, groan) face (thump, groan) does (whack, groan) look (slap, groan) fa—(thud, groan)—miliar" (swish, groan).

"Oh, you remember me, do you?" growled the rubber sarcastically. "Well, dash yer old hide, mebbe you'd like to send me up for six months again for prizefightin!"—Harper's Magazine.

Guns For Battleships.

It appears that the tendency in the British and the United States navies is to reduce the number of guns and to increase their arcs of fire and also to have no guns above 6 inch caliber for supporting the 12 or 13 inch. This method of decreasing the number and caliber of guns is an ideal theory for reducing weights, but ships are built to carry guns and to fight, and it would seem better to reduce weights elsewhere than in the battery and ammunition.

In an engagement between battleships of similar armor and displacement which one will probably be the victor? There can be but one answer. It will be the one that effectively delivers the greatest amount of steel against the other ship. During the engagement each ship will necessarily lose the use of numerous guns and men, and therefore the ship that carries the larger number of guns and that has a reserve force of men below in protected places for filling the vacancies at the remaining guns will certainly have the advantage, and some obscure guns that are generally looked upon with disfavor on account of their small arcs of fire may, at the critical moment when their companions of larger arcs are dismounted, become the means of insuring victory.—Lieutenant E. W. Eberle, U. S. N., in Cassier's Magazine.

Meals In France.

The French are very temperate in food and drink, a cup of coffee with a piece of bread being considered quite sufficient until noon, when the dejeuner a la fourchette is served. This consists of a first course of eggs or macaroni, a second of one chop each or stew, and a third of fruit and cheese. Plenty of bread (always good in France) is eaten during the meal, but butter rarely, and a glass or two of wine diluted with water, but never iced or sweetened, is drunk by each member of the family, including the children. Dinner, usually at 7 o'clock, is a little more elaborate meal, from which soup and a salad are seldom omitted, and black coffee is often served with cognac at the end. Owing to the fact that so much chicory is used French coffee is not much to the taste of Anglo-Saxons. I have never yet had what I call a cup of "good" coffee in France, whereas in Vienna and Munich it is simply delicious. Coffee being very dear in France (60 cents per pound for good quality) may account for the excessive use of chicory.—What to Eat.

The Youngster Cuts His Finger.

"Well," said Mr. Goslington, "the youngster has cut his finger. The only surprising thing is that he didn't do it the first day he got the knife. How he did it he doesn't know himself, except that the knife slipped and the first thing he knew his finger was bleeding. Then he ran to his mother. His face was white, but he didn't cry, which I thought was very brave, and I think so still. His mother washed the finger gently and then bound it up with a strip of soft, worn, white cotton cloth tied around not with a piece of common cord, but with a narrow strip torn off the edge of the cloth itself. I heard her tearing it, and I thought it sounded familiar, and then I remembered that was the way my mother used to do up my finger.

"Then the boy went around with that finger held out straight from the rest of the hand and with a solemn look on his face, but he couldn't stay solemn long, and it was surprising how quickly his finger healed too. Then his mother put a cot over it, a finger cut from an old kid glove (just what my mother used to do, too, and I wonder if all mothers do these things just alike), to protect it for a day or two more until it got fully well. That was wholly new to him, and it pleased him very much. He wore the glove finger with the proud but reserved dignity of one convalescing from a saber stroke instead of a cut from his first knife, and it all made me feel young again myself."

Exact justice is commonly more merciful in the long run than pity, for it tends to foster in men those stronger qualities which make them good citizens.—Lowell.

A CENT'S WORTH of the wrong baking powder will spoil a half-dollar's worth of cake.

Use Schilling's Best.

A BELIEVER IN DREAMS.

At the top of a steep hill two young men sat on a stone wall by the roadside, resting.

It was late on a Sunday afternoon in October. Stretching away on every side, with here and there the roofs of farm-houses visible, were the bright colors of ripening foliage. Four miles away toward the west was the hazy outline of the city.

There had been silence for some time between the two companions. At length Howard Crane spoke. He was an athletic fellow, with a healthy color in his alert, smooth-shaven face.

"I suppose this is our last walk together for this year," he said. "I shall be lonesome enough without you all winter. I wish you had not got to go south."

"And I wish you could go south with me," said John Brant, smiling. He was tall and spare, with a pale, sensitive face. "But of course the law can't get on without you."

Crane laughed. "I don't just see how I can leave now. I'd like to be with you, only I'd hate to waste so much time, and I was never particularly fond of loafing around doing nothing."

"I know I'm lazy," said Brant, good-humoredly, "but where's the use in my doing anything? It would only be taking the bread out of some poor fellow's mouth."

As the sun went down they left the wall and set out at a brisk pace toward the city.

"Of course," said Crane, after a pause, "I don't want you to stay here if your health can't stand it. Queer freak of your lungs to go back on you this way, when they've never given you any trouble before. A winter in the South will fix you all right, but it's going to be lonesome for me. You know you are the only one I am at all chummy with." He sighed deeply.

"You are not going to be so lonely as you think," said Brant, with a quiet smile.

"What do you mean?"

Brant hesitated, and then said, a little apologetically: "I know you'll think I'm a silly old woman to believe it, but I had a dream about you a little while ago, and I can't get it out of my head, it was so real."

"Well, what was it?" prompted Crane, as his friend paused.

"That you would be married in less than a year."

"There's nothing I'm less likely to do," said Crane, laughing.

"But I feel sure you will," said Brant, earnestly. "The dream was so vivid, more like a vision. I saw you, and where you lived, and you were very happy."

"It's utterly absurd," said Crane. "Such a thing hasn't entered my head."

They became silent, as they neared the city, each occupied with his own thoughts. At Crane's door they parted.

"If I'm married when you come back, you must come and see us," he said, lightly. "But I sha'n't be. I haven't any faith in dreams."

"Yes, you will," said Brant, positively, "and I'll be sure and visit you. Good-by."

Slowly and dejectedly Brant walked along the brightly lighted streets to his home. Leaving his coat and hat in the hall, he went to his room, and, groping his way across it, sat down in the dark. With his head resting on his hands, the same perplexing, harassing thoughts which had troubled him for the month past chased through his tired brain.

Was he a fool, he asked himself, for the hundredth time. He had deceived his friends, making them think he must leave home on account of his health, when in reality it had never been better. He was going away to exile, leaving his family, all his acquaintances, Crane, and, worst of all—Mildred.

And for what? Because in that wretched dream he had seen Mildred happily married to Crane.

He was tempted even now, at the eleventh hour, to go to Mildred and ask her to be his wife. But the spell of the dream was upon him still, and he felt that he could not betray his friend.

Even if he could, what reason had he to think that Mildred returned his love? And supposing she did, it would be a wrong to her, for he told himself, with self-deprecation, that Crane would make her the better husband.

No, he would carry out his plan to the bitter end. The dream was so real to him that he did not for a moment doubt its coming true. He smiled a little grimly as he thought how every one believed him to have one foot in the grave, and how his naturally pale face had helped to deceive them.

Mildred would not expect to hear from him, thinking him not able to write. Then Crane would begin to show her little attentions, and——

But here he broke off his reflections, and found himself feeling glad that he would be away and would not have to see the affair going on. When he came back he would be able to meet her with no outward show of emotion.

All winter Brant wandered from place to place. Crane wrote twice, at the first, but he was a poor correspondent, and Brant's third letter remained unanswered.

At home the winter's snows melted, the days grew longer, spring came, and in May Brant returned.

As he walked along the street from the station he heard his name spoken, and a moment later Crane was shaking his hand, and saying words of welcome.

"I'm in a hurry now," said Crane, "but come around to the office later, and go home to tea with me. You see," he went on, smilingly, "I've been married a month. It's all just as you said it would be, and I believe in dreams now—your dreams, at any rate. Well, good-by for the present. Be sure and come out. Margaret will be delighted to see you."

Crane hurried off down the street. Brant stood looking after him with an expression of overwhelming amazement on his face.

"Margaret!" he exclaimed, under his breath. "Good heavens—he's gone and married the wrong one!"—Omaha Bee.

"I SUPPOSE THIS IS OUR LAST WALK TOGETHER FOR THIS YEAR."

Left Teeth Used Oftenest.

The natural habit of human beings appears to be the use of the teeth on the left side of the mouth for masticating the food. During a lengthened period of observation only one person out of thirteen was found who used both sides of his mouth for chewing and masticating his food.

The average woman's club is a boomerang.

He Found the Firebug.

An Australian farmer who was recently burned out on a large scale, being certain that his grass had been feloniously ignited, offered £25 reward for the discovery of the perpetrator and employed trackers at great expense. After a cursory examination they decided that a woman had made the tracks, and when they had unearthed the shoe that made them it was found to belong to the farmer's 17-year-old daughter, who, when questioned, admitted that she had started the fire "because she loved to see the people excited and the water carts hurrying about." The farmer is now called upon to pay the £25 reward and another £25 expenses in connection with the trackers.

A Dancing Feat.

A wonderful feat in dancing is recorded from Berlin. At a recent ball a prize of a gold ring was offered to the lady who waltzed the longest without stopping. Twelve couples competed. They began waltzing at 12:30 a. m. and it was 5:45 a. m. before the winner and her partner stopped waltzing. By 2:30 five couples dropped out, and at 5:15 another lady fainted. Two more couples dropped out at 4:45, and at 4:50 only two couples remained on the floor.

A Compromise.

A missionary in British Guiana who has recorded some of his experiences in a book relates some curious instances of the choice of names by negro parents. He was once asked to baptize a child "Seriatim ad Valorem," which would certainly have been distinctive. "Whisky Emmanuel" may be quoted as a triumph of compromise.—Westminster Gazette.

Tragedy.

The horror stricken spectators were rooted to the spot, with the exception of one small boy, and his clothes indicated that he was growing fast.—Indianapolis Journal.

A medical authority on the virtues of various kinds of foods declares that the herring gives the muscles elasticity, the body strength and the brain vigor and is not flesh forming.

There were 17,000 umbrellas left in London cabs in one year, according to a recent report.

HAVE YOU A SON, BROTHER,

Husband or Lover in the Army or Navy? Mail him to-day a 25c. package of Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. All who march, walk or stand need it. It cures aching, tired, sore, swollen, sweating feet and makes hot, tight or new shoes easy. Feet can't Blister, get Sore or Callous where Allen's Foot-Ease is used. 10,000 testimonials. All druggists and shoe stores sell it, 25c. Sample sent Free. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

"Doctor, why do you advise me to do so much walking in hot weather?" "I thought if you saved car fare you might pay it on my bills."

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

BUY THE GENUINE

SYRUP OF FIGS

... MANUFACTURED BY ...

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

☞ NOTE THE NAME.

CONSULTING A WOMAN.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Inspires Confidence and Hope.

Examination by a male physician is a hard trial to a delicately organized woman.

She puts it off as long as she dare, and is only driven to it by fear of cancer, polypus, or some dreadful ill.

Most frequently such a woman leaves a physician's office where she has undergone a critical examination with an impression, more or less, of discouragement.

This condition of the mind destroys the effect of advice; and she grows worse rather than better. In consulting Mrs. Pinkham no hesitation need be felt, the story is told to a woman and is wholly confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., she offers sick women her advice without charge.

Her intimate knowledge of women's troubles makes her letter of advice a wellspring of hope, and her wide experience and skill point the way to health.

"I suffered with ovarian trouble for seven years, and no doctor knew what was the matter with me. I had spells which would last for two days or more. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken seven bottles of it, and am entirely cured."—MRS JOHN FOREMAN, 26 N. Woodberry Ave., Baltimore, Md.

The above letter from Mrs. Foreman is only one of thousands.

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
AUNEY, CARR & CO.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right Keep it Right

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

☞ This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. Dr. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

S. F. N. U. No. 842. New Series No. 33.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 14. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 16, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1485.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$2 00
Six Months	200
Three Months	1 00
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

LEAVIN' HOME.

When a feller sorter packs his traps an' goes away from home,
Whar the birds air allus singin', an' the honey's in the comb—
Whar the sunshine is the brightest an' the heart beats all in tune
An' life's sweet in winter as in rosiest days o' June—

No matter how the skies look—ef they're just as bright an' blue
As the eyes with which your sweetheart twinkled messages to you—
You'll find 'em growin' misty—with a haze on field an' plain,
An' your eyes'll sorter twinkle, an' the lids'll hide the rain!

Fer the distance—it looks lonesome, an' though roses red an' white,
Air jest as sweet off yonder, with the dews an' with the light,
As the ones in old-time gardens, yit—it's mighty fur to roam—
An' you know more of the roses in the little spot called "Home!"

So, packin' up fer leavin' sorter makes you fumble roun'
Fer han'kerchers, to dry the tears that will come tricklin' down!
An' though you say it's foolishness, yit—world's so wide to roam!
An' the best world fer a feller is the little world at home!

—Atlanta Constitution.

AVENGED BY A SERPENT.

WHEN I got George's letter, telling me that all was now ready for our reception and we were to come at once, I was delighted. Within a week we — mother and I—were on our way out, and in about three weeks' time found ourselves between the swampy shores of the Essequibo, nearing Georgetown, where on the quay the dear fellow was waiting to take us up to the home he had made for us on his plantation.

George Haden and I had met a year before during his visit to the United States, and the big, quiet, sunburned man and I, who tell this story, had fallen in love with one another almost at the first sight.

We were to have been married before he returned to Guiana, but he was recalled suddenly by the death of his only brother at Rio, and it was arranged I should follow later with mother.

You can—or, rather, you can't—imagine how delighted I was to see my sweetheart again. But I was startled and a good deal troubled by his appearance; he looked thin and worried. At first I put it down to his grief at Harry's death; but later, after our quiet wedding, on the way to my future home I gathered by degrees there was more than that.

His brother Harry had married a Spaniard—a beautiful woman—who had died nearly eighteen years before, leaving him with one daughter, Teresa. It was chiefly on this girl's account that George had hurried back, and he had mentioned in writing to me that he had brought her up from Rio to stay with him in Guiana until other arrangements could be made. Since then I had heard little of her, and almost, indeed, in my own happiness and excitement forgotten her very existence.

Now my questions elicited from George that she was not a pleasant-tempered young woman, or easy to get on with, but my worst anticipations did not touch the reality.

We came up the river in a small steamer, which dropped us at my husband's very wharf, and we three walked up a slope through a wonderful tropical garden to where a long, white-washed, green-shuttered house shone clean and bright in the evening sun.

On the veranda stood a tall figure in a pale yellow gown, her black hair crowned with crimson hibiscus. A splendidly handsome woman!

She looked at me in a half-disdainful way.

"So you're my new aunt?" she said casually. "And how do you do, Uncle George?"

Her calm assumption of superiority was unbearable. George—big, steady, good-tempered man that he was—flushed with anger.

He whispered to me:

"Never mind, my dear. She knows no better; and it won't be for long."

But it was for longer than we reckoned. She was to have been sent to her godmother, who lived in Madrid. But the old lady was ill, and begged us to keep the girl a while longer.

It was trying to a degree, and each day got worse and worse. Teresa's temper was something unbearable, and her general lack of manners only equaled by her sweetness when there was anything to be gained by it. Still, for my husband's sake, I bore with her.

Toward the end of the cool weather our old English overseer died, and, as a stop-gap, George took on a young Spanish-American, Ramon Martinez.

Ramon was a smart-looking fellow, but there was something in his black eyes which repelled me. I always felt a shrinking repulsion for the man, and George didn't much care for him. Still, it was necessary to have some one who understood the sugar, and men who knew anything were so scarce you couldn't pick and choose.

Teresa, who loved the cheap gayeties of Rio, had been simply bored to death all the winter. Ramon was a godsend to her, and the two used to chat in Spanish every evening over their coffee on the veranda.

Sometimes I blame myself for letting them be so much together, but, to tell the truth, the relief of getting rid of her even for an hour or two was very great. And how could I know what a scoundrel the man was, or what unspeakable wickedness those two were brewing together?

And now I must pass over the events of the next ten months, and tell you what happened on that dreadful day which so nearly proved fatal to all my happiness.

Old Juan, a half-caste Indian employe on the place, came up that morning wanting to see my husband. They talked for a time, and then I saw George go out with a gun on his shoulder. He saw me at the window and called out something, but I could not hear what he said.

He was a keen collector, and I supposed it was some rare bird or beast he was after.

The day passed, and the short, tropical twilight was closing over the forest when I saw George returning. He was followed by two negroes, who slowly dragged some long, heavy object up the path to the house. This they pulled along, trailing in the dust, round to the south end of the house, where George's big so-called study, really a sort of museum, opened by two French windows on the lawn.

I was dressing for 8 o'clock dinner, so did not go out. Soon I heard George's long stride pass upstairs by my door to his dressing-room, which lay beyond my room at the extreme north end of the house.

To make you understand what followed I must partly explain how the house was built. It was from north to south, long and narrow, with a veranda all the way round. A wide hall ran through from east to west, and a long narrow one from north to south. The dining-room was the front room at the north end, under my room; George's study at the south, under the room Teresa occupied. There were two staircases, one at each end of the house. A couple of hundred yards away, higher up the slope at the back of the house, was the cottage where Martinez lived. He, Martinez, generally dined with us, and was to have done so that night.

Now, so far as I know, and judging from what we made out afterward from letters we discovered in the cottage and in Teresa's room, this is what brought about the tragedy that followed:

Ramon must have long before this have made up his mind to marry Teresa. Her small fortune was an irresistible bait to the indolent Southerner. The only thing that troubled him was that she was not of age for another three years, and George was her guardian and sole trustee. He knew well enough what George would say or do if he once heard of his pretensions. With a man of Ramon's type—almost conscienceless—the next idea was simply to get George out of the way. Once get rid of the uncle, and what was there to hinder his making off with Teresa and her money?

Undoubtedly he instilled these ideas into Teresa's mind, and she, her sullen temper already aflame at the hint of opposition, was soon ripe for any mischief. Whether this precious pair had already concocted any definite plan I don't know, but that they were only waiting a chance what follows proves.

On this particular evening Teresa had dressed earlier and gone down. For some reason—I don't know what—she went to the study and opened the door. A French window was open, and in the moonlight which had already succeeded the dusk she caught sight of something moving through it, undulating in rustling coils up from the grass beyond.

Terrified, she closed the door and stood an instant panting with fright. What was it?

Suddenly it flashed across her. She had just before seen from her window the men bringing in her uncle's spoil, a great anaconda, or water-boa, the largest and most powerful constrictor in the world. This was its mate. Her chance had come. Always before dinner her uncle would go to his room to fetch the cigar he lit immediately dinner was over. He would go once more—for the last time!

How I can imagine her stealing quietly away from the door back with stealthy footsteps up the stairs to her room and sitting there watching the clock, counting every moment till the gong should summon her uncle to his fate behind that closed door.

Closer and closer crept the hands to 8 o'clock, and still she sat and watched.

Suddenly in the hall below sounded footsteps across the polished boards. Unnaturally loud they seemed as they passed slowly down the passage beneath. There was the sound of a turning latch, an instant's pause, and then—one long, horrible sound, half shriek, half yell, which grew shriller, then muffled, and then abruptly ceased.

The shriek I heard with almost equal distinctness away at the other end of the house. To this day I can sometimes hear it, and it comes back to me in dreadful dreams.

I heard my husband rush from his room and his flying feet down the stairway. Other sounds I heard—cries of terror and alarm, hurrying footsteps and slamming of doors. Then I summoned strength to follow. As I ran through the hall two shots rang out in rapid succession. A frightful pounding, like a dozen sledge hammers going at once, ensued; and next I heard a scream of maniacal laughter, and Teresa rushed by me and out into the night.

The next thing I remember is George's voice, in tones of strong command:

"Keep back, Marian!" he called; "it is no fit sight for you."

I stood there in the middle of the passage, while around the open study door stood a little knot of our black servants. Their faces were ashen with terror, and the whites of their eyes goggled horribly. A thin smoke floated out of the room and the keen smell of gunpowder filled the air. The throbbing beat had almost ceased, and George passed into the room, while I staggered back, and, sinking into a chair in the hall, fainted dead away.

I need hardly explain what had happened. The wretched Ramon had come in earlier than usual to dinner; had, contrary to his usual custom, gone to the study, evidently to leave the passbook for the day, and had walked straight into the trap set for another. Those horrible coils had crushed him to death long before even George could reach the spot, while the great snake, in its terrible death agonies, had rent the wretch's body in a shocking way, leaving it an unrecognizable mass.

That was what Teresa had seen. The shock no doubt had crazed her. When she ran out she went straight to the river—at least, we suppose so, for we never saw anything of her again. There are alligators in those waters.

Since then my husband and I have almost forgotten the tragedy. We are very happy alone together in our sunny tropic home.—Chicago Times-Herald.

This is the season of the year when bird stories are plentiful. Near Yarmouth, it is said, a pair of wrens have built their nest in a pillar-box, and the hen sits on calmly when the postman clears the box. Near by a pair of bluetits have built in a hat with which a gardener had adorned a scarecrow.

Recent activities in the Philippines have brought to light many interesting items. Not long ago an eagle, three times the size of any yet discovered, was found there; and now a German savant has come across a gigantic flower of which the smallest buds are as big as the head of a child. It has five petals, a stalk two inches thick, and is over three feet high. The flower "plucked" by the discoverer weighed twenty-five pounds.

The dowager empress of China is devoted to birds of all kinds, and innumerable bird pets are kept about the palace. She is reported to have wept copiously about the death of a favorite nightingale not long ago. Upon being told of a Chinese girl who had complained bitterly of the dreariness of life, this exalted lady remarked sagely that a woman ought to take so much pride in her home that it could be a heaven to her, adding: "There are always birds and flowers." She is a clever artist and delights in painting from nature.

There is something very remarkable in the almost reasoning powers manifested occasionally by birds in eluding pursuit or in turning attention from their nests and young, but in few is this more noticeable than in the duck tribes. In Capt. Black's narrative of his arctic land expedition the following instance of this is given: "One of his companions, Mr. King, having shot a female duck, fired again, and, as he thought, disabled its male companion. Accordingly, leaving the dead bird, which he had the mortification of seeing shortly afterward carried off by one of the white-headed eagles, he waded into the water after the drake, which, far from being fluttered or alarmed, remained motionless, as if waiting to be taken up. Still, as he neared it, it glided easily away through innumerable little nooks and windings. Several times he reached out his hand to seize it, and having at last with great patience managed to coop it up in a corner, from which there appeared to be no escape, he was triumphantly bending down to take it, when, to his utter astonishment, it looked around at him, cried 'Quack!' and then flew away so strongly that he was convinced he had never hit it at all. The bird's object clearly was to draw the gunner away from its companion."

The Savage and the Bird Cage.

A gentleman who went out with Stanley to Africa took with him a number of bird cages, in which he hoped to bring back some specimens of the rarer birds of the interior. Owing to the death of one of his carriers, he was obliged to throw away the bird cages, with a number of other articles. These were seized by the natives in great glee, though they did not know what to do with them; but they eventually decided that the small circular cages were a kind of headgear, and, knocking off the bottom, the chiefs trutted about in them with evident pride. One chief, thinking himself more wise than the others, and having seen the white men eat at table out of dishes, thought they were receptacles for food, and took his meals from one, ceremoniously opening and shutting the door between mouthfuls.

Brevity of Recent Wars.

Recent wars have been remarkable for their brevity. The war between Turkey and Greece practically lasted only three weeks. The war between Japan and China lasted six months. The French declared war against Germany in July, and Sedan fell in the following September. Russia declared war on Turkey April 24, 1877, and on Dec. 12, the Porte requested the mediation of the powers.

Boothblacks in Berlin.

Bootblacks are seldom seen on the streets of Berlin, owing to the fact that it is one of the duties of German servant girls to shine shoes in the household, and of porters to attend to it in hotels. There are bootblacks at the principal railway depots, but they find more patrons among women than among men.

When a man gets into a back, and is not used to it, he shows it in his actions.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

THIS IS THEIR DEPARTMENT OF THE PAPER.

Quaint Sayings and Cute Doings of the Little Folks Everywhere, Gathered and Printed Here for All Other Little Ones to Read.

Toys Out of Old Corks.

A doll's house can be completely furnished with cork furniture for girls, and all the toy animals a boy could wish for can be made for boys. All the materials needed are some corks, yarn, pins, toothpicks, paste-board and a sharp knife and matches. To make a chair take a cork and stick five pins around the edge pretty close together. Fasten the yarn until you cover the pins to the top. Fasten the yarn on the first pin. Then weave in and out, back and forth, and you have made the back of your chair. To make the legs stick four pins at equal distances from one another in the other end of the cork. Begin winding the yarn at the top of the pins and wind round and round one pin at a time till you reach the head of the pin, then over and back again. Then cross over the next pin, and do the same till all are covered and your chair is made. A sofa is made in the same way by using a larger cork. You can make a table by using a large flat cork.

Did I ever look like this, mother,
With ruffles and starched things and skirts?
Did my hair curl down on my shoulders?
Did I cry like a girl at hurts?

Was this truly my picture, mother,
When I was a boy of three?
I say, did I look like this, mother?
Was this little chap truly me?

Because if it was I would like it
To be locked in a box very tight;
I really don't want all the fellows
To know I was once such a sight!

My hair is cut now just as theirs is,
I've trousers that come to my knee,
And wear now a jacket with pockets—
Say, where can that boy's pockets be?

I wear a big "R" on my sweater,
That means I belong to the nine;
He looks as if he could never
Make base hits or throw on a line.

I can swim, too, and row a whole boat-load,
Just feel when I put up my arm!
It's good I'm so strong, because no one
Shall ever do you any harm.

But that little fellow—that baby—
Couldn't even scare off a big bee.
I'm glad boys don't stay little babies.
Say, wouldn't you rather have me?
—Youth's Companion.

Some Flower-Names.

In the St. Nicholas there is an article on "Flower Names," by Ella F. Mosby. The author says: There is many a flower's name that gives us a quaint bit of history or folk-lore, or flashes upon us a charming glimpse of its haunts and associates. Saxifrage, for instance, or stone-breaker, brings up vividly a picture of the places—the gray clefts or crevices of the rocks—where we find its modest white flower. Rosemary, named from the Latin words meaning dew or spray of sea, tells of salt sea-marshes sprinkled with the pale purple blooms. Most of our authorities derive the marigold from "Mary's gold," and it is so named in a herbal, or book about plants, of the sixteenth century.

Other names give some striking characteristic of the plant itself, as phlox, signifying flame, from its glowing mass of color; and the anemone is the windflower, swaying, dancing, bending at every breath of the wind. Pliny tells a pretty story that its buds open at the wind's call. The woodbine, or woodbind, is named from its clinging growth. Shakspeare seems fond of the woodbine, and makes Beatrice hide herself in a "woodbine couverture." Plantain and plane-tree are from a word meaning broad; and tulip is derived from the Eastern word for turban, its silken texture and gayly colored stripes suggesting the Oriental covering for the head.

The gladiolus (little sword) is so called probably from its sharp, sword-shaped leaves; and the eglantine (diminutive of the French aiguille), from its piercing, needle-like thorns. Cocoanut is from the Spanish coco, or bugbear, descriptive of the queer, impish little face at the base of the hairy nut. Nasturtium, which means "nose-twister," gives a picture of the person smelling the blossom and involutarily contorting his features from the stinging and pungent odor. Pink introduces us to a group of words that at first sight seem very oddly ill-matched, for this daintily edged flower gets its name pink from the Dutch verb pinken, to pick out with a sharp instrument, as a border is pinked in notched scallops for decoration. Charming pictures are given by the "sun-dew," with its sparkling leaves; "the Daisie, or else the eye of the day," as Chaucer calls it, from its habit of opening at dawn; and the asters are the "stars" of the field.

The exquisite blue speedwell and the beckoning sprays of traveler's joy seem to fling us greetings from meadow and hedge-row. The bright little heartsease preaches content, and there is a sort of moral in the rough brushwood and tangled vines (labrusca) and the kindred adjective brusque. The old word teasen meant to card wool, and hence we get both "tease," which is a rubbing up the fur in a wrong direction, to speak figuratively, and teasel, a prickly, thistle-like plant whose flower heads, when dry, are sometimes used for raising the nap on woolen cloth.

Out of the Mouths of Babies.

"Mamma," said little Clara, as she held a flower to her mother's nose, "does dis posy 'mell dood?" "Yes, dear," was the reply; "can't you smell it?" "No, I tan't," answered the little miss; "I dess my nose is deaf."

Tommy, aged 5, was out walking with his mother one day, when he saw a can labeled "Dynamite." "Don't go near it, mamma, or you might get killed," said he, with the air of one possessing superior knowledge. "That's what the miners use to blaspheme rocks with."

"Mamma, why does big policemen have nurses like little children?" asked 5-year-old Daisy. "They don't, my dear," replied her mother. "What made you think they did?" "Because," she answered, "I see nurse maids taking them out for a walk in the park most every day."

"Say, mamma," asked 6-year-old Mabel, "who was our papa before he married into our family?" "Why," replied the astonished mother, "he was the same man he is now, of course." "But," continued the youthful interrogator, "was he related to you, or was he just one of your beaux?"

Little 4-year-old Nettie was playing with a tin can and a penny, putting the latter into the former, then shaking the can and dropping the penny on the table. While her attention was attracted to something else for a moment her mother dropped another penny into the can and when she again shook it, much to her astonishment, two pennies rolled out instead of one. "Oh, look, mamma," she exclaimed; "I broked my cent."

CUBA'S INFANT WARRIORS.

Boys of Ten or Twelve Who Fight with the Desperation of Men.

There are many children between the ages of 10 and 14 in the Cuban army, and they fight with all the determination and desperation of men. When the moment for action comes they are foremost in the ranks to kill or be killed.

As spies they have proved of inestimable value to some of the insurgent chiefs. One of Gen. Maceo's most ardent followers was a young mulatto, barely 15 years old. He was killed in the last charge of the great leader made before he met his own death. It was to him that Maceo intrusted some of his most important communications for Gomez, and invariably the boy successfully eluded the Spanish troops. He knew every hill and dale, every plantation and shelter in the western provinces, and there it was that his services were most largely called into requisition.

At Bayamo there were found on the field of carnage at least a dozen of these brave little fellows, each with the machette still firmly gripped, heroes whose lives had hardly begun before the bullet of the Spaniard ended them.

That the Spanish method of warfare is responsible for making soldiers out of babes is evidenced by the records of Spain's Carlist wars. A correspondent recalling the story of the last of these struggles writes:

"I have, on several occasions, seen Carlist and Republican troops alike firing indiscriminately on women and children in the coldest of cold blood in many cases, while both were heroically engaged in stanching the wounds of those dearest to them; in fact, the descriptive power of pen or pencil would fail to convey any idea of some of the atrocities I have seen committed in Spain in the name of 'glorious war.'

"It is as though another chapter were being added to the fearful tale of Cromwell's Fenciibles who, in the sack of beleagured cities, pitched babes into the air and then ordered the soldiers to catch them on their bayonet points."

European Burial Customs.

"Until I came to this country," said an attache of a European Legation to a Washington Star reporter, "I never knew or had never heard of the custom which prevails in this country of dressing the dead in the ordinary clothing. The custom therefore strikes a foreigner as very peculiar. Throughout Europe the custom is to dress the dead in what is called the 'dead gown,' a loose gown, or habit, as it is called in some places. This is generally inexpensive, though, of course, there are some exceptions, and in these the gowns are often very costly. The comparatively inexpensive gown, however, prevails. Marie Teresa, the wife of the King of Austria, according to the legends, made with her own hands the gown in which the King was buried. She also cut off her hair with her own hands to show to the world that she was a widow. In many instances old ladies have their dead gowns made up for years before they are called upon to use them. I found the same custom prevails in Ireland and elsewhere. It is a matter that no one should criticise, from the nature and sacredness of it, but I am sure the ordinary European will never make any change in this respect, and the dead gown will always remain in use."

Another Spanish Atrocity.

"I never saw anybody hate the Spaniards like my wife."

"What makes her feel that way?"

"She got to reading war news the other day and let a lot of raspberry jam burn up."

For every dollar a woman spends on her dress she gets about 90 cents' worth of show and 10 cents' worth of comfort.

He—I am willing to admit that I was wrong. She—Ah! but you must admit that I was right!

"I have been told that the best society is very stupid." "Oh, I can't believe it is so good as that."—Detroit Journal.

Hostess—I hope you found the bed comfortable, Mr. Jenkins. Jenkins—Excellent, ma'am. I nearly fell asleep in it.—Tid-Bits.

"Was he secretary or treasurer of the company?" "Well, they supposed he was only secretary until after he had gone."—Chicago Journal.

The attorney—You say you could not believe this person on oath? The witness—No, sir; Oi never heard the lady swear in me loife, sir.

First Burglar—Any luck lately? Second Burglar—No. Worked all night on a safe, and when I got it blowed open it was a folding bed.

The Judge—What made you so certain that you had the right of way? The driver—Sure, an' my wagon was the heaviest, yer honor.—Life.

Mrs. Straight—My daughter has been very carefully brought up. Col. Blunt—But, notwithstanding, madam, I find her a very interesting companion.

Hendry—So you take stock in that yarn? Why, I wouldn't believe that story if I told it myself. Cowgage—Well, in that case, neither would I.

Deacon Welfixt—I kin read your thoughts, Miss Nancy. Miss Nancy (coyly)—Then what makes you set so far away, deacon?—New York World.

"There are two ways of making a Maltese cross, you know," said he to a Red Cross girl. "I know only one," she returned. "Well, the other is to step on his tail."—Judge.

"When my wife gets a cold I can cure it in a day." "What do you give her?" "Nothing; I simply say that if she is well by night I will take her to the theater."—Tit-Bits.

"Doctor, who was that man that screeched and howled so loud when you were pulling his tooth?" "That was a Christian Science friend of mine."—Chicago Tribune.

"Ain't I a little bow-legged?" asked the dubious young man. "Bow-legged," said his tailor. "The idea! Your lower limbs, sir, are absolutely without a parallel."—Indianapolis Journal.

He—Isn't it a disagreeable feature of golf, losing the ball so often? She—Oh, no; that's the only way George and I could get out of hearing of the caddie for an instant.—Yonkers Statesman.

"There's no coal, mum," said Bridget, "and the fires are going out." "No coal! Why didn't you tell me before?" "I couldn't tell you there was no coal, mum, when there was coal," answered Bridget.

"How is your club for the interchange and development of ideas getting along?" "Well, so far, it has developed the idea in each member that he is the only man who has any ideas."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Dear me, that was terrible! Man fell overboard in midocean the other day, and never was seen again!" said Hicks. "Drowned?" asked Mrs. Hicks. "Oh, no, of course not. Sprained his ankle, probably," said Hicks.—Harlem Life.

"Every man has his vice," said Tenspot to Tenterhook, who was fond of offering unsought counsel to his acquaintances. "What is my vice, pray?" asked Tenterhook. "Advice," replied Tenspot, unhesitatingly.—Detroit Free Press.

"I suppose that there are many problems which polar explorers seek to solve," said the unscientific man. "Yes," replied the intrepid traveler, "a great many." "What is the most important one?" "Getting back."—Washington Star.

The fiancee of a New-Yorker at the close of his nomination to an office, one evening during the election campaign season, hearing of the event, sent him a Smyrna date in its native sugar, and with it her card on which she had written: "I love the candy date."

Della—Professor Monograph is visiting you, I understand. Doesn't he find the sights and sounds of the city odd? Amelia—Not at all. Some berry peddlers passed the house to-day crying their wares, and the dear old man asked me what college they belonged to.—Puck.

"My wife," said the tall, lantern-jawed man, "is as womanly a woman as you could find, but she can hammer nails like lightning." "Wonderful!" sang the chorus. "Lightning," the tall, lantern-jawed man continued, "seldom strikes twice in the same place."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"What did you do with that letter that was on my table?" asked Gus De Smith of the colored boy who cleans up his room. "I tuck it to the post-office, sah, and put it in de hole." "What did you do that for? Did you not see that there was no address on the envelope?" "I saw dar was no writtin' on de 'velope, but I 'lowed yer did dat ar on purpose, so I couldn't tell who yer was a-writin' to. I'se an edicated negro, I is."

A lank, awkward countryman presented himself at the clerk's desk in a city hotel, and after having a room assigned to him inquired at what hours meals were served. "Breakfast from seven to eleven, luncheon from eleven to three, dinner from three to eight, supper from eight to twelve," recited the clerk, glibly. "Jerushy!" ejaculated the countryman, with bulging eyes. "When am I a-going to git time to see the town?"—Youth's Companion.

THE INFANTA EULALIA.

Spanish Princess Who Visited This Country During the World's Fair.

The Princess Eulalia, who represented Spain at the World's Fair, is escaping much that is disagreeable in her own land, as she is sojourning in England. Princess Eulalia was for many years only third in the succession, and she is very popular in Spain, where at one time it was said openly that she would have made a much better regent than her sister-in-law. That was, however, in the very early days of Queen Christina's widowhood and before the country had become accustomed to her gracious hand. The Infanta Eulalia was married at the age of 22 to Prince Antoine of Bourbon Orleans, a brother of the Count de Paris. The Infanta has two sons, the younger of whom will soon celebrate his tenth birthday.

THE INFANTA EULALIA.

LITTLE VICTIMS OF THE SEA.

Two Pretty Children Who Went Down in La Bourgogne.

Carola and Mildred Schultz, two pretty children, went down in La Bourgogne with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schultz, of New York. Mr. Schultz was engaged as European buyer for a large New York house and was formerly for many years in the same capacity with a Chicago firm. He had safely crossed the ocean sixty-four times. The children were exceptionally bright. Carola was aged 9 and Mildred 5.

CAROLA AND MILDRED SCHULTZ.

OPIUM SMUGGLED IN NUTS.

The Drug Is Frequently Brought Into the Country in That Way.

One of the duties of the custom house officials in San Francisco is nut-cracking. They do not open all the nuts which enter the port, but whenever there is reason to believe that the gulfless-looking nut is aiding smugglers, out come the customs nut-crackers. Opium is frequently brought into the country in that way. The drug is packed in the shells of a Chinese nut, very much like our walnut, and is sent to America in that shape.

CUSTOM HOUSE OFFICIAL INVESTIGATING

Derivation of the Word Admiral.

The word admiral is derived by the dictionaries in a rather roundabout fashion from the Arabic emir, a word which has been variously translated lord, commander, general. An emir was an officer in the Saracenic and afterward in the Turkish army, and, as these were composed mostly of cavalry, the emir was originally a cavalry officer. As the conquests of the Turks broadened the Turkish Sultans began to make war upon the sea as well as upon the land, and the officers who commanded fleets and vessels retained the title that they had when directing squadrons of horse. The title is found among the Algerine and Barbary pirates and is first noticed in English use during the reign of Edward III., when officers were commissioned as "Amyrel of the Se" or "Admiral of the Navy."

Greedy Little Fish.

The little fish known as miller's thumb—the fresh water sculpin—is one of the natural checks on the overproduction of trout and salmon. It eats the eggs and the young fish. It is found in all trout waters as fast as examined. It is very destructive. At an experiment once made in the aquarium of the United States Fish Commission in Washington a miller's thumb about four and one-half inches long ate at a single meal, and all within a minute or two, twenty-one little trout, each from three-quarters to an inch in length.

A Clock Run by the Wind.

There is a clock in Brussels which has never been wound up by human hands. It is kept going by the wind.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L HUTCHINSON ....of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON .....San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE.....Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN .....Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS.....Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND.....Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY .....Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE.....Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY.....Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE .....Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN.....Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN .....San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND .....Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES.....San Joaquin

POSITION OF THE SACRAMENTO "BEE."

When a Congressman has done his duty valiantly by his constituents; when he has been faithful and true to every trust; when he has been tireless in the prosecution of every task allotted to him; when he has shirked no labor that would redound to the benefit of his constituents, or even to the amelioration of the condition of the humblest of his fellow citizens, if deserving; when he has been clean, honorable, upright and manly at all times; when he has left a record at Washington that has merited the praise of all parties—that man should be returned to the scene of his labors and his triumphs. He should be re-elected by the voters, not only as a reward to a good and a faithful servant, but as a duty which the taxpayers owe to themselves.

Such a man is Hon. Marion DeVries, the present Congressman from this district. He has done good work, faithful work, honest work. In the performance of his every duty—in strict attention to the smallest deserving request of the humblest citizen—he has recognized no race, no creed, no class, no financial distinction, nor has he ever known what it was to grow fatigued, careless or disheartened.

He has opposed to him in the person of Frank D. Ryan an honest, clean, worthy, deserving man; one who has never had, in all the years of his public career, a more faithful, earnest friend and advocate than the Bee; a champion that was not only with him in his hours of triumph, but that stood valiantly, unswervingly and unflinchingly by him in the darker hours when certain forces in this community were leagued to his undoing, and when others had deserted him.

To-day that same friendship exists. But the Bee cannot support Frank D. Ryan for Congress. Not only can it not support him, for the reason that to do so would be to rebuke a faithful servant of the people who deserves commendation, if ever a Congressman from this district did; but it cannot support him because he stands as the ally, champion and representative of the Gold Trust, against which he was pledged by the Republican State Convention of May, 1896, when he was elected an alternate delegate to St. Louis.

And so, with the warmest personal friendship for Frank D. Ryan, the voice of the Bee in this campaign will be raised for the re-election to Congress of that valiant little David of San Joaquin County, Hon. Marion DeVries.—Sacramento Bee.

The assassination of the Empress Elizabeth of Austria, last Saturday, has horrified the whole of Europe, and doubtless the remaining crowned heads have been bowed in momentary terror. Surely the position of a king or queen is no sinecure in this day of anarchists. To have to keep your life and the lives of your children under constant surveilance for fear of the deadly dagger or dynamite bomb is a fearful price to pay for a semblance of power and a crown set with jewels rare. The hardest heart must soften at the picture of the old Emperor of Austria on whom such heavy trials have descended. The loss of his brother, the Arch Duke on the high seas, the tragic suicide of his son, the Crown Prince, the burning of his sister-in-law in the Paris bazaar fire last year and now the murder of his wife, may well make him exclaim "Shall I not be freed from grief and pain in this world?"

Right or wrong, the war with Spain was no party matter. Where it was honestly conducted there is no credit anywhere, for that was the duty of those in power, but the Republican party must account for the starved soldiers; for the deaths by exposure and criminal speculation; for the want of those things for which the people paid. And there is another thing: the Republican party must be responsible also for the manner of raising revenue for the war; responsible for putting nearly all the burdens on the poor instead of the rich. A proprietory claim to the flag is not going to draw attention from these things. The Democratic party, dragging along in a minority, said "Go ahead; spend all the money necessary; our boys shall fill the ranks, but let us have honorable dealing all along the line." All it could do was to uphold the hands of authority, and the party has done that, and now comes the account of the stewardship.

Practical productive mining instills life into all other branches of business.

Delegates to Democratic County Convention.

At the Democratic primary election held throughout the county last Saturday the following delegates were elected to the County Convention to be held at Big Pine next Tuesday morning:

Round Valley—David Olds, W. H. Wells.

Lincoln—John Barlow, Ed. Schober, H. P. Nelligan, Archie Fitzgerald.

Bishop—Rob't O'Neal, I. P. Yaney, Jos. Shelly, Ira Hume, John E. Meroney, —— Dixon.

East Bishop—Wm. Coats, D. A. Bradshaw, Leander Case, W. C. Brierly, W. J. Perry.

Poleta—John Leidy.

Big Pine—J. W. McMurry, A. P. Smith, W. A. Sanger, E. Spencer, J. E. Randle.

Fish Springs—J. H. Coe, Jas. Conners.

Taboose—Leroy Montague, Wm. Hines.

Independence—G. W. Brady, P. H. Mack, W. J. Lake, Ernest Laird, J. R. Moffett, A. V. Davidson, Norman Mairs.

Citrus—Jacob Pfohl.

Georges Creek—John Strohmeyer, J. W. Calbreath, Archie Bull.

Lone Pine—N. L. Apple, Abraham Diaz, F. P. Meysan.

Keeler—J. J. Morton, Sam'l Levy.

Olancha—Edward Walker.

Darwin—James McDonald, J. A. McKenzie, Henry Jackson.

Modock—Arthur Smith, John Doody.

Ballarat—T. H. Henebry.

Panamint—John Curran, —— ——.

Mountain Springs—A. V. Lewis.

In Laws and Cerro Gordo two tickets were in the field, each receiving the same number of votes.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

OMIE I. MAIRS, of Independence, hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for member of BOARD OF SUPERVISORS, Third District, subject to authority of the Republican County Nominating Convention

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR MEMBER OF ASSEMBLY.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for the Member of Assembly, Sixtieth District, subject to action of joint Democratic Convention of Alpine, Mono and Inyo Counties.

WHITE SMITH.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.

DAVID HOLLAND.

Lone Pine, Aug 16, 1898.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself a candidate for County Assessor, subject to action of the Republican County Nominating Convention

A. O. COLLINS.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

THE undersigned respectfully announces himself a candidate for supervisor, Third District, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

Fish Springs, August 11, 1898.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for Assessor of Inyo Co., Calif., subject to the action of the Democratic Free Silver Fusion Convention.

J. R. ELDRED.

Dated Big Pine, Inyo Co., Calif., July 30, 1898.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

A. M. GIVEN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Tax-Collector, subject to action of the Democratic County Convention

J. J GUNN.

FOR ASSESSOR

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be candidate for the office of assessor of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

GUILFORD P. BOURLAND.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Inyo county, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. L. HUNTER.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I will be a candidate for the office of Assessor of Inyo County, Cal., subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

W. W. YANDELL.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of County Assessor, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

MATZEY MERTEN.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Nominating Convention.

D. J. HESSION.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

THE undersigned hereby respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

CLAY HAMPTON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney of Inyo County, subject to action of the Democratic Convention.

P. W. FORBES.

The Eleventh ANNUAL FAIR

EIGHTEENTH AGRICULTURAL DISTRCT,

INYO, MONO AND ALPINE COUNTIES,

WILL BE HELD AT

Big Pine, Cal., Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23, 1898

The following racing events will occur, under the management of the Board of Directors:

SEPTEMBER, 1898.

TUESDAY, 20th—Running—Indian Pony race, one mile dash.....$15.00
Saddle horses, half-mile dash..... 50.00

WEDNESDAY, 21st—Trotting, one mile and repeat, 2 in 3, 3-minute class 75.00
Half mile and repeat, 2-year olds.. 50.00

THURSDAY, 22d—Running—Half mile dash, free for all..... 100.00
Gents Bicycle Race—One-half mile and repeat, 2 in 3..... 15.00

FRIDAY, 23d—Trotting—One mile and repeat, 2 in 3, free for all... 100.00

FREE for Inyo, Mono and Alpine Counties.

Entrance, 10 per cent of purse.

Entrance closes 6 p. m. on the day preceding the race.

National trotting rules to govern trotting races and California State Agricultural rules to govern running races.

Not less than three to enter and two to start.

For any further information as to above racing address

A. P. SMITH,
Big Pine, California.

Life member certificates of the 18th Agricultural District will be honored at the 11th Fair.

☞ The C. & C. R. R. will transport Exhibits free.

Premium List to be announced.

For information concerning Stock and all other Exhibits address

R. W. THOMAS,
President Board of Directors.

GRAND AGRICULTURAL : BALL

BIG PINE, SEPT. 23, 1898.

THE ANNUAL BALL of the Eighteenth Agricultural District will be given at Agricultural Hall on Friday Evening, September 23, 1893, under management of District Directors.

INVITATION COMMITTEE:

ALPINE COUNTY.
Judge N. D. Arnot.

BRIDGEPORT,
J. D. Murphey.

BODIE,
N. W. Boyd.

ROUND VALLEY,
W. H. Wells.

BISHOP,
C. M. Dixon.

BIG PINE,
R. W. Thomas.

FISH SPRINGS,
James Jones.

TABOOSE,
Charles Walter.

INDEPENDENCE,
Bert. Rhine, Ben. H Yandell.

GEORGES CREEK,
W. L. Hunter

LONE PINE,
J. J Stewart.

KEELER,
T. C. Boland

DARWIN,
Charles Anthony.

OLANCHA,
W. H. Walker.

EXCELLENT MUSIC.

TICKETS, including Supper : : : : : : $2.50

GRAND :-: CONVENTION BALL :-:

THE PEOPLE OF BIG PINE

Will redeem their promise of a Hop at Educational Hall—the largest in the County—on

Tuesday Evening, Sept. 20, 1898,

UNDER THE FOLLOWING MANAGEMENT:

Director and Floor Manager..... E. M. OBER
Treasurer.....SAM McMURRY, Jr
Secretary.....G. W. HALL

Executive Committee:

ALLEN McDONALD, G. W. HALL, J. R. MILES, G. A. McAFFEE, H. C. OBER.

Invitation Committee:

BISHOP.
J. W. Hanby, W. L. Smith, Morton George, W. A. Chalfant.

ROUND VALLEY.
Willie Vaughn, Frank Evans.

POLETA.
John A. Collins.

TINNEMAHA
Upton Tracy, John Conners.

INDEPENDENCE.
Ernest Laird, Norman Mairs, D. J. Hession.

GEORGES CREEK.
J. S. Hunter.

LONE PINE.
Felix P. Meysan, Fred B. Stewart.

KEELER.
D. A. Johnson, Leon Marx.

The Best Music Obtainable. Supper at Williams House.

TICKETS, including Supper : : : : : : : : $2 50

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞ Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

R. W. SCOTT
Practical Watchmaker
and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

☞ All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

MERCHANDISE.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates

-- -x- --

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

HORSESHOEING
AND
General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP.
INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,
PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

SODA WATER.....
.....ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates. Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop. Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.

R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	At 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:46 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	4.	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	At 7:25 p m
Klukend	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	134	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	4:30 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	Lv 3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	295	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles: Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous.

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.

E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:57 a m	2:29 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:50 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m	6:45 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leav promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug5-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16..... 1898

The Independence school has forty-five pupils enrolled.

A. C. Harvey of Lone Pine, with Fred Wallace of Darwin, were in town last Tuesday.

P. W. Forbes, Esq., will deliver an address at the annual fair at Big Pine next week.

Superintendent T. B. Pheby, of the Tuber Mining Co., was expected to reach Ballarat yesterday.

The Weaver Bros.' mill at Postoffice Springs, Ballarat, is running to full capacity on ore from the "O. B. J." mine in Tuba Canyon.

The INDEPENDENT is in receipt of complimentary admission cards to the Fair at Big Pine and tickets to the agricultural ball. Thanks, Messrs. Directors.

Rev. John J. Pardee, the new minister, is expected to arrive on to-day's (Friday's) train, and will preach in the church at Independence on Sunday, Sept. 18th, at 7:30 p. m.

The "agricultural ball" of the Fair week at Big Pine will occur on the night of the 23d, as will be seen by announcement elsewhere, which was received too late for publication last week.

Congressman DeVries will address the people of Lone Pine next Monday night. He will spend Tuesday at Big Pine, Wednesday at Bishop and will leave the latter place Thursday morning for Mono County.

Rev. Thos H. Nicholas left in his own conveyance for Loyalton on Saturday last, his family having preceded him on their journey by rail. They are accompanied by the best wishes of the congregation here.

Excursion rates for the round trip to Big Pine during Fair week are as follows, over the C. & C. R. R.: Benton, $2.50; Bishop, $1; Independence, $1.50; Lone Pine, $2; Keeler, $3. Tickets are good until the 26th inst.

The Board of Supervisors will meet on Monday next, for the purpose of levying and fixing the tax rate for 1898. The time occupied will doubtless be short, but the official record thereof will be long, as will appear next week.

The Fair Directors have completed all arrangements for a successful meet at the Track and a good showing at the Pavilion. An accommodation committee, composed of Thos. Callow, W. H. Uhlmeyer and Geo. Hall, Sr., had been appointed to look after couches for visitors.

J. Harry Cole, of Ballarat, was in town yesterday, en route to the Republican County Convention as a delegate. He reports that the weather is cooling off in Panamint Valley, inasmuch as the thermometer now indicates only about 118° in the shade. During the preceding Summer months it was quite warm.

On Monday last a young man by the name of Andrew J. Bell was committed to the State Assylum for the Insane, at Stockton, after an examination held by Drs. Woodin and Blair. Wells Barnes and George Naylor were deputized by the Sheriff and set out with the unfortunate on the following morning.

An examination of the Premium List of the Eleventh Fair discloses a comprehensive and very liberal list, all the circumstances considered. It is probably to late in appearance to excite the competition that it otherwise would, but the fact could not have been avoided. The Register job office is entitled to an honorable mention for its neat work in printing the same.

A very heavy shaft and flange casting for a water-wheel has been moved from the old mill on Owens River to Fish Springs, where it will be placed on Finnemaha creek. It will furnish power for a mill or arrastra to work ore from a ledge on Poverty Hill, owned by Messrs. McCarty, Meyers, Johnson and Peterson. The old Fish Springs district stands among the best gold producers of the county.

It is reported here that H. C. Ratcliffe of Ballarat has gone to Los Angeles for the purpose of transferring his one-half interest in a group of mines situated on the south side of the summit of Pleasant Canyon, in the Panamint mountains and about 10 miles east of Ballarat, to a company of Eastern and Los Angeles parties, for $30,000 cash. The remaining one-half interest is owned by the W. H. Halbert estate, and is advertised for sale at private sale by order of the Superior Court of San Diego County. There is every reason to believe that the Montgomery Bros.' group of mines, adjoining the Ratcliffe & Halbert group, will be sold within a short time. All this means much for the mining industry of Southern Inyo.

Gilbert Christie died at the McIver ranch on Wednesday last. He was reported as being in a dying condition a month ago, but lately it was deemed possible that he might recover. He passed his sixtieth, the last anniversary of his birthday on the 14th of July last. He became a naturalized citizen in Solano County in 1868, and came to Inyo County from Nevada with the surveyors of the Carson and Colorado railroad. For a time subsequent he worked at the Rawson sawmill and eleven years ago entered the employ of Finlay McIver on the Inyo canal and the latter's ranch. In his long suffering he had every care at the hands of his employer and family, as well as Dr. Woodin's professional skill. The funeral at Independence cemetery yesterday was well attended by our townfolk, the services being impressively rendered by Judge A. V. Davidson. Gilbert Christie was a native of Scotland, full of Highland poetry and song—an humble, faithful laborer and an honest man.

At last reports little Edna Eldred's life was out of danger and the injured limb had been amputated below the knee. The profound sympathy of the community is with the family and the little girl in this hour of trial.

Do not forget the grand Convention Ball at Big Pine next Tuesday. You can go up on Tuesday's train and come back Wednesday if you can't stay the week out. Better make arrangements, though, to take it all in.

Take that pretty baby of yours to the Baby Show at the hamlet next Friday. The judge has been in training for a month so that he may escape indignant clutches after the verdict is given.

"Ladies first" is the order of assigning rooms at Big Pine during Fair week. Better put an extra pair of blankets under your saddle, boys.

Mr. Callow is making every arrangement to secure the comfort of his guests at Big Pine next week.

A. O. Collins, Ed. M. and Charley Clarke were down from the upper country last evening.

Matzey Merten, Republican, has withdrawn from the Assessorship contest.

Everybody is going to the Fair.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending September 15, 1898:

Highest barometer..... 29.887
Lowest " 29.670
Highest temperature.... 94, 10th to 12th
Lowest " 58 17th
Mean " 77.1
Average dew point..... 15.7
Average humidity..... 10.2
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date.... ..24 W. 13th
No. clear days..... 7
No. part cloudy days..... 0
No. cloudy days..... 0
No. rainy days..... 0
Precipitation for week .0 00

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

BORN.

HILTON—At Round Valley, Cal., Aug. 31, 1898, to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Hilton, a daughter.

DIED.

KEWLEY—Near Bishop, Cal., Sept. 5, 1898, John Kewley, a native of the Isle of Man, aged 60 years.

SMITH—Near Bishop, Cal., Sept. 5, 1898, Mrs. Hattie Smith, a native of Nevada, aged 19 years, 6 months and 8 days.

CHRISTIE—At Francis, Inyo Co., Cal., Sept. 14, 1898, Gilbert Christie, a native of Scotland, aged 60 years and 2 months.

[Carson papers please copy.]

LEGAL.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

Thomas Summers, the Administrator of the Estate of Benjamin L. Webster, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 17th day of September, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell as much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court.

Dated August 26th, 1898.
E. H. MACK, Attorney for Administrator.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F. Gilmer, deceased, that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, all of the interest of said deceased at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to-wit: Mineral Hill, Mineral Layout, Breakaway, and Mineral Mound.

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled In the Matter of the Estate of John F. Gilmer, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.

FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.
FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk. Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring Sts., Los Angeles, California.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., August 25, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and receiver at Independence, Cal., on OCTOBER 3d, 1898, viz: William Vaughn, for the W ½ Lot No. One, in N.W.¼ Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 33 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: David Vaughn, Robert Roberts, John Willet and William J. Lake, all of Citrus, Inyo Co. Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes ___
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	No ___
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	No ___
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	No ___
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No ___

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No. 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wrinkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES and HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively, being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a mound of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.63 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake L No 2, easternend of lode; thence on true course north 28¾ degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.24 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 8; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.34 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28¾ degrees west, 2 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.63 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28¾ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28¾ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location, in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears south 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks mark d K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 15.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28¾ degrees east 1.30 chains distant, and stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 2½ degrees west 7.70 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1½ degrees west 765 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K No. 1, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 2½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1.53 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine south 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 14.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Gilmer, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Gilmer, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of these certain mines, mill sites and water rights described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The N. 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 26, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 851, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the

THE BLACK DEATH.

THAT FEARFUL PLAGUE THAT FOLLOWS IN THE WAKE OF WAR.

In the Fourteenth Century It Swept the Whole of Europe, Killing Twenty-five Millions of People In Three Years—The Pestilence In London.

The plague, or pestilence, that mysterious and fearful visitation which has moved its hosts in the wake of armies to slay more than war itself, is supposed to have first originated among the dense masses of people who crowded together in the great cities of Asia and Egypt, or who formed the encampment of Xerxes, Cyrus and Tamerlane the Tartar. It probably sprang from the impurity which must have existed in the midst of such vast gatherings and in part also from leaving the unburied dead upon the field of battle. At any rate the germs of this fearful human poison have always been most active where conditions similar to those have prevailed. It has always been war and the march of armies that has spread it broadcast over the world from time to time, and as war became less frequent and less worldwide the frequency and extent of these ravages have lessened also.

The first recorded outbreak of the plague in Europe occurred in the sixteenth century. It came from lower Egypt. This was the first lapping of the wave that reached into the east again, there to stay its movement so far as the west was concerned until 544 A. D., when the returning legions of the Emperor Justinian brought it again into the western world from the battlefields of Persia. Constantinople was the first place it attacked. Here in a single day as many as 10,000 persons are said to have fallen victims to it. But the plague did not stop with Constantinople. It had found a too congenial soil in Europe, which was little else than one great battlefield at the time. It was carried into Gaul, where it followed close in the wake of the Frankish armies, and from Gaul it moved into Italy, with the Lombards, and so devastated the country as to leave it entirely at the mercy of the invaders.

The various crusades, which extended over a space of about 200 years, no doubt did much to hold the pestilence in Europe, for they served to keep open the channels of intercourse between the east and the west. Periodic epidemics were common during their continuance, and these seem to have culminated in the fourteenth century with what is known in history as the black death. The black death was more fatal to human life than any other single cause since the world began. The havoc of war was nothing in comparison to it. It swept the whole of Europe, leaving in its path such misery and destitution as the world had never known. It killed in three years some 25,000,000 of people. Such figures stagger the comprehension, but the records of the time cannot be doubted. The entire population of Europe is estimated to have been about 100,000,000—kept down as it was by the constant warfare—and of these 100,000,000 at least a fourth perished.

The ravages of the plague in Italy, where it came in the track of the war of the Guelphs and Ghibellines, was particularly disastrous to mankind. It raged with terrible fury in Naples, where 60,000 persons are said to have died. It fell upon Pisa and seven out of every ten perished. It utterly and forever destroyed the prosperity of Siena. Florence also suffered severely, while 100,000 of the inhabitants of Venice were literally wiped off the face of the earth. From Italy it moved into France, where the mortality was almost as great; in Paris alone 50,000 people died from it. One of the worst features presented by the history of the black death was the cruel persecution it aroused against the Jews. They were supposed to have infected the air in some mysterious manner, and they were accused of having poisoned the wells and springs. In Strassburg 2,000 of them were buried alive in their own burial ground.

The order of the Flagellanto arose at this time, coming from the belief that the sins of the world had at last brought down the wrath of heaven. It was the beginning of the so called Hundred Years' war that carried the black death into England, where in London its victims numbered 100,000. When at last the plague had worked its ravages, it doubled back over its course, to disappear in the east. In 1845 it appeared again in England, first among the soldiers of Richmond after the battle of Bosworth Field, and when the victorious army marched to London the plague went with them to work its havoc there. As long as it lasted the mortality was as great as that caused by the black death half a century before. Five thousand people died in five weeks, and then the plague left London as suddenly as it had appeared there, to sweep over the rest of England.

In Scotland the plague of 1568 came immediately after the battle of Langside, when Queen Mary was dethroned, but no records of the mortality it occasioned seem to have been preserved. The plague visited London in 1675. This followed after the civil war which ended with the death of Charles II, but so many years intervened that it is impossible to trace any connection between the two events. In modern wars danger from the plague seems gradually to have lessened, perhaps as a result of better sanitary conditions maintained by the armies of today.—Philadelphia Press.

Dear Madam:

Your grocer is authorized to pay you back your money if you don't like Schilling's Best baking powder.

No questions asked.

San Francisco A Schilling & Company

S. F. N. U. No. 843 New Series, No. 34

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

A Cause For Grief.

A Chinese of 40 years old, whose mother still flogged him daily, shed tears one day in the company of friends. "Why do you weep?" asked one. "Alas, things are not as they used to be!" he lamented. "The poor woman's arm grows feebler every day."—Household Words.

HE WAS A HUMBUG.

His Wife Was Disgusted When She Learned the Author of the Article.

Scribbler had come home from the office in the evening quite "played out," because of the output of his pen and brain that day. He was lying on the couch in the sitting room after supper, when Mrs. Scribbler, who had been reading a magazine, said:

"See here, George Scribbler, here is something that fits you to a T, and I want you to read it."

"What's it about?"

"It's about these funny kind of men who must have everything just so in their homes, no matter how hard it makes it for others. You know that you are one of the funniest men alive. Every rug and chair and book must be exactly in its place, and a little dust sets you to scolding. You must have a clean napkin every meal, and you cannot eat if there is a tiny spot on the tablecloth, and everything must be served just exactly so or you get grumpy. Now, is not that true?"

"A man likes to see things in order in his own house," said Scribbler.

"Of course he does, and I try to keep things in order, but I defy any woman to maintain the degree of order you expect with four or five children in the house. Now, this article refers to just such unreasonable, fussy men as you are, and it is not one bit too severe even when it says that they are small spirited and lacking in true manliness. I do wish that you would read the article."

"I don't need to," replied Scribbler, sitting up to stretch and groan.

"I'd like to know why you do not need to read it, George Scribbler?"

"Because—well, the fact is, my dear, I wrote that article myself."—Denver Post.

"For Valor."

A little story that appeared not long ago in a Spanish comic paper is sent to us by correspondent to show how Spaniards thought of their navy before the present events. A Spanish admiral touching at some foreign port in the natural course of events calls on the governor of the local fort, and on the return call the governor sees the one little gun of the Spanish man-of-war run out to fire a return salute, but at the critical moment the Spanish admiral rushes up and throws the gun, carriage and all, into the sea.

"What!" exclaims the distinguished visitor. "Why do you throw your government's guns overboard?"

"Because," replies the admiral, "if the gun had gone off, it would have blown this whole ship to pieces! That means another decoration for me!"

"How's that?"

"For my courage in saving this ship from destruction."—London News.

Not a Written Line.

Excited Lady (at Atlantic City—Why isn't something done for that ship in distress? Why don't some of you—

Life Saver (hurriedly)—We have sent the crew a line to come ashore, mum.

Excited Lady—Of all things! Were they waiting for a formal invitation?—New York Weekly.

A London curate the other day received an astonishing answer to an inquiry after a parishioner's health. "Well, sir," said the parishioner, "sometimes I feels anyhow, sometimes I feels nohow and there be times when I feels as stiff as a himmidge."

THE COLONEL'S STORY.

How Jim Adkins Went to War, Got Buried and Was Resurrected.

"Talking about war times," said the old colonel, "did any of you ever hear the story of Jim Adkins?"

"No."

"Well, I'm surprised. Everybody in the settlement knew it. Jim was a no 'count sort of a fellow, and the old man was anxious to get rid of him, so when the war broke out and they were looking around for men the old man gave him away."

"Gave him away?"

"Yes. Jim was in the bayloft, and they were about to leave without him when the old man winked and pointed to the barn.

"That was enough, and they got him and marched him to the front.

"The old man was sorry after Jim was gone and his conscience hurt him bad. But he hoped for the best, until one day he got a message that told him Jim had been killed and buried on the battlefield.

"Then he packed his gripand started right off to bring Jim's body home, if possible, for the grief stricken mother would have nothing else and made life miserable for him with her reproaches.

"He went to Virginia, and was there informed that it would be impossible to remove the body. So he stood over the spot where it was buried and wept for three days. Then he went sadly home.

"And, lo and behold, the first man he met as he neared his gate was Jim—safe, sound and right side up with care!

"It was some time before the old man could say a word, but when he found it was really Jim—in flesh and blood—that they had got Jim mixed up with some other Adkins, and he hadn't been killed at all, the old man was hot! He slowly divested himself of his coat, then rolled up his sleeves and made for him! It was the liveliest scrap you ever saw—the old man on top, and the two of 'em wallowing in the dust!

"It took the old lady and the three girls and two stout darkies to pull the old man off.

"He never did explain why he did it, and Jim didn't ask any questions, but the next morning he told his mother that while his furlough wasn't out still he knew his country needed him and he couldn't stand to stay at home under those circumstances, so he left his blessing for the old man and took the first train for the front."—Atlanta Constitution.

A "Daisy."

"You are a daisy," is used by Dickens in "David Copperfield" in the sense of calling a person a daisy in the way to express admiration and at the same time to laugh at one's credulity. Steerforth says to young Copperfield: "David, my daisy, you are so innocent of the world. Let me call you my daisy, as it is so refreshing to find one in these corrupt days so innocent and unsophisticated. My dear Copperfield, the daisies of the field are not fresher than you."

A Successful Preacher.

An English bishop, as he was going about his diocese, asked the porter of a lunatic asylum how a chaplain whom he, the bishop, had lately appointed, was getting on.

"Oh, my lord," said the man, "his preaching is most successful. The hidiots henjoys it partickler."

THE INDULGENT FATHER.

An Account of One That Colonel Calliper Knew In Storkville Center, Vt.

"Speaking of indulgent fathers," said Colonel Calliper, "reminds me of an old friend of mine named Silas Zingtock, who formerly lived in Storkville Centre, Vt. Once when his little son Rufus wanted very much to fly a kite at a time when he was not well enough to be permitted to go out Mr. Zingtock rigged up a contrivance whereby the youngster's desire could be gratified in the house. He set up a blower in the back parlor, belted it to an engine in the cellar below, and when everything was all ready he started the fan and produced a current of air that was ample to float a kite.

"It was great fun for young Rufus to sit in the back parlor and fly his kite in the front, and for a time everything went all right, but on an unfortunate day Rufy, not satisfied with the amount of wind the fan was blowing, undertook to make it blow harder, which is something that Mr. Zingtock had expressly forbidden. It seems that the blower and the boiler and machinery were all much larger than were needed to produce a breeze sufficient to float a kite here, but Mr. Zingtock, who, though rich, was also thrifty, had had a chance to buy this plant second hand cheaper than a new plant of smaller size would have cost, and so he took it and had it set up, and every morning he used to adjust it so that it would not go above a certain speed, and several times he had cautioned his son never to touch it.

"About one minute after Rufus did touch it on this morning when he wanted it to blow harder the big fan was going at a gait that set up a hurricane in the parlors. It blew the kite against one of the windows and broke that the first thing, and within a minute the pictures were off the walls and their glasses smashed, tables were upset, bric-a-brac was knocked into flinders, and the whole parlor was a wreck, with the big blower going at top speed and churning everything there into fragments and blowing the debris out of the windows.

"That ended the father's indulgence."—New York Sun.

Dangers From Violent Exercise.

There is considerable diversity of opinion as to the safety with which women may indulge in violent exercise in view of possible injury. As regard the heart, there appears to be but one opinion—namely, that that organ, accustomed to a quiet life, may be dangerously and permanently crippled by the excessive strain in athletic sports. Experience in medical practice, says an eminent authority, teaches that the patient with a weak heart must be extremely cautious in his exercises, and the demonstration of a dilatation of the healthy heart under sudden, violent, exhausting effort which has been made was of a surprising nature. Many clinical observers in Germany and in this country have detected by percussion and observation of the changes in the heart beats that there is under strain and exertion considerable dilatation, which continues for a shorter or longer time after the exertion is over. Ocular proof of this has been afforded by the Roentgen rays. This shows not only the need of caution by those in good health, but more particularly so in the case of those who suffer from any weakness, constitutional or otherwise, in this organ.—New York Ledger.

Military Courage.

The question of the comparative proportion of really brave men in any army will probably never be determined. Great officers on the continent keep their knowledge on that subject rigorously as a professional secret and assume as a certainty that all soldiers are brave. They know very well, however, that they are not, and when confidential will admit, as Marshal von Moltke once did in public, that with a great number it takes discipline, and severe discipline, too, to induce them to face shells unshrinkingly. American officers have been known to acknowledge that of their men, who are as brave as any in the world, 20 per cent would run away if they could, and in every army, even ours, which a man enters only of free will, there is a certain proportion who literally cannot overcome their fears. They are stricken with a sort of paralysis. The proportion is probably not high in any army, the majority, if in health, being able to do their duty and having intense motives to do it, but neither is the proportion high of those who literally feel no fear.—London Spectator.

A Cyclists' Paradise.

Cyclists in rural France are well catered for in delightful little countrified cafes, with open air tables often set in an arbor of evergreens. A franc and a half or two will get you a perfection of an omelet, a plate of stewed wild rabbit, soft cheese, wine and black coffee, and for an extra 4 sous or so the waitress, if the wheelman is ungallant enough to let her do it, will inflate his tires, the merest "marchand de vins" being nowadays the proud possessor of a standard pump.—Caterer.

Warships were originally distinguished from merchantmen by their greater size. Now this distinction does not obtain, and the war vessel is of a totally different construction.

An elephant can carry about three tons on its back.

THE OLDEST VOLUNTEER.

A New York State doctor, aged 109, volunteered his services to the President recently, and expressed a desire to enter the army as a surgeon. Even at his advanced years he can read without glasses, and walk 10 to 15 miles a day. The oldest standard medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has no equal for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, fevers and bad blood. It strengthens, purifies and vitalizes. One bottle does much good.

A Gentle Hint.—She—I wish all men were like Admiral Dewey! He—In what way? She—He believes in short engagements!

I know that my life was saved by Piso's Cure for Consumption.—John A. Miller, Au Sable, Michigan, April 21, 1895.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

"Did you read about that Iowa preacher who was engaged to seventeen girls?" "Yes; I presume the poor man was trying to keep his choir together through the hot weather."

Warm Weather

WEAKNESS is quickly overcome by the toning and blood enriching qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine cures that tired feeling almost as quickly as the sun dispels the morning mist. It also cures pimples, boils, salt rheum, scrofula and all other troubles originating in bad, impure blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, indigestion

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.
SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE
Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by
Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

LOST,

The opportunity of saving MONEY, if you do not buy from us. We positively guarantee to give you a DISCOUNT of 5 to 25 per cent from any Price List, issued by any Pacific Coast Cash or Department Store. We can sell you everything you need, write for full particulars.
GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS,
218 CALIFORNIA STREET, San Francisco, Cal.
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in General Supplies.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

BIG G. Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00.
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

REMEMBER

if you are dissatisfied with the size of piece or with the quality of the chewing tobacco you are using—

get Battle Ax PLUG

HIGH QUALITY LOW PRICE

and you 'll get your money's worth. The 10-cent piece of Battle Ax is larger than the 10-cent piece of any other brand of the same high quality, and is the largest piece of really good chewing tobacco that is sold for 10 cents.

Remember the name when you buy again

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 15. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 23, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1486.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.25
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME.

The dames of France are fond and free,
And Flemish lips are willing,
And soft the maids of Italy,
And Spanish eyes are thrilling;
Still though I bask beneath their smiles
Their charms fail to bind me,
And my heart falls back to Erin's Isle,
To the girl I left behind me.

For she's as fair as Shannon's side,
And purer than its water,
But she refused to be my bride,
Though many a year I sought her;
Yet since to France I sailed away,
Her letters oft remind me
That I promised never to gainsay
The girl I left behind me.

She says, "My own dear love, come home,
My friends are rich and many,
Or else, abroad with you I'll roam,
A soldier stout as any;
If you'll not come, nor let me go,
I'll think you have resigned me,"
My heart nigh broke when I answered
"No,"
To the girl I left behind me.

For never shall my true love brave
A life of war and toiling,
And never as a skulking slave
I'll tread my native soil on;
But were it free or to be freed,
The battle's close would find me
To Ireland bound, nor message need
From the girl I left behind me.

VICTIMIZED.

I had been at the Climax Hot Springs for three days when the Widow Hendricks arrived. I had engaged quarters for a month, in order to boil the rheumatism out of my system, and there were a hundred other guests booked in like manner. The Springs were never a fashionable resort, but you will always find a lot of people there who are financially solid. I was on the veranda when the widow drove up in the 'bus, and I sized her up as follows:

"Age, about 27; fine figure; second year of widowhood; handsome face; intellectual and entertaining; probably got at least $50,000 life insurance when Hendricks shuffled off; she'll do to cultivate."

I was a bachelor, you understand, and at liberty to flirt, make love or marry. It was said that I was a good-looking bachelor, and though I was bothered with rheumatism in my left knee just then it didn't interfere materially with the grace of my carriage. I flattered myself that I attracted the widow's attention, and was glad to note that several other bachelors or widowers were a bit jealous of me. We got her history, or rather a few details, from one of the hotel clerks. She was worth half a million dollars, and lived in Cincinnati. Her sister and brother-in-law would appear later. She had twinges of rheumatism in her left knee, and would take a few baths before sailing for Europe to be gone a year.

For two days the fair young widow avoided us; but on the third day, to my great satisfaction, she was given a seat at my table in the dining-room. Not only that, but next to me; and she had not given the waiter her order when I introduced myself and managed to add a few honeyed words to please her self-esteem. She gave me her name in return, and the fact that we were both suffering from rheumatism in the same knee served as a bond to draw us together. I admired her from the start; by the time her poached egg was brought I thought I could love her; before her coffee was gone I had determined to marry her or perish in the attempt. For two days I had the widow Hendricks to myself, and I was so selfish that I would not introduce her to any possible rivals, even though they got in the way a dozen times per day. She gave me to understand that she was glad I was at the Springs. She had inquired about me, she said, and found that I was a man above reproach.

I was getting along swimmingly, when the widow gave me a sort of a throw-down. That is, she gave four or five others opportunities of introducing themselves; and one afternoon I found her promenading the veranda on the arm of old Jones, the man I despised above all the other guests. He was a merchant from some place or other, and probably a very nice man, but I despised him because it was rumored that he was a widower who wanted to get married again. I chided the widow for walking with Jones and for talking Rome and Venice with a young squirt of a fellow named Hawkins, and for bowing to a millionaire bachelor with rheumatism in the ankles; but she squeezed my hand, and laughingly replied:

"Don't be a goose. Of all the men here I think you the nicest; but a woman must render herself agreeable to all, you know. You just be a good boy, and don't get jealous."

She permitted about a dozen men to cultivate her acquaintance, and while I was jealous of each and every one and ached to bang the heads of the whole I yet took a grim lot of pleasure in the feeling that I was boss of all, and had the joker in my hand. I even introduced to her two or three parties, in order to have the satisfaction of pitying them afterwards.

The women did not take kindly to the widow Hendricks, nor did she cultivate them. While woman is woman's worst enemy, it takes a woman to correctly size up one of her own sex. The women called Mrs. Hendricks superficial, flirtatious, conceited, and all that. They also said she was tricky, and but for fear of the law would have called her an adventuress. Perhaps some of them did, to their husbands, but if so the husbands answered:

"Now, my dear, stop right there. You are jealous of her good looks and fine figure, but don't carry the thing too far. She has a right to amuse herself, and that's all she's doing."

The widow Hendricks had no reason to be dissatisfied with the attentions she received. She was a sun around which fourteen different stars began to revolve as soon as she made her appearance on the veranda, and it was almost a fight as to who should escort her for a walk or into the dining-room. In fact, things went so far that I got mad, and perhaps I should have paid my bill and suffered on with the rheumatism had she not sent for me to join her in her private parlor. She knew I was put out, and she squeezed my hand and sat down close beside me, and began:

"Now, George" (for the first time), "you are angry at me, and I can't tell you how grieved I am. I know you to be the dearest fellow in the world, and to prove how much I like you I am going to ask a great favor of you. I'd die before I'd ask it of any other man on earth. George" (squeeze), "will you grant it? There is no one about, and I think you may—may——"

I kissed her, of course. That was twenty years ago, but I remember it yet. It was a long, lingering kiss on the cheek, and I did not feel my rheumatism for three days after. Then I told her to ask me for my horse, my dog, my razor, or my fortune, and I would break my neck to save her.

"That is like you, you dear old fellow!" she said. "Well, the truth is, I owe my dressmaker about $600. I sent her a check for the amount before leaving home, but she sends it back, and wants the money. You know how queer some people are; she probably never cashed a check in her life. If you could——"

If I could let her have $600 in cash she would express it to her dressmaker. Why, of course! I had transferred $2,000 to the local bank, and she should have $600 early next forenoon. Didn't she want—$700—$800—$1,000?

"What a noble man!" she murmured.

When the bank opened next morning I drew out an even $1,000, returned to the hotel, and handed it to her with my compliments. She smiled and laughed, and called me pet names, but when I offered to go with her to the express office she put me off. I didn't spy upon her, but I couldn't find out that she went out alone that day or any other day.

Next day after drawing the money I wanted her to go driving, but she had a headache. I wandered off alone, and returned just in time to catch old Jones coming out of that private parlor, and to see the widow flitting out of the rear door. I forced back my suspicions, deemed them unworthy, and never knew the worst until Jones owned up to it. She had sent for him to ask a great favor. She had also squeezed his hand—a hand like a ham—and the old jay had also imprinted a long, lingering kiss on her cheek. She hadn't worked the dressmaker dodge on him; it was interest due on a mortgage, and she had forgotten all about it. Jones was a business man, and maybe he suggested her sending a check drawn on her own local bank; but if he did she had some excuse to satisfy him. At any rate he lent her $750 and had to draw on his own bank for more.

A day later the little widow tackled that squirt of a Hawkins. Squirts don't have ready cash as a rule, but this one happened to have $10,000 which had come to him as a legacy. He had been fool enough to bring half of it with him and hand it over to the hotel safe; and though he tried to lie out of it I believe he was easy picking. When the widow got him into that private parlor and called him Fitzy and squeezed his hand he went all to pieces, and when he was permitted to kiss her peachy cheek the infernal idiot just ached to die for her. What she was after, however, was cold cash. One of her lady friends in Boston wanted a loan of $2,000 for a week, and as the widow didn't have it by her, and yet awfully wanted to oblige, she was compelled to ask for a loan. She would give Fitzy $15,000 worth of diamonds to hold as security—having them in the hotel safe—but, of course, he wouldn't think of such a thing. He ran down and got the money, and was so tickled to be of service that he would have stood on his head if she had given the sign.

The millionaire bachelor with the swollen ankles was the next victim. His ankles were much better, but his heart was in a bad way. The wretched idiot had fallen in love with the widow, and he had just figured out to his own satisfaction that he hadn't one show in a million, when a little pink note was placed in his hand and he was almost lifted out of his chair. He was asked to meet the widow in that same parlor, and he didn't lose any valuable time getting there. As his first name was Samuel I suppose the woman called him "Sammy," and she probably squeezed his hand and made as big a fool of him as in the other cases. He wouldn't be confidential with the rest of us after it was all over and we were comparing notes, and so I can't tell what excuse she put forward to borrow money. He owned up that he handed over $1,500 in the long green, and would have made it more had it been asked for.

Taken altogether there were eleven victims. One by one we entered that private parlor to be made fools of and plucked. The lowest sum received by the widow was $300. The highest sum handed out was that of Fitzy, who threatened to commit suicide, but finally turned to cigarettes. The sum total was a little over $10,000, but in casting it up we did not mind the odd hundreds.

A quarter of a mile in rear of the hotel was a sylvan grove and a lake. Each and every one of us was invited to meet the widow beside the lake on a certain hour. We were on hand to the last man. Some of us walked around and glared at each other, and some of us sat down on the benches and smiled knowingly to ourselves. The hour passed, but none of us left. It was three hours past the appointed time before any one was suspicious, and then we moved to the hotel in a body to find the widow gone. She had taken a train at the very hour she was to meet us, and with her had gone our cash. Old Jones called her an adventuress and voted to pursue and arrest her, but we voted him down by a large majority, and decided not to make fools of ourselves any further. In fact, we decided to become liars instead, and during the rest of our stay we boldly denied that any of us had cared anything for the widow or had lent her a dollar.

Five years later, while I was at another spring—this time a cold one—for the benefit of my digestion, a lady and gentleman drove up one evening from the station, and I at once recognized the widow Hendricks. She was just as young and cute and pretty as ever, but I took it that she had been married since I saw her last. I didn't put myself forward at all, but after supper she ran across me on the veranda, and uttering a little exclamation of glad surprise reached out both hands and said:

"Why, Mr. Renfrew—George—how do you do? Why! I haven't met you since——"

"Madam, I beg your pardon," I interrupted, "but you seem to have made a mistake."

"But you are—are George?"

"No, madam. My name is Boggs—Abraham Boggs, Esq., dealer in grindstones, green hides and guano."

"And you never lent me a thousand dollars to pay my dressmaker?"

"Never! That isn't Abraham Boggs."

"But you——"

"Boggs, madam—Boggs. I simply happened to look like Mr. Renfrew, who was probably some sentimental idiot, and your mistake is excusable. Try some one else, madam—good-night."

RECENT INVENTIONS.

Metallic folding-beds are being made with the horizontal bars hinged in several sections to close up and draw the footboard up to the head when the bed is not in use.

To indicate when a new bottle has been tampered with a metal ball is hung from the cork by a thread, which breaks as the cork is pulled, allowing the ball to fall to the bottom of the bottle.

Hats are prevented from blowing off the head by a new fastener, which consists of a toothed comb, to be attached to the under side of the hat brim and slide up into the hair, where it is held by springs in the crown.

An improved overshoe has a re-enforcement extending around the heel portion with a shoulder inside to engage the upper edge of the counter of the shoe and prevent the rubber from slipping off.

A Connecticut inventor has patented a bicycle handle which is formed of a single spiral spring of heavy aluminium alloy wire, the center of the coil bulging outward and the ends gripping the bar to hold it in place.

Meats can be marked without staining by a new device, consisting of raised letters attached to a wire frame, against which the meat is allowed to rest until an indentation shows, when the meat is dried and hardened by smoke.

Bicycle riders who smoke will appreciate a newly designed pipe which has the bowl attached to a shield to be pinned on the coat, with a curved stem which makes it possible for the smoker to use the pipe without touching it with his hands.

An improved method of attaching the collar and tie to a shirt consists of loops formed on the collar, tie and neckband, through which a spring ring is forced, which extends nearly around the neck under the tie and prevents the slipping of collar and tie.

An Englishman has designed an electric fog signaling apparatus, which has a large number of cartridge chambers in a metallic disk, with a firing mechanism on one side of the disk to fire a cartridge at stated intervals if a train is in the block ahead of the signal, an electric current operating the signal.

In a new French apparatus for raising sunken vessels a number of cells of calcium carbide are maintained on board in such a position that gas is generated as soon as the vessel sinks and stored in collapsible bags under the decks, thus raising the ship immediately, which might be the means of saving many lives.

She Reared Her Husband.

Mrs. Madison Smith, who died recently, after passing the century mark, many years ago enjoyed the distinction, it is claimed, of being the only woman in this section who literally raised her husband. Old man Smith is living yet. He said that his mother died when he was but one day old, and that he was given by his master to Miranda, another slave, to raise. She acted as a mother to him, her own baby having died about the same time. In after years both being manumitted by their master, they removed to the North, and were married at Brooklyn, St. Clair County, in 1850. They have lived happily together ever since. Old man Smith is 86 years of age, and enjoys the esteem of all who know him. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Onions and Complexion.

The finest complexions in the world are said to be in the Bermudas. This is accounted for by the fact that the inhabitants live chiefly on onions.

Nickel-in-the-Slot.

A recently patented nickel-in-the-slot machine polishes shoes, perfumes the clothing, opens a mirror, and gives the user a stick of gum in one operation.

Mohammed's Tomb.

The tomb of Mohammed is covered with diamonds, sapphires and rubies valued at $12,500,000.

If you must have your picture taken, for heaven's sake don't pose.

FOUGHT WITH FARRAGUT.

Commodore Watson Has Many Good Things to His Credit.

Among those who find appreciation through the opportunities afforded by war is Commodore Watson, chosen to lead the naval expedition into eastern waters. Kentucky is justly proud of him and says that the best blood of the State flows in his veins. His father was a cultured and skillful physician of the old school, who held a place among the best families of the Blue Grass State. His mother was Sarah Lee Crittenden Watson, the importance of her lineage from a Southern as well as a national standpoint, being suggested in her name. Her father was Hon. John Jordan Crittenden, at one time Governor of Kentucky and later Attorney General in the cabinet of President William Henry Harrison. She was also a sister of Gen. Thomas L. Crittenden, of the United States army.

Commodore Watson's naval career is replete with interest. He graduated from the naval academy in June, 1860, standing high in his class and was at once assigned to the rank of midship-man, joining the Susquehanna two months later for a cruise to Europe. While he was abroad the civil war broke out and he returned at once to take part. He was promoted to master in August, 1861, but his actual fighting career did not begin till January of the following year, when he was ordered to the Hartford as navigator. This was Admiral Farragut's flagship. He was commissioned a lieutenant that year and in January, 1864, was made flag lieutenant to Farragut. He was in the battles of New Orleans, Mobile Bay, Vicksburg and Port Hudson. It was Watson who lashed Farragut to the rigging during the memorable fight in Mobile Bay.

COMMODORE JOHN C. WATSON.

At the close of the civil war Lieut. Watson was ordered to the Colorado. Without following his career in detail from that time, he has been promoted as follows: Made Lieutenant Commander, July 26, 1866; Commander, Jan. 23, 1874; Captain, March 4, 1887, and Commodore Nov. 7, 1897. Within the last thirty years he has commanded some of the best boats in the navy and was for some time governor of the naval home in Philadelphia, where his wife and unmarried children still reside. She was the daughter of Judge James Thornton, of San Francisco. The eldest son, John Edward Watson, is an ensign in the navy and attached to the cruiser Detroit.

The Commodore, as would be inferred from his record, is a man of marked individuality. He has high moral convictions and lives up to them, without ostentation and with tolerance. He holds the confidence and respect of his men, who know that he is equal to every demand of his position, brave, just and considerate.

KNAPSACK AS ARMOR.

Made of Bullet-Proof Materials, It Serves as an Intrenchment.

A knapsack or blanket bag that can be used as armor is being seriously discussed by military men. Here weight, which is indispensable in armor, is supplied by the knapsack itself, and the bullet-proof material need not be heavy and can be used as a ready-made intrenchment.

IS THIS PRACTICABLE?

The trouble would be, of course, that in a long campaign the soldier generally throws away his knapsack on account of its weight. The matter is at present receiving the consideration of the powers that be.

FEROCIOUS SPANISH WEAPON.

The Deadly Navaja, a Stroke from Which Is Not Easily Parried.

It is said that every Spaniard carries a knife unless he belongs to the upper classes or the aristocracy. Even then instinct frequently leads them to its use. With the peasants and common people a blade is an indispensable article of dress. The ugliest of Spanish knives is the navaja of Seville. At the first intimation of trouble the Spaniard pulls his knife. If it is a navaja and provided with a big ratchet and spring, he jerks the blade open, the ratchet snapping like a rattlesnake's warning. This adds dramatic effect and appeals to that love of braggadocio and display inherent in the Spanish people.

The navaja is used with the blade up. This gives the blow a terrible ripping and thrusting force. It is hard to parry and the point once in, little avails the victims. The wound is nearly always fatal, for it leaves a trail like a battle-ax, save that it is up instead of down. The long knives, such as this form of navaja presents, offer a tremendous advantage, and in the street brawls and private quarrels so often indulged in always overmatch more fragile weapons.

Matches are seldom used, except by certain of the better classes in the land of Ferdinand and Isabella, and the practice of striking a light from the flint will illustrate how common an article of use the every-handy knife is. Nearly every Spaniard carries in his belt a bit of flint. When he wants a light out comes the flint, the knife is produced and the stone struck with the back of the blade. A small piece of punk catches the spark as it flies, nurtures it and in a second there is all the blaze needed. Calmly the Spaniard blows the smoke of his cigarette in rings about his head, ever ready for a resort to the friend who never plays him false—his navaja.—Buffalo News.

A STRONG APPEAL.

It's Hard to See How a Man Could Resist It.

Secretary Alger, who is easily touched by any story of a sorrowing mother or an afflicted family, is having all he can do to repress his feelings and enforce military laws. Every day he is besieged from some direction to release from the army some soldier who hastily volunteered without taking into consideration his duties to his family or to himself. Occasionally some man is allowed to leave the army, but the Secretary is doing all he can to discourage this.

The other day a fair-haired, smooth-faced boy walked in to see the Secretary at the War Department. "I came to ask you to release me from the army," the boy said. "I do not care myself, but my poor old mother is dying from grief."

The appeal of the little fellow, whose boyish face quickly caught the Secretary, made an impression, but in the kindest manner the Secretary said: "My boy, I do not know what your story is, but every day I receive these appeals. I was a soldier myself. Let me say to you that you may always regret this. Write your mother consoling letters and go forward and do your duty, determined to come out of the war with a name and a record."

"Yes, Mr. Secretary," said the boy, "I realize all that. I am anxious to go to the front, but look at this note from mother."

The Secretary glanced over the tear-bespattered note, which spoke of "my little soldier boy." In the note she sent the son a lock of her hair. It was gray, almost white. "You see the color of my hair now," she wrote. "You know what the color was when you went away."

Taking from a pocket a watch chain made of hair, the soldier boy said to the Secretary: "Here, sir, you see what a few weeks have done. From this beautiful brown my mother's hair has turned gray. God knows I love her. I love my country. I do not know what to do."

The appeal was a strong one. "I will investigate your case," the big-hearted Secretary said, as he walked away to his office, just a trace of moisture showing in his eyes.—Washington Star.

Napoleon.

If Napoleon Bonaparte were alive to-day and were anxious to be admitted to the ranks of the United States army the regulations would compel the surgeons to reject him, as Napoleon's height was not more than five feet two inches.

Such was the majesty of his mien that men thought him taller; but his exact inches were but 62.

The operation of the rule in question would thus keep out of the United States army the greatest military genius in all history.

Lord Nelson, the greatest naval hero of history, was also just beneath the standard. He, too, would be rejected from the army to-day by a strict interpretation of the rule. His king called him the "Boy Admiral." He was noticeably shorter than his subordinate officers.

As the height of the average man of to-day is a little less than five feet six inches, even in this country but little greater than that, it is evident that many a great military career is nipped in the bud by the enforcement of this law.—New York World.

Waste in War.

A shell thrown from a 24-ton quick firing gun rushes through the air at the velocity of 4,900 feet per second, striking its object with a force equal to that of 11,230 tons falling one foot. And yet, comparatively speaking, they are harmless. Thus, during the one-day bombardment of Alexandria by the British fleet of twelve ships, lasting from 7 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., no less than 3,165 shells were thrown into the town, yet not more than 800 Egyptians were killed—that is: it took, roughly speaking, six shells to kill one man. Again, during the Franco-German war, the Germans threw 30,000 shells into Belfort, only killing sixty Frenchmen, or 500 shells to kill one Frenchman. At Strasburg, in the same war, it took eighteen shells to kill every man, and at the siege of Paris 110,000 shells only killed 107 and wounded 209.

A Striking Resemblance.

"Excuse me, but it seems to me that I must have met you before. Are you not a brother or a near relative of Maj. Gibbs?"

"No; I am Maj. Gibbs himself."

"Ah, indeed; that explains the remarkable resemblance."—Tid-Bits.

Lots of men have been temporarily paralyzed who never had a paralytic stroke.

It is easier to sell a farm than it is to sell a piano.

RAGGED BUT BRAVE.

Cuba's Tattered Army Is Made Up of Heroic Men.

Probably there was never an army like the Cuban. It includes all ages and conditions of men and boys; some with bare feet and in rags—very scant tatters at that. There are few who look as if they had not been very hungry for a long time. If the spirit of freedom could have been crushed out of their souls as strength has been starved out of their bodies there would be no Cuban army to-day. But, with all their suffering and sacrifice, writes a correspondent at the front, here they are, physically inferior, but brave in spirit, eager and glad to fall in line, and hopeful as never before, for they feel that at last the decisive blow is to be struck for Cuba libre. There could hardly be anything more pathetic than these long lines of Cubans, ready to march to the front—dark-faced, white-haired old men, handsome, slender boys, with dark, wistful eyes—all quiet, serious, even sad—so unlike the American soldiers—vigorous and cheerful, with a freedom of thought, expression and action that has never known repression.

It was at Guantanamo that a naval officer said to me: "When we came down here we were not enthusiastic over the fighting qualities of the Cubans. But we really knew nothing about them, or the actual conditions under which they have struggled for three years. These conditions could not be described; a man must see for himself to realize what they are. I do not believe the Anglo-Saxon would have held out against such odds. Washington's army at one time, perhaps, endured something like equal hardships. These Cuban men and boys have lived on what they could pick up, with no pay, no clothes, their families hiding in the woods, living on roots, like half-starved animals. But with all—they fight bravely. We find them honest and grateful. Even in the ranks there are finely educated men. Their rough life has given them something of the bandit appearance. But they are gentlemen."

CUBAN IN HEAVY MARCHING ORDER.

GALLOPING GUN CARRIAGE.

Much Lighter than the Maxim Model, and Wonderfully Efficient.

The Earl of Dundonald has invented a galloping gun carriage that has been tested with gratifying results. One of the principal merits of the carriage is its extreme lightness. Built of steel, and of the same width as the service pattern, its weight, inclusive of gun and ammunition, is less than 400 pounds, whereas that of the ordinary Maxim carriage is upwards of 900 pounds. As a result of the lessened weight only one horse is required instead of two, while a single man can, if necessary, move the carriage for considerable distances with very little fatigue. The shafts, made of hickory and steel, are easily detachable. A notable feature of the invention is a rotary ammunition carrier, which has capacity for 1,250 rounds; while all-around fire is possible without changing the position of the carriage. Lord Dundonald contends that the use of the gun carriage will lead, among other things, to considerable economy in men, since two guns can be worked by three men, one of the latter holding the horses, while his comrades fire.

THE NEW GUN CARRIAGE.

Rise of the English Language.

We all know, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, that the English language has been growing at a remarkable rate during this century, and that it has been spreading over the whole globe. But few, however, really comprehend how rapid this growth has been. At the opening of the century French was spoken by 31,000,000 people, German by 30,000,000, Russian by 30,000,000, Spanish by 27,000,000, English by 21,000,000, and Italian by 16,000,000. To-day English is the language of 130,000,000, French of 45,000,000, German of 70,000,000, Russian of 75,000,000, Spanish of 35,000,000, and Italian of 35,000,000. In other words, during the present century English has not only risen from the fifth place to the first, but has gained enormously on the rest in relative magnitude, expanding from about 13 per cent. of the total to over 30 per cent. With this increase of the English speaking people the language itself has kept pace. Concurrent with this growth of the language there has been an equal, if not greater, increase in knowledge. Three hundred years ago one man could know all there was to be known. To-day one man can know thoroughly only one small branch of one science. This increase of knowledge has been most rapid during the last part of the present century. More than any other cause, the progress of modern invention and science has brought about an enormous extension of the language. Thousands of technical words and expressions now in common use would never have been coined but for the innumerable parts of the never ending list of new inventions in mechanics and discoveries in science. In no better way can this rapid increase in knowledge, and thereby in the number of words used, be realized than by a comparison of the first reference works with those of the present day.

Germany has 5,782 associations of turners, with 578,103 members.

It costs about $1,000 to build an electric cab of the kind now in use in Paris.

Building still goes merrily on in Berlin, although there are 20,000 vacant houses.

Manufactories are taxed much higher in Italy than in Germany, Belgium and England.

England has about 150 packs of foxhounds, and about 15,000 horses are kept specially for fox hunting.

Paris has an official rat-catcher, who has, during the last thirty-five years, caught about half a million of these animals.

Two Swiss foresters killed two eagles. In and near their nest they found remnants of chamois, marmot, rabbit, cat, weasel, and even a mouse.

Germany contributes only 140,000 marks a year in support of schools in her colonies, while France and England spend millions in that direction.

In consequence of a strike Milan had to go twenty-four hours without gas or electricity. The city bought 5,000 candles and put them into the gas lamps.

The names of the 105 battles are emblazoned on the banners of the various regiments which form the British army. But many actions of great importance are not so commemorated.

During the siege of Paris no fewer than 22,000,000 letters sailed out of the city in fifty-four balloons, dispatched between the 19th of September, 1870, and the 28th of January, 1871.

A visitor to the Turin exposition writes that that city, with its many electric cars and general bustle, gives the impression of being an English or American rather than an Italian city.

MADE $5 A MINUTE.

Alaskan Pilot Who Operated a True Wheel of Fortune.

W. L. Foster is the name of a citizen of Alaska who purposes to buy a few shares of stock in a street car company for which he acted as driver last August. The change in his fortunes which permits this is due to the fact that he has been acting as a pilot for $200 per forty minutes' work.

WHEEL EARNED A FORTUNE.

The White Horse rapids are in the path of those who seek Dawson City and the Klondike gold fields. Foster has acted as pilot through them. They are extremely dangerous, but he has always taken steamers through them safely. The job occupied about forty minutes, but he was paid according to his skill and not according to the time he consumed. Two hundred dollars was given him by the steamer Bellingham, carrying the representatives of the Canadian national bank to Dawson to establish a branch. Foster has since made enough money to go into banking himself.

Fecundity of the Fly.

A fly's eye, it is generally claimed, is made up of numerous minute eyes, which enable it to see in all directions from any position. The blow fly will hatch 20,000 young ones in a week. The eggs, or larvae, are found in the fly's abdomen. They are in layers and rolled like a bolt of cloth. Some of them which entomologists have succeeded in unrolling were found to be two and one-half inches in length.

"Now," said the lady who gossips, "I am going to tell you something. But you must remember that it was told me in confidence and you mustn't repeat it." "Perhaps," suggested Miss Cayenne, "it would be better for you not to tell me." "Why not?" was the query, in astonishment. "If a lady of your self-command can't keep from divulging it, I shouldn't like to trust myself with it."—Washington Star.

A woman who cries a great deal, is usually a great kisser.

After marriage it's sometimes a case of two fools with but a single thought.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L. HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK ..... Inyo

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
J. J. GUNN ..... Modock

Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION ..... Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL ..... Bishop

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG ..... Big Pine

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES ..... Independence

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY ..... Bishop

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON ..... Bishop

The Navy Department is shifting some of the officers on the battleships Oregon and Iowa, preparatory to their departure from New York on their cruise to San Francisco by way of the Straits of Magellan. The department has selected from among the fleet of colliers acquired during the war four of the best and largest to accompany the battleships on the long run. These are the Cassius, Scindia, Alexander and Aberendia, and their coal capacity is sufficient to insure a full supply for the big battleships as well as for themselves, without subjecting the fleet to the refusal of any of the South American republics to take on coal on account of the technical existence of a state of war between the United States and Spain. No attempt is to be made to drive the big ships so as to equal the famous run of the Oregon going eastward, the need of the ships on the Pacific side not being so pressing as to warrant incurring the risk of injuring the boilers or machinery by keeping up full speed. It is expected that the battleships with their colliers will be able to start from New York about the end of the month.

After all the conflicting reports regarding the final disposition of the troops now at San Francisco the startling information comes from Washington that practically every regiment in camp in that city will be at once sent to Manilla. The order issued is in accordance with the general plan of the War Department regarding a garrison for the Philippines. The plan of garrison duty included 20,000 men for the Philippines, 12,500 for Porto Rico and 60,000 for Cuba. It is not expected that troops now at Honolulu will accompany those to be embarked at San Francisco, but that more troops will be sent to Honolulu in the near future.

There was an enthusiastic meeting of the Iroquois Club, last evening, when several new members were admitted. Addresses were delivered by Hon. I. H. Mulholland, of Inyo County; Hon. H. M. La Rue, Dr. L. A. Harcourt and others, on the political issues of the day. The club intends to take an active interest during the coming campaign in behalf of the Fusion ticket, and will have one mammoth meeting under its auspices, at which Hon. James D. Phelan, Mayor of San Francisco, and Congressman Marion DeVries will speak.—Sacramento Bee.

Up to this time the amount of the new bonds issued is $123,870,640. Of this amount $101,125,888 have been shipped to subscribers, $12,061,260 have been deposited to secure national bank notes, and $10,633,500 to secure public deposits.

The condition of the United States Treasury, on the 10th inst., shows that the available cash balance was $309,720,100; gold received, $235,715,277. But the "odious" stamp tax will have to be endured, at least until Congress meets.

Dewey says that the situation a Manila is very critical, and asks for more aid—an additional cruiser and a battleship. The Spaniatds assert that Germany will take a coaling station and that Spain will retain the remainder of the islands.

Zinc ore is again climbing up in price. Top grades are quoted at $30 per ton, an advance of $2 50 over two weeks ago. Lead ores are following suit, being worth $1 per ton more than they were ten days ago.

Gen. Maximo Gomes, the Cuban insurgent commander-in-chief, hos resigned, being opposed to yielding political affairs to Americans.

The Nevada Democrats refused to fuse with the Silver Republicans, and nominated a full State ticket.

Foreign Admirals propose to occupy the entire island of Crete. Italy will despatch two regiments.

Practical productive mining instills life into all other branches of business.

A Sociable Young Elephant.

Three elephants trapped in the Gurwhal forest were sent for education to the forest bungalow at Myapore, where I was stopping. Two were full grown. The third was half grown. The full grown elephants were fettered and chained to trees. In front of each sat a mahout, talking to them nearly all day, occasionally throwing them bits of sugar cane. The animals, however, sulked and were fretful, sometimes making demonstrations of charging their mahouts, for which they were scolded and just pricked on their trunks with the point of a spear.

By persistence in this treatment and luxurious living—bread, coarse sugar and rum, in addition to their usual vegetable diet—they were soon domesticated. The young one, who grubbed with the others, was quite able to take care of himself and was not under restraint, but free to go where he would. He made himself acquainted with the exterior of the bungalow, with its precincts, with the people, and seemed to think his lines had fallen in pleasant places, at once settling down to enjoy life. He would pick my pockets and if there was no sugar there would beg and coax me to go and get some, but he had not the politeness to trumpet thanks—wanted more! Perhaps everybody knows that twice the girth of an elephant's foot is its height to the shoulder.—Spectator.

Reliefs In Steel.

A Munich artist, Joseph Riedu, is the originator of an ingenious electrolytic process for producing reliefs in steel. Thus an impression of the relief of a coin is made in plaster of paris in such a manner as to form a column several centimeters high, and this column is insulated at the circumference by hard rubber and placed in a vessel with a suitable electrolyte, so that the relief side is above while the lower side reaches into the electrolytic liquid. In consequence of its great porosity the gypsum absorbs the same until saturated. Now a piece of steel is placed upon the picture side of the gypsum column, and the electrolyte is connected with the negative pole, the steel with the positive pole; the galleries of the steel which come into contact with the saturated gypsum are dissolved, and by its own weight the piece of steel sinks down to the deepest galleries of the plaster models, which finishes the copy. Although the respective experiments in this line have not yet reached their finality it is asserted that not only steel but most of the other metals may be worked according to this method.

An Unfortunate Naval Class.

The fact has been noted that six members of the class of '97 of the Naval academy have met with serious misfortunes since this war began, and the names of five of them begin with B. It was known as "the B class," because the names of so many of the boys began with that letter: Brumby, Baldwin, Butler, Barnes, Breckinridge, Bennett, Bostwick, Boyd, Bagley and Bose. Bagley was killed on the Winslow; Boyd disabled the torpedo boat Cushing and had to come home; Breckinridge was swept overboard from the Cushing and was drowned; Bostwick had his chest caved in while on the Ericsson, and is now in a hospital; Baldwin was knocked down an open hatchway and had his ribs broken, and Merrit, of the same class, went down with the Maine.—New York Tribune.

Clerks and Workingmen.

A Glasgow magistrate has decided that a clerk is not a workingman. Street car lines there carry workingmen at reduced fare during prescribed hours. A clerk demanded the privilege and was convicted in a resulting test case of refusing to pay legal fare, the magistrate deciding that a "workingman" in the intent of the law is an "artisan, mechanic or day laborer." Certainly then the object of the law is defeated if it be to secure reduced transportation rates for those most needing it. A clerk frequently works more hours for half the wages or less than those earned by many "workingmen" and is obliged to spend more upon his clothes. Yet his better dress, curiously, was the evidence accepted against his claim in the case noted.—New York World.

Dewey Was Prepared.

The night before he left for Yokohama last January to take command of the Pacific squadron Admiral Dewey was the guest of honor at a dinner in Washington. When his hostess condoled with him on having to be sent so far away from the probable seat of war, he replied that he was glad to go and did not deserve any sympathy.

"You know the Spaniards have some colonies over there in Asia and a large fleet, which I shall have to attack and destroy, and I shall lose no time in doing so," he said. "I expect to have my share of fighting, and some day you will hear that I have gone down and captured Manilla before breakfast."

Alpine Casualties.

The Alpine casualties of 1897 are summed up in an interesting article in Le Dauphine. Thirty-three climbers perished, about half of whom, it is worth noting, were single excursionists making their ascents without a guide or even a companion. Only one climber was lost who had a guide. Eight of the 33 were killed by avalanches, 2 by falls of stones, 2 by slipping on snow, 3 on grass and 15 on rock. Three perished in crevasses. Twelve of the 33 were Swiss, 8 Austrians, 6 Germans, 3 Frenchmen and only 1 Englishman.

Perfect Models Scarce.

There seems to be a scarcity of perfect models of the feminine form. M. Mercie, who is at work on a monument to be erected in honor of Gounod, says that it is next to impossible to find women whose physical personalities and facial expression fit them to serve as models of Sapho, Marguerite and Juliette, by whose effigies the composer's bust is to be surrounded.

J. H. Hale is credited by an exchange with the statement that the native seedling apple, budded or grafted right where the seed sprouted, so that the stock has the original taproot and all others uninjured, does make a longer lived and more healthy tree than one transplanted from the nursery.

A man who has made money with brussels sprouts says they do best on the lightest sandy soil. The seeds should be sown about the middle of June, and the plants transplanted twice before being put where they are to remain.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M CROCKER, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

James R. Moffett, the Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 22d day of October, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased, either at public or private sale, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court

Dated September 17th, 1898.
P. W FORBES, Attorney for Administrator.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 13, 1898.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F Glaser, deceased that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, law ul money of the United States, all of the interest of said deceased at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to wit: Mineral Hill, Minera, Layout, Breakaway, and Mineral Mound

An undivided one fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled In the Matter of the Estate of John F. Glaser, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.

FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.

FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk. Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring Sts., Los Angeles, California.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., August 25, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and receiver at Independence, Cal., on OCTOBER 3d, 1898, viz: William Vaughn, for the W ½ Lot No. One, in N.W. ¼ Sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: David Vaughn, Robert Roberts, John Willet and William J. Lake, all of Citrus, Inyo Co., Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SODA WATER .....

..... ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.
Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop, Cal.
C. E. JOHNSON.

BISHOP AND LAWS
MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT,
STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek station.

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me
je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

LONE PINE
EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND
U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE
DEALER IN
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.
NATHAN RHINE,
INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:—
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:—
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold—

A complete stock of
Miner's and Prospector's supplies.
And Patent Medicines—

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

—Consisting of—

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.
FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,
ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

HORSE SHOEING
AND
General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,
AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon
INDEPENDENCE CAL.
D. JOHNSON,
PROPRIETOR.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT
Practical Watchmaker
and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00
All work guaranteed first class.
BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.
BISHOP, CALIF
O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,
CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS
Independence, California.

O. L. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.
jy27-tf O. L. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,
BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.
JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.
OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Independence, California

JOHN D. LEWIS,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW
Independence, California.

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.
OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.
OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.
OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY
BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

S. P. M'KNIGHT C. E
SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,
Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP
For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO
CARSON AND COLORADO
RAILROAD
RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	44	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Reflectville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	192	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Ry.

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 7 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canyons of the south fork of Kings river, offers to the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE
VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE
RAILROAD
RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:20 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:58 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for
LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT
CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN.
SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with
CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD

TO LAKE TAHOE
A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains of Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:20 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned in Reno for Virginia City, 32 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time Table above. Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug31-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00
Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.
Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23.....1898

Ex-Gov. Colcord of Nevada is at the Molus mining property, near Bishop.

Mrs. Mary Mulholland has returned from Los Angeles, after an absence of several months.

State and County tax rate fixed again at $2.25 on each $100 of valuation, as will be seen by official proceedings.

Congressman De Vries met with a hearty reception at Big Pine last Tuesday night, and delivered an able address.

Rich'd S. Miner, Esq., arrived last Monday from a lengthy stay at San Francisco, and will remain here for some time to come in attention to law cases.

Some of our Lone Pine friends are at fault in not having forwarded to this paper notice of the celebration or ball on the 16th, in time for publication before that event.

Mrs. Sadie Callow has returned to Big Pine after a visit in San Francisco of several weeks' duration. She was in the railroad smash-up near Rocklin, luckily escaping with no further damage than a loss of baggage.

T. H. Henebry, of the Panamint country, took the cross-lot route to the Democratic convention, stopping here several days. "Tim" will be the next Supervisor from the southernmost district.

Superintendent Frazer of the Inyo Marble Works was in town Wednesday, and stated that operations at the quarry have been indefinitely suspended. It is bad that this magnificent material cannot be made to pay, somehow.

Jas. McDonald, Superintendent of the Defiance mine at Darwin, on his return from the Big Pine convention, is visiting Independence, accompanied by his wife and daughter. He is at home among many old friends here.

The new smelter at Darwin, which has been putting out a steady flow of bullion and copper matte for several months, is now closed down for some improvements. The percentage of lead in the ore of the mine decreases as depth is attained by the workings.

W. K. Miller's semi-weekly stages between Randsburg and Ballarat run as follows: Leave—Randsburg Sundays and Thursdays at 7 a. m.; Ballarat on Tuesdays and Fridays at 7 a. m. Arrive—Randsburg Tuesdays and Fridays at 7 p. m.; Ballarat Sundays and Thursdays at 7 p. m. It is a strange situation that the gap between Ballarat and Darwin is not occupied by a mail line of some kind.

Sinking and cross-cutting is being prosecuted on the Defiance mine, and the work has yielded several shipments of good ore. Concentrators have been ordered from the East and will be placed on the dump. If, as is claimed and expected for them, they will profitably handle ore containing 15 per cent lead and 15 ounces silver there is enough in sight to keep them going five years. Darwin is all right.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

At Big Pine, at the appointed hour on Tuesday morning last, the delegates elect to the Democratic-Fusion County Convention went at the business of nominating a county ticket.

The Convention was called to order by E. Robinson, Chairman County Central Committee, the usual Committees on Credentials, Permanent Organization and Order of Business and on Resolutions being appointed.

Rob't O'Neal of Bishop was chosen Chairman and Ernest Laird of Independence Secretary.

The Committee on Platform and Resolutions submitted the following, which was adopted unanimously:

Resolved—By the Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans of Inyo County in convention assembled: That the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States irrespective of the action of any other nation is still a vital issue in the United States, and we reaffirm the position of our respective parties on this issue.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the congressional record of Hon. Marion De Vries, Congressman of the Second District, and pledge him our united support in the present campaign.

Resolved, That we appreciate the compliment of the last Damocratic State Convention in selecting an Inyoite as a nominee for the office of Surveyor-General, and pledge our united support to Irving H. Mulholland of Independence for that position.

Resolved, That the fusion asked for by the People's Party of Inyo County, granted by the Democratic County Central Committee, should be carried out in absolute good faith by the parties to that contract.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the able, fair and economical administration of Governor James H. Budd.

Resolved, That in the person of Hon. James G. Maguire we recognize a worthy successor to Hon. James H. Budd.

Resolved, That we heartily appreciate the glorious results of the late struggle with the Spanish nation, the most beneficial result of which is the restoration of absolute unity of all sections of the country.

In course of the day's proceedings the convention made the following nominations:

For Assemblyman P. H. Mack was placed in nomination by L. Case, and J. White Smith was presented to the convention by J. W. McMurry. Upon ballot, Mr. Mack received 36 votes to 18 for Mr. Smith. Mr. Mack was declared the choice of the convention and a committee was appointed to confer with the other counties of the district.

For Sheriff J. J. Gunn received 40 votes to 16 for W. L. Hunter.

For Clerk D. J. Hession was nominated by acclamation.

District Attorney—P. W. Forbes nominated by acclamation.

For Assessor J. R. Eldred received 16 votes, G. P. Bourland 8 and W. W. Yandell 31, and the latter was declared the nominee.

For Treasurer S. G. Gregg, by acclamation.

County Superintendent—Clay Hampton, by acclamation.

For Coroner Judge A. V. Davidson was nominated by the convention; he declined and placed Dr. S. A. Middleton before the convention, which then nominated him; but the Doctor's name was withdrawn and the place on the ticket finally fell to I. P. Yaney.

Supervisors were nominated by the several delegations as follows:

First District—Frank Shaw.

Third District—James Jones.

Fifth District—T. H. Henebry.

The Justices of the Peace and Constables in nomination are:

First Township—T. H. Woodworth for Justice; Ed. Shober, Constable.

Second Township—R. Robinson for Justice and A. P. Smith, Constable.

Third Township—A. V. Davidson for Justice and John Keegan, Constable.

Fourth (Lone Pine) Township—passed.

Fifth Township—Richard Decker for Justice; Constable, —— ——.

No report of the Republican County Convention up to 1 o'clock to-day.

Supervisor Proceedings.

MONDAY, Sept. 19, 1898, 10 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at the above stated time for the purpose of levying taxes for the fiscal year 1898 and 1899, pursuant to law.

Present—Supervisors J. R. Eldred, J. J. Stewart, and A. C. Freeman, Chairman A. C. Freeman presiding.

Absent—Supervisors Frank Shaw and Ben. T. Williams.

County Auditor's Exhibits showing county financial transactions for the preceding year were submitted and filed.

County Superintendent's school statistics, reports and estimates were submitted and filed.

Official notice from State Board of Equalization as to levy of State taxes and of assessment of the Carson and Colorado Railway Company were submitted and filed.

Upon motion of Supervisor Eldred, seconded by Supervisor Stewart, it was unanimously ordered that State and county taxes for the fiscal year beginning July 1st, 1898, and ending June 30th, 1899, be and the same are hereby fixed at the rate of $2.25 upon each $100 of taxable property within Inyo County; that the same be levied and collected pursuant to law and apportioned to the various funds as follows, to-wit: To the

General Expense Fund	60
State Fund	48 8
County Hospital	20
Bridge	03 2
Road	20
Bond	20
School	35
Salary	18
Total	$2 25

Ordered—That a special tax be levied and collected upon all property in Station School District for the current fiscal year at the rate of 25 cents upon each $100 of valuation, the amount to be placed to the credit of the said School District Bond Fund.

Ordered—That a special tax be levied and collected upon all property in Bishop School District for the current fiscal year at the rate of 35 cents upon each $100 of valuation, the amount to be placed to the credit of the said Bishop School District Bond Fund.

Ordered—That a special tax be levied and collected upon all property in Big Pine School District for the current fiscal year at the rate of 20 cents upon each $100 of valuation, the amount to be placed to the credit of the said Big Pine School District Bond Fund.

Ordered—That a special tax be levied and collected upon all property in Taboose School District for the current fiscal year at the rate of 50 cents upon each $100 of valuation, the amount to be placed to the credit of the said Taboose School District Bond Fund.

Ordered—That a special tax be levied and collected upon all property in Lone Pine School District for the current fiscal year at the rate of 50 cents upon each $100 of valuation, the amount to be placed to the credit of the said Lone Pine School District Bond Fund.

Ordered—That a special tax be levied and collected upon all property in Fish Springs School District for the current fiscal year at the rate of 50 cents upon each $100 of valuation, the amount to be placed to the credit of the said Fish Springs School District Bond Fund.

Ordered—That pursuant to assessment made by the State Board of Equalization on the 1st day of August, 1898, assessment of the Carson & Colorado Railroad Company be entered upon county roll in accordance therewith as follows:

For the length of 74.25 miles of main track and for franchise, roadbed and rights of way, at a valuation of $1,579.63 per mile, making in the aggregate $117,288. That the number of miles of said railroad, and the pro rata valuation thereof being in the several school districts are as follows:

Station School District,	6¾ mi.	10,662 55
Polea	6	9,477 82
Valley	6	9,477 82
Big Pine	6½	10,267 63
Fish Springs	7	11,057 45
Taboose	7	11,057 45
Liberty	6	9,477 82
Milton	2½	3,949 10
Independence	4½	7,108 37
Union	7	11,057 45
Lone Pine	13	20,535 27
Keeler	2	3,159 27
		$117,288.00

Whereupon the Board adjourned.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes —— No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA, August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Winkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES and HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims, situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide, respectively being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminus of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.63 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.34 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11.36 chains, to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 504 degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks mark d K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant, and stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 2½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1¼ degree west 765 links; thence on a true course north 1¼ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K No. 1, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 2½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1¼ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line, from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1¼ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 8¾ degrees east 14.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminus of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

OFFICIAL.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff.
P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 851, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The frac'l N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all frac'l Section 5, Township 17 south, and frac'l S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $188.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney f

LOST HIS LIFE SAVING OTHERS.

A country boy visiting New York stopped a frantic runaway team that was about to dash on the sidewalk where there were hundreds of women and children. He saved their lives, but lost his own. Hundreds of lives are saved every year by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. People who are fast going to their graves with disorders of stomach, liver, bowels and blood are brought back to good health by it. All the sick should try it.

"Do you find my son prompt and punctual, Mr. Grindley?" "I never had a young man in my employ who, at the close of business hours, could get out of the office with less delay."

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has saved me large doctor bills.—C. L. Baker, 4228 Regent Sq., Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8, 1895.

The advertising of Schilling's Best in this paper met with such success that a few months ago Messrs. A. Schilling & Co. started the advertising of their money-back baking powder. They are evidently well pleased with the results, for we have again received an order for advertising of their tea and baking powder—this time for increased space.

There is nothing that sells so well as a good article advertised in the town where it is to be sold.

We are pleased to announce to our many readers the opening of the new Comedy Theater (formerly Bush Street Theater), on September 3d, with Mrs. Romualdo Pacheco's Ideal Comedy Company of New York. This cosy place of amusement has been entirely remodeled, and will be under the able management of Mr. Alf Ellinghouse, who will strive to please the many visitors from the interior during their sojourn in San Francisco, with the best attractions at popular prices.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known

Yellow Label

on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

MADE ONLY BY

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.,

Dorchester, Mass.

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

CUTLERS CARBOLATE OF IODINE.

Guaranteed cure for Catarrh and Consumption. All Druggists, $1.00.

W. H. SMITH, BUFFALO, N. Y., Sole Proprietors.

Russian Liars.

Russian diplomats hold that it is no disgrace or dishonor to lie in the most unblushing manner in order to promote the interests of their country and of their sovereign. When the late czar asked once of Count Ignateiff how he came to be nicknamed "The Father of Lies" while embassador at Constantinople, he with a low bow responded, "In the service of your majesty."

Didn't Want Much.

Here is an advertisement from an old copy of an English provincial journal:

"Wanted, for a sober family, a man of light weight, who fears the Lord and can drive a pair of horses. He must occasionally wait at table, join the household prayer, look after the horses and read a chapter of the Bible. He must, God willing, arise at 7 o'clock in the morning and obey his master and mistress in all lawful commands; if he can dress hair, sing psalms and play at cribbage, the more agreeable. Wages, 15 guineas a year."

"I wonder what kind of a fish it is?" "Gee! I'll bet it's a corker!"—Puck.

Willy—Say, pa, what's a floating debt? Pa—Our yacht, my son.—Chicago News.

"The only trouble with my profession," said an ex-convict, "is that it is apt to be rather a confining one."—Bazar.

She—Why do they call the State penitentiary Sing Sing? He—Because of the jail birds therein, I guess.—Cornell Widow.

Hewitt—How did you queer yourself with that French girl? Jewitt—I asked her to dance the german with me.—Judge.

Governess—D-a-m—dam, a thing to keep back water. Young pupil—When papa says it, mamma always cries.—London Sketch.

The father—What proof have you that you can support my daughter? The aspirant—Haven't I been engaged to her for over a year.—Puck.

"Borrowing is a disease," said Bigbee, in self-justification. "And lending is insanity," replied Small, significantly.—Philadelphia North American.

"Why, Julia, how the waist of your frock smells of tar." "Yes, mamma; poor Mr. Ratlines of the Naval Reserves has been bidding me good-by again."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ella—Where was it George proposed to you last week? Essie—At a hop. Ella—And you accepted him? Essie—At a jump.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"I see that glass bricks are coming into general use," said the popular science boarder. "They won't invade the gold-brick field," said the cheerful idiot; "they are too easily seen through."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Haven't I told you," asked the father, "to always tell the truth?" "Yes, you told me that," the young man admitted, "and at another time you told me never to become the slave of a habit."—Washington Star.

Harty—Good many years since we've seen each other, Jack; remember how we used to live from hand to mouth in college? Jack—Yes, that's still the case with me. Harty—How so? Jack—I'm a dentist.—Boston Courier.

He (wondering if that Williams has ever been accepted)—Are both your rings heirlooms? She (concealing the hand)—Oh, dear, yes! One has been in the family since the time of Alfred, but the other is newer and (blushing) only dates from the conquest.—Harlem Life.

"My wife," said the tall, lantern-jawed man, "is as womanly a woman as you could find; but she can hammer nails like lightning." "Wonderful!" sang the chorus. "Lightning," the tall, lantern-jawed man continued, "seldom strikes twice in the same place."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"What excuse, if it were possible to have any excuse for such conduct, have you for beating your wife?" asked the judge. "She flung it in my face that I didn't care a rap for her," pleaded the prisoner, "and I just gave her one to show her her error."—Indianapolis Journal.

Teacher (of juvenile class)—Johnnie, what was the first thing the Puritans did when they landed at Plymouth Rock? Johnnie—They fell upon their knees. Teacher—That's right, Johnnie. Now, Tommy, what was the next thing they did? Tommy—Fell upon the aborigines.—Chicago News.

Mrs. Young—I dreamt last night that mother was coming to stay with me for a month. Mr. Young—Ah! dear me, dreams always go by contraries. Mrs. Young—And I also dreamt that you said I couldn't have a new dress. Mr. Young—H'm! funny, isn't it, how true some dreams come?—Pick-Me-Up.

"That," exclaimed the Spanish general, as he mopped the perspiration from his brow, "is one of the narrowest escapes I have had for some time." "What is the matter?" inquired his aid. "See this typewritten page? I said in dictation that I was 'seeking light,' and the amanuensis got it 'seeking fight'!"—Washington Star.

"My fortune is made!" he cried. "I will be rich beyond the wildest dreams of avarice. I shall start for the Klondike to-morrow. My chemistry will be my salvation." "How so; have you discovered a compound that will aid in the detection of gold deposits?" "No; I have invented a yeast that will make six loaves of bread from the flour ordinarily required for one."—Up-to-Date.

Widower—I say, my dear friend, have you ever been here before? Burglar—N-no, sir. Widower—Well, would you mind coming around quite often—say once or twice a week—and going through my trousers, just as you are doing now? You don't know how much you remind me of my dear departed wife, Angeline. It seems almost as if she were alive again. Good-night, my friend—God bless you!—Judge.

"I'm So Tired!"

As tired in the morning as when I go to bed! Why is it? Simply because your blood is in such a poor, thin, sluggish condition it does not keep up your strength and you do not get the benefit of your sleep. To feel strong and keep strong just try the tonic and purifying effects of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Our word for it, 'twill do you good.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

MUTILATING DEAD BODIES.

Mexicans Were Good at This and the Spaniards Can Go One Better.

The men we fought then were of the same stripe as those Uncle Sam's soldiers are fighting now, said a veteran of the Mexican war recently. They are like savages, and mutilated the bodies of our dead soldiers in the most horrible manner imaginable. After a battle with them we would bury the bodies of the slain, including those of our enemies, but after we were gone those devils would sneak up to the burying ground and take up the bodies of our dead soldiers. These they mutilated too horribly to relate, and then propped them up naked along a road which they knew we would travel. They would arrange the bodies in all kinds of horrible attitudes, propping them up with stones or sticks driven through the flesh and into the ground, so that they could not fall down. Why, it was awful, and even now the remembrance of those terrible scenes makes my blood run cold. There is one particular occasion which I will never forget. I was with the Fifth Company of Louisiana soldiers, which was what is now called cavalry, but was then known as the mounted men. They did all the tough work, and one day we were sent up to take the National Bridge, which is on the road between Vera Cruz and the City of Mexico. It was guarded by two forts on high hills, and it was necessary that we should hold it. When we arrived near the bridge a party of twenty-one men were sent ahead to scout, and they were cut off from us by a company of the enemy.

Several nights later, however, they made a bold dash and rejoined us, but several were killed. The next morning the main body started to take the forts, and I was in the front ranks. As we reached the bridge we saw the body of one of the poor fellows who had been killed the night before. It was naked and mutilated in a manner almost too terrible to imagine. None of us said anything, but we registered a silent vow that we would not take any prisoners alive if we could help it. The sight of that poor soldier's body had an effect on our men terrible for the Mexicans, and we none of us forgot it during the fight that followed. Yes, we captured the forts and bridge and held the town.

He Won the Bet.

An uncouth old ranger from the San Joaquin Valley was making his weekly trip to Stockton the other day, and chanced to be sitting with an impertinent drummer in the smoking car. The old man helped himself to the matches from the railroad box and tried to strike one and then another.

"You have to scratch them on the box, uncle," remarked the drummer.

"Oh, I guess I kin strike a match," replied the rancher, as he ripped one across a varnished panel of the car and broke off the head. The drummer laughed at his failure and gave him some more information.

"The only way to light those matches is to strike them on the box," said he.

"Oh, I guess I kin scratch 'em most anywheres," and the old man tried one on the sole of his shoe, another on the arm of the seat, and still another on the car floor, while the drummer only laughed.

"I tell you they are made so that they won't light unless you scratch them on the box."

"Bet you they will."

"I'll bet you $1 they won't."

"Bet you $20 they will."

"I'll take it."

The wager was made, the old man took one of the matches, stood up, and, hitching his trousers up so as to make a smooth surface over his broad thigh, gave the match a deliberate scratch and it blazed up. Then he deliberately lighted his pipe and drew down the stakes.

The smart drummer does not know that the innocent old rancher pays his expenses every trip on that trick, for he has a side of a matchbox sewed in his trousers beneath the tail of his long, shiny coat.

States with Indian Names.

Our State got its name before the revolution, or it would have been named Oglethorpe. After the revolution was over and peace was made it was proposed to change its name, but it did not carry. Several of the States had been named for kings and queens, and they were not changed. Since then most of the new States have been named for Indian tribes, and that is about all the poor Indian got as he moved toward the setting sun. He left his name behind him. Seventeen of the new States have Indian names, and it is a curious fact that only one State bears the name of any great man of our country, and that is the State of Washington. One other State chose the name of Franklin and kept it for some time, but for some reason it didn't stick and was changed to Tennessee. But the great man has twenty-four counties named for him in twenty-four different States. I don't see why some of the new States that came in after the revolution were not named for Adams and Jefferson and Monroe and Madison and Patrick Henry and other fathers of liberty. But I suppose that even these great men had their enemies in Congress, and they compromised on the Indians. Partisan politics had much to do with it.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Tallest Volunteer.

Private Henry Jackson, of Company K, Second New Jersey Regiment, claims to be and probably is the tallest soldier in the volunteer army. He is 6 feet 6¼ inches in height, but he finds consolation in the thought that even if he were sixty feet high the Spanish marksman couldn't hit him.

Which Did She Do?

Her mother (to bride-elect)—What, frowning on your wedding day?

Bride-elect—I'm in a quandary. If I go to the altar smiling people will say I'm simply crazy to get Charlie; and if I look solemn they will say I already regret the step. What shall I do?

No Electricity for the Turk.

The Turkish Government is the least enterprising of any in the matter of electricity. Enormous sums of money have been offered for electric lighting and telephone privileges, but they have all been refused.

An awfully poor player can play an acceptable wedding march.

A REPRESENTATIVE PIRATE.

Captain Kidd Was Utterly Without Any Sense of Honor.

It is said that Kidd showed no repentance when he was tried, but insisted that he was the victim of malicious persons who swore falsely against him, and yet a more thoroughly dishonest rascal never sailed under the black flag. In the guise of an accredited officer of the government he committed the crimes he was sent out to suppress. He deceived his men. He robbed and misused his fellow countrymen and his friends, and he even descended to the meanness of cheating and despoiling the natives of the West India islands with whom he traded. These people were in the habit of supplying pirates with food and other necessaries, and they always found their rough customers entirely honest and willing to pay for what they received, for as the pirates made a practice of stopping at certain points for supplies they wished of course to be on good terms with those who furnished them. But Kidd had no ideas of honor toward people of high or low degree. He would trade with the natives as if he intended to treat them fairly and pay for all he got, but when the time came for him to depart and he was ready to weigh anchor he would seize all the commodities he could lay his hands on and without paying a copper to the distressed and indignant Indians he would gayly sail away, his black flag flaunting derisively in the wind.

But although in reality Captain Kidd was no hero, he has been known for a century and more as the great American pirate, and his name has been representative of piracy ever since. Years after he had been hung, when people heard that a vessel with a black flag—or one which looked black in the distance—flying from its rigging had been seen, they forgot that the famous pirate was dead and imagined that Captain Kidd was visiting their part of the coast in order that he might find a good place to bury some treasure which it was no longer safe for him to carry about.—Frank R. Stockton in Century.

How Mines Are Exploded.

There are several methods by which mines and torpedoes anchored in harbors may be detected, but it is very dangerous and difficult work, and its success depends largely upon the circumstances and the condition of the water and the bottom of the bay in which they are placed. Sometimes they are discovered by dragging with a kedge. Sometimes they can be seen when the water is clear, and in order to assist the natural vision a canvas telescope is rigged which drops upon the water and shuts out the light from the eyes of the observer so that he can have a better view of the bottom. There are other methods also known to sailors and frequently practiced. The most effective is called "countermining"—that is, the explosion of torpedoes in the water, which by their detonation cause the mines to explode.—Chicago Record.

Seamen Vote Ahead of Time.

Norwegian seamen are entitled to vote before leaving their country if the polling day is within three months of their departure, or they can vote at a foreign port within the same time by having their votes sent home through a Norwegian consul.

BILINGUAL TELEPHONES.

A Story at the Expense of a Milwaukee Millionaire Brewer.

J. G. Nolen, who is an old timer in the electrical construction business, tells a story on "Val" Blatz, the millionaire brewer of Milwaukee.

"Our company had had some correspondence with Mr. Blatz regarding the putting in of a telephone plant in his big brewery establishment, and I was sent up to try to close a deal.

"I took a couple of phones with me in order to make a practical demonstration should one be required, and I went with the intention of making a sale.

"I got to talking with Mr. Blatz and showed him the advantage of putting in our intercommunicative system throughout his establishment. He listened attentively, and finally said:

"'Yes, that is all so; very true. But,' and he spoke with the conviction of one who was putting a poser, 'but my men down in the malthouse and the warehouses and cold storage are all Dutchmen.

"'I, myself, though a German and a graduate of Leipsic and Heidelberg, can speak English, but what would your telephones be to my Dutch workmen, who cannot speak English at all?'

"Well, I saw how the land lay. Old Val could not get it through his head that the telephone would transmit anything but the language of America. I was bound to make the deal, as I said before. So I remarked to Mr. Blatz:

"'I can put on some German receivers if you so desire. I have some with me.'

"I connected up the phones, made a show of changing the receivers, and in half an hour Mr. Blatz was talking to one of his Dutchmen down in the malthouse. He was delighted.

"'You may put them in,' he said, 'and I shall want one German one in the malthouse, one German one in each warehouse, English ones in my office and the business office and a German one in the cold storage house.'

"We closed the deal and Mr. Blatz was glad to pay $2 extra for each German enunciator we put in. When the phones were shipped from the factory, I had them labeled German and English respectively, and the big brewer was perfectly satisfied.

"It was five years before I saw Blatz again," concluded Mr. Nolen. "He recognized me at once and said with a hearty German laugh: 'You are the accommodating gentleman who put in the German and English telephones for me. Well, you are a good one.'"—Milwaukee Telephone.

Many of the vegetables in daily use on our dinner tables were known in very remote times. It is known, for instance, that asparagus was grown 200 years B. C., while lettuce was cultivated so far back as 550 B. C.

The statement is made that during the 97 years since the establishment of the state university of Georgia there have been only five deaths among the students.

The old log cabin in Front Royal, Va., in which George Washington lived while surveying between 1748 and 1752 is still standing in fair condition and is used as a springhouse.

Water at Last.

In McClure's Magazine there is an interesting account of Dr. Sven Hedin, a young Swedish traveler, who has been doing some remarkable work in Asia, in an attempt to cross the hitherto unexplored Takla-Makan desert. His party entered the desert April 10, 1895. The water gave out, the camels died, and one by one all the servants succumbed.

"I went on alone," says Dr. Hedin. "The forest was very dense and the night black. I had eaten almost nothing for ten days; I had drunk nothing for five. I crossed the forest crawling on all fours, tottering from tree to tree. I carried the haft of the spade as a crutch. At last I came to an open space. The forest ended like a devastated plain. This was a river bed. It was quite dry. There was not a drop of water.

"I went on. I meant to live. I would find water. I was very weak, but I crawled on all fours and at last I crossed the river bed. It was three kilometers wide. Then, as I reached the right bank of the river, I heard the sound of a duck lifting and the noise of splashing water. I crawled in that direction and found a large pool of clear, fresh water.

"I thanked God first, and then I felt my pulse. I wanted to see the effect that drinking would have on it. It was at 48.

"Then I drank. I drank fearfully. I drank and drank and drank. It was a lovely feeling. I felt my blood liquefying. It began to run in my veins; my pores opened. My pulse went up at once to 53. I felt quite fresh and living."

Undaunted by his first terrible experience, Dr. Hedin crossed the desert again from south to north, and was rewarded by the discovery of a "very old town."

The Wrong Leg.

There is an enterprising Liverpool tailor who has never been known to acknowledge that he didn't have anything a possible customer might ask for.

One day a customer entered the shop and asked if he had any trousers made especially for one legged men.

"Certainly," replied the merchant. "What kind do you want?"

"Dress trousers," said the man. "The best you've got."

Hurrying into the rear of the store, the enterprising merchant snatched up a pair of trousers and snipped off the right leg with a pair of scissors. Hastily turning under the edges, he presented them to the customer.

"That's the kind I want. What's the price?"

"One guinea."

"Well, give me a pair with the left leg off."

A month later the merchant was pronounced convalescent and on the high road to recovery.—Pearson's Weekly.

Here's a Useful Test.

"I'm afraid I'm a dreadful talker."

"What gives you that idea?"

"When I come home from anywhere, I never can recall anything that was said except remarks I made myself."—Chicago Record.

The United Kingdom consumes 600,000 pounds, or about 4,000,000 gallons, of tea every day, which is as much as is used by the rest of Europe, North and South America, Africa and Australia combined.

REGAINED HEALTH.

Gratifying Letters to Mrs. Pinkham From Happy Women.

"I Owe You My Life."

Mrs. E. Woolhiser,
Mills, Neb., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I owe my life to your Vegetable Compound. The doctors said I had consumption and nothing could be done for me. My menstruation had stopped and they said my blood was turning to water. I had several doctors. They all said I could not live. I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me right away; menses returned and I have gained in weight. I have better health than I have had for years. It is wonderful what your Compound has done for me."

"I Feel Like a New Person."

Mrs. Geo. Leach,
1609 Belle St., Alton, Ill., writes:

"Before I began to take your Vegetable Compound I was a great sufferer from womb trouble. Menses would appear two and three times in a month, causing me to be so weak I could not stand. I could neither sleep nor eat, and looked so badly my friends hardly knew me.

"I took doctor's medicine but did not derive much benefit from it. My druggist gave me one of your little books, and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel like a new person. I would not give your Compound for all the doctors' medicine in the world. I can not praise it enough."

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

BUY THE GENUINE

SYRUP OF FIGS

... MANUFACTURED BY ...

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

☞ NOTE THE NAME.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

Trade Mark. BIG G. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

S. F. N. U. No. 844. New Series, No. 35

Stop drinking colored tea. Try Schilling's Best.

A Negro Turning White.

A curiosity rarely witnessed in this country was seen at the office of the pension examiners in this city today. It was a negro man turning white. The man's name is Sam Smith. He is 67 years old and came here today from Georgetown to stand an examination for a pension, he having served in the Union army. More than three-fourths of the man's entire body is white, the skin fairer by far than that of the ordinary white man. The dark skin remaining on the body is only in small spots. Smith says that his skin began turning white in 1867, and the dark skin has been disappearing from the body ever since. The physicians who examined him today think that should the old man live a few years longer he will be entirely white save perhaps the face. A peculiar feature of the case is that the face has not been turning white along with the rest of the body, the white only showing at a few places beneath the hair on the forehead, and not on the face at all.—Lexington (Ky.) Letter in Cincinnati Enquirer.

To Examine the Eye.

If anything gets into your eye, don't rub it. Good advice, but a little difficult to follow, for one instinctively rubs the eye under these circumstances. Nevertheless, don't do so. Get some one to turn the upper eyelid gently over a thin penholder, so that he may see the ball of the eye thoroughly. If lime gets into the eye and if you see the substance at once, wash out the eye with vinegar to two parts of water. If, however, you don't see the particle immediately, simply put sweet oil or olive oil into the eye and send for the doctor.—New York Ledger.

Dead and Dyed.

"I noticed that Miss Sere's curls are of two colors—brown and gray."

"You remember that her father is a safe manufacturer?"

"What has that to do with it?"

"Her curls are combination locks."

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

Galatia, Ills., Nov. 16, 1893.

Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,

ABNEY, CARR & CO.

LOST,

The opportunity of saving MONEY, if you do not buy from us. We positively guarantee to give you a DISCOUNT of 5 to 25 per cent from any Price List, issued by any Pacific Coast Cash or Department Store. We can sell you everything you need, write for full particulars.

GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS,

218 CALIFORNIA STREET, San Francisco, Cal.

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in General Supplies.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 16. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 30, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1487.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.00
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

A DREAMER IN THE GRASS.

Far away the toilers reap;
But in grasses cool and deep
Winds are singing me to sleep.

And the river, as it streams,
In the shadows and the gleams
Ripples music through my dreams.

Far away the noisy town
Where the clouds of traffic frown;
Here the blosoms bending down.

Here the winds sweep o'er the plains;
Here the bee the honey drains;
Here the tinkle of the rains.

Here the waters, as they pass
By the dreamer in the grass
Are the lily's looking glass.

What's a city? Bricks and towers
Where they toll the heavy hours.
Here's a kingdom in the flowers!

Here forever let me be
Where the river sings to sea,
With God's blue sky covering me!
—Atlanta Constitution.

MARY HALIBURTON'S CHANCE.

"I WONDER if this is a chance," mused Mary Haliburton. The cares of the day were over, and she sat alone in her tiny city room. She was very tired of being a clerk—something her employers would have been sorry to know, for whatever Mary did she did with her might and successfully.

She went back over the story of her life that evening as she sat there. She was so tired, so extremely tired, and there was no one to care that she was tired—there had been no one for three weary years. The girl sighed as she turned again to the paper and read once more this item:

"A girl who is willing to make herself useful can find board and lodging for the summer with Mrs. Jennie Patrick at Round Top Farm."

"It seems as if it might be a chance," said Mary. And the next morning she went down to the store still thinking of it.

"Where is Round Top Farm?" she asked of a fellow-clerk.

"So you have seen it, too, have you?" said Nettie Burchard.

Both girls were in the habit of reading the advertisements in whatever papers came their way.

"Yes," smiled Mary. "Where is it? Do you know? I thought it might be a chance to get out of the city for the summer."

"Well," answered Nettie deliberately, "it may be a chance, but it's not the chance I'm looking for. I've known about Round Top Farm for several years. It's about fifty miles out, and they say it's a beautiful place."

"Then——" began Mary.

"Wait," said Nettie, holding up her hand. "There's everything on that farm, and everything is first-class," she ended impressively.

Mary looked puzzled.

"The eggs are larger and fresher, the fowls are fatter, the butter is better grade than you can find anywhere else," went on Nettie, "and the fruits are simply fine. I wonder you've never heard of Round Top Farm before."

Mary glanced down at the item which she had clipped and brought with her, and now held in her hand.

"I don't see——" she began.

"Don't see!" exclaimed Nettie. "What does first-class down to the smallest detail mean, but that Mrs. Jennie Patrick is particular—cranky, as you might say? I wouldn't go there for fifteen minutes 'to make myself useful,' let alone all summer." And with a positive nod she turned from Mary to wait upon a customer who had just come in.

Now the word "particular" had no horror for Mary. She was particular herself and came of a line of particular people. As far back as she had heard of her family, and that was for three generations, she had heard stories of this one and that one being hard to suit. Long ago her grandmother had said to her, "There's two kinds of particular: the fault-finding kind of people who like to make trouble, and the kind of particular people who want things right, even if it does make trouble. All our folks are of the last kind."

All morning Mary thought of these things; and when she went to lunch she said to herself: "I believe I'll try Round Top Farm."

A week later she went to try it. And Mrs. Patrick, having had notice of her arrival, was at the train to meet her. For Mrs. Patrick had suddenly developed what was a new phase of philanthropy for her.

"I am a busy woman," she had replied when the minister had come to her to solicit board and lodging for some unfortunate child of the city. "I cannot have a child here—I don't understand children."

The minister had seemed disappointed. Seeing which, she had repented of her decided words a little. "Put me down for nothing," she had said, "and then, if I see my way clear to do anything I will do it in my own way. I suppose a child of the city might be of almost any age?" she added, interrogatively.

The minister smiled. He knew that this "busy woman" was like Dorcas of old, "full of good works and almsdeeds which she did," and he answered cordially, "To be sure, Mrs. Patrick. Any age, any age." And he rose to go, quite satisfied.

A week later the advertisement that had caught Mary's eye appeared in the Evening Herald.

"We shall see," said Mrs. Patrick. "I believe in helping, first of all, those who are willing to help themselves. We shall see who comes. I fancy I shall not have many applicants."

On that hot summer morning when the train rolled in to the little station, deposited Mary and her luggage and then rolled out again, Mrs. Patrick stood waiting on the platform. Her strong face lighted with pleasure as she looked at the girl's erect, slender form, the delicate, sensitive face and the plain but tasteful dress.

"She'll do," she thought. And the next moment she was leading the way to her light road wagon, into which the station agent was already bouncing Mary's trunk. It was a spirited pair of horses that Mrs. Patrick drove, and they were soon off at speed on their way to the farm. Mary, who had no self-consciousness, looked about her with enjoyment and responded readily to all Mrs. Patrick's conversational advances, so that the two were like old friends when the hill came in sight.

"Ah! Now I see the meaning of Round Top Farm," cried Mary. "What a pretty background the hill makes to these fields! And the rail fences—how much better they are than the barbed wire ones I saw from the car window!"

"Decidedly, on a stock farm," replied Mrs. Patrick. "Think of one of my beautiful Jerseys mangled on a barbed wire!"

Rail fences were old-fashioned, but because Mrs. Patrick liked them, easy-going Mr. Patrick kept them in good repair. The house, almost hidden among trees, was old-fashioned, too, but Mrs. Patrick liked it, and Mr. Patrick was grateful for that liking. It was his boyhood's home, and he would have been sorry to see it changed. And, lastly, Mrs. Patrick, herself, though a comparatively young woman, was old-fashioned. She cared nothing for women's clubs, and as to dress, she wished, first of all, to be comfortable, and after that stylish.

Now, before Mary's arrival, Mrs. Patrick had said to herself, "This is an experiment. I shall not set her, whoever she is, to do anything. I shall simply watch to see what her idea of being useful is. And if this experiment is not successful, I shall not try a similar one again."

There was abundance of hired help on the farm for both outdoor and indoor work. There could hardly have been regular tasks assigned to Mary. The girl, quick to perceive, saw that and felt it in the atmosphere of the farm before she had been there twenty-four hours.

"I hope Mrs. Patrick's offer was not a delicate way of being charitable," she said to herself anxiously. "I should not wish to accept charity."

It was June, and there were berries of all kinds to be picked and taken care of. For Mrs. Patrick kept, of each berry, the very earliest and latest varieties known to horticulture. Mary offered one morning to go out and pick.

"No, my dear," was the kind but positive reply. "You have small physical strength, but I should judge you have skill." And then she gave Mary a smile.

"Not much skill," answered Mary, "except in selling silks and ribbons. But I believe I can develop some skill if you will not think me pushing and presuming."

"Push and presume all you like," said Mrs. Patrick, cordially. "Only don't waste yourself on a task I can hire a child to do."

So Mary began to "push and presume." She was deft-handed and open-eyed. She sorted and packed berries for market, and, owing to her painstaking, the Patrick berries stood a little higher, if possible, in the estimation of buyers. She helped with the canning and preserving for home use, and one day Mrs. Patrick said, "I declare, Mary, I think putting that advertisement in the Evening Herald was the most fortunate thing I ever did. You seem to belong here."

Behind the glad look that answered her in Mary's eyes a certain wistfulness shone out. And it set Mrs. Patrick thinking. But she did not at once formulate her thought, if that could be called thought which was a passive opening of her mind to all that concerned Mary and her life on the farm. She noticed that all the Jerseys loved her; that when she stepped out toward their yard the chickens crowded to welcome her; that the sheep were always ready to follow her; that the flowers seemed to thrive under her touch; that every dumb thing on the place trusted her.

"Shut up a girl like that in a store!" exclaimed Mrs. Patrick to herself one morning in August. "A girl that has sense enough to enjoy living close to nature! For she does enjoy it. She's gained in every way since she's been here."

Yes, Mary did enjoy it. There was time every day for her to read and rest, and plenty of reading on hand. How could she stand it to go back? she often asked herself. To live alone in that little cooped-up room at night and through her small leisure time to stand all day and minister to those who were too tired and in too much of a hurry, or else too idle and selfish to care for her more than they did for the cash-box that ran on the wire to the cashier's desk with their money; to hear always, when she was awake, the rush and roar of the city. Here the very wild birds were friendly. And how could any one call hens uninteresting when they had such confidential ways of casting up one eye and talking to her? And then she fell to wondering what Round Top might be like in winter. She knew that there was little snow, for the farm was not far enough north for much of that. And one day she asked Mrs. Patrick.

"Well," smiled Mrs. Patrick, "perhaps you ought not to ask me, for I own I am in love with Round Top Farm. Winter isn't summer anywhere, you know. But why don't you stay and see for yourself just how dull and disagreeable Round Top can be?"

"Oh, Mrs. Patrick!" exclaimed Mary. And her eyes filled with tears.

"I mean it," said Mrs. Patrick. "I don't see why you mightn't as well help me for money as to wait on customers in a store for money. All the accounts of the year are to be gone over and balanced. You could help me about that, for, to tell the truth, Mr. Patrick hates accounts. You could help me in my business correspondence, which is quite large, for Mr. Patrick hates business letters. I will tell you what I do not speak of generally—Mr. Patrick is not strong. Things wear on him and annoy him that do not affect me in the least. He likes to supervise the outdoor work, and it agrees with him to do it. But he hates business, and so I attend to that. You are the one person that I have ever had about me that needs no supervision. I will give you forty dollars a month and your board the year round if you will stay."

"Mrs. Patrick!" called one of the maids, putting her head in at the door.

And, with her accustomed promptness, knowing that she was needed, Mrs. Patrick obeyed the call.

Left to herself, Mary slipped up to her room and put on her hat and gloves. Then she went quickly down again, and out and away through the flower garden, where she stopped only to pick the nearest blossom and then went on. She wanted to be alone to think over how good, how very good, God had been to her when he gave her the gift of being particular in little things—the gift that lies at the bottom of every solid success in life, no matter in what line that success may be. Her heart was filled with joy, for, under her calm exterior, Mary was very emotional.

She had not gone far from the house—it was only out of sight among the trees behind her and at her right. And hark! from a tree in the row that bordered her left, a bird began to sing. As the liquid notes fell on her entranced ears she raised and clasped her hands that still held the flower and gazed earnestly up to see as well as hear. She felt as if that were her bird, and she knew that he voiced the ecstasy in her own heart. No more for her the city and its crowded loneliness, but always, as long as she did her best, the wide fields that were full of companionship.

But Nettie, when she heard of it, could not understand. She could only wonder what Mrs. Patrick had done to "get around" Mary and make her stay on "a horrid old farm."

As for Mrs. Patrick, seeing from month to month Mary's contentment and proficiency, she said to herself, "The only true way to help anybody is to help her to get where she belongs. I've an idea that Nettie Burchard belongs in the store. But Mary—Mary belongs here!"—Wellspring.

DAKOTA FARM LABORERS.

Men Whose Homes May Be a Thousand Miles Away.

There is a season between May and the middle of July, during which the army of "hands" who work on these North Dakota wheat farms wait for the crops to ripen. In fact, except the half score of men who are regularly employed upon each place, all the men who are engaged upon the big farms—in plowing season, at seeding time, during harvest, and when the season for thrashing comes—the men who do the most important work—are transient laborers. Frequently they are birds of passage, whose faces are familiar to the foremen, but whose homes may be a thousand miles away. Men of this character are not "hoboes;" yet now and then a tramp does "rest from his loved employ" and work with the "harvest hands."

A majority of the laborers come from the South in harvest time. These men are regular harvesters, who begin with the early June harvest in Oklahoma, working northward until the season closes in the Red river country. Men of this class never pay railroad fare. Thousands of them—perhaps fifteen men on every thousand acres in wheat—ride into the bonanza district on the "blind baggage" on passenger trains. When they have leisure and a taste for scenery they jolt placidly across the continent homeward bound in what the lingo of the cult calls "side-door sleepers." Many of these workmen live in the larger towns in the middle West—in St. Louis, in Omaha, in St. Paul, in Chicago, or in Milwaukee. And they bring home probably a million dollars in wages. They are steady, industrious men, with no bad habits, and small ambitions. On the best farms there is no drinking, and card-playing is strictly prohibited. The foremen say that cards keep men out of bed at night, and they have not their best strength to work during the day. There are amusements on the farm, and at 9 o'clock the fatigue usually drives the men to bed.—From "The Business of a Wheat Farm," by William Allen White, in Scribner's.

Better Chance.

"Do you think," said the man who had bought a large tract of arid land, "that I shall be able to water this waste?"

"I dunno," replied the native. "It strikes me, though, that there's a heap better chance of your wasting the water."—Washington Star.

Concerning Hirsute Growth.

It is a peculiar fact that with most men the growth of hair is stronger on one side of the face than the other. It is said that hair always grows more quickly on that side on which we are stronger.

When a girl thinks a man doesn't care for her she begins to try to make him.

When it comes to raising vegetables the amateur gardener isn't in it with an old hen.

A woman's idea of wrong is something a man does that would be a mistake if she did it herself.

FIRING THE ANNEXATION SALUTE AT HONOLULU.

OUR NEW POSSESSION.

Facts About the Hawaiian Islands, Over Which Our Flag Now Floats.

Hawaii is of small area, being less than that of a single Congressional district. But nineteen nations keep representatives at Honolulu to watch their interests in the islands. The only reason for this is that the islands hold the key of the Pacific Ocean, the largest body of water on the globe, and control the defenses of the western coast of the United States.

For several years the people of Hawaii have been living under the influence of American civilization, speaking and studying our language, recognizing the stars and stripes as familiarly as their own flag, copying the laws of the

A GLIMPSE OF HAWAII.

United States and calling to the assistance of their rulers men of American birth or ancestry. Even among their holidays there are those of the Fourth of July, Memorial Day and Washington's birthday. The group has been under the virtual protectorate of the United States for two generations. The influences which have developed its commerce and made it a civilized region have all emanated from this country.

The essential public interest attaching to Hawaii grows out of its central position in the commerce of the Pacific Ocean. Honolulu is in the track of all steamers sailing to Australasia from San Francisco or Puget Sound. Even more precisely is Honolulu in the direct route of one part of that enormous traffic from Atlantic to Pacific ports which awaits the cutting of the Nicaragua ship canal to flow in a steady tide through the isthmus. All the trade with China and Japan from American ports on the Atlantic must take the Nicaragua route. It is this large movement of ocean commerce impending in the immediate future which lends the most serious importance to the political relations of the Hawaiian islands. Every ship from the Atlantic crossing the Pacific to Asia will naturally sight the Hawaiian islands, and every steamer will be likely to replenish her coal bunkers at Honolulu. This fact will render the political condition and international relations of Hawaii of importance.

ROYAL PALACE AND GROUNDS, HONOLULU.

Honolulu is a convenient port of call for steamers on the route between California and China. This tendency will increase with the coming growth of Honolulu as a general calling and coaling station. It is also a natural port of call and supply for ships to China from Callao and Valparaiso. Honolulu is thus the great crossroads of the Pacific commerce.

More than this, Honolulu is the only crossroads of the north Pacific. This port is wholly alone in its commanding position. It has absolutely no competitor. From the Marquesas to the Aleutians Hawaii is the only land in that tremendous ocean expanse west of America where a ship can call within a space of 4,500 miles from San Francisco, and 6,200 miles from Nicaragua. By the geographical necessity of the case everything centers at Honolulu not merely as the most convenient port of call, but as the only one.

Honolulu will have to provide for the accommodation of from twenty to thirty large steamers per month, together with that of the colliers supplying them. This will be a formidable increase of business and must materially affect the commercial, and with them the political, relations of Hawaii.

The favorable position of Honolulu will be materially enhanced by the absolute necessity of using those islands as the intersecting point for telegraphic cables across the Pacific. It is obvious that all cables between Australia and the North American Pacific coast must make Honolulu their first station.

Eight of the islands in the group are inhabited occupying a line of about 350 miles, beginning at Hawaii and running west northwest to Kauai and Niihau. They receive a cool ocean current from the northeast, with trade winds from east northeast, that temper the climate with a cool breeze but lightly charged with moisture. The population is composed of pure Hawaiian, mixed, foreigners of Hawaiian birth, Americans, British, Germans, Scandinavians, French, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese and others.

The total commerce between Hawaii and the United States in 1891 amounted to $19,002,809. Of this sum the imports into the United States were valued at $13,895,597, while the exports to Hawaii amounted to only $5,107,212.

The census of 1890 shows that the exports of Hawaii "are now and have been for some years past larger in proportion of its population than those of any other country in the world, Australia standing next on the list. In the last ten years we have, with an average population of not more than 8,000, exported produce worth, in round numbers, $90,000,000, or an average of nearly $125 per annum for every man, woman and child in the country."—Detroit Free Press.

Theater-Going in Japan.

It will interest many to hear that the Japanese laws now prohibit a theatrical performance lasting more than eight hours. The plays in the first-class theaters begin at 10 or 11, and are not ended until after sunset. There are intervals, of course, for refreshment, and a recent innovation is a theater-yard for exercise, lined with eating booths and fancy stalls. Boxes are secured three or four days beforehand from a neighboring tea house, where arrangements are made for attendance and refreshments during the day. Full dress is never worn.

The following articles, unless otherwise ordered, are brought to each patron: A program, a cushion, a tobacco fire box, a pot of tea, cakes, fruit and sushi, a sort of rice dumpling flavored with vinegar and topped with a piece of fish. Valuables may be left at the tea house, and the inclusive charge (excepting the waiter's tip) is not more than 1.80 yen a head. The gallery is the most aristocratic place, but the space unreserved, occupied by the Japanese "gods," is quaintly called "the deaf gallery."—Westminster Gazette.

Measurements in the Klondike.

Citizen—By the way, I have been told that the Klondike gold is not worth so much to the ounce as some other brands.

Returned Klondiker—I couldn't say as to that. We never measured by less than a ton. I haven't any idea as to ounce values.—Odds and Ends.

Easy Way of Balancing the Books.

"Bridget, you've broken as much china this morning as your wages amount to. Now, how can we prevent this occurring again?"

"Oi don't know, mum, unless yez raises me wages."—Pearson's Weekly.

Wedlock holds a man pretty close when his wife doesn't allow him to carry a latchkey.

A FATAL SPOT.

Place Where Mary Queen of Scots Lost Her Crown.

Three hundred and fifty years ago on the 13th of May Mary Queen of Scots stood on a grassy knoll near the village of Cathcart watching with feverish interest the movements of three bodies of troops about a mile off in the fields round Langside. Eleven days before she escaped from the castle of Lochleven and now the day had dawned which was to decide whether she would ever rule Scotland again. What the fates had decreed is written at large in the pages of history and that story throws a glamour of pathetic romance round the spot on which Mary learned her doom. For many years "Court Knowe,"

MARY LOST HER CROWN HERE.

as the knoll is called, was marked by a throne tree and when that decayed Gen. Sir George Cathcart, who fell at Inkerman, replaced it with a rough field-gate stone, on which he carved with his own hands a crown, the queen's initials and the date of the battle. Later still, the General's nephew, Earl Cathcart, built this memorial, which is of red granite and repeats the inscription of its predecessor. It may be that Mary's life was a failure, but she has her recompense now. Her story still greatly stirs the hearts of men and draws the sympathetic pilgrim to such shrines as this; Elizabeth, successful in life, is regarded afar off with emotionless respect.

SALVATION ARMY RECRUITS.

South African Notables Converted by Lassies in Poke Bonnets.

The Salvation Army has recruits in South Africa. The chief Kafmar, whose tribe was a terror to travelers and explorers, has been converted by the sweet-voiced lassies in the poke bonnets. His wife is a convert also. The whole tribe has become civilized and plain tea parties instead of the "hot pots" constitute their entertainments. This is considered a notable victory for the army.

THE CHIEF OF THE TRIBE. THE WIFE OF THE CHIEF.

Monster Sunfish.

A sunfish weighing 488 pounds was recently captured off the south side of Nantucket by a party of fishermen and brought into town, where it was placed on exhibition.

Museum Diversions.

"What ails the glass-eater?"

"He got a bit of bone in the turkey hash."

"It is a pretty name," the impressionable traveler murmured. "But, tell me, why do they call you Manita?" There was an arch smile on the savage maiden's face. "Evidently," she said, as she signaled to her brothers, who were concealed in the brush with clubs, "you did not know our favorite food."—Harlem Life.

A WONDERFUL ALASKAN FISH.

Dried, It May Be Used as a Candle, and the Remains Are Eatable.

Those men who are engaged in the profitable business of seal fishing in the Behring Sea and Pacific Ocean, along the shores of Alaska and British Columbia, have found that a species of fish of the smelt family inhabit these waters. These fish, in much the same way as the herring, by the irresistible force of instinct, are annually led to approach the shores for the purpose of depositing their spawn in the shallow waters. They arrive in vast shoals, keeping closely together, and are caught by the fishermen with nets and lines. Each of these nets is 150 feet long and 20 feet deep, and along the upper edge is fastened to a series of cork floats. When the net is to be shot a large buoy is attached to the end of the drift rope, the buoy is thrown overboard and the sails set. As the boat dashes away from the spot the nets, which have been attached to the drift rope, are thrown successively overboard, until all are paid out and hang in the water like a net wall. The strain of the buoy at one end of the drift rope and the boat at the other keeps the rope straight and the net upright.

As the fish come swimming along they are arrested by the net, which they can not see on account of the thin twine of which it is made, and of the large meshes, which are about 2½ inches in diameter. The head slips through the meshes, but the middle of the body is large and can not pass. When the fish attempts to recede, its open gill covers become hitched in the meshes, and so retain it in that uncomfortable position till the net is drawn in. The fish is also a voracious biter, and can be caught almost as soon as the line can be baited and thrown overboard.

On being examined, the fish are found to be of a rich green on the back, variegated with a deep blue, while the abdomen is silvery white, with golden reflections. The fish are so extremely fat that on being held up to the light they are almost transparent, the backbone of the fish being seen to stand out perfectly against the light. The fish live for some considerable time after being taken out of the water.

After the fish are caught they are dried and stored away until the long winter months arrive, when it gets dark early and the Alaskan is snowed up. Here comes an opportunity for using them. Not a bit at a loss for light, the Alaskan takes one of these dried fish, inserts its tail into a crack in his rough wooden table, and lights its nose. The fish burns with a bright and steady flame of about three-candle power, giving a clear, white light and a very considerable amount of heat. A fairly large fish will burn for a period of three hours.

The scientific explanation is extremely simple. The vertebrae which form the backbone of the fish are found to be largely formed of phosphorus, which not only causes it to ignite easily, but also accounts for the strength of the flame and the heat developed. The substance of the fish, which consists so largely of fat, acts as a retarder to the rapid burning of the vertebrae in precisely the same way as the tallow acts in an ordinary candle. The fat of the fish is largely composed of stearine, which is also the chief chemical constituent of the tallow used for making candles, and which gives them their firmness and consistency.

Valuable as is the fish for its light-giving properties, it also has its value as a food. If necessary, it can be eaten after having been used as a candle, it then being simply smoked, or it can be boiled or cooked in the ordinary manner. In whichever way it is treated, to a hungry man it serves as a very welcome and appetizing dish. In flavor it is much like the smelt, having the same sweet taste, but is much fatter.

Still another use to which it can be put is as a substitute for cod liver oil, which, if taken in sufficient quantity, by aiding the natural heat of the body, proves an excellent protective against the severe cold. The oil is obtained from the fish by immersing them in cold water and squeezing, the product obtained being almost equal in quality to the genuine cod liver oil.—New York Herald.

Animal Worship.

Swine were adored in Crete, weasels at Thebes, rats and mice in Troas, porcupines in Persia, the lapwing in New Mexico, bulls in Benares, serpents in Greece and many of the African countries. The Hindoos never molest snakes; they call them fathers, brothers, friends and other endearing names. On the coast of Guinea a hog happening to kill a snake, the King gave orders that all the swine should be destroyed.

The Captain's Company.

A wealthy lady, living near a garrison town, sent an officer an invitation to take tea with her. The note began, "The pleasure of Capt. Armstrong's company is requested," and the answer ran accordingly: "Enlisted men Jones and Lee have been detailed to do guard duty, but the remainder of Capt. Armstrong's company accept with pleasure."

Safest Lightning Rods.

Electricians have lately been experimenting on the efficacy of lightning rods, there being a difference of opinion whether a thin or a thick lightning rod should be employed. But according to actual observations made on rods during the heavy storms, a stout rod, one having a large diameter of metal, is considered to be the safer.

Sometimes a man loves an heiress for herself alone.

Failures should be used as stepping stones to future success.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L. HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. MCCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK ..... Inyo

Sheriff and Tax-Collector,
J. J. GUNN ..... Modock

Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION ..... Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL ..... Bishop

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG ..... Big Pine

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES ..... Independence

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY ..... Bishop

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON ..... Bishop

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

Proceedings and Nominations.

[BY THE SECRETARY, WITHOUT NOTES.]

The Republican County Nominating Convention of Inyo County was duly called to order at Bishop, Cal., on Thursday, September 22, 1898, at 1:30 p. m., by J. H. Stoutenborough, Chairman of the Republican County Central Committee.

Thos. Boland of Keeler was selected as Chairman of the Convention and F.E. Densmore, of Independence, as Secretary.

The Chair appointed Committees of three members each on Resolutions, Credentials, and Order of Business and Permanent Organization.

Recess was declared for one hour to allow the committees time to report, and after this time had elapsed all the committees brought in full and exhaustive reports, which were read to the Convention by the Secretary thereof, and upon motion adopted and approved.

The next in order was the nomination of candidates for office, and the following order was observed, with results as hereinafter stated.

For Sheriff there were two candidates—J. S. Gorman of Independence and A. M. Given, the present incumbent. The result of the balloting gave Sheriff Given the nomination by a vote of 27 to 8, and he thanked the Convention in a neat little speech, the enthusiastic reception of which foreshadows something for November. Candidate Gorman took his defeat in a manner that showed him to be a Republican first and an ambitionist last.

Next in order came nominations for Clerk. J. H. Stoutenborough was selected as the unanimous choice of the Convention, and his remarks of acceptance were well received.

The real fight of the Convention opened when P. A. Chalfant of Bishop, A. O. Collins of Poleta and D. Holland of Lone Pine were placed before the Convention for the responsible position of Assessor. In this case the first ballot gave Chalfant 14, Holland 15 and Collins 6. The second ballot reversed the order between Chalfant and Holland, while the third and fourth ballots made little change. On the fifth ballot the forces of A. O. Collins came over to the other candidates and the supreme moment was reached when the Secretary announced the ballot as: Chalfant 17, Holland 17 and Collins 1. It was now evident that one man held the Convention, and in the sixth ballot he came over to Holland, giving Holland the nomination by a vote of 18 to 17. Certainly a very close vote; and amid a storm of applause D. Holland thanked the Convention for the honor conferred, while P. A. Chalfant in a very appropriate manner thanked them also for the long service that they had bestowed upon him as Assessor of this County. Mr. Collins moved to make Mr. Holland's choice unanimous and it was carried with a rousing vote. Mr. Chalfant took his seat and left the Assessor fight as a candidate whose long service had made him justly popular with the people, at whose hands at election time he had never suffered defeat.

There being no candidate before the Convention for either District Attorney or Surveyor the places were passed and allowed to stand vacant.

For Treasurer of the County W. T. Bunney, the present incumbent, was unanimously selected, and his popularity demonstrated by the manner in which his words of thanks were received.

For Coroner and Public Administrator J. H. Kispert was nominated, in a contest against Dr. G. P. Doyle.

For County Superintendent of Schools J. H. Shannon received the nomination, over A. E. Janvier, but your scribe has forgotten the way the score by ballots stood.

The Convention indorsed F. McIver of Citrus for Assemblyman of this District in a contest in which Robert Love of Lincoln was his opponent, but your scribe has forgotten the vote cast.

In Supervisor matters N. J. Cooley received the nomination in the First District, O. I. Mairs in the Third and Chas. Anthony in the Fifth.

The nominations for township officers were as follows: First township, Justice of Peace, T. H. Woodworth; Constable, Geo. L. Drake. Second township, Justice of Peace, A. C. McDonald; Constable, V. G. Smith. Third township, Justice of Peace, Bertrand Rhine, and for Constable the present incumbent, C. W. Robinson. In the other townships the names have escaped the memory of your scribe.

All visitors were well and hospitably treated by our sister village to the north, and all express themselves as well pleased therewith and with the general results of their visit.

People's Party Nominations.

BIG PINE, Cal., Sept. 20, 1898.

The Popoulist or People's Party, on above date, in an interesting convention, nominated the following candidates:

Sheriff—J. J. Gunn.
Clerk—D. J. Hession.
District Attorney—P. W. Forbes.
Assessor—W. W. Yandell.
Treasurer—S. G. Gregg.
County Superintendent—C. Hampton.
Supervisor, 3d Dist.—James Jones.
Assemblyman—P. H. Mack.

We also ratify the State nominations and especially that of our fellow citizen I. H. Mulholland for Surveyor-General.

After nominations the following County Central Committee was appointed for the coming term:

Bishop—D. A. Bradshaw.
Round Valley—
Big Pine—J. W McMurry.
East Bishop—Fred. R. Smith.
Fish Springs—A. W. H. Smith.
Taboose—Joseph Bell.
Independence—Neel Bell.
Georges Creek—F. C. Morton.
Citrus—W. H. Ramsey.
Lone Pine—
Darwin—Paul Pfefferly.
Modock—Wm. Monahan.
Ballarat—R. Decker.
Olancha—
Panamint—T. H. Henebry.

(Vacant precincts will please send a name for such.) From the above County Committee was chosen an Executive Committee, consisting of J. W. McMurry, Fred. R. Smith, D. A. Bradshaw, Neel Bell and W. H. Ramsey.

Many have taken interest, and a good increase attended our meeting. Our prospects for a large membership is flattering and is about the same per centage from each of the old parties.

We respectfully invite all to join us who think we need a progressive party and a new era.

J. W. MCMURRY,
Chairman.

FRED. R. SMITH,
Secretary, Independence, Cal.

U S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending September 29, 1898:

Highest barometer	29.935	26th
Lowest "	29.642	23d
Highest temperature	83.0	23d
Lowest "	48	27th
Mean "	65.6
Average dew point	35.3
Average humidity	38.7
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	36 S.	24th
No. clear days	5
No. part cloudy days	1
No. cloudy days	1
No. rainy days	2
Precipitation for week	0.20

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

WAR STATISTICS.

In time of war France puts 870 out of every 1,000 of her population in the field; Germany, 310; Russia, 210.

Over 1,000,000 Frenchwomen were made widows and 3,000,000 French children fatherless by Napoleon's campaigns.

Little Switzerland has an enormous army in proportion to population. The population is 2,900,000; the standing army, 126,000.

In proportion to the numbers engaged, Waterloo was the bloodiest battle of modern times. Over 35 per cent of the men engaged were killed or wounded.

The largest standing army is that of Russia, 800,000 men; the next in size that of Germany, 592,000; the third that of France, 555,000; the fourth, Austria, 328,000, after which come Italy with 235,000, England with 210,000, Turkey with 160,000 and Spain with 140,000.

The Krupp steel 130 ton gun has a range of 15 miles and can fire two shots a minute. The shot weighs 2,600 pounds and 700 pounds of powder are required for a charge. The cost of a single round from this gun is $1,500, and it is said that the gun cannot be fired more than 50 or 60 times. The cost of the piece is $475,000.—Boston Herald.

TOTTERING SPAIN.

Spain has not been disposed to deny that the United States may properly be called a belligerent.—Exchange.

If the youthful king of Spain can get any portion of his salary in advance, we advise him to take it.—Toledo Blade.

The Spanish premier reports that in 25 years Spain has spent $650,000,000 on fortifications. He fails to mention that at least three-fourths of the amount was stolen by corrupt officials.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When King Alfonso XII of Spain was dying he was heard to mutter the words: "What a conflict! My God! What a conflict!" When asked to explain himself he replied, "I see a conflict in the future!" The king saw better than he knew.—New York Sun.

WAR SIDE LIGHTS.

The Asiatic part of the Spanish navy is no longer in the swim.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The turkey for Thanksgiving; the eagle for battle. No thought now of changing the national bird.—St. Louis Star.

That London editor who first called it "the Yanko-Spanko war" is too bright to be an Englishman.—Buffalo Express.

Street fakirs may not be ideal patriots, but they're waving Old Glory around for all they're worth just now.—St. Louis Republic.

"Before summer is ended," said a Madrid paper not long ago, "our soldiers may be drinking the water of Lake Michigan." Oh, no. We do not treat our prisoners of war so barbarously as that.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

P. M. LABERGE,
LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,
BUTCHER BUTCHER
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb by wholesale.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.
WM. D. DEHY.
Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F. Ginser, deceased, that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United states, all of the interest of said deceased at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to wit: Mineral Hill, Mineral Layout, Brenkaway, and Mineral Mound.

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled In the Matter of the Estate of John F. Ginser, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.
FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.
FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring Sts., Los Angeles, California.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

James R. Moffett, the Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 22d day of October, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell as much of the real estate of said deceased, either at public or private sale, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court
Dated September 17th, 1898.
P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Administrator.

LAND NOTICES.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., August 25, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and receiver at Independence, Cal., on OCTOBER 3d, 1898, viz: William Vaughn, for the W ½ Lot No. One, in N.W.¼ sec. 2, Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: David Vaughn, Robert Roberts, John Willet and William J. Lake, all of Citrus, Inyo Co. Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday ..... January 1st
" ..... February
" ..... March
" ..... April
" ..... April 30th
" ..... May 28th
" ..... July 2nd
" ..... July 30th
" ..... August 27th
" ..... September 24th
" ..... October 22nd
" ..... November 26th
" ..... December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec

BISHOP AND LAWS
MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT, STAGE LINE.
JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR
REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,
FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me
je30-tf JOHN CLARKE.

LONE PINE
EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND U. S. MAIL LINE.
A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.
CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Pub li patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE
DEALER IN
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.
SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.
PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.
We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.
WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.
NATHAN RHINE,
INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.
DEALER IN
GENERAL MERCHANDISE,
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA
Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.
Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.
AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.
Mail orders will receive prompt attention.
Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.
A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.
BISHOP, CALIF
O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.
GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.
Meals furnished on the American or European plan.
SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.
SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.
New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates
Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.
THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,
CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS
Independence, California.
O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.
THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.
AT THE BAR
will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.
BOARD AND LODGING
by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.
jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,
BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.
JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.
THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

L. WOOD.
Invites the Public to inspect his stock of
Gen'l Merchandise
Complete in every department.
The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.
All kinds of fresh:—
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.
Farm Produce:—
Grain,
Bacon.
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold—
A complete stock of
Miner's and Prospector's supplies.
And Patent Medicines—
L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
--Consisting of--
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS.
WINES and LIQUORS.
FLOUR & GRAIN.
Together with an assortment of
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,
ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.
TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.
Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.
A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.
NATHAN RHINE.

HORSESHOEIN AND General Blacksmithing
J. C. HODGE,
AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE
Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon
INDEPENDENCE CAL.
D. JOHNSON,
PROPRIETOR.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT
Practical Watchmaker and Jeweler.
WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00
All work guaranteed first class.
BISHOP - - - - - Cal

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.
OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.
OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Independence, California.
WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.
Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.
OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.
OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. MCKNIGHT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.
OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. MCQUEEN, D. D. S,
GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY
BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.
DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E
SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Government Lands
Surveyed or Unsurveyed,
Located and perfect title guaranteed.
LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP
For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.
For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
620 Commercial St., San Francisco.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	4[illegible]	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:25 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	Lv 3:00 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles: Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers t the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—or soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for
LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT
CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN,
SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with
CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE ITEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains o Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leav promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned a Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING
250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00
Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.
Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.....1898

Democratic Central Committee.

The new Democratic County Central Committee, organized at Big Pine Sept. 21, 1898, consists of the following members: Independence, E. Robinson; Lincoln, Ed. Shober; Taboose, Wm. Hines; Citrus, Jacob Pfohl; East Bishop, W. T. Brierly; Georges Creek, Ed. Shepherd; Darwin, J. A. McKenzie; Lone Pine, F. P. Meysan; Bishop, Rob't O'Neal; Fish Springs, James Jones; Round Valley, W. H. Wells; Laws, Barton McGee; Poleta, F. J. Reed; Keeler, M. Anton; Big Pine, E. Spencer; Ballarat, Richard Decker; Panamint, John Curran: Mountain Springs, A. V. Lewis; Gerro Gordo, P. Clinton; Modock, Arthur Smith. The Executive Committee is composed of Messrs. E. Robinson, J. A. McKenzie, Rob't O'Neal, J. J. Morton, J. E. Shepherd.

Hon. T. B. Rickey was in town this week.

Mr. James McDonald and his wife and daughter returned to Darwin last Monday.

Mrs. Norah Winslow returned to her home at Gridley this week, after a summer in Independence.

Framework of Levy's new Independence Hotel is looming up under the deft manipulation of a dozen workmen.

Mrs. C. W. Craig leaves for her home in Southern California to-morrow, after a month's visit with her daughter, Mrs. F. E. Densmore.

On Tuesday evening a social and donation party will be held at the Church. All are cordially invited to meet the new pastor, Rev. J. J. Pardee.

Lone Pine is a general supply-point of beef for Keeler and outlying places. The advertisement of P. M. Laberge, butcher, will be noted elsewhere.

A. W. Eibeshutz and wife reached home on Friday evening last, after a visit to friends and relatives in San Francisco and a trip to Oregon and Washington. Mr. E. seems to think that this country is about as good as any of 'em.

The Board of Supervisors will meet on Monday next in regular session for the transaction of routine buuiness. Election proclamation and selection of various election officers will also constitute considerable work for the Board.

W. K. Miller and Charles Anthony, prominent in various enterprises of Southern Inyo, "took in" Independence for a couple of days on their return from the Fair and conventions. There is yet a whole lot of vim and public spirit in these old-timers.

The Independence Athletic Club will hold an important meeting at the Pavilion to-morrow (Saturday) evening. First term officers are to be elected, effecting a permanent organization, and other necessary business transacted, so that everybody interested should attend.

There will be a meeting at the Church on next Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing an extemporaneous debating club. All are invited to participate in the first discussion, which will be on the following subject: Resolved—That the United States should annex the Philippine Islands.

Jas. Shaw and J. M. Horton of Bishop were registered at the Norman House yesterday. Mr. Horton is interested in a commendable effort to secure a commutation to thirty years of the sentence of W. A. Ellis, who was sent to San Quentin for life for killing a man at Fish Springs in 1880. Only three jurors in the case are now residents of Inyo, and only one officer of the Court that tried him is alive.

Races of the Fair Week.

The Indian pony race was won by a Bishop Creek horse owned by Sam Hall.

TUESDAY—Saddle-horse race; ½-mile and repeat. Entrances—Dotty, by J. M. Horton; Bob, by Joe Valverde; Mystery, by J. M. Randle; Durango, by E. H. Ober. Durango won first heat in 59 and second in 59½.

WEDNESDAY—Trotting, 3-minute class; Bishop, by R. W. Scott; 7½ by Chas. Dickson; Chow Chow, by Harry Ober. Bishop was the winner in 2:51.

THURSDAY—Runniag, ½-mile and repeat, free for all. Quoins, by I. H. Mulholland; Stilts, by J. M. Horton; Durango, by E. H. Ober. Quoins won; time. first heat, 59; second, 55¼.

FRIDAY—Special Trot. Hillsdale, by I. H. Mulholland; Nutwood, by Chas. Dickson. Hillsdale to handicap, 75 yds. Won by Hillsdale; first heat, 2:43 and second, 2:50.

The Ladies' Bicycle Race was won by Miss Deck, her competitors having been Miss Clara Eldred and Miss Tina Warner.

Other Events and Features.

DECLAMATORY CONTEST.

Judges—Mrs. I. H. Mulholland, Independence; Mrs. N. T. Piper, Fish Lake; Miss Florence Williams, Santa Ana. Award—Above 16 years: First premium, Miss Lilian Shirley of Bishop, $7.50; second premium, Miss Clara Eldred of Big Pine, $2 50. Between 10 and 16: Miss Celia Ober of Big Pine, 1st premium, $7.50: Miss Hazel Gunter of Bishop, second premium, $2.50. Under 10 years—John Dixon, 1st premium, $5; Ione Yandell, second premium, $2.50.

THE BABY SHOW.

Judges—Mrs. E. Bodle, Grandma Dixon, Miss Emma Chalfant, Jno. L. Collins, R. K. Love. Prettiest girl baby, Helen Cornell, $5; fairest baby boy, George Edwin Crocker, $5. Bachelor's Award—Best developed baby, Glouria Middleton, $7.50; second premium, $2.50, to Mae McMurry.

THE DISTRICT FAIR.

The Fair at Big Pine has gone into history as a pronounced success, from both a business and social standpoint. The Big Pine people have proved that they are capable of entertaining a large crowd of visitors and of doing it well. The accommodations were such that in spite of the rush there were beds to spare at the Big Pine Hotel every night during the Fair and Convention. Many of the residents entertained friends or relatives and the Ladies' Aid Society served meals at the church every day. The new school house served as an exhibition room downstairs and as a ballroom upstairs. The declamatory contest and the baby show were the drawing cards of the week and the results will be found in the list of premium winners. Politics, potatoes and pool tickets were the principal topics of interest, and the tickets, both County and State, were arranged in as many ways as there were men and women to prophesy them. The race track was in fairly good order, though a shower would have improved it considerably. Almost every corner of Inyo was represented, but Mono and Alpine stayed at home.

FAIR ITEMS.

The following will explain itself:

"As a token of appreciation to Mrs. Mealey for honoring Big Pine Hotel with its first-born baby, the employes and guests of the hotel and the Fair Directors beg leave to present the accompanying memento to James Callow Mealey. May he live long and prosper."

The child was born on Wednesday and was awarded $15.

The track sprinkler took the racing fever before the Fair was over.

Lost—A watermelon with black and green stripes.

Miss Matilda Meysan won the crocheted shawl, by shaking highest.

Suggestion—Mark after every name that subscribes "p. d. q."

A Youngster slid from under maternal eye just before the baby show, and hence Bishop lost a prize.

One of the race horses in the consolation purse wore his saddle "a la bustle."

The Fair Ball, with Mr. O'Neal and Miss Truscott in the lead, began at nine and continued until some time Saturday.

A crowd went to Bishop Thursday to attend the Republican convention and returned Ftiday. Bishop celebrated by giving a social dance.

Can't De Vries talk though, eh?

PREMIUMS AWARDED.

Department I—Cattle.

Best Durham Bull, any age, R. P. Hession, diploma; best Cow, 3-years old or over, R. P. Hession, diploma.

Graded—Best Cow, 3-years or over, R. P. Hession, diploma.

Sweepstakes—Best Bull, any age or kind, L. M. Newman, $10; best Herd, R. P. Hession $10; best Cow and Calf, D. W Pitman 7.50

Horses.

Best mare for all work, R P Hession, Diploma. Best span mares to pole R P Hession diploma. Roadsters—Best stallion 3 yrs or over W J Dunn diploma. Best stallion and five colts W J Dunn diploma.

Sweepstakes—Best mare and colt R P Hession 5. Best family of horses W J Dunn 10.

Poultry—Best Wyandotts A E Gish diploma. Best buff Leghorns A E Gish diploma. Best black Manorkas A E Gish diploma. Best pair turkeys R Blake 1 Best display A E Gish 3

Department II—Class 1.

Grain—Best display Corn, A E Gish, $1; best Wheat, L M Newman 1; best Barley, Mrs A Halverson, 1; best Oats, A E Gish, 1; best Alfalfa Seed, Mrs A Halverson, 1; best Wheat Flour, A S Kilpatrick, diploma; best Buckwheat, Mrs A Halverson, diploma; best display Grain, Mrs A Halverson, 5.

Vegetables.

Potatoes Alex McNett	1.00
Onions Mrs. Halverson	1.00
Beans Mrs. Halverson	1.00
Squash largest C Sciglee	.50
Pumpkins 3 best D W Pitman	.50
Watermelons J S Graham	.50
Muskmelons A E Gish	.50
Parsnips D W Pitman	.50
Carrots D W Pitman	.50
Turnips D W Pitman	.50
Tomatoes R Blake	1.00
Beets D W Pitman	.50
Cabbage Mrs. Halverson	1.00
Best display D W Pitman	5 00

Dairy.

Best butter Inyo Creamery diploma. Best cheese Inyo Creamery diploma.

Fruit.

Apples E H Blake	2 00
Peaches J S Graham	1.00
Pears L M Newman	2.00
Prunes L M Newman	2.00
Best display L M Newman	5.00
Best display dried fruit E H Blake	5 00
Preserved fruit Mrs. Halverson	4.00
Best Apiary display J A Partridge	2.50
Best exhibit grapes J S Graham	2 50
Best exhibit wine R Rossi	diploma

Needle and Fancy Work.

Best Exhibit, Miss S Muth-Rasmussen	$7.50
" hand sewing " "	2.50
" embroidery " "	1.25
" point lace " "	1.50
" sofa pillow	1.00
Kensington work, Mabel Chalfant	1 50
Crochet Work, Mrs J S Graham	1.00
Tatting Work, Mrs F D Pratt	1 50
Knitted Lace, Mrs Geo Drake	1.00
Spanish drawn work, S Muth-Rasmussen	1.25
Toilet Set, Mrs W W Yandell	1.00
Display Doiles, Mabel Chalfant	Book
Homemade rug, Mrs Margaret Bell	1.00
Silk Quilt, Mrs G D Calvert	1.50
Worsted Quilt, Mrs Morse	1.50
Cotton Quilt, Mrs Bogart	1 00
Child's Dress, Mrs Wm Dunn	1.00
Shirt, Mrs A P Smith	1.00
Darning, S Muth-Rasmussen	1.00
Patching " "	1.00
Carpet Weaving, Mrs Alice Ober	5.00

Manufacturing

Best turning in wood M F Showalte r	2.50
Best forging W. J. Dunn	diploma
Best sawing and planing Big Pine saw-mill	diploma

Art.

Best collection Mrs. W. W. Yandell	10 00
Acst Col by pupils Mrs. W. A. Chalfant	7 50
2nd best Col. by pupils Mrs. H. C. Hampton	5
Best painting on canvas Nellie Hunter	2 50
Best painting on satin Mrs. W A Chalfant	pair of bisque figures
Best pencil drawing Mrs. W W Yandell	3 00
Best oil portrait Mrs. W W Yandell	2 vol Emerson.
Best water color Mrs. W W Yandell	2.00
Best crayon drawing Mrs. W W Yandell	vol. Whittier.

Minerals and Mining.

Cabinet, Coe & Tracy	$5.00
Gold Ore Frank Harris	Diploma
Silver, Lane mines	"
Copper "	"
Lead "	"
Curio J W Dixon	3.00

Methodist Church.

The services for Sunday, October 2d, are as follows:

Lone Pine—Preaching at 11 o'clock a. m.

Georges Creek—Preaching at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock; subject of discourse. "Life's Fare."

All are most cordially invited to attend the services.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of daeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows:

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wrinkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, Californiaa, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES and HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12 37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20 67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72¼ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28¼ degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4 21 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 5; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28¼ degrees west, 52 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28¼ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28¼ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.24 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE, "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11 36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11 36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4 32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2 33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2 52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4 27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2 88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3 30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K, the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 15 42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28¼ degrees east 1 30 chains distant and stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 28¼ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1¼ degree west .765 links; thence on a true course north 1¼ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 31 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48¾ degrees east 114 41 chains distant; thence on a true course south ½ degree west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode, in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22 72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1¼ degrees east 4 545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K No. 1, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6 30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 28¼ degrees east 1 39 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1¼ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1¼ degrees west 2 42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8 03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3 14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 14 62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations, at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder, within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Gluser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, L. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Gluser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, L. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lor

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

I shall recommend Piso's Cure for Consumption far and wide.—Mrs. Mulligan, Plumstead, Kent, England, Nov. 8, 1895.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Gravestone Emblems.

In a cemetery in a neighboring state lies buried a family of the name of Rose. Upon each headstone is cut this flower, broken at the stem, while upon the babe's tomb is engraved a bud. Curious as this is in itself, however, it is emphasized by the neighboring plot where lies a family of the name of Fish who have followed the example of the Roses by having a small specimen of the finny tribe cut upon each of their gravestones.—New York Sun.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal

CUTLERS CARBOLATE OF IODINE.

Guaranteed cure for Catarrh and Consumption. All Druggists, $1.00.

W. H. SMITH, BUFFALO, N. Y., Sole Proprietors.

HERCULES

---GAS---

ENGINES,

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right Keep it Right

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

BIG G Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

I Have No Stomach

Said a jolly man of 40, of almost aldermanic rotundity, "since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla." What he meant was that this grand digestive tonic had so completely cured all distress and disagreeable dyspeptic symptoms that he lived, ate and slept in comfort. You may be put into this delightful condition if you will take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine.

"BURNING STICKS."

Columbus' Impressions on His First Introduction to Smoking Tobacco.

It was on the island of Cuba, in the autumn of 1492, that the use of tobacco was learned by Europeans. Columbus makes the first mention of the weed in his diary under date of Oct. 15. When he and his men landed on Cuban shores, the kindly natives, who mistook them for messengers from heaven, brought them numerous offerings. Among these, as stated by the admiral in his diary, were some "dry leaves, which must be something much prized by them (the natives), for they had already brought me some in San Salvador as a present."

Little heed was paid to these leaves in the beginning by the Spaniards. They were in search of gold and saw no possibility of converting miserable weeds into that precious commodity. In the course of time they began to notice that as the natives went to and from their villages and the shore smoke escaped from their mouths, "in a truly diabolical manner." Soon they discovered that these unclad children of the wilds carried in their hands a "burning stick," which every now and then they would put into their mouths and blow out a cloud of smoke. This had a most heathenish look, as it is recorded, to the Spaniards, and they inquired, as well as they could by signs, into the custom.

They learned that the burning sticks were composed of the dried leaves so treasured by the natives, and that the custom of smoking the fragrant weed was supposed to lessen fatigue on long journeys. They tried it for themselves and found this actually to be the case. On many a troublesome jaunt thereafter they were refreshed as the pleasant perfume curled upward from their own "burning sticks."—Detroit Journal.

Sport as a Developer of Character.

Every now and then there crops out in this republic the notion that if our more cultured citizens were our rulers that we should be much better off. We very much doubt it. If our more manly citizens could rule us, then no doubt we should be better off. But there is a freakiness and finicalness, an inability to give and take, a general rubbing and creaking of machinery among men developed only on the one side of the mind, which always everywhere makes them objectionable as rulers. Boxing is just as likely to make a man meek as books, but if you have a bully to deal with neither the boxing nor the books will avail anything, and he becomes almost more objectionable as an editor than as a prizefighter. Of course sport will fail, just as every other agency will fail, with certain men. On the other hand, for the great majority of men, well conducted sport will teach them fortitude, gentleness, meekness and fair play as no other agency yet invented by man can do.—Outing.

THE ENORMOUS GOLD PRODUCT OF 1898.

This will be the greatest gold year in history. From South Africa, the Klondike and Australia the precious metal is being shipped in large quantities. It is believed that this year's output will be nearly double that of any previous twelve months. The sales of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are also increasing very fast, and this year that famous remedy will cure more people of dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, nervousness and weakness than ever before.

Artist—How do you like the portrait? Sitter—Well, I don't exactly like the nose. Artist—Neither do I; but it's yours.

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Singleton—They say Meekton fell in love with his wife at first sight. Benedick—Well, I'll bet he wishes he had been gifted with second sight, now.

Male Felinity.

"Talking about the humanity of man and the felinity of woman," said the independent woman, "let me tell you a little story of a man and a cat. The story was told to me by the wife of the man, who is a domesticated woman. It seems that the family cat, besides being of a sportive disposition, had more ingenuity than most cats or understood better how to relieve the tedium of a domestic existence. This cat caught a mouse. Being well fed, her sporting instinct came into play, and she kept the mouse to amuse herself with. That is a feline custom, as you are aware, but where this cat showed superior mentality was in hitting upon a place to hide the mouse, thus protracting the amusement. She kept it in an old shoe in a storeroom. The man of the house discovered the proceeding, and was almost as much amused as the cat. Did he put a stop to it? No, indeed. For several days he fed both the cat and the mouse, after which the cat would take the mouse out for its daily exercise, to the delight of both conspirators. Then the man's wife found them out. She took the mouse away and let it go."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Customers.

Little Boy—Please, I want the doctor to come and see mother.

Doctor's Servant—Doctor's out. Where do you come from?

Little Boy—What! Don't you know me? Why, we deal with you—we had a baby from here last week.—London Fun.

Which do you like best—grocer-bills or doctor-bills?

Use the wholesome baking powder—Schilling's Best.

LET US ALL LAUGH.

JOKES FROM THE PENS OF VARIOUS HUMORISTS.

Pleasant Incidents Occurring the World Over—Sayings that Are Cheerful to the Old or Young—Funny Selections that You Will Enjoy.

She Leads the Procession.

"It's no use; we can't keep up with Maud."

"What's the matter now?"

"She's got engaged by cable."

No Brains at All.

"Belle is disgusted with that young man at the seashore."

"What about him?"

"She says he is crazy; there are fifteen pretty girls there, and he goes around raving about the lovely sunsets."

Drives to Extremes.

"Did you read about that Iowa preacher who was engaged to seventeen girls?"

"Yes; I presume the poor man was trying to keep his choir together through the hot weather."

No Room.

"There's one good thing about flats."

"What is it?"

"People who live in them have to put their children to bed when company comes."

Summer Hardships.

"Do you suffer much in the summer?"

"I was getting along all right until my nephew sent me a railroad pass that I can't get time to use."

An Awkward Corner.

"I'm sorry for Hambus."

"Why?"

"He wanted to go to war, but was rejected because he has a weak heart and his girl keeps wanting to know why he doesn't go. Now, how is a fellow in that fix going to get out of it?"

Reckless Waste.

"The Americans are such a wasteful people."

"Yes; coming down on the train this morning I noticed at least six walls and a dozen roofs on which no one had painted advertising signs."

Grew Gray in His Service.

"Well, did the boss give you a rise?"

"No."

"Not even when you told him you had grown gray in his service?"

"No. Gave me the name of a good hair dye."—Tid-Bits.

The Wretch.

"Hal. I'm afraid you're going from bad to worse."

"Why? Because I've thrown over Mabel Turner for you?"

Sad but Glorious.

Mr. Oldham—By George! I believe that young Dunkley is a hypnotist.

Mrs. Oldham—Why?

Mr. Oldham—I went to see him this morning intending to tell him that he must not come here to see our daughter any more and before I got away he had borrowed $10 from me.

ON THE BANKS OF THE BRONX.

Rev. Thirdly—My boy, do you know if you go fishing on Sunday you will lose your immortal soul?

Mugsey McGuire—Say, mister, does yer know dat if yer stan' dere a talkin' at me, you'll scare away de only bite I've had to-day?

Origin of Their Ideas.

She—It seems to be the general belief among the Spaniards that Americans are merely a lot of savages.

He—Yes, I guess they must have had dealings with some of the Eastern summer hotel-keepers.

They Will Say It.

Mrs. Peck—Henry, when I married you—

Mr. Peck—There, I'm glad you've made up your mind to admit it at last.

A moment later the neighbors saw him running down the street without his hat.

Diamond Repartee.

Swipsey—Say, dat pitcher uv yours ain't so warm.

Soxsey—Dat feller is hot stuff. Why, say, he's got a standing contract wid de Oil company. Dey use de sweat uv his brow for gasoline.

An Indication.

"I wonder if Pitticus has his life insured."

"I guess so. I heard his wife urging him to go on an excursion the other day."

An Evidence.

"I believe he thinks more of her money than he does of her."

"Yes. He always had such good taste."—Detroit Free Press.

All-Important.

First Mendicant—What did yer give up the "Blind Man" racket fer?

Second Ditto—It didn't give me no chance ter stop an' read ther war bulletins.—New York Evening Journal.

A Scarred Veteran.

"Maj. Duflick is making a great war record, isn't he?"

"I'd like to know how you make that out. He's still here."

"I know, but he is making all the flag presentation speeches as the various companies are being sent away to the front."

Didn't Expect Too Much of Him.

They had a war correspondent in court in an Eastern city. He said to the judge:

"Do you want me to tell the truth about this matter?"

"No," said the judge; "I don't expect it. Just do the best you can."—Atlanta Constitution.

He Meant Well.

Mr. Wibbleton—It has always been my aim in life to say nothing rather than say things that would make me seem ridiculous.

Miss Sharpleigh—Indeed! Why, you're just like a Spanish gunner.

Mr. Wibbleton—I'd like to know how you figure out the similarity.

Miss Sharpleigh—You don't seem to have much success in hitting what you aim at.

Two Views of a Sad Case.

Her father—I am afraid, sir, that my daughter can never be happy with a man who can be engaged to her a month without giving her a ring.

The aspirant—Sir, I am afraid I can never be happy with a girl whose engagement to me will not induce jewelers to trust me.—The Jewelers' Weekly.

Unknown Happiness.

"I see that somebody down East has attached a storage battery to a lawn mower and made a success of it."

"Poor fellow! I'm sorry for him."

"Why?"

"He can't know the joy of being the father of a good, healthy boy."

A Self-Deception.

Some persons look forward to the enjoyment of peace as the result of the satisfaction of their desires. As a present possession they resign it as impossible—they have no time to think of or to enjoy it. But, when they have amassed a certain sum, or when they have attained the office they are seeking, or when they have completed the task they have undertaken, or when they have made their name known in the world, then they expect to be at peace. No Will-o'-the-Wisp was ever more deceptive; for desire, like man himself, is ever progressive, and rightly so. One attained, another instantly takes its place, and, if the first does not contain the element of peace, neither will the succeeding ones. Hopes thus founded are doomed to failure. Peace must come from within us, if at all. If it be not ours now, no future, however alluring, will be able to bring it to us. It implies a double power over circumstances and over self. To adapt each to each is the great problem of life. That solved, peace is assured.

It isn't the man who knows the most, but the man who knows the best that's wisest.

SLICK PETE'S WATCH DEAL.

Bought Them at $2.15 Each and Sold Them to Swindlers For $10 Apiece.

An old time detective the other day was discussing with some sleuths new in the profession the methods of up to date swindlers. After deprecating the originality of the modern crook he told of what he considered the sharpest game he ever saw worked.

"I suppose you fellows know," he said, "that during Centennial year Philadelphia was a hotbed of bunko steerers and sharpers of every description. Well, I was detailed to keep an eye on these gentry, and in time I became acquainted with most of the 'big ones,' who were generally exceedingly bright men. One in particular, who was known as 'Slick Pete,' I took a great liking to, for he had an inexhaustible fund of humor and was a good hearted chap. Toward the end of the Centennial exhibition one day I dropped into a down town auction room where some fake jewelry was being sold. A lot of watches were offered, and I saw that they had been made evidently for bunko steering purposes, for the works were good, and the cases were made to look like solid gold. They were finally knocked down for $2.15 apiece, and I saw that the buyer was 'Slick Pete.' Jewelry was out of his line, but I knew he had some scheme in view. Two months passed before I again saw Pete, and then I asked him what he had done with the watches. He began to laugh and said, 'Oh, skinned some swindler with them!' Then followed the explanation. He had hired a room and inserted an advertisement in various papers something like this: 'Found—A solid gold watch; Elgin works; loser pay costs. Apply, etc.' Nearly every crook in town answered the ad. and claimed the watch. Pete, who made up as an old man, seemed a mark, and the 'fly' crook, in the hurry to depart, made but a cursory examination. 'The costs,' $10, were invariably handed over, and in two days Pete had disposed of his stock."—Philadelphia Record.

Cockatoos.

The cockatoos constitute a branch of the great parrot family, and, with the exception of the species which inhabits the Philippine islands, are peculiar to the Australasian region.

Leadbeater's cockatoo is one of the most beautiful of the group, his white plumage being tinged with rose color—W. T. Greene, the great authority on cage parrots, describes it aptly as "raspberry and cream" color—but as his mental endowments are by no means equal to his personal attractions he is less popular as a pet than species with more intelligence than good looks. One point in his favor must be mentioned—he is a less determined screamer than the majority of cockatoos. This, however, is not saying much. In his native woods of South Australia Leadbeater's cockatoo is very shy and difficult to approach. The birds sent to Europe, no doubt taken as nestlings in the majority of instances, remain usually wild and suspicious, though they bear confinement well and do not suffer from the cold.

At home in Australia the cockatoo is not beloved of the farmer, and it can be well imagined that a flock of these big birds, amounting often to thousands, commit fearful havoc upon the crops. Hence it is shot down as remorselessly as the sparrow in England when it grows too numerous to be acceptable to the agriculturist. Like the rest of the genus, this cockatoo usually makes its nest in a hollow tree, where the hen lays two pure white eggs.—St. Louis Republic.

A Funny Mistake.

A servant lass at an inn once made a funny mistake. Opening the door of one of the rooms, she saw, as she thought, the handle of a warming pan sticking out near the foot of the bed. "Bless me," she said, "that stupid Martha has left the warming pan in the bed! She might have set the place on fire." Taking hold of the handle, she gave it a violent jerk, when up jumped an awakened traveler, shouting lustily: "Hello, there! Leave my wooden leg alone, will you?"—London Fun.

Hindoos Use Little Soap.

The only soap which the Hindoos of the orthodox type employ is made entirely of vegetable products. But soap is little used in India, being almost an unknown luxury with the natives.

MRS. PINKHAM'S ADVICE.

What Mrs. Nell Hurst has to Say About It.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I wrote to you I had not been well for five years; had doctored all the time but got no better. I had womb trouble very bad. My womb pressed backward, causing piles. I was in such misery I could scarcely walk across the floor. Menstruation was irregular and too profuse, was also troubled with leucorrhœa. I had given up all hopes of getting well; everybody thought I had consumption. After taking five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I felt very much better and was able to do nearly all my own work. I continued the use of your medicine, and feel that I owe my recovery to you. I cannot thank you enough for your advice and your wonderful medicine. Any one doubting my statement may write to me and I will gladly answer all inquiries.—MRS. NELL HURST, Deepwater, Mo.

Letters like the foregoing, constantly being received, contribute not a little to the satisfaction felt by Mrs. Pinkham that her medicine and counsel are assisting women to bear their heavy burdens.

Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. All suffering women are invited to write to her for advice, which will be given without charge. It is an experienced woman's advice to women.

S. F. N. U. No. 845 New Series, No. 36

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists 25 CTS CONSUMPTION

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

The Doctor Slocum System Has Proven Beyond Any Doubt Its Positive Power Over the Dread Disease.

EXTERMINATING THE CURSE OF AGES

By Special Arrangement with the Doctor, Three Free Bottles Will be Sent to All Readers of This Paper.

The Doctor Slocum System, as the name implies, is a comprehensive and complete system of treatment, which attacks every vulnerable point of the disease and completely vanquishes it. It leaves no point unguarded; it leaves no phase of the trouble neglected; it cures, and cures forever, Weak Lungs, Coughs, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Consumption and all other throat and lung diseases by absolutely obliterating the cause.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—The Doctor Slocum System is Medicine reduced to an Exact Science by the World's most Famous Physician. All readers of this paper, anxious regarding the health of themselves, children, relatives or friends, may have three free bottles as represented in the above illustration, with complete directions, pamphlets, testimonials, advice, etc., by sending their full address to Dr. T. A. Slocum, the Slocum Building, New York City. This is a plain, honest, straightforward offer, and is made to introduce the merits of The New System of Treatment that Cures, and we advise all sufferers to accept this philanthropic offer at once. When writing the Doctor please mention this paper. All letters receive immediate and careful attention.

"Not to take a cure for an otherwise fatal disease is to practically commit suicide."

If You Suffer

From Epilepsy, Epileptic Spells, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Falling Sickness, Vertigo, etc., have children or relatives that do so, or know people that are afflicted, My New Discovery,

Epilepticide,

Will cure them, and all you are asked to do is to send for a Free Bottle and try it. I am quite prepared to abide by the result. It has cured thousands where everything else has failed. Please give full name, AGE, and postoffice and express address

WM. H. MAY, M.D., May Laboratory, 94 Pine St., New York City.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—All sufferers are advised to send for Gratuitous Expert Advice and a Free Bottle of this New Discovery, which is an Unfailing Cure for any and all of the frightful forms of Epilepsy and allied nervous diseases. When writing Doctor May, please mention this paper.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 17. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 7, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1488.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	120
On eMonth	50
Single Copies	10

THE WOMEN WHO WAIT.

He went to the war in the morning—
The roll of the drums could be heard,
But he paused at the gate with his mother,
For a kiss and a comforting word.
He was full of the dreams and ambitions
That youth is so ready to weave,
And proud of the clank of his sabre
And the chevrons of gold on his sleeve.

He came from the war in the evening—
The meadows were sprinkled with snow,
The drums and the bugles were silent,
And the steps of the soldiers were slow.
He was wrapped in the flag of his country
When they laid him away in the mold,
With the glittering stars of a captain
Replacing the chevrons of gold.

With the heroes who sleep on the hillside
He lies with a flag at his head,
But, blind with the years of her weeping,
His mother yet mourns for her dead.
The soldiers who fall in the battle
May feel but a moment of pain,
But the women who wait in the homesteads
Must dwell with the ghosts of the slain.
—The Criterion.

SIR BRIAN'S FANCY.

IT was a boy who awoke her. He rushed into the room and shouted at her in the abrupt manner common to small brothers:

"Molly, what do you think? Sir Brian Rosymore is coming to dinner on Saturday."

"You're joking."

"No—honor bright!"

"We'll go and look at him through the window, Bobby."

"I shall, but you're to have a new frock, made long, and go down to dinner, because the Baronet saw you in church last Sunday and told father you were very pretty. What are you getting so red for?"

"Did he really say he thought I was pretty?" said the girl in a tone of breathless delight. "O, Bobby!"

For several months past Molly had been agitating to have her dresses lengthened, but as there were six girls, and she was only the fourth, her mother had firmly refused to allow her to become grown up till some of her sisters were disposed of by marriage.

Nature had not intended Mrs. Thorne for a worldly woman, but necessity was fast making her one. As the mother of nine children and the wife of a struggling doctor she often found it difficult to make both ends meet.

Molly donned her gown on the important Saturday, and was escorted to the door by her faithful ally, Bob. She stopped short on the mat.

"He has come," she whispered. "I shall never be able to go in."

"Nonsense!" said the boy, valiantly.

But Molly refused to make an entry, till her brother, whose patience was soon exhausted, softly turned the handle and gave her a gentle push, which had the effect of lurching her into the middle of the room in a most undignified way.

Her face flamed scarlet, she could feel all eyes fixed upon her in the greatest astonishment, then her mother's voice, faintly reproachful, said:

"Sir Brian, this is my daughter, Margaret."

Perhaps the Baronet saw that the girl was unaccustomed to society and pitied her. He rarely spoke to her during the evening, although his eyes rested on her face with evident admiration.

But when they met by chance the next morning in the vilage street he turned and walked beside her.

She was not so shy now that no watchful eyes were there to note her solecisms, and it was astonishing how easy she found it to talk to this good-looking young fellow with the kindly eyes.

The Thornes saw a great deal of Sir Brian after that. Almost every day he found some excuse to call, and the girl grew to look forward to his coming, and to feel absurdly disappointed if he failed to put in an appearance.

"He must care for the child, else why is he here so often?" Mrs. Thorne said in confidence to her husband.

"My dear," he answered, "I shouldn't build too much on it if I were you. It's too good to be true."

But Molly was allowed to go to the dance given by Lady Conyers.

Brian met them at the head of the stairs on the eventful evening, and introduced them to his aunt.

The night passed all too quickly, and it was already late when, feeling rather tired, she seated herself beside her mother.

"Ready to go home, dear?" Mrs. Thorne inquired.

"After this next dance, mother," she said, looking at the Baronet's illegible scrawl on her program.

Suddenly Lady Conyers' voice in conversation with some one became audible from the other side of a clump of palms.

"Preposterous, my dear Mrs. Craig," she said. "Brian is engaged—at least he will be when we return to town shortly—to Lucie Maddox. He's simply amusing himself, as usual. He is such a dreadful flirt."

Mrs. Thorne turned to the girl. She had whitened to the lips; her brow was burning, her hands were icy cold.

"O, mother!" she murmured, "take me home."

* * * * * * *

"Molly, what have I done?"

"Hush!" she cried. "You have no right to call me that!"

"Then give me the right; there is nothing I desire more."

"How dare you tell me so when you are engaged to another woman? Let me pass, sir, at once!"

"Not till you have explained your words. Another woman? What on earth do you mean?"

"You pretend you don't know," she cried, her childish voice trembling with indignation, "and I heard your aunt say last night that you were going to marry Miss Maddox."

"My aunt must have been temporarily forgetful of the fact that her pet dream was not a reality when she made such a ridiculous assertion. You believe me, don't you?"

Apparently she did, for half an hour later they walked in together, radiant with happiness, and a ring was flashing on her left hand.

Bobby's lack of surprise at the news was explained during the day by a piece of advice he gave them, which, although it proved useful in the future, covered the girl with confusion and sent Brian into fits of laughter.

"I say, Molly," the boy said gravely, "I shouldn't make love in the orchard if I were you, because any one can see you from the schoolroom window."—Chicago Tribune.

CUBAN DANDIES.

Fond of Finery and Leisure and with Delicate Features.

At first sight a Cuban of the well-to-do class seems to be nothing but hair, eyes and shirt collar, says the Westminster Gazette. But on nearer view you discover him to possess exceedingly refined features, often of great beauty and regularity. A coarse-featured Cuban endowed with a superfluity of flesh is unknown. The Cuban's figure emulates the skeleton dude's, it is so slender. He has spindle legs, arms like sticks and a torso like a crane's. His chest is narrow, his shoulders are angular, and he stoops, which in his case is no sign of lung delicacy or studious habits. His complexion is a clear olive. You never meet a Cuban who looks fatuous, or who has eyes that are not brimful of intelligence.

They are as fond of jewelry and finery as women. They squeeze their naturally small feet into smaller boots. They wear extravagantly high or low collars and gorgeous neckties. Lately they have been wearing trousers of such roomy dimensions that they flap about their thin legs like sails; whereas a year or two ago they wore them as tight as eelskins. But the piece de resistance—the crowning glory of a Cuban male toilet—is the hat. In spite of the tropical climate, it is invariably black, shiny, hard and narrow, like a chimney-pot turned upside down.

A Cuban flaneur is capable of sporting a grass-green shirt, with a black frock coat and white cravat. Born in a land of slavery, generally, with the expectation of coming in for a sugar plantation, or, at any rate, relying on support from wealthy relations, the average gilded youth of Cuba regards it as his metier to ornament the tropics and gracefully to kill time. He covers his soft, thin hands with rings sparkling with precious stones. His nails are long and cut in points, after the fashion of Chinese aristocrats. When you meet a Cuban going to the station there is always a negro boy behind, carrying his bag. A Cuban would be ashamed to be seen in the street carrying anything but a stick.

WHAT THE LAW DECIDES.

The remedy for failure of a servant or agent to pay over money on demand for collecting it for his principal is held in Royce, Allen & Co. vs. Oakes (R. I.), 39 L. R. A. 845, to be by assumpsit or debt, and not by trespass on the case.

An action against what purports to be a corporation, to recover a tax which it is required to pay as a condition precedent to corporate existence, is held, in Maryland Tube and Iron Works vs. West End Imp. Company (Md.), 39 L. R. A. 810, insufficient to give it a legal existence for all purposes, or to estop the city from denying its corporate existence.

An agreement by the owners of race horses entered at certain stake races to divide equally the premiums and stake moneys awarded to any of their horses, is held, in Hawkins vs. Ottinger (Cal.), 40 L. R. A. 79, to be valid, and not a wagering contract.

A partnership for horse racing on a bet with a person whom the partners regard as a "sucker" and a "big snap," into which they induce him to enter by making him think he has a sure thing and by deceiving him into the supposition that their horse is untrained and undeveloped, while they think they have a "dead mortal cinch," is held, in Morrison vs. Bennett (Mont.), 40 L. R. A. 158, to be such a conspiracy to defraud that the court will not aid either one of the partners to obtain an accounting of the profits.

A note to pay a bet on a horse race run in another State where such notes are presumed valid, and where a note of which this is a renewal was given, is denied enforcement in North Carolina, in the case of Gooch vs. Faucette, 39 L. R. A. 835, on the ground that its enforcement is contrary to the public policy of the State, even if the note is to be deemed a contract of the other State, in which it would be valid.

A Deadly Grudge.

"You and Briggins don't seem to be very good friends any more."

"No, he is a wolf in sheep's clothing."

"Why, what did he ever do to make you conceive such an opinion of him?"

"Made me believe I ought to take my bicycle apart for the purpose of cleaning it."

How He Escaped.

She—And is it true that you pose as an amateur mind-reader?

He—I believe some of my friends accuse me of it.

She—I wish you would read my mind.

He—Why, er—you haven't an amateur mind.

End of His Labors.

"Hampsley worked hard for three years trying to get a public office."

"Indeed? What's he doing now?"

"Not a thing."

"Why, how can he afford that?"

"He got the office."

PRINCE BISMARCK IN THE CIRCLE OF HIS FAMILY AT FRIEDRICHSRUHE.

MAN WHO MADE GERMANY.

Prince Otto Edward Leopold Von Bismarck Was the Greatest Statesman of the Present Century.

THE death of Prince Bismarck has removed the greatest personality that Europe has seen since the days of Napoleon I. Indeed, it may be doubted if even Napoleon was his equal, measuring the two men by their deeds; for the work achieved by Napoleon has crumbled away, while that of the unifier of the German empire remains.

Prince Bismarck was one of the monumental figures of the nineteenth century. Before his time Germany was merely a geographical nation, her unity consisting alone in her language and her literature.

BISMARCK IN 1862.

True, she had aspirations to political unity and others there were before Bismarck who saw in the Prussian state the possible nucleus around which German unity might crystallize. But it was Bismarck who passed from theory to action; who cut the Gordian tangle of Prussian-Austrian relations in the affairs of the German States; who so guided events that he destroyed the hegemony of Austria on the one hand and the grasping power and ambition of Napoleon on the other; who cemented the political unity of the various and hitherto discordant German states; fashioning the empire as it is to-day and crowning in the palace of Versailles the King of Prussia as the Emperor of a new Germany. Bismarck's name, naturally, is synonymous with German national unity—the dream and hope of hundreds of years—and, through him, now the possession and privilege of the people.

Bismarck's Career.

Otto Edward Leopold von Bismarck was born at Schonhausen April 1, 1815. His family was an important one in the affairs of Prussia and its descent can be traced to medieval times. When a year old Bismarck's parents moved to Pomerania, where they had inherited knightly estates, the leading one being Kniephof. Here Bismarck passed five years of his childhood, but on account of a somewhat mischievous disposition he was sent at the age of 6 years to a boarding school in Berlin, the principal of which had the reputation of being a strict disciplinarian. He proved an intelligent and earnest student, and at the age of 17 was ready to enter a university. The wild student life of the University of Heidelberg attracted him and he begged to be allowed to enter that institution, but his mother refused, sending him instead to Gottingen, where she foolishly thought he might not contract the beer habit. At Gottingen Bismarck led a wild and reckless life.

Already, before entering it, he had fought his first duel, and during his university life he fought twenty-eight more, being wounded only once. According to his own account he only attended lectures twice before he passed his examination. After leaving the university he held subordinate government offices, but growing weary of the dull routine of business he retired to the estate of Kniephof, where for a time he devoted himself to its careful management. Then he plunged into the excesses that had marked his student career. With gay companions he gave himself to jolly carousals and in the old mansion none could vie with him in drinking. Owing to his recklessness he became known as "mad Bismarck," and terrible tales were told of his mad adventures. But he had periods of profound disgust with himself owing to these excesses, and often he retired into the forest, with his dog, where he plunged into meditation. Suddenly he gave up his wild courses and took up the study of history, theology and philosophy.

Enters the Prussian Diet.

After the death of his father, in 1845, the family estates were divided and Kniephof and Schonhausen fell to the possession of Bismarck. Two years later Bismarck married Johanna von Putkammer, and in the same year he appeared as a delegate in the United Diet, summoned by King Frederick William IV.

The Prussian King was then at loggerheads with his subjects, the latter demanding greater rights and a constitution. Bismarck opposed the granting of any concessions by the King and made a bitter attack on liberalism and democracy. He was especially roused by a bill for the removal of the civil disabilities of the Jews and he characterized a constitution as a paper government. His services to royalty during the revolution of 1848 earned for him the position of a trusted adviser of King Frederick William. In 1851 Bismarck was appointed representative from the Prussian court to the diet in Frankfort-on-the-Main, which met as the mouthpiece of the forty-odd states of the German confederation, and here he became intimate with the crown prince—later King William of Prussia and the first Emperor of United Germany. Prussia and Austria were then rivals in the affairs of Germany, Austria striving to retain her preponderance and Prussia endeavoring to destroy it and oust her from any position in the confederation. To this purpose Bismarck closely devoted himself.

From Frankfort Bismarck was sent as ambassador to St. Petersburg in 1859, and here he remained three years. During this time occurred the Franco-Austrian war in Italy. The Prussian army was mobilized as a matter of defense, but took no part in the contest, yet its mobilization was enough to check Napoleon. The mobilization, also, revealed defects in the army, and these were consequently remedied. In 1862 William, who had succeeded Frederick William IV. in January, 1861, recalled Bismarck and sent him as minister to Paris. Bismarck had before this time become convinced that Prussia would have to fight with Austria for supremacy in Germany and with France for the ownership of the Rhine, something to which Napoleon's wild ambition aspired, and in Paris Bismarck had opportunity to spy into French affairs. Within a few months, however, he was recalled to take the position of premier and minister of foreign affairs. Bismarck at once got into hot conflicts with the House of Deputies, which had refused to vote an increased military budget, and he carried everything with a high hand. His haughtiness and contempt for the members was unbounded. "Constitutions," he once said, when taxed with governing without a constitution, "may be decided in other countries by a change of ministers, but this is not the custom in Prussia. With us, if two political bodies, which cannot go to law, are unable to agree, circumstances decide which of the two is the stronger." And circumstances did so decide, and the Prussian chamber found that Bismarck was the stronger.

In 1863, owing to reasons not necessary to discuss here, Austria and Prussia decided on going to war with Denmark. The Prussian Parliament refused to vote a war credit, whereupon Bismarck boldly replied: "If we find it necessary to go to war we shall do so, with your approval or without." And to war Prussia went. Denmark speedily succumbed and part of her territory was transferred to Prussia and Austria. The war, pigmy as it was, was sufficient to enable Prussia to complete her almost perfect army organization and avail was almost immediately made of the opportunity. But it did not remove the hatred which Bismarck's parliamentary course had engendered and an attempt was made to assassinate him. Bismarck was honored by having bestowed upon him the order of the Black Eagle, and he was furthermore made a Prussian count.

He Humbles Austria.

Meantime through Austrian stupidity and Bismarckian diplomacy Austria and Prussia were rapidly drifting into war. It was the opportunity that Bismarck had worked for and waited for, and when Austria ruptured the treaty of Gastein, entered into at the end of the Danish war, the order for the mobilization of the Prussian troops was given. Gen. Moltke, Gen. Roon, Bismarck and King William worked in entire accord, and so well had Bismarck done in his diplomatic work that Italy declared war against Austria at the same moment as Prussia.

While crushing the power of Austria Bismarck diplomatically played with Napoleon, who at first sought to extend the French frontier as it was in 1814, offering for such consideration to let Prussia have her own way with Austria, and who then, when Austrian power was crushed on the field of Sadowa, sought to gain Prussian support for the seizure of Belgium and Luxemburg. Napoleon gained neither of his objects, while he fatally allowed Austria to be crushed and Germany to rise as a powerful and rapidly uniting nation.

In February, 1867, the North German Parliament opened in Berlin, with representatives of twenty-two States north of the Main, and in April a constitution was agreed on and Bismarck was made chancellor of the confederation. The three years preceding 1870 were spent by Bismarck in consolidating the union of North and South Germany and by Napoleon in endeavoring to thwart him. And then came Napoleon's mad declaration of war. There is no need to recapitulate the story of the terrible avalanche of blood and destruction that swept over France during the autumn of 1870. Napoleon surrendered his sword on the battlefield of Sedan and his dynasty was forever ended. On March 1, 1871, the German army entered Paris and the war was over. German unity was an accomplished fact and King William I. was the crowned Emperor of the new German empire. Bismarck received the title of prince and became chancellor.

But Bismarck's work was not ended. He had to conserve what he had established and bulwark Germany against a French war of revenge. The effect of this policy is found in the triple alliance of Germany, Austria and Italy as it exists to-day.

Bismarck's astonishing success in the Franco-Prussian war did not relieve him of political difficulties at home, and in 1877, wearied by parliamentary difficulties and ill health, he tendered his resignation. Germany protested against this act and the Emperor refused to accept his resignation and Bismarck remained chancellor. In 1878 two attempts were made by the socialists to assassinate the Emperor and this led to the enactment of harsh laws against that society. The laws were remorselessly administered and the result was extremely trying to Bismarck.

He Resigns His Office.

In 1888 Emperor William died and Frederick William, between whom and Bismarck there was not much admiration, came to the throne. But he lived as ruler only a brief time and then William II. became Emperor. It was then almost an article of German faith that the Iron Chancellor, as Bismarck was called, would continue to steer the ship of state. It seemed impossible to conceive of a fresh hand at the rudder. But although between Bismarck and the youthful Kaiser there was a bond of admiration and although the latter, at the beginning, learned to lean upon the unifier of the German nation, differences sprang up between them. William issued an order that ministers were to report to him directly instead as heretofore to the chancellor. This was taking power out of the hands of Bismarck and naturally the latter rebelled against the edict and tendered his resignation as chancellor. He had done this so often, when in serious political crises, only to have his resignation rejected by his sovereign, that doubtless Bismarck thought that William would not suffer him to sever his connection with the Government of the nation which he more than any other had builded. But William accepted the resignation and in May, 1890, Bismarck laid down the cares of state and retired to his estate of Friedrichsruhe.

He was followed to his retreat by the sympathy of the German people and the admiration of Europe. But it took years to heal the breach between him and William, and it was not until 1894 that the Kaiser and his great subject became reconciled. Bismarck from his Fredrichsruhe retreat had inspired bitter attacks on the Government policy and to the thousands of people from all parts of the empire who visited him had delivered speeches that enkindled political rancor. It was therefore good politics for the Kaiser to seek a reconciliation and, in 1893, he took the first step, when he offered one of his castles to the aged statesman that he might regain his strength, which had been materially impaired. Bismarck gracefully declined the offer. In January, 1894, William invited Bismarck to visit him in Berlin. The visit was paid in January and Bismarck's reception by the people along his way was such as seldom has been accorded to ruler or subject. The Kaiser's greeting was cordial in the extreme and the following month the Emperor paid a return visit to his great and distinguished subject. The entire empire celebrated the reconciliation as an important historical event.

His Domestic Sorrow.

Soon afterward a crushing blow fell on Bismarck—a blow that made all his subsequent years full of loneliness. In November, 1894, his beloved wife died. She was nine years younger than her husband and had ever been to him since their marriage day in 1847 a faithful and devoted helpmate. In his private life Bismarck was happy and was devoted to his home. Over him the princess, in purely domestic affairs, had a great influence, but this did not extend to his political life. Bismarck was fond of nature and music and as a musician his wife was accomplished. During his entire life Bismarck was a lover of horses and seldom since his school days in Berlin was he unaccompanied by one or more large dogs, such as mastiffs or great danes. He was a lover of good eating and drinking and was a heavy smoker until a few years ago, when he began to suffer from its effects.

A sketch of the great life closed would be incomplete without some reference to the honors heaped upon him by his countrymen. When Bismarck began his political career he was by no means a rich man. He possessed some patrimonial estates, but the domain of Schonhausen, where he was born, had passed out of his control. In 1866, after the successful war with Austria, he purchased the Varzin estate, near Berlin, with the donation that had been accorded him by Prussia in recompense for his diplomatic skill. In 1871 Emperor William presented him with $300,000 of the indemnity paid by France and with this he purchased the estate of Friedrichsruhe, near Hamburg. It consists of 20,000 acres. Then in 1885, on the occasion of his seventieth birthday, the nation bought back by public subscription the old family domain of Schonhausen and presented it to the prince and princess and their children forever. On his eightieth birthday celebration, in 1895, in which the entire nation took part, he was the recipient of great and resplendent honors.

Nor would a sketch of Bismarck be complete without reference to his colonial policy. Under him Germany branched out as a colonial rival to Great Britain, and where formerly she did not have an acre of soil outside the fatherland, she now ranks as one of the great colonial powers of the world. Her flag floats from the great lakes at the head waters of the Nile to the shores of the Indian ocean. Vast areas in southwestern Africa and back of the Gulf of Guinea acknowledge her sovereignty. She is firmly established on the great island of Papua and has possession of many of the important groups that stretch across the South Pacific ocean.

Summary of His Character.

But whatever the success of Bismarck's political life there is much in it that Anglo-Saxon civilization will not approve. As a statesman Bismarck was arbitrary, self-willed, imperious and unscrupulous. His political ideas were those of a born feudalist. He governed with the strong hand of absolute power and crushed out every attempt to assert the political freedom of the individual or the masses. He was an absolute believer in the "divine right" of kings and the throne and the army were regarded by him as the only foundation of the state. Sound in his foreign political relations, he made blunders in domestic affairs, cheating the people with a semblance of liberty and self-government. Viewed in the light of history, when time shall have furnished a truer perspective, Bismarck will stand forth as a man who was eminently fitted to realize the ideal hopes and aspirations of the German people, but as a man with many human failings. It remains to be seen how long Germany shall endure along the lines which he established.

THE LATE PRINCE BISMARCK.

Distinguished Statesman, Soldier, Diplomat and Unifier of the German Empire.

THE NEW PRINCE BISMARCK.

To Herbert, the son of the late Prince, has descended the title of his illustrious father and estate at Friedrichsruhe.

BISMARCK LEAVING EMPEROR'S PALACE AFTER RESIGNING.

A HISTORIC HORN.

Summoned Slaves to Labor and Presaged the Death of "Revenues."

There is an old battered tin horn in the possession of an ancient colored man at Dalton, Ga., around which are associated memories of many deeds of violence.

In ante-bellum days the horn was the property of Col. "Ben" Loughridge, a wealthy planter of Murray County. It was originally used to summon his many slaves to work and to meals, and its welcome note at sunset was the signal for them to rest from the day's labors.

After the war the horn became separated from the Loughridge family, and from that time until a few months ago was the period of its stirring history. Murray County has for years been a stronghold of the "moonshiners." Time after time the revenue officers made desperate raids on the illicit distilleries, killing and being killed, yet never entirely subduing the stubborn mountaineers. The mellow note of the old tin horn would always warn the whisky rebels of the approach of their enemies, and many a good man's death has it presaged.

The moonshiners would station a lusty-lunged sentinel on some prominent mountain rock which commanded a view of the valley below, and the slightest suspicious symptom in the lower defiles was sufficient to send the bass echoes of the old horn flying, and the moonshiners themselves scurrying to their improvised fortresses, armed to the teeth and ready to take and risk life for what they considered their rights and in the defense of their hearthstones. To the "revenues" it always bore the dismal information that from the next crag or bramble they might expect a slaying volley from their hidden foes.

The venerable horn is a special reminder of a notorious gang which terrorized the country up to within a year ago. It was used to rally the forces of this gang and was often the preface to a bloody conflict between them and the law's representatives.

When the gang was finally disposed of the horn passed into the possession of old "Uncle" Isaac, a typical "befo' de war" negro, and the old man often brings it out and recounts its interesting history.—Baltimore Sun.

First Standing Army.

The first standing army of which there is any record was organized by King Saul, 1093 B. C. The army of Xerxes, in invading Greece, numbered 1,700,000 foot and 80,000 horses, 480 B. C. The first standing army of modern times was maintained in France by Charles VII., 1445. Standing armies were first established in England by Charles I., 1638.

Remarkable Irrigation.

No fewer than 12,000,000 acres of land have been made fruitful in the Sahara desert, an enterprise representing perhaps the most remarkable example of irrigation by means of artesian wells which can anywhere be found.

Light in the Eark Continent.

The lamp mostly used in Africa is a simple contrivance. In a cocoanut shell filled with palm oil, a bit of rag is placed to serve as a wick, and this gives all the light that the natives require.

Too many people are looking for a chance to sit down. If you get along, you must keep on your feet.

We greatly admire a man who has sense enough not to be a thoroughbred.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7.....1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON.....San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE.....Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN.....Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS.....Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND.....Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. MCCRANEY.....Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE.....Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY.....Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE.....Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN.....Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN.....San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND.....Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES.....San Joaquin

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK.....Inyo

Sheriff and Tax-Collector,
J. J. GUNN.....Modock

Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION.....Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL.....Bishop

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG.....Big Pine

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES.....Independence

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY.....Bishop

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON.....Bishop

To the denunciation of the Southern Pacific railroad and its use of the Republican party in this campaign made by the Los Angeles Times because men notorious as Southern Pacific "leggers" are in charge of the Republican County Central Committee in Los Angeles: and to the unceasing assaults of the San Francisco Call upon the Republican party for its openly "slating" De Young, the "Southern Pacific retainer" for the United States Senate, to both of these assaults now comes that of Hon. M. M. Estee, a distinguished Republican, who declares that "the railroad is in politics and that it uses its vast influence and unlimited wealth as much in politics as in business;" also that "the railroad is a menace to government which is forcing upon us the alternative of government of the railroad or railroad ownership of government, for it is now seeking to control affairs in both the State and Nation."

The New York Engineering and Mining Journal states that the Pacific Borax and Redwoods Chemical Works, Eimited, otherwise the English borax syndicate, has filed a trust deed of all its properties on the Pacific Coast, to cover a loan of $1,250,000, which has been made by the Indian and General Development Trust, Limited, for the purchase or construction, through F. M. Smith, of a large borax plant at Constable Hook, N. J., to which place is to be removed most of the large plant which the Pacific Coast Borax Company has been operating in Alabama. Extensive deposits of borax at Antofagasta, Chili, are also to be purchased. The deed recites that the works control borax mines or factories in San Bernardino, Inyo and Alameda Counties of California; Esmeralda County, Nevada, and in Oregon.

The grand old mining town of Bodie met with another disastrous fire last Wednesday morning. The Standard Consolidated Mining Co.'s mill was all destroyed, except the connecting cyanide plant. Loss estimated at $60,000, partially insured. The mill was supplied with power by one of the most extensive electric plants ever utilized for mining purposes. The Standard has met like disasters before, as the original hoist was demolished by an explosion of giant; then the great shaft-house was burned and subsequently shaft timbers down to near the Bulwer tunnel level were destroyed by a blaze lasting a couple of weeks or so. The mine is credited with a product of about $13,000,000 gold, and still has bodies of paying ore in sight.

Silver is again beginning to raise its impoverished head—and we are glad of it. We attribute no virtue to ourselves when we say that we shall always be on the under dog in any fair and square fight. Last Saturday's advices are that ten million ounces of silver bullion were on that day shipped from Philadelphia to San Francisco. Wait until the Spanish issues are settled, and the demand for silver for silver coinage for use in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines will not leave any very large amount in eastern or western vaults. There are good days ahead yet for silver fields.—L. A. Mining Review.

And now comes Contractor Neu—whose firm will build the San Pedro breakwater—and says that he expects to see Los Angeles city made a seaport by the building of a canal from San Pedro, or Wilmington slough. The project is feasible, from an engineering standpoint. If it was a sea level canal the cut would be 200 feet deep at the city. If it is to be by locks, the big difficulty would be to get water enough to keep the canal full.—Redlands Citrograph.

The nomination of Col. Rosevelt for the Governorship of the Empire State ought to make Mr. Secretary of War Alger go and hide his rapidly diminishing head. As a sample of an official who has been roundly damned in every State and Territory in the Union, there is not in times past or present one who can match his idiotic record.

Supervisor Proceedings.

MONDAY, October 3, 1898. 10 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at the above stated time, pursuant to law.

Present—Supervisors Frank Shaw, J. R. Eldred, J. J. Stewart and A. C. Freeman, Chairman presiding.

Minutes of preceding meeting read and approved.

Board proceeded to examine and allow claims against the County on different funds as follows:

GENERAL EXPENSE.

W. T. Bunney postage, etc	$ 10 25
Mrs H H Robinson, taking test'm'y	2 00
A S Cuaha, interpreting	33 00
I J Woodin, Coroner	25 75
J E Laird, transcribing testimony	201 50
A W Eibeshutz, mdse	60 16

HOSPITAL.

G P Doyle, medical services	40 00

Board adjourned, to meet at 1 o'clock p. m., at which hour re-assembled. Members present as before.

Board proceeded to examine and allow claims against the County on different funds as follows:

GENERAL EXPENSE.

H. Levy, boarding prisoners	$106 65
H. P. Cartier, interpreting	6 00
Mrs. F. Rhine, supplies	48 15
Thos. Hughes, conveying pris'nrs	6 00
W. A. Chalfant, printing	38 00
R. A. Clark, boarding prisoners	10 80
W. A. Chalfant, printing	23 15
D. J. Hession, postage	23 70
A. M. Given, expense	29 74
L. Wood, merchandise	16 05
Independence Water Company	13 00
R. K. Love, Justice's fees	10 00
A. Carlisle & Co., books, etc	162 80
I. H. Mulholland, adv't'g, print'g	145 10
E. Spencer, for $15, rejected

HOSPITAL.

H Levy, conveying sick	5 00
F Rhine, supplies	1 80
D J Hession	4 15
O I Mairs, team hire	16 85
O H Hill, care of sick	13 60
A W Eibeshutz, mdse	38 30
I J Woodin, Co. physician	82 75
S A Middleton, medical services	25 00
C A Walter, hospital contract	224 50
C Anthony, trans'p'tg, care of sick	10 60
J D Blair, medical services	10 50

Board adjourned, to meet Tuesday, October 4, 1898, at 9 o'clock a. m.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

TUESDAY, October 4, 1898. 9 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time, pursuant to adjournment.

Present — Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams, and A. C. Freeman, Chairman presiding.

Minutes of preceding meeting read and approved.

Claims against the County were examined and allowed on different funds as follows:

GENERAL EXPENSE.

Clay Hampton, engrossing dip	$4 25
J H Shannon, Justice's fees	3 00

HOSPITAL.

Leece & Watterson, supplies	22 00

Ordered—That Election Precincts in and for the County of Inyo be established as follows:

	NO.
Round Valley	1
Lincoln	1
Laws	3
Bishop	4
Bishop East	5
Poleta	6
Big Pine	7
Fish Springs	8
Taboose	9
Independence	10
Citrus	11
Georges Creek	12
Lone Pine	13
Cerro Gordo	14
Keeler	15
Olancha	16
Darwin	17
Modock	18
Mountain Springs	19
Ballarat	20
Panamint	21

Whereupon the Board made appointments of Election Officers to serve at the different precincts throughout the county at ensuing election, to be held on the Eighth day of November, 1898, and fixed the several polling places as follows:

Round Valley, No. 1.
Inspectors—W. H. Wells, J. G. W. Birchim
Judges—D. Olds, W. W. Vaughn.
Clerks—I. P. Smith, John E. Jones.
Ballot Clerks—J. S. McGee, C. L. Olds.
Polls to be held at School House.

Lincoln, No. 2.
Inspectors—R. Love, G. P. Bourland.
Judges—W. H. Fitzgerald, James Shaw.
Clerks—W. A. Trickey, Charles Wonacott.
Ballot Clerks—Wm. Brockman, Wm. Jenkins
Polls to be held at School House.

Laws, No. 3.
Inspectors—Barton McGee, H. G. Plumley.
Judges—Jos. McNally, P. Gunter
Clerks—Ed. Deby, Geo. Huckaby
Ballot Clerks—Ed Morton, L. H. J. Ehlen
Polls to be held at School House.

Bishop, No. 4
Inspectors—C. W. Dixon, Ed M. Clarke
Judges—W. G. McCrosky jr, James McBride
Clerks—W. W. Watterson, Chas Garretson
Ballot Clerks—A. J. Murphy, Henry Shirley
Polls to be held at Court House.

East Bishop, No. 5.
Inspectors—C. M. Dixon, W. C. Brierly
Judges—L. A. Coats, Chas. A. McKay
Clerks—H. H. Howell, Geo. Watterson
Ballot Clerks—Andrew Dell, John N. Yandell
Polls to be held at Albright's office.

Poleta, No. 6.
Inspectors—George Collins, James Hampton
Judges—George Storey, A. O. Collins
Clerks—J. A. Leidy, C. W. Geiger
Ballot Clerks—T. J. Reed, George Free
Polls to be held at George Collins' House.

Big Pine, No. 7.
Inspectors—R. W. Thomas, S. H. Spratt
Judges—S. J. McMurry, J. E. M. Connell
Clerks—G. W. Hall, W. H. Uhlmeyer
Ballot Clerks—L. Joseph, D. W. Pitman
Polls to be held at School House.

Fish Springs, No. 8.
Inspectors—J. H. Cox, Chas. Petersen
Judges—T. W. Hill, G. W. Melone
Clerks—Geo. H. Rose, C. F. Fuller
Ballot Clerks—A. W. H. Smith, Upton Tracy
Polls to be held at School House.

Taboose, No. 9.
Inspectors—Geo. D. Calvert, S. Tapman
Judges—Luke E. Smith, William Hines
Clerks—Charles Walter, Joseph G. Pell
Ballot Clerks—A. L. Conklin, M. S. Harbour
Polls to be held at School House.

Independence, No. 10.
Inspectors—A. Clark, J. S. Gorman
Judges—J. D. Blair, G. W. Brady
Clerks—J. E. Parker, George Thorpe
Ballot Clerks—Neel Bell, H. D. Gill
Polls to be held at School House.

Citrus, No. 11.
Inspectors—Jacob Pfohl, W. H. Ramsey
Judges—Joseph Vaughn, W. F. Norburn
Clerks—John A. Ramsey, Martin Church
Ballot clerks—David Vaughn, Seth A. Baker
Polls to be held at R. R. Depot.

Georges Creek, No. 12.
Inspectors—Gus McGovern, John Kispert
Judges—Thos. Hamilton, J. V. Skinner
Clerks—J. E. Shepherd, J. F. Beale
Ballot clerks—J. W. Lacey, W. H. Jenkins
Polls to be held at School House.

Lone Pine, No. 13.
Inspectors—Mark Hand, J. C. Anton
Judges—P. M. Laberge, C. Carrasco
Clerks—F. P. Meysan, R. C. Spear
Ballot clerks—Abe Diaz, O. F. Dearborn
Polls to be held at Town Hall.

Cerro Gordo, No. 14.
Inspectors—, Chris Crohn
Judges—Gregory Kelly, Manuel Romero
Clerks—M. W. Trask,
Ballot clerks—Harry Williams, Jesus Romero
Polls to be held at Crohn's Building.

Keeler, No. 15.
Inspectors—Samuel Levy, John Jenkins
Judges—Mike Anton, Nat Randall
Clerks—A. R. Schively, H. Wrinkle
Ballot clerks—C. W. Stewart, A. St. Merry
Polls to be held at School House.

Olancha, No. 16.
Inspectors—Alonzo Brown, August Walker
Judges—R. H. Williams, Horace Bellows
Clerks—W. T. Grant, Charles Whittock
Ballot clerks—Henry Dyke, Ira Brown
Polls to be held at W. H. Walker's House.

Darwin, No. 17.
Inspectors—Henry Jackson, Paul Pfefferle
Judges—J. A. McKenzie, N. S. Thompson
Clerks—James Murry, Charles Richardson
Ballot clerks—James Harry, James Wood
Polls to be held at Waterman's Store.

Modock, No. 18.
Inspectors—Arthur Smith,
Judges—James Scanborough,
Clerks—C. E. Shepherd, John Doody
Ballot clerks—John C. Cress, Wm. Monahan
Polls to be held at J. J. Gunn's Boarding House.

Mountain Springs, No. 19.
Inspectors—P. Downs,
Judges—James Prewett,
Clerks—
Ballot clerk—Theodore Wilhelt,
Polls to be held at Wolbrecht's House.

Ballarat, No. 20.
Inspectors—Frank McAlister, P. Winston
Judges—John Taylor, J. S. Stotler
Clerks—George Vollmer, C. H. Tyler
Ballot clerks—J. Casey, Chas. McLeod
Polls to be held in Weaver & Porter's Building, south of Weaver & Porter's Store.

Panamint, No. 21.
Inspectors—J. Curran, George Montgomery
Judges—J. Wall, F. Russell
Clerks—Al Williams, H. P. Dover
Ballot clerks—J. W. Trotter, J. Wingfield
Polls to be held at Anthony's Boarding House.

Ordered—That notice be given that at said General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 8th, 1898, the following County, District and Township officers are to be elected in the County of Inyo, State of California, viz.:

1—Sheriff and Tax Collector;
2—County Clerk, Auditor and Recorder;
3—County Treasurer;
4—County Assessor;
5—District Attorney;
6—Superintendent of Schools;
7—Coroner and Public Administrator;
8—County Surveyor;
9—One Supervisor, 1st District;
10—One Supervisor, 3d District;
11—One Supervisor, 5th District;
12—One Justice of the Peace, 1st Twp.;
13—One Constable, 1st Township;
14—One Justice of the Peace, 2d Twp.;
15—One Constable, 2d Township;
16—One Justice of the Peace, 3d Twp.;
17—One Constable, 3d Township.
18—One Justice of the Peace, 4th Twp.;
19—One Constable, 4th Township.
20—One Justice of the Peace, 5th Twp.;
21—One Constable, 5th Township.

Board adjourned until Oct. 5, 1898, at 9 o'clock a. m.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

LEGAL.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F. Glaser, deceased, that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, all of the interest of said deceased at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to wit: Mineral Hill, Mineral Layout, Breakaway, and Mineral Mound.

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled in the Matter of the Estate of John F. Glaser, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.

FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.

FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk. Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring Sts., Los Angeles, California.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

James R. Moffett, the Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 22d day of October, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased, either at public or private sale, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court

Dated September 17th, 1898.

P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Administrator.

SODA WATER.....

.....ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.

Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop. Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE
DEALER IN
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,
INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS.....25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING.....25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING.....$2.00 to $1.50.

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW, Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:—
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:—
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold—

A complete stock of
Miner's and Prospector's supplies.
And Patent Medicines—

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
—Consisting of—
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.
FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

HORSESHOEING

.....AND.....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,
PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT
Practical Watchmaker
and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - Cal.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
Independence, California.

JOHN D. LEWIS,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Independence, California.

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.
OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.
OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.
OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY
BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E
SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	42	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:45 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	Lv 3:50 p m
Junction		Lv 10:10 a m	Ar 3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:30 p m	12:55 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company, daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles: Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canyons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:58 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for
LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT
CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN,
SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with
CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE ITEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7..... 1898

Father Reynolds of Tehachipi is visiting town.

Mrs. S. W. Austin arrived from Bakersfield on Thursday.

Thos. Williams, the Round Valley rancher and capitalist, was in Independence yesterday.

F. C. Scott, Esq., of Bishop, is announced to address the people here on to-morrow evening, on political issues.

County Clerk Hession, taking the first respite possible from office work, will visit southeastern Inyo during the next two weeks.

The desk which has been put up to be raffled for at Rhine's during the week will be drawn for at the Pavilion to-morrow at 3 p. m.

Miss Etta Naylor has been appointep agent of the Western Union Telegraph Co at Virginia City, Nevada. We congratulate the young lady Inyoite.

Mrs. Roeper, Miss Effie Roeper, Wm. Matlack, Miss Edna Matlack, Norm Mairs and Mrs. I. H. Mulhollaad leave for Mojave next Sunday en route for Los Angeles.

Subject for the debating society next week: Resolved: That the maintenance of large standing armies should now be discontinued by the civilized nations of the world.

Hon. P. Reddy has purchased an one-half interest in the Indian Queen mine near Benton, and intends to visit it next week. He will also visit Darwin to look after his mining interests there.

The Halbert estate interest in a group of mines in Pleasant Canyon, Panamint Mountains, has been sold to a Mr. Godsmark for $7725.00, cash. The Superior Court of San Diego County haa approved the sale.

The executive committee of the Athletic Club have passed the following rules: Saturday and Wednesday afternoons the ladies have the use of the gymnasium. Wednesday and Saturday forenoons have been set aside for children under fifteen. Boys initiation fee $1, dues 25 cents a month.

Some twenty extemporaneous contestants participated in the debate at the Church last Thursday evening, and the question as to whether Uncle Sam should annex Aguinaldo was everlastingly decided in the affirmative. The meeting was the start of an organization which ought to be of great benefit to our young folk during the coming Winter.

On Saturday evening last the Athletic Club perfected its organization—now comprising 20 active members—by the adoption of constitution and by-laws and election of officers for the term of one year: Dr. G. Doyle, President: John G McLean, Vice President; Geo. F. Willis, Secretary and Treasurer; G. P. Doyle, J. C. Hodge, J. E. Eibeshutz and J. E. Laird, Executive Committee.

The Democratic Joint Convention of the 60th Assemby Distric, comprising Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties, met at Bishop on the 4th instant and formally nominated P. H. Mack, Esq By a duly auth rized Conference Committee or Convention the Republicans have placed Finlay McIver as their candidate. The succession of the Assembyship was conceded to this county generally, and all the preliminary political and official red-tape business having been completed the race is fairly on.

From the Fair Directors.

BIG PINE, Cal, Oct. 4, 1898.

Mrs. I. H. Mulholland, Independence—You are hereby informed that at a meeting Board of Directors the following resolution was unanimously adopted, and Secretary instructed to request its publication in next issue of the INYO INDEPENDENT:

Resolved, By the Board of Directors of the Eighteenth Agricultural District, that they tender to the proprietor of the INYO INDEPENDENT sincere thanks for gratuitous advertising of Eleventh Annual Fair of said District, and more particularly for kindly mention of the management of said Fair; and that the Secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution for publication in the INYO INDEPENDENT.

R. W. THOMAS, President.
E. SPENCER, Secretary.

Methodist Church.

The services for Sunday, October 9th, are as follows:

Sunday-school will meet as usual at 2 in the afternoon. Regular preaching at 7 in the evening; subject of discourse, "Decision and Perseverance."

Services at Lone Pine and Georges Creek at the usual hours.

An invitation is extended to all to meet with us

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

A Social Dance

Will be given by the Athletic Club at the Pavilion to-morrow night. Refreshments will be served by the honorary lady members, and a pleasant time is assured.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE. Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending October 6 1898:

Highest barometer	30.075	5th
Lowest "	29.671	1st
Highest temperature	82.0	Sept. 30th
Lowest "	36	Oct. 2
Mean "	54.7
Average dew point	18.5
Average humidity	27.2
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	52	NW Oct. 1
No. clear days	7
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	00

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

The Wind Up.

BIG PINE, Oct. 5.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—The hamlet has drawn its sigh of relief from the onerous burden of the late Fair of the Eighteenth Agricultural District.

Considering the limited time in which we had to prepare for such an occasion we think, taking into consideration the inexperience of the resident Directors, we may assert—with a light drab blush for our modesty—that the same was fairly successful. I am authorized to state that the Fair was financially fairly successful, and it is expected that within a few days a statement of receipts and disbursements can be furnished for the press.

It is seldom that a crowd of the magnitude in evidence at Big Pine during the late Fair convenes and disperses with so few evidences of misconduct, and the late meeting is a standing compliment to the sobriety of the people of this part of the Eighteenth Agricultural District.

It is seldom that the emoluments and favors accruing to the fair town were so equally distributed, and occasion less kicks and splits on the part of the recipients.

The contractor of the building has made rapid progress in the completion of the new school house. On Monday last Walter J. Hanby opened school with an enrollment of 24, and yesterday Miss Meysan opened the primary department with an attendance of 35.

The Big Pine Surplus Water Storage Company will next week commence work in the canyon below the mountain lakes and expect before snow flies to have trails in shape for vigorous prosecution of the work in June, '99.

The corn crop in this section is nearly matured, and will be up to the average for the county. There are a few excellent crops of Irish potatoes,

SWAMPER.

BORN.

STROHMIER—At Georges Creek, Oct. 3, 1898, to Mr and Mrs. Fritz Strohmier, a daughter.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

MISCELLANEOUS.

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER
BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb by wholesale.

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT, STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me

je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND

U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Publi patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP HOTEL.

Nearly opposite Hughes' Stables. Bishop.

Completely Renovated, Refurnished

A STRICTLY TEMPERANCE HOUSE.

—o—x—o—

EUROPEAN PLAN.

OR WILL FURNISH

Regular meals for	25 cents
Board and Room, per day	$1 and $1.50
Board, per week	$5.00
Board, per month	$20.00

—o—x—o—

Nine New Rooms Have been Added

—o—x—o—

These rooms have perfect ventilation, high ceilings and are handsomely furnished. Apartments can be had single or en suite.

J. L. BOURLAND, Manager.

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE——

TAILOR

——SATISFACTION GUARANTEED——

☞ Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

OFFICIAL.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1898.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty-second session beginning on the Fourth day of January, A. D. 1897, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following described amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7. A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898.

The said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes ——— No

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of California, the day and year herein first above written.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
[SEAL.] Secretary of State.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wrinkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, Californiaa, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES and HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L. No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72¼ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L N o 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 52 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound M. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.2½ acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE, "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of ocation. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C. No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the no theast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L No. 6 and K. M. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88½ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88½ degrees west 16.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant, and stake H No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88½ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 28½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1¼ degree west .765 links; thence on a true course north 1¼ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88½ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88½ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K No. 1 the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88½ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K No. 2 bears north 88½ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1¼ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1¼ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line, from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1¼ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8.63 chains to stace K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88½ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 88½ degrees east 14.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1¼ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations, at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east, M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1895, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.
J. M Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, efendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The fracl N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all fracl Section 5, Township 17 south, and fracl S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $188.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
P

THE BIGGEST BICYCLE IN THE WORLD.

A German has just completed a bicycle that has one wheel nine feet in diameter. Two people ride it—one on each side of the monster wheel. It runs as easily as a smaller bicycle because of its scientific construction. The scientific formula of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the reason of its great virtues in making the weak strong, and in curing most of the every-day ailments of men and women. If your health is poor, try a bottle.

Judge—"You robbed your benefactor in a most shameful way. Do you feel no compunctions of conscience?" Prisoner—"Before answering, sir, I would like to consult my counsel."

TRY ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. At this season your feet feel swollen, nervous and hot, and get tired easily. If you have smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It cools the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Ten thousand testimonials of cures. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

The Retreat—"I see," said the elderly boarder, "that the paper says the foe retreated doggedly. I wonder what sort of retreat that was?" "Presumably," said the Cheerful Idiot, "they took to their barks."

Send for Free Circular showing how to get BIG DISCOUNTS on Prices of any San Francisco or Pacific Coast Cash Store or Supply Company. We are reliable, been in business in San Francisco thirty years, and can save you money on everything you buy. Address GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS, 218 California Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

I believe Piso's Cure is the only medicin that will cure consumption.—Anna Me Ross, Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 12, '95.

Eat in Haste

And suffer at leisure. When your abused stomach can no longer cheerfully and properly perform its duties, a few doses of Hood's Sarsaparilla are like fresh water to a withered plant. This medicine tones the stomach, restores digestive strength, creates an appetite and with a little care in diet, the patient is soon again in perfect health. Try it and you'll believe in it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine.

Hood's Pills cure constipation. 25 cents.

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.
SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE.
Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by
Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right Keep it Right
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Sewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once.
DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

CUTLERS CARBOLATE OF IODINE.
Guaranteed cure for Catarrh and Consumption. All Druggists, $1.00.
W. H. SMITH, BUFFALO, N. Y., Sole Proprietors.

THREE QUEER CITIES.

Each One Is Built on Islands Connected by Many Bridges.

The city of Ghent, in Belgium, is built on 26 islands. These islands are connected with each other by 80 bridges. The city has 300 streets and 30 public squares. It is noted for being the birthplace of Charles V and of John of Gaunt, whom Shakespeare called "time honored Lancaster," and as the scene of the pacification of Ghent Nov. 8, 1576, and of several insurrections, sieges and executions of well known personages. It is associated with American history by the treaty made there Dec. 24, 1814, terminating the second war between England and the United States, known as the war of 1812.

Amsterdam, in Holland, is built on piles driven far below the water into the earth. The city is intersected by many canals, which are spanned by nearly 300 bridges, and resembles Venice in the mingling of land and water, though it is considerably larger than that city. The canals divide the city, which is about ten miles in circumference, into 90 islands.

The city of Venice is built on 80 islets, which are connected by nearly 400 bridges. Canals serve for streets in Venice, and boats, called gondolas, for carriages. The bridges are, as a rule, very steep, rising considerably in the middle, but have easy steps. The circumference of the city is about eight miles. The Venetians joined the Lombard League against the German emperor, and, in 1177, gained a great victory in defense of Pope Alexander III, over the fleet of war vessels headed by Otto, son of Frederic Barbarossa. In gratitude for this victory the pope gave the Doge Ziani a ring, and instituted the world famous ceremony of "Venice Marrying the Adriatic Sea." In this ceremony the doge, as the chief ruler of Venice used to be termed, with appropriate ceremonies dropped a ring into the sea every year in recognition of the wealth and trade carried to Venice by the Adriatic.

THE DUNKERS' LOVE FEAST.

Feet Washing, the Great Supper and the Kiss of Peace.

"The most important and the most beautiful custom of the Dunkers is their love feast, which they celebrate in commemoration of the Lord's supper, after the manner of the primitive Christians," writes Clifford Howard in describing the customs of the Dunkers of Ephrata, Lancaster county, Pa., in The Ladies' Home Journal.

"The celebration is held at nightfall and begins with the rite of feet washing, in imitation of the act performed by the Master at the last supper, when he washed the feet of his disciples. Small tubs of lukewarm water are brought in, and those about to receive the ordinance remove their shoes and stockings. The brothers then in turn, each one girding himself with a towel, wash and dry one another's feet, the sisters at the same time doing likewise among themselves in their part of the room.

"After this follows the supper, the feast of love, which is spread on long tables and consists of lamb soup and bread and other simple viands. It is eaten in devout solemnity and reverence. At the close of the meal the brothers turn to one another and extend the right hand of fellowship and the kiss of peace, each one shaking hands with his neighbor and kissing him, while the sisters at their tables perform the same beautiful rite among themselves. The communion is then administered."

Owls In Chicago.

Chicago has a novel trade in owls, the supply coming to the commission merchants from the farmers' boys in the nearby states.

The first owl which came to Chicago in this manner was sent as a venture by a farmer boy, who had somehow managed to entrap it alive. It proved so unexpectedly successful in ridding the warehouse of rats and mice—having been freed at night with the idea of making an experiment in this direction—that it was purchased by the man in whose care it was resting. The freedom from rodents which it brought induced other commission men to look out for owls, and from the commission firms the idea gradually spread to the grocers, butchers and market keepers generally of the city. Now a large percentage of these men keep an owl down in the cellar during the daylight and bring it up to the store when darkness falls. It is said that the expense and care of maintaining owls are more than repaid by their services in vanquishing the rats and mice. The owners and janitors of the large apartment houses in the city are also beginning to realize the value of possessing an owl when rats, mice, cockroaches and vermin generally are to be exterminated.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Picking Pockets With Toes.

The gauchos, or dwellers in the extensive plains of Buenos Ayres, are marvelously dexterous with both hands and feet. Many of them have acquired through long practice such skill in using their toes as if they were fingers that they can fling the lasso and even pick pockets with them. Some time ago a Frenchman who was fishing in one of the rivers of Buenos Ayres was warned to be on his guard against the light fingered natives. He forthwith kept a vigilant watch on his companions, but nevertheless one day, when his attention was closely riveted on his float, a wily gaucho drew near, and, delicately inserting his foot, extracted the Frenchman's hooks and other valuables from his pocket.—Boston Transcript.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Satisfactory.

Her Father—Young man, I fear you are making a mistake. My daughter will not get a cent from me until after my death.

Her Suitor—Oh, that doesn't worry me in the least. I have saved enough to keep us for a couple of years.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

He Was No Fisherman.

Bobber—It's too bad that George Washington never knew the serene contentment that can come only to the man who manipulates rod and line.

Angleson—How do you know he never did?

Bobber—He never told a lie.

He Had Proof.

Her father—No, I can't consent to let you have my daughter.

Suitor—May I ask why? Is it anything you have against me personally?

Her father—No, I like you all right, as far as that's concerned, but you don't really love each other.

Suitor—I assure you——

Her father—No, I'm not mistaken. My gas bills have been nearly twice as high during the past three months as they were while she was engaged to young Worthey.

Faithless Tommy Atkins.

Sarah—Just fancy the corporal a-giv'in' up Mary for that old cook; she's old enough to be 'is mother.

Tommy—Yes, my dear, but look at the wages! Why, Mary didn't earn enough to keep 'im in smokes!—Ally Sloper.

Lacked Originality.

He—And am I really and truly the first man you ever kissed?

She—Why, of course, you are, stupid.

He—Stupid! Why do you call me that?

She—Because you are not original. At least a dozen men have asked me the very same question.

A Matter of Words.

"What a pushing fellow that young Migley is! Six years ago he was a waiter in a cheap restaurant. To-day he has a government job that pays him $7,000 a year."

"Pushing, did you say? You've got the wrong word. Pulling is what you mean."

Rising to an Occasion.

Mrs. Younglove—John, do you know that you haven't kissed me for a week?

Mr. Younglove—Yes, darling. I was just waiting to see how long it would take you to notice it.

John, it will be observed, had his presence of mind with him.—Cleveland Leader.

He Was Too Hasty.

"Why is it," he asked, "that beautiful women are always the most stupid?"

"Sir," she replied, "am I to understand that you desire to cast reflections upon my mental capacity?"

"Oh, no," he hurriedly returned; "I have always said that you were one of the brightest girls I ever——"

But he didn't finish. Before he could do so he realized that he had said the wrong thing and could never make it right.

As to His Health.

"You may as well understand, young man," said the old gentleman, "that my daughter will not get a cent until after my death."

"Oh, that's all right," replied the young man cheerfully. "I have already consulted your family physician."

A Sure Sign.

Smith—Brown is evidently financially embarrassed.

Jones—Why do you think so?

Smith—He is beginning to live extravagantly and dresses better than formerly.

Thoughtful.

"No, dearest, it would not be at all right to take dollies to church."

"But, mamma, dear, it would not matter if I only took the one who shuts her eyes, would it?"—New York News.

The Fall in Temperature.

"Ah!" he cried, "yesterday you welcomed me warmly. To-day you receive me coldly. What is the cause of this sudden change?"

"Don't you read the papers?" she calmly replied. "My father has just inherited a cool million."

They Can't Help It.

The Spaniards have made one declaration regarding the war that they are going to fulfill."

"What's that?"

"They have said all along that they would fight to the bitter end, and it's bound to be that way now, no matter when it comes."

So They Say.

"I have read somewhere that Admiral Cervera and his men hadn't any clothes on to speak of when they surrendered."

"Yes; that's so. In addition to knocking the spots off them, Schley's men scared them out of their breeches."

By Proxy.

"Marmaduke! Marmaduke! what are you doing?"

"Away, frail woman! I am going to shoot myself!"—Ally Sloper.

Concrete Meanness.

Mr. Spinkum—Ah, this reminds me of the pie my dear mother used to make.

Mrs. Spinkum—Oh, Alfred, you don't know how glad I am to hear you say that!

Mr. Spinkum—It's so different, you know, dear.

Plenty of Ability.

Anxious mother—How is it that you have so much trouble with your housekeeping? You told me your wife could cook.

Adult son—She can.

"Then what is the matter?"

"She won't."—New York Weekly.

And There Are Others.

Jack—Supposing I were to place my arm around your waist and steal a kiss, would you be very angry?

Maud—Indeed I would—that is, if it went no farther than a case of supposition.

Must Be a President.

"Do you know when old Gotrox first came here he was too poor to buy a ticket and had to walk."

"Yes, and now he's too rich to buy a ticket and has to ride on a pass."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Running a Risk.

Fuddy—Kwiverful, they say, is married again. This is his fourth wife.

Duddy—Kwiverful'd better be careful. He'll get caught some day.

Fuddy—Get caught?

Duddy—Yes; he'll marry a woman who will live.—Boston Transcript.

Making Use of Them.

Bookkeeper—Here's another bill from your tailor, sir.

De Broke—Ah, yes. Save them until you have a hundred, and I'll have them bound.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Distance Lends Safety.

Farmer Scroggs—It's too bad thet ther is war in Cuby.

Farmer Hayrick—Gewhilliker! Would yew want it here?

Farmer Scroggs—Wal, if it wuz here we'd be able to ketch them sojer fellers in some uv ther whoppers they'll tell when ther war's over.—New York Evening Journal.

An Unterrified Lovely Girl.

A lovely girl was caught by her aunt while indulging in a surreptitious cigarette.

"My dear," said the horrified aunt, "do you know that every time you smoke one of those beastly things you drive a nail in your coffin?"

"No, auntie, dear," said the lovely girl, "you are wrong. A woman can't drive a nail."—What to Eat.

The Patriotic Retort.

Herbert—I say, old man, don't you remember that you borrowed $20 from me several months ago?

Samsby—Forget that, my boy. Remember the Maine!—Philadelphia North American.

Willing to Compromise.

Quick Drop Dan—Sorry, ma'am, but the boys has lynched yer husband by mistake. However, they're all willing ter do the fair thing by you.

Widow—Well, one of them will have to marry me.

Quick Drop Dan (after a pause)—Say! S'posin' we lynches one 'nd calls it squar.—New York Evening Journal.

Russia's Military Strength.

Following the visit of their president to Russia the French papers have been instructing their readers on the forces possessed by that country. The Army and Navy Gazette of London extracts from one of the most widely read of these some interesting particulars. The Russian army, founded by a ukase of 1870 on universal liability to service, can draw upon annual recruiting lists of something like 750,000 in Europe and 140,000 in Asia, but in time of peace many cases of exemption are admitted, and only about a quarter of the above numbers, or some 220,000 in all, are called out. The liability is for twenty years' service, commencing at the age of 21. Of this period five years have to be passed with the colors, but this may be reduced to four for men of better education than the average, and even to three and two for young men joining direct from the secondary and superior schools.

How a man whose collar wilts in fifteen minutes, hates a man who always looks cool!

Cigarettes get blamed for lots of ills that are due to love affairs.

"I MIND THE DAY."

I mind the day I'd wish I was a say gull flyin far,
For then I'd fly and find you in the west,
And I'd wish I was a little rose as sweet as roses are,
For then you'd maybe wear it on your breast,
Achray!
You'd maybe take and wear it on your breast.

I'd wish I could be livin near, to love you day and night,
To let no throuble touch you or annoy.
I'd wish I could be dyin here, to rise a spirit light,
So them above 'ud let me bring you joy,
Mavrone!
If them above 'ud let me win you joy.

And now I wish no wishes, nor ever fall a tear,
Nor take a thought beyant the way I'm led,
I mind the day that's overhye and bless the day that's here,
There be to come a day when we'll be dead,
Achray!
A longer, lighter day when we'll be dead.
—Moira O'Neill in Blackwood's Magazine.

Water at Last.

In McClure's Magazine there is an interesting account of Dr. Sven Hedin, a young Swedish traveler, who has been doing some remarkable work in Asia, in an attempt to cross the hitherto unexplored Takla-Makan desert. His party entered the desert April 10, 1895. The water gave out, the camels died, and one by one all the servants succumbed.

"I went on alone," says Dr. Hedin. "The forest was very dense and the night black. I had eaten almost nothing for ten days; I had drunk nothing for five. I crossed the forest crawling on all fours, tottering from tree to tree. I carried the haft of the spade as a crutch. At last I came to an open space. The forest ended like a devastated plain. This was a river bed. It was quite dry. There was not a drop of water.

"I went on. I meant to live. I would find water. I was very weak, but I crawled on all fours and at last I crossed the river bed. It was three kilometers wide. Then, as I reached the right bank of the river, I heard the sound of a duck lifting and the noise of splashing water. I crawled in that direction and found a large pool of clear, fresh water.

"I thanked God first, and then I felt my pulse. I wanted to see the effect that drinking would have on it. It was at 48.

"Then I drank. I drank fearfully. I drank and drank and drank. It was a lovely feeling. I felt my blood liquefying. It began to run in my veins; my pores opened. My pulse went up at once to 53. I felt quite fresh and living."

Undaunted by his first terrible experience, Dr. Hedin crossed the desert again from south to north, and was rewarded by the discovery of a "very old town."

The Wrong Leg.

There is an enterprising Liverpool tailor who has never been known to acknowledge that he didn't have anything a possible customer might ask for.

One day a customer entered the shop and asked if he had any trousers made especially for one legged men.

"Certainly," replied the merchant. "What kind do you want?"

"Dress trousers," said the man. "The best you've got."

Hurrying into the rear of the store, the enterprising merchant snatched up a pair of trousers and snipped off the right leg with a pair of scissors. Hastily turning under the edges, he presented them to the customer.

"That's the kind I want. What's the price?"

"One guinea."

"Well, give me a pair with the left leg off."

A month later the merchant was pronounced convalescent and on the high road to recovery.—Pearson's Weekly.

To Examine the Eye.

If anything gets into your eye, don't rub it. Good advice, but a little difficult to follow, for one instinctively rubs the eye under these circumstances. Nevertheless, don't do so. Get some one to turn the upper eyelid gently over a thin penholder, so that he may see the ball of the eye thoroughly. If lime gets into the eye and if you see the substance at once, wash out the eye with vinegar to two parts of water. If, however, you don't see the particle immediately, simply put sweet oil or olive oil into the eye and send for the doctor.—New York Ledger.

Dead and Dyed.

"I noticed that Miss Sere's curls are of two colors—brown and gray."

"You remember that her father is a safe manufacturer?"

"What has that to do with it?"

"Her curls are combination locks."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NO WOMAN IS EXEMPT.

Regularity is a matter of importance in every woman's life. Much pain is, however, endured in the belief that it is necessary and not alarming, when in truth it is all wrong and indicates derangement that may cause serious trouble.

Excessive monthly pain itself will unsettle the nerves and make women old before their time.

The foundation of woman's health is a perfectly normal and regular performance of nature's function. The statement we print from Miss GERTRUDE SIKES, of Eldred, Pa., is echoed in every city, town and hamlet in this country. Read what she says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel like a new person since following your advice, and think it is my duty to let the public know the good your remedies have done me. My troubles were painful menstruation and leucorrhœa. I was nervous and had spells of being confused. Before using your remedies I never had any faith in patent medicines. I now wish to say that I never had anything do me so much good for painful menstruation as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; also would say that your Sanative Wash has cured me of leucorrhœa. I hope these few words may help suffering women."

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometime past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.

All suffering women are invited to write freely to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice about their health.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

Lucky Mr. Walter!

David Walter, a farmer living near Lititz, was the victim of a unique surprise the other day. It was the thirty-eighth anniversary of his birth, and Mrs. Walter invited about 50 friends and relatives to participate in a celebration of the event. Shortly before dinner a handsome carriage was presented to Mr. Walter. Under his plate at the table was a fine gold watch. Leaving the table, Mr. Walter was invited to the yard and a herd of ten Holstein cows was driven up and presented to him. This was followed by the appearance of two young ladies dressed in pink, who carried a tray on which were piled gold and silver to the amount of $3,000. This, too, was presented to the happy man.

Everything was the gift of Mr. Walter's wife, who by industry and frugality in their 15 years of married life had saved the money without the knowledge of her husband.—Philadelphia Times.

Spain's Popular Beverage.

"Horchata de chufa," is the singular name of the most popular drink in Madrid. This is made from a nut called "chufa," yielding a milky liquid when reduced to a pulp. This is diluted with water, and forms a most cooling and refreshing drink. However, it is an acquired taste. Very few like it at the first trial. The horchata may be made from different kinds of nuts. The almond is used also.

Strange to relate, the horchata de chufa is always sold where matting is kept for sale, so that when you spy a roll of the latter outside the store door, it is a sufficient indication that in that particular place you may procure a glass of the horchata. In spite of inquiries, I was unable to discover the origin of the singular combination of articles on sale.—Truth.

Why Sigsbee Turned Scuttler.

On another occasion Captain Sigsbee deliberately sank his ship to save her from a still worse fate. He was in command of the coast survey steamer Blake and was anchored in a West Indian port when a hurricane came up, and in the heavy sea the ship's anchors began to drag. She was drifting to utter and inevitable destruction on a reef. Where she lay there was a soft, sandy bottom. The captain ordered her scuttled, and down she went. Later she was pumped out and raised—an expensive operation, but far less costly than building a new ship.—Munsey's Magazine.

Papa's First.

"Talk about bright babies!" exclaimed the proud father. "Talk about children who are going to be big men some day!"

"But isn't it rather early to prophesy? He can't talk yet."

"Can't talk! Just listen to him! Of course he doesn't say anything, but that's the beauty of it. He's a natural born filibuster!"—Washington Star.

"A Perfect Type of the Highest Order of Excellence in Manufacture."

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa

Absolutely Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

..Costs Less Than ONE CENT a Cup..

Be sure that you get the Genuine Article, made at DORCHESTER, MASS. by

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.

ESTABLISHED 1780.

BUY THE GENUINE SYRUP OF FIGS
... MANUFACTURED BY ...
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
IF NOTE THE NAME.

Gained Forty-eight Pounds.

"I had a strong appetite for liquor which was the beginning of the breaking down of my health. I was also a slave to tea and coffee drinking. I took the gold cure, but it did not help me."

This is a portion of an interview clipped from the Daily Herald, of Clinton, Iowa. It might well be taken for the subject of a temperance lecture, but that is not our object in publishing it. It is to show how a system, run down by drink and disease, may be restored. We cannot do better than quote further from the same:

"For years I was unable to do my work. I could not sleep nights or rest days on account of continuous pains in my stomach and back. I was unable to digest my food. Headaches and painful urination were frequent, and my heart's action became increased. I left my farm and retired to city life, for I was a confirmed invalid, and the doctors said I would never be well again.

I Retired to City Life.

"Soon after I happened to use four boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and since then I have been free from all pain, headache and dyspepsia. I eat heartily and have no appetite for strong drink or tea or coffee, and feel twenty years younger.

"My weight has increased 48 pounds. I cannot say too much for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and claim that they have cured me. John B. Cook."

Subscribed and sworn to before me this sixteenth day of February, 1897.

A. P. Barker, Notary Public.

To people run down in health from whatever cause—drink or disease—the above interview will be of interest. The truth of it is undoubted, as the statement is sworn to, and we reproduce the oath here. For any further facts concerning this medicine write to Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The name and address of the subject of above interview is John B. Cook, of 208 South 5th Street, Lyon, Iowa.

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO.

S. F. N. U. No. 846. New Series No. 37.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

You might as well be safe in your tea-drinking, and enjoy it more besides.

Try Schilling's Best—your money back if you don't like it.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 18. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 14, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1489

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	120
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

BALLADE OF HYPERBOLE.

When the Past is bright with its golden glow,
And your heart is full of the days of old,
Of the doughty deeds of the long ago,
And you thrill with awe as the tale is told;
Then knights in search of the dragon strolled
And the monster slew with a single blow;
Then maids were blessed with defenders bold—
But remember this never was really so.

There's the Princess fair, whom so well you know
(The one in the tales by romancers told),
With the cheek of rose and the neck of snow
And the sapphire eyes and the hair of gold,
Who was Beauty's self set in Virtue's mold,
E'er true to her Prince while every beau
For her smile would sue till his heart grew cold—
Oh, remember she never was really so!

When you hear Love's word spoken soft and low,
And the blood in waves to your cheek is rolled,
While your heart beats glad with no thought of "no,"
And you're filled with joy almost uncontrolled;
When you hear your beauty and grace extolled
With a warmth that Love can alone bestow,
When of days to come a fair tale is told—
Just remember it never is wholly so.

L'ENVOI.

Princess, your fancies of life enfold
A place, no doubt, for a dream chateau,
But beware that you are not o'er-cajoled,
And remember how little is really so.
—Life.

LIEUTENANT CLOVER.

THE Colonel seemed much disturbed. He walked to the window and gazed out at the empty parade. He walked to his desk, and Adjt. Caldwell Clover, who was signing orders, glanced out of the corner of his eye and saw that the colonel was pulling his mustache.

Then the colonel sat down and said rather sharply, "Are you busy, Clover?"

It was not customary for the colonel to address the officers by their names in this way. He was supposed to address Adjt. Clover as lieutenant, and to say that the young man was surprised would be placing it mildly. Of course he didn't object. In fact, it pleased him to have the colonel speak to him familiarly, only it was so unexpected.

"I am not busy, colonel," said the adjutant.

"How old do you think I am, Clover?" asked the colonel.

"Why, I don't know, colonel," stammered the adjutant, "not any older than—than you ought to be."

The colonel was slicing a sheet of paper with the paper knife. "I want you to do something for me, Clover. I have come to depend on you so entirely for everything that I am going to put this personal matter in your hands. I want you to write a proposal of marriage to a young lady for me."

The colonel was much embarrassed. His face was red under the tan.

"A proposal of marriage!" echoed the adjutant.

"Yes. If any one had told me I was afraid of a woman, I would have laughed at him. I tried to speak to her about it last night at the hop, and when she looked at me with those steady brown eyes of hers I couldn't say a word."

"Then it's Miss Lacey?" said the adjutant.

"It is Miss Lacey."

"Very well, colonel." Adjutant Clover received the order just as he would have received an order to appoint a substitute captain for the recruits or any trivial thing of that sort, and he turned to his desk as the colonel went out.

There are those who think an adjutant has nothing else to do save listen to thirty-seven bugle calls a day and look his best from reveille to taps. It is a mistake. He has a thousand and one things to do. He oversees guard mount. He selects the colonel's orderly. He writes letters and signs papers, and now Adjutant Caldwell Clover of Troop X is asked to write a proposal for his colonel to Agnes Lacey.

When Captain Lester went east and returned with a golden-haired young wife, Lieutenant Clover danced with the bride at the reception given them.

"I am sure I shall not be lonely here," she said to him. "I find it all so new and interesting, and then in the summer my sister is coming to me." They were promenading then, and she looked up at the six feet of handsome manhood beside her, and said: "You will like my sister. She is not at all like me. She is almost as tall as you are and independent and brave." And from that night Lieutenant Clover looked forward to the coming of Captain Lester's fair sister-in-law.

Alice Lacey reached the post in July. Mrs. Letser had been watching for the coach, and when it appeared on the brow of the hill Lieut. Clover handed her a pair of fieldglasses, and when at last the rumble of the wheels was heard they walked across the parade, and it was Lieutenant Clover's hand that opened the stage door and then reached up to help the girl alight.

When he took off his cap to her and then escorted herself and sister to the captain's quarters, Agnes Lacey felt that all her sister had written about the courteous young officers of the post must be true.

The summer was a quiet one at the post. There were a few dances; some rides over the prairie, a picnic or two, and long, quiet hours on the verandas, and then one day there came news of Captain Lester's transfer to another post. It was on the day before the one set for his departure that the colonel gave his adjutant his peculiar order.

When the colonel had gone, Lieutenant Clover leaned back in his chair and clasped his hands behind his head. He was to propose to Agnes Lacey for the colonel. He thought over all the hours he spent with Agnes, and his face grew tender and his lips quivered a little as he remembered that to-morrow she was going away, then he said to himself: "What's the use of my feeling like a dog in the manger? She wouldn't marry me. She'll never think of me again after she leaves here." He took up his pen, then hesitated as he dipped it in the ink. "My, but it will be lonesome when she is gone." Then he went on writing, and when the letter was finished he forgot and signed his own name instead of the colonel's, and then laughed as he saw his mistake. He had to write the letter all over again then. This time he signed the colonel's name and called the orderly and sent him to Miss Lacey with the letter. And when it was done he walked up and down the room, and all that evening he felt like a caged lion. What would her answer be? Had the colonel received it? Once or twice he took up his cap to walk down past the captain's quarters, then he threw it down again. Of course she would accept. Yes, but, after all, would she?

The stage left in the early morning. Lieutenant Clover noted the stir of departure about the captain's quarters. Then he saw the captain and Mrs. Lester appear, and he ran out to speak to them. He half expected to find the colonel with them, but he was not here. A flush dashed up to his face. Had she really refused the offer? If so, why? There was no time for explanations. She came out ready for her journey. She gave him her hand, and her eyes looked level into his.

"I shall never forget how much you did to make my stay pleasant," she said. "I hope I shall meet you again, Lieutenant Clover."

The driver's whip circled out over the heads of the forward mules, she waved her hand to him, and Lieutenant Clover was standing alone with an aching heart with nothing in the world to do but listen to thirty-seven bugle calls a day and follow the dreary routine of an adjutant's life.

Then there came a time when the country called for troops. "Boots and Saddles" quickly followed, and Troop X started for the South.

Army headquarters at Tampa was thronged with officers. Orderlies were speeding everywhere. Spurs jingled across the floors, and the few army wives who followed their husbands walked up and down the rose trellis paths in the evening and talked of what the morrow might bring. Lieutenant Caldwell Clover was still adjutant to the colonel. A telegram was handed the latter. The colonel frowned, pulled his mustache, then said: "Lieutenant, I have a telegram from a friend now at Chickamauga. His sister arrives at this hotel to-night to join the Red Cross forces at Key West. Please meet her and see that she gets her train for Port Tampa in the morning.

The lieutenant saluted. When the Pullman car backed into the spacious hotel ground that night, a few officers, a newspaper man or two and one woman alighted. As she stepped forward the waiting adjutant was startled at first, then hurried toward her.

"Miss Lacey! You here?"

"Ah, Lieutenant Clover! How glad I am to see you again! It is good to see a face one knows. I felt rather lonely, for there wasn't another woman on the car all day."

"I was to look out for a nurse," said the lieutenant, glancing around, "but it seems she didn't come."

The girl stepped into the broader light. "Oh, then you didn't know," she said and pointed to her sleeve. An insignia honored the world over was sewed there—the Red Cross.

"Is it possible?" It seemed to him that nothing but interjections came into his mouth. "You are really going to the front?"

"Going to the front," she repeated, with a smile in his face. "I shall probably meet you there." She said it as though it would be a pleasure. They were crossing the wide veranda. Vladimir Purishoff's orchestra was playing "The Serenade." "You will come for me by and by and bring me to hear the music," she said. "It will seem like old times when we danced to the music of the regimental band."

"Were you lonely after I left the post?" she asked. No one but a woman could have asked such a question.

"I never before knew what loneliness was," he said. "I wonder if you would forgive me if I told you just how lonely I was—but, no." For a moment he thought only of his love for her. Then he remembered that she had refused the flower of the army—that she had a mission in life.

"Tell me," she said softly.

A man may spend the best of his life in the dreary confines of an army post two days' journey from a railway station. He may listen to thirty-seven bugle calls a day and attend to an adjutant's thousand and one duties for years, but the blossoms of his heart may remain eternally fresh and fragrant.

There were tears in the girl's eyes when he finished his story. "I am glad," she said as she put her hand in his. "I thought you would tell me before I left the post. I should have stayed."

"And now, Agnes—now?"

"After the war," she said.

So you, who pray for the safety of those who go into battle and for blessings upon those who wear the Red Cross, remember these two—country first, self after, and then, with his will, long life and happiness.—Buffalo News.

A Model of Her Kind.

"Miss Doodle ought to be a pattern society woman."

"Why? How so?"

"Because she has been cut out by all the best people."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

FAMOUS NAVAL BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

GREAT NAVAL BATTLES OF HISTORY

IMAGINE a fleet of 5,000 war vessels armed with more than 2,000 new style guns, some weighing 100 tons, and actually manned by 500,000 men, with as many reserves, and you have the naval force of the world marshaled in one grand body. Salamis and Manila are the naval antipodes of history. Salamis was the first great recorded battle. It drove the Persians from Greek soil. From crude galley ships, propelled by oars, naval progress has advanced to a stage which almost reaches the limit of terrible destruction. One battleship like the Oregon could have destroyed the Spanish armada and its English foe. There are guns on the Oregon which consume 1,000 pounds of gunpowder in a single discharge, while the most formidable guns in the armada service consumed four and a half pounds to the charge.

Although ironclads were used to some extent in the civil war, in the Chinese-Japanese war, in minor engagements between the Peruvian and Chilian fleets and the Russo-Turkish war in 1877, the Spanish-American fight in the Philippines and at Santiago, marks the first conflict between ironclads in which the great sea monsters of modern warfare received a fair test.

In naval warfare it is the same as in land warfare. The whole history of the art has been divided into tactical periods ushered in more or less directly by some great tactical discovery. Such discoveries have consisted not only of new arrangements and maneuvers, but of improved weapons as well—improved defensive armor or improved motive power. When the Tyrrhenian Pessaesus added a sharp beak to the prow of the ancient galley he introduced a feature of greater tactical import than the oft-quoted invention of iron ramrods of the Dessaure or of the needle-gun by Mr. Dreyse. As the Pyrric phalanx succumbed to the more open array the lighter weapons of the Roman legion and the Swiss heresson to the short swords of closed fighting of Gonsaloo's infantry, so the old line of battle was pierced and broken by the new tactics, which Paul Hoste, the Jesuit, the clerk of Eldin and Rodney and Nelson put into practice.

In the battle of Artemesium, about 500 B. C., an engagement which was of more political than military importance, which the Theban poet celebrated as the "place where the sons of Athens laid the shining groundwork of freedom," the Greeks adopted a very remarkable order of battle. Their fleet was inferior to that of the Persians, which was large enough to literally surround them. The Greeks, appreciating the fatality of adopting the old formation, formed their fleet in a circle, with their prows facing the surrounding enemy, and then darted forth to break the shipmade wall. As a result the Persians lost thirty vessels. The Greeks were nominally defeated, although the net result was in their favor. This was perhaps the first great naval battle of which we have any knowledge, although the battle of Salamis is usually credited as the first great recorded sea fight.

Ramming as a method of aggressive naval warfare is almost as old as naval history, and has not yet been abandoned, although the improvements in shipbuilding have rendered it less effective. The invention of gunpowder found a slow response in the methods of naval warfare, galleys forming a considerable part of the navy until the eighteenth century. In the reign of Edward III., when the English fought the French at Sluys, the former stood off on the starboard tack and maneuvered so as to turn on the pursuing French and, aided by the sun at their backs, lashed their vessels to the French fleet and crippled their antagonists with lances, swords and every sort of weapon they could lay their hands on.

Same Mode of Attack.

In the fight between Pembroke and the Spaniard Ruy Diaz De Roxas, near Rochelle, although cannon were used almost for the first time on sea, the same mode of attack prevailed. Pembroke was made prisoner after four of the enemy's vessels had been lashed to his vessels. In fact, all the records of ancient naval warfare seem to indicate that sea fighting was little more than land fighting. The contending fleets would be lashed together and the men would fight hand to hand until one of the principals surrendered. The Spanish armada, with its 130 vessels, was little more than a series of Homeric duels. The ships were clumsy and unwieldy, communication was effected by means of small boats and most of the destruction was wrought by fireships. Guns cut little figure, and most of the Spanish vessels, it appears, were destroyed by violent storms in open sea. Even as late as 1692, when Admiral Russell of England engaged the French in a series of sea fights known as the battle of La Hague, he positively forbade his men to fire on the French until his opponent, Tourville, had taken his distance in battle array. One English admiral in a battle with the French forbade his men firing until the enemy had fired the first shot, an incident which furnishes a precedent for President McKinley's reported order to Captain Sampson.

It was not until forty years ago that the ironclad cut any figure in naval warfare. At the great battle of Trafalgar in 1805, in which Nelson was killed, only a handful of powder was used in a discharge, and the guns were all twelve and six pounders. It is a remarkable fact that England herself, the leader of the world as a sea fighter, weighed down by a cankerous stretch of peace, has not fired a shot, metaphorically speaking, in four decades. The bombardment of Alexandria in 1882 was not an exception, as England was then simply firing at a target, having no opposition whatever. Neither were the efforts of the Chilians and Peruvians in their late belligerency of any avail in affording a clew to the great problem of the ironclads. The attempts made by the vessels of China and Japan four years ago were anxiously awaited by the rest of the world, and, although they were on a more extended scale than any previously made, they still failed to furnish an exhibition of the real merits or demerits of the iron monsters. Japan's smaller ships got the better of China's heavier craft with the same ease with which American soldiers prevailed over Pekin's raw land levies.

Originated in America.

It was America, however, that introduced the ironclad to the world, and the duels between the Monitor and the Merrimac were pathfinders in the new and uncertain warfare which defies wooden beaks and ships of fire. As a result of the Spanish war, the whole world has been thrown on the defensive. Almost immediately after the United States voted a naval appropriation of $50,000,000 Russia set aside the same amount for the construction of men-of-war and England ordered built eighteen battleships to her annual budget of thirty-two cruisers, forty-one torpedo boat destroyers and eleven other war vessels. Next to the English come the French, with a total of 600 vessels of war, and the United States has quickly come to the front as a naval power. Her vessels are not as heavy as those of her cousins, but they excel in speed and American seamen have always ranked with the best in the world.

To recount the most famous naval battles in history is like recounting the most famous poets, military leaders and statesmen. It is all a matter of judgment, and no two lists would be alike. The following, however, are among the leaders:

Artemisium—Greeks virtually defeat Persians with superior fleet, 500 B. C.

Salamis—Greeks, with 380 small war galleys, defeat Persians with 800 ships, the former losing forty galleys and the latter twenty galleys. Loss of life on both sides estimated from 5,000 to 50,000; 480 B. C.

Winchelsea—English defeat forty Spanish vessels and capture twenty-six, August, 1350.

Harfleur—English capture or destroy 500 French vessels, Aug. 15, 1416.

Bay of Lepanto—Venetian and Spanish fleets defeat Turkish fleet under Pasha Ali; Christian fleet consisted of 250 ships and more than 50,000 men, and Turks commanded superior force; only thirty Turkish vessels escaped; 10,000 Turks were taken and 25,000 slain; Christians lost 10,000 men; 1571.

Gibraltar bay—Dutch defeat the Spanish, April 25, 1607.

Dover straits—Dutch destroy the English fleet, Nov. 29, 1652.

Portsmouth—English defeat the Dutch and destroy eleven men-of-war and thirty merchantmen, Feb. 18, 1653.

North Foreland—One hundred English and Dutch men-of-war engaged, eleven Dutch taken and six sunk; June 2, 1653.

Coast of Holland—English sunk thirty Dutch men-of-war, July 31, 1653.

Santa Cruz—Spanish fleet burned by the English, April 20, 1657.

Harwich—Dutch lose eighteen ships to the English, June 23, 1665.

Thames—Dutch lose to the English twenty-four men-of-war, four admirals killed and 4,000 seamen, July 25, 1666.

Messina—Spanish fleet, twenty-nine vessels, destroyed by the English, July 31, 1718.

Gibraltar—English defeated combined fleets of Spain and France, Sept. 13, 1782.

St. Vincent—English, with fifteen vessels, defeated Spanish with twenty-seven vessels, Feb. 13, 1797.

Battle of the Nile—English under Nelson defeat the French and capture and destroy eleven vessels and kill nearly 1,000 men under Admiral Brueys, Aug. 1, 1798.

Trafalgar—Nelson sunk nineteen French and Spanish vessels, fighting twenty-seven ships against thirty-three of the combined fleet; Nelson killed; Oct. 21, 1805.

Navarino—The fleets of England, France and Russia destroy thirty Turkish men-of-war, Oct. 20, 1827.

Yalu River—Japanese defeat Chinese; heavy losses on both sides, Chinese losing four vessels and 600 men; Sept. 17, 1894.

Noted American Fights.

Among the noted American battles are the following:

Coast of Scotland—Paul Jones captures the Serapis and Scarborough, seventy guns, Sept. 23, 1779.

Off St. Kitt's—The Constellation, twenty-six guns, captures the French L'Insurgeant, forty guns, Feb. 9, 1799.

Coast of United States—Constitution, forty-four guns, sinks the Guerriere, thirty-eight guns, in thirty minutes, Aug. 19, 1812.

Madeira—United States, forty-four guns, captures the Macedonian, forty guns, Oct. 25, 1812.

Brazil—Constitution captures the Java, Dec. 29, 1812.

Lake Erie—Perry, with fifty-four guns, defeats English fleet with sixty-three guns, Sept. 10, 1813.

Lake Champain—McDonough, with eighty-six guns, defeats English fleet with ninety-six guns, Sept. 11, 1814.

Manila—Commodore Dewey, with six vessels, defeats the Spanish under Admiral Montejo with eighteen vessels, sinking eleven of the Spaniards and withdrawing unscathed, May 1, 1898.

Santiago—Commodore Schley, with six vessels, totally destroyed the entire Spanish fleet under Cervera. But one American was killed, while the Spanish lost 600 killed and 1,100 taken prisoners.

Passing by the battle of Salamis, which was in reality nothing more than a land battle on galleys, the success of the victor depending largely upon favorable winds and formidable crews, the next most important naval battle of the world was that fought in the bay of Lepanto in 1571 between the papal, Venetian and Spanish fleets and that of Selim, Sultan of Constantinople. The Christian fleet consisted of 250 ships and more than 50,000 men under the command of Don John of Austria. The Turkish fleet, which was under command of Pasha Ali, was much larger, but the Christians had the advantage in equipment, making use of helmets, coats of mail and firearms, while many of the Turks had no better defensive garb than leather shields and no more formidable weapons than arrows.

Three times the Spaniards boarded the Turk and fell back. A fourth time, with a re-enforcement of 200 men, they rushed to the assault and carried everything before them. An indiscriminate slaughter followed. The crescent was quickly replaced by the cross and the bloody head of Ali planted on a pole was raised on the masthead of Don John's flagship. The Christians cried "Victoria, victoria," and rushed upon the enemy, but did not win the battle until the Christian galley slaves revolted, broke their chains and turned on their masters. Only thirty of the Turkish galleys escaped to Constantinople, 130 were captured and the rest destroyed. More than 10,000 Turks were taken and 25,000 slain, and the Christians lost 10,000 men.

The most brilliant naval victory of the American revolution was won by John Paul Jones, when he captured with the old hulk, Bon Homme Richard, the British frigate Serapis and a smaller vessel, the Countess of Scarborough, convoying a fleet of merchantmen. The enemy approached within pistol-shot distance and Jones' sharpshooters kept the Englishman's decks clear. At the outset Jones suffered considerably from the bursting of three of his guns, but he quickly rallied and lashed his sinking vessel to the Britisher, which soon surrendered. The loss of the Richard was thirty killed and wounded, and that on the Serapis was nearly as great. The Richard was left to her fate and next day sank with her wounded on board.

The battle of Trafalgar, Nelson's last fight, took place off Cadiz, between the allied French and Spanish fleets of thirty-three sailing vessels and twenty-seven English vessels. The British fleet bore down upon the enemy under full sail, led by Nelson with fourteen vessels in the Victory and Admiral Collingwood on the right with thirteen vessels. Nelson's object was to break the enemy's fleet into sections inferior to his own and then join battle at close quarters. It was in this battle that Nelson raised the pennant, "England expects every man to do his duty." The English were successful, but Nelson was shot, and England lost her greatest admiral. After the dying Nelson was told that fifteen of the enemy's ships had been taken, he said: "That is well, but I bargained for twenty."

The battle of Lake Erie, in which Perry, a mere youth, with fifty-four guns and 600 men, defeated the British squadron with sixty-three guns and nearly 2,800 men, was an epoch-maker in American history, as it gave the Americans control of the great lakes. Captain Barclay, a veteran who fought under Nelson at Trafalgar, commanded the British fleet. During the fight, which lasted three hours, Perry forsook the Lawrence, his flagship, and in a little boat which was made the target of scores of rifles he was rowed over to the Niagara. The Niagara suddenly swerved, broke the enemy's line, raking the enemy's ships at pistol distance. In a few moments all the American vessels were close on their opponents and the English pulled down their flags in less than half an hour.

First Ironclad Engagement.

The first general engagement between ironclads took place in 1866 between the Italians and Austrians off the island of Lissa. In this engagement the Austrian admiral in the flagship Ferdinand Max sunk the Italian flagship, but as the Italian sank half a battalion of marines fired on the Austrian and killed eighty of her men. The fight between the Kearsarge and the Alabama, in which the latter was sunk after a short contest, is familiar to readers of American history, but inasmuch as both were unprotected by armor the event can scarcely be accounted as a world-noted engagement. The sinking of the Albemarle off the coast of North Carolina is also a landmark in American history, but it was to the daring of one man, Lieut. Cushing, who placed a torpedo under the Confederate ram, that the victory was placed on the Union scroll.

The history of Europe and South America, particularly of Chili and Peru, abounds in instances of daring at sea, the destruction of ships and loss of men, but it was not until Commodore Dewey opened fire on the Spanish fleet in Manila bay that the full strong voice of the modern man-of-war was heard.

As for the strength of the various nations of the world, figures indicate little. Suffice it to say that England and France are strong leaders, with Russia, Germany, Italy and the United States all within hailing distance.

There are times when the absence of crankiness shows the absence of sense.

THE MANILA DANDY.

His Costume May Be Startling to Unaccustomed Eyes.

The costume of the Manila dandy consists of a pair of white cotton trousers and a shirt. The latter may be more or less of the cut familiar to us, when made of white calico, but the front is elaborately embroidered, tucked or frilled, and the center of the back falls in full kilts, unconfined by the trousers. "Camisa fuera" (shirt outside) is the local term for this native costume, which greatly scandalized an elderly English lady on her arrival in the Philippines. "Emily, my dear, don't look!" she exclaimed to her daughter in a horrified whisper, when the costume first met her shocked gaze. "Don't look! The servant has forgotten to dress himself!" The "shirt outside" takes rather the form of a blouse and, consequently, strikes a European less oddly when made of pina gauze, of the prettily striped silk gauze, or of hempen tissue (abaca), all of which are of native manufacture. With these the native pure and simple wears a black mushroom-shaped, sun-proof and water-proof hat, often inlaid around the brim with silver in pretty patterns, called a salacote. This headgear of his forefathers is discarded by the native in European employ for a common white straw hat, as he discards slippers for patent leather boots. The children, boys and girls, are, on gala days, made up into quaint little miniatures of their elders, though ordinarily their costumes are either of the simplest kind, or conspicuous by their absence.—The Independent.

A Big Tree.

Jay, Me., claims one of the biggest trees in Maine. It stands on the bank of the Androscoggin, on the lawn of the late Dudley Bean, says the Boston Record. The circumference four feet from the ground is twenty-three feet, diameter seven feet. About six feet from the ground there are seven branches radiating from its trunk which are from eighteen inches to twenty-four inches in diameter. The branches spread over a space of ground 270 feet in circumference or ninety feet in diameter. Where the branches leave the trunk of the tree, about seven feet from the ground, there has been erected a band stand, which seats twenty-five persons. A cooler place on hot days cannot be found. A Boston gentleman was riding by recently and the tree attracted his attention. He examined and measured it and was astonished at its dimensions. He went away with the remark that if the tree was on his lawn $10,000 wouldn't buy it. It was set out forty-two years ago by Lafayette Bean on the day of his departure for California, whence he never returned.

The Dialect Novelist.

He wachelt and bachelt
He schughelt and sauchelt,
With many a hech and a hotch,
He scartit and rakit
His memory, and scrapit
A story he said was "braid Scotch."

He rowled and he yowled,
In a style ould and bould,
With lots of begorrah and wail;
He bejabbered and gabbered
And paper he glabbered,
When he wrote his miscalled Irish tale.

He hum'd and he begum'd,
He swowed, swaned and vumed,
And begoshed about keows and the barn;
He chawed and he hawed
As his poor pen he pawed,
While writing a fake Yankee yarn.

He 'am'd and he hegged,
As he 'ammered and dregged
His h's and f's in the strife,
Between 'alf and 'alf coster
And unabridged Webster
In a novel of English life.
—Waterbury Globe.

Food, Work and Sleep.

What a great mistake it is to contend that time taken from toil for sleep and recreation is time lost! There is no greater fallacy, for sleep and recreation form, as it were, the cement put in to fill up the joints in order to keep out the weather and preserve the edifice. A man does not necessarily require riches, honors or office—although the majority of us naturally have an ambition to attain one of these desiderata—but he does need food, work and sleep. It follows, therefore, that he should use every means to promote life, and among these there are three things to be kept in mind. When a man denies himself sleep, food, and the exercise work gives both to brain and body, he is robbing his life of its full term. Let him be cheerful also, for the body is like an engine—it will run well and long if it is well oiled. Contentment and cheerfulness are the oil which keeps the nerves from wearing out.

Their Recreation.

Ideas of enjoyment differ. An enterprising foreign publication has been unearthing the especial enjoyments of noted people and finds that Zangwill, the author, finds relief in metaphysics, horseback riding and swimming. His brother, "Z. Z.," rejoices in study and travel, the latter to such an extent that he never has a permanent address.

The Princess of Wales, Princess Charles of Denmark and the Duchess of Fife are expert salmon fishers. Lady Katherine Scott, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, is also devoted to salmon fishing. The noted beauty, Lady Londonderry, sails and steers a boat to perfection. Lady Londonderry has a small yacht called the Metuenda—the word being the first one of her family motto.

Beyond Comprehension.

"Do you understand women?"

"Yes. I understand them well enough to know that I can't understand them at all."

Reformers should devote more of their time to reforming reforms

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L. HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK ..... Inyo

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
J. J. GUNN ..... Modock

Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION ..... Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL ..... Bishop

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG ..... Big Pine

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES ..... Independence

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY ..... Bishop

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON ..... Bishop

OFFICIAL.

ELECTION PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }

IN accordance with law thereunto directing me, I hereby proclaim and give notice that a General Election will be held throughout the State of California on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898,

At which election the following officers will be elected, and the following proposed Constitutional amendments and other questions will be voted on:

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.
SECRETARY OF STATE.
CONTROLLER.
TREASURER.
ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
SURVEYOR-GENERAL.
CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT.
SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.
SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE PRINTING.

Also, seven Representatives to the Congress of the United States; being one Representative from each Congressional District in this State.

Also, three Railroad Commissioners, being one Railroad Commissioner from each Railroad District in this State.

Also, four members of the State Board of Equalization, being one member from each of the four districts from which by law members of the Board of Equalization are to be elected.

Also, two Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of California.

Also, four Judges of the Superior Court in and for the City and County of San Francisco.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the Counties of Santa Clara, Tulare and Glenn.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Del Norte for the unexpired term of James E. Murphy, deceased, ending January, 1903; vice Fletcher A. Cutler, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Santa Barbara, for the unexpired term of W. B. Cope, resigned, ending January, 1903; vice W. S. Day, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Kings, for the unexpired term of Justin Jacobs, deceased, ending January, 1901.

Also, twenty members of the Senate, being one Senator from each of the following Senatorial Districts, to-wit: Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, Thirty-second, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, Fortieth.

Also, eighty members of the Assembly, being one member of the Assembly from each of the eighty Assembly Districts in this State.

Also, at said election, amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, proposed by the Legislature of this State, at its last regular session, numbered and designated as hereinafter specified, will be voted upon by the electors of said State, namely:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Each of the said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon by ballot in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes ___ No

Also, at said election, the following question shall be voted on: The Legislature of this State at its thirty-second session, adopted a resolution on the 22d day of March, 1897, known as Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, recommending to the electors of this State, at the General Election to be held November 8th, A. D. 1898, to vote for or against a Convention to revise the Constitution of the State. The proposed Convention is to consist of eighty delegates, one to be chosen from each Assembly District. Such delegates are to possess the same qualifications, and shall be elected in the same manner as members of the Assembly; they shall receive as compensation the sum of eight dollars per day with the same mileage as the members of the Assembly, and there shall be a reasonable number of clerks and other attaches whose compensation shall be fixed by the convention. Accordingly at such general election the electors of this State will vote for or against a Convention to revise said Constitution. Each ballot used at such election shall contain printed thereon, in addition to other matter required by law, the words:

For the Convention to revise the Constitution.

Against the Convention to revise the Constitution.

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I of the Penal Code; such reward to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, this 23rd day of September, A. D. 1898.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.

SUPERVISORS' PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the General Election to be held on

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1898,

The following County, District and Township Officers are to be elected in the County of Inyo, State of California, viz.:

1—Sheriff and Tax Collector;
2—County Clerk, Auditor and Recorder;
3—County Treasurer;
4—County Assessor;
5—District Attorney;
6—Superintendent of Schools;
7—Coroner and Public Administrator;
8—County Surveyor;
9—One Supervisor, 1st District;
10—One Supervisor, 3d District;
11—One Supervisor, 5th District;
12—One Justice of the Peace, 1st Twp.;
13—One Constable, 1st Township;
14—One Justice of the Peace, 2d Twp.;
15—One Constable, 2d Township;
16—One Justice of the Peace 3d Twp.;
17—One Constable, 3d Township.
18—One Justice of the Peace 4th Twp.;
19—One Constable, 4th Township.
20—One Justice of the Peace, 5th Twp.;
21—One Constable, 5th Township.

Boards of Election.

Ordered—That polls be held in the following places in the precincts named in the said County of Inyo, for the said General Election, and that the following named electors be and they are appointed officers of the Boards of Election in the respective Precincts of said County, for said General Election, as follows, to-wit:

Round Valley, No. 1.
Inspectors—W. H. Wells, J. G. W. Birchim.
Judges—D. Olds, W. W. Vaughn.
Clerks—I. P. Smith, John E. Jones.
Ballot Clerks—J. S. McGee, C. L. Olds.
Polls to be held at School House.

Lincoln, No. 2.
Inspectors—R. Love, G. P. Bourland.
Judges—W. H. Fitzger ld, James Shaw.
Clerks—W. A. Trickey, Charles Wonacott.
Ballot Clerks—Wm. Breckman, Wm. Jenkins
Polls to be held at School House.

Laws, No. 3.
Inspectors—Barton McGee, H. G. Plumley.
Judges—Jos. McNally, P. Gunter
Clerks—Ed. Dehy, Geo. Huckaby
Ballot Clerks—Ed Morton, L. H. J. Ehlen
Polls to be held at School House.

Bishop, No. 4
Inspectors—C. W. Dixon, Ed M. Clarke
Judges—W. G. McCrosky jr, James McBride
Clerks—W. W. Watterson, Chas Garretson
Ballot Clerks—A. J. Murphy, Henry Shirley
Polls to be held at Court House.

East Bishop, No. 5.
Inspectors—C. M. Dixon, W. C. Brierly
Judges—L. A. Coats, Chas. A. McKay
Clerks—H. H. Howell, Geo. Watterson
Ballot Clerks—Andrew Tell, John N. Yandel
Polls to be held at Albright's office.

Poleta, No 6.
Inspectors—George Collins, James Hampton
Judges—George Storey, A. O. Collins
Clerks—J. A. Leidy, C. W. Geiger
Ballot Clerk—T. J. Reed, George Free
Polls to be held at George Collins' House.

Big Pine, No. 7.
Inspectors—R. W. Thomas, S. H. Spratt
Judges—S. J. McMurry, J. E. M. Connell
Clerks—G. W. Hall, W. H. Ehlmeyer
Ballot Clerks—L. Joseph, D. W. Pitman
Polls to be held at School House.

Fish Springs, No. 8.
Inspectors—J. H. Coe, Chas. Petersen
Judges—T. W. Hill, G. W. Melone
Clerks—Geo. H. Rose, C. F. Fuller
Ballot Clerks—A. W. H. Smith, Upton Tracy
Polls to be held at School House.

Taboose, No. 9.
Inspectors—Geo. D. Calvert, S. Tanman
Judges—Luke E. Smith, William Hines
Clerks—Charles Walter, Joseph G. Bell
Ballot Clerks—A. L. Conklin, M. Sellerhoer
Polls to be held at School House.

Independence, No. 10.
Inspectors—A. Clark, J. S. German
Judges—J. D. Blair, G. W. Brady
Clerks—J. E. Parker, George Thorpe
Ballot Clerks—Neel Bell, H. D. Gill
Polls to be held at School House.

Citrus, No. 11.
Inspectors—Jacob Pfohl, W. H. Ramsey
Judges—Joseph Vaughn, W. F. Norbrup
Clerks—John A. Ramsey, Martin Church
Ballot clerks—David Vaughn, Seth A. Baker
Poll's to be held at R. R. Depot.

Georges Creek, No. 12.
Inspectors—Gus McGovern, John Kispert
Judges—Thos. Hamilton, J. V. Skinner
Clerks—J. E. Shepherd, J. F. Beale
Ballot clerks—J. W. Lacey, W. H. Jenkins
Polls to be held at School House.

Lone Pine, No. 13.
Inspectors—Mark Hand, J. C. Anton
Judges—P. Laberge, C. Carrasco
Clerks—F. P. Meyers, P. C. Spear
Ballot clerks—Abe Diaz, O. F. Dearborn
Polls to be held at Town Hall.

Cerro Gordo, No. 14.
Inspectors—————, Chris Crohn
Judges—Gregory Kelly, Manuel Romero
Clerks—M. W. Trask, ————
Ballot clerks—Harry Williams, Jesus Romero
Polls to be held at Crohn's Building.

Keeler, No. 15.
Inspectors—Samuel Levy, John Jenkins
Judges—Mike Anton, Nat Randall
Clerks—A. R. Schively, H. Wrinkle
Ballot clerks—C. W. Stewart, A. St. Merry
Polls to be held at School House.

Olancha, No. 16.
Inspectors—Alonzo Brown, August Walker
Judges—R. H. Williams, Horace Fellows
Clerks—W. T. Grant, Charles Whittock
Ballot clerk—Henry Dyke, Ira Brown
Polls to be held at W. H. Walker's House.

Darwin, No. 17.
Inspectors—Henry Jackson, Paul Pfefferle
Judges—J. A. McKenzie, N. S. Thompson
Clerks—James Murry, Charles Richardson
Ballot clerks—James Harry, James Wood
Polls to be held at Waterman's Store.

Modock, No. 18.
Inspectors—Arthur Smith, ——— ———
Judges—James S. Judsborough, ——— ———
Clerks—C. E. Stephens, John Doody
Ballot clerks—John C. Cress, Wm. Monahan
Polls to be held at J. J. Gunn's Boarding House.

Mountain Springs, No. 19.
Inspectors—P. D. White, ——— ———
Judges—James Prewett, ——— ———
Clerks———— ———, ——— ———
Ballot clerk—Theodore Wibbelt, ——— ———
Polls to be held at Wolbrecht's House.

Ballarat, No. 20.
Inspectors—Frank McAlister, P. Winston
Judges—John Taylor, J. S. Snyder
Clerks—George Vollmer, C. H. Tyler
Ballot clerks—J. Casey, Chas McLeod
Polls to be held in Weaver & Porter's Building, south of Weaver & Porter's Store.

Panamint, No. 21.
Inspectors—J. Curran, George Montgomery
Judges—J. Wall, F. Russell
Clerks—Al Williams, H. P. Dover
Ballot clerks—J. W. Trotter, J. Wingfield
Polls to be held at Anthony's Boarding House.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest:
D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

LEGAL.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F. Ginser, deceased, that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, all of the interest of said decedent at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to-wit: Mineral Hill, Mineral Layout, Breakaway, and Mineral Mound.

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled in the Matter of the Estate of John F. Ginser, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.

FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.

FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk. Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring Sts., Los Angeles, California.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

James R. Moffett, the Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 22d day of October, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell as much of the real estate of said deceased, either at public or private sale, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court

Dated September 17th, 1898.

P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Administrator.

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by whole sale.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞ Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
ALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs

Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of-

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

HORSESHOEING

....AND....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00

☞ All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14.....1898

Publication of several valued contributions is necessarily delayed.

County Supervisors will meet November 17th, as Board of Canvassers.

Mrs. I. H. Mulholland left on Monday last, to join Irv. H. at Los Angeles.

J. C. Anton and C. M. Green, of Lone Pine, are among the visitors at Independence to-day.

If several Grand Juries and four members out of a total of five County Supervisors "recommend" steel lining of the County Jail, why, then, don't they do it?

Warren Loose, a well-known Monoite, was in town during the week, and filed with the U. S. Land Office application for patent to certain Bodie mining property.

Schober's big team passed through Independence last Wednesday en route to Los Angeles. The major portion of their load consisted of nine tons of honey for that market.

J. W. Murphy, accompanied by Will Harper, set out with his team yesterday for Johannesburg, to meet the parties who are to develop the California Borax Works property.

Charles Walter came down from his home at Black Rock during the week and cheerfully rendered invaluable assistance to the make-up of this issue of the INDEPENDENT.

A group of well-developed gold ledges in Beveridge District, belonging to John Black, W. L. Hunter and others, has been bonded to parties representing a Chicago company.

Next Thursday evening the Lyceum will consider this proposition: Resolved, That it would be more beneficial for Inyo County to develop her mines than her agricultural interests.

Dr. H. L. Pace, of Tulare, the Democratic and Peoples Party nominee for State Senator for this District visited Inyo during the past week and made speeches at Lone Pine, Independence, Big Pine and Bishop.

There has been 348 new names added to the Great Register, and it contains nearly if not quite 2000 names. The form of the printed copy, under requirements of new law, will be an unnecessarily complicated and cumbersome affair.

The well-known English plants, the thistle and the rape, are so inimicable that if a field is infested with thistles which come up year after year and ruin the crops, all you have to do is to sow it with rape. The thistles will be absolutely annihilated.

F. C. Scott, Esq., addressed a large audience at the Court House last Saturday night. Mr Scott left the Republican party on account of its attitude on the silver question. He confined his remarks to the silver question, and his address showed that he had given his subject deep and careful study and consideration. His speech was well received and liberally applauded.

Mr. Henry Levy's new hotel is rapidly nearing completion, and when finished will be an ornament to our already attractive village. It is the purpose of Mr. Levy, before having the partitions placed in position, to have an old-time house warming in the shape of a free ball. A general invitation will be extended to all the people of the county, of which due notice will be given.

J. J. Gunn reports a very bright outlook for the whole Panamint country. Anthony's mill in Pleasant Canyon is running on custom ore from adjacent mines. The "O. B. J." mine in Taba Canyon keeps the mill at Postoffice running and could supply several other such works with good rock. Manager Harrison is working a force of sixteen miners on the noted Halbert & Ratcliffe claims.

Plank from the Democratic Platform: "We endorse the administaation of James H. Budd, and point to the fact that he has introduced system and business methods into the management of State Institutions. Under his administration taxation has been reduced. When he assumed office he found a State debt of one and a-quarter millions of dollars, and will leave to his successor a surplus of two millions."

In its appointment of Election Officers the Board of Supervisor has followed precedent and generally designated men of previous experience all along the line. Each one will be officially notified and supplied with a copy of the law governing the conduct of elections. There is usually ample time to study ensuing proceedings, but by way of antecedent reminder we quote:

SECTION 1160. The polls must be opened at sunrise on the morning of the day of election, and must be kept open until five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, when the polls shall be closed. [Approved March 20, 1889.]

November 8th, local time, sunrise will be at 6:20.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending October 13, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.101	13th
Lowest "	29.814	8th
Highest temperature	83.0	12th
Lowest "	48	10th
Mean "	64.4
Average dew point	25.5
Average humidity	24.8
Maximum wind velocity,
directionand date	20 SE	13th
No. clear days	7
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

Supervisor Proceedings.

WEDNESDAY, October 4, 1898.
9 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time, pursuant to adjournment.

Present — Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams, and A. C. Freeman, Chairman.

Minutes of preceding meeting read and approved.

Whereupon it was ordered that Supervisor Shaw and Eldred be appointed as a committee to investigate and report upon the officers and conditions of the County Hospital, and Supervisors Williams and Stewart be appointed as a committee to investigate and report upon the affairs and conditions of the Court House and various county offices.

Board adjourned, to meet at 1 o'clock p. m., at which hour re-assembled. Members present as before.

The committee appointed to investigate and report upon the affairs and conditions of the Court House and various county offices report as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, Oct. 5, 1898.

To the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Inyo Co.:

We, your committee appointed by the Chairman of the said Board to examine the books of the county officers and also the Court House for any necessary repairs, beg leave to offer the following report:

We find the books of the several county officers kept up to date and in a neat and business-like manner; and that we would recommend to the Board of Supervisors that after the 1st of January, 1899, that an expert be employed by the said Board to expert the books of the several county officers; and that we further recommend that the Jail be made more secure by lining the room overhead with sheet-iron and that the side be ceiled with lumber.

Respectfully,

J. J. STEWART.
BEN. T. WILLIAMS.

The Committee appointed to investigate and report upon the affairs and conditions of the County Hospital report as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, Oct. 5, 1898.

To the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Inyo County, California:

The undersigned, your committee appointed to investigate and report upon the conditions and affairs of the County Hospital, beg leave to report as follows:

First. We find that there are at the present time twelve [12] patients in the institution, nine [9] males and three [3] females.

Second. We find that the inmates are well provided for in every way, and further that all of the patients are well satisfied with their quarters and good accommodations and treatment.

Very respectfully submitted,

FRANK SHAW,
J. R. ELDRED.

Ordered—That Supervisor A. C. Freeman have a new roof put on the branch jail at Bishop, and the Auditor is hereby directed to draw his warrant for the cost thereof against the General Expense Fund to the order of A. C. Freeman.

Ordered—That the sum of $3.02 be paid to Geo. H. Rose, out of the Fish Springs Bond Fund, as rebate of school taxes erroneously collected.

Board adjourned, to meet Thursday, October 6, 1898, at 9 o'clock a. m.

A. C. FREEMAN.
Chairman.

Attest:
D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

THURSDAY, October 6, 1898.
10 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at the above stated time, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Freeman, Chairman.

Minutes of preceding day's meeting read and approved.

Ordered—That the sum of $5.10 be paid to George Rnmsey as rebate of State, Hospital and Road Poll Tax erroneously collected, and Auditor is directed to draw his warrant on the following fundl for the same, to-wit: On State School Fund, $1.70; on Hospital Fund, $1.70: and on Road District No. 3 Fund, $1.70.

On motion of Supervisor Stewart, seconded by Supervisor Eldred, it is ordered that a contract be and the same is hereby awarded to H. P. Cartier to erect a branch jail at Keeler for the sum of $159.42, in accordance with plans and specifications on file herein, and on motion of Supervisor Eldred, seconded by Supervisor Shaw, Supervisors Stewart and Williams are hereby appointed as a committee of two to examine and accept said building when completed.

Board adjourned to meet at 1 o'clock p. m., at which hour reconvened, all members present as before.

Ordered—That the sum of $30 be set aside out of the Road District No. 2 Fund subject to the order of Commissioner A. C. Freeman, for right of way for road purposes purchased from H. H. Howell, and the Auditor is directed to draw his warrant accordingly.

Claim of Geo. W. Payson for road work allowed on the General Road Fund in the sum of $20.

Ordered—That a monthly allowance for the months of October, November and December, 1898, be allowed to each of the following persons, and the Auditor is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the Hospital Fund for the same in the following sums, to-wit:

Mrs. Wayland and Mrs. Barnes, warrant to be drawn by A. C. Freeman, $20.

Mrs. Abecheco, warrant to be drawn by J. J. Stewart, $10.

Mrs. J. Wilson, warrant to be drawn by J. J. Stewart, $10.

Miss Emelie Thiebaut $10.

The Clerk is hereby directed to publish notice for three weeks inviting proposals for building a branch jail at Big Pine and a branch jail at Lone Pine.

Monthly and Quarterly Reports of County Treasurer and Quarterly report of County Auditor were examined and approved.

Board adjourned to meet Saturday, October 8th, at 8 o'clock a. m.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest:
D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SATURDAY, October 8th, 1898.
8 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time pursuant to adjournment.

Present — Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart and Freeman Chairman presiding.

Minutes of preceding day's meeting read and approved

Reports of Road Commissioners on file were examined and approved as follows:

Road Commissioner Frank Shaw, Road District No. 1.

Road Commissioner A. C. Freeman, Road District No. 2.

Road Commissioner J. R. Eldred, Road District No. 3.

Road Commissioner Ben T. Williams, Road District No. 5.

Road Commissioner J. J. Stewart, Road District No. 4.

Claims and vouchers of Road Commissioners were examined and approved as follows:

Road Commissioner Frank Shaw on Road District No. 1 Fund $43, apportioned as follows:

T E Jones	$ 6 00
Frank Shaw	18 00
Frank Shaw	19 00
	$43 00

Road Commissioner Frank Shaw on Bridge Fund $232.90, apportioned as follows:

James D. White	$ 1 00
Frank Huckaby	57 00
Frank Huckaby	75 00
Leece & Watterson	67 15
N J Cooley	6 00
F K Andrews	2 75
James Holden	24 00
	$232 90

Road Commissioner A. C. Freeman on Road District No. 2 Fund $160.40, apportioned as follows:

Leece & Watterson	$24 80
James Hampton	10 00
John Clarke	15 60
Albert King	4 00
H H Howell	30 00
A C Freeman	76 00
	$160 40

Road Commissioner J. R. Eldred on Road District No. 3 Fund $186.00, apportioned as follows:

J D Mairs	$42 00
L C Montague	6 00
J R Machado	12 00
D B Curtis	2 00
F D McAfee	9 00
D W Pitman	6 00
J M Zorne	4 00
H D Hankhammer	16 60
E W Blake	14 00
J R Eldred	75 60
	$186 00

Road Commissioner J. R. Eldred on Bridge Fund $20.10, apportioned as follows:

F D McAfee	$10 00
G K Fry	5 00
A W Eibeshutz	5 10
	$20 10

Road Commissioner J. J. Stewart on Road District No. 4 Fund $89, apportioned as follows:

Es Elder	$14 50
H Glade	5 50
J J Stewart	69 00
	$89 00

Road Commissioner Ben T. Williams on Road District No. 5 Fund $155.75, apportioned as follows:

James Burke	$25 00
S E Lambert	62 50
Chas Anthony	17 25
Ben T Williams	36 00
Ben T Williams	15 00
	$155 75

The following claims for mileage and per diem of the members of the Board of Supervisors were examined and approved by the District Attorney, and warrants therefore ordered drawn, as follows:

Frank Shaw	$50 40
A C Freeman	66 00
J R Eldred	60 60
J J Stewart	51 60
Ben T Williams	40 80

Adjourned for the term.

Methodist Church.

There will be held the following services on Sunday, October 16th:

Independence—At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the regular session of the Sunday-school.

7:00 p. m.: Sermon by the pastor, preceded by short song service. Subject of sermon, "An Invitation."

Services at Lone Pine and Georges Creek at the usual hours.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

Eastern Money for Our Mines.

A dispatch to the San Francisco Examiner, Oct. 3, from Pittsburg, says:

"One million dollars of Pittsburg capital is to be invested in gold mining in Inyo County, California, and Lincoln County, Nevada, gold fields. This was made plain to-day when the announcement was made that the Meneva Mining and Milling Company, made up of Pittsburg men, had been incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey. The President of the new company is C. C. McCarthy, commercial agent of the Missouri Railroad here, while W. W. Hammond, freight agent of the same road, is Secretary and Treasurer. William Lohmeyer, a well-known business man here, is named as Vice President. It was the intention of the projectors to keep the move quiet for some time yet, but a request sent to certain Pittsburg manufacturers to-day for estimates on new machinery to equip two extensive mining camps gave the scheme away. In spite of emphatic denials by both McCarthy and Hammond, it is believed that the Missouri Pacific road is interested in the deal. President McCarthy said to-night: 'It is our own scheme. We are putting up the money and intend to reap the benefits. Our claim is in Inyo County, eighty miles by stage from a point on the Santa Fe road. We have been looking at it for some three years, but it was not until to-day that our company was really chartered. We asked for bids on machinery here, but we will get the best rates we can. We have also asked San Francisco dealers for rates. I need not say that in Inyo County, California, and in Lincoln County, Nevada, we claim to have found a most excellent field of gold, silver and copper.'"

Foregoing is decidedly indefinite, but from several known facts and circumstances we feel safe in locating the property as the celebrated "Little Johnny" and "Chispa" mines and mill near Pahrump, Nev., and the Confidence group of gold mines in the Funeral or Amargoza range, in this county. The latter are about 80 miles from Daggett, on the Santa Fe, and have lately been patented. The selling company, owning both the properties, is a Salt Lake corporation headed by Congressman Cannon of Utah, associated with the Montgomery Bros. The Nevada property lies on the line of the proposed Salt Lake & Los Angeles railroad, which will not touch Inyo.

The Carson and Colorado.

Once more it is announced that Mr. D. O. Mills has decided to extend his narrow-gauge Carson and Colorado Railroad from Keeler, in Inyo County, (its present southern terminus) to Mojave, Kern County, where it would connect with the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe systems.

It is, perhaps, a case of better late than never, but it is also a case where it would have been better to have built this extension long ago. The fact that it is a narrow-gauge road will prevent its handling any transcontinental traffic, and besides that the Salt Lake-Los Angeles road to be built renders Mr. Mills' extension almost unnecessary. Ten years ago Los Angeles was ready to receive Mr. Mills and his road, and made overtures to him to that effect, but that gentlemen had not, in those days, a very exalted opinion of Los Angeles or its possibilities. Mr. Mills is only one more capitalist who has changed his mind in that respect.—Los Angeles Mining Review.

If, ten years ago, Mr. Mills had no very exalted opinion of Los Angeles such a state of mind may have been due to his knowledge of the fact that, about fifteen years before, Los Angeles witheld support and allowed the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad to fall into the Espee maw, estopping its extension to Inyo County. To meet business possibilities here he built the narrow-gauge from the north. Its conversion into a standard gauge is very practicable and its future connection with the Randsburg Railway, on a route through greater mining districts than the Review knows of, is quite probable.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO
CARSON AND COLORADO
RAILROAD
RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES FROM MOUND HOUSE	From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m		4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m		4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	4.	1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
		No. 3.		No 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	A	7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m		6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m		6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m		5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m		5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m		3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m		3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m		2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	185	12:50 p m		12:45 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m		11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m		7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.
OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
—o—x—o—
Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.
—o—x—o—
Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

OFFICIAL.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No. 821.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wrinkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES AND HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12.37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20.67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L. No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.63 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.50 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4.04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No. 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3.03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound I. No. 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C. No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary, from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 5; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake I. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3.30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains distant, and stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 28½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1½ degree west .765 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114.41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K. No. 1, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.50 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 28½ degrees east 1.30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 3.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line, from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3.14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 14.62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Keisey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. S. Stotler, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Keisey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

[SEAL]

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12,854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

SEAL

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The NE 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 12 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11,232, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $67.20, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896 upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee, and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

SEAL

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California. Plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought

You Can Get Tired

By working hard, and then you can get rested again. But if you are tired all the time it means that your blood is poor. You need to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great cure for that tired feeling because it is the great enricher and vitalizer of the blood. You will find appetite, nerve, mental and digestive strength in

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion. 25c.

Gladstone and Ireland.

Only a stern sense of duty induced Mr. Gladstone in his seventy-seventh year to endeavor to bring about the pacification of Ireland. "I shall win," he said when he appealed to the country, "or be hunted out of public life." "What do you think of Mr. Gladstone now?" asked a Liberal M. P. of Mr. Healy at the close of Mr. Gladstone's speech introducing home rule. "I think," replied Mr. Healy, "that he has elected to be crucified for Ireland." —Birmingham (England) Post.

The Age of Niagara.

The truth of the adage about constant dripping wearing away a stone is strikingly illustrated in the fact that the Niagara river has been 36,000 years cutting its channel 200 feet deep, 2,000 feet wide and 7 miles long through solid rock. Evidence is conclusive that the falls were formerly at Queenstone, seven miles below the present situation. It has been proved that they have not receded more than one foot a year for the last half a century.

Egoism.

Synnex—So you love Miss Sugarknice?

Sweese—I do.

Synnex—You love her because she loves you, and she loves you because you love her. Bah! That amounts to the same thing as each of you being in love with yourself.—Boston Transcript.

HAS NOT SLEPT FOR FIVE YEARS.

It is reported that a man in Indiana has not had an hour's sleep for five years. He constantly walks about, unable to rest, and is now little more than a skeleton. There are thousands of men and women who are unable to sleep more than an hour or two a night because of nervousness, weakness, dyspepsia, headache and constipation. A certain remedy for these disorders is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. All druggists sell it.

Cholly—Doncher know, Miss Dolly, I—aw—sometimes think——. Dolly Dimple—Do you really? I should never have suspected it.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Send for Free Circular showing how to get BIG DISCOUNTS on Prices of any San Francisco or Pacific Coast Cash Store or Supply Company. We are reliable, been in business in San Francisco thirty years, and can save you money on everything you buy. Address GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS, 218 California Street, San Francisco, Cal.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

I never used so quick a cure as Piso's Cure for Consumption.—J. B. Palmer, Box 1171, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25, 1895.

Remenyi Found a "Gaynioos."

The late Edouard Remenyi appears to have been the "discoverer" of Johannes Brahms, who was a boy of 19 when the Hungarian violinist found him in Hamburg in 1853. They went on a concert tour, so the story goes, and fetched up at Weimar almost penniless. Liszt invited Remenyi to stay at the Altenburg.

"I have plenty of room for you," he said. "You have perhaps a servant with you?"

"Oh, no! I have a gaynioos" (genius)

"A what?"

"Master, I have here with me the greatest composer since Beethoven, and I have come to solicit your protection for him."

"Very well. Bring along your gaynioos, and we will see."

Liszt saw, and after him others also found their vision cleared.

Good!

People who buy Schilling's Best drink more tea a year than other people.

This is a fair Picture

of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for

Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

HIS WORD OF HONOR.

HE was only a boy, not yet sixteen, but they were going to shoot him, nevertheless.

The band of insurgents to which he belonged had been routed by the Army of Versailles, and, taken red-handed with some ten of his comrades, he had been conducted to the Mairie of the Eleventh Arrondissement.

Struck by his youthful appearance, and also astonished at the boy's coolness in this hour of extreme peril, the commandant had ordered that the fatal verdict should, so far as he was concerned, be suspended for the moment, and that he should be kept a prisoner until his companions had met their fate at the neighboring barricade.

Apparently quite calm and resigned, his great eyes and his face—the pale face of a Parisian child—showed neither emotion nor anxiety. He seemed to watch all that was passing around him as though they held no concern for him. He heard the sinister report of the fusillade which hurled his companions into eternity without moving a muscle; his calm, fixed gaze seemed to be looking into the great "Afterwards" which was soon to become the "Present" to him also. Perhaps he was thinking of his happy careless childhood—he had hardly outgrown it; perhaps of his relations and their sorrow when they heard of the chain of fatality which had made him fatherless and had tossed him into the seething turmoil of civil war, and now demanded his life at the hands of fellow-countrymen; and, perhaps, he wondered why such things were.

At the time war was declared he was living happily with his father and mother, honest working folk who had apprenticed him to a printer; politics never troubled that little household.

It was not long, however, before the Prussians had slain the head of the family. The privations of the siege, the long and weary waiting at the butchers' and bakers' shops when the scanty dole of food was distributed in the rigors of that terrible winter, had stretched his mother on the bed of suffering, where she lay slowly dying.

"DEATH SEEMS BETTER THAN SUCH A LIFE."

One day when he had gone with others to dig for potatoes in the frost-bound plain of St. Denis a Prussian bullet broke his shoulder, and afterwards, driven partly by hunger, partly by fear of his companions' threats, he had enrolled himself in the Army of the Commune. Like many another, fear and fear only had led him into and kept him in the ranks; he had no heart for a war of brothers, and now that his life was about to pay the penalty he was glad that he could lay no man's death to his charge. He was innocent of that, at any rate.

The things he had seen and suffered during the few last months had given him a dread of life. He hated to think of leaving his mother in this terrible world—his mother whom he loved so dearly, who had always been so inexpressibly good to him; but he comforted himself with the thought that before long she would come, too—she could not have much more suffering to undergo, she was so weak when he last saw her, four days ago.

"Kiss me again, dear—again," she had said, "for I feel that I may never see you more."

"Ah," he thought, sadly, "if they would only trust him—would give him only one hour of liberty—how he would run to her and then come back and give himself up to the hands that hungered for his life. He would give his word, and he would keep it. Why not? Save his mother—and she, too, was dying—he had no one to regret. To see her again, to kiss her dear lips once more, console, encourage her, and leave her hopeful—then he could face death bravely."

He was in the midst of these sad reflections when the commandant, followed by several officers, approached him.

"Now, my fine fellow, you and I have a score to settle; you know what awaits you?"

"Yes, mon commandant, and I am ready."

"Really? So ready as all that? You are not afraid of death?"

"Less than of life. I have seen so much the last six months—such awful things—death seems better than such a life."

"I wager you would not hesitate if I gave you your choice. If I said: 'Put your best foot foremost and show me how soon you can be out of sight,' you would soon be off, I'll warrant."

"Try me, mon commandant, try me! Put me to the proof; it's worth a trial. One more or less for your men to shoot, what does it matter? One hour of freedom only, not more; you shall see whether I will keep my word, and whether I am afraid to die."

"Oh! da! you're no fool, but you must take me for one. Once free and far away, and then come back to be shot just as you would keep an ordinary appointment? You will hardly get me to swallow that, my boy!"

"Listen, sir, I beg of you. Perhaps you have a good mother; you love her, your mother, more than aught else in the whole world. If, like me, you were just going to die, your last thoughts would be of her. And you would bless the man who gave the opportunity of seeing her once more, for the last time. Mon commandant, do for me what you would pray others to do for you. Give me one hour's liberty, and I will give you my word of honor to return and give myself up. Is life itself worth a promise broken?"

While he was speaking the commandant was pacing to and fro, tugging viciously at his mustache, and evidently struggling hard to appear unmoved.

"'My word,' he murmured. "This urchin talks of 'my word' as though he were a Knight of the Round Table!"

He stopped abruptly in front of his prisoner and asked, in a severe tone, "Your name?"

"Victor Oury."

"Age?"

"Sixteen on the 15th of July next."

"Where does your mother live?"

"At Belleville."

"What made you to leave her to follow the Commune?"

"For the thirty sous chiefly; one must eat! Then the neighbors and my comrades threatened to shoot me if I did not march with them. They said I was tall enough to carry a musket. My mother was afraid of them, and wept and prayed."

"You have no father, then?"

"He was killed."

"And where?"

"At Bourget, fighting for his country."

The commandant turned toward his staff as though he would consult them at a glance. All seemed to interest and pity.

"Well, then, it is understood," the officer said, gravely, after a moment's reflection. "You can go and see your mother. You have given me your word of honor to come back in an hour. C'est bien. I shall know then whether you are a man of character or simply a cowardly boy. I give you until evening. If you are not here at 8 o'clock I shall say that you are a braggart, and care more for life than honor. Allons! Quick march!"

"I thank you, mon commandant. At eight I will be here."

"You are sure?"

"Certain."

"We shall see when the time comes."

The boy would have thrown his arms about the officer in his wild joy and gratitude, but the latter repelled him gently.

"No, not now," he said. "This evening, if you return, I will embrace you—in front of the firing party," he added, grimly. "Off with you!"

Victor ran like a hare. The officers smiled as they watched him disappear. Twenty minutes later he knocked at his mother's door, and the neighbor who was tending her opened it to him. She started and exclaimed when she saw him, for like every one else, she believed him dead. He would have rushed to his mother's room, but the woman stopped him.

"Go in quietly," she said, in a low voice; "she is asleep. She has been very ill since you went away, but she is a little better now. The doctor said yesterday that if she could sleep she would soon get stronger; she must not be awakened. Poor thing! she will be glad to see you, for she has asked for you so often. When she was not calling you she was praying the bon Dieu to preserve you and to restore peace in the land. Helas! one would say He had abandoned us, the bon Dieu, and let men do just as they like. It is awful!"

But, Victor, impatient, thought he heard his name called in a faint voice. He moved on tip-toe toward his mother's bed. He had not been deceived—the sick woman's eyes were opened wide.

"Victor! my boy!" she cried, in her thin, weak voice. Without a word he lay down beside her, and her arms closed round him hungrily.

And now the boy who had faced death so impassively could do naught but sob. Now, in his mother's arms, he became a child once more, timid, despairing.

The sick woman, who seemed to gain strength from his presence, sought in vain to console him.

"Why do you distress yourself so, my child, my best beloved?" she asked. "You shall never leave me again. We will throw that hateful uniform away; I never want to see it more. I will make haste and get well; I feel so much stronger since you came. Soon you will go to work again, and you will grow up and marry some good girl. The past will only look like a bad dream then, and we will forget it completely; completely, dear."

"HE FLEW HOME."

Poor soul, how should she know that her picture of a bright future only deepened her boy's anguish? She was silent, telling herself that the best way to dry tears is to let them flow freely. She kissed him and let his weary head fall back on the pillow, and then she gave herself up to dreams of happier days in store for both of them.

Victor's sobs grew less frequent and less violent, and soon nothing could be heard in the little room but the regular breathing of the mother and child. Ashamed of his weakness, the boy forced himself into self-control, and when he raised his head from the pillow, once more believing himself stronger than love of life, his mother, yielding to the reaction which her sudden joy had caused, was sleeping peacefully.

The sight restored his energies. A kind Providence, he thought, had wished to spare him a scene which his strength and courage could not have borne, and he resolved to go at once. Lightly he kissed his mother's forehead, and gazed at her earnestly for a few moments. She seemed to smile, he thought; then he went out hurriedly and returned to his post as quickly as he had come, not seeing a soul he met nor daring to look behind him.

"What! so soon?" the commandant cried, astonished. He had hoped, like the good-hearted man he was, that the boy would not return.

"But I had promised!"

"Doubtless, but why be in such a hurry? You might have stayed with your mother some time longer, and still have kept your word."

"Poor mother! After a scene of tears which seemed to take all my courage—tears of joy for her, of despair for me—she fell asleep so calmly, so happily, that I dare not wait for her to wake. She fell asleep with her arms around me, thinking I should never leave her again; how could I have told her the truth? Who knows whether I should have had the courage to leave her after doing so? And what would you have thought of me if I had not come back?

"So I kissed her, and slipped away like a thief while she was sleeping, and here I am. Pray God may be good to her as she has been to me. Mon commandant, I have one more thing to ask—to finish quickly."

The officer looked at the boy with mingled pity and admiration. His own eyes were full of tears.

"You are quite resigned, then; death does not frighten you?" he asked.

Victor answered him with a gesture.

"And if I pardoned you?"

"You would save my mother's life, too, and I would revere you as a second father."

"Allons! you are a plucky lad, and

"HE BECAME A CHILD ONCE MORE."

you have not deserved to suffer as you have done. You shall go. Embrace me first—bien! Now go, and go quickly. Join your mother, and love her always."

As he spoke the last few words, the officer took the boy by the shoulders and pushed him away gently.

"It really would have been a pity," he said, half apologetically, to his staff, as he turned toward them.

Victor did not run—he flew home. His mother was still sleeping. He would dearly have liked to cover her with kisses, but he did not dare to wake her, although her sleep seemed troubled. He lay down again beside her.

Suddenly she sat up, crying: "Mercy! Victor! My child! Oh! Mercy! Ah! you are here; it is really you?" she added, waking.

Her thin, weak hands wandered all over him; she pressed him close to her and rained kisses on his face. Then she was shaken by convulsive sobs, which Victor could not calm.

"Oh! my boy! my boy!" she moaned, "I dreamt they were going to shoot you!"—Strand Magazine.

The Town of "Is."

One of the most popular legends in Brittany is that relating to an imaginary town called Is, which is supposed to have been swallowed up by the sea at some unknown time. According to them the tips of spires of the churches may be seen in the hollow of the waves when the sea is rough, while during a calm the music of their bells ringing out the hymn appropriate to the day rises above the waters. I often fancy that I have at the bottom of my heart a city of Is, with its bells calling to prayer a recalcitrant congregation. At times I halt to listen to these gentle vibrations, which seem as if they come from immeasurable depths like voices from another world. Since old age began to steal upon me I have loved, more especially during the repose which summer brings with it, to gather up these distant echoes of a vanished Atlantis.—Ernest Renan.

Value of Change.

One of the best prescriptions that can issue from a physician is a change, a specialist friend of mine tells me. The effects of mingling with new people who have new methods of thought is very salutary, he says. Always to see the same people do the same thing, feel the same way, produces a stagnant condition of the mind and heart that is very distressing to behold. There are thousands of invalids who might be greatly benefited by getting away from home, if only for a short time, to mingle with strangers and be touched with the magnetism of the great world as it courses in its accustomed rounds. And there are mental and moral invalids who need the same change to get their heart and mind enlarged and let in a little more of the great light of life.

The Lord's Itinerary.

A good story is told by the Jewish Messenger of a number of boys who were playing on a Saturday in front of an Episcopal church. The rector suddenly came out of his parsonage and told the boys to be quiet in front of the Lord's house.

"That is all right, mister," said the boys. "The Lord is not here to-day. He is down the street at the Jewish synagogue."

When a boy picks a green peach, he squeezes it until it is so soft and ripe his mother will not object if he eats it

WHAT THE MATTER WAS.

Little Game of Two Choir Members Which the Minister Spoiled.

A minister's widow tells this:

"My husband," she said, "had brown eyes that turned deeply, darkly black when he was angry, and which danced with most miraculous merriment when he was amused. Naturally, in the course of a long life with him, I came to know the varying expression of those eyes pretty well. I used to watch his eyes when he was preaching to know how things were going with him and, incidentally, with the congregation. I remember once in the midst of a most earnest discourse to have seen him stop suddenly for the space of a minute, not more, his eyes growing strangely black, then brightening again with that irresistible twinkle, though the rest of his features remained quite grave throughout. As I said, it was only for a moment; then he resumed his sermon as before.

"'What was the matter?' I asked when church was out and we were on our way home.

"'Why, I came so near laughing out in church that there was no fun in it,' he said. 'Of course the choir is hidden from the congregation behind its protecting screen in the rear of the church, but it chances to be exactly in my line of vision as I stand on the rostrum. When I stopped in my sermon today, it was because I happened to glance choirward and saw our new soprano and new tenor having a quiet game of cards behind the screen. They must have felt my gaze upon them, for when they looked up and caught my eye those cards disappeared so suddenly and mysteriously I thought that in spite of everything I should burst out laughing."—Philadelphia Times.

Grant's Court Suit.

"Just before Grant started on his famous trip around the world—in fact, just three days before he left—he walked into a store in Philadelphia and very quietly, just as if he was asking nothing unusual, said that he wanted a full dress uniform of the general's grade finished for him before he left. As he expressed it, he couldn't appear in civilian's dress at the various courts which he would visit, and he didn't like the idea of the knickerbockers and silk stockings of the regulation court costume.

"It was a rush order," said the merchant who received it, "and we had to furnish everything except the sword, but we managed to finish it in time and made what Grant considered the best fitting uniform he ever wore. The epaulets hadn't arrived when the day for trying on occurred, and our fitter told Grant, adding that he was sorry, but that he would have to come in again. Then Grant made a remark which showed his great good sense, one of his predominant characteristics. 'There must be somebody here,' he said, 'who is about my build. Just put the coat on him and fit the epaulets that way.' And so it was done."—New York Times.

Big Bets.

The late Mr. Davis, the biggest bookmaker of his time in England, probably laid the largest bet ever recorded when he wagered $500,000 to $5,000 against three horses owned by a Mr. Clark and entered in the Derby of 1896.

There is also a bet recorded of $150,000 to $150,000, the big amount being laid by Lord Glasgow and the smaller by Lord George Bentinck, who lost.

In 1885 a young lordling bet $15,000 to $150 that St. Simon, a very celebrated race horse, would win a race in which but one other animal was to start. St. Simon was so hot a favorite that 100 to 1 was laid on his chance, such odds, of course, being very unusual and meaning that there is hardly any betting being done. That lord, however, actually bet his $15,000 against a bookmaker's $150 as coolly as if he had been accepting and not laying tremendous odds. St. Simon won in a canter.

A Finished Rebuke.

Hon. George Russell, in his "Recollections and Collections," tells the following story of Jewett, the famous master of Balliol college:

"The scene was the master's own dining room, and the moment that the ladies had left the room one of the guests began a most outrageous conversation. Every one sat flabbergasted. The master winced with annoyance, and then, leading down the table toward the offender, said in his shrillest tone, 'Shall we continue this conversation in the drawing room?' and rose from his chair. It was really a stroke of genius thus both to terminate and to rebuke the impropriety without violating the decorum due from host to guest."

AIDED BY MRS. PINKHAM.

Mrs. W. E. Paxton, Youngtown, North Dakota, writes about her struggle to regain health after the birth of her little girl:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—It is with pleasure that I add my testimony to your list, hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of your valuable medicine.

"After the birth of my little girl, three years ago, my health was very poor. I had leucorrhœa badly, and a terrible bearing-down pain which gradually grew worse, until I could do no work. Also had headache nearly all the time, and dizzy feelings. Menstruations were very profuse, appearing every two weeks.

"I took medicine from a good doctor, but it seemed to do no good. I was becoming alarmed over my condition, when I read your advertisement in a paper. I sent at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two-thirds of the bottle I felt so much better that I send for two more. After using three bottles I felt as strong and well as any one.

"I think it is the best medicine for female weakness ever advertised, and recommend it to every lady I meet suffering from this trouble."

Maternity is a wonderful experience and many women approach it wholly unprepared. Childbirth under right conditions need not terrify women.

The advice of Mrs. Pinkham is freely offered to all expectant mothers, and her advice is beyond question the most valuable to be obtained. If Mrs. Paxton had written to Mrs. Pinkham before confinement she would have been saved much suffering. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

The English Smart Set.

To what a condition has "smart society" fallen! Any one may become a leading light in it, provided that he or she is ready to pay the footing. He or she can at any moment find a person to bid guests to their feasts and any number of guests, guaranteed to be "smart people," will accept the invitations. A year or two ago an American lady intent on fashion took a large house, and an introducer sent out her invitations. At her first party there were many of her own friends present. The introducer explained to her that the right set of people would not come if they were exposed to this promiscuity with those who were not in it. Finally it was agreed that the hostess might invite ten friends to each party, but not more.

What I have never understood is where the pleasure comes in of going to several parties the same evening. Yet there are many apparently sane persons who do this every evening during the season. At each party they probably have to wait at least half an hour before getting out of their carriage and getting back into it when they want to go away. They struggle up stairs, show themselves, stay perhaps half an hour and then hurry off to the next party. Why they should like this mode of spending their evenings no one except themselves can imagine. There is no costermonger's donkey so overworked as a woman bent on society.

Sung Them to Liberty.

In Marchesi and Music, the famous singing teacher tells this anecdote to illustrate the nobility of heart of a Russian woman, one of her pupils, and a native of Nijni-Novgorod, where the great fair is held every year.

Mlle. Nadine Boulitchoff created a great sensation with her beautiful voice and dramatic power, at Moscow, St. Petersburg and Madrid. In the summer of 1880 she sang at Rio Janeiro. Brazil was then the entrepot for the cruel slave trade. At her benefit, Nadine learned that she was to be presented with valuable gifts. She begged that the money, instead of being spent on her, should be used to buy the liberty of several female slaves.

Her deed of charity released seven poor slaves, one of whom had been recently whipped in public by order of her mistress.

On the benefit night, after Nadine had sung, the seven negresses went upon the stage to thank the artiste for their freedom. The crowded house applauded for several minutes; the national hymn was played; the emperor, Dom Pedro, rose, and with him the whole audience, and the songstress knew a moment of thrilling joy such as seldom comes to women.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the California Fig Syrup Co. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

Chronic Rheumatism.

From the Industrial Journal, Jackson, Mich.

The subject of this sketch is forty-six years of age, and actively engaged in farming. When seventeen years old he hurt his shoulder and a few years after commenced to have rheumatic pains in it. On taking a slight cold, or the least strain, sometimes without any apparent cause whatever, the trouble would start and he would suffer the most excruciating pains.

He suffered for over thirty years, and the last decade has suffered so much that he was unable to do any work. To this the frequent occurrences of dizzy spells were added, making him almost a helpless invalid.

In all Sorts of Weather.

He tried the best physicians but without being benefited and has used several specific rheumatic cures, but was not helped. About one year and six months ago he read in this paper of a case somewhat similar to his which was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and concluded to try this remedy.

After taking the first box he felt somewhat better, and after using three boxes, the pains entirely disappeared, the dizziness left him, and he has now for over a year been entirely free from all his former trouble and enjoys better health than he has had since his boyhood. He is loud in his praises of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and will gladly corroborate the above statements. His postoffice address is Lorenzo Neely, Horton, Jackson County, Michigan.

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained, in a condensed form, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. All druggists sell them.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.

SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE.

Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by

Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

CUTLERS CARBOLATE OF IODINE.

Guaranteed cure for Catarrh and Consumption. All Druggists, $1.00.

W. H. SMITH, BUFFALO, N. Y., Sole Proprietors.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once.

DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CURE YOURSELF!

Trade Mark. BIG G. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00.

Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous.

Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

HERCULES

GAS

ENGINES,

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

S. F. N. U. No. 847. New Series No. 38

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.
Independence, Cal.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 19. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 21, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1490

INYO INDEPENDENT
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	120
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

Women in Money Matters.

WOMEN are too often mean in money matters, and their meanness may sometimes be called by even an uglier name. A woman may be stingy in giving, but this is her least common form of meanness. As a rule a woman likes to give; and if her sympathy, her interest be once aroused, she is more likely to give lavishly and without wisdom, than to withhold. But the same woman will show absolute meanness in other ways, perhaps in reluctance to pay a fair wage for services rendered or work done; perhaps in a tendency to overreach others, to "drive a bargain," and to get "full value" for her money.

It is quite evident that women like "bargains." They run to cheap shops and to sales, without giving much thought to the welfare of saleswomen or seamstresses. But it is to be feared that women carry their love of bargaining and cheapening into other relations of life. There are some who do not hesitate to carry meanness a little over the borders of honesty; to take advantage of a friend, or to cheat a husband over the housekeeping accounts.

Most acts of meanness spring, of course, from selfishness, but they proceed also from other causes—ignorance, for instance, and lack of a sense of justice. A woman often does not know what work means, what work costs, and therefore grudges a fair payment for it. Women used often to be taunted with their unbusinesslike folly in dealing with business matters. The reaction has come in our day, when I think women are meaner than they ever were before, because they say to themselves, "We will not be cheated, we will not be soft-hearted, we will not let people make fools of us." How often have we not heard it said, "I would rather do business with a man than with a woman!" Yes, because men know the facts of life, and the rules of the game. Women are too timid to be generous. It is the want of knowledge, the want of justice, and too often the want of sympathy, which make women "mean" in money matters.—Woman at Home.

Passing of the Rocking Chair.

It is no longer fashionable to rock. In fashionable circles the rocking chair is doomed. Slowly, but surely, for many years there has been a more or less insidious crusade against any article of furniture built with rockers. First of all, the new order of things was tried on the wee infant of the household. This was only the beginning. The elimination of the cradle was soon followed by the expurgation of the rocking chair from rooms of state such as the drawing rooms, dining room and library, and then, not yet satisfied, fashion pursued her relentless way above stairs, even into the very boudoir of my lady, which to-day, although rich in broad divans loaded with the downiest of pillows, and veritable sleepy hollows of chairs, is, as a rule, quite bereft of rocking chairs. It now appears that the rocking chair is to be banished even from the piazzas. Now if there is a time and place of all others when and where a comfortable high back rocker is at a premium it is certainly on a shady piazza during a midsummer afternoon. But for some inexplicable reason fashion at present frowns on any of her devotees who dares include the delightful article in the furnishings of her summer piazza.

To Destroy Flies.

Procure five cents' worth of cobalt and sprinkle it on plates with a little sugar; cover it with water and set it where flies can drink. It is sure death to them, but must be kept out of the reach of children, as it is very poisonous. Soak a bunch of leeks in sufficient water to cover them for four or five days. Strain and wash the furniture and pictures with the water. The odor is scarcely perceptible, but will keep the flies at a distance. A castor oil plant growing in the room will kill many and drive away the rest. A bunch of walnut leaves or a growing Japanese lily will have the same effect.

Paint the Kitchen Floor.

Heat three quarts of soft water, to which has been added three ounces of glue, until the glue has dissolved; take from the fire and put in three pounds of yellow ochre, mixing well. Apply a thick coat with a new whitewash brush. When dry, which will be in a short time, with boiled oil and a common paint-brush thoroughly cover the floor. One can walk on it as soon as the first coat is dry. If a lighter color is preferred, use one pound of ochre and two pounds of pulverized dry white lead.

Gowns for Travel.

What to wear when traveling is a question that intersts the minds of all women. It is quite as necessary to look well for a day's outing as it is for a long journey, for there are few places where a gown shows more thoroughly its good and bad points than in a railway car or on a steamboat. The day is gone by for people to go about with any amount of hand luggage; everything is put in the trunks that is possible, and only enough left out to make one perfectly comfortable.

Rattan Furniture.

Housekeepers usually send the rattan and willow furniture to the professional cleaner to have them renovated, but they may be successfully treated at home at a trifling expense. Take the chair upon the porch, prepare a warm suds, and wash the article thoroughly, using a brush for all crevices, also cane seats. Rinse off with clear, warm water, and wipe as dryly as possible, using soft absorbent clothes, and letting the sun finish the drying. When all is clean and dry, varnish with the varnish that comes for this special purpose, setting in a clean place to dry, where no dust can interfere.

Short Skirt Is the Rage.

The short skirt is not the coming garment or the garment for special occasions or the garment of the future. It is the dress of the day. Comfort and common sense are its sponsors, and grace and safety its mission.

In the mountains the long skirt is considered bad form nowadays. No one under 60 years or 160 pounds ever dreams of wearing one except in the evening. As you may have heard, anything out of harmony is always out of taste, and a long skirt is as out of place in the mountains as a ball dress would be at the breakfast table. Corduroy is the best material, for it hangs well and is light to walk in. It lasts forever and dust does not disfigure it.

The Newest Shirt Waist.

A new edition of the shirt waist is just out. It is made of anything you please in the field of gingham, but a small check seems preferable, and the collar is made on the garment and of similar material to that employed in the body. A high, straight band, closing up in front, and boasting a narrow roll over, is its characteristic. No tie of silk, satin, lawn, or lace encircles this neckband, a long piece of the shirt's material, and wide as your hand, must be hemmed on both edges; cut the ends in points, and edge them with a double ruffle, that is very narrow; tie this scarf in a four-in-hand.

Some of the new skirts have the bottom edge cut in vandykes, either bound or faced with silk, and beneath is placed a three or four-inch ruffle, either plaited or gathered, and this, by the way, will prove a nice way to lengthen a dress skirt.

In making a skirt flounced from hem to waist, the ruffles should be cut on the bias and scant of not more than once and a third for narrow ruffles. The foundation skirt must be closely fitted at the top and should measure less around the bottom than a plain skirt. The Paquin skirts will be worn all the autumn, but a handsome gown is best made up with plain gored skirt according to fancy; still the Paquin effect may be carried out by setting the shaped ruffle on the whole skirt without cutting.

If your waist wrinkles at the neck and your collar does not fit in the back, it is because it is not set low enough on your neck; if you cannot with ease and comfort raise your arms to put on your hat, it is either your sleeves are too tight, your dress is too long on the shoulder or cut out too much under the arm; if your dress waist wrinkles between the neck and the tip of the bust, it is because the shoulder seams are not drawn to the proper place or the dart has not been taken in the lining just at the tip of the bust; or again, if your dress has a rounding, sort of stooped appearance at the nape of the neck, looking too much fat, it may be lessened by fitting the middle-back seam very snug and straight, also bring the front shoulder seam far over on the back, so that the space between the shoulder seams be as narrow as possible.

To Cure Goitre.

A simple and efficacious remedy for this unsightly and distressing affliction is a string of amber beads which must be worn around the neck continually. They can be procured at any large jewellery store at a cost of about five dollars a strand. The cheap ones are of no use.

Things to Remember.

Never omit a note of thanks to any person who has sent you a gift—great or trifling.

Invitations to all formal affairs should bear the name of the host as well as his wife.

You can never become a successful hostess if you do not keep informed upon the principal topics of the day.

Never arrive at a luncheon or dinner earlier than five minutes before the time set, and upon no account a moment later.

When your hostess serves wine do not make open protest if you are a white ribboner. An almost imperceptible motion will tell the waitress you refuse it, and you will be respected for your golden silence.

HOW SOME PEOPLE LIVE.

Queer Ways of Eking Out Insufficient Regular Incomes.

In the struggle for life, which is so keen at this end of the century, some people resort to strange expedients to get bread and cheese or to increase a pittance to a comfortable income. Inspector Livingstone, who was formerly in charge of the police at the Law Courts, tells a tragic story of a poor and briefless barrister who fought a long and grim battle with fate, and was beaten in the end. In the early hours of the morning he worked as a market porter at Covent Garden, and then at 10 o'clock adjourned to his chambers in the Temple, donned wig and gown, and attended the courts waiting day after day to grasp the skirts of happy chance. Others as unknown to the world and friendless as he had their opportunity, but none presented itself to him, and in hope ever deferred his race was run.

A Somerset House clerk, who rushed into matrimony before he had properly counted the cost, and found it difficult to run even a modest household on £150 a year, especially after the arrival of a little stranger, got over the embarrassment by starting a coffee stall near Smithfield Market in the early morning. He kept his truck in the neighborhood, but brought down his stock of comestibles from his home in Camden Town. Fortunately, his wife, who did her best to help on the enterprise, was a capital plain cook, and his mutton pies and buns had a great reputation in the market. He was generally cleaned out by 8 o'clock, and no one would have thought of identifying him with the smart young man, silk-hatted and top-coated, who two hours later crossed the Strand to Somerset House.

A rising author who is now sought by the publishers, but had a particularly hard struggle to find acceptance, tided over the worst period by acting as a broker's man. Taken as a whole, he found it a most unpleasant experience, but he declares that he wouldn't have missed it for the world, for it has supplied him with material for numbers of sketches and short stories. A Christmas story which brought a lot of praise, for instance, was a chapter from that experience, and well deserved the encomium of "very realistic" from the critics.

A friend of the writer, who rejoices in what the police reports call "a very aristocratic appearance," and has in addition excellent manners, adds enough to a slender income to pay for the summer holiday for himself and family his tailor's and bootmaker's bills, and even his rent, by acting as a private detective at balls and receptions in Belgravia and Mayfair. Chance threw him in contact with the manager of a detective agency which does a great deal of business of this kind, and his first job was, in fact, simply as a night's diversion at the invitation of the manager aforesaid. But so pleased was the lady of the house with his appearance and obliging courtesy that she made special mention of it to the manager, who accordingly proposed to my friend that he should accept regular paid employment. He was nothing loath, and now has engagements almost every night during the season.

Another curious case is that of a Nonconformist minister in the south of London who doubles his slender salary by the profits of a flourishing photography business on the other side of the Thames. Originally he took up photography as a pastime, but acquiring considerable skill in the work, was pestered by people who wanted to get their portraits taken on the cheap. So he determined to gain instead of lose by his work, and taking convenient rooms at some distance from the scene of his ministerial labors, set up as a "photographic artist" under another name, his daughter acting as his assistant. Fortune favored him, and before the secret of his constant absence from home was fathomed by the curious of his flock, he had made so promising a business that he stood in no awe of deacons or church, though, indeed, the former have taken a very sensible view of the matter, and admire rather than condemn his enterprise.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

A Great Climate.

Visitors to the new States of the far West are generally prepared for any phenomenon showing in the line of agriculture, stock-raising and the like, but once in awhile they are taken by surprise.

An Easterner who was spending his summer vacation on the ranch of a relative in Colorado, went out one morning to inspect a large incubator in which the young chicks were hatching. In one corner of the incubator a neglected peach seed, encouraged by the warmth of the atmosphere, had burst, and a tiny sprout several inches long was growing out of it.

"Great Caesar!" exclaimed the Eastern man, as this caught his eye, "do you hatch out your peaches in this country?"—Youth's Companion.

Strict Sunday Laws.

Swinemunde on the Baltic has strict Sunday laws. Shipmasters who enter the port are fined heavily by the town authorities if they have their ships washed or painted on Sunday or church holidays. As foreigners are not acquainted with the German Church calendar they are frequently caught.

Population of Russia.

The revised returns of the Russian census gives the total population of that country at 129,000,000. This makes Russia third in rank among nations, China coming first, with an estimated population of 400,000,000, and the British empire next, with 208,000,000.

Any old bachelor with plenty of money can obtain a situation as ideal husband.

RIVER'S OMNIVEROUS MAW.

How the Mississippi Is Eating Away the Towns of Southern Illinois.

During the past ten years some of the most remarkable changes that ever take place in the course of any river have occurred in the channel of the Mississippi from St. Genevieve to Chester. When the current of the Mississippi broke across the narrow neck of land which separates it from the Kaskaskia river, and, changed its course to the shorter route, the extreme efforts of the turbulent stream, the rolling, rushing waters of the mighty Mississippi and the slow, peaceful current of the Kaskaskia, to find room in the narrow bed of the Kaskaskia caused a surging and a crowding of the waters that soon ate away the frail soil which formed the river's banks.

The tract of land upon which old Kaskaskia was situated was formed into an island and it was not long until the current of the river succeeded in washing away the fertile soil and undermining the buildings of the old settlement causing the destruction of the village. The washing of the soil along the Illinois side was the same and after working a broader bed for itself at the expense of thousands of acres of valuable farm lands in Illinois, the river began working a straight course for itself, and slowly but surely ever since then the eating away of the land has gone on in ceaseless silence.

Two years ago the river threatened to turn its current upon the Missouri shore and had already begun making great inroads upon the banks opposite Clearyville. When this was found to be disastrous to the towns on the Illinois side of the river efforts were made by the business men of those places which resulted in an appropriation being made by the government and work being done on the river at that point.

The work had the desired effect and since then little attention has been given to the river at that point. But now a picture most disastrous in its execution is spread before the inhabitants of the towns along the river from St. Genevieve to Rockwood. The fate of Rockwood threatens to be the fate of Chester and Menard. The same terrible fate of historic old Kaskaskia hangs gloomily over Clearyville and Boise Brule. These villages lie along the river's bank all oblivious of what seems to be the inevitable.

The serious and rapid encroachments of the river's current upon Kaskakia island at a point directly opposite the Southern Illinois prison has caused a great sandbar to form along the Illinois shore immediately above the prison. The gradual growth of this bar has been continually watched by the prison officials for the past ten months, it being interesting to them from the fact that it was seen that as soon as the bar had pushed itself sufficiently far enough down stream the water supply of the prison would be shut off.

The further into the island the current ate the further down the stream the hoary-headed bar pushed its way, and a month ago all hopes that the bar would not advance to a dangerous position were abandoned by the prison officials and preparations were made for a new supply to be in readiness when the other was shut off. Recently the bar manifested its destructive work. The prison pumps refused to work. The sand had reached the point where the pipes entered the river and they had become clogged.

About a mile above the prison the river makes a great bend into Kaskaskia island, forming a half moon-like depression, which has existed ever since the river cut across from its old bed. The current makes a great sweep along this depression and the frail soil is rapidly washed away and sand bars from continually along the Illinois shore. During the past year almost a mile of land has been washed away from the south end of the island by the hungry waters and they are yet unsatisfied. The current is working a straight course for itself and this is what makes the gloomy picture to the prison officials and the inhabitants of Chester, St. Mary's, Clearyville and Boise Brule. The current in the straightened course will strike the Missouri shore about half a mile up the river's old channel and once more the river will begin its straightening action, but this time it will be much more accelerated, owing to the conditions favorable to the natural action of the current.

The old course of the river will give the current easy access to the Missouri soil, but instead of following the old slough and cutting through the point of land and emerging opposite Chester the current will manifest a tendency to a straight course and the water will spread out over the broad fertile bottoms of the Boise Brule, while the current will gradually work a channel along a course so natural as to appear to have been destined long ages ago to be the future bed of the river.

The muddy stream will rush along the depressions back of Clearyville and Boise Brule and will then enter Fish lake and passing onward the stream will find the least resistance along the course of Boise creek. Once the current begins to run along this route it will be a matter of but a few weeks until the main channel of the river will exist there. Where are now rich farm lands, which each years sends forth the richest products of the state of Missouri, there will then be the dashing muddy waters of the Mississippi. Instead of a great rushing stream in front of the Illinois state prison and the city of Chester there will be a great stretch of white sand, dotted here and there with pools of muddy, murky water and one standing high up on the bluffs on the Illinois side will see the great river steamers plying along their course five miles away.

The villages of Boise Brule and Clearyville will be destroyed, as was Kaskaskia; Chester will be little more than a settlement and the prison will be located in a spot so remote that it will possibly necessitate its removal. The Centralia and Chester and the Wabash, Chester and Western railroads will be left without a terminus and the great Father of Waters will flow on.

THE MISSISSIPPI'S CHANGING COURSE.

Allspice.

Practically all the allspice used in the civilized world comes from the Island of Jamaica. It is known also as "primento," or Jamaica pepper. The tree is evergreen and the flowers grow in dense clusters; these develop into small green aromatic berries the size of a black pepper. If allowed to ripen they become pulpy and lose some of their pungency. For commercial purposes the berries are gathered when green, carefully dried in the sun and afterward packed in bags holding 160 to 180 pounds each, for shipment. Pimento trees grow in many parts of tropical America, but nowhere do they thrive as in Jamaica. The trees are never planted by man and receive no cultivation worthy of the name. The seeds are dropped by the birds, and the rains and the tropical sun do the rest. Surplus trees are cut down and become walking sticks and umbrella handles.—Exchange.

This Seems Correct.

Riprap—The eyes are the windows of the soul.

Wigwag—Then the soul of the man whose eyes have been blackened looks out of stained-glass windows.—New York Herald.

Giving your daughter piano lessons is like buying a lottery ticket where you have one chance in ten thousand to win.

PAINTED ON A CLIFF.

Sentiments of Utah Citizens Expressed in a Unique Way.

William Gibson of Vernal, Utah, was taken with the idea that to paint the motto, "Remember the Maine," high upon the face of a cliff in Ashley canyon would be a fitting way to represent the sentiment of the citizens of Ashley valley. Painter Leo O. Voight agreed to go up and do the work.

BRAVE GERMAN DOING THE WORK.

A new five-eighths-inch four stranded Manila rope was used to hoist him to the spot on the cliff selected for the painting, which from measurements taken was 358 feet from the bottom and 225 feet from the top of the cliff, not allowing for stretch of rope. This would show the cliff to be twenty-eight feet higher than the Washington monument.

The start was made from a ledge sixty feet from the base of the cliff. When Mr. Voight was raised about 100 feet from the ledge the twist in the rope caused him to whirl around very rapidly and, to use his own expression the cannyon was full of cliffs. There were cliffs to the right of him, cliffs to the left of him and cliffs all around him. It looked as if he were turning fast enough to throw his boots off.

The children yelled, the women screamed and some shed tears of sympathy for, as they supposed, a doomed man, but the twist was soon out of the rope and the brave German was hoisted to the right point and did his work according to program.

A MISMATED COUPLE.

Prince and Princess of Wales Again the Subject of Gossip.

The rupture, for it has come to be looked upon as nothing less, between the prince and princess of Wales continues to be eagerly discussed by the London smart set. All their various differences in the past, and they have been not a few, are being recalled and everyone is wondering how long it will be before a reconciliation is brought about, for there is little doubt that eventually the mismated couple will make up once more. It is pretty well understood that the prince's conduct has at times been very exasperating to the princess and it is equally well known that the latter has a temper which, when it breaks loose, indulges in some very picturesque pyrotechnics. However, the princess, who is a thoroughly good woman, has forgiven in the past and doubtless will again. As prospective queen of Great Britain she is not likely to break permanently with her rather trying husband.

PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

A Popular Naval Hero.

One of the heroes of the British navy whom old soldiers of the Crimea still recall with warm fondness was Capt. William Peel, the third son of Robert Peel. Many stories of his gallantry are told, of how he picked up a shell with his own hands and carried it away from the boxes of powder near which it had fallen during the bombardment, and threw it over the top of the earthworks just before it exploded; of how when the sandbags around the magazine caught fire from another shell he, before any one else, was on top of the magazine pulling away the burning rags, and of how he always set the example in his battery of walking upright, no matter how fierce the firing, and without due haste; but the best story of all when you know what a brave man he was is of how once when in 1851 he was crossing the Nubian desert he astonished his companions by dismounting from his camel and gave some of his store of water to a little bird that was lying on the sand dying of thirst. This was the man of whom Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood spoke recently, when he said that of all the officers he had ever known Peel did most to inspire his men with his own spirit.

At Close Range.

Hattie—So you and Jack quarreled, did you?

Ella—Yes; he said something that I didn't like, and I told him we must be strangers henceforth.

Hattie—And did he fall on his knees and ask you to forgive him?

Ella—Not he. You see he—that is, his knees were occupied at the time.

MARRIED BY A PRISONER.

Ancestors of an Honored Southern Family were Wedded in Jail.

Of the immigrants to this country during the last century none was more sturdy than the rugged Scotch-Irish, whose notions of personal and religious freedom caused them to forsake their own country and seek homes on this side of the Atlantic. Among the number who thus came to America was Rev. Dr. Thomas Clark, a Scotch Presbyterian, who was educated in the University of Glasgow, but who from 1751 to 1764 was the pastor of a congregation in Monaghan County, Ireland. In the last-named year Dr. Clark, with about 300 of his congregation, came to America. They landed at New York, where they separated and went, a part to Salem, in Washington County, New York, and the rest to Cedar Springs, in Abbeyville County, South Carolina. Dr. Clark accompanied the party that went to Salem, and there became pastor of the first church that was erected in the State of New York north of Albany. He resigned from the pastorate of the Salem church, however, in 1782, and joined his brethren in South Carolina, where he was installed as pastor of the Cedar Springs congregation in Abbeyville County, a position which he retained until his death in 1792.

While Dr. Clark was a pastor in Ireland he refused to take the prescribed oath of abjuration, because the oath recognized the king as the head of the church; and for such refusal he was imprisoned in the county jail of Monaghan County. While thus confined in jail Dr. Clark officiated at one marriage and thirteen baptisms. The marriage thus celebrated in the Monoghan county jail was performed in the year 1754, and the parties to it—John Harris and Eleanor Rendels—preceded their pastor to America, and settled in South Carolina. The descendants of this couple, whose nuptials were thus solemnized in a jail, have been numerous and distinguished. Twelve of the ministers of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church of the South are descended from that couple; twenty-two of the ministers of that church have obtained wives from among the descendants of that couple, and many of their descendants have filled the offices of elder and deacon in that church.

The members of that church still observe much of the severity of faith and practice that chacterized their progenitors in Scotland, and the term "seceders," by which they are commonly known, did not arise from anything in this country, but was given to them in their origin, when Ebenezer Erskine and his coadjutors in 1733 seceded from the Church of Scotland. These secessionists declared that the church from which they parted had become corrupted under the various efforts of the English kings to inject prelacy and episcopacy into the Presbyterianism of Scotland. When the "seceders," who have since spread into all the Southern States, established a classical school for the education of their boys at Due West, S. C., they called it Clark and Erskine Seminary, and it was this seminary which grew and developed into Erskine College, with which the history of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church in this country is so closely identified, and the gentleman who for twenty-five years has presided over that institution and to whom the educators of the State recently paid such admirable tribute is himself a descendant of the couple whose hands were united in the jail of Monaghan County, Ireland, in 1754.—Washington Post.

Turquoise and Sapphire.

Someone has recently sent an inquiry in reference to the turquoise and the sapphire, knowing only that both were blue gems, but unable to state the difference between them. The sapphire is a transparent gem, like the ruby, topaz and others. It is blue, and next in hardness to the diamond. The sapphire is pure crystallized alumina. The turquoise is a hydrated phosphate of alumina. It is also blue, like a piece of sky, but is opaque, and comes mainly from the mountains of Persia. That indefinable property, like the "water" of a diamond, or the luster of a pearl, is in a turquoise called the zat. In the middle ages many superstitions were attached to it, and virtues ascribed to it. It was said to strengthen the sight, to save the bones in a fall, to pale if the possessor was sick or died, but to recover its color when another owner took it. Most extraordinary fancy of all, it was asserted that when suspended by a string it was capable of correctly striking the hours in some mysterious way on the inside of a glass. Some very beautiful specimens of turquoise can be seen in the National Museum at Washington, both singly and also incrusted on Persian boxes and bowls, as ornaments.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The First Use of Field Music.

The first use of field music of which we have absolutely authentic information was at the battle of Bouvines, that village of French Flanders where the French have won no fewer than three victories—Philip Augustus defeating Otto IV. of Germany there in 1214, Philip of Valois defeating the English there in 1340, while in 1794 the French defeated the Austrians at the same place. It was at Bouvines, in 1214, that trumpets sounded the signal for the victorious French charge, the first authentic instance of a command given by a trumpet-call.—Century.

A Dish of Worms.

One of the choicest delicacies in Jamaica is a huge white worm found in the heart of the cabbage palm. It tastes, when cooked, like almonds.

Some people have money and don't know how to enjoy it, while others know how to enjoy it but haven't got it.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L HUTCHINSON .. of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. MCCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK ..... Inyo

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
J. J. GUNN ..... Modock

Clerk Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION ..... Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL ..... Bishop

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG ..... Big Pine

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES ..... Independence

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY ..... Bishop

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON ..... Bishop

OFFICIAL.

ELECTION PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }

IN accordance with law thereunto directing me, I hereby proclaim and give notice that a General Election will be held throughout the State of California on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898,

At which election the following officers will be elected, and the following proposed Constitutional amendments and other questions will be voted on:

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.
SECRETARY OF STATE.
CONTROLLER.
TREASURER.
ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
SURVEYOR-GENERAL.
CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT.
SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.
SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE PRINTING.

Also, seven Representatives to the Congress of the United States; being one Representative from each Congressional District in this State.

Also, three Railroad Commissioners, being one Railroad Commissioner from each Railroad District in this State.

Also, four members of the State Board of Equalization, being one member from each of the four districts from which by law members of the Board of Equalization are to be elected.

Also, two Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of California.

Also, four Judges of the Superior Court in and for the City and County of San Francisco.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the Counties of Santa Clara, Tulare and Glenn.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Del Norte for the unexpired term of James E. Murphy, deceased, ending January, 1903; vice Fletcher A. Cutler, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Santa Barbara, for the unexpired term of W. B. Cope, resigned, ending January, 1903; vice W. S. Day, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Kings, for the unexpired term of Justin Jacobs, deceased, ending January, 1901.

Also, twenty members of the Senate, being one Senator from each of the following Senatorial Districts, to-wit: Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, Thirty-second, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, Fortieth.

Also, eighty members of the Assembly, being one member of the Assembly from each of the eighty Assembly Districts in this State.

Also, at said election, amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, submitted by the Legislature of this State, at its last regular session, numbered and designated as hereinafter specified, will be voted upon by the electors of said State, namely:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that now and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State at the election to be held throughout this State on

Each of the said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon by ballot in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes	No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes	No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44 (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes	No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes	No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes	No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes	No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes	No

Also, at said election, the following question shall be voted on: The Legislature of this State at its thirty second session, adopted a resolution on the 2d day of March, 1897, known as Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, recommending to the electors of this State, at the General Election to be held November 8th, A. D. 1898, to vote for or against a Convention to revise the Constitution of the State. The proposed Convention is to consist of eighty delegates, one to be chosen from each Assembly District. Such delegates are to possess the same qualifications, and shall be elected in the same manner as members of the Assembly; they shall receive as compensation the sum of eight dollars per day with the same mileage as the members of the Assembly, and there shall be a reasonable number of clerks and other attaches whose compensation shall be fixed by the convention. Accordingly at such general election the electors of this State will vote for or against a Convention to revise said Constitution. Each ballot used at such election shall contain printed thereon, in addition to other matter required by law, the words:

For the Convention to revise the Constitution.

Against the Convention to revise the Constitution.

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I of the Penal Code; such reward to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, this 23rd day of September, A. D. 1898.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.

SUPERVISORS' PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the General Election to be held on

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8 1898,

The following County, District and Township Officers are to be elected in the County of Inyo, State of California, viz.:

1—Sheriff and Tax Collector;
2—County Clerk, Auditor and Recorder;
3—County Treasurer;
4—County Assessor;
5—District Attorney;
6—Superintendent of Schools;
7—Coroner and Public Administrator;
8—County Surveyor;
9—One Supervisor, 1st District;
10—One Supervisor, 3d District;
11—One Supervisor, 5th District;
12—One Justice of the Peace, 1st Twp.;
13—One Constable 1st Township;
14—One Justice of the Peace, 2d Twp.;
15—One Constable, 2d Township;
16—One Justice of the Peace 3d Twp.;
17—One Constable, 3d Township.
18—One Justice of the Peace 4th Twp.;
19—One Constable, 4th Township.
20—One Justice of the Peace, 5th Twp.;
21—One Constable, 5th Township.

Boards of Election.

Ordered—That polls be held in the following places in the precincts named in the said County of Inyo, for the said General Election, and that the following named electors be and they are appointed officers of the Boards of Election in the respective Precincts of said County, for said General Election, as follows, to-wit:

Round Valley, No. 1.
Inspectors—W. H. Wells J. G. W. Birchim.
Judges—D. Olds, W. W. Vaughn.
Clerks—I. P. Smith John E. Jones.
Ballot Clerks—J. S. McGee C. L. Olds.
Polls to be held at School House.

Lincoln, No. 2.
Inspectors—R. Love G. P. Bourland.
Judges—W. H. Fitzgerald, James Shaw.
Clerks—W. A. Trickey Charles Wonacott.
Ballot Clerks—Wm. Brockman, Wm. Jenkins.
Polls to be held at School House.

Laws, No. 3.
Inspectors—Barton McGee, H. G. Pinkney.
Judges—Jos. McNally P. Gunter
Clerks—Ed. Deh, Geo. Hackaby
Ballot Clerks—Ed Morton, L. H. J. Ehlen
Polls to be held at School House.

Bishop, No. 4
Inspectors—C. W. Dixon Ed M. Clarke
Judges—W. G. McCrosky jr. James McBride
Clerks—W. W. Watterson, Chas Garretson
Ballot Clerks—A. J. Murphy, Henry Shirley
Polls to be held at Court House.

East Bishop, No. 5.
Inspectors—C. M. Dixon, W. C. Brierly
Judges—L. A. Coats, Chas. A. McKay
Clerks—H. H. Howell, Geo. Watterson
Ballot Clerks—Andrew Pell, John N. Yandell
Polls to be held at Albright's office.

Poleta, No. 6.
Inspectors—George Collins, James Hampton
Judges—George Storey, A. O. Collins
Clerks—J. A. Leidy, C. W. Geiger
Ballot Clerks—T. J. Reed, George Free
Polls to be held at George Collins' House.

Big Pine, No. 7.
Inspectors—R. W. Thomas, S. H. Spratt
Judges—S. J. McMurry, J. E. M. Connell
Clerks—G. W. Hall, W. H. Uhlmeyer
Ballot Clerks—I. Joseph, D. W. Pitman
Polls to be held at School House.

Fish Springs, No. 8.
Inspectors—J. H. Cox, Chas. Petersen
Judges—T. W. Hill, G. W. Melone
Clerk—Geo. H. Rose, C. F. Fuller
Ballot Clerks—A. W. H. Smith Upton Tracy
Polls to be held at School House.

Taboose, No. 9.
Inspectors—Geo. D. Calvert, S. Tapman
Judges—Luke E. Smith, William Hines
Clerks—Charles Walter, Joseph G. Bell
Ballot Clerks—A. L. Conklin, M. S. Harbour
Polls to be held at School House.

Independence, No. 10.
Inspectors—A. Clark, J. S. Gorman
Judges—J. D. Blair, G. W. Brady
Clerks—J. E. Parker, George Thorpe
Ballot Clerks—Neel Bell, H. D. Gill
Polls to be held at School House.

Citrus, No. 11.
Inspectors—Jacob Pfohl, W. H. Ramsey
Judges—Joseph Vaughn, W. F. Norbrup
Clerks—John A. Ramsey, Martin Church
Ballot clerks—David Vaughn, Seth A. Baker
Polls to be held at R. R. Depot.

Georges Creek, No. 12.
Inspectors—Gus McGovern, John Kispert
Judges—Thos. Hamilton, J. V. Skinner
Clerks—J. E. Shepherd, J. F. Beale
Ballot clerks—J. W. Lacey, W. H. Jenkins
Polls to be held at School House.

Lone Pine, No. 13.
Inspectors—Mark Hand, J. C. Anton
Judges—P. M. Laberge, C. Carrasco
Clerks—F. P. Meyson, R. C. Spear
Ballot clerks—Abe Diaz, O. F. Dearborn
Polls to be held at Town Hall.

Cerro Gordo, No. 14.
Inspectors— — —, Chris Crohn
Judges—Gregory Kelly, Manuel Romero
Clerks—M. W. Trask, — —
Ballot clerks—Harry Williams, Jesus Romero
Polls to be held at Crohn's Building.

Keeler, No. 15
Inspectors—Samuel Levy, John Jenkins
Judges—Mike Anton, Nat Randall
Clerks—A. R. Schively, H. Winkle
Ballot clerks—C. W. Stewart, A. St. Merry
Polls to be held at School House.

Olancha, No. 16
Inspectors—Alonzo Brown, August Walker
Judges—R. H. Williams, Horace Bellows
Clerks—W. Grant, Charles Whittock
Ballot clerks—Henry Deane, Ira Brown
Polls to be held at W. H. Walker's House.

Darwin, No. 17.
Inspectors—Henry Jackson, Paul Pfefferle
Judges—J. A. McKenzie, N. S. Thompson
Clerks—James Murry, Charles Richardson
Ballot clerks—James Harry, James Wood
Polls to be held at Waterman's Store.

Modock, No. 18.
Inspectors—Arthur Smith, — —
Judges—James Scansborough, — —
Clerks—C. E. Shepherd, John Doody
Ballot clerks—John C. Cress, Wm. Monahan
Polls to be held at J. J. Gunn's Boarding House.

Mountain Springs, No. 19.
Inspector—P. D. Webb, — —
Judges—James Prewett, — —
Clerks— — —, — —
Ballot clerks—Theodore Wibbelt, — —
Polls to be held at Wolbrecht's House.

Ballarat, No. 20.
Inspectors—Frank McAlister, P. Winston
Judges—John Taylor, J. S. Stotler
Clerks—George Vollmer, C. H. Tyler
Ballot clerks—J. Casey, Chas. McLeod
Polls to be held in Weaver & Porter's Building, south of Weaver & Porter's Store.

Panamint, No. 21.
Inspectors—J. Curran, George Montgomery
Judges—J. Wall, F. Russell
Clerks—Al Williams, H. P. Dover
Ballot clerks—J. W. Trotter, J. Wingfield
Polls to be held at Anthony's Boarding House.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest:
D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

LEGAL.

NOTICE OF SALE OF MINING INTERESTS BY PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by Frank M. Kelsey, Public Administrator, administrator of the estate of John F. Glaser, deceased, that he will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, all of the interest of said deceased at the time of his death, and all interest which his said estate may since have acquired, in and to the following described mining property, situate in the South Park Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, to wit:

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Mineral Hill group of mines, in accordance with location notices filed in the office of the County Recorder of said Inyo County, and in accordance with the records of said mining district, said group being composed of the following claims, to-wit: Mineral Hill, Mineral Layout, Breakaway, and Mineral Mound.

An undivided one-fourth (¼) interest in the Aurora and Tuber mining claims;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Comet mine;

An undivided one-half (½) interest in the Yellow Meth mine;

All in accordance with said county records and the records of said mining district.

Also all of the interest of said deceased in the Golden West Mining and Milling Company.

Bids in writing will be received at the office of the undersigned administrator, or at the office of the undersigned attorneys for said administrator, for said mining claims, or any part thereof. The said interest in said Mineral Hill group will be sold as a whole. Separate bids will be required for the other claims above described.

Said property will be sold on or after twelve o'clock noon, of MONDAY, the 17th day of October, 1898. The said mining interests are offered for sale pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, made and entered on the 2nd day of September, 1898, in a certain proceeding in said Court entitled in the Matter of the Estate of John F. Glaser, deceased, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation by said Court.

Ten per cent of the amount of bid will be required to be paid when bid is accepted, and balance of purchase price upon confirmation of sale.

Dated September 3d, 1898.

FRANK M. KELSEY,
Public Administrator, Administrator of said Estate, 220-222 Wilcox Bldg., cor. Second and Spring Sts., Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California.

FLINT & BARKER, Attorneys for Administrator, Los Angeles Natl. Bk. Bldg., N. E. cor. First & Spring sts., Los Angeles, California.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

James R. Moffett, the Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on SATURDAY, the 22d day of October, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Superior Court, in the town of Independence, in the county of Inyo, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased, either at public or private sale, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

WALTER A. LAMAR,
Judge of the Superior Court

Dated September 17th, 1898.
P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Administrator.

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb by wholesale.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE

HORSESHOEING

AND

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21 1898

E. Ghenot is seriously ill.

Dr. Helen M. McKnight, of Bisnop, arrived at Independence this morning in answer to a professional call.

Mr. J. G. McLean has volunteered to teach a class in calisthenics at the "Gym." every Tuesday evening, from 7:30 to 8:30.

In the Superior Court, October 12th, in the case of Anna Reynolds vs. Silas Reynolds a decree of divorce was granted to the plaintiff.

Mrs. John Willett has bought a lot in Independence near Mr. Bunney's place, and will soon commence the erection of a new residence.

Owing to the political gathering on Thursday evening the meeting of the Debating Club was postponed until tomorrow (Saturday) evening.

Pedestrians and school children especially owe a vote of thanks to Road Commissioner Eldred for a foot-bridge across the creek along the east line of the Court House lot.

Teams and bands of horses, brought up for pasturage from the lower counties last fall, are now moving out southward. All take considerable quantities of hay, and that product will be held at high figures during the coming winter.

All the upper-valley county candidates have paid Independence voters respectful interviews and passed on, one way or the other. As all the nominees from this locality are scattered out upon missionary work the town is notably quiet.

Last evening the Court House was well filled by auditors of Hon. T. H. Selvage, a Republican campaigner from Humboldt County. The speaker is not a spell-binder, but made some good points if true, mainly an effort to show that Gage is not a railroad man. May be not, but it is unfortunate for him that all the well-known railroad attorneys of the State, including Mr. Selvage, are so hotly supporting his candidacy.

One of those inscrutable accidents that sometimes happen is reported from Big Pine. At the saw mill at 11:30 last Tuesday night a rock became detached from the side of the mountain and crashed down through the cabin in which S. H. Spratt and Lowell Eugley were sleeping. It struck Mr. Eugley on the head, injuring the frontal bones and rendering him unconscious for several hours, and his case is considered very serious. After impact upon its victim the rock flew over a table and narrowly missed a like injury to Mr. Spratt.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending October 20, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.242	16th
Lowest "	29.731	15th
Highest temperature	83.0	14th
Lowest "	46	16th
Mean "	63.8
Average dew point	6.1
Average humidity	12.3
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	30 SE	15th
No. clear days	7
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	00

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

Methodist Church.

Sunday, October 23, 1898:

Independence—At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the regular session of the Sunday-school.

Church service at 7:00 p. m.: Subject of discourse, "Convenient Seasons."

Services at Lone Pine and Georges Creek at the usual hours.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

Soldiers' Brides.

Captain Albert W. Brown, U. S. V., from Seattle, and Miss Mary E. Robeson of Seattle were among the applicants for a marriage license at the County Clerk's office yesterday. The Captain stated that he was about to sail on the transport Senator for Manila and wanted to be married right away. Scarcely had he left the License Clerk's room before Lieutenant John F. Lucey, U. S. V., of Sacramento, called for a license to marry Miss Emily P. Conklin of San Francisco. He did not offer any particulars except that he, too, was about to sail on the Senator and wanted a dear little wife to leave at home.—S. F. Call, Oct. 14.

Hon. Pat. Reddy and John Kelly, the mining man, are inspecting the Indian Queen mine in Furnace Canyon. It is Mr. Reddy's intention to resume work at the Queen if the mine shows well enough to warrant it. He and Mr. Kelly will also visit the mines at Darwin. Mr. Reddy's health is greatly improved, although he is still under the doctor's care. —Hawthorne Bulletin.

Our old friend the European war cloud has once more made its appearance and is now lowering over England and France. What makes the situation a little more critical than usual is that France is threatened with internal troubles, and the authorities might see in a foreign war the means of restoring harmony in the republic itself. If such should be the outcome it would only be a case of history repeating itself.

The three new battleships to be built at Philadelphia, Newport News and San Francisco will have a 2000 tons more displacement than the Oregon, or a total of 12,500. One feature of the batteries will be fourteen 6-inch rapid-fire guns. The ships will be ready in 1901.

Placer Mining in Montana.

We fancy that the following excerpt will be read with interest by many old-timers. It is from a letter by H. L. Childs, dated at Home Park, Mont., Oct. 9, 1898:

Somehow I often find myself day-dreaming and recalling events that accurred during my early experience in the vast expanse of Owens Valley sage brush and horned toads. Those were the happy, careless days of unsophisticated youth, and before I had realized that the devil was so generally distributed through the civilized contingent of the business and social world. * * Did I ever mention John J. Lown—a resident of Red Bluff, this county—who formerly lived in Southern Inyo? He was one of the members comprising the band who drove the hostile Indians into the lake, where they were effectually pickled for all time. He knew Tom Passmore, "Dad" Moore and all the rest of the old-timers. Lown was well fixed in good mines and other property, but got mixed in a law suit and was tricked out of nearly all his possessions. Sprague, a former resident of Bishop, has a big ranch near Bozeman, Mont., and is well off.

Unfortunately, we will not be able to more than demonstrate the character of our ground this year. We stripped over 250,000 cubic yards of material above pay gravel, prospected pretty thoroughly and investigated bed-rock at different points. The quality of the gold is high grade, 896½ fine—sells at $18 58 per oz. It is all coarse, but the heaviest particle seldom exceeds 75c. It was rather a hard proposition to study up at the start, but is plain enough now. * * * Montana makes one aggressive and cranky. I have unbounded faith in our other proposition, which will require a dredge plant on a big scale. Made a tour last month in taking in several dredging plants in operation in order to familiarize myself with the latest improvements. Some were a complete success, while others were banging away with expensively arranged, new fangled machines, abundantly heeled with funds but totally lacking in common sense or judgment. First big snow storm came last day of September. We will now have alternate days of fine weather, but the cold nights will freeze at the head of our water source and impede further hydraulic operations. Had fully intended spending the winter in a warmer climate, and would have been only too delighted to take in the eastern side of the grand old Sierras. But I can see that it will be another season before I can feel free to do as I please.

It is stated that, having secured a large majority of the stock of the San Juaquin and San Francisco Railroad, the Santa Fe will also control the proposed Bakersfield and Los Angeles line, which is to connect the Valley Road with the Santa Fe at Mojave, and have an extension south into Los Angeles. Both California and Santa Fe capital is to build the road from Bakersfield south to Los Angeles and the Tehachipa mountains and through the Tejon Pass. The road will be 200 miles long and will cost in the neighborhood of $7,250,000. This is an important piece of news, for it means that under the new deal the Santa Fe will parallel the Southern Pacific all the way from Los Angeles into San Francisco, through the central part of the State. The Santa Fe has a fine local system in the southern part of the State. At present this system's only outlet is by the way of Barstow, on its Albuquerque-Mojave line. The Barstow outlet is simply for overland business in and out of Southern California. In order to do local or State business between Los Angeles and San Francisco the Santa Fe must extend the Valley road from Bakersfield south to Los Angeles.

The California State Board of Trade, at a recent meeting adopted the following, on a subject upon which every mountain journal has often descanted with all the vigor in its power:

WHEREAS, The destruction of California forests by fire is a burning issue which commands the attention of this Board; therefore

Resolved, That the California State Board of Trade requests of the Yosemite Commission, the Federal Superintendents of Forest Reservations, the Sierra Club, and other organizations and public authorities concerned, co-operative action with this Board to secure from the Legislature of this State such action as will secure the adequate policing of our forests and the just punishment of all persons guilty of forest arson.

The Indian troubles in the Northwest are not yet over; the indications are that they have only begun. It is an interesting fact that Indian wars do not occur north of the Canadian line, although the Indians are just as fierce and untamable there.

The Paris Exposition of 1900 will contain the largest theater in the world. According to the report of M. Raulin, the architect who has been intrusted with its construction, it will accommodate from 12,000 to 15,000 persons.

The probability of a rupture in the Paris peace negotiations is now almost a certainty, due to Spain's desperate attempt to saddle the Spanish-Cuban debt on the United States, which our Commissioners refuse to consider at all.

Spanish papers express surprise that the representatives of the United States are unwilling to leave the decision of terms to arbitration. That might have been done before the war. There is nothing left to arbitrate.

The amount of gold coin in actual circulation in the world is estimated by the Bank of England officials to be 865 tons.

Telephone lines use 12,000,000 pounds of copper yearly.

MINING and SCIENTIFIC PRESS
THIRTY-NINTH YEAR.
24 Pages : Weekly : Illustrated.
INDISPENSABLE TO MINING MEN.
$3 PER YEAR, POSTPAID.
SEND FOR SAMPLE COPY.
MINING and Scientific PRESS
330 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Will S. Green was born in Kentucky in 1831, came to California in 1849, and settled at Colusa in 1850, where he has ever since resided. In 1863 he became editor of the Colusa Sun, has been its editor ever since, and being yet in the vigorous possession of all his faculties, he expects to remain such for many years to come. He has supported vigorously every Democratic platform adopted, and every Democratic ticket nominated from the day he took control of its columns until this moment, and expects to do so as long as he can order the combination of the types. In 1855 he took up land surveying as a profession, and was several times elected county surveyor, although the office did not add materially to revenue of the profession. In 1867 he was elected to the assembly, and wrote what was known for many years as the Green Code of Land Laws. He was state library trustee for eight years, and has held several positions of trust, but never one of profit until appointed in 1891 to be surveyor general for California, with a salary of $2000 a year. In April last Governor Budd appointed him state treasurer to fill a vacancy, and he appears before the people of the state for the first time, asking to be continued in that position. His services to the party and to the State as an editor would not be lost by his election, for he would continue right along.

Early in the fifties Mr. Green began the discussion of the irrigation question—proclaiming to the people of this state that to be successful agriculturalists and horticulturists they must have control of the water. He has attended practically all the conventions and discussions held on that subject in the state, and some on the outside, and spent three entire sessions of the legislature trying to get legislation in that behalf perfected. He has begged the people all these years to take control of the water themselves, and not let it become the subject of monopoly. In 1864, 34 years ago, he made, at his own expense, a survey to determine the possibilities of the Sacramento river for irrigation purposes, and in 1883-4 continued the investigation to the streams of the coast range, and continued the surveys from the river. He has also taken great interest in matter of the drainage of the Sacramento valley, and in 1868-9 made surveys and maps that cost him fully $1000, besides his own time. He has attended practically every convention and public discussion held on this subject, as well as those for the betterment of the navigation of the rivers of the state. He has made preliminary surveys for railroads that promised to benefit his section, also without compensation. The money given to public work of the kind, with the interest he has paid on it, would amount to a large fortune, and the time to years. He would appreciate an election to the office of state treasurer, but in any event, he expects to die in the harness pulling for the betterment of California.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

QUARTERLY REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR FOR QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

Exhibit showing amount of warrants drawn and upon what funds, between June 30th and Sept. 30th, 1898:

Total warrants drawn		11 921 81
Gen. Expense fund	2 811 40
School "	382 75
Hospital "	1 795 49
Salary "	3 597 24
Road District No 1 Fund	77 00
" " " 2 "	272 00
" " " 3 "	228 25
" " " 4 "	124 50
Bridge "	131 18
Big Pine Bldn'g "	2 500 00
	11 921 81	11 921 81

Exhibit showing indebtedness of Inyo Co. Interest not included.

Total indebtedness	60 990 55
County bonds		60 000 00
Old Indebtedness		990 55
	60 990 55	60 990 55
Inyo county total indebtedness	60 9 0 55
Cash in treasury		8 146 39
Remaining indebtedness		52 844 16
	60 990 55	60 990 55

Respectfully submitted to the Honorable Board of Supervisors.

D. J. HESSION
County Auditor.

Filed Oct. 3, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff,
vs.
IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

o21t5

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,
W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col.	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 56
	P A Chalfant, assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collees	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon Int on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, Int State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Mallory, red	3 02
	Joseph Shelly, r'd	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards Int State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine Bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	284 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 98
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff, fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock Con M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John B Church on Lake land	123 16
	A R Schively on Lake land	358 63
		21 697 04
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 50
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax col fees	26 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 517 28
	Hospital	1 689 99
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	136 48
	Road Dist No 1	77 00
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	201 00
	" " " 4	124 50
	Big Pine Sch'l Bl'd	1 500 00
	" " "	5 00
	Sundry Sch'l Dist'y.	6 00
	Liberty "	8 18
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Milton "	15 00
	County Sch'l Fund	16 00
		8 571 03
Aug.	Salary	1 024 98
	Road Dist, No 2	5 00
	" " 3	24 00
	General Expense	1 004 45
	Hospital	65 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 706 96
Sept.	General Expense	11 30
	Salary	1 024 98
	Hospital fund	40 00
	Fish Spring	27 55
	Round Valley	14 00
	Union	66 41
	Milton School Fund	2 00
	Taboose	21 46
	Independence	164 15
	Big Pine Sch'l Bl'd.	1 000 00
	Fish Sp Library	8 00
	County Bond	1 500 00
	Cash	8 146 39
		22 733 20 22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	341 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 541 29
General expense		1 151 08
Hospital		239 12
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	233 17
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	303 51
Road Poll tax	2 55
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	292 87
Institute	5 00
Teacher's library	33
County school	26 85
Property tax	1 559 58
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	36 82
Bishop	21 17
Station	28 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Riverside		64
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Spring	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Taboose		2 56
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	500 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 33
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Taboose	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	570 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 99
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Polaris	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Station	90 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Liberty	28 42
Taboose	133 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and overflow land	481 79
Round Valley School	120 48
Cash on hand		8 146 39
	10 425 17	10 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Filed Oct. 7, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Auditor

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.
—o—x—o—
OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.
OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
—o—x—o—
Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.
—o—x—o—
Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

OFFICIAL.

NOTICE

OF THE

APPLICATION OF THE MODOCK CONSOLIDATED MINING COMPANY, A CORPORATION,

FOR A

UNITED STATES PATENT.

No 321.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CALIFORNIA,
August 9th, 1898.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Modock Consolidated Mining Company, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at the city of San Francisco, California, by L. F. J. Wrinkle, its attorney in fact, whose residence and postoffice address is Thebe, Inyo county, California, has made application for a United States Patent for the MODOC, LOOKOUT, CONFIDENCE, KEYES AND HEARST consolidated (embracing the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst locations) lode mining claims situate in Lookout Mining District, Inyo county, California, consisting of 1500, 1500, 1500, 1500 and 1500 linear feet respectively of the lode, and surface ground 600, 600, 600, 600 and 600 feet wide respectively, being Lots Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 and described in the field notes and plat of the official survey on file in the United States Land Office at Independence, California, with magnetic variation at 15 degrees east, as follows:

(MODOC LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 1 on a dump of an open cut at the point of location, in T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

Running thence on a true course, along the line of croppings; the variation being 15 degrees east.

South 24½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks marked M No 2; beginning again at stake No 1 at point of location; on a true course along the croppings north ½ degrees west 11.36 chains to a stake in mound of rocks marked M No 6, the northern terminous of ledge.

(MODOC EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

On a true course from south end of lode stake M No 2; thence north 65½ degrees west, 4.545 chains to a stake in a pile of rocks, marked M No 3; thence on a true course, north 24½ degrees east 10.35 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 4 from which the lowest Modoc tunnel bears north 62 degrees east 4.95 chains distant; thence on a true course north ½ degree west 12.47 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 5; thence on a true course south 65½ degrees east 10.03 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 7; thence on a true course south ½ degree east 10.25 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked M No 8, from which a point on the dump of Lookout tunnel No 2 bears north 25½ degrees east 1.20 chains; thence on a true course south 24½ degrees west 12 37 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked M No 9, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 65½ degrees west 4.545 chains, back to the point of beginning on exterior boundaries at the stake M No 2 at the south terminus of the lode, containing an area of 20 67 acres.

The Lookout mine joins the Modoc on the east.

(LOOKOUT LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked L. No. 1, the point of location, in Township No. 19 South Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center of the lode north 61½ degrees east 19.69 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks, marked L. No 2, from which a point at the mouth of the Keyes tunnel bears south 72½ degrees east 4.40 chains distant. Beginning again at stake L. No. 1, point of location, on a true course thence south 61½ degrees west 3.03 chains to stake L. No. 5, being the western terminus of the lode.

(LOOKOUT EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES)

Beginning at stake L. No 2, east end of lode; thence on true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 3, the northeast corner of claim; thence south 61½ degrees west 18.56 chains to a stake at the intersection of the Modoc east boundary line, from which the stake L. No 4 in rock mound of original location bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains distant; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south ½ degree east 4 04 chains to stake in rock mound M. No 8; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of the "Modoc" south 24½ degrees west 2.94 chains to a stake, from which the stake L. No 5 bears north 28½ degrees west, 82 links distant, the westerly terminus of the lode 3 03 chains westerly from point of location; thence on a true course south 28½ degrees east 3.72 chains to a stake in rock mound L. No 6 and K. M. No. 4; thence on a true course north 61½ degrees east 22.72 chains to the southeast corner of the claim at a stake in a mound of rocks marked L. No. 7; thence on a true course north 28½ degrees west 4.545 chains to the stake L. No. 2 at the point of beginning, containing 19.23 acres.

The Modoc mine joins the Lookout on the west, the Keyes mine on the northeast and the Hearst mine on the southeast.

(CONFIDENCE LODE LINE. "TRACT NO. 1.")

Beginning at a stake in a pile of rocks marked C. No. 1 below the mouth of Confidence tunnel No. 1, at the point of location. In T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, and running thence on a true course along the center line of the lode north 14 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 2, the north terminus of the ledge; from point of location C. No. 1 on a true course along the line of the croppings south 34 degrees east 11.36 chains to a stake marked C. No. 6, the south terminus of the lode.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 1)

On a true course from stake in rock mound C No. 2 north end of lode, north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C No. 3, the northwest corner of the claim; thence on a true course south 14 degrees west 8.75 chains to a stake in the Modoc north boundary from which stake C. No. 4 bears south 14 degrees west 4.63 chains; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Modoc mine south 65½ degrees east 4.32 chains to a stake marked M. No. 7; thence on a true course along the eastern boundary of Modoc mine south ½ degree east 6.21 chains to a stake from which the stake L. No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 4.23 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the "Lookout" mine north 61½ degrees east 6.85 chains to intersection of Confidence east line; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.33 chains to stake C. No. 8; thence on true course north 14 degrees east 9.34 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked C. No. 9, the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 76 degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of the exterior boundaries at the stake C. No. 2, containing an area of 10.82 acres.

(CONFIDENCE EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES, TRACT NO. 2)

Beginning at a stake on south boundary of "Lookout" mine, from which the stake C. No. 6 on the south terminus of the lode bears north 76 degrees west 2.52 chains, the stake L. No. 6 and K. M No. 4 bears south 61½ degrees west 9.07 chains; thence on a true course south 76 degrees east 4.27 chains to stake in rock mound C. No. 7; thence on a true course north 34 degrees west 2.88 chains to stake on south boundary of "Lookout" thence on a true course along the south boundary of "Lookout" mine south 61½ degrees west 2.87 chains to point of beginning, containing .42 acres.

(KEYES LODE LINE)

Beginning at a stake marked K., the westerly terminus of the ledge, from which the northeast corner of the Lookout mine bears north 50½ degrees east 3 30 chains distant. In T. 19 South, Range 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, running thence on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, running along center of the claim south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge.

(KEYES EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked K., the easterly terminus of the ledge; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains to a point on the easterly slope of the hill at a stake marked K. No. 1 and H. No. 1, the southeast corner of the claim and the northeast corner of the Hearst mine; thence on true course north 88¾ degrees west 16 42 chains to the intersection with the east boundary line of the Lookout mine, from which the stake L. No. 7 bears south 28½ degrees east 1 30 chains distant, and stake H. No. 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6.30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the easterly boundary of the Lookout north 2½ degrees west 7.79 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No. 3; thence on a true course along the northerly boundary of the Lookout south 61½ degrees west 2.85 chains to stake, from which stake K. on west of lode bears south 1½ degree west .765 links; thence on a true course north 1½ degree east 3.78 chains to stake K. No. 3; thence on a true course south 88¾ degrees east 22.72 chains to a stake in a mound of rock marked K. No. 4, the northeast corner of the claim, from which the section corner common to Sections 34, 35, 2 and 3, in T. 19 and 20 South, Range 42 East, bears south 48½ degrees east 114 41 chains distant; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 4.545 chains back to the point of beginning of exterior boundaries at the stake K., the easterly terminus of the ledge, containing an area of 17.87 acres.

The Keyes mine joins the Hearst mine on the north.

(HEARST LODE LINE.)

Beginning at a stake in a mound of rocks marked H., the westerly terminus of the lode, in T. No. 19 South, Range No. 42 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, and running thence along the line of croppings on a true course, the variation being 15 degrees east, south 88¾ degrees east 22 72 chains to a stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode.

(HEARST EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.)

Beginning at stake marked H., the easterly terminus of the lode, thence north 1½ degrees east 4 545 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 1 and K. No. 1 the northeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course along the south boundary of the Keyes mine north 88¾ degrees west 16.42 chains to a stake in the Lookout east line, from which the stake H. No 2 and K. No. 2 bears north 88¾ degrees west 6 30 chains distant; thence on a true course along the east boundary of the Lookout south 28½ degrees east 1 30 chains to stake in rock mound marked L. No 7; thence on a true course along the south boundary of Lookout mine south 61½ degrees west 8.00 chains to stake, from which the stake H. western terminus of lode bears north 1½ degrees east 54 links; thence on a true course south 1½ degrees west 1.58 chains to the intersection with the Kentuck north boundary line from which stake in rock mound H. No. 3 bears south 1½ degrees west 2.42 chains; thence on a true course along the north boundary of the Kentuck mine north 86 degrees east 8.03 chains to stake K. M. No. 3; thence on a true course along east boundary of the Kentuck south ½ degree east 3 14 chains to a stake at intersection, from which the stake H No. 3 bears north 88¾ degrees west 8.10 chains; thence on a true course south 8¾ degrees east 14 62 chains to a stake in a mound of rocks marked H. No. 4, the southeast corner of the claim; thence on a true course north 1½ degrees east 4.545 chains to the stake at the eastern terminous of the lode, at the point of beginning of exterior boundaries, containing an area of 16.28 acres.

The Hearst mine joins the Keyes mine on the north.

Said five claims being contiguous and constituting the Modoc, Lookout, Confidence, Keyes and Hearst consolidated mines.

The said mining claims being of record in Book "B," pages 171, 175, 176, ——, and —— respectively, records of Lookout Mining District, formerly Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California, and in the office of the Recorder of said County, at Independence, in said Inyo County, California, in Book "B" of Mining Locations at pages 131, 132, 132 133 and 134 respectively. This group is bounded by the Cactus claim on the west and by the Bismark, Argus, Kentuck and Eclipse claims on the south.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the mining ground, veins, lodes, premises or any portion thereof so described, surveyed, platted and applied for, are hereby notified that unless their adverse claims are duly filed according to law and the regulations thereunder within the time prescribed by law, with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, State of California, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

It is hereby ordered, that this Notice be published for the period of ten consecutive weeks in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper published at Independence, California.

S. W. AUSTIN Register.

P. H. MACK, Independence, California, Attorney for Applicant.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36 Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NE 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 34 east M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.
J. M Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action

STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE.

A Mountaineer Who Highly Appreciated Really Good Cooking.

As a rule the mountaineer of Kentucky is not a gastronomic connoisseur, and the visitor at his table is quite as likely to hear dried apples referred to as "fruit" as he is to find any other kind of fruit on the table. Occasionally, however, one of them is sufficiently fortunate to get away from his fastnesses, and living temporarily down in the blue grass has an opportunity to acquire some virtues not otherwise obtainable. It was such a one I caught up with one morning in June along the ridge of the Cumberlands.

"I'm looking for a place," I said after a few preliminaries, "where I can stop for a week or so while I look up some timber I have in this neighborhood. Do you know of any?"

"There ain't much uv that sort around here," he replied, "exceptin you go to Mount Pleasant, an I reckon that's too fer. But hol' on," he broke in with a sudden thought, "thar's the Widder Tackett. She axed me yistidy to see some uv you folks at the mill and tell 'em she had a place to sleep and eat two er three men ef they wuzn't too pertickler."

"Is it a pretty good place?" I inquired thoughtlessly.

The young man's face flushed.

"Well, I reckon," he said with some emphasis. "She's goin to be my mother-in-law come next September."

"Oh, I beg your pardon," I hastened to explain. "I only asked to know if she had good eating. Some of that we get in private houses even in the cities, you know, is not the best in the world."

"Cities be derned," he said with a fine feeling. "Yer ain't never tried the Widder Tackett's pie yet, mister, an yer want to keep still till yer do. Ain't nothin like it nowhere, no matter what kind uv a pie she sets afore yer. It's all ne plusibus unum, an no mistake. Why, I'm tellin you that I sot down to one uv her pies last week, dern ef I recomember what kind it wuz, ef I ever knowed, an I wuz eatin right into it like a hot shovel goin into a snow pile, an Bill Rogers acrost the table frum me called me a liar, an I never said a dern word to him tell I had plum e't my pie and got my teeth picked. Dern my buttons ef I did, colonel."

I did not like to inquire further into the mystery of what happened to Mr. Rogers after the last taste of the pie was safely housed by my informant, but I made a fair guess and went on to see the Widow Tackett concerning board and lodging for one man for one week. —Washington Star.

STORY OF A HAT.

Revealing the Secret of Its Two Trips Around a Table.

A number of literary men were at one time gathered in a well known chophouse in New York. The conversation was of course brilliant, and the repartee sparkled with mirth and wit. During a lull in the talk the door slowly opened, and an old southern darky, grizzled with age, poked his head in and then slowly drew his body in after him. A waiter started to eject him, when one of the gentlemen cried:

"Wait a moment. Let's see what the old boy wants."

The darky bobbed up to the table where this gentleman sat and held out his hat. Throwing a wink to his neighbors, the gentleman took the hat and, making a show of placing something into it, passed it on to the next man, who did likewise. The hat made a tour of the room, to the puzzled wonder of the darky. The last to receive it solemnly handed it back with a polite bow, saying:

"There, sir, don't you think you have something to be thankful for?"

The old darky looked solemnly around the company and, mechanically taking the hat, he said:

"Gen'men, I'ze indeed glad dat I got eben de hat back!"

The reply was so thoroughly enjoyed by the company that the darky left the place a much richer man than when he had entered it.—Kansas City World.

The First Teacups.

Even after tea was introduced into Europe and had come into general use teacups were scarce. At the same time coffee was introduced; but, apart from Constantinople, the first coffee cups in Europe date back only as far as 1645 in Venice, 1659 in Paris, 1652 in London and 1694 in Leipsic. From the first, however, the conventional oriental coffee cup, without stem or handle, was little used, and in Germany not at all. The Chinese teacup was used for tea, coffee and chocolate as well. Specimens of porcelain were undoubtedly introduced into Europe in the middle ages, yet not till the sixteenth century were cups imported from China in any great quantities, and even then it was as articles of vertu. Most of those found their way back into China again, as collecting porcelain is a lasting fad there, and high prices are paid for good specimens. The collection of Chinese porcelain, if only the genuine specimens are desired, requires immense study and knowledge, as the Chinese are skillful imitators and put numerous falsifications on the market.

That Grand Air.

"Papa, I want a pug dog. They's so 'ristocratic lookin."

"Bobby, what do you mean by aristocratic looking?"

"W'y, they looks like they'd git hop pin mad if they had ter git a'quainted with anybody."—Brooklyn Life.

It is estimated that there are no fewer than 70,000,000 Europeans who wear wooden shoes. Basswood is ordinarily employed for sabots, but willow is the best material.

In 15 years Russia has sent 624,000 persons to Siberia, fully 100,000 relatives of prisoners having accompanied the exiles of their own free will.

Steep

your tea; don't boil it.

Directions in every package of Schilling's Best. 39

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.

Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

WHY AND WHEREFORE.

I know not whence I came,
I know not whither I go,
But the fact stands clear
That I am here
In this world of pleasure and woe.
And out of the mist and murk
Another truth shines plain—
It is in my power
Each day and hour
To add to its joy or its pain.

I know that the earth exists,
It is none of my business why.
I cannot find out
What it's all about—
I would but waste time to try.
My life is a brief, brief thing,
I am here for a little space,
And while I stay
I would like, if I may,
To brighten and better the place.

The trouble, I think, with us all
Is the lack of a high conceit;
If each man thought
He was sent to the spot
To make it a bit more sweet,
How soon we could gladden the world,
How easily right all wrong,
If nobody shirked
And each one worked
To help his fellows along.

Cease wondering why you came;
Stop looking for faults and flaws;
Rise up to-day
In your pride and say:
"I am part of the first great cause.
However full the world,
There is room for an earnest man;
It had need of me
Or I would not be—
I am here to strengthen the plan."
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox, in Forum.

THE SKIPPER OF THE PHANTOM TUG.

I.

A DARK-EYED girl was standing on the starboard side of a cutter rigged smack. Her gaze was fixed upon a small black object that danced on the choppy waters a boat's length ahead. A young seaman was stationed at the helm. He was dividing his attention between the girl and the black object.

"Ready?" said he.

"Ay!"

She had bared her brown, rounded arms to the elbows and adjusted her red cap that held in check her unruly hair, and she now bent over the bulwark, her hand outstretched in readiness to seize the floating thing as the smack skurried by.

"A black bottle," she cried, and the next moment she had it in her grasp and was holding it aloft, the water dripping from her arm. "Look, Steevie! I wonder if there's anything inside?"

"Stop a bit, Lottie; we'll soon see."

Stephen Armstrong fixed the tiller and then sat down upon the deck at Lottie's side. The splendor of the sunset fell slantingly upon their eager faces. The man looked at the bottle and then at the girl.

"It's tightly corked," said he.

Then he held it up between his bright eye and the golden light.

"It's a letter!" said Lottie, peering over Armstrong's shoulder through the glass. "Why don't you break it?"

He struck the bottle against the bulwark and a slip of paper fell upon the deck at their feet. At this moment an edge of the tarpaulin that lay across the bow was cautiously raised and a red-bearded man looked out at them with drowsy eyes.

The girl picked up the crumpled slip of paper, hurriedly unfolded it, and read as follows:

"In another half-hour I shall be drowned. Here I'm a-lyin', drove ashore in a dense fog on the East Saltwin Sands, with a fresh breeze a-blowing from the southeast. She was drove on to these sands at 4:30 a. m., about low water. The tide is rising now and breaking over my craft, and I'm alone aboard. The man what finds this document I solemnly makes him my sole heir. In the cupboard of the aft cabin he'll find a pile of golden sovereigns. For I'm an old miser—God pardon me—and I've hoarded my thousands for no earthly good. A just punishment has fallen upon me at last.

"BEN TARBUCK, Captain."

Armstrong stared at his sweetheart, Lottie Sanderson, in blank amazement. For a moment he was unable to utter a word. At last he whispered:

"It's the phantom tug—hush!" and he glanced toward the tarpaulin. "No word to anyone and our fortune's made."

He buttoned up the scrap of paper in the breast pocket of his pilot coat, and cast the broken bottle overboard. Then he resumed his place at the helm, and the smack went lumbering on its tacking course toward the shore.

The man beneath the tarpaulin lay seemingly sound asleep until the smack neared the entrance to Saltwin harbor, when Armstrong shouted:

"Relay there, Redshaw! Harbor lights!"

The night had nearly closed in.

II.

As soon as the smack had run into the small harbor and brought alongside the stone quay, Armstrong went ashore with his girl, leaving Redshaw aboard. They made their way through the town, and entering a lane behind the sheltering sand dunes, presently came in sight of a cottage where a light showed in the window as if to welcome them.

"Lottie," said the seaman, "the Warren farm's for sale. I was just a-thinking what a snug home it'd be for me and you."

"Ah, that was grandad's once," said the girl, "and now I come to think of it, granny prophesied years ago that the farm would be mine some day; and she's a wonderful gift o' prophesying, ain't she, Steevie?"

Lottie had slipped her hand caressingly into Steevie's arm, and now talked of all the surprising things they would accomplish if this dream of wealth were only realized.

Presently they reached the cottage door, and Lottie, raising the latch, led the way into a well-furnished kitchen, where a fire gave out a cheerful blaze. An old woman was crouching in an armchair beside the hearth. She turned her blind eyes searchingly toward them. Lottie ran forward, and bending down greeted her tenderly.

As Armstrong took his seat at the table, where the girl made all haste to lay supper, the young couple exchanged a glance and a nod.

"Granny," the seaman began, "I've brought you a bit o' news—strange news what me and Lottie's just picked up at sea."

Granny Sanderson's face became animated. She craned her neck toward the speaker and said:

"Good news, I reckon! It's in the ring o' your voice, Stephen, plain as can be. What is't, my lad?"

Armstrong hastened to relate the incident of the black bottle, and then he read the amazing document which had come to light.

The woman listened intently, and when he had concluded sat silent for a while. At last she said:

"Who knows o' this?"

"Nobody," said Armstrong, "'cept us three what are here together."

"Nobody? Was you and Lottie alone aboard?"

"Redshaw was aboard, o' course. But he don't count," said Armstrong; "'sides, he was asleep, weren't he, Lottie?"

Granny Sanderson shook her head shrewdly.

"There's them what sleeps with one eye open," said she. "I knows 'em."

"What do you mean?" retorted Armstrong. "My mate ar'n't one 'o that sort! Whatever's put such a thought into your head?"

"Ah, my lad! I've allus held as you was too confiding. It's in your natur'. Now, lookee here! If you takes my advice you'll not lose a minute putting to sea. Why, bless me," said she, "it wouldn't surprise me if Redshaw were there afore you. Mark me!"

Stephen Armstrong had pushed away his plate while Mrs. Sanderson still spoke. He now rose hastily and said:

"I'm not afeer'd. I've a mind to take Redshaw alonger me to-night. Why not? I'll need a hand, I'm thinking."

"Go alone," said Granny Sanderson. "Leastwise, don't you trust Redshaw in this business, Steevie, if you hope to steer back into Saltwin harbor alive!"

Armstrong turned angrily away and put his hand upon the latch. Lottie sprang toward him.

"Let me come with you!" said she.

"No!" the woman interposed, rising and taking a step gropingly toward them. "I forbid it. You stay alonger me."

Armstrong went out, enraged beyond measure at the thought that his old mate, with whom he had put to sea almost daily, in fair weather and foul, for ten years and more, should be suspected of treachery. He had always put implicit trust in Redshaw, though he could not deny that the man had his faults. He was given to drinking at times more than was good for him, and his mates were not always the men Armstrong would have chosen. Still he had never known Redshaw to act in a way that he could call underhanded, and he would not mistrust him now.

He had reached the edge of the sand dune, where he could gain a clear view of the moonlit sea. He cast a glance toward the harbor.

"What!" the exclamation came like a cry from his lips, and next moment he was running in wild haste toward the shore.

III.

Redshaw lingered aboard the smack after Lottie Sanderson and Armstrong had gone.

He sat on deck smoking his short clay pipe and looking yearningly to seaward. As soon as it was fairly dusk, however, he began to bestir himself, lighted a ship's lantern, and collected together a few articles needful for a short sea trip. These articles he carried on board a skiff almost alongside. Then he loosened the ropes, adjusted the oars noiselessly and glided out of the harbor into the open sea. He now hoisted sail and turned his boat's head in the direction of Saltwin Sands.

The wind had freshened and the skiff rose and fell and ran forward over the dark waters with increasing speed. At first the clouds overhead were dense and lowering, but scarce had Redshaw got clear of the harbor when the night showed signs of brightening, and the curious moon occasionally looked down upon the little craft out of black, ragged clouds.

The gleam lit up Redshaw's face, revealing a look of intense greed. Once or twice the man glanced over his shoulder like one who half dreads pursuit; but his more frequent look was directed to seaward with an untiring search.

An hour—two hours went by, when a faint ray of light fell athwart the water a short distance ahead.

At the same instant Redshaw sprang to his feet and peered eagerly over the bow. Presently the boat's keel grated upon a sandbank, bringing the skiff to a gradual stop. The man found himself in two feet of water, and with his seaman's knowledge of the bearings there was no reason to doubt that his boat had ran upon the sandbank for which he had designedly steered.

It was low tide, and the moment he had made the skiff secure, he began to wade through the surf toward the light which now glimmered hard by. He soon grew convinced that it came from a ship's cabin. Suddenly he stopped.

"Wait a bit!"

He pulled a bowie-knife from his pocket, opened the dagger-shaped blade, and clinched the handle between his teeth. Then he stepped forward with a look of purpose. The light soon proved to be one that came from a cabin window on the port side of an old tugboat. Redshaw caught at a bit of a rope, and hauled himself hand over hand up the boat's side until he could peer into the cabin.

A strange sight met his glance. The light of a swing lamp fell upon a small, wrinkled man in a pilot cap.

He stood in water up to his knees, and he laughed with a shivering sort of laugh, and plunged his hands into the water and fished up handfuls of sovereigns that glittered the more through being wet. The old skipper gloated over each handful as he flung the coins with a clinking sound upon a shelf in a cupboard, on a level with his head.

Redshaw clung to the rope, staring like one spell-bound at the weird figure. Then he climbed noiselessly on deck, and crept round to the cabin door. He found it open. With stealthy tread he descended the ladder, the bowie knife now behind his back, tightly clutched in his right hand, a villainous look in his eyes.

But of a sudden—at the very moment that Redshaw crouched down with intent to make his spring—the grim old mariner fixed his glittering eye fearlessly upon him.

The man paused, once more completely aghast, deprived of all volition.

"Ah! You've come, have you—come to claim it—my gold?" cried the skipper as he shivered and laughed again. "No, no—I bayn't dead yet, mate. The tide's been and turned, just in the nick o' time. It were a-washing clean over the deck at nightfall, when I sent that 'ere bottle adrift, and I thought as how I was a drowned man. But it's been running out ever since, the tide has, mate—running out, till it's give me the chance to touch my gold—touch it once more!"

He broke into a wilder fit of shivering laughter now, and bending down, plunged both hands into the water. At the same instant Redshaw regained his will power and leaped forward. But as he lifted his knife with the thought to strike, a masterful grip was put upon his wrist, and he was thrown back upon the ladder, crushed and stunned by the fall.

* * * * * * * *

When Redshaw recovered consciousness he found himself lying in the bow of the little skiff, still at anchor upon Saltwin Sands. A gray, foggy dawn was breaking over a calm sea. He raised himself upon his elbow and looked around. A dismantled craft was drifting before his eyes upon the flood tide. Her stern was turned directly toward him, and upon it he read, painted in large, white letters:

"PHANTOM TUG,"

as it vanished into the mist.

* * * * * * * *

It was Armstrong who had saved Ben Tarbuck from his mate's treacherous blow. The Phantom was subsequently towed into Saltwin harbor. But Tarbuck never fully recovered from that night upon the sands; and before Lottie had become Stephen Armstrong's wife the skipper died, leaving the bulk of his wealth to his preserver.

Redshaw never showed his face inside Saltwin harbor again; though, had he acted honestly, he might possibly have shared his mate's good luck; but in his over-reaching after Tarbuck's gold, he had lost all.—Answers.

FOOLSCAP PAPER.

Was First Made by Order of the Rump Parliament.

"Nearly everybody knows what 'foolscap' paper is, but there are probably few people who know just how it came to bear that name," said a large wholesale stationer in New York to the writer yesterday. "In order to increase his revenues Charles I. of England granted certain privileges amounting to monopolies, and among these was the manufacture of writing papers, the exclusive right of which was sold to certain parties, who grew wealthy and enriched the Government at the expense of those who were obliged to use such paper. At that time all English paper bore the royal coat-of-arms in water marks. But when the Parliament under Cromwell came into power it made sport of this law in every possible manner, and among other indignities to the memory of Charles it was ordered that the royal arms be removed from the paper, and that a fool's cap and bells should be used as a substitute. When the Rump Parliament was prorogued these were also removed; but paper of the size of the Parliamentary journals, which is usually seventeen by fourteen inches, still bears the name of foolscap in England.

"In this country foolscap was used largely by lawyers, writers and other professional men for copying purposes until a few years after the civil war, when a smaller single sheet of paper, known as legal cap, was introduced. Then came the typewriting machines, requiring the manufacture of a paper of suitable size for copying, and to-day there is very little demand for foolscap outside of a few school rooms.

Dietetics.

We used to have old-fashioned things, like hominy and greens,
We used to have just common soup, made out of pork and beans;
But now it's bouillon, consomme and things made from a book,
And pot au feu and Julienne since my daughter's learned to cook.

We used to have a piece of beef—just ordinary meat—
And pickled pigs' feet, spare ribs, too, and other things to eat;
While now it's fillet with ragout, and leg
o' mutton braised,
And macaroni au gratin, and sheep's head
Hollandaised;
Escallops a la Versailles—a la this and a la that—
And sweetbread a la Dieppoise, it's enough to kill a cat!
But, while I suffer deeply, I invariably look
As if I were delighted, 'cause my daughter's learned to cook.

We have a lot of salad things, with dressing mayonnaise;
In place of oysters, blue points, fricasseed
a dozen ways;
An orange roly poly, float and peach meringue, alas—
Enough to wreck a stomach that is made of plated brass!
The good old things have passed away, in silent, sad retreat;
We've lots of highfalutin' things, but nothing much to eat,
And while I never say a word, and always pleasant look,
I have had sore dyspepsia since my daughter's learned to cook.
—Southwestern Medical Record.

Color-Blindness Unknown to Women

In the course of an interesting discussion which followed the reading of a paper on color-blindness the other day, a most curious statement was announced—to the effect that, after long research, not a single case of woman suffering from this defect could be discovered.

When a girl announces that she has a girl visiting at her house, she usually adds, "You ought to hear her play!" No, we don't want to.

Old people cannot act cute, and they should not try it.

The Magic of a Word.

A party of gentlemen but recently returned from a metropolitan city tell a new story on the leisurely bellboy. They were stopping at a big hotel, and on the first evening of their visit were seized with a mighty thirst, but which they believed plain ice water would assuage. One of them stepped to the bell-push. It was one of those new fangled things built on the principle of a dollar typewriter. You turn the hand around the dial till it points to what you want, then you press the button, and the business office is supposed to do the rest. The instrument was caused to register ice water a number of times in the regions below, but there was no response. The thirst kept on increasing and the gentlemen got hot in the collar. One of them spoke of going down and challenging the clerk and the bellboys to a boxing match.

"No, don't do that," remarked one of the gentlemen. "Just watch me—I'll bet I'll get 'em."

He pranced over to the bell, yanked the crank around to "champagne" and let it drive. In an incredibly short time there was a knock at the door, and the boy stuck his head in.

"Champagne, gentlemen?"

"No, just bring us some plain, every-day, common water with ice in it. We rang for champagne just to catch you napping. Now get a move on you."—Galveston News.

Shore Cargoes Shifted.

"Once in awhile we read," said Mr. Bozzle, "that the ship So-and-so or the steamer So-and-so has returned to port, or has arrived perhaps with 'a decided list; cargo shifted.' Sometimes we see a land craft, a truck, with cargo shifted—a big pile of boxes, towering high, shaken over to one side or the other by continued jolting along on the side of the street on the slope.

"A load thus shifted can't be shaken back by running along on the opposite slope of the road. It is like a stick of wood that has been bent and kept bent till the grain is set. Whatever you do with it the crook stays in.

"If care is exercised in turning corners and in navigating generally, the shifted load can usually be carried to its destination as it is without upsetting, though it may work harder. The experienced truckman knows just what can be done with it, and whether it has shifted as far as it will go, and all that. If it is so badly shifted as to make the operation of the truck difficult or dangerous, he hauls to one side by the curb and anchors—that is to say, he halts and unloads the shifted top courses of his cargo and then reloads and makes everything trim and secure and sets out again."—New York Sun.

The entire area of the United States is placed at 1,835,017,692 acres, of which 741,702,365 acres are now owned by individuals or by corporations or states or have passed out of the control of the general government.

Savages, on the whole, live longer than civilized people.

SWALLOWED A NEEDLE AND DIED.

A tailor in Chicago accidentally swallowed a needle and died as a result of the inflammation set up by the small needle. Little things frequently have great power, as is seen in a few small doses of the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, however, has an entirely different effect from the needle in this notice. The Bitters make nervous, weak and sickly persons strong and well again. They are also good for dyspepsia and constipation.

"Fellows, you wouldn't take me to be a member of a millionaire's family, would you?" "Frankly, we would not." "Neither would the millionaire, I asked him last night."

Send for Free Circular showing how to get BIG DISCOUNTS on Prices of any San Francisco or Pacific Coast Cash Store or Supply Company. We are reliable, been in business in San Francisco thirty years, and can save you money on everything you buy. Address GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS, 218 California Street, San Francisco, Cal.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is our only medicine for coughs and colds.—Mrs. C. Beltz, 439 8th ave., Denver, Col., Nov. 8, '95.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Weak Stomach

Sensitive to every little indiscretion in eating, even to exposure to draughts and to over-perspiration—this condition is pleasantly, positively and permanently overcome by the magic tonic touch of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which literally "makes weak stomachs strong." It also creates an appetite—makes you feel real hungry, and drives away all symptoms of dyspepsia. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine. All druggists.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

BIG G Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

WILL & FINCK CO'S. SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE. Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

WAYS OF THE BLUE CRAB.

Some of Its Peculiarities as Observed at New York's Aquarium.

While the blue crab is not commonly thought of as a swimmer and does in fact spend the greater part of its time on the bottom, yet it can very easily sustain itself in the water and swim at a very fair rate of speed. It swims endwise, and when swimming it carries one big claw thrown forward and bent back at the middle joint, making a point projecting at that end of the body, while the other big claw trails straight out astern. If it changes direction, it crooks the claw it had been carrying straight and lets the other go free. If it sustains itself in the water without progressing, it carries its big claws in front of itself as it would naturally do under ordinary circumstances on the bottom, but it has to keep its little claws in motion to sustain itself, and in swimming the little claws are kept actively at work. Besides making a good degree of progress through the water in swimming the blue crab can change its course or swim to a higher or lower level with facility. When frightened, the blue crab moves off sideways, but when moving about at home and undisturbed it may move straight forward. Its body may be inclined at any angle to the line of progress, but its motion still be forward, the big claws carried crooked around in front. It may be seen moving thus in one of the larger tanks at the aquarium, in which there are blue crabs, lobsters and other things. The temperature of the water now just suits the crustaceans, and they are very lively. Blue crabs may be seen swimming here, and also walking about, stepping down from stones that are as high as they themselves are wide with perfect dignity, if not grace of manner, and walking or carrying their claws before them.—New York Sun.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known Yellow Label on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

MADE ONLY BY

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

This is a fair Picture of one of the swell medium weight suits for men that we sell for Ten Dollars

Can you tell it from a $20.00 made-to-order suit? Picture in your mind the very nicest ready-to-wear suit that you ever bought for $15.00 and we'll guarantee these to equal it.

The Materials

Black Clay Worsted.
Black or blue all-wool Serge Cheviots.
Brown or grey all-wool Cassimeres and Fancy Cheviots.

The Styles

Round cornered 4-but. sacks.
Straight cut sacks.
Double breasted sacks.
Italian or serge linings—sewn throughout with silk—cut stylishly and to fit all sizes—slim and stout.

Send chest, waist, sleeve and inside leg measure when ordering.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

TO MRS. PINKHAM

From Mrs. Walter E. Budd, of Patchogue, New York.

Mrs. Budd, in the following letter, tells a familiar story of weakness and suffering, and thanks Mrs. Pinkham for complete relief:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I think it is my duty to write to you and tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I feel like another woman. I had such dreadful headaches through my temples and on top of my head, that I nearly went crazy; was also troubled with chills, was very weak; my left side from my shoulders to my waist pained me terribly. I could not sleep for the pain. Plasters would help for a while, but as soon as taken off, the pain would be just as bad as ever. Doctors prescribed medicine, but it gave me no relief.

"Now I feel so well and strong, have no more headaches, and no pain in side, and it is all owing to your Compound. I cannot praise it enough. It is a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to every woman I know."

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1896.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVES TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO.

BUY THE GENUINE SYRUP OF FIGS

... MANUFACTURED BY ...
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
☞ NOTE THE NAME.

HERCULES ✳ ---GAS--- ✳ ENGINES,

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

S. F. N. U. No. 848. New Series No. 59

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.

—

Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.

—

Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 20. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 28, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1491

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$400
Six Months	200
Three Months	120
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

HER OLD SPINET.

Within her old spinet lie hid
So many quaint, dead melodies,
I think if she but raised the lid,
Or idly touched the yellow keys,
Their ghosts would throng the quiet room,
Like the faint perfume of a rose
That died in some forgotten June.

Within her old spinet are laid
What memories of vanished times!
In this same seat, in stiff brocade,
She sang, perchance, her gallant's rhymes.
I wonder if the powdered beau
Who bent to murmur his applause,
Felt the same passion that I know.

Sweetheart, within your old spinet
I, too, methinks, will breathe my pain,
So, when some idle day you let
Your hands stray o'er the keys again,
Haply they'll whisper back to you
The story of one long forgot,
Who worshiped where he dared not sue.
—Life.

A SACRIFICE FOR LOVE

I.

FOR a whole week a high class Shakespearean company had occupied the boards of the Theater Royal in the provincial town of L——, and night after night they had played to crowded houses.

The great actress who was the star of that particular heaven had smiled into the boxes, graciously accepted bouquets from the stalls and bowed her thanks to the gods in the gallery. But she had never yet been conscious of two pairs of eyes which each evening had followed her every movement from the pit, while the owners of those selfsame eyes had hung breathless on her every word.

But no—not both the owners. At the commencement of the week they had both been absorbed in this beautiful woman, who, with her dazzling loveliness and fair, gracious presence, walked the boards each night in some new character, but as the week waned Gilbert Stone found that the tiny, slight girl beside him was occupying more of his thoughts than the brilliant creature who impersonated Shakespeare's heroines so perfectly.

Who the girl was or where she sprang from he had not the least idea. She might think it was mere coincidence, but the man knew it was no accident which placed them side by side each evening in their modest seats in the pit. That first night it had been chance, but the second and the third it was not, and he could hardly have confessed to himself what the feeling was which made him watch for her so eagerly at the early door.

Love? No, it was not love; not such an everyday thing as that, surely! It was worship—a blind, mad worship which he had suddenly conceived for this fragile child.

Gilbert was a mechanic—a very Goliath. Tall, broad and strong as a giant, while she—she was a slender, dainty thing, with a white, oval face which seemed all eyes, as she looked at him gravely and handed him back his program or her opera glasses, which they had got into the habit of sharing. He couldn't believe it was love. It was reverence, devotion; and yet, if there had not been that strange, invisible barrier between—that barrier which men are so much quicker to recognize than women—it might have been love—nay, love it should have been!

But she was as far above him as Juliet was above Romeo in the balcony scene. And there was no climbing up for him, no hope of her descending to his level; that he knows well. But while he might, he would sit there under the spell of her sweet presence, and perhaps some day there might be a chance when he would be able to serve her. Shakespeare had been his ruling passion from his boyhood up, but now this unknown girl had changed all that.

And she—Vivian Sydney—this week had been an epoch in her life. Her father, a colonel in the Indian army, had died years ago, leaving her and an invalid brother alone in the world. Excepting for the care of this brother, Vivian had lived in a world of dreams, a world peopled entirely by imaginary heroes and heroines. When she was quite a tiny fragile child Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare" had been her ideal of everything. As she grew older the great plays became her familiar friends; and now—in spite of the fact that she must face the crowd alone, in spite of her brother's feeble remonstrances, in spite of the fact also that she must deprive herself of all hope of a winter gown by spending her slender savings on this treat—the fascination was strong upon her, and go she must.

So to and fro she went, and as she left the theater she was always dimly aware that a strong, protecting arm came between her and the crush; there was always room for her in the hurrying crowd from the pit door.

At last the week drew to an end, and Gilbert Stone sat beside his girl comrade for the last time. Comrades they were in their love for the immortal bard, and perhaps—who knows?—it was this link which had knit their souls in yet stronger, closer bond. As he turned to make one of his few brief comments to the girl, Gilbert met her eyes full and fairly for the first time—met, and for a moment held them by the great and uncontrollable longing of his own soul. Then the curtain was rung up on the final scene, the lights were suddenly lowered, and all eyes were turned on the stage once more.

All eyes save Gilbert's, and his drank in the girl's fragile beauty, under cover of the dim light, as though he could never drink his fill.

He knew now that he loved her. It was no longer the worship at a distant shrine; it was the passionate love of a man for woman! But even as she raised her hand to put back a stray lock of hair he noted the slim, white fingers, the little blue-veined wrist, and, glancing from that to his own toil-worn palms, he told himself once more that she was not for such as he.

Poor she undoubtedly was, poorer probably than he, or she would not be taking her pleasures thus. But no matter what her circumstances, that great barrier, "class," stood between. Men marry beneath their class every day; women seldom or never.

II.

But hark! A low murmur rose behind the stage, which quickly swelled into a cry of terror, and a multitude of human voices joined in that awful paralyzing cry of "Fire!"

In one moment the scene was one of wildest confusion. The fire began behind the stage, but that wonderful iron "curtain," which was to be such a safeguard in emergency, had grown rusty on its hinges, and no one had time or presence of mind to remember how it worked. There was one thing better than presence of mind, and that was absence of body.

In the midst of the race for life around them Gilbert's only thought was how he could save Vivian, and, stooping, he lifted her in his arms and placed her on her feet on the seat; then, still with his arm close around her, he paused to think. There was no hope that the panic would subside, no hope the flames would be suppressed, for already they were leaping and dancing in fury among the "wings," and red tongues of fire were shooting upward and licking the "flies."

The crowd surged on toward the exit. Women were being trampled under foot. Men, in a very frenzy of terror, were fighting their way; utterly forgetful of their manhood, they were hurling aside all who came in their path. It was useless to enter the contest and strive to make a way through this frantic throng.

Suddenly an idea came to Gilbert, and quick as thought he lifted the girl in his arms and prepared for action. Opposite to the exit where the human stream was flowing was a narrow window—which he had noticed often. It was high up in the walls, but he remembered that passers-by by the stage door used it as a peep-hole to see if the house was filling; it was near to the stage entrance and close to the open street.

Still holding Vivian, he made his way through the blinding smoke; the window was higher than he thought, quite above his reach, but with almost superhuman strength he wrenched the benches from their places and piled one on another till he could reach the sill. The aperture was small, he knew—too small for even an ordinary sized man to scramble through; but she was a slip of a girl—she would have room enough.

The flames were rising higher, the cries of those in peril more terror-stricken than before, when at last he succeeded in breaking the glass and wrenching the woodwork from its frame.

"Come," he said hoarsely, "while there is time! There is a door close to your left hand—a swing door; it is sure to be open to the street."

"But you!" the girl cried. "You go first and draw me up?"

"No, no!" Gilbert saw she had not realized that if she were saved at all she must be saved alone! She must not realize it now, or it would make his task well-nigh impossible, and with a great effort he spoke calmly:

"This is the better plan. Do as I tell you and when you are safe you shall give me your hand."

Silently the girl obeyed him, and for one moment her arms clung round his neck as he raised himself to his full height on the tottering, piled-up benches. The blood surged to his brain, and the flames roared hoarsely in his ears. He would have given the world then for one kiss and thought it well lost, but he must not startle her by betraying himself. She would be safe, and—well, who knows?—in heaven there will be no barriers of "class."

In another moment she was seated on the stone sill, and Gilbert had caught and knotted the silk sash she wore.

"Now," he whispered, "when I lower you down you will go as fast as you can to the door? You promise?"

"But you are coming? Oh, you are coming, too?" she cried in anguish, and her tiny hands clung to his own.

For one moment he gazed into her eyes; then, raising himself with difficulty he pressed his lips to the fingers lying in his grasp.

"Remember," he said, "the door is to your left hand. You have promised to find it quickly. Now go. Go!" he cried, for the smoke was becoming denser, and the heat of the curling flames grew hotter and hotter.

"And you—where shall I meet you?"

"Never think of me," he said. "I—I shall meet you by—another way."

Then he lowered her gently, and let the scarf—the last link which bound him to her and earth—slip from his grasp. And the girl, half stunned with terror, stumbled along as he had directed, the words ringing in her ears:

"I shall meet you by—another way!"

And Gilbert turned again to face the blinding, suffocating smoke, the angry, lurid flames. He knew what he had done—he knew there was no hope of escape for himself; but what of that? She was safe—this girl, who had come into his life and filled his heart for so brief a space, was safe.

When a man loves well and truly he gives his life to the woman he loves; why should not he—Gilbert—give his for her instead?—Answers.

A horseshoe brings good luck if it happens to be on the foot of the winner.

Civility costs nothing, but it often gets things that gold cannot buy.

IN February, 1895, both branches of the Spanish Cortes—in which Cuba had forty-three representatives—unanimously passed a bill brought forward by Senor Abaruza, a Cuban, to establish in Cuba a liberal regime which should virtually confer autonomy, or home rule. This was in response to the demands of the autonomist Cuban members of the Cortes. Ten days after the enactment of the reform law an insurrection was begun in the province of Santiago. Their purpose, it has been stated, was to prevent the success of a reform which would content the people and render them indifferent to the idea of Cuba libre.

A republic was proclaimed and Cuebitas was made the capital, but the civil government was imaginary. The chief command and entire local government was in the hands of Gen. Gomez. He, with Macco and others, gradually extended the rebel operations over the whole island, destroying everything outside the towns. Stealing in small bands through the bush and traveling by night, they eluded the Spanish troops and burned and plundered everywhere, driving the rustics into the already congested towns. To prevent the rebels from living off the rustics the Spanish forbade agriculture in exposed districts, thus also adding to the congestion of population in the towns. The wretchedness of the reconcentrados, imputed to Gen. Weyler, became the chief burden of the cry of inhumanity raised against Spanish rule.

By cutting the island into several isolated sections by means of trochas and by following up the rebel bands pertinaciously in the restricted areas Gen. Weyler had at length by December, 1897, virtually freed the island from all ravages except in the two easternmost provinces, where a desolate mountain country gave the insurgents impenetrable retreats. The nature of the jungle was such that the complete extinction of the rebel bands in Santiago was impracticable so long as they received supplies and encouragement from abroad. Their operations were on a small scale and unimportant except so far as the existence of their movement—even on a small scale—afforded a basis for the growing disposition at Washington to interfere to exclude Spain from her possessions in the West Indies.

In December, 1896, Congress signified its purpose to recognize Cuba libre until Secretary Olney, instructed by Mr. Cleveland, let it be known that in the President's view recognition was an executive function exclusively and action by Congress would be ignored. Mr. Cleveland's position, as indicated by his representations at Madrid, was that the plan of autonomy embodied in the Abaruza law of 1895 and much broadened in the decree of February, 1897, should be given a trial and the United States would not interfere until it was shown by experience that the new home rule scheme was a sham and failure.

With the beginning of the McKinley administration a less patient policy was favored and the idea of getting Spain to withdraw from Cuba by friendly insistance was entertained. Congressmen who wished to recognize Cuba's independence were at once advised that such result could be attained in a better way. Recognition was staved off. Meanwhile Spain was asked to make various concessions, as respects the removal of Weyler, the reconcentrados and an armistice, etc. All were granted. The hope was entertained that with Blanco favoring conciliation, the reconcentrados provided for and peace offered the rebels, a way would be found for giving Cuba a government as free as that of Canada. The retention of a nominal sovereignty was now at length all that Spain asked. It was resolved not to concede this and on April 11, 1898, President McKinley asked Congress to authorize him to interfere in Cuba with force. Congress assented on the 19th and an ultimatum was sent to Spain demanding the evacuation of Cuba.

Destruction of the Maine.

Hostilities were precipitated by the sinking of the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana in February. The vessel sank after an explosion, the cause of which has not been ascertained. It is not known whether it was the work of a Spanish fanatic, animated by blind hatred of the United States, or of a Cuban patriot anxious to embroil Spain and Cuba. The explosion of the Maine, whatever the cause, fired popular resentment against Spain. There was a loud demand for revenge, and "Remember the Maine!" became a popular cry.

Long before the declaration of war our warships were assembled in large numbers at Key West, near Havana. War existed before the formal declaration on April 25, and the congressional resolution took cognizance of the situation by stating that hostilities dated from April 21. On that day the Buena Ventura, a Spanish ship, was captured by the gunboat Nashville, Lieut. Washburn commander, and on the same day President McKinley ordered the North Atlantic squadron under Admiral Sampson to sail from Key West to inaugurate the Cuban blockade. The fleet left the harbor the following day. On April 23 President McKinley called for 125,000 volunteers, and ordered Commodore Dewey at Hong Kong to "find and destroy the Spanish fleet."

Spain declared war on April 24, the day which saw Dewey's fleet weigh anchor and steam away for Manila bay. On April 26 militia camps were formed in nearly every State of the Union.

Matanzas was bombarded on April 27 by Admiral Sampson with the New York, the Cincinnati and the Puritan. Great damage was done the fortifications. Cienfuegos was bombarded on April 28, and on that day, also, Admiral Cervera began the series of maneuvers ending in the Santiago bottle, by leaving Spanish shores with his fleet, en route to the Cape Verde Islands.

The Cabana's batteries were silenced by a bombardment from the New York on April 30, the day which brought word from Rio Janeiro telling of the safe and wonderful voyage of the battleship Oregon on its way from San Francisco to join Sampson's fleet.

MILE POSTS OF THE WAR.

April 21—Sampson's squadron ordered to Cuba.
April 23—Call for 125,000 volunteers.
April 24—Dewey sails for the Philippines.
April 24—Spain declares war.
April 25—Congress declares war
May 1—Spanish fleet at Manila destroyed.
May 13—Flying squadron sails.
May 18—Santiago bombarded.
May 19—Cervera in Santiago harbor.
May 25—Second call for volunteers.
June 3—Collier Merrimac sunk.
June 14—Army sails from Tampa.
June 22 and 23—Shafter's army lands.
June 24—Fight at La Quasina.
June 29—First expedition arrives at Manila.
July 3—Cervera's fleet destroyed.
July 14—Santiago surrenders.
July 25—Miles lands in Porto Rico.
July 26—Spain sues for peace.
July 31—Spaniards surrender Manila.
Aug. 2—Spain accepts terms of peace.
Aug. 12—Protocol signed by Cambon.
McKinley proclaims peace.

Dewey's Great Victory.

On Sunday, May 1, the first great sea battle of the war was fought. Commodore George Dewey made himself Rear Admiral Dewey and won undying glory for the American navy by leading his fleet into the mined harbor of Manila and, under the guns of the fort on Corregidor Island and the heavy fortifications defending the arsenal and navy yard, destroying the entire Asiatic fleet of Spain. The Olympia was his flagship, and his remaining vessels were the Baltimore, the Boston and the Raleigh, protected cruisers; the Concord and Petrel, gunboats; and the McCulloch, dispatch boat. With this force, equal but not superior in armament to the Spanish fleet, far inferior when the land batteries are counted, he sunk, burned or blew up eight Spanish cruisers, six gunboats and three transports.

The sea victory was followed by an attack on the land fortifications, which were razed. The arsenal at Cavite was also captured, and before noon his guns commanded the city of Manila. In the engagement not one American life was lost, while in killed and drowned the Spanish loss has been placed between 500 and 900.

In the first week in May the definite division of the ships of the American navy in Atlantic and Cuban waters into squadrons and fleets was made. The flying squadron, Commodore Schley in command, was formed at Hampton Roads, the vessels being the Brooklyn, flagship; the Massachusetts, the Texas, the Columbia and the Minneapolis. Admiral Sampson in the blockade line at Havana had with him besides his flagship, the New York, the battleships Iowa and Indiana, the cruisers Cincinnati and Marblehead, and a dozen torpedo craft and gunboats. Matanzas was bombarded for a second time May 7.

The first American casualties of the war were on the torpedo boat Winslow, off Cardenas harbor. The killed were Ensign Worth Bagley and five seamen. The Winslow attacked three Spanish gunboats and the shore fortifications, and in disregard of peril the boat was run too far inshore. It was crippled by the fire and the men were killed before other boats could come to its assistance. The Spanish gunboats were disabled by the re-enforcements and the batteries silenced.

Admiral Sampson appeared before San Juan, Porto Rico, on May 12, and bombarded the forts for three hours. Morro was partially reduced. Sampson was in search of Cervera's fleet, known by this time to have left the Cape Verde Islands and to be well on the way to Cuban waters for its famous game of hide-and-seek, and he made no pronounced effort to reduce the fortifications. One American was killed in the attack, while the Spanish loss was heavy.

On the following day the flying squadron put to sea to aid in finding Cervera, who was reported then to be at Curacoa, off Venezuela. The two fleets cut off Cervera from Havana and on May 18 it was reported that the Spanish admiral had taken refuge in Santiago bay.

Schley Traps Cervera.

Commodore Schley, with the flying squadron, reached Santiago before Admiral Sampson, and it is known now the arrival was just in time to prevent a dash by Cervera for Cienfuegos or Havana. The presence of Cervera in the bottle was known to a certainty in a few days through the daring trip of Lieut. Victor Blue, who made a circuit of the bay, even entering Santiago. Admiral Sampson arrived, and the combined fleets began their long wait for their prey.

The invasion of the army to co-operate with the fleet at Santiago was planned as soon as Cervera's whereabouts was known. President McKinley issued a second call for 75,000 volunteers on May 25. The demand was instantly met by the men who had failed to secure a place on the first call. The first expedition to re-enforce Dewey at Manila sailed also on May 25. It numbered 6,000 men. Daily bombardments of the forts at the entrance of Santiago bay continued.

Though Cervera was bottled, it was feared that a storm might scatter the blockading fleet and give him a chance to escape from his harbor prison. Accordingly it was concluded to sink a vessel in the narrow channel between Morro Castle and the Estrella battery. An iron collier, the Merrimac, was selected, and the perilous work of destruction was assigned to Naval Constructor Richmond P. Hobson and a volunteer crew of seven men.

In the early morning of June 3 the vessel was guided into the channel under a terrific fire from the Spanish guns. One shot disabled its rudder and rendered it nearly uncontrollable. It was driven by its engines, however, into the narrowest part of the channel, and the attempt was made to swing it broadside to the entrance. The force of the current prevented success, as was shown by the passage of the Spanish fleet around its hulk at a later day, but failure did not detract from the bravery of the exploit. Hobson fired the torpedos which blew out the bottom of the ship, and, with his crew, took to a boat, surrendering in an hour to the Spanish admiral, who complimented him for his bravery, and sent a message to Sampson telling of his safety and that of his men.

The order was given June 8 to prepare a landing place for the army of invasion, and on June 10 Col. Huntington, with a force of marines landed at Guantanamo, established Camp McCalla, and for five days fought a body of Spaniards superior in numbers and protected by impenetrable brush. The Spaniards were repulsed in every attack, but the marines lost several men.

The fleet, with the aid of the marines, demolished Fort Caimanera and captured Baquiri, which was to be the landing place for Gen. Shafter's army, which left Tampa in transports on June 14.

Shafter appeared off Baquiri on June 22 and two days were occupied in landing. Juragua was captured on June 24, and the advance toward Santiago began. The Spanish resisted, and Roosevelt's rough riders and the Tenth United States cavalry, in the van of the American army, found themselves engaged with a superior body of Spaniards. The enemy were driven back by the furious charge of the Americans, but the loss was heavy, the greatest of any of the conflicts of the war up to that time. Thirteen were killed and sixty wounded.

Sevilla was ocupied on June 26, and on the last day of June 13,000 American troops were before Santiago, 5,000 more on their way from the coast, with 3,000 Cubans near at hand.

Assault on Santiago.

The general assault began July 1, El Caney being captured at severe cost. The Spaniards retired from their trenches before the American advance, but the last of the outworks were not in the possession of the American army until the evening of July 2, while on one side the heights of San Juan were still untaken.

Gen. Lawton's division assaulted San Juan on July 3 and carried the heights in the greatest charge of a great battle. Santiago was surrounded and Gen. Shafter demanded its surrender. The American loss in the three days' battle was 231 killed, 1,283 wounded and 81 missing.

Convinced that the city must fall, the Madrid authorities, who were in cable communication with Santiago throughout the battle, ordered Admiral Cervera on July 2 to make a dash from the harbor. He carried out his instructions on the morning of July 3, and two hours after the Maria Teresa led the way past the sunken Merrimac his vessels were hulks, lying at intervals along the beach for fifty miles.

Admiral Sampson with the New York had gone to consult with Gen. Shafter when the Spanish ships were seen coming from the harbor, but Commodore Schley, with the Brooklyn, Oregon, Iowa, Texas, Indiana and Gloucester, were more than a match for the Maria Teresa, Cristobal Colon, Oquendo, Vizcaya and the destroyers Pluton and Terror. The Colon made the longest run, but was overhauled by the Brooklyn and the Oregon. One American sailor on the Brooklyn was killed, while of the Spanish 600 were killed and 1,100 taken prisoners, including Admiral Cervera.

The bombardment of Santiago was begun, and on July 14 Gen. Toral, recognizing the hopelessness of further resistance, surrendered the entire province and all its garrisons of 25,000 soldiers, the United States agreeing to send them back to Spain.

Gen. Miles, who arrived in Santiago before the surrender, prepared immediately to lead an army against Porto Rico. It landed near Ponce on July 25, the day that the rumor went abroad that Spain was ready to cry enough. Gen. Merritt reached Manila on that day also. The landing in Porto Rico was without loss and with no engagement other than a skirmish at Guanica, ending in the hoisting of the American flag over the town.

Spain made its direct appeal for peace through Ambassador Cambon on July 26, but suggested no terms. On July 27 the public learned of the outbreak of yellow fever in the camp before Santiago, and on that day Ponce surrendered to Gen. Miles. President McKinley sent terms of peace to Spain on July 29.

The second battle of Manila was fought on July 31, on a Sunday, as was the first. It was a land attack under cover of darkness by the Spaniards, and its purpose was to turn the American flank and drive the Americans into the sea. It was repulsed. The American loss was nine killed and forty-five wounded, the Spanish loss in killed and wounded was 600.

Army Ordered North.

The generals of the American army at Santiago surprised the country Aug. 3 by a "round robin" letter declaring that the army must be moved north away from yellow fever or it would perish. The army was ordered north the following day.

Spain sent an evasive answer to the United States on Aug. 5, and it was received after much delay in transmission on Aug. 9. President McKinley responded with an imperative reiteration of the original terms, and with bad grace Spain at last, on Aug. 11, gave permission to Cambon to accept them in its behalf. The protocol was signed on Aug. 12, President McKinley issued a proclamation declaring a cessatiion of hostilities and the war with Spain was at an end.

BOY HERO OF SANTIAGO.

Thirteen-Year-Old Youth Carried Water on the Battlefield.

Bronzed by the sun of a southern clime, and in his ears still ringing the whizz of Mauser bullets which he heard at the battles of San Juan Hill and Santiago, there arrived in New York Charles Escudero, 13 years old, who marched by the side of his father, a regular army soldier, during the campaign in Cuba. This lad carried by his side during the battles a canteen, which he replenished from time to time with cold spring water, drafts of which he gave to those who were active in battle or lying helpless and wounded on the field.

CHARLES ESCUDERO.

The boy's home is in Columbus, O. His father has been in the regular army many years and was stationed at Madison Barracks, Sackets Harbor, N. Y., with the Ninth Infantry, when the war broke out. Charles was visiting at Sackets Harbor when the regiment was ordered south, and he went with them. He describes his experience as follows:

"The fellows, the boys of my father's company, asked me to go along, and I did; that's all. They said I'd be their mascot. We stayed at Tampa two months. I worked as 'helper' to the cooks. Then we took the Santiago to Cuba from Port Tampa. We landed in the sand in Siboney. We stayed there one day and then moved up six miles the next day, and then we got into the fight. That was the battle of San Juan Hill. Only one man in our company was wounded. He was hot in the foot before we got into battle. Where was I? Why, by my father's side most of the time, but I carried water to all the fellers. I kept filling my canteen. I got water from a spring. Why, the further we marched, the further away the spring was. Say, the Sapniards had sharpshooters up in the trees, but we got on to them, and the negro troops just hunted those sharpshooters like squirrels."

A man can never realize how time drags as a woman can, for the reason that he never gets interested in a continued story.

A lawyer is as enthusiastic in speaking of his client as a young man is in thinking of his sweetheart.

Some people always have time to attend celebrations.

Home-made bread is mighty good, but it is becoming a great rarity.

RIGHT AGE FOR MARRIAGE.

Health and Happiness Most Frequently Attend Early Marriages.

Taking it for granted, which all sensible, right-minded and good-hearted people do, that marriage is the very best condition for all men and women, the question arises, What is the best marriageable age?

There is very much to be said in favor of both late and early marriages. Those who start out in life early may have the satisfaction of gathering a large family of grandchildren about them, and spending the latter portion of their lives in comparative freedom from care and anxiety. Having brought their children up in the way they should go, and established them comfortably in prosperous occupations, they may feel relieved from the immediate responsibilities of everyday life, and feel that all the children will have an interest in their happiness and welfare. Of course, where youngsters begin life together, they usually do so with small means, and if the little ones arrive in rapid succession there may, and almost inevitably will, be more or less hardship in making both ends meet and in providing food and clothes and education for the fast-growing brood; but if parents will only take a rational view of the situation, and understand that simple food is not expensive, that plain clothes are quite as good as fine ones, and that education and knowledge is the one thing of all others to give the children in order to furnish them with working capital, they will have simplified life to a great extent, and can pave the way to prosperity and a peaceful and plentiful old age.

People who marry when quite young are likely to live together more harmoniously than those who enter into this relation after their ideas, minds and methods are fully settled. The younger a woman marries the less likely she is to set up her will in the household. For this reason many men prefer young wives; indeed, they sometimes say that they would choose a very young girl and bring her up, so to speak, to their liking. Mature women have their own ideas, and these are very frequently not specially in accord with the views of the average man.

Physiologically, there is a good deal to be said in favor of early marriages, provided the family does not increase too rapidly. If women would observe all the laws of health they could marry later in life with much greater safety than at present; but health is usually the last thing to be thought of until it is gone.

Marriage is the only proper state for rational beings to live in, and if it is a failure it is not so from general laws, but from the caprices and wrong methods of those who enter into it. From twenty to twenty-two is a good age for young women, and men would do well to marry before they are twenty-five.

If women were as physically able to assume the most important duties of the marriage relation at twenty-five or thirty as at twenty there would be an excellent reason for delay; but all physiologists are aware that the responsibilities of motherhood are attended with much greater risk after twenty-five years, and after thirty the dangers are increased tenfold.

There is one serious defect in the education of the average girl. Instead of being taught to put herself in perfect physical trim from her girlhood and being able to meet the contingencies of life with calmness, confidence, and the certainty of a successful outcome, she is left in profound ignorance of those things that she has the most need to know. At twenty-five or thirty a woman has more inteligence to guide her, but less favorable physical conditions. As health is the most important of all things, it would seem wise to so arrange our life that its most taxing cares come with as little injury to the physical system as possible.

More Noise, Please.

In talking over the minute factors that have made profit or loss to manufacturers, some curious details were given me by experts.

For instance, one clock manufacturer, of Birmingham, found that a certain rival was doing a large trade in cheap clocks sent out to the wilds of Africa. He got hold of a sample clock, and, finding that there was a heavy profit in the enterprise, invested a large sum of money in making a still better clock, thousands of which were shipped to the same market. Strange to say, sales were very slow, while his rival, turning out a cheaper and far less accurate timepeace, was selling all he could make. Finally the explanation came.

Savages like noise. The clocks made by the original exporter had a particularly loud and aggressive tick; his imitator made a better clock, but it was almost noiseless, and the savages would have none of it. The remedy was simple. The next shipment of clocks to the Guinea coast ticked more loudly than anything previously heard there, and all went well.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Floating Bulletin Board.

A floating bulletin is one of the curiosities the Spanish war brought forth in the lakes. There has been published on the steamer Manitou, running betwween Chicago and Mackinac island, a four-column folio paper, daily, supplied with telegraphic war news received at points at which the steamer stops. Bulletin boards were hung over the ship's sides when she was in port. There was always a crush of summer resorters to get the latest.

No Brains at All.

"Belle is disgusted with that young man at the seashore."

"What about him?"

"She says he is crazy; there are fifteen pretty girls there, and he goes around raving about the lovely sunsets."—New York Evening World.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28 1898

For Governor of State,

JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L. HUTCHINSON ... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLE ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILLIAM S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
WILLIAM P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
IRVING H. MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
EVERETT L. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK ..... Inyo

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
J. J. GUNN ..... Modoc

Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION ..... Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL ..... Bishop

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG ..... Big Pine

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES ..... Independence

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY ..... Bishop

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON ..... Bishop

INYO'S STATE CANDIDATE.

Especially in counties not containing cities the voters of California control election of officers in their own independent way, thanks to the law providing a secret ballot and fair count. In proportion of number they read more and on the average are better informed and less subject to influence than the mass of electors in populous districts. The great Gewhizzicle Smashers of millionaire newspaperdom furnish some political information, but they do not affect the interior vote. And in this campaign the wisest of country journals distain offending the intelligence of readers by advocacy of their respective party local nominees, where the merit and good standing of all is known to everybody. For National or State positions, however, there ought to be local favor granted to the particular candidate presented by his county, on the principle that a prophet is not without honor at his home. This, of course points to the candidacy of Irv. H. Mulholland, of Inyo County, for a State office. He is absent, making a characteristically vigorous and energetic campaign, and knows nothing about any mention made or that will be made in this, his own paper. But we respectfully project the idea that in all material interests our county and the Independence land district would in the future gain a point or two by his election. The law and regulations thereunder govern public functions, but a knowledge of details supports the right rule of action in every case. If in office at the State capitol his association with others of executive and legislative powers would be of advantage to everybody here in case any local matters require attention, because he knows the people and of their interests. In the writer's knowledge, the duties of Surveyor-General of California are nothing different from those of the Register of a United States Land Office—the "Surveyor" part of the title being practically a misnomer. The main business of the position is that of clerical detail, governing the disposition of lands granted to California by Congress—University, school, tide, lake, swamp and lieu lands. Except in certain proceedings with the office of the United States Surveyor-General of California the State title is seldom used. We submit the proposition that from his experience and ability Mr. Mulholland is well qualified for that responsibility, and that his citizenship of Inyo entitles him to local endorsement at the coming ballot.

What means this? "San Francisco Oct. 21.—The fact was developed to-day that the Southern Pacific has sent a force of engineers to Salt Lake to survey a road direct into Southern California. The move is believed to be a retaliation against the Santa Fe for its purchase of an entrance into San Francisco. Just what point in Southern California the Southern Pacific will extend to is not known."

Aguinaldo has outlined his policy, to the effect that he will fight Spain unto death. Bully boy.

THE ARTICHOKE IN TEXAS.

Different Kinds of Artichoke — How to Eradicate It—Good Sorts For Profit.

The artichoke represents a much condemned and also much praised root. Many arguments have been advanced for and against its cultivation. After an experience of eight years with it a correspondent of Texas Field and Ranch has some things to say which may give enlightenment on the subject:

There are artichokes and artichokes, but hitherto the cultivation of the various sorts has by many been greatly misunderstood. During the past few years domesticated or "tame" sorts of artichokes have been imported from Europe and are fast bounding into an extensive cultivation in North America. However there is a deep seated, long standing prejudice among some of the older farmers of the United States against the cultivation of the artichoke, and indeed many have abundant reason for such prejudice.

The wild artichoke being indigenous to many localities in North and South America, many farmers have seen it growing and understand it fully. But many of the same farmers do not understand that there is a difference—a vast difference—between the wild and the tame artichoke. The wild artichoke is merely a bad weed, and in some soils very difficult to exterminate. It produces very few and small tough tubers and sends out long branching roots like a Canada thistle. The tame artichoke can be as easily grown as corn, and on ground that will produce 50 bushels of corn per acre 500 to 900 bushels of tame artichokes can be easily grown. Its value as a conditioner and as a cheap and valuable stock food is fast becoming recognized.

Artichoke tubers are not only healthy, cheap food for swine, but splendid food for all kinds of stock. Poultry almost live in an artichoke patch during the summer and autumn, where they hide from hawks and scratch out and eat the young tubers.

Many farmers object to raising artichokes because they say that this vegetable is so difficult to exterminate. Nothing is more absurd, at least so far as the tame artichoke is concerned. During the writer's experience of eight years in growing large fields of them he has learned how to easily and completely exterminate a patch of tame artichokes in one year. Plowing under the growing plants when one foot high, when the older tubers have rotted and the new ones not yet formed, will completely destroy every vestige of them, or sowing an artichoke patch to oats will effect a complete extermination. When the oats are harvested, the artichoke tops are also harvested, and before they have formed their bloom. If the artichoke is not allowed to bloom, it will form no tubers. Mammoth White French, White Jerusalem and Red Jerusalem are the very best sorts to grow for profit.

Sea Island Cotton.

Sea island cotton grown in the interior is not in truth sea island, although it bears that name. It is a cotton much coarser in fiber than the genuine sea island. The past season the total crop of sea island cotton has been about 75,000 bales, or 25 per cent less than last year, but notwithstanding this fact the price has declined fully 2 cents lower than last year. Lately the Coates Thread company of Scotland has absorbed the fine spinning interests of the whole of Europe and a combination is now on foot in this country which, it is believed, will result in giving the Coates people entire control of the fine spinning interest of the whole world. This being true, instead of there being 50 or 60 buyers of sea island there will hereafter be only one buyer of any consequence.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Convenient Pigpen.

Pigs grow best if kept out of doors on the grass during the summer. They will get much of their living from the grass also. Therefore The Farm Journal recommends making a movable pen like that shown in the cut, and the pigs can then be moved daily to new ground. A cloth shelter will give a shady place in the heat of the day and protection also from sudden showers.

MOVABLE PIGPEN.

One Thing and Another.

A writer in the New Orleans Times-Democrat claims that orange culture is coming into vogue again in Louisiana, and people have learned such lessons that a repetition of such weather as February, 1895, would not be likely to be nearly so disastrous.

From northern Louisiana is reported a new insect pest in the shape of a caterpillar which is commonly spoken of as the "measuring worm." It attacks nearly all varieties of fruit trees, as well as forest trees in general. Bands of tar or other barriers on the tree trunk, jarring and spraying with paris green are remedies employed.

Georgia growers of sea island cotton want a duty on the importations of Egyptian long staple.

Tobacco growers have found it necessary to cover their plants with hotbed cloth to protect them from insect injuries, and a Maryland station bulletin expresses the opinion that tomato growers will find it advantageous to follow the same course.

Topped cotton plants yielded less than those not topped in last year's experiments at the Alabama station.

H. E. Stockbridge of the Florida station asserts that the soil and climate of that state are better adapted to the successful production of sugar cane and its products than is any other part of the United States.

News and Notes.

It has been held that a mean temperature of 70 degrees F. for the summer months, June, July and August (combined), is conducive to the best development of the sugar beet, provided there is also adequate rainfall.

According to a recent report of the agricultural department on the sugar beet industry, there were last year nine sugar beet factories, only one of which is located east of Nebraska. It is expected that this year there will be 17 factories in operation.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE
DEALER IN
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs

Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of-

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE

HORSESHOEING

AND

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

☞Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
MAIN SPRINGS $1.00

☞All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
ALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS ..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING ..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

-- -x- --

☞Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams at Rates of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,
W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 56
	P A Chalfant, assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collees	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon int on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, Int State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Mallory, red	3 02
	Joseph Shelly, r'd	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards Int State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine Bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	284 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 98
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff, fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock Con M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John H Church on Lake land	123 16
	A R Schively on Lake land	358 63
		21 697 04
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 50
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax col fees	26 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 517 29
	Hospital	1 689 92
	General Expense	1 795 62
	Bridge	136 43
	Road Dist No 1	77 00
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	201 00
	" " " 4	124 50
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 500 00
	" " " "	5 00
	Sunday Sch'l Lib'ry.	6 00
	Liberty "	8 1
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Milton "	15 00
	County Sch'l Fund	16
		8 576 00
Aug.	Salary	1 024 92
	Road Dist, No. 2	5 00
	" " 3	24
	General Expense	1 064 [illegible]
	Hospital	65 [illegible]
	Fish Spring	12
		10 705
Sept.	General Expense	11 [illegible]
	Salary	1 024 [illegible]
	Hospital fund	4 [illegible]
	Fish Spring	2
	Round Valley	1
	Union	[illegible]
	Milton School Fund	2
	Taboose	21
	Independence	6 [illegible]
	Big Pine School fund	1 000
	Fish Springs Library	8
	County Bond	1 50
	Cash	8 146
		22 733 20 22 733

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	311 99
County bond		88
Bishop school special	1 13
State general	1 511 29
General Expense		1 [illegible]
Hospital		2
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 9[illegible]
" " " 3	2[illegible]3 7[illegible]
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	309 [illegible]
Road Poll tax	2 5
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	292 87
Institute	5 00
Teacher's library	34
County school	26 5
Property tax	1 559 8
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	[illegible]
Bishop	21 1[illegible]
Station	38 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 [illegible]
Union	30
Riverside
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Springs	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Taboose
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	500 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 33
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Taboose	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	570 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 99
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Pobeta	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Station	90 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Liberty	28 42
Tabosse	131 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and overflowed land	481 79
Round Valley School	120 48
Cash on hand		8 146 3[illegible]
	10 425 17	10 425 1[illegible]

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Filed Oct. 7, 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
Auditor

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.
A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

QUARTERLY REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR FOR QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

Exhibit showing amount of warrants drawn and upon what funds, between June 30th and Sept. 30th, 1898:

Total warrants drawn		11 921 81
Gen. Expense fund	2 811 40
School "	382 75
Hospital "	1 795 49
Salary "	3 597 24
Road District No 1 Fund	77 00
" " " 2 "	272 00
" " " 3 "	228 25
" " " 4 "	124 50
Bridge "	136 18
Big Pine Bldn'g "	2 500 00
	11 921 81	11 921 81

Exhibit showing indebtedness of Inyo Co. Interest not included.

Total indebtedness	60 990 55
County bonds		60 000 00
Old indebtedness		990 55
	60 990 55	60 990 55
Inyo county total indebtedness	60 990 55
Cash in treasury		8 146 39
Remaining indebtedness		52 844 16
	60 990 55	60 990 55

Respectfully submitted to the Honorable Board of Supervisors.

D. J. HESSION
County Auditor.

Filed Oct. 3, 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.
A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

---

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff. P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo in the office of the clerk of said superior court

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and S W 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NL 1-4 of Section 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east, M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
J. M. Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo in the office of the clerk of said superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The fract'l N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all fract'l Section 5 Township 17 south, and fract'l S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 35 east, M. D. M. and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,675, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $38.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The fract'l N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all fract'l Section 5 Township 17 south, and fract'l S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 35 east, M. D. M. and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11 232 from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $6[illegible].40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896 upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28 1898

Parke Barnes has gone to Keeler, where he will manage the hotel for Mrs. Mates.—Hawthorne Bulletin.

It was reported here to-day that George Meads, the Bishop teamster, had died in Mojave within the last two or three days.

David Slater, William Nicoll and Francis S. Fugitt, all of Weldon, Kern Co., Cal., were in town Wednesday on business with the United States Land Office.

A party of Government surveyors passed southward on Monday's train, bound for The Needles. Their mission is to perfect the Nevada-California State line.

The mortuary list of the week is sadly amended by a telegram announcing the passing away of Mrs. Rilla M. Clark, of Bishop, yesterday. There will be a thrill of sorrow all through the valley.

As election day approaches patriotism increases, although the war is over. The number of men who want to assist Uncle Sam by helping to pay the internal revenue tax on beer and whisky is coming up at an alarming rate.

On complaint of Henry Levy, and warrant issued by Justice of the Peace A. V. Davidson, Joe White was arrested by Constable Robinson for an assault committed at Lone Pine a few days ago. After several continuances the case will come up for hearing by the magistrate next Monday.

Rugged Reuben Van Dyke, a pioneer rancher of Lone Pine, succombed to the inevitable last Wednesday, in his seventy-third year, after thirty years of honorable, upright life at his home in this county. Everybody knew him, and knew that within his rough exterior there was a kind and noble heart. His funeral at Lone Pine to-day was very largely attended.

A prospecting tunnel over 1000 feet in length, to develop water and gold placer ground in Mazourka Canyon, has been run by three or four local miners, with no other capital than grub, mining tools and energy. It is in all the pluckiest work that has ever been done in this county, and from last reports the indications are that the men will be rewarded with fortunes.

Cards announce the marriage in San Francisco, October 13th, of Lieutenant John Francis Lucey and Miss Emily Patricia Conklin. The bride is a native of Independence, and all will join in best wishes for her future happiness. We hear that she will sail for Manila the latter part of next month to join her soldier husband, and that her mother, Mrs. A. R. Conklin, and her sister, Mrs. Maggie Olcese, will accompany her and continue a tour around the world.

It is near time that Lone Pine should wake up. Consolidate water interests; get some shovels and things and extend the Stevens irrigating ditch. It only requires co-operation and muscle, without capital, as has been demonstrated a score of times around Bishop and Big Pine. Lone Pine is situated in naturally the richest section of the Valley, as to climate and extent and fertility of soil, not to mention the vastly important, business-supporting mineral surroundings. The water of Owens River will not go to Kern County, being needed all around the Lake, in this County. This is directed to nobody in particular and we do not anticipate thanks therefor, but it is now certain that the people of our neighbor town can get ahead in the race of progress by co-organization and attention to real business.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending October 27, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.328	24th
Lowest "	29.703	22d
Highest temperature	76.0	21st
Lowest "	40	25th
Mean "	58.1
Average dew point	9.5
Average humidity	13.1
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	33 W	23d
No. clear days	7
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	00
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	00

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

Methodist Church.

Sunday, October 30, 1898:

Independence—At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the regular session of the Sunday-school.

Church service at 7:00 p. m.: Subject of discourse, "Excuses."

Services at Lone Pine and Georges Creek at the usual hours.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

Last week, in Halifax, N. S., the regimental sports of the Royal Canadian batalion of Imperial troops was marked by an unusual incident. At the conclusion of the exercises 100 men, the pick of the garrison, formed a pyramid by mounting upon one anothers' shoulders, and the man at the apex—a fine specimen of the British soldier—stood waving in one hand the Union Jack and in the other the Stars and Stripes. This finale was cheered by the large number of spectators present. It was the first time in the history of Halifax that men of a British regiment had displayed the flag of another nation.

The United States new geodetic survey of Alaska show that Uncle Sam's farm is larger by 2,500 square miles than he had supposed it was. What with his Porto Rican and Hawaiian plantations and the job lot of Philippines he is negotiating for it is not surprising that the old gentleman should overlook a trifle like that.

The Secretary of State has given to the Sacramento Record-Union figures showing the counties that gave Republican increase in 1896 over 1894, and from it we find that Alameda increased 3,916, Los Angeles 4,418, San Francisco 6,132, and Santa Clara 1,358. It was generally admitted three weeks before the election that Bryan would have carried the State had the election occurred at that time, but money was thrown into the fight, and of course into the cities. Notwithstanding the fact, however, that these four counties with big cities gave an aggregate increase of 13,824 over the election of 1894 when Budd was elected, McKinley lacked over four thousand votes of getting a majority of the votes cast—the Democrats electing one of the electors out of the nine. No such exertion was ever put out in the State. Will the same amount of money be expended again in the cities this time? In each of these cities there was an increased vote that was not due to an increase in population. It does not seem possible from Mr. Brown's figures that the Republican ticket can be successful this time. By reason of the increased vote McKinley got a plurality of 797 in San Francisco. Maguire will carry that city by anywhere from five to ten thousand, and hence if the other cities keep up their artificial increase, and give Gage the McKinley vote, Maguire will come in largely ahead. But those other cities will not keep up the artificial vote of 1896. We are obliged to Mr. Secretary Brown for the figures.

It will be well for all voters to think up a little about the proposed amendments to the State constitution, as submitted to the people and comprised in the official election proclamation. All but two of them—Nos. 3 and 5—should be voted down. But an easier and in the long run a less expensive solution of the problem might be had by the adoption of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, which provides for a Constitution to revise the entire organic act. It can be done, with benefit to popular government. The present Constitution has become a thing of shreds and patches, powerless for good and strong for evil. A new one, shorter, clearer, more progressive, and more in line with government by the people, would be the greatest good fortune that could come to the people of California. It will be remembered that Inyo County voted strongly against the adoption of the present Constitution in the first place, and our people would not be inconsistent in supporting a convention to frame a new one.

BORN.

ROBINSON—At Independence, October 21, 1898, to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Robinson, a son.

DIED.

VAN DYKE—At Lone Pine, Inyo Co., Cal., October 26, 1898, Reuben Van Dyke, a native of New York, aged 73 years.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

W. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff, vs. IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take Judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898. D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL] 0215

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address

F. A. HYDE,

630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT.

STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station.

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me

je29 tf JOHN CLARKE.

OFFICIAL.

ELECTION PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

IN accordance with law thereunto directing me, I hereby proclaim and give notice that a General Election will be held throughout the State of California on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898,

At which election the following officers will be elected, and the following proposed Constitutional amendments and other questions will be voted on:

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.
SECRETARY OF STATE.
CONTROLLER.
TREASURER.
ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
SURVEYOR-GENERAL.
CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT.
SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.
SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE PRINTING.

Also, seven Representatives to the Congress of the United States; being one Representative from each Congressional District in this State.

Also, three Railroad Commissioners, being one Railroad Commissioner from each Railroad District in this State.

Also, four members of the State Board of Equalization, being one member from each of the four districts from which by law members of the Board of Equalization are to be elected.

Also, two Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of California.

Also, four Judges of the Superior Court in and for the City and County of San Francisco.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the Counties of Santa Clara, Tulare and Glenn.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Del Norte for the unexpired term of James E. Murphy, deceased, ending January, 1903; vice Fletcher A. Cutler, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Santa Barbara, for the unexpired term of W. B. Cope, resigned, ending January, 1903; vice W. S. Day, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Kings, for the unexpired term of Justin Jacobs, deceased, ending January, 1901.

Also, twenty members of the Senate, being one Senator from each of the following Senatorial Districts, to-wit: Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, Thirty-second, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, Fortieth.

Also, eighty members of the Assembly, being one member of the Assembly from each of the eighty Assembly Districts in this State.

Also, at said election, amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, submitted by the Legislature of this State, at its last regular session, numbered and designated as hereinafter specified, will be voted upon by the electors of said State, namely:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy there f to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited, one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows:

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Each of the said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon by ballot in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation in relation to counties.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Five, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No

Also, at said election, the following question shall be voted on: The Legislature of this State at its thirty second session, adopted a resolution on the 22d day of March, 1897, known as Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, recommending to the electors of this State, at the General Election to be held November 8th, A. D. 1898, to vote for or against a Convention to revise the Constitution of the State. The proposed Convention is to consist of eighty delegates, one to be chosen from each Assembly District. Such delegates are to possess the same qualifications, and shall be elected in the same manner as members of the Assembly; they shall receive as compensation the sum of eight dollars per day, with the same mileage as the members of the Assembly, and there shall be a reasonable number of clerks and other attaches whose compensation shall be fixed by the convention. Accordingly at such general election the electors of this State will vote for or against a Convention to revise said Constitution. Each ballot used at such election shall contain printed thereon, in addition to other matter required by law, the words:

For the Convention to revise the Constitution.

Against the Convention to revise the Constitution.

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I, of the Penal Code; such reward to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, this 23rd day of September, A. D. 1898.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.

SUPERVISORS' PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the General Election to be held on

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1898,

The following County, District and Township Officers are to be elected in the County of Inyo, State of California, viz.:

1—Sheriff and Tax Collector;
2—County Clerk, Auditor and Recorder;
3—County Treasurer;
4—County Assessor;
5—District Attorney;
6—Superintendent of Schools;
7—Coroner and Public Administrator;
8—County Surveyor;
9—One Supervisor, 1st District;
10—One Supervisor, 3d District;
11—One Supervisor, 5th District;
12—One Justice of the Peace, 1st Twp.;
13—One Constable, 1st Township;
14—One Justice of the Peace, 2d Twp.;
15—One Constable, 2d Township;
16—One Justice of the Peace, 3d Twp.;
17—One Constable, 3d Township.
18—One Justice of the Peace 4th Twp.;
19—One Constable, 4th Township.
20—One Justice of the Peace, 5th Twp.;
21—One Constable, 5th Township.

Boards of Election.

Ordered—That polls be held in the following places in the precincts named in the said County of Inyo, for the said General Election, and that the following named electors be and they are appointed officers of the Boards of Election in the respective Precincts of said County, for said General Election, as follows, to-wit:

Round Valley, No. 1.
Inspectors—W. H. Wells, J. G. W. Birchim.
Judges—D. Olds, W. W. Vaughn.
Clerks—I. P. Smith, John E. Jones.
Ballot Clerks—J. S. McGee, C. L. Olds.
Polls to be held at School House.

Lincoln, No. 2.
Inspectors—R. Love, G. P. Bourland.
Judges—W. H. Fitzgerald, James Shaw.
Clerks—W. A. Tickey, Charles Wonacott.
Ballot Clerks—Wm. Brockman, Wm. Jenkins.
Polls to be held at School House.

Laws, No. 3.
Inspectors—Barton McGee, H. G. Plumley.
Judges—Jos. McNally, P. Gunter.
Clerks—Ed. Dehy, Geo. Huckaby.
Ballot Clerks—Ed Morton, L. H. J. Ehlen.
Polls to be held at School House.

Bishop, No. 4.
Inspectors—C. W. Dixon, Ed M. Clarke.
Judges—W. G. McCrosky jr., James McBride.
Clerks—W. W. Watterson, Chas Garretson.
Ballot Clerks—A. J. Murphy, Henry Shirley.
Polls to be held at Court House.

East Bishop, No. 5.
Inspectors—C. M. Dixon, W. C. Brierly.
Judges—L. A. Coats, Chas. A. McKay.
Clerks—H. H. Howell, Geo. Watterson.
Ballot Clerks—Andrew Dell, John N. Yandell.
Polls to be held at Albright's office.

Poleta, No. 6.
Inspectors—George Collins, James Hampton.
Judges—George Storey, A. O. Collins.
Clerks—J. A. Leidy, C. W. Geiger.
Ballot Clerks—T. J. Reed, George Free.
Polls to be held at George Collins' House.

Big Pine, No. 7.
Inspectors—R. W. Thomas, S. H. Spratt.
Judges—S. J. McMurry, J. E. M. Connell.
Clerks—G. W. Hall, W. H. Uhlmeyer.
Ballot Clerks—L. Joseph, D. W. Pitman.
Polls to be held at School House.

Fish Springs, No. 8.
Inspectors—J. H. Cole, Chas. Petersen.
Judges—T. W. Hill, G. W. Melone.
Clerks—Geo. H. Rose, C. F. Fuller.
Ballot Clerks—A. W. H. Smith, Upton Tracy.
Polls to be held at School House.

Taboose, No. 9.
Inspectors—Geo. D. Calvert, S. Tapman.
Judges—Luke F. Smith, William Hines.
Clerks—Charles Walter, Joseph G. Bell.
Ballot Clerks—A. L. Conklin, M. S. Harbour.
Polls to be held at School House.

Independence, No. 10.
Inspectors—A. Clark, J. S. German.
Judges—J. D. Blair, G. W. Brady.
Clerks—J. E. Parker, George Thorpe.
Ballot Clerks—Neel Bell, H. D. Gill.
Polls to be held at School House.

Citrus, No. 11.
Inspectors—Jacob Ifold, W. H. Ramsey.
Judges—Joseph Vaughn, W. F. Norbruo.
Clerks—John A. Ramsey, Martin Church.
Ballot clerks—David Vaughn, Seth A. Baker.
Polls to be held at L. R. Depot.

Georges Creek, No. 12.
Inspectors—Gus McGovern, John Kispert.
Judges—Thos. Hamilton, J. V. Skinner.
Clerks—J. E. Shepherd, J. F. Beale.
Ballot clerks—J. W. Lacey, W. H. Jenkins.
Polls to be held at School House.

Lone Pine, No. 13.
Inspectors—Mark Hand, J. C. Anton.
Judges—P. Laberge, C. Carrasco.
Clerks—F. P. Meyers, R. C. Spear.
Ballot clerks—Abe Diaz, O. F. Deerborn.
Polls to be held at Town Hall.

Cerro Gordo, No. 14.
Inspectors—, Chris Crohn.
Judges—Gregory Kelly, Manuel Romero.
Clerks—M. W. Trask, .
Ballot clerks—Harry Williams, Jesus Romero.
Polls to be held at Crohn's Building.

Keeler, No. 15.
Inspectors—Samuel Levy, John Jenkins.
Judges—Mike Anton, Nat Randall.
Clerks—A. R. Schively, H. Winkle.
Ballot clerks—C. W. Stewart, A. St. Merry.
Polls to be held at School House.

Olancha, No. 16.
Inspectors—Alonzo Brown, August Walker.
Judges—R. H. Williams, Horace Bellows.
Clerks—W. T. Grant, Charles Whittock.
Ballot clerk—Henry De le Ira Brown.
Polls to be held at W. H. Walker's House.

Darwin, No. 17.
Inspectors—Henry Jackson, Paul Pfefferle.
Judges—J. A. McKenzie, N. S. Thompson.
Clerks—James Murry, Charles Richardson.
Ballot clerks—James Harry, James Wood.
Polls to be held at Waterman's Store.

Modock, No. 18.
Inspectors—Arthur Smith, .
Judges—James Stanborough, .
Clerks—C. E. Shepherd, John Doody.
Ballot clerks—John C. Cress, Wm. Monahan.
Polls to be held at J. J. Gunn's Boarding House.

Mountain Springs, No. 19.
Inspectors—P. D. Owens, .
Judges—James Prewett, .
Clerks—, .
Ballot clerk—Theodore Wibbelt, .
Polls to be held at Wolbrecht's House.

Ballarat, No. 20.
Inspectors—Frank McAlister, P. Winston.
Judges—John Taylor, J. S. Stotler.
Clerks—George Vollmer, C. H. Tyler.
Ballot clerks—J. Casey, Chas. McLeod.
Polls to be held in Weaver & Porter's Building, south of Weaver & Porter's Store.

Panamint, No. 21.
Inspectors—J. Curran, George Montgomery.
Judges—J. Wall, F. Russell.
Clerks—Al Williams, H. P. Dover.
Ballot clerks—J. W. Trotter, J. Wingfield.
Polls to be held at Anthony's Boarding House.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest:
D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO
CARSON AND COLORADO

RAILROAD
RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	47	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	Lv 3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:15 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	298	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8:00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers t the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—on soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE
VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE

RAILROAD
RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L PASS'R AGENT.

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:42 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for

LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT
CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN,
SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with

CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains o Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leav promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, ar

IMPROVEMENTS IN FLYING MACHINES.

Inventors are plenty who can make a machine that will rise and float in air, but the one improvement which none has succeeded in making is an apparatus that will guide the machine through the many treacherous currents of air. In this respect humanity is fortunate in having Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which acts as a safe guide by curing treacherous stomach, liver and blood diseases, giving a good appetite, a strong constitution and nerves like steel.

"I am surprised, John," said an old lady when she found her butler helping himself to some of her finest old port. "So am I, ma'am," was the calm reply. "I thought you was gone out."

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

Send for Free Circular showing how to get BIG DISCOUNTS on Prices of any San Francisco or Pacific Coast Cash Store or Supply Company. We are reliable, been in business in San Francisco thirty years, and can save you money on everything you buy. Address GILBERT CLEMENTS' SONS, 218 California Street, San Francisco, Cal.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

My doctor said I would die, but Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me—Amos Kelner, Cherry Valley, Ills., Nov. 23, '95.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Nervous People

Are great sufferers and they deserve sympathy rather than censure. Their blood is poor and thin and their nerves are consequently weak. Such people find relief and cure in Hood's Sarsaparilla because it purifies and enriches the blood and gives it power to feed, strengthen and sustain the nerves. If you are nervous and cannot sleep, take Hood's Sarsaparilla and realize its nerve strengthening power.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory
MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

TWO HUMOROUS BROTHERS.

They Won Wagers on the Strength of Their Own Homeliness.

Many years ago there were two brothers, named Joel and Jonathan, who were famous throughout Wayne county, Ind., because they were both such frights. One day they were on their way to Cincinnati by wagon in the days of the old canal. The wagon was of the covered variety, and only Joel was visible to the natural eye as the vehicle plunged into and out of the chuck holes that infested the way. Joel was said to be the next to the ugliest man in all the country round, and his brother took precedence.

The two brothers met a stranger, who, attracted by the supremely homely face of Joel, stopped his horse and said:

"Excuse me, my friend, but would you mind tellin me your name?"

In a sepulchral tone that fitted well the hideous face Joel replied:

"Well, I guess I hain't never done nothin that would make me ashamed to tell my name. My name is Joel"—

"Where do you live, if it is a fair question?"

"I live in Wayne county, Indianny."

"Well, stranger, I've seen much of Indianny, but I'll bet you $10 that you're the ugliest man in the state."

"Well, I hain't no gamblin man," replied Joel, "but I hain't never seen nothin in the Scriptur' ag'in bettin on a sure thing, an I'll jest take that bet."

Turning to the wagon cover and peering into its depths he called:

"Jonathan, stick your head out hyer."

Jonathan did as he was requested.

The stranger paid the money without a word of complaint.—New York Mail and Express.

So Kindly Considerate.

"Why is it," the daring young man asked, "that your daughter still wears such short dresses?"

"Oh, I keep her dressed that way," Mrs. Giddibus answered, with a beautiful blush, "because if she had long skirts on people would think she was my sister when they saw us together. I have no wish to conceal the fact that I have a daughter who is as tall as I am."—Cleveland Leader.

Close Range.

Hattie—So you and Jack quarreled, did you?

Ella—Yes. He said something that I didn't like and I told him we must be strangers henceforth.

Hattie—And did he fall on his knees and ask you to forgive him?

Ella—Not he! You see he—that is, his knees were occupied at the time.—Chicago News.

THE LOVE STORY : : : : : : OF NUMBER SIX.

IN the Baptist Orphan Asylum of a small town in Vermont Lizzie Macready was known as No. 6. The name was particularly fitting for more reasons than one. Lizzie was the youngest child in a family of six. She was the sixth orphan who had been admitted to the institution in the sixth year of its establishment. Her father was a locomotive engineer on the Vermont Central Railway. Lizzie, the youngest child, was 6 years old when he was killed in a collision, and brought home a corpse to his little ones. His eldest daughter had been keeping house since the death of her mother, and soon after the father's demise she married a section boss. The children were scattered among friends and relatives. The boys had found good homes and were all at work earning money. Lizzie was taken into the orphanage, of which her aunt, a kindly, middle-aged woman, was matron.

Nobody objected to this arrangement, for Miss Sanders stood very high in the esteem of the townspeople, who thought it but right that the youngest child of the dead engineer should be cared for at the expense of the county, since all the others had not become burdens on their charity.

Number Six grew up a likely girl amidst the orphans of the place, and now, at the age of 16, she was quite a help to her aunt, who still continued in charge of the county's waifs. All who had been there when she was a toddler were gone. The girls had sought service with the townspeople, the boys were at work in the fields. Lizzie was taking upon her young shoulders the cares which burdened the white-haired woman who had been a mother to her.

At this time there was not an empty bed or cradle in the institution. An open winter, something unusual in the rigorous climate of the Vermont hills, had depopulated the firesides and filled the graveyard. For years there had not been infants in the home until this winter. Now there were two, a boy and a girl. The former was the son of the schoolmaster. The girl was a poor washerwoman's child. Bad, the male infant, was robust enough and thrived as successfully among strangers as he had in his mother's arms, but Bee, the charwoman's infant daughter, needed a deal of attention. This little mite of humanity had been christened Beatrice, to the great astonishment of everybody. A washerwoman calling her child Beatrice, was an unheard of thing among the plain people of the Vermont hills. Maggie, Mary or Annie, wagged the gossips, would have been more suitable.

Mrs. Rossiter, the mother of little Beatrice, came to the Green Mountain town when her child was not quite a year old. She wore widow's weeds and informed those who asked after her antecedents that her husband had died a short time ago, leaving her in poverty. He had been a good man, she explained, but a year's sickness had eaten up their little savings.

BEE GOT ALL OF THE CODDLING.

This was in the summer of the year, and a few days before Christmas the mother was called away from little Bee, before she could indicate what she wanted done with her child. After the burial of Mrs. Rossiter, the baby was taken to the orphanage and placed in charge of Miss Sanders. From the first Lizzie Macready—Number Six—took a violent fancy to the little one. Bee got all the coddling and fondling. She was such a wee thing; so delicate and frail. Big blue eyes gazed wistfully out of a thin, pale face, and there was a sad droop to the baby mouth, as if the child realized its forlorn condition.

For a time after Mrs. Rossiter's coming to Water Hollow, the gossips indulged in talk about the legitimacy of little Bee. All doubts were set aside, however, when the Public Administrator found in an old tin box among Mrs. Rossiter's effects two marriage certificates. One, the latest, pronounced her the wife of James Rossiter, whom she had wed six years before the baby was born. The other was ten years older. It had been issued by a minister in a small town of New York, and by it the woman had become the wife of a man named Correll.

This was news, indeed, to the denizens of Water Hollow, and they at once speculated what had become of her first husband. By the time they had found something else to talk about Baby Bee was forgotten, so far as they were concerned.

Slowly the little girl grew, tenderly cared for by Number Six, who had become deeply attached to her, and could not endure to have her out of her sight. Several opportunities presented themselves for Bee's adoption, but Lizzie Macready objected. She could not bear to think of a separation from the little waif whose life, like hers, seemed cast in lonely paths. But there came a time when even Lizzie could no longer expect to retain control of Bee Rossiter. A childless couple had come to summer at a neighboring resort in the Green Mountains, and while on their journey visited the orphanage. They had long ago decided to adopt a child, and a glance at little Bee satisfied them that she was just what they wanted. The bargain was made and it was agreed that Bee should be sent to them a few days before their summer sojourn came to an end.

From that time on Number Six was a changed being. She pined and fretted, as the day drew near that would separate her from the little girl, and Aunt Sanders was more than once compelled to call in the house physician to administer to her niece.

The girl, who had tasted all the bitterness of an orphaned life, clung to the motherless child with all the vehemency of a first love. Night and day she prayed that something might interfere to let her keep the girl a little longer.

And the unexpected happened. A stranger alighted one day from the single-horse fly, which plied between the railway station and the best hotel in town. He was a handsome, prosperous-looking man. His clothes and the alligator bag indicated that. He asked for the best room in the house and paid for it in advance. The morning after his arrival he set out for the parsonage, and through the volubility of the minister's housekeeper, it soon leaked out that he had come to inquire about Mrs. Rossiter. The parson took him first to the little graveyard and showed him the mound beneath which the old charwoman lay buried. Then he accompanied him to the orphanage to see little Bee.

Lizzie Macready was busy at a window, when the stranger and the parson walked up the gravel path. The bronzed face of the former was aglow with excitement. Lizzie had never seen a more pleasing face, she thought. It was a good, honest face, too, and when a moment later she was requested to bring little Bee to the reception-room, her heart throbbed wildly. Perhaps her prayer had been heard!

The woman and the child entered the room, and the stranger came forward to greet them. He caught the little girl in his arms and kissed her. Bee, who had never before been caressed by a man, wound her arms around his neck and laid her head on his shoulder. A good omen, thought Lizzie, and confidingly shook the stranger's hand. The minister introduced the visitor as Mr. Correll, little Bee's half-brother. His father, a wild, reckless fellow, had left his wife. He had taken their child, a boy, with him. The boy was the man, who now stood before them. They had drifted to the mining camps of Colorado and there Correll had amassed riches. A few months ago he died, leaving everything to his son and imploring him to find his mother. This the son did. He had learned of his mother's divorce and marriage to Rossiter, and of the birth of a baby girl. Their trail led to the little mountain town in Vermont, and here he found one in her grave, the other a public charge in an orphanage. Now he would take her away with him and spend his riches upon her. In a day or two he would be ready to depart.

Lizzie Macready grew pale as death, when he announced his intention. The child, still nestling in his arms, held out her hand to her foster-mother.

"Dear Number Six," she cried, "I can never leave you!"

Sweet blushes crept in the girl's cheek at this avowal of affection on the part of the child. The stranger stopped and kissed her hand.

"How can I ever thank you for what you have done for her?"

For days Mr. Correll, the rich young miner, lingered in the little mountain town. Again the gossips got together, wondering what kept him in a place so devoid of attraction to people with money. There was nothing in the way of little Bee's departure. Surely that foolish young woman, Lizzie Macready, would not again interpose silly objections.

Every day the stranger went to the orphanage to spend hours with his little sister and her beloved Number Six, for he insisted that Lizzie Macready should accompany her charge on all their strolls through the garden.

At last he informed the landlord of the little hostelry that he would depart the next day. He ordered a four-seat carriage instead of the single fly to take him to the station.

"I am not going alone this time," he said, with a happy smile.

"Going to take the little girl with you, I see," answered the landlord, saying to himself that there would be one less for the county to feed.

BEE WOUND HER ARMS AROUND HIS NECK.

"Yes, and a wife!" continued Correll.

"A wife?" gasped the innkeeper. "Where did you get her?"

"Over at the orphanage. I am going to be married in the morning to Lizzie Macready—Number Six—you know!"—St. Louis Republic.

Photos of Moonlight Scenes.

Moonlight effects in photographs have long been admired by the uninitiated, and fully appreciated by both amateur and professional photographers for their beauty, and many plates, too, have been spoiled by snapshotters who have accepted moonlight as the real illuminator of these views, and accordingly focused directly on this beautiful orb of night. Moonlights with the moon herself in evidence are really sun photographs; that is, pictures taken with a rapid exposure, the camera pointed toward the sun generally in the late afternoon or early morning and with clouds between the lens and the direct rays. Many charming so-called night pictures are taken by making two exposures, a short one in the rapidly diminishing afternoon sunlight, to get an impression of buildings and other dark objects, and another longer one after dark to print in the gas and electric lights that line the long street or mark out the roads and winding pathway of a city park.—Scribner's.

Immense Indian Temple.

The largest heathen temple in the world is at Seringapatam (the city of Vishnu), in India. This immense temple comprises a square, each side being a mile in length, and inside of which are six other squares. The walls are twenty-five feet high and five feet thick, and the grand hall, in which the pilgrims assemble, is supported by 1,000 pillars, each cut from a single stone. There is a very large and magnificent Buddhist temple at Rangoon standing on a huge mound of two terraces, the upper one being 106 feet above the ground outside, and in extent 900x685 feet. The underground temple of Kasli is another temple, all excavated out of the solid rock—so are the temples of Elephanta.

Lavish Use of Lamps.

The English in most matters electrical still have to follow America's lead, yet in the artistic application of electric lighting they are masters. Many of the arc lamp posts used in the streets are examples of fine art, while such ornamentation as festooning the sidewalks of seaside promenades with incandescent electric lamps is not rare. Dover is one such town, and there are miles and miles of incandescent lamp festoon along the board walk giving a holiday air to the promenade during the summer season. These lamps are employed merely for their artistic effect, the usual arc lights supplying the general illumination.

Diminutive Woman in Ohio.

Miss Sally Podney, a 25-year-old woman of Spring Valley, O., weighs only twenty-six pounds. Her height is 34 inches. She is fairly well educated, having attended the district schools until she was past the school age. She has always rejected any proposition to appear before the public for gain, although she could have realized a fortune by so doing. P. T. Barnum, the showman, at one time offered her a large sum to travel with his show.

When a woman is sick, and her friends refuse to let visitors see her, the story is started that her family is trying to keep it a secret, but the patient is really insane.

Men are like rivers; the deeper they are the less noise they make.

The Absent Boy.

They miss him in the orchard where the fruit is sunning over,
And in the meadow where the air is sweet with new-mown hay,
And all about the old farm which knew him for a lover,
From the early seedtime onward till the crops were piled away.

They miss him in the village where nothing went without him,
Where to-day the young folks' parties are dull and incomplete.
They cannot just explain it, there was such a charm about him,
The drop of cheer he always brought made common daylight sweet.

And now he's gone to Cuba, he's fighting for the nation,
He's charging with the others, a lad in army blue.
His name is little known yet, but at the upland station
They all are sure you'll hear it before the war is through.

And when you talk of battles, and scan the printed column,
His regiment's the one they seek, his neighbors think and care;
The more they do not speak of it their looks grows grave and solemn,
For somewhere in the thick of strife they know their boy is there.
—Margaret E. Sangster, in Collier's Weekly.

A Spanish Prisoner.

High o'er his head the starry flag is floating,
But on his breast he wears the saffron gold;
Our prison bars securely close around him,
Though, Migo, friend, the name we have enrolled.

But never once he seems to hear the cheering
That greets the story of a victory won;
And cares no whit that we are all rejoicing
When news is brought us of a brave deed done.

He sits apart and sings, with sweetest cadence,
The songs learned long ago in sunny Spain.
We cannot chide him, for we love the rebel:
Our gold canary from the Spanish Main.
—Lucie E. Thurston, in Boston Evening Transcript.

"Jubilate Deo."

Jubilate, Jubilate! Peace again triumphant reigns;
Jubilate! Vale and mountain send aloft the welcome strains.

Shout! ye echoes hoarse, with thunder of an outraged nation's cry;
Shout! till white-robed angels answer Jubilate from on high.

"Make a joyful noise, ye people," herald ye his triumphs dread
Who hath made our arms victorious and, with honor, crowned our dead.

Thou, O Lord, hast tried us, proved us, taken of our loved the flower;
Yet we echo Jubilate! Thine the glory; Jubilate! Thine the power.
—Margaret Newell Goodnow.

AN EXCELLENT RECORD.

Capt. Barker Has Served Nearly Twenty Years on the Sea.

Captain Albert S. Barker, who was detached from the command of the cruiser Newark and ordered to take charge of the battle-ship Oregon, filling the vacancy made by the invaliding of Captain Clark, was one of the original members of the Naval Board, and in that capacity rendered valuable services in preparing the navy for the excellent work accomplished by it in the war. He commanded the Oregon while she was attached to the Pacific station.

Captain Albert S. Barker has an excellent record of nearly twenty years' sea service to his credit, as well as some hard fighting in the Civil War. Born in Massachusetts, he entered the Naval CAPT. A. S. BARKER.

Academy in 1859, but was ordered into active service on the frigate Mississippi when the war broke out, and took part in the capture of New Orleans and the fight at Port Hudson when the Mississippi was lost. He commanded the Enterprise in 1883-86, when a line of deep-sea soundings was run across the Atlantic and Indian oceans, and from New Zealand to the Straits of Magelland. Captain Barker has published the log of the cruise, including an interesting account of the great earthquake at Krakatoa. He was incommand of the flagship Philadelphia, under Rear Admiral Gherardi, at the international naval review in Hampton Roads in 1893.

During the opening weeks of the present war Captain Barker served as aid to Secretary Long and as a member of the Military War Board, but on May 6th was assigned to the command of the remodeled and newly commissioned Newark.

Eiderdown from Norway.

The rearing of eider ducks for their down is a novel industry on the Norwegian coast islands, which are owned by private individuals. The birds are naturally wild, but, being fed when necessary by the keepers, who also protect them from the ravens and eagles, lose much of their shyness and come at feeding time in great numbers, attended often by a train of gulls and wild ducks of many varieties. The industry is highly profitable.

Left Teeth Used Oftenest.

The natural habit of human beings appears to be the use of the teeth on the left side of the mouth for masticating the food. During a lengthened period of observation only one person out of thirteen was found who used both sides of his mouth for chewing and masticating his food.

Wise men change their minds occasionally, but fools have none to change.

ON A BIKE BUILT FOR TWO.

And the Startling News Was Not Known Until Afterward.

A cyclist whom we will call Baxter was strolling along the avenue when he noticed a pretty girl in a neat cycling costume standing by a tandem. She had her back turned to him, but he saw she wore a trim costume, had a neat ankle and a nicely arranged lot of hair. Baxter is very particular about a girl's hair. This girl looked so attractive that he paused. There was something pathetic in her attitude, he thought. Was she waiting for a cavalier to join her on the tandem? A wild idea entered Baxter's head. He would do a daring thing. He walked up to the girl. She turned a frank, merry face on him as he approached.

"Pardon me," he laughingly said, "but are you looking for an accompanist?" and he pointed to the tandem.

"Well," she smilingly answered, "now that you mention it, I guess I am."

A moment later they were whirling up the street. When it began to grow dark, they turned back.

"My tandem?" cried the girl. "Why, it isn't my tandem."

"Not your tandem?" shouted Baxter. "Whose is it, then?"

"Why," said the girl, "I thought it was yours."

"Heavens, no!" groaned Baxter.

"But you acted as if it was yours," said the girl.

"What shall we do?" moaned the girl.

"Take it back," said Baxter.

So they rode back in silence, and when they were about a block away the girl said:

"I guess I'll stop here."

Leaving the tandem as near to the place where he saw it as he could, he scuttled away in the darkness.—Cycling Gazette.

Experienced.

"Have you made up your mind just what qualities you expect to find in a husband?" asked the matron.

"Why, of course," answered the maid.

"Too bad," commented the matron with a sigh.

"Why do you say that?" demanded the maiden.

"Oh, I always hate to see young girls disappointed," answered the matron.—Chicago Post.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS
is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

YOUNG AT SIXTY.

Serene comfort and happiness in advanced years are realized by comparatively few women.

Their hard lives, their liability to serious troubles on account of their peculiar organism and their profound ignorance concerning themselves, all combine to shorten the period of usefulness and fill their later years with suffering.

Mrs. Pinkham has done much to make women strong. She has given advice to many that has shown them how to guard against disease and retain vigorous health in old age. From every corner of the earth there is constantly coming the most convincing statements from women, showing the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in overcoming female ills. Here is a letter from Mrs. J. C. Orms, of 220 Horner St., Johnstown, Pa., which is earnest and straight to the point:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women that I think your remedies are wonderful. I had trouble with my head, dizzy spells and hot flashes. Feet and hands were cold, was very nervous, could not sleep well, had kidney trouble, pain in ovaries and congestion of the womb. Since taking your remedies I am better every way. My head trouble is all gone, have no pain in ovaries, and am cured of womb trouble. I can eat and sleep well and am gaining in flesh. I consider your medicine the best to be had for female troubles."

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometime past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated
IXL TAMALES, FRIJOLES, CHILE CON CARNE, CHICKEN SOUP IN CANS
Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.
If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.
SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE.
Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by
Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

HERCULES ✳ --GAS-- ✳ ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

CURE YOURSELF!
Trade Mark. BIG G. CURES In 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00.
Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous.
Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

OPIUM MORPHINE COCAINE LAUDANUM Stopped at once.
DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, 484 Isabella Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

S. F. N. U. No. 849. New Series No. 40.

Why don't you use money-back tea?

A Schilling & Company San Francisco

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies. — Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies. — Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 21. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., NOVEMBER 4, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1492

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.20
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

RECOLLECTIONS.

Methinks I see it even yet—
An old house, deep in roses set;
I smell the fragrant mignonette.

A girl among the leafy bowers,
Her small hands full of bright-hued flowers—
The rose-leaves fall in tinted showers

Upon the tresses, waving free
Above her brow of ivory,
Her face is very fair to see.

She warbles sweetly on her way,
Her silvery notes are clear and gay
As skylarks' joyous morning lay.

'Tis but a mem'ry—long ago
We laid her 'neath the winter snow,
Where bending weeping willows grow.

The old house lies in ruin gray,
Long faded are the blossoms gay,
And I am far, so far away!

A PIECE OF BREAD.

IN 1870 the young Duke de Hardimont was at Aix, taking the waters. He had finished his luncheon, when, throwing a careless glance over the paper, he read the news of the disaster of the French arms at Reichshoffen.

He emptied his glass of chartreuse, threw his serviette on the restaurant table, sent word to his valet to pack up, and having caught the express to Paris, rushed off to the recruiting office, and enlisted in a regiment of the line.

And this is why, in the early days of November, 1870, having re-entered Paris with his regiment, which was attached to the corps of General Vinoy, Henri de Hardimont, private in the Third Battalion of the second of the line, and a member of the Jockey Club, was on outpost duty with his company, before the redoubt of Houtes-Bruyeres, a hastily fortified position protected by the cannon of the fort of Bicetre.

The place was forbidding, a road broken into muddy ruts and planted with broomsticks, running through the polluted fields of the Paris outskirts; on the edge of this road a deserted little cabaret—a cabaret with trellised bowers where the soldiers had established their post. A few days before there had been some fighting there, and several of the broomsticks by the roadside had been snapped in two, while those left still showed on their bark the white scars of the bullets. The aspect of the house itself made one shiver. The roof had been ripped open by a shell; the wine-stained walls seemed bespattered with blood.

At the door of the cabaret the young duke was standing, his chassepot slung across him, his kepi over his eyes, his numb hands in the pockets of his red trousers, shivering under his sheepskin.

All at once he felt that he was hungry.

He knelt down and drew from his knapsack, which rested against the wall near by, a lump of regulation bread, which, having lost his knife, he bit into and began slowly to eat.

But after a few mouthfuls he had had enough; the bread was hard, and had a bitter taste. And to think there was no getting any fresh before to-morrow's distribution, and then only at the good will of the commissary! Ah, well! there was a deal just now that was pretty rough to bear, and, with a leap of memory, he recalled what in past days he had been wont to term his hygienic luncheons, when, on the morrow, after a supper a trifle too exciting, he would sit down near some window on the ground floor of the Cafe Anglais, and have served to him the veriest trifle—a cutlet, perhaps—and the waiter, knowing his habits, would lay on the tablecloth, and carefully open a bottle of fine old leoville, which he then set down to repose in its wicker cradle. Deuce take it! those were good times all the same; he should never get used to this bread of poverty. And in a moment of impatience the young man flung his lump of bread into the mud.

• • •

At that same moment a private was leaving the cabaret; he stooped, picked up the bread, and, going on a few steps, wiped it with his sleeve, and began to devour it ravenously.

Henri de Hardimont was already ashamed of his action, and was looking with pity on the poor wretch who gave proof of such a good appetite. He was a tall, gaunt fellow, ill made, with feverish eyes and a hospital beard, and so thin that his shoulder blades stuck out under the cloth of his worn great-coat.

"Art thou then so hungry, comrade?" he said, approaching the soldier.

"As thou seest," he answered with his mouth full.

"Excuse me, then. If I had known that thou wouldst have cared for it I would not have thrown the bread away."

"It is not the worse for that," replied the soldier. "I am not so particular."

"No matter," said the gentleman. "What I did was wrong, and I reproach myself for it, but I do not wish thee to carry away a bad opinion of me, and as I have some good old cognac in my can, we'll have a drop together."

The man had finished eating. The duke and he took a mouthful each of the brandy; the acquaintance was made.

"And thou art called?" asked the private.

"Hardimont," replied the duke, suppressing his title and prefix. . . . "And thou?"

"Jean Victor. . . . I've only just joined the company. I came from the ambulance. . . . I was wounded at Chatillon. . . . Ah, one is well off at the ambulance, and doesn't the nurse give you good horse soup? . . . But mine was only a scratch; the major signed my discharge, and, worse luck, out I had to go to begin again to die of hunger. . . . For, believe me if you will, comrade, but, as I stand before you, I have been hungry all my life."

The word was horrible, said to a voluptuary who a moment before caught himself regretting the cuisine of the Cafe Anglais, and the Duc de Hardimont looked at his companion with an astonishment approaching terror. The soldier was smiling mournfully, letting his wolf-like teeth be seen, the teeth of the hungry, showing so white in his sickly face, and as if he was aware that further confidence was expected from him.

"Look here," he said, brusquely: "look here, let us walk a little up and down upon the road to warm our feet, and I will tell you of things which most likely you have never heard of before. . . . I am called Jean Victor, Jean Victor quite short because I am a foundling, and my only happy recollection is of the time of my early childhood in the asylum. The sheets of our little beds in the dormitory were white; we played under the big trees in a garden, and there was a good sister, quite young, as white as wax—she was going into consumption—and I was her favorite, and often I chose to walk with her rather than to play with the other children, because she would draw me close to her skirt and put on my forehead her thin, hot hand. . . . But at twelve years, after making our first communion, nothing more than misery. The governors had apprenticed me to a mender of chairs in the Faubourg St. Jacques. It isn't a trade, you know. You can't get a living by it; to prove it, for the most part the master could only entice as apprentices the poor boys from the Asylum for the 'Young Blind!' And it was there that I first learned to suffer the pangs of hunger. The master and his wife—two old Limousins who worried themselves to death—were terrible misers, and the bread which they cut into pieces for each meal, they kept for the rest of the time under lock and key. And every evening at supper you would see the mistress, with her old black cap, when she was serving the soup, heave a dismal sigh with each ladleful she took from the tureen. The other two apprentices, the 'Young Blind,' were less unhappy; not that they got more than I did, but they were not able to see the look of reproach that that miserable woman gave as she handed me my plate. My misfortune was to have a good appetite, but I ask you was that my fault? I served my three years of apprenticeship in a constant state of hunger. . . . Three years! and you knew all about the trade in a month. But the governors can't be expected to be up to everything; they have not an idea of the way in which the children are turned to account. . . . Ah, you were surprised to see me take a piece of bread out of the mud? It's not the first time, not by many, that I have picked up crusts out of the dust heaps, and when they were too dry I used to soak them all night in my water jug. At last when my apprenticeship was finished, and I took to my trade, as I have said, you couldn't earn by it enough to sustain a man. Oh, I tried many others. I had a good heart for work. I was a mason's laborer, a porter, a floor polisher and a dozen others! Bah! to-day it was the work was wanting; another time I lost my place. . . . But all the same I never had enough to eat to satisfy me. Tonnerre! What fury I have felt in passing before baker's shops! Happily for me at those times, I always remembered the good sister at the asylum, who so often impressed on me to keep honest, and I would even believe that I could feel on my forehead the warmth of her little hand. . . . At last, at eighteen, I enlisted. . . . You know as well as I do that the soldier has only just enough, and now—it's almost enough to make one laugh—behold the siege and famine! You see now that I didn't tell you lies when I said that I had always, always been hungry."

• • •

The young duke had a good heart, and, listening to this terrible lament, told him by a man like himself, by a solldier whose uniform made him his equal, he felt himself profoundly stirred.

"Jean Victor," he said, "if we both survive this frightful war we shall see more of each other, and I hope I shall be of use to you. But just now, as there is no other baker at the outposts but the corporal of the commissariat, and as my ration of bread is twice too much for my small appetite—it is understood, is it not?—we will share like good comrades."

A hearty shake of the hand was exchanged between the two men, and as night was falling, and they were being harassed by watches and alarms, they re-entered the cabaret, where a dozen soldiers lay sleeping upon the straw, and, throwing themselves down side by side, they sank into a heavy sleep.

Toward midnight Jean Victor awoke; he was probably hungry. The wind had blown away the clouds, and a moonbeam, shining into the room through the rent in the roof, lit up the charming, fair head of the young duke, sleeping like an Endymion. Still touched by the kindness of his comrade, Jean Victor was looking at him with naive admiration, when the sergeant of the platoon opened the door to call the five men who were to relieve the sentinels at the outposts. The duke was of the number, but when his name was called he did not awake.

"Hardimont, get up," repeated the sergeant.

"If you will be good enough to let me, sergeant," said Jean Victor, rising, "I'll mount guard for him . . . he's so fast asleep . . . and he's my comrade."

"As thou choosest."

And the five men gone, the snoring began again. But half an hour after the sound of firing, sharp and very near, broke in upon the night. In an instant they had all sprung to their feet; the men hastened from the cabaret, and with finger on trigger, stole along stealthily looking along the road, which showed white in the moonlight.

"But what o'clock is it?" asked the duke. "I was to have been on guard."

Some one answered him.

"Jean Victor has gone in your place."

At that moment a soldier came running along the road.

"What's happened?" they asked as he stopped breathless.

"The Prussians are attacking . . . we must fall back on the redoubt."

"And our comrades?"

"They're coming . . . all but that poor Jean Victor."

"What?" cried the duke.

"Killed dead on the spot, with a bullet through his head . . . he hadn't time to say, 'Ouf!'"

• • •

One night last winter, toward two o'clock in the morning, the Duc de Hardimont was leaving the club with his neighbor, the Count de Saulnes; he had lost a few hundred louis, and felt something of a headache.

"If you don't mind, Andre," he said to his companion, "we will walk home . . . I want some fresh air."

"As you like, 'cher ami,' although the pavement is horribly bad."

They sent away their broughams, turned up the collars of their fur coats and walked toward the Madeleine. Presently the duke sent rolling something which he had struck with the toe of his boot; it was a large crust of bread, all covered with mud.

Then, to his amazement, M. de Saulnes saw the Duc de Hardimont pick up the lump of bread, carefully wipe it with his crest-embroidered handkerchief and place it on a bench of the boulevard under the light of a gas lamp, where it could well be seen.

"But what on earth is it you are doing?" said the count, bursting into a laugh. "Are you mad?"

"It is in memory of a poor man who died for me," replied the duke, his voice slightly trembling. . . . "Don't laugh, mon cher; you hurt me!"—From the French of Francois Coppee.

A NEW NARCOTIC.

It Is Now Being Used in Mexican Insane Asylums.

A new narcotic is being used in Mexican asylums for the insane. The principal of one of these institutions became much concerned at the large number of deaths among the inmates caused by congestion of the brain, following the excessive use of narcotics administered to the women to overcome the insomnia which is the frequent accompaniment of insanity. He therefore requested Dr. Altimirano, principal of the National Medical Institute, to try to discover a narcotic which would produce all the good results without incurring any danger.

Dr. Altimirano at once answered that he had already such a narcotic. It consists of an extract prepared by secret process from the seeds of the white zapote. The dose for the insane is from 50 to 60 centigrams, administered all at once. In from half an hour to an hour the patient falls into a quiet and refreshing sleep. When given to hysterical women this antidote has remarkably soothing effects. It is a specific for calming the nervous system during the periods of excitement which are frequent both in the case of hysterical and insane women. For hysterical women the dose is 10 centigrams, mixed with 30 centigrams of bromide, potassium, or camphor, administered every half hour, until the hysterical symptoms are brought under thorough control.

Natural History

Within the antarctic circle there has never been found a flowering plant.

Scarlet flowers are said to stand drought better than any others.

A horse will live twenty-five days without food, merely drinking water.

The oyster is one of the strongest of creatures and the force required to open it is more than 1,300 times its own weight.

A horse will eat in a year nine times his own weight, a cow nine times, an ox six times and a sheep six times.

According to Nilsson, the zoologist, the weight of the Greenland whale is 100 tons, or 224,000 pounds, or equal to that of eighty-five elephants, or 440 bears.

An organist says that a cow mooes in a perfect fifth octave, or tenth; a dog barks in a fifth or fourth; a donkey brays in a perfect octave, and a horse neighs in a descent on the chromatic scale.

Live bees are sometimes shipped on ice, so as to keep them dormant during the journey. This is particularly the case with bumble bees which have been taken to New Zealand, where they are useful in fertilizing the red clover which has been introduced into the colony.

Queer German Habit.

The men of Berlin have an old habit of brushing and combing their hair and whiskers in public. In the restaurants and cafes men pull out their implements and "spruce up" while waiting for their orders to be filled. They do not take the trouble to leave the table, either.

"By the way, did old Biggers tell you about my telling him some unpalatable truths?" "He didn't put it that way. He said you told him things that were pretty hard to swallow."—Indianapolis Journal.

It is lucky for some people that all collectors are not as troublesome with their bills as mosquitoes are.

DOINGS OF WOMEN

REPOSE OF MANNER.

OUR great-grandmothers taught their daughters that "repose of manner" was the first requisite of true propriety, says a writer in Outlook. No well-bred lady would fidget in company, put her hands to her face, toss her head or finger her buttons. If she talked, she did it in a soft voice and without gesticulation, no matter how many rings she wore or how pretty her hands might be. She was taught even to control her features; that squinting and winking the eyes and twitching the mouth were not "nice," and that they could and should be intermitted in polite society. In sitting neither the knees nor the feet were to be crossed, rocking was odiously vulgar, yawning and stretching were unspeakable offenses, and, above all, the hands must be crossed or folded in the lap and kept there.

We plead for at least a partial resumption of the old forms. Let mothers once more teach their girls to sit still in company, to cultivate calmness. Let our women learn to carry on earnest conversation in subdued tones and without gesticulation.

We used to be told that lying in bed with hands folded and eyes shut was half as good as sleep when sleep was impossible. It is quite creditable that flouncing and tossing about largely increase the loss of strength from sleeplessness, and we know that the sleep which is accompanied with such tossing and turning is not as refreshing as that which is taken quietly. Just so if a reposeful manner is acquired early in life an enormous expense of nervous movement is spared, and a corresponding amount of power may be saved.

Dewey's Cousin an Actress.

A cousin of Admiral Dewey, Mrs. Elmer C. Royce, is about to enter upon the vaudeville stage, and has decided to become an actress. She is the daughter of Rev. Edward F. Dewey, an aged and retired Methodist minister of Walton, Delaware county, N. Y. Mrs. Royce has twice been married, obtaining a divorce from her first husband and has instituted proceedings for a separation from her second husband, E. C. Royce. Mrs. Royce resides in Brooklyn.

MRS. ELMER C. ROYCE.
(Cousin of Admiral Dewey, Who Is to Become an Actress.)

Good Sense of American Girls.

American women, writes an English lady, surpass us in matter of fact philosophy. Young as they may be, they seem to have acquired a policy of expediency and a contempt of circumstances which serve them in good stead through life. Some people might call it heartlessness, but it is rather a nice sense of balance. For instance, a lady was complaining to a young American that she could not get reconciled to the loss of her daughter, who had been torn from her by a peculiarly sad and sudden death. "I cannot realize it," she said ruefully. "Then don't realize it," answered the American. Hugging one's grief is a common failing. It is useless, it is painful, it serves no good end, yet people do it constantly. The American girl was right.

The Eton Collar.

There is a new collar for the shirtwaist girl who does not wish to spoil the shape and whiteness of her neck by weatherboarding it up, so to speak, in the ertwhile fashionable choker of linen. The novelty is called the Eton, and is admirably adapted to shirtwaist wear. In shape it is not unlike the linen collar worn by the small boy before he experiences the joy of adopting collars such as are worn by his father or big brother. The Eton is very becoming and can be worn either closed tightly in front or a little low. Wear it as you will, its name is solid comfort.

Hatpin Snatcher.

The "hatpin snatcher" is the newest development of the offender. In a crowded shopping tour recently a young woman was jostled by a stout, rough-looking woman as she tried to pass through a crowded aisle. The two almost fell upon each other's neck. The young woman looked upon it as awkwardness until she was brought to the realization that her handsomely jeweled gold hat pins were gone by her hat slipping from its proper position.

Novel Teacloths.

A pretty way of embroidering a cloth for afternoon tea is to copy and adapt as far as possible the pattern on the cups and plates used, and work it on the cloth in the right colors. The work looks best on a white ground, unless the china has a very decided tone, when it is best to get a linen to correspond. Washing silks or linen thread should be used. Other novel teacloths have a monogram of the lady embroidered in gold thread on a pale blue or pink silk foundation, and placed at the corner of the fine damask cloth, but in this case the silk has to be removed when the cloth is washed and reappliqued with fine silk buttonholing when again to be used.

Poor Girls.

The poorest girls are those who are not taught to work. Rich parents have petted them, and they have been taught to despise labor, and, possibly, to look upon a working woman as belonging to a lower order, and have been accustomed to depend upon others for a living and are perfectly helpless. The most forlorn women belong to this class.

It is the duty of parents to protect their daughters from this deplorable condition. A great wrong is done to them if they neglect it. Girls should be taught to earn their living.

The wheel of fortune rolls swiftly round; and the rich are likely to become poor, and the poor rich. Skill added to labor is no disadvantage to rich and indispensable to poor. Well-to-do parents must educate their daughters to work—no reform is more imperative than this.

Inconsistency of Long Skirts.

If we had the cheap cab system of Paris we should be consistent in following the present French fashion of long skirts, says a writer in Vogue. They never were intended to be worn dragging on the public pavements and as American women we should show our good taste and good sense by keeping our long skirts for indoor and carriage use. Of what use is our knowledge of germ theories, if we act like sillies and carry disease and death into not only our own homes, but those also of friends and neighbors?

Apples for Beauty.

The legend that Paris awarded the apple to Venus and declared her to be the most beautiful of the daughters of Olympus shows that the ancients knew what they were about when they made the apple the emblem of beauty. It is certainly the greatest beautifier known to science. A noted Paris specialist says that a woman who eats three or four apples a day cannot be ugly. The apple acts on the liver, gives a beautiful complexion and is most fattening.

Spanish Girls in Marriage.

Speaking of Spanish girls, a correspondent from abroad has said of them: "Spanish girls are convent bred. Their education consists largely of acquiring the art of embroidery, which they learn to perfection. Early marriages among them are seldom happy, but divorce is unheard of. People unhappily married simply separate and live out their lives as best they can."

Mortality Among Nurses.

Mortality among hospital nurses is startling. It has been ascertained that a healthy girl of 17, devoting herself to hospital nursing, dies on an average 21 years sooner than a girl of the same age moving among the general population. A hospital nurse at the age of 25 has the same expectation of life as a person at the age of 58 in the ordinary community.

Women Conductors.

Women are a success as street car conductors in Chillicothe, Ohio. Since they were engaged by the Electric Street Railway Company the receipts of the corporation have increased 30 per cent. The women were employed originally as a measure of economy. It was found that the system of having every person put his own fare into the box resulted in the missing of a good many fares. On the other hand, it would cost too much to hire two men for each car. It was then that the superintendent hit upon the idea of employing women as conductors, to whom only half as much was paid as would have been paid to men. The girls are paid $4 per week, and seem to enjoy their work, while the superintendent says that they do it well.

CONDUCTORS OF CHILLICOTHE, O.

Feminine Observations.

A man who is cynical at 27 is apt to be foolish at 40.

What children need is more models and fewer critics.

Men marry maidens, but they are married by widows.

Business and friendship rarely form a happy combination.

The best way to enjoy the future is to live in the present.

A woman friend is a treasure so long as she is a friend, but when she turns there is nothing that can equal her animosity.

FIRST LADY OF INDIA.

An American Girl Will Represent Victoria in the Oriental Empire.

When George N. Curzon enters upon his duties as viceroy of India his beautiful wife, Mary Victoria Leiter, of Chicago, will become the first lady of that land and a member of the British peerage. Her title will be "Lady Curzon of Kedleston," and for five years she will rule as the social queen of the Indian empire.

Miss Leiter was born in Chicago in 1870. When her father withdrew from his Chicago enterprises the family home was removed to Washington, where Miss Leiter grew to young womanhood. While her childhood was an extremely simple one, her education was acquired from the best instructors, and at an early age she was proficient in the French and German languages and music, and familiar with art. Up to the time of her formal introduction to the social world of Washington she led the life of a school girl. Her days were divided into hours of study and recreation, and her social pleasures were few. Miss Leiter accompanied her father on several of his European trips, her sisters, Daisy and Nannie, also being of the party. When she made her debut in Washington, at the age of 18, she at once became the acknowledged belle of the city. Beautiful of face, with a slender, graceful figure, regular features, and dark hair and eyes, Mary Victoria Leiter, even as a girl, had an individuality and magnetism that were remarkable. A bright conversationalist, and possessing much general information on important topics of the day, she was a born leader and always the center of a group of prominent people.

MRS. GEORGE N. CURZON.

Shortly after her introduction to Washington's social life the Leiter family went to London for the season. Mary Leiter was presented at court and there, as in America, became a belle. It was during one of her subsequent seasons in London that she met George Nathaniel Curzon, eldest son of Lord Scarsdale.

Young Curzon gained considerable fame through a series of prize essays that finally made him a medalist in the Royal Geographical Society. He paid marked attention to Miss Leiter, and the following year came to America to woo her. The announcement of her engagement to Mr. Curzon followed shortly after his arrival here, and created a considerable sensation in both countries. They were married April 25, 1895, at St. John's Church, in Washington. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Curzon returned to England and took up their residence in London.

Mrs. Curzon has always been prominent in the social life of her adopted country, but it is said that the American girl has infected her husband with the ideas of her native land instead of becoming entirely Anglicized herself.

As Vicereine of India Mrs. Curzon will occupy the highest position that can be held by a woman outside of the royal family. Her word will be the social law of the country, and at the royal palace in Simla and the various viceregal residences she will rule supreme.

AN AMERICAN COUNTESS.

She Has a Story to Tell Girls Who Want Titled Husbands.

Comtesse Loveau de Chavanne, an American girl, has written from her own experience a book, in which she advises other American women to avoid entering into alliances with foreign noblemen. The comtesse herself has had a most unfortunate experience. She was Ouirda Benson of Brooklyn, the daughter of Henry John Benson, a captain in the revenue service, and a neice of John Benson, the California millionaire, and also Archbishop Benson, of Canterbury. She went to school at Paris, and there she met the count, who married her, as she now knows, because of the million dollars she inherited from her San Francisco uncle. The count himself was of a splendid family and a member of the family of the famous artist, Purvis de Chavanne. When the count had spent all of her money he treated her shamefully. She left her unworthy spouse and, shaking the rust of the Faubourg de St. Germaine from her shoes, came to Philadelphia, where she has several cousins, who welcomed her gladly. She has written this book from a sense of duty to warn other American girls lest them encounter a similar fate. The countess is tall, with golden hair and a lovely complexion.

COMTESSE LOVEAU DE CHAVANNE.

WORLD'S LARGEST MELON.

Attained Enormous Dimensions Without Loss of Flavor or Quality.

Watermelons five feet long, thirty-four inches thick and weighing ninety-eight pounds would make a pickaninny's eyes "bug out" to an alarming degree. Those accustomed to huge and luscious watermelons would feel as if slighted by Providence at sight of the dimensions asserted for the product of Rocky Ford, Colo. But the size herein recorded is duly and authoritatively asserted for the product of State Senator G. W. Sevink's farm in the Centennial State. The particular melon which was measured and found to be thus great was the last of last year's crop. It was placed in storage for the winter and recently formed a portion of a feast given by Mr. Sevink to his neighbors.

The cultivation of melons, cantaloupes and similar fruit was commenced by Mr. Sevink and a number of neighbors in the Rocky Ford region some eighteen years ago. The fruit grew successfully, attaining enormous dimensions without losing flavor or quality. In fact, the usual penalty of overgrowth was entirely lacking, the products being exceptionally sweet and juicy, as well as of mammoth girth. The superiority of these melons was attributed to the nature of the soil about Rocky Ford, which has been found the best in the land for such propagation. The melons grown there exceed in size, flavor and juiciness all others in the world.

Four years ago Nat Wetzel, a St. Louis, Mo., provision merchant, visited Colorado and sampled some of these big melons. He was so well pleased that he contracted for a part of a car load for sale in his home city. The introduction was fortunate, for that year there was a failure of the Missouri crop. The venture proved a success, and the following year eighteen car loads were contracted for and disposed of without trouble. Last year the entire product of the region was shipped to St. Louis and found ready sale, 124 car loads being the total amount shipped to the Missouri metropolis.

SEVINK AND HIS MELON.

"Hardly Worth While."

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat tells what purports to be a true story of an "Eastern woman" who used to be notorious among her friends for the long time it took her to dress. As the newspaper puts it, "There was no case on record of a guest who had been greeted under her roof with any degree of promptitude." Now she has reformed, and this is how the reform came about:

One evening, at a private entertainment of some kind, she encountered a certain bishop, an old friend of the family.

"Ah, my dear Mrs. Smith," remarked the ecclesiastic, "How are you? I passed your house yesterday, and thought of dropping in to see you.'

"And you didn't do it? That was very unkind of you."

"Well, no. You see, I said to myself, 'I have just one hour to call upon Mrs. Smith. She will take fifty-seven minutes to dress. That will leave just three for our talk. It is hardly worth while.'"

Women Growing Less Intellectual.

The remarkable discovery has been made that women are continually growing less and less intellectual in comparison with men. In skulls of prehistoric times the difference in capacity between male and female skulls was 95 cubic centimeters, while at present it is from 140 to 220 centimeters.

New Electrical Iron.

A new type of electrically heated iron derives its heat not from the expenditure of the current in passing through a wire of high resistance, but from an electric arc formed inside of the iron.

Mistress—I saw two policemen sitting in the kitchen with you last night, Bridget. Bridget—Well, ma'am, yez wouldn't hov an unmarried lady be sittin' alone with only wan policeman, would yez? The other wan wuz a chaperon.—Puck.

When the girls are in doubt as to whether a visiting girl's complexion is "real," they take her wading and find out.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who, when he was mad, said he had his Irish up?

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4.....1898

For Governor of State,
JAMES G. MAGUIRE.

Lieutenant-Governor,
EDWARD L. HUTCHISON ..... of Los Angeles

Secretary of State,
R. A. THOMPSON ..... San Francisco

Controller,
T. W. MAPLES ..... Kern

Treasurer,
WILL S. GREEN ..... Colusa

Attorney-General,
H. P. ANDREWS ..... Tehama

Surveyor-General,
I. H. MULHOLLAND ..... Inyo

Clerk of Supreme Court,
H. A. McCRANEY ..... Sacramento

Justices Supreme Court,
WALTER VANDYKE ..... Los Angeles
WILLIAM M. CONLEY ..... Madera

Superintendent of Public Instruction,
CHRIS RUCKLE ..... Placer

State Printer,
E. I. WOODMAN ..... Sacramento

Railroad Commissioner—Third District,
J. L. DRYDEN ..... San Diego

Board of Equalization—Fourth District,
T. O. TOLAND ..... Ventura

Congress—Second District,
MARION DE VRIES ..... San Joaquin

State Senator, 32d District,
H. L. PACE ..... Tulare

Member of Assembly—Sixtieth District,
P. H. MACK ..... Inyo

Sheriff and Tax-Collector,
J. J. GUNN ..... Modock

Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION ..... Big Pine

Treasurer,
S. G. GREGG ..... Big Pine

Assessor,
W. W. YANDELL ..... Bishop

District Attorney,
P. W. FORBES ..... Independence

Superintendent Public Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON ..... Bishop

Coroner and Public Administrator,
I. P. YANEY ..... Bishop

County Surveyor,
W. G. DIXON ..... Bishop

The latest "mining boom" is in copper and commercial events justify activity in copper mining. It is constantly appreciating in demand, and consequently in value. Michigan, Montana, Arizona, and Colorado profitably mine copper, and renewed activity is reported along the copper belt of California. Inertia is one of the reasons why California is not one of the great copper producing States of the Union, and it is considered strange that a commonwealth noted for the skill of its gold miners should be so apparently backward in the reproduction of operations which are every-day matters in other localities

How thoroughly freedom of speech is permitted under Anglo-Saxon rule is instanced in the speech made by William Redman, member of the British Parliament for East Claire, Ireland. At the conclusion of his speech, in reference to the Fashoda affair, he called for three cheers for Major Marchand, saying: "The sympathies of Irishmen are with France." Therein he was, first of all, wrong But the chief point to be noted is that the goverment of Great Britain paid no attention to him and his remarks.

If a stamped envelope is spoiled in addressing the purchaser is entitled to a return of postage on presenting it at the office where the envelope was bought. It seems strange that the United States post office department fails to keep the people informed; also to call attention to the time and expense saved by the use in certain cases of the double or return postal card. Not one person in 50, perhaps, knows that a letter can be recalled by telegraph at any time before it is actually delivered to the one addressed.

From information obtained at the Land Office at Washington it appears that there was an increase of nearly 4,000 mineral entries during the fiscal year 1898, as compared with 1897. In 1895 there were but 757 entries made. It has been said that the increase indicates a marked revival of the mining industry. It does not; it merely means that rich owners have patented their properties so to not be compelled to work them.

The admission by the high officials thereof that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company (of Kentucky) IS in politics was not necessary; all know that it is not "a pretended issue," when the recovery of seventy million dollars due the Government is involved in this California election, to say nothing of the enormous sum of State back taxes due. Is California to be Hannaized by Huntington?

The Executive Committee of the Comstock Pumping Association has let the contract for draining the Comstock mines 500 feet below the present water level, which is twenty feet below the sill floor of the Sutro tunnel. It was awarded to the Risdon Iron and Locomotive Works of San Francisco for the very remarkable low sum of $30,000, payable in installments, and work guaranteed.

The names of the State and county candidates nominated by the Democratic, People's Party and Silver Republicans, as published at the head of this column, have been corrected as to initials, etc., to conform to the official ballot. Of course the ballot will not contain the localities from whence they respectively hail, but instead the name of the political parties by which he was nominated.

The report of the Director of the Mint just issued shows that for the calandar year ended 1897 California produced $14,618,300 in gold and $613,366 in silver.

The news of the celebration of a peace jubilee in Philadelphia is important as indicating that the sleepy city has waked up to the fact that there was a war.

Instructions covering every phase of the Philippine question have been sent to the American commission at Paris. These instructions allow the American commissioners a wide discretion. There is now no concealmet of the pupose of the administration to insist on the retention of all the Philippines. The indemnity to be allowed Spain for the loss of her principal eastern possessions is left to Day and his colleagues. It is generally believed in official circles that Spain will take a cash indemnity for a quit-claim to the Philippines. Her commissioners in Paris are expected to make a stand for a cash indemnity and the American assumption of the Philippine debt, but will eventually be content to walk off with the cash. This mode of settlement is favored here, as the administration has no dispostion to assume Spanish obligations.

Some of the scholars are complaining because our most recent acquisition is being spelled Porto Rico instead of Puerto Rico. Now the plain American people had used Porto Rico molasses long before Puerto Rico became a physical and orthographic issue. The scholars may stick to their "u" and their "e," but a plain, round "o" will probably continue to set the popular style.

McKinley's currency reform is to be considered in the next Congress, and that bodes no good for silver, if conclusions are to be left to Republicans like Mr. DeVries' opponent.

SODA WATER.....
.....ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.
Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,
Bishop. Cal.
C. E. JOHNSON.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January
" .....February
" .....March
" .....April
" .....April 30th
" .....May 28th
" .....July 2nd
" .....July 30th
" .....August 27th
" .....September 24th
" .....October 22nd
" .....November 26th
" .....December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec

LONE PINE
EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND
U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS
MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT.
STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station.

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me
je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

BISHOP HOTEL.

Nearly opposite Hughes' Stables. Bishop.

Completely Renovated, Refurnished

A STRICTLY TEMPERANCE HOUSE.

—o—x—o—

EUROPEAN PLAN.
OR WILL FURNISH

Regular meals for	25 cents
Board and Room, per day	$1 and $1.50
Board, per week	$5.00
Board, per month	$20.00

—o—x—o—

Nine New Rooms Have Been Added

—o—x—o—

These rooms have perfect ventilation, high ceilings and are handsomely furnished. Apartments can be had single or en suite.

J. L. BOURLAND,
Manager.

BABBTT METAL.

In lots to suit, from 1 pound to a ton

Inquire at this office

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE
DEALER IN
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,
INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS	25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING	25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING	$2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House, New Furniture.
Low Rates
— x —

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

NORMAN HOUSE,
CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS
Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.
jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

PIONEER STABLES,
BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:—
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:—
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold—

A complete stock of
Miner's and Prospector's supplies.
And Patent Medicines—

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.
FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE

HORSESHOEING
AND
General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon
INDEPENDENCE CAL.
D. JOHNSON,
PROPRIETOR.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

R. W. SCOTT
Practical Watchmaker
and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,
W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col.	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 56
	P A Chalfant, assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collecs	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon int on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, int State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Mallory, red	3 02
	Joseph Shelly, r'd	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards int State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine Bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	284 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 98
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff, fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock Co N M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John Rutherford Lake land	123 16
	A R Schively on Lake land	318 63
		21 697 04
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 30
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax col fees	26 00
	D J Hession, clerk	81 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20
	DISBURSEMENTS
July	Lone Pine B'd fund		1 160 00
	Salary		1 5.7 2
	Hospital		1 683 9
	General Expense		1 795 6
	Bridge		138 4
	Road Dist No 1		77 0
	" " " 2		267 0
	" " " 3		20 0
	" " " 4		124 5
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd		1 500 00
	" " " "		5 00
	Sunday Sch'l Library		6 00
	Liberty "		8 1
	Bishop "		15 00
	Irving "		7 0
	Milton "		15 0
	County Sch'l Fund		16 00
			8 570 0
Aug.	Salary		1 024 9
	Road Dist, No 2		5 00
	" " 3		24 00
	General Expense		1 064 4
	Hospital		65 5
	Fish Spring		12 00
			10 705 9
Sept.	General Expense		11 3
	Salary		1 024
	Hospital fund		4
	Fish Spring		2
	Round Valley		1
	Union		66
	Milton School Fund		2
	Taboose		21 4
	Independence		164 18
	Big Pine School fund		1 000 0
	Fish Sp Library		8 0
	County Bond		1 500 0
	Cash		8 146 3
		22 733 20	22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE
AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	311 99
County bond		885 39
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 511 29
General expense		1 151 0
Hospital		259 1
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	233 77
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	309 51
Road Poll tax	2 5
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	292 87
Institute	5 00
Teacher's library	33
County school	26 5
Property tax	1 759 8
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	38 52
Bishop	21 17
Station	28 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Riverside		64
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Spring	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Taboose		2 56
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	500 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 34
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Taboose	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	570 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 99
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Polaris	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Station	10 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Liberty	28 42
Taboose	131 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and overflowed land	481 79
Round Valley School	120 48
Cash on hand		8 146 39
	10 425 17	10 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Filed Oct. 7, 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
Auditor

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.
A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

QUARTERLY REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR FOR QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

Exhibit showing amount of warrants drawn and upon what funds, between June 30th and Sept. 30th, 1898:

Total warrants drawn		11 921 81
Gen. Expense fund	2 811 40
School "	882 76
Hospital "	1 795 49
Salary "	3 597 24
Road District No 1 Fund	77 00
" " " 2 "	272 00
" " " 3 "	228 25
" " " 4 "	124 50
Bridge "	133 18
Big Pine Bldn'g "	2 500 00
	11 921 81	11 921 81

Exhibit showing indebtedness of Inyo Co. Interest not included.

Total indebtedness	60 990 55
County bonds		60 000 00
Old indebtedness		990 55
	60 990 55	60 990 55
Inyo county total indebtedness	60 9.0 55
Cash in treasury		8 146 39
Remaining indebtedness		52 844 16
	60 990 55	60 990 55

Respectfully submitted to the Honorable Board of Supervisors.
D. J. HESSION
County Auditor.

Filed Oct. 3, 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.
A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. M. GIVEN,
SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,
Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE.—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,
DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.
COUNTY CLERK
AND
EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.
INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.
COUNTY TREASURER.
INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.
Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
COUNTY PHYSICIAN,
Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office.

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S,
GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY
BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

JOHN D. LEWIS,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this Second day of August, A. D. 1898.
D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.
Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The E 1-2 and SW 1-4 Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east; NL 1 4 of Sec ion 36, Township No. 18 south, Range No. 36 east, M D M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12 854, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $134.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.
D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, plaintiffs, vs.
J. M Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The frac'l N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all frac'l Section 5, Township 17 south, and frac'l S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M. And cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $18.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.
D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.
J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The NE 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 12 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M. and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11,232 from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $6.20, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896 upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent, for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.
D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.
P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4..... 1898

There will be less than one-half of the candidates elected.

Roof of the new Independence Hotel is receiving first coat of paint. Work on the interior is progressing finely.

J. T. Erwin, of Fish Springs, who has been in town on the sick list for several weeks, is on a fair road to recovery.

There came a priming of snow on the mountain summits last Sunday night, which perceptibly increased the water flow.

It is fallacious to think that any man, single-handed, can get out very much of a paper and attend to election and other printing at the same time.

By time of the next issue of this paper election agony will be over and results known, provided the railroad cohorts do not attempt some counting out infamy on State matters.

The Western Union Telegraph office at Independence has been re-opened for local and general business, in charge of A. S. Nibecker, at Rhine's store. This time we trust that it will stick.

At the Lyceum last evening the question as to whether foreign immigration should be stopped was decided in the negative. The subject of debate next Thursday night will be: "That a college course unfits men for a plain, practical business career."

Finlay McIver, Esq., reached home yesterday, after a tour through Mono in his interests as the Republican Legislative candidate. He reports that the outlook in Bodie is very bright, especially as to the great showing of ore in the Standard mine, and that all the material for the new mill is now on the groun l.

THE INDEPENDENT is in receipt of complimentary cards for a social dance and entertainment to be given at the Pavilion next Monday night, by the ladies of Independence. Admission per couple $1, and luncheon to order. Object, a general good time just before election day and an incidental benefit to the Athletic Club.

P. H. Mack, Esq., Democratic candidate for Assemblyman, returned from his northern trip last Tuesday, after visiting pretty much all of Mono County and Markleville in Alpine. All the information that we could obtain from him was to the effect that he was somewhat fatigued, but all the same he started out southward the next day.

A. G. McAffee, of Fish Lake Valley, was in Big Pine the other day, and reported that the Drinkwater tunnel at Silver Peak has cut through the big ledge. At the point of crosscutting the ledge is 56 feet wide, and the ore is estimated at $20 per ton. Two parts of it, of five and six feet in each, will go from $30 to $100 per ton. The miners pronounce the strike one of the greatest ever made on the Pacific Coast.

Since beginning the distribution of election material the County Clerk's office has resembled a stationer's warehouse. The work will all "get there," and well done. The copies of the Great Register, supplied by the Bishop Register job office, is the largest and one of the most creditable pieces of printing ever performed in this county. It is progressive, and demonstrates that there might be a whole lot of other such work done here at home.

The case of the People vs. Joe White, charged with an assault upon H. Levy, was last Wednesday dismissed by Justice Davidson, by consent of the complainant and on motion of J. D. Lewis, Deputy District Attorney. The magistrate acted within legal power, and all parties concerned waived action out of consideration of the hardship that would involve upon several aged witnesses at Lone Pine, to say nothing about the relief of innocent and incompensated jurors hereabouts.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending November 3, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.215	1st
Lowest "	29.867	31st
Highest temperature	80.0	28th
Lowest "	36	2nd
Mean "	56.8
Average dew point	15.4
Average humidity	21.3
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	33 W	31st
No. clear days	5
No. part cloudy days	2
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

OCTOBER WEATHER

Meteorological Summary.

Mean atmospheric pressure	29.96
Highest pressure, 24th	30.33
Lowest pressure, 1st	29.67
Mean temperature	60
Highest temperature, 12th	83
Lowest temperature, 2d	36
Greatest daily range of temp., 28th	36
Least " " " 8th	14
Mean temp. for Oct. in 1895	60
" " " 1898	60
" " " " for 2 years	60
Average excess of daily mean temp	0
Accumulated excess of daily mean temperature since April	60
Av. daily excess " " less than	1
Prevailing direction of wind	NW
Total movement of wind, miles	5316
Maximum velocity of wind, 1st, NW	48
Total precipitation, inches	00
No. clear days	30
No. partly cloudy days	1
No. cloudy days	0

The Democratic party favors the abolition of the poll tax. Mr. Gage says: "I do not assent to that doctrine." Course not; neither does Huntington.

State Controller Colgan has made his calculations of assessed value of taxable property in Cnlifornia, and gives the grand total at $1,130,885,697.

Death of E. Chenot.

On Saturday last Edward Chenot, the well-known, old-time merchant, died at his home in Independence. His malady was of some strange character that baffled the physicians, or was such that his advanced age could not resist. He was a native of Belgium, and though the French language was his natural tongue he had no love for France. He was an early Californian, and in one of the mountain counties a court house fire destroyed all record of his original application for American citizenship, but on supporting evidence thereof he was long afterward naturalized in this county. He came here from Montana in the earlier seventies and found employment at Camp Independence. Subsequently he became manager and superintendent of the Virginia Con. group of mines on Kearsarge mountain, but upon the depreciation of silver he bought the old Inyo House property and established his store here. Two of his brothers have been here, one of whom has since died, as did also a nephew who visited him several years ago. It is known that he left a will, by which another brother in Belgium is the principal legatee, and designating W. L. Hunter and J. E. Shepherd executors. In his prime the deceased was of a charitable and hospitable nature, full of rare anecdote and one who looked on the bright side of life all the time. He was buried at the Masonic Cemetery on Monday last, by a very large concourse of citizens, Rev. Mr. Pardee ably officiating.

Methodist Church.

Services will be held Sunday, November 6th, as follows:

Lone Pine—Sunday-school at 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 o'clock a. m.

Georges Creek—Sunday-school at 1:30 p. m.; preaching at 2:30 p. m.

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock; subject of evening's discourse, "Where Are You?"

All are most cordially invited to attend the services.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

DIED.

CHENOT—At Independence, Inyo Co., Calif., October 29, 1898, Eduardo Chenot, a native of Belgium, aged 74 years.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Edouard Chenot, Deceased. Notice for Publication of Time Appointed for Probate of Will.

NOTICE is hereby given, that SATURDAY, the Twenty sixth day of November, A. D. 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, and the Court-Room—Probate—of said Court, at the Court House, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, have been appointed as the time and place for proving the will of said Edouard Chenot, deceased, and for hearing the application of J. E. Shepherd and W. L. Hunter for the issuance to them of Letters Testamentary thereon.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk,
By C. N. ROSE, Deputy Clerk.
P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Petitioners.
Dated, Nov. 2d, A. D. 1898. nv4td

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

Independent Candidate.

A. K. BRIGGS, of Bishop, respectfully announces himself as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo County.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

I HEREBY respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, subject to the decision of the people of Inyo Co.

WM. D. DEHY.

Dated Bishop, Cal., August 10, 1898.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff,
vs.
IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898. D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL]

o2t15

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

MINING and SCIENTIFIC PRESS

THIRTY-NINTH YEAR.

24 Pages : Weekly : Illustrated.

INDISPENSABLE TO MINING MEN.

$3 PER YEAR, POSTPAID.

SEND FOR SAMPLE COPY.

MINING and Scientific PRESS

330 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

OFFICIAL.

ELECTION PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

IN accordance with law thereunto directing me, I hereby proclaim and give notice that a General Election will be held throughout the State of California on

Tuesday, November 8, A. D. 1898,

At which election the following officers will be elected, and the following proposed Constitutional amendments and other questions will be voted on:

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.
SECRETARY OF STATE.
CONTROLLER.
TREASURER.
ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
SURVEYOR-GENERAL.
CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT.
SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.
SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE PRINTING.

Also, seven Representatives to the Congress of the United States; being one Representative from each Congressional District in this State.

Also, three Railroad Commissioners, being one Railroad Commissioner from each Railroad District in this State.

Also, four members of the State Board of Equalization, being one member from each of the four districts from which by law members of the Board of Equalization are to be elected.

Also, two Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of California.

Also, four Judges of the Superior Court in and for the City and County of San Francisco.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the Counties of Santa Clara, Tulare and Glenn.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Del Norte for the unexpired term of James E. Murphy, deceased, ending January, 1903; vice Fletcher A. Cutler, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Santa Barbara, for the unexpired term of W. B. Cope, resigned, ending January, 1903; vice W. S. Day, appointed.

Also, one Judge of the Superior Court in and for the County of Kings, for the unexpired term of Justin Jacobs, deceased, ending January, 1901.

Also, twenty members of the Senate, being one Senator from each of the following Senatorial Districts, to-wit: Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, Thirty-second, Thirty fourth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, Fortieth.

Also, eighty members of the Assembly, being one member of the Assembly from each of the eighty Assembly Districts in this State.

Also, at said election, amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, submitted by the Legislature of this State, at its last regular session, numbered and designated as hereinafter specified, will be voted upon by the electors of said State, namely:

Amendment Number One.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to section eighteen of article eleven of the Constitution, in relation to revenue and taxation, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for it for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before, or at the time of incurring such indebtedness, provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims with interest thereon for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-third and forty-fourth fiscal years, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years; provided, that any and all claims for making, repairing, altering, or for any work done upon or for any material furnished for any street, lane, alley, court, place or sidewalk, or for the construction of any sewer or sewers in said city and county are hereby excepted from the provisions of this section; and in determining any claim permitted to be paid by this section, no statute of limitation shall apply in any manner; and provided further, that the City of Vallejo, in Solano county, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exception hereinbefore recited, shall be void.

Amendment Number Two.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section seven and one-half, article eleven thereof, providing for the framing by the inhabitants of counties, of local county government acts for their own government. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 7½. The inhabitants of any county may frame a county government act for their own government, relating to the matters hereinafter specified, and consistent with, and subject to, the Constitution and laws of this State, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who have been, for at least five years, qualified electors of such county, to be elected by the qualified electors of such county, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a county government act for such county, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and the other copy to be sent to the recorder of deeds of the county. Such proposed county government act shall then be published in two papers of general circulation in such county, or if there be not two such papers, then in one only, for at least twenty days, and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county, at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same it shall thereafter be submitted to the Legislature for its rejection or approval, as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, it shall be the county government act of such county, and shall in such case become the organic law thereof and supercede any existing county government act, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws inconsistent with such county government act.

A copy of such county government act, certified by the President of the Board of Supervisors or other legislative body of such county, and authenticated by the seal of such county, setting forth the submission of such county government act to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall be made in duplicate and deposited one in the office of the Secretary of State, the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, among the archives of the county.

All courts shall take judicial notice thereof. The county government so ratified may be amended, at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the county, to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, and ratified by at least three-fifths of the qualified electors voting thereon, and approved by the Legislature as herein provided for the approval of the county government act. In submitting any such county government act any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

It shall be competent in all county government acts framed under the authority given by this section, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, the terms for which the several township and county officers, other than Judges of the Superior Court, shall be elected or appointed; for their compensation; for the number of such officers; for the consolidation or segregation of offices; for the number of deputies that each officer shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies; for the manner in which, the times in which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attaches; also, to prescribe the manner and method by which all elections by the people shall be conducted; and may in addition determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties and organizations may participate in any primary election.

Whenever any county has, in the manner and method herein pointed out, adopted any county government act, and the same shall have been approved by the Legislature as aforesaid, the directions of sections four and five of this article providing for the uniformity of a system of county governments throughout the State, and likewise providing for the election and appointment of officers, and the regulation of their compensation, shall not apply. Said county government act shall, as to any of the matters hereinabove provided for and declared by such county government act, not be subject to any law or amendment enacted by the Legislature, except by amendment first submitted to the electors and ratified in the manner hereinabove set forth.

Amendment Number Three.

[Being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44.]

A resolution proposing to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding a new section, to be known and designated as section five and one-half, article six, thereby providing for the organization of a court, to be known as the Court of Claims. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The Court of Claims shall consist of any three Judges of the Superior Court, who may be requested by the Governor to hold court at the regular terms thereof. The Court of Claims shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all claims of every kind and character against the State, under such laws as may be passed by the Legislature, and its judgments thereon shall be final. The terms of the Court of Claims shall be held as follows;

In the City of Los Angeles, commencing on the second Monday of March;

In the City and County of San Francisco, commencing on the second Monday in July; and

In the City of Sacramento, commencing on the second Monday of November of each year.

The Judges holding such terms of court shall receive no extra compensation therefor, but shall receive their actual expenses, to be paid out of the general fund of the State treasury. The Legislature shall enact all laws necessary to organize such court, to provide the procedure thereof, and to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment Number Four.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, amending article eleven, by adding a new section thereto, to be known as section number five and one-half, relating to consolidated city and county governments. The said proposed new section to read as follows:

Section 5½. The provisions of sections four and five of this article shall not, nor shall any legislation passed pursuant thereto, apply to any consolidated city and county government now existing or hereafter formed, which shall have become, or shall become, organized under section seven, or secured a charter under section eight of this article.

Amendment Number Five.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 36.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment of section fifteen and section sixteen of article five of the Constitution of the State of California, by which it is proposed to amend said sections to read as follows:

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and place and in the same manner as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications shall be the same. He shall be president of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein.

Section 16. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the Lieutenant-Governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the president pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy in the office of Governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the Legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the Lieutenant-Governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of Governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the president pro tempore of the Senate shall succeed to the powers and duties of Governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the Assembly, until the office of Governor shall be filled at such general election.

Amendment Number Six.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38.]

A resolution to propose to the people of State of California an amendment to section six, article nine of the Constitution of the State of California, relating to grammar schools by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 6. The public school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority, but the entire revenue derived from the State school fund, and the State school tax, shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools. Grammar schools shall include schools organized in a school district, or union of school districts, having more than one thousand inhabitants, in which a course of study shall be taught which will prepare pupils to enter the agricultural, mining, or scientific department of the University of California.

Amendment Number Seven.

[Being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34.]

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to sessions of the Legislature, by which it is proposed to amend said section to read as follows:

Section 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and shall be biennial unless the Governor shall in the interim convene the Legislature by proclamation. The Legislature shall then remain in session for twenty-five days, after which it must adjourn to some date not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of adjournment. If the two houses fail to agree upon a time at which they will resume their session, the Governor shall, by proclamation, fix a date for such reconvening, which shall be within the limits above prescribed. Upon re-assembling the Legislature shall complete its session. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer period than seventy-five days, and no bill shall be introduced in either house except at the first twenty-five days of the session, without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An act to provide for the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. D. 1883, the above described proposed amendments are hereby published and advertised to be voted upon, by ballot, by the qualified electors of the State, at the election to be held throughout this State on

Each of the said proposed amendments are to be separately voted upon by ballot in manner and form as follows:

Each ballot used at such election must contain written or printed thereon the following words, whereupon the voter may express his choice as provided by law:

Amendment Number One, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 41, (exempting certain claims against the city and county of San Francisco, and the existing indebtedness of the city of Vallejo for the construction of its water works from the provisions of the Constitution requiring such claims to be paid from the income and revenues of the year in which they were incurred) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Two, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10, (providing for framing local county government acts, by inhabitants of counties for their government.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Three, being Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 44, (providing for the creation of a Court of Claims to determine claims against the State, and to consist of three Superior Judges designated by the Governor to serve without extra compensation.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Four, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 37 (Exempting consolidated cities and counties, organized or to be organized, or holding a charter under the Constitution, from certain legislation i[illegible] to counties.) For the Amendme[illegible]	Yes / No
Amendment Number [illegible] ing Assembly Con[illegible] Amendment No. 36 (Relating to office of Governor, providing for succession thereto in certain cases and removing disability of Lieutenant-Governor from holding other office during term.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Six, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 38, (relating to and defining Grammar schools.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No
Amendment Number Seven, being Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 34, (providing for adjournment of Legislature for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days during each session.) For the Amendment?	Yes / No

Also, at said election, the following question shall be voted on: The Legislature of this State at its thirty second session, adopted a resolution on the 22d day of March, 1897, known as Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, recommending to the electors of this State, at the General Election to be held November 8th, A. D. 1898, to vote for or against a Convention to revise the Constitution of the State. The proposed Convention is to consist of eighty delegates, one to be chosen from each Assembly District. Such delegates are to possess the same qualifications, and shall be elected in the same manner as members of the Assembly; they shall receive as compensation the sum of eight dollars per day, with the same mileage as the members of the Assembly, and there shall be a reasonable number of clerks and other attaches whose compensation shall be fixed by the convention. Accordingly at such general election the electors of this State will vote for or against a Convention to revise said Constitution. Each ballot used at such election shall contain printed thereon, in addition to other matter required by law, the words:

For the Convention to revise the Constitution.

Against the Convention to revise the Constitution.

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I, of the Penal Code; such reward to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, this 23rd day of September, A. D. 1898.

JAMES H. BUDD,
Governor.

Attest:
L. H. BROWN,
Secretary of State.

SUPERVISORS' PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the General Election to be held on

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1898,

The following County, District and Township Officers are to be elected in the County of Inyo, State of California, viz.:

1—Sheriff and Tax Collector;
2—County Clerk, Auditor and Recorder;
3—County Treasurer;
4—County Assessor;
5—District Attorney;
6—Superintendent of Schools;
7—Coroner and Public Administrator;
8—County Surveyor;
9—One Supervisor, 1st District;
10—One Supervisor, 3d District;
11—One Supervisor, 5th District;
12—One Justice of the Peace, 1st Twp.;
13—One Constable, 1st Township;
14—One Justice of the Peace, 2d Twp.;
15—One Constable, 2d Township;
16—One Justice of the Peace, 3d Twp.;
17—One Constable, 3d Township.
18—One Justice of the Peace 4th Twp.:
19—One Constable, 4th Township.
20—One Justice of the Peace, 5th Twp.;
21—One Constable, 5th Township.

Boards of Election.

Ordered—That polls be held in the following places in the precincts named in the said County of Inyo, for the said General Election, and that the following named electors be and they are appointed officers of the Boards of Election in the respective Precincts of said County, for said General Election, as follows, to-wit:

Round Valley, No. 1.
Inspectors—W. H. Wells J. G. W. Birchim.
Judges—D. Olds, W. W. Vaughn.
Clerks—I. P. Smith John E. Jones.
Ballot Clerks—J. S. McGee. C. L. Olds.
Polls to be held at School House.

Lincoln, No. 2.
Inspectors—R. Love, G. P. Bourland.
Judges—W. H. Fitzgerald, James Shaw.
Clerks—W. A. Trickey, Charles Wonacott.
Ballot Clerks—Wm. Brockman, Wm. Jenkins.
Polls to be held at School House.

Laws, No. 3.
Inspectors—Barton McGee, H. G. Plumley.
Judges—Jos. McNally, P. Gunter
Clerks—Ed. Dehy, Geo. Huckaby
Ballot Clerks—Ed Morton, L. H. J. Ehlen
Polls to be held at School House.

Bishop, No. 4.
Inspectors—G. W. Dixon Ed M. Clarke
Judges—W. G. McCrosky jr. James McBride
Clerks—W. W. Watterson, Chas Garretson
Ballot Clerks—A. J. Murphy, Henry Shirley
Polls to be held at Court House.

East Bishop, No. 5.
Inspectors—C. M. Dixon, W. C. Brierly
Judges—L. A. Coats, Chas. A. McKay
Clerks—H. H. Howell, Geo. Watterson
Ballot Clerks—Andrew Dell, John N. Yandell
Polls to be held at Albright's office.

Poleta, No. 6.
Inspectors—George Collins, James Hampton
Judges—George Storey, A. O. Collins
Clerks—J. A. Leidy, C. W. Geiger
Ballot Clerks—T. J. Reed, George Free
Polls to be held at George Collins' House.

Big Pine, No. 7.
Inspectors—R. W. Thomas, S. H. Spratt
Judges—S. J. McMurry, J. E. McConnell
Clerks—G. W. Hall, W. H. Uhlmeyer
Ballot Clerks—L. Joseph, D. W. Pitman
Polls to be held at School House.

Fish Springs, No. 8.
Inspectors—J. H. Coe, Chas. Petersen
Judges—T. W. Hill, G. W. Malone
Clerks—Geo. H. Rose, C. F. Fuller
Ballot Clerks—A. W. H. Smith, Upton Tracy
Polls to be held at School House.

Taboose, No. 9.
Inspectors—Geo. D. Calvert, S. Tapman
Judges—Luke E. Smith, William Hines
Clerks—Charles Walter, Joseph G. Pell
Ballot Clerks—A. L. Conklin, M. S. Harbour
Polls to be held at School House.

Independence, No. 10.
Inspectors—A. Clark, J. S. Gorman
Judges—J. D. Blair, G. W. Brady
Clerks—J. E. Parker, George Thorpe
Ballot Clerks—Ned Bell, H. D. Gill
Polls to be held at School House.

Citrus, No. 11.
Inspectors—Jacob Pfohl, W. H. Ramsey
Judges—Joseph Vaughn, W. F. Norbrup
Clerks—John A. Ramsey, Martin Church
Ballot clerks—David Vaughn, Seth A. Baker
Polls to be held at R. R. Depot.

Georges Creek, No. 12.
Inspectors—Gus McGovern, John Kispert
Judges—Thos Hamilton, J. V. Skinner
Clerks—J. E. Shepherd, J. F. Beale
Ballot clerks—J. W. Lacey, W. H. Jenkins
Polls to be held at School House.

Lone Pine, No. 13.
Inspectors—Mark Hand, J. C. Anton
Judges—P. M. Laberge, C. Carrasco
Clerks—F. P. Meysan, R. C. Spear
Ballot clerks—Abe Diaz, O. F. Dearborn
Polls to be held at Town Hall.

Cerro Gordo, No. 14.
Inspectors— —— ——, Chris Crohn
Judges—Gregory Kelly, Manuel Romero
Clerks—M. W. Trask, —— ——
Ballot clerks—Harry Williams, Jesus Romero
Polls to be held at Crohn's Building.

Keeler, No. 15.
Inspectors—Samuel Levy, John Jenkins
Judges—Mike Anton, Nat Randall
Clerks—A. R. Schively, H. Wrinkle
Ballot clerks—C. W. Stewart, A. St. Merry
Polls to be held at School House.

Olancha, No. 16.
Inspectors—Alonzo Brown, August Walker
Judges—R. H. Williams, Horace Bellows
Clerks—W. T. Grant, Charles Whittock
Ballot clerks—Henry Dyke, Ira Brown
Polls to be held at W. H. Walker's House.

Darwin, No. 17.
Inspectors—Henry Jackson, Paul Pfefferle
Judges—J. A. McKenzie, N. S. Thompson
Clerks—James Murry, Charles Richardson
Ballot clerks—James Harry, James Wood
Polls to be held at Waterman's Store.

Modock, No. 18.
Inspectors—Arthur Smith, —— ——
Judges—James Stanborough, —— ——
Clerks—C. E. Shepherd, John Doody
Ballot clerks—John C. Cress, Wm. Monahan
Polls to be held at J. J. Gunn's Boarding House.

Mountain Springs, No. 19.
Inspectors—P. Downs, —— ——
Judges—James Prewett, —— ——
Clerks— —— ——, —— ——
Ballot clerks—Theodore Wibbelt, —— ——
Polls to be held at Wolbrecht's House.

Ballarat, No. 20.
Inspectors—Frank McAlister, P. Winston
Judges—John Taylor, J. S. Stotler
Clerks—George Vollmer, C. H. Tyler
Ballot clerks—J. Casey, Chas. McLeod
Polls to be held in Weaver & Porter's Building, south of Weaver & Porter's Store.

Panamint, No. 21.
Inspectors—J. Curran, George Montgomery
Judges—J. Wall, F. Russell
Clerks—Al Williams, H. P. Dover
Ballot clerks—J. W. Trotter, J. Wingfield
Polls to be held at Anthony's Boarding House.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest:
D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	4[illegible]	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	[illegible]:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	[illegible] p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	146	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	178	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	188	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	238	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	257	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:23 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:05 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles: Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. P.M. RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:20 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:15 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for

LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT
CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN,
SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with

CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City

THE GROWTH OF SOCIALISM.

It is argued by deep thinkers that the growth of socialism is due to the large standing armies of the world, in which men are often made to enlist against their will, and thus become discontented with existing conditions. The growth of a stronger race of people is due to the large sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is the best medicine for costiveness, dyspepsia, fever, ague and all nervous troubles. Try one bottle.

Swedish Railways.

The first railroad in Sweden was opened in 1855, and the country has now in proportion to its population more railways than any other country in Europe. They are owned partly by the state and partly by private corporations. Sweden has the only railway in the world which passes the polar circle—i. e. the state line from Lulea to Gellivare, in the Lapland district.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

I believe my prompt use of Piso's Cure prevented quick consumption.—Mrs. Lucy Wallace, Marquette, Kans., Dec. 12, '95.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

Feed Your Nerves

Upon rich, pure, nourishing blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and you will be free from those spells of despair, those sleepless nights and anxious days, those gloomy, deathlike feelings, those sudden starts at mere nothings, those dyspeptic symptoms and blinding headaches. Hood's Sarsaparilla has done this for many others—it will cure you.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.
Hood's Pills cure Sick Headache. 25c.

GROVES

TASTELESS
CHILL TONIC
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS.
WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO

Ask your grocer for the celebrated
IXL TAMALES, FRIJOLES, CHILE CON CARNE, CHICKEN SOUP — IN CANS
Manuf'd and Put Up by ... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.
If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

HERCULES
GASOLINE
ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

BIG G. Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request. Price $1.00.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

BUY THE GENUINE
SYRUP OF FIGS
... MANUFACTURED BY ...
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
☞ NOTE THE NAME.

☞ This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 850. New Series, No. 41

MRS. LUCY GOODWIN

Suffered four years with female troubles. She now writes to Mrs. Pinkham of her complete recovery. Read her letter:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish you to publish what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Sanative Wash and Liver Pills have done for me.

I suffered for four years with womb trouble. My doctor said I had falling of the womb. I also suffered with nervous prostration, faint, all-gone feelings, palpitation of the heart, bearing-down sensation and painful menstruation. I could not stand but a few minutes at a time.

When I commenced taking your medicine I could not sit up half a day, but before I had used half a bottle I was up and helped about my work.

I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used one package of Sanative Wash, and am cured of all my troubles. I feel like a new woman. I can do all kinds of housework and feel stronger than I ever did in my life. I now weigh 131½ pounds. Before using your medicine I weighed only 108 pounds.

Surely it is the grandest medicine for weak woman that ever was, and my advice to all who are suffering from any female trouble is to try it at once and be well. Your medicine has proven a blessing to me, and I cannot praise it enough.—MRS. LUCY GOODWIN, Holly, W. Va.

Waiters and Waitresses.

Talking of waitresses, a New York hotel keeper says that although they may possess some superior qualities for such service there are, on the other hand, such drawbacks as make it certain that they would never be acceptable to the majority of men who would have to be served by them. He says:

"I think the objection to them would be based chiefly on the fact that they never show especial attention to any person. I never knew a woman who waited on a man to trouble herself in the least about the manner in which she served him. It makes absolutely no difference whether they receive liberal tips or not. They may be quiet, neat and quick, but they would never pick out one piece of beef because it was better than another or make any effort to get the best of what was to be had in the kitchen. That sort of attention makes a man worth his fee to the men who tip him.

"It is this special service that makes a waiter superior to the best of his associates. Women never detect any difference between the quality of one dish and another. They are all the same, and good service requires merely that they shall be set down noiselessly and brought quickly. There the service of the waitress ends. She can beat any man at those features of the business. But she cannot select for him anything better than the rest of the customers get. Usually she does not notice any difference in them. That deficiency is the safeguard of the waiter and will keep his place secure for him."

Trained Pigeons.

Pigeons are carefully trained. The young homer is taken half a mile the first day, a mile the second, two miles the third, and so on, doubling the distance each time. It must be liberated each time only in the same direction as to its loft, for a bird can be trained along only one route at a time. When 40 miles have been reached, a week's rest comes between. A hundred miles are enough for a young bird's first year.

So essential is the training that old birds are taken only two miles out for the first lesson of a season, though they may have flown their 250 miles the year preceding. The end of the next season, however, will, if the birds are willing and the trainer patient, be crowned by the accomplishment of a 400 mile flight. As you get higher in the scale of distance, longer and longer rests are needed.

Male birds are generally used for long distances. Family matters are apt to engross the attention of the hen, though she is still capable of good work when she has a mind for it.—Good Words.

Dancing Birds.

One of the many strange sights on the plains of southern Africa is a party of waltzing ostriches. Their queer antics have been described thus:

"When there are a number of them, they will start off in the morning and after running a few hundred yards will stop, and with raised wings will whirl rapidly round till they are stupefied or perhaps break a leg. The males pose also before fighting and to make their court. They kneel on their ankles, opening their wings and balancing themselves alternately forward and backward or to one side or the other, while the neck is stretched on a level with the back and the head strikes the sides, now on the right, now on the left, while the feathers are bristling. The bird appears at this time so absorbed in its occupation as to forget all that is going on around him and can be approached and caught. The male alone utters a cry, which sounds much like an effort to speak with the mouth shut tight."

Seeing the Sights.

Even in these days of liberal education young women sometimes show how confused are the ideas shut up in their heads. Illustrative of this is the naive blunder which Edmondo de Amicis recounts in his story of a voyage from Genoa to Buenos Ayres:

The captain of the steamer which numbered the charming young blunderer among its passengers met her one morning and said:

"Signorina, we cross the tropic of cancer today."

"Oh, indeed!" she cried, with enthusiasm. "Then we shall see something at last."

Cake made with Schilling's Best baking powder has no bitter taste. 57

THE MODERN MANGLE.

Ironing Machine with a Daily Capacity of Many Thousand Pieces.

Mangles in one form and another have been used for hundreds of years, but the steam mangle of the present day is essentially a modern machine. Steam mangles are made of various sizes, with rolls ranging in length from 48 inches to 120 inches. One of the rolls is of hollow steel and heated with steam. The auxiliary rolls are of iron, covered with cotton cloth and blankets or felting. Steam mangles are made also with two hot rolls. In ironing such things as sheets and table cloths by hand it is customary to iron one side only. Steam mangles with a single hot roll iron in that manner; with two hot rolls the steam mangle irons with a smooth finish on both sides.

Mangles are used only for flat articles; for things without buttons or buckles; for sheets and pillow cases, table cloths and napkins, towels and handkerchiefs, and so on. Mangles of the largest size will iron out a hotel's washing, taken just as it comes, 14,000 pieces a day; of small pieces, such as napkins, they will iron four times as many pieces in a day.

From the washing machine the things go to an extractor to be dried. The extractor revolves at a high speed, and the moisture is whirled out by centrifugal action. From the extractor, just damp enough to work well, the things go to the mangle. Such things as sheets are fed into the great ironing machine by two men, each holding a corner. There is a fixed table, as long as the rolls, attached to the machine on the other side; two men receive the sheet there and fold it. In ironing small pieces like napkins and towels on such a machine they would be fed in by a row of girls standing on one side and be received by another row of girls on the other side. On the largest machines there would be six or eight girls on each side. American steam mangles are used not only in this country, but they are sold in all the countries of Europe as well.

A great many mangles are made with wood rolls of polished maple. Such mangles are sometimes operated by power, but commonly by hand. They are used in hotels and laundries and restaurants, and for household work. Mangles with wood rolls are exported to the various countries of Spanish America and to South Africa and Australia.—New York Sun.

LITERARY LITTLEBITS

Max Nordau's novel, "The Drones Must Die," is coming out in the autumn.

Henry George, son of the great single-taxer, is gathering material for a biography of his father.

Thomas Hardy is nearing the completion of another of his famous stories of Wessex life, in addition to collecting a volume of his shorter stories.

Two British publishing houses are contemplating an edition of Dickens in a form similar to Messrs. J. M. Dent & Co.'s "Temple Classic" series, in which Scott is being daintily served up month by month.

Tennyson praised Rudyard Kipling's "English Flag," and Kipling's answer to his letter of commendation gave him pleasure: "When the private in the ranks is praised by the general he cannot presume to thank him, but he fights all the better next day."

Whistler, the artist, is said to be working steadily in London on a new and elaborate edition of his book, "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies." The cover will have a new design and the text will be augmented, recounting the later episodes of "The Butterfly Artist."

Henry Savage Landor's book describing his terrible experiences in Thibet, where he was tortured and crippled for life in punishment for his temerity in trying to enter the country, will be published simultaneously in the fall in England, America, France, Germany and elsewhere.

In response to applications from England, America, and the continent, the Swedenborg society will bring out a new edition of the writings of Emanuel Swedenborg, as translated by the Rev. Augustus Clissold, Dr. J. J. Garth Wilkinson, C. E. Strutt, and others. They were originally published about half a century ago, and for many years have been out of [illegible] and scarce.

It is said [illegible] difficulties met with by Stephen [illegible] in finding a publisher for his [illegible]ge of Courage" were so many, and so formidable that he himself set up and printed on a hand press an edition of the book. A copy of it was sent to several English papers, and on the strength of the favorable notices it received an offer was soon to hand to continue the publication.

Rider Haggard's house in Suffolk is painted a brilliant mustard color. The printer unfortunately inquired of a facetious clerk the address to which Mr. Haggard's proof sheets were to be sent. The youth told him Mustard-Pot Hall, Bungay. Suspecting no evil, thither were they addressed. The author, who received them safely, called at the printer's afterward, and possibly convinced the clerk that a too-ready wit is not always an enviable possession.

When Life Began on Earth.

Lord Kelvin estimates the time since the earth became sufficiently cooled to become the abode of plants and animals to be about 20,000,000 years, within limits of error ranging between 15,000,000 and 30,000,000 years. From similar physical data Clarence King has made an estimate nearly agreeing with this. Warren Upham says that geologists generally regard this period as too short. Dana, Wolcott and others compute that the duration of time since life began on earth is from 60,000,000 to 100,000,000 years.

A man usually dislikes to have roast beef at his home for dinner, for the reason that he never has a sharp knife with which to slice it.

Necessity is the foster parent of some queer conceptions.

THE CALIFORNIA STATE SCHOOL-BOOK SYSTEM.

Its Enemies and Its Defenders.

The creation and development of the California State school-book system form an interesting bit of local history, which at this time is of more than passing interest to the people of the State.

The present State school-book system was established by legislative act in 1885, and was called into being as a protest of the people against the extortions of the private school-book publishing houses of the country, under which parents of children had suffered for a long series of years, and under the manipulations of which combinations of publishers the local school boards were, in very many instances, either corrupted or cajoled into still further increasing the profits of the pulishers by frequent and unnecessary changes in the books used in the schools and in the courses of study prescribed. It goes without saying that the proposition to place in the hands of the State the publication of her own school books met with the most determined opposition of the private monopoly, and after the State system was established this opposition became so vehement that the people deemed it necessary to place a provision in the constitution protecting it from direct destruction at the hands of any unfriendly legislative enactment that might be attempted against it.

Ever since that time the efforts of the combined publishers have been united in an endeavor to discredit the books published by the State, and to destroy, as far as possible, the State's ability to furnish them to the people at a cost that would continue them in popular favor. The aggregate wealth of the American school-book trust amounts to millions of dollars, and when such an aggregation of wealth undertakes to accomplish an object it can call to its aid, by mere attraction, as it were, some of the most influential agencies.

Thus, at every session of the Legislature, from the adoption of the constitutional amendment above alluded to until that of 1897, the corridors of the State Capitol have been crowded with the agents and attorneys of the trust, whose endeavors have chiefly been directed toward the abolition and destruction of the State Printing Office, the object being to deprive the State of the ability to publish the books at a cost to the people that would justify a continuance of the system. For it can be easily seen that the cost of publishing the books must be much greater when the entire expense of power, maintenance, administration, insurance, etc., is borne by the school-book fund, than when such general expenses are divided between that fund and the fund usually provided for general State printing. These efforts of the trust were entirely abortive until the legislative session of 1897, when the Governor did, with one stroke of his pen, that which he book trust had for years failed to accomplish—he vetoed the appropriation, thereby causing a suspension of all State printing, thus throwing the entire expense of publication, maintenance, power, administration, insurance, etc., upon the school-book revolving fund.

The books of the California State series will compare more than favorably with any similar books published in the United States. Important revisions and new compilations have been made, and although this branch of the work has not always been entrusted to friendly hands, still, in spite of the fact that the development of the series has been beset by enemies on almost every hand, the texts of the books are now much better than those of any other series which have undergone repeated revisions.

The firm stand taken by A. J. Johnston, Superintendent of State Printing, in behalf of the State books, and the determination he displayed in maintaining them in popular favor, in so far, at least, as his department could do so, has called down upon him the displeasure of the private school-book trust, and it is now their desire to prevent his re-election as Superintendent of State Printing if possible, for at every stage of the contest between the trust and the State books he has met and baffled the attemps of the former to uproot and supplant the State system.

The present stage of the contest is most interesting, and one in which the people are much concerned; for, if the influences friendly to the trust can rid the printing department of this stalwart defender of the State school books, their fight for their destruction is all but won. That the stake is worth contending for is shown by the statement founded upon official statistics, that during the incumbency of A. J. Johnston as Superintendent of State Printing alone, there have been printed and sold by the State nearly 2,000,000 school books, and at prices representing a saving to parents of about $800,000, or a saving per capita of something like $1.50 for every child attending the public schools of California; and that, too, within a period of less than seven years!

The danger that threatens the very existence of this institution of the people had become so manifest that a number of the friends of the State school-book system formed an association, some months ago, called the "California State School-Book League," for the prupose of presenting an organized resistance to the efforts of the school-book monopoly against the life of the State system. That association or league now has a very large membership, is non-partisan in character, and carries upon its rolls the names of many of the most prominent citizens of California. The league has recently issued an address to the people of the State, in which the rise and progress of our school-book system is very fully recited, and the benefits to the people arising therefrom most interestingly and minutely stated. The league also lays bare to the public eye an inner view of the succession of conspiracies that have been entered into by the agents of the "book ring" in their repeated efforts to break down, cripple, and destroy the popular State system. The figures given in the League pamphlets are taken from official sources, the accuracy of which have not been, and can not be, questioned; and the saving to the people shown to have been effected since the State began the publication of her own school books, amounts to a sum really startling in its proportions. Tabulation after tabulation is given showing the prices of the books prior to the adoption of the State system, those now obtaining in Oregon, Arizona, and Nevada, and those being paid by parents in California at this time, and the comparisons show a saving of 47 1-3 per cent in favor of the California State series.

Under the old system a parent moving from one county or district to another was forced to discard the school books purchased and buy new ones, while under the present system the school books purchased in the remotest district of Modoc county can be used in any district in San Diego county, or elsewhere in California. Our State has a large migratory population, and this unnecessary tax for school books bore heavily upon the people until the welcome change made by the adoption of the State school-book system.

The fact that a number of other States are showing an inclination to follow California's example in the publication of their own school books is an additional motive that impels the "combine" to the most desperate efforts to cripple and destroy our State system, so that it may be regarded as a failure, and other States be thus deterred from adopting such system.

The battle royal between the people, represented by State Printer A. J. Johnston on the one side, and the book-publishing monopoly on the other, is now in full swing, and if the issue is thoroughly understood there ought to be no doubt as to the result of the contest.

VISITING A SHRINE.

Lieutenant Rawlinson's Daring Entry Into the Sacred City of Kum.

Kum, a walled city of Persia, ranks second to Meshed in sanctity, on account of the famous shrine of Masuma Fatima, sister of the Imam Riza, a famous saint of the Mohammedans. While Lieutenant Rawlinson was on his way to Teheran he heard much of this sacred city and the glories of the shrine, which, it was said, no European had ever entered. Death, so rumor whispered, would be the portion of the audacious infidel who should be discovered within its precincts.

To a young and ardent spirit a dangerous adventure is an irresistible attraction. Young Rawlinson determined to visit the shrine. Disguised as a Persian pilgrim, thousands of whom annually journey to the sacred city, he joined the crowd of pilgrims. His knowledge of Persian and of the customs of the country enabled him to pass undetected through the temple gates and to make his way to the tomb of the saint. The guardian gave him the customary form of words and he repeated them.

But his curiosity almost caused his detection. Attracted by magnificent suits of steel armor which hung on the walls, he was gazing at them, when suddenly he found that he had turned his back upon the sacred shrine wherein the saint was entombed.

A thrill of alarm startled him, but the discourtesy, impossible to a "true believer," had not been noticed. If it had been, there would probably have been no further career for the young lieutenant, who subsequently became the decipherer of Assyrian and Babylonian inscriptions and texts, and died the renowned orientalist, Sir Henry Rawlinson.—Youth's Companion.

Too Much Eating.

Gluttony has its victims, hardly less numerous than other vices. To overeat is to overburden the digestive organs to such an extent that it will be impossible for them to perform their duties properly. Deleterious products are created, and health is finally destroyed. A prominent judge used to say such men dig their graves with their teeth—and it is so. On the other hand, there are those who eat too little. All extremes are evils that experience should govern.—Exchange.

An African Mother-in-law.

A native has been committed to the high court for trial for mutilating his mother-in-law by cutting off her ear.

The native averred that his mother-in-law had attempted to entice her daughter away from him, her lawful husband, to some other native, and he took the extreme measure of cutting off her ear as a gentle hint to mind her own business.—Gwelo Times.

"A Perfect Type of the Highest Order of Excellence in Manufacture."

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa
Absolutely Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.
..Costs Less Than ONE CENT a Cup..
Be sure that you get the Genuine Article, made at DORCHESTER, MASS. by
WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.
ESTABLISHED 1780.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory.
MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

WILL & FINCK CO'S.
SPRING EYE GRAIN BAG NEEDLE
Plain or with Cutter. The Best Needle in the Market. Used by all Sack Sewers. For Sale by all general Mdse. Stores or by
Will & Finck Co., 920 Market St., San Francisco, Cal

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

The Doctor Slocum System Has Proven Beyond Any Doubt Its Positive Power Over the Dread Disease.

EXTERMINATING THE CURSE OF AGES

By Special Arrangement with the Doctor, Three Free Bottles Will be Sent to All Readers of This Paper.

The Doctor Slocum System, as the name implies, is a comprehensive and complete system of treatment, which attacks every vulnerable point of the disease and completely vanquishes it. It leaves no point unguarded; it leaves no phase of the trouble neglected; it cures, and cures forever, Weak Lungs, Coughs, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Consumption and all other throat and lung diseases by absolutely obliterating the cause.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—The Doctor Slocum System is Medicine reduced to an Exact Science by the World's most Famous Physician. All readers of this paper, anxious regarding the health of themselves, children, relatives or friends, may have three free bottles as represented in the above illustration, with complete directions, pamphlets, testimonials, advice, etc., by sending their full address to Dr. T. A. Slocum, the Slocum Building, New York City. This is a plain, honest, straightforward offer, and is made to introduce the merits of The New System of Treatment that Cures, and we advise all sufferers to accept this philanthropic offer at once. When writing the Doctor please mention this paper. All letters receive immediate and careful attention.

"Not to take a cure for an otherwise fatal disease is to practically commit suicide."

If You Suffer

From Epilepsy, Epileptic Spells, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Falling Sickness, Vertigo, etc., have children or relatives that do so, or know people that are afflicted, My New Discovery,

Epilepticide,

Will cure them, and all you are asked to do is to send for a Free Bottle and try it. I am quite prepared to abide by the result. It has cured thousands where everything else has failed. Please give full name, AGE, and postoffice and express address

WM. H. MAY, M.D., May Laboratory,
94 Pine St., New York City.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—All sufferers are advised to send for Gratuitous Expert Advice and a Free Bottle of this New Discovery, which is an Unfailing Cure for any and all of the frightful forms of Epilepsy and allied nervous diseases. When writing Doctor May, please mention this paper.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies.
—
Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies.
—
Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.
Independence, Cal.
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 23. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., NOVEMBER 18, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1494

INYO INDEPENDENT
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.00
One Month	.40
Single Copies	.10

IN GREEN CATHEDRAL AISLES.

Within the green cathedral aisles
The winds are whispering 'mong the leaves,
And nature's face is wreathed in smiles;
The sunlight in mosaic weaves
A gorgeous pattern 'neath our feet,
And summer days are fair and sweet;
No pride or pomp in Mammon's piles
Can match these old cathedral aisles.

The birds are chanting songs of praise,
And music murmurs in the trees,
For in these quiet woodland ways
The choristers are birds and bees;
The flowers with incense fill the air,
And nature's priests her vestments wear;
In forest, free from human guiles,
Are rear'd these grand cathedral aisles.

The city teems with restless life,
And tapering steeples bear the cross—
A symbol of the Christian's strife,
Thro' all the years of gain and loss;
So ever upward point the trees,
And wave their plumes in every breeze,
To lure the wanderer miles and miles,
Within the green cathedral aisles.
—N. Y. Home Journal.

WHAT WAS THE REASON?

ARTHUR HILDRETH had been traveling for the greater part of a year through England and on the continent, and, before settling down to business after his return, thought he would take a run to Denver to see his old college chum, Harold Arnsworth.

It was August, and New York was far too warm and desolate with all one's friends away to even think of staying there, and the result of his soliloquy was that a few days later he was speeding across the country to the West. Harold's sister was a charming girl, and she had a tender spot in her heart for her brother's friend, but there was a widow in the case, and ever since a certain night when Mr. Hildreth had paid Mrs. Darley marked attention Miss Grace Arnsworth had decided to shield her secret and smother it in its infancy. The Arnsworths were spending the summer at Glenwood Springs, and Harold had been cultivating the widow's acquaintance at this famous resort, and was just on the verge of proposing when Hildreth appeared on the scene. Upon arriving at Denver and discovering his friend's absence, Hildreth wended his way towards that beautiful spot in the Rockies. Arriving at the hotel, he surprised his friend in his room.

"Hildreth, I thought you were in London."

"The spirit of restlessness," Hildreth explained.

Arnsworth had been making an elaborate toilet. Glancing at the clock, he rose, picked up his hat and gloves. "Look here, Hildreth," he said, "you'll find the governor and Grace on the terrace. Do you mind if I run away now?"

Being well acquainted with his plans and thoroughly in sympathy with him, Hildreth got up, and, laying his hand on his shoulder, said: "She is a woman in a thousand, Harold. Au revoir, and good luck."

Following him out of the hotel, Hildreth strolled around until he espied Mr. Arnsworth and his daughter. "Well, 'pon my honor!" said the old gentleman, and a smile dimpled around Miss Arnsworth's mouth. After an explanation of his sudden appearance and a few minutes' conversation, Mr. Arnsworth pulled out his watch.

"I'm glad you came, Hildreth, as I left off last night in the midst of a little mathematical experiment with trente et quarante—and I thought that if you would kindly look after Grace I'd——"

"Delighted. I trust the experiment will be brought to a satisfactory conclusion."

As soon as he had taken his departure, Hildreth glanced at Miss Arnsworth. She was intently examining the handle of her parasol. "White suits her admirably," he thought. "Perfect weather," he remarked, at length. She nodded in a preoccupied manner.

"I have been wondering," she said, after a moment, "why you came here."

"Did you not hear me explain?"

She smiled.

"Oh, yes; but——"

"Surely nothing further is needed. The attraction at Glenwood is world-famed."

She looked as if she doubted, so he tried another tack.

"Well, the damp fogs of London are rather trying, and I thought the hot baths would be beneficial."

Again she laughed.

"How unsympathetic you are!"

"No, Mr. Hildreth. I'm a clear-sighted young person, and I can quite see what has brought you here so suddenly."

"Well?" with an air of indifference.

"Mrs. Darley," she said at length.

"How amusing! Nothing of the sort; the usual attraction, I assure you."

"Mrs. Darley," she repeated again, with just a shade of emphasis. "You admit it?"

"Well, she is talented, pretty, agreeable, and——"

"A widow," put in Miss Arnsworth.

"And I'm a bachelor," he remarked, apologetically.

She turned with a smile. "Forgive me," she said, kindly, "for reminding you of your pitiful condition. I only meant to show you that I guessed the reason for your coming."

"Your intelligence is beyond reproach. But what made you think of Mrs. Darley?"

She reminded him of a certain night.

"You take great interest in my welfare," he said, with a laugh.. Glancing at her, he added: "I am glad to notice it. By the way, where is Harold?"

"I never trouble about Harold," she replied, quickly. "He is so wrapped up in his books and studies that even here I see little of him."

"You have nothing against Mrs. Darley?"

"Nothing whatever. I like her immensely."

This was helping matters.

"You think she will make a good wife?"

"Admirable," said Miss Arnsworth, calmly surveying the mountain; "her experience will be invaluable."

A couple just at this moment came to view at the further end of the terrace.

"You will come to the wedding?"

A slight tinge of color appeared on her cheeks as she turned.

"Has it reached that stage?" she asked.

The couple were now coming nearer, arm in arm.

"I believe so," Hildreth answered.

There was a slight pause. Miss Arnsworth played with a tassel again.

"Then I suppose I must tender my congratulations?" she finally remarked.

"I believe it is customary among friends," he replied, with a glance at her. She had allowed her eyes to fall on the ground.

"You have been most fortunate in your endeavors," she replied, in deliberate tones. "I trust you'll be happy."

The couple was now opposite to where Hildreth and Miss Arnsworth were sitting. So engrossed were they in conversation that they had not noticed that there was any one sitting there. Hildreth felt an anticipatory shiver of enjoyment. "I do not enter into the question," he said. "Look!"

She glanced up in surprise. "Harold and Mrs. Darley," she whispered.

"He is wrapped up in his studies again, I notice. I fancy he has taken the lady's eyes as his subject."

"And you knew this all the time?"

"I'm afraid so. Harold confided in me some months ago, and I have occasionally amused myself by helping him. Now, what was the attraction that brought me here?"

There was silence for a minute or two, and again Arthur Hildreth noticed how charming Miss Arnsworth looked in white.

Harold and Mrs. Darley had passed out of sight.

"It wasn't the hot baths?" he remarked at length.

Miss Arnsworth made no reply.

"Nor an invalid's aversion to the chill, damp fogs," he went on, after a pause.

"Nor Mrs. Darley," she put in.

"No," he said, slowly. "I came because I thought it possible you might be pleased to see me."

There was another pause, and then he added:

"Are you?"

A smile crept around the corners of Miss Arnsworth's mouth.

"Well, yes; I think I am," she said.

They seem to be trying to imitate Harold and Mrs. Darley now, for they stroll around arm in arm, in a preoccupied manner, and rumor says there is to be a double wedding in the fall.—Facts.

The Fastidious Chinese.

The Chinese are the most fastidious people on earth about their dress goods, says a merchant. I was coming through Norfolk last week, and on one of the wharves saw about three hundred bales of cotton drilling awaiting shipment to China. My attention was called to it because of the neatness of packing and the evident care with which the stuff was being handled, only expert shifters being employed to move it. This is due to the fact that the Chinese will not receive a bale of it that is not in perfect condition. If the covering is soiled or cut, the bale is rejected and held subject to the order of the shipper. Because of this peculiarity of the Celestials, the cotton is beautifully packed. No other merchandise shipped from the United States equals it in packing or in the care which which it is handled. The bales are wrapped in paper, and then clean, closely-woven burlap cloth is sewed over this covering and tied with a number of clean cords. All of this is done in the neatest and most secure style.

Conflicting Legal Styles.

A good anecdote is told of the two celebrated barristers, Balfour and Erskine. Balfour's style was gorgeously verbose. Erskine's, on the contrary, was crisp and vigorous. Coming into court one day Erskine noticed that Balfour's ankle was bandaged.

"Why, what's the matter?" asked Erskine.

Instead of replying, "I fell from a gate," Balfour answered in his usual roundabout manner:

"I was taking a romantic ramble in my brother's garden," he said, "and on coming to a gate I discovered that I had to climb over it, by which I came in contact with the first bar and grazed the epidermis of my leg, which has caused a slight extravasion of the blood."

"You may thank your lucky stars," replied Erskine, "that your brother's gate was not as lofty as your style, or you would have broken your neck."—San Francisco Wave.

Long Suffering and Slow to Wrath

A Frenchman was convicted of killing his mother-in-law. When asked if he had anything to say for himself before taking sentence, he said: "Nothing, excepting I lived with her twenty-one years and never did it before."

A Thoughtful Fiance.

Jack—Suppose I teach you to play cards now, and then you'll know all about it after we're married.

Marie—Won't that be lovely! What game will you teach me?

"Solitaire."—Life.

Charity.

Jawer—Charity begins at home.

Jangle—Yes, and even then a man can't help getting mad at his wife sometimes.—New York Journal.

TOO MUCH TOLERANCE.

THE good women of our day are too much inclined to tolerance, declares the Spectator. A great many, while earnestly fighting evil, are inclined to regard it very much as doctors regard disease—that is, as something which it is their business to cure, but which springs from conditions for which the patient is irresponsible. Numbers grow so "experienced" that they treat it as a thing which must be, like typhoid, and, while concerned to remove it, have ceased to feel toward evil either horror or disgust.

Some genuinely philanthropic women push this tolerance so far that they become unconsciously fatalists, regarding all opinions and most acts as things that "happen" in obedience to unknown laws, and to be treated, especially in discussion, as one would treat earthquakes or floods or other disagreeable natural phenomena. They are facts to them, not acts. The odd thing is that such women never draw the logical deduction, namely, that their own exertions and teachings and self-sacrifices are in that case all useless, for the laws will operate whatever they may do, and are, of course, stronger than they. The excessive tolerance of such good women is often mistaken by themselves for Christian charity, but its effect when pushed too far is to destroy the healthy pressure of the fear of opinion upon those who are attracted by an evil design, but not yet guilty of it.

Indian Woman Lawyer.

There is only one Indian woman who is a practicing lawyer in the United States. She is Miss Laura Lykens, a pretty half-blood Shawnee woman. She graduated from the law department of the Carlisle, Pa., Indian school in June last, and then went to Oklahoma City, where she has been admitted to the bar and is very popular. She is 28 years old. She was born on the Shawnee reservation in Kansas. Her father was a brother of Bluejacket, the famous old Indian chief, who died last winter. Her mother was a white woman, and her maiden name was Lykens.

MISS LAURA LYKINS.

Man in His Home.

It is when a man is within the walls of his home that he is himself. Then it is that he should be at his best. When a man gives the best that is within him to those closest to him his home will be the ideal place that he wishes it to be. No man has a right to expect from his wife what he on his part does not give her. If he wants her sympathy he must giver her his consideration. If a man lacks the element of consideration he should cultivate it. Consideration should begin at home; not in the homes of friends, as it so often does—and ends there, too. The atmosphere which a man creates in his home by example becomes the rule by which his children live. The husband and father strikes the keynote for right or wrong living.

English Yachting Costume.

To Clean Gloves.

Have ready a little new milk in one saucer, a piece of towel or cloth, folded three or four times. On the cloth spread out the glove smooth and neat. Take a piece of flannel, dip it in the milk, then rub off a good quantity of soap with the wetted flannel and commence to rub the glove downward toward the fingers, holding it firmly with the left hand. Continue this process until the glove, if white, looks a dingy yellow, though clean; if colored, till it looks dark and spoiled. Lay it out to dry, and old gloves will soon look nearly new.

How Good Wives Are Trained.

There is a wide field of work open for our daughters in helping their fathers, especially in these days, when the lasses have as good an education as the lads, and bookkeeping is as easy to the girl fresh from school as it formerly was to the boy who had been properly taught. Few girls realize what assistance they could render their fathers in both personal and professional matters. It is rarely that a father makes a suggestion of such help, but did he once see the desire on the part of his daughter to relieve him, he would willingly encourage her. There are numberless little things in every man's life in which he could be very readily helped by one of his own family.

Beauty Hints.

The too frequent use of greasy preparations on the face will cause a growth of down.

Cocoanut oil brushed over the brows will promote their growth and give them a glossy appearance.

Cream face powder should always be used for brunettes, white and pink are only suitable for fair people.

A too liberal use of ammonia in washing the hair is said to turn it white. A half teaspoonful to a basin of water is about the right proportion.

Lemon juice applied with a camel's hair brush, night and morning, will remove freckles; that is if the freckles are not of too long standing.

A valuable lotion for strengthening the color of the hair and useful in retarding its turning gray is made of four ounces of bay rum and one ounce of sulphur.

A frequent cause of the hair falling out is a deficient state of the circulation. Rubbing the scalp for a short time every night with the fingers will stimulate the circulation.

There is nothing better than sage tea to prevent the hair from falling out. This should be well rubbed into the roots three or four times a week. Bran water is also good for the scalp, where there is dandruff. After rubbing it in, the hair must be well washed or it will stick together.

For Mothers.

To bring up a child in the way he should go, travel that way yourself.

Stories first heard at a mother's knee are never wholly forgotten.

The sooner you get a child to be a law unto himself, the sooner you will make a man of him.

Children need models more than criticism.

We can never check what is evil in the young unless we cherish what is good in them.

Line upon line, precept upon precept, we must have in a home. But we must also have serenity, peace and the absence of petty fault-finding, if home is to be a nursery fit for heaven's growing plants.

There are no men or women, however poor they may be, but have it in their power by the grace of God to leave behind them the grandest thing on earth, character; and their children might rise up after them and thank God that their mother was a pious woman, or their father a pious man.—Dr. McLeod.

How easy it is now-a-days for mothers and daughters to have dresses made at home, compared with the days of old. Then all the family, and sometimes aunts and cousins, used to come in to "help sew," because mother was going to have a new dress, or sister was going to a boarding school and had to be "fixed up." Now we can buy dress lining so pliable that it adapts itself to any form, and only has to be cut here and there to be ready for the dress material. So as time goes on, mothers and daughters will have more leisure for study and recreation, for attending lectures and going to mothers' clubs, etc. Thus our homes will be made brighter in many ways and we shall not hear that old note of complaint that "man works from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done!"

Pretty Things to Wear.

A dainty dressing gown is of narrow striped washing silk, with collar of tucked muslin, edged with lace and a wide sash of the same tied in front with long ends.

A pretty ruching is made in two colors of narrow ribbon, whipped together, the thread joining them being drawn tight enough to give a full pucker to the ribbon.

Young women with slim waists draw the wide black Liberty satin sashes twice around the body, knot the streamers once and pin with a jeweled brooch. The knot may be placed at any point on the waist line.

Have your skirts lined with the softest of silk; the rustle is no more to be heard.

In Paris the latest idol is the silken scarf, twisted in the coils of the hair.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

A new electric sign is fitted with a keyboard at which an operator sits and touches the keys to close circuits leading to the letters in turn, thus spelling out an advertisement or message.

Railroad cars are being fitted with small burglar and fireproof safes in the sides of the car near each seat, to receive the valuables of passengers, the safes being locked with keys.

Stereopticons are being used for a new purpose in Europe, a framework being made to fit over the shoulders of the user and support the lantern, which may be carried around to throw advertisements on walls or buildings.

Surgeons' tools, razors, etc., can be disinfected after use by a newly patented apparatus in which supports are provided in the top of the cover to hold the tools, while a disinfectant is discharged into the chamber by an atomizer.

A German has designed a bicycle provided with safety wheels mounted on tilting frames at the sides of the rider, curved rods extending up on a line with the waist to throw the side wheels into action as soon as the rider leans to one side.

Cigars and cigarettes are being manufactured in England with a plug of absorbent material located near the end to be placed in the mouth, to retain the poisonous nicotine, a mouthpiece being also provided composed of split straw cemented to a retaining band.

Two New-Yorkers have designed a new druggists' label, which is formed of a flexible card, having a clock dial printed thereon, with movable hands, to indicate the time for taking the medicine, the remainder of the card being appropriately lettered and ruled for directions.

Photographic plates and films can be washed under an ordinary spring lever faucet by a new attachment, consisting of a bailed tray, to be suspended from the lever with an adjustable spring yoke, to assist in opening the faucet, the tray being provided with an outlet by which the amount of water is regulated.

An Illinois woman has designed a simple burglar alarm, in which a clock mechanism is fastened to the wall, to be set off by cords running to the door, window and transom when these entrances are opened, the clockwork carrying a cord which ignites a lamp set on a bracket near by.

According to Nilsson, the zoologist, the weight of the Greenland whale is one hundred tons, or 224,000 pounds, or equal to that of eighty-eight elephants, or 440 bears.

It was the belief of Livingstone that nearly all lions were "left-pawed." He watched them closely, and when they desired to strike a fierce blow they always used the left paw.

The flying frog of Borneo has long toes which are webbed to the tips. Its feet thus act as little parachutes, and enable the frog to leap from lofty trees and descend gradually.

Bats, strange to say, are provided with two tongues, a large one and a small one, one beneath the other, the lower and smaller one being known as the "sublingua." This peculiar phenomenon is also met with in certain apes.

A scientist has been patiently watching the snails in one of the large London gardens, and has discovered the means by which they show their affection for each other. "The snail," says the scientist, "carries its eyes in telescopic watch-towers. They are in the extreme tips of its horns, and as soon as another snail approaches these horns are drawn in, and the little animal waits for his lady love to get close by before surprising her. The emotional natures of snails, as far as love and affection are concerned, seem to be highly developed, and they show plainly by their actions when courting the tenderness they feel for [illegible] another. If another snail comes [illegible] immediately retire to [illegible] a dead leaf; or hide be[illegible] I have noticed, too, a[illegible] all fetching dainty bits o[illegible] his sweetheart from different parts of the garden." This scientist also declares that snails have a manner of putting their heads together that is not unlike the general mode of kissing.

Character Told by Tresses.

That there is a physiological connection between the hair of the head and the temperament of the individual is no new idea, says the Lady. Among many ancient nations, indeed, the condition and quality of the hair were regarded as infallible signs of one's nature, and if those signs were unsatisfactory the person's locks had to be in some way altered for the better. It was probably this notion as much as any other that caused the introduction at a very early date of wigs and false hair.

Some physiological conditions connected with the hair are revealed in a work known as "The Secrets of Beauty," which was published in Paris in the year 1862. For instance, we learn that "fine, silky and supple hair" is the mark of a "delicate and sensitive temperament." Again, hair that is "curly and crisp" without artificial persuasion betrays a "dangerous cleverness," a "brilliant rashness," which may be trusted to lead to trouble nine times out of ten. Further, white hair—presumably when it is premature—is the sure sign of a "lymphatic and indolent constitution." Not one whit better is "harsh upright hair," which shows a "reticent and sour spirit." Perhaps, however, the worst sort of all is "flat, clinging straight hair," denoting a "melancholy character."

TRAITS OF THE CAT.

All Tend to Show It Is Naturally a Solitary Animal.

All the cat's habits show it to be by nature a solitary animal, says Louis Robinson in "Wild Traits in Tame Animals." Even in early life, when family ties bring out the instinct of association, this is apparent. If you compare the play of puppies with that of kittens you will find in one case that companionship of some kind is an essential, for if a puppy has no playmate of his own species he will always try to make one of the nearest biped; whereas a cork or a bit of string is all that is necessary to satisfy the requirements of the kitten. The way in which the cat takes its food is a sure sign that in its natural state it is not in the habit of associating with greedy companions.

When given something to eat it carefully smells the morsel, then takes it in a deliberate and gingerly way, and sits down to finish it at leisure. There is none of that inclination to snatch hastily at any food held before it which we observed even in well trained dogs, nor does a cat seem in any hurry to stow its goods in the one place where thieving rivals cannot interfere with them. Indeed, no greater contrast in natural table manners can be observed anywhere than when we turn from the kennel or the pigsty and watch the dainty way in which a cat takes its meals. That a cat allows people to approach it while it is feeding without showing jealousy proves that it does not attribute to human beings like tastes with its own.

Irish Evidence.

An Irishman—Duffy by name—was indicted
For smuggling contraband goods; and invited
By the court to show proof, if he could, without fail,
Of his innocense, else be remanded to jail.
In Newberry Place—a small town on the border
Of Canada soil—was found, made to order,
A mysterious cask, which was thought to contain
Spirits more ardent than beer or champagne.
In possession of "said Patrick Duffy," 'twas found;
And, his friend, Michael Durgen—at the time on the ground—
Was brought as a witness, to 'stablish the crime—
For the cask had been hidden away—in meantime.
Said the judge to Mike Durgen, "On oath, you must tell
The truth to this court, and the whole truth, as well.
Now, Mike, what was inside the cask that you saw?
(Remember, you're under the eyes of the law!)"
Said Mike to his honor, "Now, thin, since ye ask,
It'll please me to tell all Oi know of the cask.
One end was marked 'whisky,' as plain as your face,
And the other, 'Pat Duffy, of Newberry Place,'
But, as G'm on me oath, this forchenit minit,
Oi can't say for sartin which o' 'em was in it!"
—Detroit Journal.

A Quick-Witted Waitress.

A specimen of clever wit was given by a waitress in a Winter street restaurant the other day.

A middle-aged woman entered the place, and taking a seat at the corner, carefully scrutinized the bill of fare. She concluded to try an order of ice cream pudding at 5 cents a plate. After it had been served she looked it over carefully, and calling the waitress back, said:

"Do you call this ice cream pudding?"

"Yessum, and it's very nice, too?"

"But where is the ice cream?"

"Oh, that's only the name given that peculiar make of pudding; we are making a drive on it. I'm sure you will like it when you taste it."

"It seems to me that you ought to give ice cream with it as long as you call it ice cream pudding."

"We don't give cottages with cottage pudding," quickly replied the witty waitress, which threw the middle-aged woman into a convulsion of laughter, and she ordered a second plate.—Boston Herald.

Marble Ponds of Persia.

That beautiful transparent stone called Tabriz mable, much used in the burial places of Persia and in their grandest edifices, consists of petrified water of ponds in certain parts of the country. This petrification may be traced to its termination; in one part the water is clear, in a second it appears thicker and stagnant, in a third quite black, and in its last stage it is white like frost. When the operation is complete a stone thrown on its surface makes no impression, and one may walk over it without wetting one's shoes. The substance thus produced is brittle and transparent and sometimes richly striped with red, green and copper color. So much is this marble, which may be cut into large slabs, looked upon as a luxury, that none but the king, his sons and persons especially privileged are permitted to take it.

A Curious Fact.

It is an inexplicable fact that men buried in an avalanche of snow hear distinctly every word uttered by those who are seeking for them, while their most strenuous shouts fail to penetrate even a few feet of the snow.

A chainless wheel renders trouser guards unnecessary, but it's different with a chainless dog.

Poor is the minister whose voice fills the church and empties the pews.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING

Just Try It.

Blest be the ties that bind
Business to the public mind;
Blest be the type that strike the eye
And make the reader promptly buy.

Just try this type—fill readers' eyes
And prove it pays to advertise;
Then you'll say with emphasis—
There's no investment pays like this.

Good Results.

Until last January Fischel Bros. & Wise, dry goods merchants of Denver, Colo., did not advertise. They decided to spend $250 a month, but their bills were a little less than that. So far, the percentage of increase over the business for the first six months of 1897 has been: January, 112 per cent; February, 144 per cent; March, 163 per cent; April, 109 per cent; May, 100 per cent; June, 116 per cent. Last month the firm did the largest business in its history—2 per cent larger than during March and June of 1897 combined. The increase in business for the six months of this year over the first six months of 1897 was 123 per cent, and over the first six months of 1896, 148 per cent.—Press and Printer.

Withering Sarcasm.

"We are glad to learn that Ringling Bros.' circus is likely to visit Boone again this season," says the Boone, Ia., Republican. "When it was here last August we noted that some of our merchants had their names printed on the elephants. As they have not advertised since we are anxious to know whether they are still in business."

Pointers.

All men who advertise are not successful; but, with rare exceptions, all successful men have been advertisers.

Advertisements, like jokes, should be timely.

It is not always desirable that a large amount of space should be filled with a large number of words.

Truth is the prime essential in advertising. The best written ads will soon cease to sell goods if you are always "just out" of a leader when a customer calls.

Doing business without advertising is a good deal like filling a barrel through a half-inch bung without a funnel.

You needn't chase a lying ad. It'll run itself to death in a short time.

People will talk. If you advertise your good points they will talk well of you. If you do not, look out.

In most cases the merchant who has no money to spend in advertising eventually has no money to meet other expenses.

A store full of goods unsold represents so much money lying idle. The cost of selling the goods by advertising them would, in some cases, be less than the interest which would otherwise accrue on the unsold stock.

IDOLIZES INGERSOLL.

And Has Left $1,000 for the Great Infidel to Conduct His Funeral.

Nearly twenty years ago Robert G. Ingersoll promised James Tuttle of Atlanta, Ill., that he would conduct the latter's funeral services, and now that Mr. Tuttle is 92 years of age he has completed the arrangements. Mr. Tuttle has set aside $1,000 to defray the expenses of Ingersoll's journey to Atlanta, and, in order that the noted agnostic may be sure to receive the money in spite of what his heirs may think about it, he has drawn up his will and given him a legacy of that amount.

JAMES TUTTLE.

Tuttle made the acquaintance of Ingersoll in 1866, and since that time his admiration has been unbounded. There is no one who has watched more eagerly for the issuing of a new lecture by Ingersoll, and he has committed each to memory as soon as he could, quoting long passages from them to his friends. In Tuttle's opinion Ingersoll is the greatest man in the United States and one of the greatest men who ever lived.

Servia's Ex-King.

Ex-King Milan, of Servia, is but 43 and yet he is aged. His grandfather was a swineherd and Milan inherited all of his bad qualities, while he cultivated and accumulated others. In 1868 the assassination of Michael brought the honor of reigning prince to him, and after the treaty of Paris he ascended to the throne in 1872. In 1888 Queen Natalie became so disgusted with him that she obtained a divorce. The next year the Servians gave him $1,000,000 to abdicate and leave the country, which he did, being succeeded by his son, Alexander. Milan has inherited seven fortunes and squandered them all.

We've often wondered what will become of the self-made man in the final round-up.

When ever a man fails in an undertaking he attributes it to fatalism.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18.....1898

Direct evidence connecting General Weyler of Cuban fame with the wholesale looting of the Philippine treasury has been unearthed in the Bilibid prison. Maximiliano Rosales and Julian Reyes, sent to prison as scapegoats for official thieves, have been liberated by order of Major General Otis, but deliverece came too late for a third prisoner convicted of the same, for he died eight days before the American army entered the city. Rosalels and Reyes declared they were unjustly suffering for the crimes of others, and beg that their cases be reopened. They agreed that Weyler and his associates had looted the treasury of $1,300,000 in Mexican silver and that they had been accused of the crime and sent to jail. An examination of the books was ordered. The latter showed that during Gen. Weyler's regime several immense sums of money had been withdrawn without satisfactory reason. Rosales, who was ona of the cashiers at the treasury, declares that Weyler himself came to the treasury to aid in the crime. It has been decided to make a full investigation of the case.

It is astonishing how many people there are who knew at the beginning just what the Democrats ought to have done! But the question is what to do now. They must quit complaining and go to work for the future. If principles are right they are worth the battle. In defeat or victory the Sun's flag has never gone down. There is no profit in growling about what might have been and so now let us clear the decks for the next action. On those who are more successful than others devolves the duty of mending up broken places. The defeated ones have no right to complain and make ill-natured remarks. They have been trusted with leadership and have been beaten and they owe more to the party than high privates in the battle. The voice of the people is supreme and let every man so recognize it. The decision stands until reversed by the same high authority. No man who is not prepared to accept the verdict should ask for a trial of his merits. The people make mistakes, but they have a right to make them.—Colusa Sun.

All the information obtainable goes to show that the Nicaragua canal project, instead of being near to ceitain success, as we had all hoped, is in great peril from the multitude of interests which are now at war over it. At the approaching session of Congress several different sets of concessionaires will be represented in Washington by lobbyists, some working in favor of immediate action and some against it, but what will be the state of the case when opposition arises in the form of all these adverse lobby crowds? The best hope for speedy action is that by the time Congress meets the different interests may decide that there is nothing for any of them in a prolonged fight and that they will decide to get together on a proposition which the government can accept.

One of the cardinal principles of the Democratic party is that the rich should pay equally with the poor for the support of the government which gives them protection. It was and is for this reason that the Democrats favor an income tax. As taxes are laid at present under yaller administration of the rich and pompous trusts, the rich people of this country are practically exempt from taxation in proportion to their wealth and incomes. The war tax has come to stay—it's a necessity so long as the Dingley abortion exists—and it's the poor men and women who are paying the big end of the tax. The Democratic party has ever stood for equal and exact justice to all.

Van Dyke, the Silver Republican nominee on the fusion ticket, was elected notwithstanding the landslide against the combination, which shows that there are many Silver Republicans other than those who acted with the Fusion party. It is a pretty large straw showing the silver sentiment in the State. It shows, too, that the Democrats were true to the fusion compact; and it also shows that while the Republicans are still for silver they are not enough for it to induce them to vote the Democratic ticket.

Notwithstanding the mud slinging and the bitter fight made against Dr. Pace he was successful. The Doctor has the interest of his district at heart and will ever be faithful to the trust that has been handed over to him. He will make an able representative of the people and will give satisfaction to all. The Doctor extends his heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends who favored him with their votes and services during the campaign, and he shall ever strive to thoroughly represent them.—Union Herald.

Governor Pingree, who was re-elected Tuesday in Michigan, is the leading single tax man in the United States, but the Democrats did not have cheek to whoop it up like the Republicans did here, making it an issue nolens volens. Michigan is a State of farms, joining fences from one end to the other and in all that land not one farmer believed single tax an issue and would not try to defeat the people's champion on it.

McKinley's currency reform is to be considered in the next Congress, and that bodes no good for silver, if conclusions are to be left to Republicans like Mr. DeVries' opponent.

GENERAL ELECTION RETURNS.

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley.	Lincoln	Ure.	Bishop	East Bishop	Colorado	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Tabosee	Independence	Virgin	Georgia Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Springs	Saline	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
For Governor of State.
HENRY T. GAGE																	6
JOB HARRIMAN
JAMES G. MAGUIRE																	4
J. E. McCOMAS
Lieutenant-Governor.
JAMES ANDREW
EDWARD L. HUTCHISON																	1
JACOB H. NEFF																	1
ROBERT SUMMERS
Secretary of State.
CHARLES F. CURRY																	5
EMIL LIESS
R. A. THOMPSON																	5
J. W. WEBB
Controller.
EDWARD P. COLGAN																	5
T. L. HIERLIHY
T. W. MAPLES																	5
JOHN ROBERTSON
Treasurer.
E. M. DEWEY
WILLS. GREEN																	4
TRUMAN REEVES																	6
C. B. WILLIAMS
Attorney-General.
H. P. ANDREWS																	5
J. H. BLANCHARD
TIRY L. FORD																	5
A. F. STRAWN-HAMILTON
Surveyor-General.
I. H. MULHOLLAND																	5
J. GEORGE SMITH
GREEN SPURRIER
MARTIN J. WRIGHT																	5
Clerk of Supreme Court.
LEMUEL D. BIDDLE
W. P. FASSETT
H. A. McCRANEY																	4
GEORGE W. ROOT																	6
Superintendent of Public Instruction.
P. B. GALLAGHER
THOMAS J. KIRK																	7
FANNY M. PUGH																	1
CHRISTIAN RUNCKLE																	1
JANE A. ROULSTON
Superintendent of State Printing.
LEROY S. ATWOOD
A. CONTI
ALFRED J. JOHNSTON																	5
E. L. WOODMAN																	5
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court.
WILLIAM M. CONLEY																	5
THOS. B. McFARLAND																	4
T. M. STEWART
ROBERT THOMPSON
WALTER VAN DYKE																	5
WILLIAM C. VAN FLEET																	7
Representative in Congress.
MARION DEVRIES																	5
FRANK D. RYAN																	4
Board of Equalization.
GEORGE L. ARNOLD																	6
T. O. TOLAND																	2
Railroad Commissioner.
NEHEMIAH BLACKSTOCK																	6
J. L. DRYDEN																	2
State Senator.
GEORGE B. McCORD																	7
H. L. PACE																	3
Member of the Assembly.
P. H. MACK	22	30	21	66	52	8	52	13	3	72	7	15	29		11	5				19	23
FINLAY McIVER	22	36	30	64	46	8	62	16	1	59	12	26	5		9	5				9	6
Sheriff and Tax-Collector.
A. K. BRIGGS	15	5	2	19	1	1	7	1		2	2	1	5		1	1
A. M. GIVEN	29	43	23	68	4	8	61	13	8	63	9	18	4		8	3	1			19	9
J. J. GUNN	12	23	17	51	43	8	54	14	8	61	9	20	38		13	6	5			21	18
Clerk, Auditor and Recorder.
D. J. HESSION	29	43	31	79	65	10	85	29	13	107	15	23	5		14	8	3			21	23
J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH	17	23	20	74	31	7	36	4	3	2	3	14	2		8	2	6			7	4
Treasurer.
W. T. BUNNEY	28	41	28	88	52	8	35	11	11	57	13	24	5		10	1	13			12	10
S. G. GREGG	13	25	22	44	47	9	87	20	1	7	6	14	3		12	9	1			17	5
Assessor.
DAVID HOLLAND	16	23	31	5	15	10	73	1	8	9	8	22	53		14	5	13			23	17
W. W. YANDELL	30	48	19	83	85	7	45	18	8	7	10	17	24		7	1	20			10	8
District Attorney.
WM. D. DEHY	27	44	44	98	41	7	60	13	8	64	13	25	50		14	4	12			21	19
P. W. FORBES	18	27	7	37	66	10	59	14	8	69	4	14	2		8	6	26			8	9
Superintendent of Schools.
H. C. HAMPTON	27	42	14	89	47	10	65	13	13	70	14	26	3		10	7	13			19	21
J. H. SHANNON	15	21	36	68	25	7	58	11	4	53	6	12	5		11	3	1			11	8
Coroner and Public Administrator.
J. H. KISPERT	26	14	24	38	52	8		17	10	81	16	25	53		13	8	1			13	9
I. P. YANEY	24	54	26	89	6	9		13	5	20	3	12	2		7	2	3			16	18
County Surveyor.
W. G. DIXON
JOS. SELLY
Amendment No. 1	YES
	NO
Amendment No. 2	YES
	NO
Amendment No. 3	YES
	NO
Amendment No. 4	YES
	NO
Amendment No. 5	YES
	NO
Amendment No. 6	YES
	NO
Amendment No. 7	YES
	NO

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND

U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRESS Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT.

STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley. Advance Orders from

SODA WATER.....

.....ALL FLAVORS

[redacted] Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.

Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,

Bishop. Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

Announcements under this head will be charged for at the rate of Ten Dollars each, payment to be made in advance.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address

F. A. HYDE,

630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

HOTELS.

BISHOP HOTEL

Nearly opposite Hughes' Stables, Bishop.

Completely Renovated, Refurnished

A STRICTLY TEMPERANCE HOUSE.

—o—x—o—

EUROPEAN PLAN.

OR WILL FURNISH

Regular meals for	25 cents
Board and Room, per day	$1 and $1.50
Board, per week	$5.00
Board, per month	$20.00

—o—x—o—

Nine New Rooms Have been Added

—o—x—o—

These rooms have perfect ventilation, high ceilings and are handsomely furnished. Apartments can be had single or en suite.

J. L. BOURLAND, Manager.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS.....25 cts. to $1.00

LODGING.....25 to 50 cts

BOARD AND LODGING.....$2.00 to $1.50

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW, Proprietor

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 56
	P A Chalfant, assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collector	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon int on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, int State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Malloy, rent	3 03
	Joseph Shilling'd	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards int State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	2 4 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 8
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff, fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock Con M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John Richardson Lakeland	123 16
	A B Schively on Lake land	3 8 63
		21 697 04
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 50
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax col fees	26 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state lan	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 15 7 28
	Hospital	1 68 00
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	13 43
	Road Dist No 1	77 00
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	2 4 00
	" " " 4	124 50
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 500 00
	" " " "	5 00
	Sunday Sch'l Library	6 00
	Library "	8 18
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Milton "	15 00
	County School Fund	16 00
		8 574 0
Aug.	Salary	1 024 98
	Road Dist. No 2	5 00
	" " 3	24 00
	General Expense	1 004 4
	Hospital	65 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 [illegible]
Sept.	General Expense	11 3
	Salary	1 024 [illegible]
	Hospital Fund
	Fish Spring
	Round Valley
	Union
	Milton School Fund
	Tabosee	21 46
	Independence	164 15
	Big Pine School fd.	1 000 00
	Fish Sp. Library	8 00
	County Bond	1 500 00
	Cash	8 146 3
		22 733 20 22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	341 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 541 29
General Expense		1 151 08
Hospital		2 59 12
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	2 3 17
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	306 51
Road Poll tax	2 55
Unapportioned county	167 94
Bridge	292 87
Institute	5 0
Teacher's library	33
County school	26 85
Property tax	1 559 58
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 19
Irving	36 82
Bishop	21 17
Station	28 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Riverside		64
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Spring	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Tabosee		2 50
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	5 0 60
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Some (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 34
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Tabosee	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 98
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	57 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 99
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Polaris	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Station	50 62
Milton	161 75
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Library	28 42
Tabosee	134 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and overflowed	481 79
Round Valley School	150 48
Cash on hand		8 146 3
	10 425 17	10 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.

D. J HESSION,
Clerk

Filed Oct. 7, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Auditor

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

QUARTERLY REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR FOR QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

Exhibit showing amount of warrants drawn and upon what funds, between June 30th and Sept. 30th, 1898:

Total warrants drawn		11 921 81
Gen. Expense fund	2 811 49
School "	382 75
Hospital "	1 795 19
Salary "	3 597 24
Road District No 1 Fund	77 00
" " " 2 "	272 00
" " " 3 "	228 25
" " " 4 "	124 50
Bridge "	133 13
Big Pine Bldg "	2 500 00
	11 921 81	11 921 81

Exhibit showing indebtedness of Inyo Co. Interest not included.

Total indebtedness	60 990 55
county bonds		60 000 00
Old indebtedness		990 55
	60 990 55	60 990 55

Inyo county total indebtedness	60 9 0 55
Cash in treasury		8 146 39
Remaining indebtedness		52 844 16
	60 990 55	60 990 55

Respectfully submitted to the Honorable Board of Supervisors.

D. J. HESSION
County Auditor.

Filed Oct. 3, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

G. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION.

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA.

Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug24-tf

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Stotler, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of R. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Salene Todd, W. B. Ralphs, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of those certain mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said superior court

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The NE 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 12 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M., and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11 232 from the State of California for non payment of interest amounting to $6[illegible].20, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, defendant

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The NE 1-4 of Sec. 36, Township No. 12 south, Range No. 34 east, M. D. M., and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11 232 from the State of California for non payment of interest amounting to $6[illegible].20, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit; and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
SEAL Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs.

J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment foreclosing all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The NE 1-4 of NW 1-4 of Section 4; all frac'l Section 5, Township 17 south, and frac'l S 1-2 of SE 1-4 of Sec. in 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M., and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,675, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $18[illegible].40, due and unpaid to the said State

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, ... 1898

R. J. Laws and George T. Mills went to Keeler Monday.

G. P. Bourland of Bishop was a visitor in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Mulholland arrived home last Monday.

Ed M. Clarke came down from Bishop Wednesday, returning next day.

J. J. Gunn came in Wednesday evening from a trip to the Beveridge country.

Colonel Sutherland went below on Monday's train. He will return in ten days.

Ex-Governor Colcord was sworn in last week as Superintendent of the Mint in Carson.

R. S. Miner, Esq., has gone to Mono county, but will return within two or three weeks.

Levy's New Hotel opens to-night with a grand ball to which every body is invited. Good music and a good supper, sure.

No doubt the new Independence Hotel will be thronged at the "house-warming" to-night. Mr. Levy extends invitation to all.

Wm. Rowan expects to start for Los Angeles about the 20th with a large band of horses which he has pastured here during the summer.

O. I. Mairs started for Los Angeles yesterday with a four-horse stage load of passengers. He expects to spend a couple of weeks in the southern metropolis.

The well-known capitalist, Mr. L. H. Estep, of Pasadena, has interested himself in the gold mines of Snow Canyon, and a bright future of that camp is therefore assured.

Charley Anthony and Thomas Leatherdale returned to Darwin last Monday. They had spent several days here on a lawsuit connected with mining property in southern Inyo.

S. E. Vermilyea Esq. arrived home last Monday from a campaigning trip through California. Mr. Vermilyea made many friends on his trip and did effective work for the fusion cause.

The Independence Athletic Club will meet every Tuesday and Saturday evening for purposes of instruction and exercise. Mr. McLane's calesthenic class meets every Tuesday evening.

Horseback prospectors are not as common as heretofore. The men who "rode all over the country and found nothing" are giving place to the patient, practical prospector who is not in too big a hurry to miss a good thing.

The Election Board at Ballarat caused Inyo County $90 unnecessary expense and the loss of three days' time to five business men, by sending their returns over a thousand miles around instead of authorizing a special messenger to carry them forty miles to Darwin. Somebody blundered, and hence our incomplete election table.

Hon. P. Reddy has bought the N. S. Thompson mine at Darwin, as we understand paying therefor $5,000. The property, which is the old Cuervo, lies on the main mineral belt, between the Defiance and the Independence mines, both of which have long belonged to Mr. Reddy. The central property has a long, deep base tunnel through which all the ground can be worked, with great saving of hoisting expense and less pumping of water. In short, it will make lower grade ores profitable.

Election Counts.

Owing to the fact that the tally-sheet was omitted from the Laws precinct election returns, the County Board will be unable to complete the official count till to-morrow. All the other precincts are counted. Taking the unofficial return from Laws, Mack has a majority of 7 for Assemblyman in this county, 2 in Mono and 9 in Alpine. Given has a majority of 16 for Sheriff, and Bunney a majority of 4 for Treasurer. These were the close ones. Hession is elected County Clerk, Yandell Assessor, Dehy District Attorney, Hampton School Superintendent, Yaney Coroner, Dixon Surveyor, Cooley, Jones and Henebry Supervisors. Pace is elected State Senator in this District. Maguire's majority in county is 30; De Vries' 204; Mulholland, 186. The complete official returns will be given next week.

Methodist Church.

Services for the week ending November 24th:

Sunday: Lone Pine—Sermon at 11 a. m. by the pastor.

Georges Creek—Sunday-school at 1:30 p. m.; preaching at 2:30 p. m.

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock; subject of evening's discourse, "Time Fleeting."

Thanksgiving Day, November 24th, service of special music and sermon in the Church at 11 o'clock a. m.

All are most cordially invited to attend the services, especially the Thanksgiving service.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE. Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending November 17, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.250	12th
Lowest "	30.030	17th
Highest temperature	68.0	17th
Lowest "	33	15th
Mean "	26.9
Average dew point	11.9
Average humidity	20.4
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	30 N W	11th

Board of Supervisors.

MONDAY, November 14, 1898.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to law.

Present—Supervisors Frank Shaw, J. R. Eldred, J. J. Stewart, Ben. T. Williams, and Chairman A. C. Freeman, presiding.

It being ascertained that all precinct election returns were not on file, the Board adjourned until Tuesday, November 15, 1898, at 9 o'clock a. m., then to meet for the purpose of canvassing the same.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

TUESDAY, November 15, 1898, 10 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Freeman, presiding.

It still being ascertained that all precinct election returns were not on file, the Board adjourned until Wednesday, November 16th, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., then to meet for the purpose of canvassing the same.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 16, 1898, 10 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Chairman Freeman.

It still being ascertained that all precinct election returns were not on file, the Board adjourned to meet Thursday, November 17, 1898, at 9 o'clock a. m.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

THURSDAY, Nov. 17, 1898, 10 o'clock a. m.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Chairman Freeman, presiding.

It now being ascertained that all precinct election returns were on file, the Board proceeded with canvass of election returns until 12 m., and took recess until 1 o'clock p. m., at which hour reconvened, all members present. Canvassing of votes proceeded. At hour of 4 o'clock Board took a recess until 9 o'clock a. m., Nov. 18, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

Some of the scholars are complaining because our most recent acquisition is being spelled Porto Rico instead of Puerto Rico. Now the plain American people had used Porto Rico molasses long before Puerto Rico became a physical and orthographic issue. The scholars may stick to their "u" and their "e," but a plain, round "o" will probably continue to set the popular style.

BORN.

SCHALTEN—At Big Pine, Nov 10, 1898, to Mr. and Mrs. Lou Schalton, twin sons.

TOTTEN—At Lone Pine, Nov. 16, 1898, to Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Totten, a daughter.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on MONDAY, December 26, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the E ½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, Sec. 23, Tp. 12 S., R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: Henderson D Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Notice of Sale of Real Estate

Notice is Hereby Given, that in pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, state of California, made on the 14th day of May, 1898, and of an order of said Court, made on the 16th day of November, 1898, in the matter of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, the undersigned, the Administrator of said Estate, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United states, and subject to confirmation by said Superior Court, on MONDAY, the 12th day of December, 1898, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Court House, in the Town of Independence County of Inyo, State of California, all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Edwin M Crocker, deceased, at the time of his death, and all the right, title and interest that the said estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired since his death, in and to all the certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, situated and being in the County of Inyo, State of California, bounded and described as follows:

The N½ of N½ of Sec. 5, W½ of NW¼, SE¼ of NW¼, NE¼ of SW¼, NE¼ of SE¼ and S½ of SE¼ of Sec. 4, and W½ of NE¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 8 South, Range 36 East, M. D. M., containing 400 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, all of Sec 16, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 640 acres.

Also, Lot No. 1 and W½ of Lot No. 2 in NE¼, and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 5, SE¼ of SE¼ of Sec 5; SW¼ of SW¼ of Sec 4, and W½ of NW¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 349 and 170-100 acres.

Also, the W½ of NW¼, and NW¼ of SW¼ of Sec. 19, Township 9 South, Range 33 East, and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 24, Township 9 South, Range 32 East, all of Mount Diablo Meridian, containing 192 and 70-100 acres.

Also, the NW¼ of the SE¼, and the S½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 120 acres.

Also, the N½ of the NE¼ of Sec. 19 and the E½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 18, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, the SW¼ of the SW¼ of Sec 4, Township 9 S., R. 34 East, M. D. M., containing 40 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec 8, Township 9 S., Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Terms and Conditions of sale: Cash, lawful money of the United states; ten per cent of the purchase money to be paid to the undersigned on day of sale, balance on confirmation of sale by said Court.

Deed at the expense of purchaser.

JAMES R. MOFFETT, Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased

Dated November 17th, 1898.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES.

Gold and Silver Out of Date—Brocade and Hand Embroidery In Vogue.

Photograph frames have a new wrinkle this spring. The photograph frame of gold, generally of the empire style, is going out of date, and that of silver has gone out completely. Their places are now taken by photograph frames of rich brocade, which, just brought over from Paris, are beginning to be sold in the shops and have at the moment an especial vogue for the reason that they are not made in this country.

For their decorativeness as well as their novelty these brocaded picture frames are getting to be very popular. Brocades of rich and subdued colors are used, and generally there are tinseled edges. They curve out slightly, being stuffed out so as to stand upon the edge. The favorite color is a tone of greenish gray, brocades of a deep red touch being also in favor.

A novelty in this line is a photograph box without a cover that holds a string of a dozen photograph frames. This string of frames folds up compactly and fits snugly in the box or case. Both box and frames are covered with the same brocade.

Another new photograph frame is hand embroidered. It is being shown in great variety and is exceedingly elaborate. Such frames are done in designs of flowers, bowknots and birds and in all the delicate colors, in tones of pinks, blues and greens. A favorite ground for this embroidery is pink satin, though satins of all other colors are used. Some of these frames show delicate white embroidery on a white satin ground. The entire frame is incased in glass to prevent soiling.

Crape paper frames have a vogue, too, and are highly esteemed for country houses. These styles of the shops, noted by the New York Herald, are particularly pleasing because home-made articles can so easily be fashioned after them.

Polishing a Hard Wood Floor.

Much labor may be saved in caring for hard wood floors by the use of the "frottoir," which is simply a heavy weight covered with carpet, to which is attached a long handle. The American Kitchen Magazine tells that an enterprising little woman, after a journey on the continent, where this implement is in general use, improvised one by covering a brick with carpet and catching it in the clamp with a long handle used for scrubbing brushes. It is unnecessary to buy patent polishes for this process. Melt a quantity of beeswax over the fire and stir in turpentine until it assumes the consistency of a paste. This polish is extremely inflammable, and the greatest care must be taken in mixing it not to allow it to come in contact with the fire. When about to use, melt a portion over the fire and spread a thin layer over the cloth covered brick. Begin at one corner and work sharply, taking an arm's length at a time; let the new row overlap enough to avoid showing a streak.

Novelties In Jewelry.

The Jewelers' Circular notes the following novelties:

Scarfpins for the fashionable bright plaid ascot scarf, which women are expected to wear this summer, are of sporting character, simulating tennis rackets, riding whips, golf sticks, etc.

Gorgeous hatpins are the natural sequence of gorgeous hats and give much employment to the semiprecious stones. Jade, by the way, is high in favor as a talisman and figures in these pins.

Women who possess the large oval miniature brooches of their grandmother's day set around with fine large pearls, as so many of these were, can have them transformed into handsome belt buckles.

Unique and exceedingly rich among new brooches are those for which a bit of the natural pearl formation furnishes the central ornament. The setting is India gold enriched with colored gems.

A diamond tortoise ornament on the bonnet is supposed to bring good luck.

French Fancy In Decoration.

The stiff white linen window shade has had a long reign. Now comes a rival, an accessory much more in harmony with the luxuriously furnished rooms of the present day. In the new shades the design has been to give them a certain elegance and daintiness suitable to their surroundings.

The New York Tribune illustrates one from among latest Parisian importations. The material is embroidered india muslin, with a design of guipure insertion, the bottom, which is cut in three scallops, being draped by a deep ruffle of the muslin and lace.

An Odd Little Napkin Ring.

An odd little napkin ring which is quickly made, inexpensive and sells rapidly at fairs, is illustrated by The Standard Designer. To make it requires 12 brass rings about the size of a cent and ribbon of any preferred color about half an inch in width.

Place the rings so that they half overlap each other, being careful that they all lap one way. Then twist, or, rather, interlace, the ribbon through the ovals made by the overlapping, bringing it always over the overlying side of the ring and under the underlying side. When the ribbon has been laced through all the rings, it should be drawn rather tightly to form the whole into a circle, and the ends tied in a bow.

A NOVEL NAPKIN RING.

Pretty Summer Work.

For silk curtains to be hung on standing bookcases or shelves used as medicine closets either old rose or yellow is very popular. The Decorator and Furnisher suggests that at one side there can be given an outlining in gilt, the Japanese gold thread couched on in some conventional figure. This showy ornamentation can also form a border for the bottom if desired. This is pretty summer work, which fills up the time for the visitor, who generally carries away with her pick up work of one kind or another.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

S. P. M'KNIGHT C. E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL—

Mine obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET,

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j19-tf

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE—

TAILOR

—SATISFACTION GUARANTEED—

Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the county.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED $1.00
PAIR SPRINGS $1.00
All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - Cal

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY.

L. MUNZINGER & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and convenience of a First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

Customers supplied on all points Of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to L. MUNZINGER & CO. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

..... May 28th
..... July 2nd
..... July 30th
..... August 27th
..... September 24th
..... October 22nd
..... November 26th
..... December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M

P. H. MACK, Sec

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff, vs. IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, state of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, state of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL] o2115

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Edouard Chenot, deceased. Notice for Publication of Time Appointed for Probate of Will NOTICE is hereby given, that SATURDAY, the Twenty sixth day of November, A. D. 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, and the Court-Room—Probate—of said Court, at the Court House, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, have been appointed as the time and place for proving the will of said Edouard Chenot, deceased, and for hearing the application of J. E. Shepherd and W. L. Hunter for the issuance to them of Letters Testamentary thereon.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.
By C. N. ROSE, Deputy Clerk.

P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Petitioners.

Dated, Nov. 2d, A. D. 1898. nv4td

MERCHA

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD, Independence, Cal.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

WINES and [illegible]

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

HORSESHOEING

....AND....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

OFFICIAL.

ORDINANCE NO. 63.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:—

SECTION 1. All persons doing business in the County of Inyo, State of California, shall obtain licenses from the Tax Collector as follows:

SECTION 2. Auctioneers are divided into two classes, and must obtain license from the License Collector as follows:

1. Those whose average monthly sales amount to $250 and upwards constitute the First Class, and must pay a license of $5 per quarter.

2. Those whose average monthly sales are less than $250 constitute the second class and must pay a license of $6 per quarter.

SECTION 3. Persons engaged in banking, loaning money at interest, or in buying or selling notes, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of private persons, or in buying or selling State, County or City stocks, or other evidences of State, County or City indebtedness, or stocks, notes, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of incorporated companies, or in buying or selling gold dust, gold or silver bullion, gold or silver coin, are divided into two classes, and must pay licenses as follows:

1. Those doing business in the aggregate to the amount of $10,000 per quarter or over constitute the First Class, and must pay a license of $25 per quarter.

2. Those doing business in any amount less than $10,000 per quarter constitute the second Class, and must pay a license of $15 per quarter.

SECTION 4. From each proprietor of a billiard table not kept exclusively for family use, for each table $5 per quarter; and for each bowling alley $15 per quarter; but no license must be granted for a less term than three months.

SECTION 5. For the exhibition for pay for a theatrical performance, caravan or menagerie, or any collection of animals, circus or other acrobatic performances, vocal or instrumental concert, $7; and for each show of any figures, jugglers, necromancers, magicians, wire or rope-dancing, sleight of hand exhibition, $5 for each performance. The provision of this section do not apply to exhibitions given for benefit of churches, schools, or other charitable entertainments by any amateur dramatic association or literary society of the town or district in which such exhibition or entertainment is given.

SECTION 6. Each pawn-broker must pay a license of $25 per quarter.

SECTION 7. Every keeper of intelligence office must pay a license of $10 per quarter.

SECTION 8. Every person who at a fixed place of business sells any malt or fermented liquors, wines or distilled liquors, whether on commission or otherwise (except viticultural productions when sold by the producer thereof, and fermented or malt liquors when sold by the manufacturer thereof, on the premises on which the same shall be manufactured) must obtain from the Tax Collector, and for each branch of said business, a license, and must pay quarterly therefor the sum of Forty Dollars; and every such manufacturer of any malt or fermented liquors, who sells the same on the premises on which such liquors may or shall be manufactured, must obtain from the Tax Collector, for such business, a license, and must pay quarterly therefor the sum of Twenty Dollars.

SECTION 9. Every person who at a fixed place of business sells any goods, wares or merchandise, drugs or medicines, jewelry or precious metals, whether on commission or otherwise (except agricultural or viticultural productions or the productions of any stock, dairy or poultry farm, when sold by the producers thereof, and except such as are sold at public auction by auctioneers under license) and all persons who keep horses for hire, except such as are used for the transportation of goods, must obtain from the Tax Collector, and for each branch of said business, a license, and pay quarterly therefor an amount of money to be determined by the class in which such person is placed by the Tax Collector; such business to be classified and regulated by the amount of the average monthly sales made or hiring done, and at the following rates:

1. Those who are estimated to make average monthly sales or hiring to the amount of $2500, or more, constitute the First Class, and must pay a license of $9 per quarter.

2. Those who are estimated to make average monthly sales or hiring to the amount of $1250 and less than $2500 constitute the Second Class, and must pay a license of $4.50 per quarter.

3. Those who are estimated to make average monthly sales or hiring less than $1250 constitute the Third Class, and must pay a license of $3 per quarter.

SECTION 10. Every traveling merchant, hawker or peddler who carries a pack, and vends goods, wares and merchandise, must pay a license of $5 per month; and every such traveling hawker, merchant or peddler who uses a wagon and one or more animals for the purpose of vending such goods, wares or merchandise of any kind, must pay a license of $10 per month.

SECTION 11. Every person who keeps a stallion, jack or bull, and who permits the same to be used for the purpose of propagation for hire must annually obtain a license therefor from the Tax Collector of said Inyo County, and pay therefor as follows:

1. Horses that are hired for the purpose of propagation by the season at $100 or more constitute the First Class, and require a license of $75;

2. At $75 and less than $100 constitute the Second Class and require a license of $50;

3. At $50 and less than $75 constitute the Third Class and require a license of $40;

4. At $35 and less than $50 constitute the Fourth Class and require a license of $25.

5. At $15 and less than $35 constitute the Fifth Class and require a license of $15;

6. At less than $15 constitute the Sixth Class and require a license of $10;

7. For each Jack, $10.

8. For each Bull, $10.

Provided, however, that each and every license granted under or by virtue hereof shall expire on the last day of December of the year for which said license was so granted.

SECTION 12. The Tax Collector of said Inyo County shall have the collection of licenses provided for by this ordinance, and it is hereby made his duty to collect the same; and any person required to take out a license under the provisions of this ordinance who fails or neglects or refuses to take out such license, the said Tax Collector may direct suit to be brought in the name of the County of Inyo, as plaintiff, for the recovery of such license, and in case either the said Tax Collector or the attorney for the said plaintiff in said suit may make the necessary affidavit for and a writ of attachment may issue without any bonds being given on behalf of the plaintiff, and in case of recovery by the said plaintiff fifty dollars damages must be added to the judgment and costs, to be collected from the defendant.

SECTION 13. The County Auditor of said Inyo County shall prepare and have printed suitable blank licenses for the said Collector to carry out the provisions of this Ordinance, with a blank receipt attached for the signature of the Tax Collector when sold.

SECTION 14. The said Tax Collector shall collect a fee of one dollar for each license sold, which shall be paid into the Salary Fund of the said County of Inyo.

SECTION 15. All money collected for license under the provisions of this ordinance shall be paid over to the County Treasurer of said County as other moneys and placed to the credit of the Salary Fund of said County.

SECTION 16. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after fifteen days from its passage, and Ordinances No's. 43, 44, 47, 49 of said Board of Supervisors, passed on the 8th day of January, 1892, April 6th, 1892, April 5th, 1893, and July 11th, 1893, respectively, are hereby repealed, and all ordinances or parts of ordinances of said Board in conflict herewith are each and all of them hereby repealed.

SECTION 17. This Ordinance shall be published with the names of the members of said Board of Supervisors voting for and against the same in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper published in the said County of Inyo at least one week, said publication to be made for said time, and before the expiration of said fifteen days.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

[SEAL]

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk of said Board of Supervisors.

The above and foregoing Ordinance No. 63, was duly passed, enacted and ordained by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at a regular meeting of said Board, on the 13th day of July, 1898, by the following vote:

AYES:—A. C. Freeman, J. J. Stewart, Ben T. Williams, Frank Shaw, J. R. Eldred.

NOES:—None

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

[Seal,]

Attest: D. J. HESSIGN, Clerk of said Board of Supervisors.

Endorsed: Ordinance No. 63. Filed July 13, 1898.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK,

HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	45	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Rio Vista	65	3:10 p m	1:00 p m
Schurz	78	3:50 p m	12:15 p m
Gillis	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
Hawthorne

STATIONS.	MILES.	No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	[illegible]
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	188	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:20 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	298	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:20 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:20 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:58 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:53 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:46 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE ITEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by Paraline Paint Co. 116 Battery St San Francisco.

Sample free.

PROPOSED ALLIANCE WITH ENGLAND.

If the United States and England should form an alliance, the combined strength would be so great that there would be little chance for enemies to overcome us. In a like manner, when men and women keep up their bodily strength with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, there is little chance of attacks from disease. The old time remedy enriches the blood, builds up the muscles, steadies the nerves and increases the appetite. Try it.

So far 1,279,000 persons have visited the Omaha exposition.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

A Norwegien engineer has invented a process for producing paper glue, dressing gum and soap from seaweed.

LADIES CAN WEAR SHOES

One size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to be shaken into the shoes. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy; gives instant relief to corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Cures and prevents swollen feet, blisters, callous and sore spots. Allen's Foot-Ease is a certain cure for sweating, hot, aching, nervous feet. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y. Box 852.

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208 212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

We pay you $100 if we cannot prove that we can save you MONEY on everything you buy. We are saving the people of the Pacific Coast thousands of dollars every month. For full particulars, address, Gilbert Clements' Sons, 218 California St., San Francisco, Cal., Wholesale and Retailers of Family Supplies.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Two bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me of a bad lung trouble—Mrs. J. Nichols, Princeton, Ind., Mar. 26, 1895.

Try Schilling's Best tea and baking powder.

More Solemn Still.

"It is a solemn thing," said the young man, "when a woman trusts a man with her affections."

"It ain't as solemn," said the man with the dry goods necktie, "as when she won't trust him with his own wages."—Indianapolis Journal.

Scrofula

Taints the blood of millions, and sooner or later may break out in hip disease, running sores or some more complicated form. To cure scrofula or prevent it, thoroughly purify your blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has a continually growing record of wonderful cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5

Hood's Pills cure indigestion, biliousness.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.

ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.

Send For Catalogue.

WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST Corset and Cover Combined. Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory.

MRS. M. H. OBER

34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal

Ask your grocer for the celebrated

IXL TAMALES FRIJOLES CHILE CON CARNE CHICKEN SOUP IN CANS

Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.

If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.

Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,

ABNEY, CARR & CO.

8 F. N. U. No. 852 New Series. 43

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

A SOLDIER'S TARGET.

EACH man, as he signed his name on the enlistment roll, realized that war meant fight, and that fight meant kill. This idea was further drilled into us in camp; it formed the basis of the colonel's address as we marched to the front; it brought our muskets to an "alm" as we caught sig'ht of the enemy for the first time. We had become soldiers to march, fight and kill. It was to be looked upon as a matter of business, as well as a patriotic duty. The sooner the strength of the enemy was exhausted the sooner we would have peace.

We thought that every man in company "G" had the same feeling—to kill—but we had not been long at the front when we found an exception. A score of skirmishers were ordered down in front of the regiment to feel the strength of the enemy in the fringe of bushes along a creek. Ambrose Davis was one of us. He was a man of 30—a plain, every day man who had laid down the tools of a mechanic to take up the musket of a soldier. He was not given to enthusiasm, but he was an obedient soldier and the best shot in the company. As we clambered over the fence and took "open order" on the broad field which dipped down to the creek, the enemy in the fringe had a dead rest on every man. War with them also meant kill. To kill one of half a million men means little, and yet it means kill. Zip! Ping! Zip! It was not firing by file—it was not firing by volleys into a battle line half hidden in the smoke, but every bullet that came pinging was meant for an individual soldier.

We crouched down and ran forward. We zig-zagged to right and left. We took the shelter of every knoll, brush and stump. The enemy had to develop his strength to check us. In front of Davis was an opening in the fringe—a spot where a farm road crossed the creek. The enemy to the right and left of this road was using the bank of the stream as a breastwork and we were firing a good deal at random. An officer suddenly appeared in the center of this opening, and raising a pair of glasses to his eyes he took a cool survey of the regiment far back of us on the hill. He was within pistol shot of Davis and he must have known it, and yet he stood there as cool and calm as you please to take his chance. It was sheer bravado. Four of our twenty had been killed, and the enemy was seeking the lives of the rest. I was to the right of Davis and could have almost hit the officer with a stone; the man on his left had just as fair a target. He was not our "game," however—he belonged to Davis. We saw our comrade thrust forward a barrel of his musket and bring his eye down to the sights. Then we watched the officer to see him throw up his hands and fall. Thirty seconds passed away, and we glanced back at Davis. He had lifted his head and was looking at the officer over his gun. At the end of a quarter of a minute he dropped it again. It was his duty to kill, but this was killing in cold blood, and he had to have a few seconds to nerve himself up. Back went our eyes to the officer. He was slowly sweeping the glasses across a front of half a mile, and I wondered if he would drop them as the bullet struck him, or whether his fingers would clutch and hold them the tighter. My heart came crowding into my throat as I watched and as the seconds passed, and at length I heard the man on Davis' left shouting at him:

"Shoot! Shoot! Why the devil don't you drop that officer?"

I turned to look at Davis, and as I did so he slewed the muzzle of his gun to the right and fired into the bushes. A few seconds later the officer lowered his glasses, and swinging them in his hand and perhaps humming a tune, he slowly disappeared into the bushes. Later in the day, when Davis' singular action had been reported, the captain said to him:

"Davis, I can't believe you are a coward, because you went down on the skirmish line to be shot at, but when you had an enemy fairly under your gun, and an officer at that, why didn't you bring him down?"

"I was going to, sir, but I—I couldn't," was the reply.

"But they were shooting at you to kill."

"Yes, I know."

The captain could hardly reprimand a man for not killing an enemy as he would have shot down a rabbit, and there was no one to hint that Davis lacked courage. The incident was forgotten after a little, and such was the soldiery conduct of the man that he was made a corporal. When the enemy withdrew behind the works at Yorktown to bar McClellan's road to Richmond he covered his wings with sharpshooters, and our officers were their special target. One day, as three companies of us were dragging up some of the heavy siege-guns to be put in position, a major and a private were killed by a sharpshooter who was located in a tree top. He could be plainly made out, but the range was too far for our army muskets. A Berdan rifle was sent for, and when it arrived our captain put it into the hands of Corporal Davis and said:

"You are by long odds the best shot in our company. With a dead-rest over that log you can tumble that man out of his tree."

Davis hung back and turned pale. Just then a brigadier rode up to give an order, and his horse had scarcely come to a halt when a bullet from the sharpshooter passed through the general's hat. He was not only a bit startled, but inclined to reprimand that the fellow had not been disposed of. When he saw the heavy rifle in the hands of the pale-faced and hesitating corporal he shouted out:

"Hurry up, man, and tumble him out of that before he can reload! If you bring him down I'll ask your captain to make a sergeant of you five minutes later!"

Davis advanced to a stump a few feet away and knelt down and sighted his rifle across it. We who knew his marksmanship felt sure that his bullet would speed true. He took a long aim, and we were holding our breath to hear the report of the rifle, when he drew back, rose up and said:

"I—I can't shoot that man!"

The words were hardly out of his mouth when the man in the tree fired again, and his bullet struck down a lieutenant within five feet of the brigadier.

"You idiot, but why don't you shoot?" shouted the indignant general, as he stepped forward.

"It is cold blood, sir—cold blood!" whispered Davis, who trembled in every limb, and was as pale-faced as a dead man.

"You poltroon, you coward!" raged the general. "Here, you man—cut the stripes from his sleeves, and you, captain, see that he is reduced to the ranks on the company roll! He ought to be court-martialed and driven out of the army in disgrace!"

A soldier stepped forward and with his pocket-knife cut the chevrons from the porporal's sleeves, and Poor Davis slunk away in disgrace. Here was a strange thing. A soldier who did not hesitate to put himself in a position to be killed could not be induced to fire upon the enemy. His soldierly qualities were such that he had been taken out of the ranks, and yet he refused to carry out a soldier's first duty—to kill. We could not call him a coward—no man is a coward who will face death—but we called him strange and wondered what was back of it all. The men of the company fell away from him, and in a few days he stood almost alone. When we followed up the enemy after Yorktown there was some heavy skirmishing with the rear guard. Ambrose Davis was with the company, and upon one occasion, when the hundred charged and captured a gun, he led us all in the rush and was the first man to put a hand on it. After that we said it was a case of "nerves," or that he had a hereditary fear of shedding blood, and he was looked upon more favorably.

"SLEWED THE MUZZLE OF HIS GUN TO THE RIGHT."

We saw nothing more of the "strangeness" of Ambrose Davis until the battle which [illegible] McClellan to make a ch[illegible] For half a day our reg[illegible] battle line, waiting to at[illegible]ed, and during this in[illegible] army lost two men killed a[illegible] It required all the ner[illegible] could work up to stand there and be shot at without firing a shot in return, but Davis showed no more nervousness than any of the rest. When at length we moved by the left-flank for a quarter of a mile and then dropped down to open fire and hold our ground, Davis was the man on my left and as I loaded my musket I noticed that he was firing high. Five minutes later a lieutenant came creeping along in rear of us and warning each man to aim low. I heard him cursing Davis, and twice after that, ere we fell back, I saw the man firing into the tree tops.

The enemy crowded us back day by day and mile by mile, and there was fighting over every foot of the highways. We had a fierce grapple at Fair Oaks, and again at Savage Station, but all I knew of Davis was that he was with us. It was only when weturned at bay at Malvern Hill that I found myself beside him again. He had been three times grazed by bullets, and that was proof that he had stood up to a soldier's work. Our regiment was stationed at the base of the hill, strung along in the bed of a dry creek, and the banks gave us protection and a rest for our muskets. As the enemy came swarming across the open every man was a fair target. I had fired three or four times when my musket fouled, and as I waited to clear it I watched Davis. He was firing over the heads of the enemy by thirty feet. Our position was one which could not be carried. The enemy realized this at last, and the bat[illegible] die away. On our front we ha[illegible] dead and wounded men, as far as we could see, and all firing had ceased, when a man suddenly rose up from the ground about a pistol shot away and stood staring at us. A thousand men shouted at him to come and surrender, but after a moment he turned his back and began moving away. I do not know why any of the hundreds of men who had him in range did not fire, but they did not. Some were even cheering the man, when an officer of artillery jumped down among us and shouted:

"Shoot him—shoot him—why don't some of you bring him down?"

His words were heard by fifty men, but not a gun was raised. The officer was storming at us when Davis suddenly lifted his musket and fired, and the retreating man flung up his arms, whirled about and sank down. Curses and groans followed, and Davis threw down his gun and hid his face in his hands and sobbed.

"A splendid shot!" cried the officer, "and if I were your captain you would be a corporal to-morrow!"

Davis had done a strange thing. We looked at him and wondered over it. The heat of the battle was yet strong upon us, but the killing of the man seemed little short of cold-blooded murder.

"Did I kill—kill him?" asked Davis of a man beside him when he could control himself.

"Yes, you shot him dead, the poor devil. Why didn't you let him get away?"

"You have all been down on me because I wouldn't kill," moaned the shooter, as he hid his face again.

That night we fell back to the James River. In the darkness and confusion commands were mixed up, and it was night again before the company roll was called. Private Davis was among the missing. He had survived the battle—the retreat was unmolested—if alive he was bound to find his command within a few hours. And yet he never found it. When the returns were made up his name was placed among the dead. He had been disgraced because he would not kill. He had nerved himself up at last to fire upon a human target—and then—? We spoke his name in whispers after that, and said only good words for him.—Charles B. Lewis, in Denver News.

A FORTUNE OVERLOOKED.

The Unexpected Find Made by the Executors of a Washington Estate.

"You may talk about the wonderful discoveries of gold in the Klondike region," said a lawyer a few days ago, "but one of the richest gold finds of the year occurred right here in Washington. I will not mention names, but the gentleman referred to was known all over the country before he died as one of the wealthiest pension agents and publishers of the present day.

"A short time after the captain (I will call him 'captain' throughout the story) died, his executors were engaged in making an examination of his effects. His will had been carefully drawn and all of his real and personal property was supposed to be distributed among his relatives and friends, according to his last wishes. One day in clearing out the safe in the building which still bears the captain's name an old chest was discovered in one of the dark corners of the vault. It had been there for years, and was supposed to contain only some plates and drawings of war pictures, used in connection with a book of war stories. The executors had passed the old chest by without examining its contents, supposing, of course, that it contained nothing but the plates and drawings, as indicated by the marking on the outside. One of the clerks engaged in the work had curiosity enough to take a peep into the chest. When the loose drawings were removed a sight met his gaze that fairly took his breath away. There, nestling among the sheets of war pictures, and at the bottom of the chest, was an immense pile of gold coin, which, when counted, amounted to something over $50,000.

"There were gold pieces of every denomination, from $1 to $20. The discovery was so unexpected that the executors were at a loss for some time to account for the pile of treasure. The latest will was carefully scrutinized, but nothing in it could be found relative to the unlooked-for gold deposit. Various theories were advanced to explain the accumulation of coin, and it was finally concluded that the captain had followed the example of other cautious capitalists during the last raid on the treasury gold reserve, and hoarded the amount found in the chest. The coin looked as though it might have been dropped into the chest carelessly, for the various denominations and dates were in happy confusion. The executors were unable to account for the omission of the gold pile in the will, for although the captain was a great spender, he usually kept a clear account of his securities. It is possible that he may have been quietly engaged in hoarding gold pieces for a number of years prior to his death, and when his fatal illness came on he may have forgotten the gold lining to the old chest containing the war pictures. Of course the gold was carefully counted and entered up as a very desirable part of the estate."—Washington Evening Star.

Curious French Legend.

It is asserted by the Industrielles Echo that thousands of five-franc pieces are split into halves by their French owners every year in the hope of "discovering" an immense hidden treasure. This treasury, according to the legend firmly believed in France, is an order to pay the holder 100,000 francs in silver five-franc coins. When Napoleon Bonaparte first set the five-franc piece in circulation the conservative mind of the French revolted against the numismatic revolution, and it was very difficult to induce a Frenchman to receive or proffer the new coin. Hence, according to the story, Napoleon gave it to be understood that he had ordered a check for 100,000 francs, written upon asbestos paper, to be concealed in one of the new silver pieces. From that day to this nobody has objected to the five-franc piece.—Industrielles Echo.

Paper Telegraph Poles.

Telegraph poles are now made of compressed paper. Those of that material are said to be more durable than those of wood.

SINGULAR STATEMENT.

From Mrs. Rank to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter to Mrs. Pinkham from Mrs. M. RANK, No. 2,354 East Susquehanna Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., is a remarkable statement of relief from utter discouragement. She says:

"I never can find words with which to thank you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.

"Some years ago I had womb trouble and doctored for a long time, not seeing any improvement. At times I would feel well enough, and other times was miserable. So it went on until last October, I felt something terrible creeping over me, I knew not what, but kept getting worse. I can hardly explain my feelings at that time. I was so depressed in spirits that I did not wish to live, although I had everything to live for. Had hysteria, was very nervous; could not sleep and was not safe to be left alone.

"Indeed, I thought I would lose my mind. No one knows what I endured.

"I continued this way until the last of February, when I saw in a paper a testimonial of a lady whose case was similar to mine, and who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I determined to try it, and felt better after the first dose. I continued taking it, and to-day am a well woman, and can say from my heart, 'Thank God for such a medicine.'"

Mrs. Pinkham invites all suffering women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. All such letters are seen and answered by women only.

THE RICH RUSSIAN.

He Has a Weakness For an Army of Family Servants.

We were a family of 8, occasionally of 10 or 12 says Prince Kropotkin in The Atlantic, but 50 servants at Moscow, and half as many more in the country, were considered not one too many. Four coachmen to attend a dozen horses, three cooks for the masters and two more for the servants, a dozen men to wait upon us at dinner time—one man, plate in hand, standing behind each person seated at the table—and girls innumerable in the maidservants' room, but how could any one do with less than this?

Besides, the ambition of every landed proprietor was that everything required for his household should be made at home by his "own" men.

"How nicely your piano is always tuned. I suppose Herr Schimmel must be your tuner?" one of the visitors would remark.

To be able to answer, "I have my own piano tuner," was in those times the correct thing.

"What beautiful pastry!" the guests would exclaim when a work of art, composed of ices and pastry, appeared toward the end of the dinner. "Confess, prince, that it comes from Tremble" (the fashionable pastry cook).

"It is my own confectioner, a pupil of Tremble, whom I have allowed to show what he can do," was the reply which elicited general admiration.

To have embroideries, harnesses, furniture—in fact everything—made by one's "own" men was the ideal of the rich and respected landed proprietor.

Where Money Is Very Mixed.

Although all accounts are kept in dollars and cents (American standard) in British Guiana, there is no existing coinage to correspond. Gold is rarely tendered, all larger sums being handled in bank notes, kept so long in circulation that they become almost unrecognizable in their filthy fragmentary dilapidation.

The silver coinage consists of the most incongruous varieties. Besides British a number of coins, fractions and multiples of the "gilder," enter largely into circulation. These are known as the "bitt" (4d.), "half bitt," the "two bitts," the "gilder" (being 32 cents, or 1s. 4d.), and even a peculiar three halfpenny piece is still extant, although eagerly sought for by collectors.

All these coins are of great and interesting variety, incident on the transfer of the colony from the Dutch and the once distinct governments of Berbice and Demerara and Essequibo, long since amalgamated.

Of copper coins the penny is known as a "gill," while the humble baubee becomes a "cent." Farthings were once introduced, but were regarded with contempt and suspicion, except by a few Chinamen, who succeeded in passing them in their brightness for half sovereigns.

To instance the confusion resulting, 11½d. is here described as "two bitts and a half and a gill and a cent."—London Tit-Bits.

The Professor's Wisdom.

The stern professor of the feminine preparatory school sat at his desk trying to unravel a knotty problem when a fluffy haired miss of 16 approached.

"Please, sir," she began in a tremulous voice, "will you grant me permission to go out riding with my brother this afternoon?"

Now, the old man had not forgotten the days of his youth, neither was he a fool, and looking over his spectacles he slowly said:

"So you want to go riding with your brother, do you? By the way, is this brother of yours any relation to you?"—Chicago News.

One of the Evils of Slang.

Little Ruth—Mr. Thmith, who did you kill for thithta's diamond ring?

Mr. Smith—Nobody, dear. What makes you ask such a question?

Little Ruth—Why, Tom, he thaid she'd 'a' never got it if you hadn't hung thomebody up for it.—Jewelers' Weekly.

"Why does my cake smell so queer?"

Too much soda or perhaps alum or lime. Use Schilling's Best baking powder. 59

Parents Are Unfair to Teachers.

"That existing methods of educating the young fall short of the ideal there is scarcely any question," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "The most prominent educators of the land admit this fact. Every effort is undoubtedly made to better prevailing systems. But the fight is single handed. As teachers and educators constantly say: 'We are alone. Parents give us no assistance. They do not even give us the benefit of ordinary interest.' And this is true—lamentably true. Parents are all too lax about the methods pursued in educating their children. In hundreds of cases they do not even know what the methods are. They know nothing about them. There is no co-operation of the parent with the teacher. However much we may be able to improve modern methods of education, the best results to our children cannot be reached until parent and teacher shall come into closer relations than they are at present."

Frenchwomen as Wives.

Max O'Rell considers that Frenchwomen make better wives for poor or struggling men than do the women of other nationalities. Their ambition and keen sense, he says, are great helps to a man's efforts, and they never allow themselves to weary in their endeavors to be cheery and charming. Mr. O'Rell says that the women are naturally exceedingly energetic and endowed with that vivacity which is so great a support to their own spirits, and that this enables them to impart animation and courage to others.

Other writers have noticed this peculiarity of temperament in Frenchwomen. It has been said that Americans have it to a certain degree, that degree which compels a constant activity, but that lack of true balance makes womanly energy in the western continent fitful and uncertain, while the Gallic women will be found of more equable natures.—New York Tribune.

"To Buy on Tick."

"To buy on tick"—that is, on credit—is something that does not seem to have much connection with the movement of a clock, and yet it is a figurative reference to the same thing. The syllables "tick-tack-tock" are used everywhere to represent sharp, quick sounds of various kinds, with the movements that cause them, whence the tick-tack of a clock or the ticking of any quick, light motion, as the stroke of a pen or pencil that "ticks" off our orders. Hence to take a thing "on tick" is to have it marked with a tick or stroke of the pen.—E. F. Andrews in St. Nicholas.

The Kind of Bird.

The party with the long hair and starving family, not to mention lesser symptoms of the literary bent, was less servile than usual.

"How about my poem?" he brusquely demanded.

"She's a bird," replied the conductor of the magazine.

"What kind of a bird?" persisted the man of letters, thoroughly aroused.

And the other, saying nothing, merely indicated with a gesture the pigeonhole above his desk.—Detroit Journal.

Profanity is forbidden by both the army and the navy regulations of the United States.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known

Yellow Label

on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

MADE ONLY BY

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.,

Dorchester, Mass.

An Overworked Brain.

From the Record, Pierceton, Ind.

Determined to rise in his chosen profession as an educator, Ernest Kemper, of Pierceton, Ind., overtaxed himself mentally and physically. He was ambitious, his mind was always on his work. From early morn until late at night he continually poured over his books.

"Burned the candle at both ends."

Few persons, even with the strongest constitutions, can keep up under such a strain.

In addition to his studies, Mr. Kemper was teaching a school some three miles from his home. Finally, his excessive study and the exposure of going to and from school in all kinds of weather, undermined his health.

Overstudy.

He was taken to his bed with pneumonia and his overworked brain almost collapsed. For several weeks he was seriously ill.

Catarrh had taken root in his system and his mind was in a delicate condition. He was sent to Colorado where he spent three months without receiving any benefit. Then a noted specialist from Cleveland treated him without avail, and then a hospital in Chicago was tried, but all absolutely without benefit. Finally his physician recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and from the first box he began to improve. When he had taken nine boxes he was completely cured. This famous blood and nerve medicine had accomplished what all his former expensive treatment failed to accomplish. Mr. Kemper says his catarrh has entirely left him; he is strong again and weighs nine pounds more than he ever did. He gives the pills the entire credit. He is starting teaching again and feels abundantly able to continue the work. To prove that the above is true in every respect, Mr. Kemper made an affidavit as follows:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this, the 10th day of September, 1897.

R. P. Watt, Notary Public.

We doubt if these pills have an equal in all the range of medicine, for building up a run-down and debilitated system.

BIG G Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right. Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

BUY THE GENUINE

SYRUP OF FIGS

... MANUFACTURED BY ...

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

NOTE THE NAME.

HERCULES GASOLINE ENGINES,

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

A Beautiful Present

In order to further introduce ELASTIC STARCH (Flat Iron Brand), the manufacturers, J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., of Keokuk, Iowa, have decided to GIVE AWAY a beautiful present with each package of starch sold. These presents are in the form of

Beautiful Pastel Pictures

They are 13x19 inches in size, and are entitled as follows:

Lilacs and Pansies. — Pansies and Marguerites.

Wild American Poppies. — Lilacs and Iris.

These rare pictures, four in number, by the renowned pastel artist, R. LeRoy, of New York, have been chosen from the very choicest subjects in his studio and are now offered for the first time to the public.

The pictures are accurately reproduced in all the colors used in the originals, and are pronounced by competent critics, works of art.

Pastel pictures are the correct thing for the home, nothing surpassing them in beauty, richness of color and artistic merit.

One of these pictures will be given away with each package of Elastic Starch purchased of your grocer. It is the best laundry starch on the market, and is sold for 10 cents a package. Ask your grocer for this starch and get a beautiful picture.

ALL GROCERS KEEP ELASTIC STARCH. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, C

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 24. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., NOVEMBER 25, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1495

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.00
One Month	.50
Single Copies	.10

SLEEP SONG.

Good night, my care and sorrow!
Good night, if not good by;
Till the breaking of the morrow,
At my feet, your fardels lie.

Good night, my care and sorrow!
I am launching on the deep;
And, till the dawning morrow,
Shall sail the sea of sleep.

Good night, my care and sorrow!
Good night—perhaps, good by!
For I may wake to-morrow
Beneath another sky.

Good night, all cares and sorrows!
Welcome, my boatlike bed!
None or many my to-morrows,
This one night is overhead!
—Harper's Bazar.

THE LAMBTON DIAMOND.

I.

THE famous Lambton diamond threw back the light from its many facets, and strange, brilliant colors shot from its depths. It was the finest stone I had ever set in my life.

I was particularly pleased with my design for the setting. No other hand had touched it, and I felt that the frame, so to speak, was worthy of the picture.

The ring, now that it was finished, was fit even to adorn the hand of Lady Gwendolen Forrest, the beauty and heiress of the season. But I did not envy young Lord Lambton his fiancee; in my own Nell I had a girl as good and as pretty as any in the land.

I was about to take the ring to Mr. Nugent when Nell herself ran in. She was my employer's daughter, and his private house was upstairs over the large showroom in Clifford street. It was against all custom for Nell to come down to my workshop, for her father disapproved our engagement. But to-day she had not been able to resist the temptation of having a peep at the Lambton diamond.

Just as she had slipped it on her finger, and was dancing about twisting her hand, that the marvelous stone might catch the light, the door opened and Mr. Nugent entered. I prepared to defend Nell from a harsh reprimand, but none came. Her father appeared oddly preoccupied, merely took the ring from her, examined it earnestly, and, snapping the lid of the case down upon it, placed it in his pocket and walked away.

Next day I was sitting at work, when I saw a hansom drive up, and Lord Lambton jump out. He came hastily into the room, which adjoined the one where I was sitting where Mr. Nugent was.

"Scoundrel!" I heard him say, and could scarcely believe my ears. "You thought to fool me easily by a false stone; but I am as good a judge of jewels as you are. You are a thief, sir! What have you done with the diamond I intrusted to you?"

Mr. Nugent answered in a lower voice. What he said could not have made any great impression upon Lord Lambton, however, for he impatiently interrupted, and at last an ominous threat concerning the "police" reached my ears.

I sat still. I understood very well that Lord Lambton had deliberately accused my employer of trying to palm off upon him an imitation diamond, yet I knew that I had set the true stone and delivered it to Mr. Nugent only yesterday.

My employer himself was a skilled workman, though not a good designer, and in the time that had elapsed between my handing him the ring and his transferring it to the owner he could have removed the stone and replaced it by another. But for such a bold trick to succeed the imitation must be magnificently made, and the original diamond must have been carefully measured.

I had never known that Mr. Nugent kept any false gems about the place, and besides was it likely that a man in his position would care to run so terrible a risk? Still, I could not help remembering how haggard and irritable he had been of late, and the keen interest that he took in the racing intelligence.

As I thus speculated on the astounding accusation, Mr. Nugent himself opened the door of the workroom. He looked keenly at me as if wondering if it would be safe to trust me.

"Did you hear anything of what passed in the next room?" he questioned.

I admitted that I had.

"Of course, I shall be triumphantly acquitted," he announced, clearing his throat, huskily, as he spoke. "Still, Lord Lambton can make things disagreeable. And look here, Wade, I haven't always been as friendly to you as I might, but I can trust you. You'll be an important witness. Do what you can for me, for the girl's sake."

The words sounded strange, but I was given no time to answer, for at that moment Lord Lambton returned with two Scotland Yard men. My employer was given into custody and taken to the police station to be charged, the detectives remaining to search the premises.

Mr. Nugent being a widower, with only one child, the management of the business practically devolved on me, and as the detectives ransacked the place, they put many questions to me as to where the stones were kept. The safes were all pointed out to them, but they seemed disappointed with their operations.

Later in the evening they came to me in the workroom, and, holding out the ring that I had made for Lord Lambton, one of them said:

"This is your work," we understand. "Is that the stone you set?"

[illegible]ed at it, but I only replied: [illegible] call myself an expert in prec[illegible]ones, and all I can say is that [illegible] precisely resembles in size, [illegible]nd appearance the one given [illegible] set."

While this statement was practically true, that one glance had been enough to show me that I was not looking at the Lambton diamond.

The detectives left, saying that I would have to tell all I knew in the witness box, and then, just as I was about to lock up the place for the night, Nell came in. It was the first time she had let me see her since her father had been taken away.

The face which I thought the sweetest on earth was marble white, and there were dark shadows under the lashes.

"There's something I must say to you," she panted, "something I've been wild to say all day, lest it should be too late, but I dared not let anyone suspect. A month ago father confided to me that he had lost a great deal of money—and he showed me how to open a secret drawer in his Chippendale bureau. 'If ever anything happens to me,' he said, 'don't lose a moment, but look into this drawer; throw away everything that you will find in the left-hand partition, and keep what may be in the right.'"

II.

Together we ransacked the old bureau, and at length Nell touched the spring which opened the secret drawer. I drew in my breath sharply, for the light of the candle which I held struck out a gleam from a pile of exquisitely made false stones, which lay in a partition on the left hand, while on the right was the Lambton diamond.

Involuntarily I betrayed the dreadful nature of the discovery by an exclamation, for, left to herself, Nell would not have understood. But she was quick to comprehend, and realizing the worst she swayed, staggering backward.

"My poor father," she moaned, as I held her. "He is ruined forever—and I, too. The daughter of a convicted thief is no fit wife for an honest man."

"My darling, you are a wife for king, and as for your father, I swear to you that I will save him yet."

"You—you cannot.'

"I tell you that I can and will." For even as I spoke an idea had flashed into my head which startled me by its audacity. In a moment I had thought out every detail.

I made up the stones, Lambton diamond and all, into a packet, carefully closing the secret drawer, and contriving to get away without being seen, and went straight to my brother's house in Kent, managing to avoid the service of a subpoena. Thus I was not present at the police court proceedings, which would have meant ruin for my plan.

Mr. Nugent was committed for trial, and meanwhile I stayed in the country, working each night in locked room, with the tools I had brought with me, until the gray dawn filtered upon my closed shutters.

When I saw my old employer in the dock at the trial I was shocked at the ghastly change which had come over him.

The evidence at first went steadily against him. Lord Lambton swore that the stone in the ring was not his diamond. One expert testified that not only was the stone he now saw not the Lambton diamond, but was not a genuine jewel at all, but a marvelous imitation. Another was not so positive. He looked at the gem through his glass, turning it this way and that, declaring that in all his experience he had never seen a false stone so cleverly executed as this. Indeed, he was not prepared to swear that it was false.

This was the first ray of doubt which had been thrown by the evidence upon Mr. Nugent's guilt; and then I went into the box. I was very cool now, for the game I had determined on had cost me many a qualm of conscience. But I had no intention of cheating Lord Lambton, swearing falsely, or tarnishing my personal honor.

The preliminary question of the prosecuting counsel brought out the fact that I had designed the ring's setting, and done all the work upon it.

"What sort of stone was it your employer gave you to set?" was the next question.

"An extremely valuable white diamond," I replied.

"Do you swear that you set the genuine stone, and delivered the ring when finished to the prisoner?"

"I do."

"Do you consider it possible that stone might have been taken out and an imitation one substituted?"

"Certainly. But I could tell whether the ring had been tampered with since it left my hands."

"Take this, then, examine it, and inform the court if that is the stone you set."

The ring was handed to me, and a hush fell upon the court. The kind of lull which denotes that a vital point in a case has been reached.

I put my hand in my waistcoat pocket for my jeweler's glass, and the sharpest eye could not have seen that I also drew forth a new ring, made in the secret hours of the night—an exact counterpart of the other, save that it contained the real Lambton diamond.

I pretended to examine the imitation with great care while all eyes were fixed upon me. At length I returned the glass to my pocket, and with it the false stone. I could hear my own heart beating, but, handing the court usher the new ring, I said firmly, in reply to the snappish "Well?" of the prosecuting counsel:

"I swear unhesitatingly that the setting of this ring has not been tampered with, and that this is the genuine diamond which was given me to set."

A rustle went round the court; the doubting expert pricked up his ears, the prosecuting counsel, with Lord Lambton and the treasury solicitor, were whispering over the ring.

"M'lud," said the counsel, "I ask permission to recall the expert."

I stepped out of the box and the expert stepped in. The new ring was put into his hand, a friendly ray of sunshine lighting up the jewel.

"This is very remarkable," he said, at last. "It's the first time I have ever made a mistake. This stone is genuine. I cannot doubt it."

And so the prisoner was free; but when the verdict of "Not guilty" was pronounced a faint groan echoed it, and a dead man was taken from the dock. A spasm of the heart had proved fatal. * * *

Six months later Nell and I were married. On our honeymoon we were walking in a lane near Ilfracombe, when we came face to face with Lord Lambton, who was stopping with his bride in a neighboring country house.

"Ah, Mr. Wade!" he exclaimed, "I haven't seen you since that very mysterious case of mine. Do you know I have always since thought of you—as—a—very—clever man?"

"Thank you," I said, quietly. "Will you allow me, my lord, to present you to my wife—the only daughter of the late Mr. Nugent."

Lord Lambton raised his hat, looked keenly at pretty Nell, shook hands with us both, and murmured:

"Ah, I understand."

QUEER STORIES

Professor Boofelt says: The average amount of sickness in human life is nine days out of a year.

Indians never use profane language until they learn English and become civilized. So says Bishop Leonard of Nevada.

A canary of Germany has been known to continue a single trill for a minute and a quarter, with twenty changes of note in it.

How fast can a bee fly? A hive on the roof of a train was carried at the rate of thirty miles an hour before the bees were left behind.

Clocks and watches are not so much required in Liberia. The sun rises, all the year, at 6 a. m., sets at 6 p. m., and is vertically overhead at noon.

Vegetarians will be interested in a new food, claimed to resemble ordinary meat extracts in every respect, that has been obtained from malt and hops by C. O'Sullivan, principal chemist at Bass' brewery. Nothing is employed in the preparations that is not a product of the vegetable kingdom.

The natives of Persia have an odd way of testing a carpet to see if it is a true Persian product. A piece of red-hot charcoal is dropped upon it, which leaves a round single spot. If the carpet is the first quality the singed wool can be brushed off with the hand without leaving a trace of the burn discernible.

In experiments with the compressed air pipes at Westphallan coal mines H. Schab has found that the greatest distance to which the sound of the voice could be conveyed in a straight pipe was between fifteen and seventeen hundred feet. For moderate distances a pipe of about twenty inches in diameter gave the best results, a slightly larger one being better for long distances.

The great cause of heat in a room is, of course, the glass, which, under the sun's rays, will become too hot to bear pressing the fingers. It is shown that those who cannot enjoy the luxury of an outside sun blind can extemporize a good substitute by simply lowering the upper half of the window frame, and turning the curtain outside. This not only screens the window, but creates a strong draught between the panes and the linen, and thus makes the glass comparatively cold.

The Sun Was Late.

They were telling stories about watches, and the man who always waits until last had just concluded a wonderful story of how a watch of the same make as the one he carried had disclosed an error in the fall of the time ball at Greenwich, England, supposed to be the most accurate time recorder in the world—when a minister spoke up. "That is not so bad, but they tell a story equally good on Dr. ——," naming a well-known Columbus divine. "What's the story?" he was asked. "Why, you see, Dr. —— owns a very accurate watch, of which he is quite proud. It happened one winter evening that he was looking over an almanac, as the sun was about to set. According to the almanac the sun was due to set in a very few minutes, although it was still somewhere above the horizon. Pulling out his watch, the doctor exclaimed, 'You had better hurry up, old sun, or you won't get down on time.' Since the almanac and the watch could not be wrong, it follows that the sun was behind hand." The minister's story was voted the prize, and no more watch stories were told that evening.—Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch.

Avoiding Dangerous Ground.

"That man Levoles never ceases to be a perfect gentleman," said an admiring acquaintance.

"Yes," was the reply; "he absolutely refuses to be led into conversation about the weather."—Washington Star.

Everyone puts off as much work for to-morrow as if he expected the day to be a week long.

So many people who start out to be great wind up as gossips.

Kentucklans would never water their lawns if all flesh were grass.

ATTIRE FOR AUTUMN.

LATEST MODES SANCTIONED BY DAME FASHION.

It Is Time to Give Serious Consideration to the Matter of Wraps—Some of the Newest Ones—Indoor and Outdoor Dresses.

New York correspondence:

IT is a great satisfaction, now that hot weather is past, to get into and to view new clothes. Opportunities for almost exclusive possession, for a time at least, of the new fancies exist in all grades of dressing. An instance is the gown of the initial picture, which is a successor to the suits that were freely trimmed with tucking. The newer idea trims cloth with bands of cloth in a contrasting shade secured to the gown by fancy stitches recalling the "cat stitch" and "fairy scroll" of bygone days. Such stitching is done heavily and by machine, but the effect is beautiful. This gown was hunter's green, the skirt of the smooth cloth, plain except that the seams were strapped with bands of deep red French felt (a very light weight material of almost broadcloth texture. The bands were stitched down with black cat stitching.

Fascinating as are gowns for the mid-season, it is already time to give serious consideration to wraps. The ulster is in great favor since round waist garments and bloused fronts are tabooed. The Newmarket ulster—that is, something fitting as much like an umbrella cover as possible—seems likely to come our way soon. Meanwhile, since any variation on that slim-plainness is welcome, a long coat in Newmarket outline is attractive. It has a band finish just below the hips, and is open up the front to the bust line, where the buttons begin. A turned away collar shows the under bodice again at the neck. Such a coat of serge or light weight cloaking is just the thing for early fall and can be laid away for early spring. That pictured at the left in the next illustration was bright blue serge with finish of black stitched gray felt.

TWO WRAPS AND TWO GOWNS THAT WERE NOVEL.

Where the outer garment is to count less for warmth than as a beautifying accessory, resort is frequently had to little waistcoat jackets that recall the Eton. These are often of bright plaid, as was the one sketched here. This one, like most of its kind, fitted closely, being buttoned only across the chest and cut away below. Such jackets clear the waist line all around, have epaulette extensions at the shoulders and fasten at the neck with a simple and rather low band that is quite hidden by the big soft gauze scarf and chin bow. This jacket of leaf brown ground barred gayly with orange, scarlet and dark green was lined with bright green silk and was worn over a close fitting gown whose brown bodice was stitched heavily with black. Skirt and sleeves of the dress were entirely plain. The effect of the entire costume was charming, and the jacket may serve with other gowns. When planning something that shall have the look of a wrap, yet that shall not be essentially protective, don't fail to remember the chin bow. It is especially useful in autumn, when the effect of coziness rather than of actual warmth is needed, and fashion indorses it fully.

THE NEWEST BAND TRIMMING.

The novelties that will attract the tailor girl are in the way of modifications on gentlemanly severity. To the fore in this picture is a very pretty relaxation of strict tailor rules. It was in stone gray suiting, with skirt modish only in cut, but untrimmed. A perfectly fitting cutaway habit bodice was strapped at the edges with black and showed a dainty lawn tucked front of shirt pattern. This set over the fitted lining of the bodice and did not take from its warmth, though it gave the look of freshness so adored by tailor girls. Linen collar and stock scarf tied in front, and a tailor hat of the modified kind—that is, trimmed, but with severity—completed the costume, which the tailor girl is supposed to wear on her "off" days. On such days she can rejoice in a skirt that drags—and in her secret soul, believe it, she does rejoice—though when she has on her correct regalia she may make remarks about unsanitary trailing clothing. The costume pictured will especially delight the girl of tailor tendencies by its parade of pockets.

Gowns for making calls and church going are pretty enough to lead women to cultivating a calling list or engaging in church work. They are in great variety, too, though most of them can be divided up into classes whose units have more or less relation to each other. Over such gowns, the calling dress the artist puts here has an advantage. It is so freshly from its designer's hands that modifications of it have not yet appeared. It was made of dull red silk-faced cloth. The skirt opened in petticoat fashion to show a front panel of the fashionable gray broadcloth so much used for finishing gowns. The bodice opened to match the skirt, both panels narrowing to a point at the waist, the upper one widening to yoke outline above. The red cloth was self-trimmed on skirt, bodice and sleeves with bias folds set on with just a little fullness. The gray panels are edged with points of red cloth stitched with black, elaboration of this kind being a feature of the season's dressmaking. A hat of felt braid, of severe and down-tipped sailor shape, had a bow of stiffened black moire ribbon and was lifted at the back by great bunches of red purple violets set thick in natural green leaves. The lining of this gown was black taffeta.

There is no end as yet to the liking for band trimming. Braid and plain velvet ribbons have had their busy day and now are resting. Trimmings still appear, however, that are employed much as these garnitures were, but are of new sorts. Rose colored ribbon, edged and striped with black, is one of these newcomers. One method of its employment is made clear in the next picture. The ribbon was set on by one edge, and entirely covered the bodice except where the rose cashmere of which the dress was made showed at yoke and sleeve caps. There it was stitched with scrolls of white silk. The yoke extended in a little side frill, which marked the opening of the bodice. Black satin ribbon edged yoke and bodice opening, and there was a perky bow at the head of the frill. The sleeves were covered with flat bands of the rose ribbon to match the rest, and at the wrist had only a black satin band. The skirt shows the same treatment, being trimmed about hips and hem with several rows of ribbon.

Copyright, 1898.

Where Doctor's Don't Send Bills.

The doctors of Sweden never send bills to their patients. If you have occasion to call a physician you will find him not only skillful in his profession, but a highly educated and honorable gentleman. You will also have a proof of the honesty of the Swedes and their friendly confidence in each other.

What you shall pay your physician is left entirely to your own choice. The rich may pay him liberally, whether they have need [illegible]ices or not, if he has one[illegible] by them. The poo[illegible] small sum, and the [illegible]ing. Yet he visit[illegible]ly as he does the [illegible]

A similar [illegible] prevailed up to the middle of the present century in some of the most remote portions of the Highlands of Scotlands. There the doctor collected his entire year's bills on a certain market day in summer, getting perhaps five or ten pounds from the larger farmers, but only as many shillings from the poorer crofters.—London Answers.

Experience Missed.

"Has he had any real, practical experience in the theatrical business?" asked the manager, who was looking for an assistant.

"No," replied Mr. Stonington Barnes, thoughtfully, "I can't say he has. He has been connected with the profession a long time, but he never, to my knowledge, was with an attraction that didn't make money enough to pay its expenses."—Washington Star.

Strength of a Spider's Web.

Size for size, the thread of a spider silk is decidedly tougher than one of steel. An ordinary thread will bear a weight of three grains. This is about 50 per cent. stronger than a steel thread of the same thickness.

OUR SUNDAY SERMONS

A FEW SUBJECTS FOR ALL TO PONDER OVER.

Words of Wisdom, and Thoughts Worth Pondering Upon Spiritual and Moral Subjects—Gathered from the Religious and Secular Press.

THE habit of magnifying trifling matters is very common. Most of us regard it as a weakness rather than a sin. Certainly it is a weakness. But it is also a sin. It involves self-deception of others. It is a violation of truth. It means the substitution as an object of thought and endeavor of something of little consequence for something of real importance, as if their actual value were reversed. It causes distorted views of life, misdirected effort, unsatisfying results and mental and spiritual unhappiness. They who are guilty of it soon lose the confidence of others in some measure because it becomes evident that their judgment cannot be trusted, even if nothing worse is believed of them. More is involved than the mere loss of the habit of accuracy. The habitual lack of just discrimination, the growth of a weakened and misleading sense of proportion—these affect the moral quality of life. Evils lose something, if not the whole, of their sinful quality and the good is not sure of being recognized and honored for what it is. It is hard enough to do right when we know clearly what the right is. But when we have allowed ourselves to look upon minor matters as vital, it becomes much more difficult to be sure of duty and do it.

Hallelujah!

(If God shall succeed, universal salvation will be the final result.—Rev. Dr. Gordon at Plymouth Church Memorial.)

It is coming! It is coming! That of which our fathers dreamed,
When the morning light of wisdom
through the mists of error streamed,
And inspired their lips to prophesy a universe redeemed—
The truth is marching on!

While they labored, while they waited,
while they bore the bigot's scorn,
While they hailed with hearts elated souls
from doubt and fear new-born,
Seed they sowed in trust was quickening, spite of choking tare and thorn—
The truth is marching on!

While men bowed in outer darkness, and mistook their hate for God,
While the innocent and noble bent 'neath
persecution's rod
And the pharisee thrust "sinners" from the holy way he trod—
The truth is marching on!

Spite of human halt and failure, spite of hearts that faint for fear,
Spite of hope that sinks discouraged ere its late desire appear,
Spite of souls that sleep, unmindful of the glory drawing near—
The truth is marching on!

Slowly fall the ancient shackles from the growing mind of man,
As his eyes take in the meaning of the universe they scan,
And God's purpose in creation stamps his vast redemptive plan—
The truth is marching on!

Then with ringing "Hallelujah!" send the word along the line!
It is dawning—the conviction that our race must rise divine.
It is coming! give him glory 'neath whose providence benign
All truth goes marching on!
—Christian Register.

Pain and Peace.

It is often surprising to see how much pain may be in the sensibility, and yet peace in the depths of the mind. In crossing the Atlantic some years ago we were overtaken by a gale of wind. Upon the deck the roar and confusion was terrific. The spray from the crests of the waves blew upon the face with almost force enough to blister it. The noise of the waves howling and roaring and foaming was almost deafening. But when I stepped into the engine room everything was quiet. The mighty engine was moving with a quietness and stillness in striking contrast with the war without. It reminded me of the peace that can reign in the soul while storms and tempests are howling without.—C. J. Finney.

To Love Them.

Every relation to mankind, of hate or scorn or neglect, is full of vexation and torment. There is nothing to do with men but to love them; to contemplate their virtues with admiration, their faults with pity and forgiveness. Task all the ingenuity of your mind to devise some other thing, but you can never find it. To hate your adversary will not help you; to kill him will not help you; nothing within the compass of the universe can help you but to love him. But yet that love flow out upon all around you, and what could harm you? How many a knot of mystery and misunderstanding would be unfied by one word spoken in simple and confiding truth of heart! How many a solitary place would be made glad if love were there, and how many a dark dwelling would be filled with light!—Orville Dewey.

Useless Forebodings.

What a vast proportion of our lives is spent in anxious and useless forebodings concerning the future—either our own or that of our dear ones! Present joys, present blessings slip by, and we miss half their sweet flavor for want of faith in Him who provides for the tiniest insect in the sunbeam. Oh, when will we learn the sweet trust in God that our children teach us—we, who are so mutable, so faulty, so irritable, so unjust, and He, who is so watchful, so pitiful, so loving, so forgiving? Why cannot we, slipping our hand into His each day, walk trustingly over that day's appointed path, thorny or flowery, crooked or straight, knowing that evening will bring us sleep, peace and home?

A Good Man.

The good man is a useful man. He is not all ornament. He has his work to do, his place in society to fill, his influence to exert. He is truthful; others share in his goodness. He scatters blessings all along his pathway. He is no cumberer of the ground. There is neither a human nor a divine demand for his removal as useless. He is spared year after year on account of his productiveness. By his prayers, his instructions, his counsels, his example, his spirit and his deeds, he improves and benefits all who came within his reach.

Our Christian Officers.

There is probably no other country in the world that can show such a large number of Christian officers as are to be found to-day in the army and navy of the United States. Commodore Watson is a member of the Presbyterian church and is an earnest Christian. Captain Sigsbee, Captain Philip, Admirals Dewey and Sampson, Lieut. Hobson, Captain Mahan, Captain Higginson, and a large number of officers in the army, whose names might be given, are men of sterling Christian character.

Unselfish Love.

Wherever unselfish love is the mainspring of men's actions; wherever happiness is placed not on what we can gain for ourselves, but on what we can impart to others; wherever we place our highest satisfaction in gratifying our fathers and mothers, our brothers and sisters, our wives and children, our neighbors and friends, with whom, in our daily intercourse, we come in contact, we are sure to attain all the happiness which the world can bestow.

Bright Hearts.

There are souls in the world who have the gift of finding joy everywhere, and of leaving it behind them when they go. Joy gushes from under their fingers like jets of light. Their influence is an inevitable gladdening of the heart. It seems as if a shadow of God's own gift had passed upon them. They give light without meaning to shine. These bright hearts have a great work to do for God.—Faber.

A Stern Teacher.

God keeps a school for his children here on earth, and one of his best teachers is named disappointment. He is a rough teacher; severe in tone and harsh in his handling, sometimes, but his tuition is worth all it costs. Many of our best lessons through life have been taught us by that same old schoolmaster, disappointment.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

Turning from Duty.

When we turn away from some duty, or some fellow creature, saying that our hearts are too sick and sore with some great yearning of our own, we may often sever the line on which a divine message was coming to us. We shut out the man, and we shut out the angel who had sent him on to open the door.—Edward Garrett.

American Church Property.

The people of the United States have over $350,000,000 invested in church property.

Subjects of Thought.

The man is usually in the right who owns himself in the wrong.

A kind heart is a fountain of gladness, making everything in its vicinity to freshness.

If a man is busy, and busy about his duty, what more does he require from time or eternity?

No matter how many mistakes you may have made. The point is—what have you learned by them?

What men want is not talent, it is purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor.

The mind requires not, like an earthen vessel, to be kept full; convenient food and aliment only will inflame it with a desire of knowledge and an ardent love of truth.

God, having designed man for a sociable creature, made him not only with an inclination and under the necessity to have fellowship with those of his own kind, but furnished him also with language, which was to be the greatest instrument and cementer of society.

Be resolutely and faithfully what you are, be humbly what you aspire to be. Be sure you give men the best of your wares, though they be poor enough, and the gods will help you to lay up a better store for the future. Man's noblest gift to man is his sincerity, for it embraces his integrity also.

Has Lived 150 Years.

It is said that the oldest person living whose age has been proved is Bruno Cortrim, born in Africa, and now living in Rio Janeiro. He is 150 years old. A coachman in Moscow has lived 140 years. More people over 100 years are found in mild climates than in the higher latitudes. According to the last census of the German empire, of a population of 55,000,000, only seventy-eight have passed the hundredth year. France, with a population of 40,000,000, has 213 centenarians. In England there are 146, Ireland 578 and in Scotland 46. Sweden has 10 and Norway 23; Belgium 5, Denmark 2. Switzerland none. Spain, with a population of 18,000,000, has 401 people over 100 years of age. Of the 2,250,000 inhabitants of Servia, 575 people have passed the century mark.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25.....1898

The slow-going machinery of diplomacy is at times wearisome, at times exasperating. Its application is sometimes brought into requisition when a large proportion of the people affected would prefer to utilize a club. In the Philippines we are confronted by a situation of this charactes. Aguinaldo and his followers are sweeping over the islands with torch and sword, while 20,000 American troops are prevented, by diplomatic usages, from taking these boisterous and impertinent malcontents by the scruff of the neck and kicking them into deep water. Aguinaldo has become an insufferable nuisance. At the beginning of hostilities he may have been of some use to our forces, but it is improbable, in view of the man's past record, that any embarrassing promises were made by our representatives. The insurgent chief has been prolific in promises to the American commander, but in their fulfillment he has been remarkably inactive. This proves one of two things: Agumaldo is either unable to keep faith with us, or we are but another victim of his duplicity. In either event but one pathway remains open to us, and that is prompt and energetic use of sword and gun. Cablegrams bring the news of three Americans having been shot down by obstreperous Philipinos while the former were acting in the capacity of police officers. It is developments of this character that will create a sentiment of angry insistence upon the employment of force which will sweep the country from Maine to Mexico. Every day's delay bids fair to finally cost precious American lives. The insurgents are strengthening their position all along the line. Turn Otis and Dewey loose and cut the unbearable shackles of diplomacy at once.

The San Francisco Report, in its election-is-over observation, gives utterance to the following, which should meet with the hearty approval of the progressive citizen: "It is just as well for people to bear in mind the thoroughly demonstrated fact that the election is over, and they are therefore free to talk on other topics. The future of this great and glorious State is so promising that that topic should have a distinctive charm for people who believe in State progress. Now that the work of shouting for favorite candidates and candidate friends has been finished, and further attempted work in that direction is worse than waste, people should shout for the State. There is plenty of work to be done in the way of State development, and, thanks to the Valley road, this work is well under way. Therefore the people as a people have no excuse for letting matters drift along in the old groove and should get out and hustle.

The riots at Wilmington, N. C., which resulted in the death of several negroes when considered in connection with the trouble between the colored and white miners at Pana, Ill., is enough to convince anybody that the race problem in this country is a serious one. As long as the conflict between the races occurred in the south the northerners thought the blacks were to blame, but now that a northern governor has established the remarkable precedent that colored laborers cannot be brought into Illinois to compete with white labor without the consent of the Governor of that State. It would seem that some sort of legislation will be necessary to keep the peace where negroes are brought into competition with white laborers.

It is pretty safe to say that no man in America has a better opinion of himself these days than Grover Cleveland. He can sit back in comfort in his New Jersey home and say complacently: "I told you so." Grover is not popular with his party, but it looks just now as though honors are even. The party is not popular with the people, and Cleveland isn't responsible for it either.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MINING and SCIENTIFIC PRESS

THIRTY-NINTH YEAR.

24 Pages : Weekly : Illustrated.

INDISPENSABLE TO MINING MEN.

$3 PER YEAR, POSTPAID.

SEND FOR SAMPLE COPY.

MINING and Scientific PRESS

330 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

BABBTT METAL.

In lots to suit, irom 1 pound to a ton

☞ Inquire at this office ☜

Record of all Votes Polled at the General Election held November 8, 1898.

PRECINCTS.

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Lava	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Taboose	Independence	Citrus	Georges Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Springs	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
For Governor of State,
HENRY T. GAGE	22	32	58	66	27	10	61	16	9	53	11	17	60	2	12	6	7		2	15	7	478
JOB HARRIMAN				1	1			1		4	1		3		1						1	13
JAMES G MAGUIRE	22	38	17	60	61	7	59	14	7	71	7	21	24	7	9	4	24	5	3	17	21	508
J. E. McCOMAS	1	3		7			1															17
Lieutenant-Governor,
JAMES ANDREW		3		3	3			2		6			1		1		1			1		21
EDWARD L. HUTCHISON	21	35	17	60	54	6	56	15	7	60	7	19	24	7	8	5	35	5	3	15	20	478
JACOB H. NEFF	21	28	33	64	39	11	61	15	8	59	12	17	63	2	13	5	6		1	16	8	479
ROBERT SUMMERS	2	4		9	3				1	2		1	1									25
Secretary of State,
CHARLES F. CURRY	20	29	28	71	43	12	60	15	8	45	10	17	54	2	11	5	7			12	7	456
EMIL LIESS	2	2			2			1		6			3		1					2		19
R. A. THOMPSON	20	35	19	53	46	5	56	15	7	71	8	20	25	6	10	5	34	5	3	15	20	478
J. W. WEBB	1	5	2	10	4		1		1	2			1								1	28
Controller,
EDWARD P. COLGAN	20	28	30	65	40	11	62	14	8	46	11	17	50	2	12	5	9			12	7	449
T. L. HIERLIHY	3	6	1	8	6		1		1	3		1	1								1	32
T. W. MAPLES	20	24	18	55	52	5	59	16	6	70	8	19	30	7	9	5	32	5	3	16	20	489
JOHN ROBERTSON	1	2		1				1	1	6					1					1	1	15
Treasurer,
E. M. DEWEY	2	2		2	3		2	2		5			4		1					1	2	26
WILL S. GREEN	20	32	19	50	45	2	50	13	7	69	8	19	25	7	9	4	34	5	3	16	21	482
TRUMAN REEVES	20	29	30	75	43	15	66	16	8	50	10	16	30	2	11	6	7			12	5	472
C. B WILLIAMS	2	6		7	4		4			1		1	1									26
Attorney-General,
H. P. ANDREWS	22	36	20	61	56	6	60	17	6	70	8	21	27	7	10	5	34	5	3	14	20	508
J. H BLANCHARD	3	8		10	9		4			4	1	1	1									41
TIRY L. FORD	18	27	28	58	32	11	52	12	9	45	9	15	54	2	11	5	7			13	8	416
A. F. STRAWN HAMILTON	1	1						1		5					1							9
Surveyor-General,
I. H. MULHOLLAND	24	35	22	78	58	7	64	16	7	73	6	18	39	7	9	5	34	5	3	26	19	549
J. GEORGE SMITH		2			2		9			7		2			1					1	2	19
GREEN SPURRIER	2	8		11	10		2	1	1	2		1	2				1				1	43
MARTIN J. WRIGHT	17	26	28	45	25	10	48	15	8	44	10	17	44	2	12	5	6			7	6	369
Clerk of Supreme Court,
LEMUEL D. BIDDLE	2	1	1	1	3		1	3		8		1	2		1		1			1		26
W. P. FASSETT	1	7	2	10	6		2		1	1	1	1	1									22
H. A. McCRANEY	22	37	20	58	50	5	56	16	8	46	7	16	29	7	11	4	33	5		15	20	446
GEORGE W. ROOT	19	24	27	58	38	11	60	11	8	52	5	18	50	2	9	6	7			12	8	429
Superintendent of Public Instruction,
P. B. GALLAGHER	1	3	1		4			2		2							1			1		15
THOMAS J. KIRK	18	25	24	62	34	9	61	12	8	56	9	18	54	2	9	7	7			12	7	420
FANNY M. PUGH	4	7	3	15	8	6	2			4	1	1	2			1	1				1	56
CHRISTIAN RUNCKLE	21	28	21	54	49	2	54	16	7	62	8	16	27	7	12	5	35	5	3	15	19	465
JANE A. ROULSTON	1	2		2	2		2			8	1	2			1							21
Superintendent of State Printing,
LEROY S. ATWOOD	2	4	3	13	5		3	1		2			1								1	35
A. CONTI		2			1					5					1					1		10
ALFRED J. JOHNSTON	18	27	26	56	37	12	56	15	8	49	11	18	54	2	11	5	5			10	5	445
E. I. WOODMAN	23	38	21	60	54	5	56	15	7	67	7	19	29	7	10	5	36	5	3	16	21	504
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court,
WILLIAM M. CONLEY	19	28	17	52	43	5	49	17	7	57	11	16	19	5	11	3	30	5	2	10	14	424
THOS. B. McFARLAND	19	28	22	47	37	11	46	12	6	50	7	10	41	1	9	4	4	1	1	9	2	343
T. M. STEWART	1	5	2	11	5					2			2									34
ROBERT THOMPSON	1	6	2	5	3		5			5		1	1		1							29
WALTER VAN DYKE	23	36	20	52	51	6	55	16	6	66	10	17	28	6	11	5	32	5	3	12	19	480
WILLIAM C. VAN FLEET	16	17	23	46	22	9	43	11	9	37	5	17	49	2	8	7	6	1		10	5	341
Representative in Congress,
MARION DEVRIES	23	45	28	69	68	10	72	18	7	77	9	20	35	6	11	5	32	5	3	14	19	576
FRANK D. RYAN	19	21	21	60	27	7	47	12	7	44	10	18	45	2	10	4	8		1	15	6	384
Board of Equalization,
GEORGE L. ARNOLD	20	28	26	68	41	10	63	15	8	54	8	19	47	1	14	6	9			12	7	488
T. O. TOLAND	22	35	20	52	48	5	53	16	6	68	8	16	29	5	8	2	29	5	3	15	19	464
Railroad Commissioner,
NEHEMIAH BLACKSTOCK	18	27	30	65	40	12	60	15	7	55	11	21	54	2	11	6	6			11	6	457
J. L. DRYDEN	21	34	18	56	52	4	57	14	6	66	5	13	29	1	11	3	35	5	1	14	20	470
State Senator,
GEORGE B. McCORD	23	34	32	70	47	12	71	15	8	66	11	18	52	2	12	7	11		1	17	7	513
H. L. PACE	21	31	16	55	50	4	47	18	8	60	8	18	28	5	10	3	30	5	3	15	20	465
Member of the Assembly,
P. H. MACK	22	30	21	66	55	8	58	15	3	72	7	15	26	6	11	5	30	5	4	19	21	494
FINLAY McIVER	22	36	30	64	42	9	62	16	12	59	12	20	59	3	9	5	11			9	7	487
Sheriff and Tax-Collector,
A. K. BRIGGS	15	5	2	19	16	1	7	1		2	2	1	8		1	1					1	82
A. M. GIVEN	20	42	28	68	46	8	61	15	8	63	9	18	41	5	8	3	12			10	9	480
J. J. GUNN	12	25	17	51	42	8	54	14	8	66	9	20	38	4	12	6	30	5	5	21	18	464
Clerk, Auditor and Recorder,
D. J. HESSION	29	43	31	79	65	10	85	26	13	107	15	28	59	6	14	8	33	5	4	21	22	659
J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH	17	18	20	54	31	7	36	4	3	22	3	14	27	3	8	2	6			7	4	287
Treasurer,
W. T. BUNNEY	28	41	28	88	52	8	95	11	11	57	13	24	55	5	10	1	12		1	12	10	503
S. G. GREGG	17	25	22	44	47	9	37	20	5	75	6	14	30	4	12	9	29	5	3	17	18	499
Assessor,
DAVID HOLLAND	16	22	31	51	15	10	73	12	8	56	8	22	55	4	14	5	12	2		22	17	450
W. W. YANDELL	30	48	19	83	85	7	45	18	8	75	10	17	34	3	7	5	30	3	5	8	10	553
District Attorney,
WM. D. DEHY	27	44	44	98	41	7	60	15	8	64	10	25	56	3	14	4	12	1	2	21	19	580
P. W. FORBES	18	27	27	57	60	10	59	14	8	69	4	14	32	6	8	6	30	4	3	9	9	424
Superintendent of Schools,
H. C. HAMPTON	27	42	18	69	67	10	65	19	12	76	14	26	32	5	10	7	33	5	4	19	21	579
J. M. SHANNON	19	31	30	68	24	7	58	11	4	55	6	12	50	3	11	3	9			11	8	434
Coroner and Public Administrator,
J. H. KISPERT	20	14	24	38	28	8	63	17	10	81	16	25	57	4	13	8	11		2	13	9	461
I. P. VANEY	24	34	26	89	64	9	49	13	5	50	3	12	21	4	7	2	30	5	2	16	18	502
County Surveyor,
W. G. DIXON	30	52	21	90	72	12	95	21	12	92	14	20	52	3	11	8	34	5	3	20	24	703
JOS. SEELY										3												3
Proposed Constitutional Amendments.
For Amendment No. 1	6	11	14	25	13	1	16	9	2	19	2	5	10	1	2		12		1	5	6	160
Against Amendment No. 1	15	15	8	38	24	5	26	4	10	40	5	18	24		5	3	17		1	9	7	251
For Amendment No. 2	17	30	19	48	42	7	27	9	5	34	3	18	40	7	6		15	4	1	9	6	347
Against Amendment No. 2	8	10	8	38	10	4	25	7	7	42	3	10	18		1	9	6		1	4	2	21
For Amendment No. 3	9	21	23	40	20	7	19	9	12	28	2	8	12	3	4	6	13		1	12	7	265
Against Amendment No. 3	9	5	5	30	14	3	21	6		41	4	18	28		4	3	5		1	1	4	198
For Amendment No. 4	5	13	10	26	17	2	22	8	4	25	1	12	8	2	5		10		1	8	6	185
Against Amendment No. 4	11	5	10	34	14	3	18	5	8	35	4	13	26		2	6	4		1	3	1	205
For Amendment No. 5	9	18	19	42	28	5	23	9	9	30	1	12	10	2	3	4	12		1	9	7	258
Against Amendment No. 5	10	6	5	30	14	1	18	3	2	35	5	15	24		4	5	2		1	1		1 1
For Amendment No. 6	6	19	20	23	27	6	21	6	6	41		11	9	2	2		13		2	10	6	228
Against Amendment No. 6	10	6	4	29	17	2	22	6	5	34	4	16	25		4	8	1		1	9	1	197
For Amendment No. 7	11	14	26	28	24	7	26	11	5	29	2	16	8	3	5	4	12	2	1	7	7	245
Against Amendment No. 7	10	12	7	38	14	2	21	7	7	38	4	11	28		2	5	2		2	4	1	214
For the Convention to revise Constit'n	1	12	6	20	14	1	10	1	5	18		4	8	2	1	1	9	2	1	4	3	133
Against Convention to revise Constit'n	7	8	7	50	23	7	21	15	5	28	6	12	19		8	4	3		1	4	2	234

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Lava	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Tabooe	Independence	Citrus	Georges Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Spring	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
Supervisor, 1st District,
N. J. COOLEY	16	30	18																			64
T. D. HARGER	18	31	6																			55
FRANK SHAW	13	12	29																			54
Supervisor, 3d District.
O. I. MAIRS							39	8	6	56	11											120
JAMES JONES							77	22	8	74	7											188
Supervisor, 5th District,
CHAS. ANTHONY																9	15		2	7	8	41
T. H. HENEBRY																1	27	5	2	24	21	80
Justice of the Peace, 1st Township,
T. H. WOODWORTH	39	53	35	113	81	14																335
CHAS. JOHNSON						1																1
Justice of the Peace, 2d Township.
A. C. McDONALD							50	16	8													74
R. ROBINSON							50	9	7													66
J. S. GRAHAM							16	2														18
Justice of the Peace, 3d Township,
A. V. DAVIDSON										103	13	18										134
B. RHINE										24	6	13										43
Justice of the Peace, 4th Towhship,
A. C. HARVEY													64	2	10							76
Justice of the Peace, 5th Township,
R. DECKER																6	35	5	2	18	23	89
J. H. TROTTER																	1					1
J. M. KING																				14	6	20
Constable, 1st Township,
GEO. L. DRAKE	5	14	5	25	19	3																71
MILBURN C. HALL	2	14	8	29	9	1																63
EDWARD SCHOBER	7	22	13	34	40	2																118
W. E. SMITH	6	21	19	21	26	7																100
DAVID J. WILKINS	27	4	7	24	7	3																72
Constable, 2d Township,
A. P. SMITH							85	21	10													116
V. G. SMITH							33	8	5													46
Constable, 3d Township,
JOHN KEEGAN										66	12	17										95
C. W. ROBINSON										62	6	15										83
Constable, 4th Township,
E. ELDER													61	2	11							74
Constable, 5th Township,
J. W. TROTTER																4	11			12	19	46
JEREMIAH FITZGERALD																	3					3
C. DOTY																	2			19	7	28

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND

U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRES Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Publi patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT,

STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station.

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me
je20 tf JOHN CLARKE.

MERCHANDISE.

NATHAN RHINE

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

☞ Our store is complete in every branch. Quotations furnished on application.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO MINING SUPPLIES.

PRODUCE BOUGHT AND SOLD.

We invite your inspection of our Stock and Prices before purchasing elsewhere.

WE ARE ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

NATHAN RHINE,

INDEPENDENCE. - - - - CALIF.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,
W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898

July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 975 56
	P A Chalfant, assessor	33 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collfees	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	69 30
	J H Shannon int on State land	35 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, Int State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
19	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Mallory, red	3 02
	Joseph Shelly, r'd	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards Int State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine Bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	284 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 98
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff, fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock Con M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John R Church on Lake land	123 16
	A R Schively on Lake land	338 63
		21 697 04
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 50
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax col fees	26 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 517 28
	Hospital	1 689 99
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	136 48
	Road Dist No 1	77 00
	" " 2	267 00
	" " 3	201 00
	" " 4	124 50
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 500 00
	" " "	5 00
	Sundry Sch'l Lib'ry.	6 00
	Liberty "	8 18
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Milton "	15 00
	County Sch'l Fund	16 00
		8 571 00
Aug.	Salary	1 024 98
	Road Dist, No 2	5 00
	" " 3	24 00
	General Expense	1 064 4[illegible]
	Hospital	65 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 706 96
Sept.	General Expense	11 3[illegible]
	Salary	1 024 9[illegible]
	Hospital Fund
	Fish Spring
	Round Valley
	Union
	Milton School Fund
	Tabooe	21 40
	Independence	164 15
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 000 00
	Fish Sp Library	8 00
	County Bond	1 500 00
	Cash	8 146 39
		22 733 20 22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	341 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 541 29
General expense		1 151 08
Hospital		259 12
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	253 17
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	304 51
Road Poll tax	2 55
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	294 87
Institute	5 00
Teacher's library	33
County school	26 85
Property tax	1 559 58
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	36 82
Bishop	21 17
Station	28 78
Warm Spring	43
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Riverside		64
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Spring	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Tabooe		2 50
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	500 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 33
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Tabooe	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	570 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25.....1898

Ben Yandell went to San Francisco last week.

A. O. Collins and wife spent several days in town this week.

The official returns of the late election will be found on the second page.

Dave Holland came up from Lone Pine last Monday, returning next day.

W. W. Yandell came down from Bishop last Monday, returning next day.

John Hunter left for San Francisco last Monday, where he will attend Business College.

The weather has been cold and stormy all the week with a light fall of snow in the mountains.

Thanksgiving day passed off very quietly here. There was no demonstration of any kind.

Are we going to have a Christmas tree this year? If so, let us begin early and make it a big succes.

The Baldwin hotel, San Francisco, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night, several lives being lost. No particulars have been received.

Sheep men are moving south in large numbers with their flocks. Good rains are reported in the foot hills of Tulare and Fresno counties.

R. Decker came in from Ballarat early in the week and spent a couple of days in town. Mr. Decker has been re-elected Justice of the Peace for the Fifth Township.

Rob't Arnold set out for the Panamint region last Wednesday, intent upon developiing his mining property at Gold Canyon and to look after his water interests in Surprise Canyon.

The horrors of the war are brought straight home to us this week. Mrs. J. J. McLean has received the sad news that her youngest brother has died of typhoid fever at Manzanillo.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Eibeshutz celebrated their silver wedding Wednesday. They were the recipient of many tokens of remembrance from friends in the form of a beautiful array of silver gifts.

R. P. Strathearn and J. A. Gibson arrived from Ventura county yesterday. Mr. Strathearn will return on to-night's stage, while Mr. Gibson will remain here looking after his cattle interests.

Messrs. Jones and Price of Ventura passed through town last Tuesday on their way to Bishop, near which place they have some mining claims upon which they intend doing assessment work.

George Drake brought Frank P. Blaisdell down from Bishop last Monday. The unfortunate man was adjudged insane on Tuesday, and committed to the State Hospital at San Bernardino. Mr. Drake will take him down to-night.

The Corbett-Sharkey fight at Chicago last Tuesday night resulted in a decision for Sharkey in the ninth round, all bets being declared off. This would indicate that there was a foul and squabble of some kind. We give it as our opinion that Corbett found himself getting licked and fouled Sharkey intentionally to keep from getting knocked out.

H. Levy gave a house-warming party in his new hotel building last Friday evening. It was attended bo everybody in this vicinity and a good time was had. The company danced in the large upstairs portion of the house, which had not yet been partitioned off. Ai midnight a ball supper was served that did great credit to the host's efficiency as a caterer.

The Reward mine has been closed down and in all probability it will be a long time before operations are resumed. The Superintendent, Ben. Hoskins, will leave for St. Louis next Tuesday and will endeavor to make some arrangement by which work may be resumed, but he is not hopeful of success. This is a piece of bad news for the community, as the Reward employed a number of men and consumed a large quantity of supplies.

Ballarat and Vicinity.

Superintendent Harrison is expected to resume operations on the Cleveland mine in a few days. As depth is attained the mine shows higher grade gold ore and width of vein increasing.

Mineowners in South Park District are in nearly every instance doing work on their claims and meeting with encouagement as their work progresses.

At Tuba and Jail Canyons all the mines appear to improve as depth is attained.

Two important sales are now being negotiated, and if brought to a successful issue lively times may be looked for before Spring.

At Mineral Hill Richard Day, Superintendent of a group lately purchased, is meeting with success in his preliminary development work.

John A. Shaw, in charge of mining property lately purchased by Kern county parties, seems to be very sanguine as to the future of the property he is managing.

Taken as a whole, the section has every indication of becoming one of the most important gold-producing sections of the State.

In anticipation of the needs of the camp, V. H. Cass is putting up a large-sized concrete building, and two other parties are making preparation to put up other buildings.

Board of Supervisors.

FRIDAY, November 18, 1898, 9 o'clock a. m.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to adjournment.

Present— Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Freeman, presiding.

Minutes of preceding meeting read and approved. The Board proceeded with the convass of election returns until 12 o'clock m., at which hour they took a recess until Saturday at 10 o'clock a. m. to await the return of Laws tally sheet.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESTION, Clerk.

SATURDAY, Nov. 19, 1898, 9 o'clock a. m.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Chairman Freeman, presiding.

It having been ascertained that the Laws tally sheet was returned the Board proceeded to finish canvass, and having completed the canvas of election returns the Board directed the Clerk to enter upon the minutes tablet returns of said general election held throughout the County of Inyo, State of California on November 8, 1898, as follows, to-wit. (See page 28.)

The Board then took a recess until Monday, November 21, 1898, at 9 o'clock a. m.

A. C. FREEMAN. Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

MONDAY, November 14, 1898.

Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, met at above stated time as Board of Election Canvassers, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Frank Shaw, J. R. Eldred, J. J. Stewart, Ben. T. Williams, and Chairman A. C. Freeman, presiding.

Whereupon the Board declared the following-named persons to have been duly elected to the several County, District and Township offices, and designated as follows to-wit:

Sheriff and Tax-collector, A. M. Given
Clerk, Auditor and Recorder, D. J. Hession
Treasurer, W. T. Bunney
Assessor, W. W. Yandell
District Attorney, Wm. E. Dehy
Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Hampton
Coroner and Public administrator, I. P. Yaney
Surveyor, W. G. Dixon
Supervisor, First District, N. J. Cooley
Supervisor, Third District, James Jones
Supervisor, Fifth District, F. H. Henebry
Justice of the Peace, First Township, F. H. Wordsworth
Justice of the Peace, Second Township, A. C. McDonald
Justice of the Peace, Third Township, A. V. Davidson
Justice of the Peace, Fourth Township, A. C. Harvey
Justice of the Peace, Fifth Township, R. Decker
Constable, First Township, Ed. Schober
" Second " A. P. Smith
" Third " John Keegan
" Fourth " Ed. Elder
" Fifth " J. W. Trotter

Board adjourned.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

A special meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, is hereby ordered to be held at the rooms of said Board in the town of Independence, Inyo County, California at 10 o'clock a. m. of Monday, 21th day of November, 1898, for the following purposes:

First, to consider an allowance for transporting the indigent children of Robert Harry, deceased, to school at Watsonville, California.

Second, to consider and allow all legal claims connected with and incurred on behalf of the general election held in said County on November 8th, 1898.

Third, to employ special counsel to assist the District Attorney of Inyo County in prosecuting actions at law to recover from the State of California all moneys that may be due and owing from said State to said County, and to fix the compensation of such special counsel.

Dated November 21, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN.
J. J. STEWART.
FRANK SHAW.
BEN T. WILLIAMS.
J. R. ELDRED.
Supervisors.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending November 24, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.273	21st
Lowest "	29.678	19th
Highest temperature	66.0	18th
Lowest "	24	21st
Mean "	42.1
Average dew point	14.8
Average humidity	34.1
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	36	N W 19th
No. clear days	6
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	1
No. rainy days	2
Precipitation for week	.06

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley.

HOTELS.

BISHOP HOTEL.

Nearly opposite Hughes' Stables. Bishop.

Completely Renovated, Refurnished

A STRICTLY TEMPERANCE HOUSE.

EUROPEAN PLAN.

OR WILL FURNISH

Regular meals for	25 cents
Board and Room, per day	$1 and $1.50
Board, per week	$5.00
Board, per month	$20.00

Nine New Rooms Have been Added

These rooms have perfect ventilation, high ceilings and are handsomely furnished. Apartments can be had single or en suite.

J. L. BOURLAND, Manager.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL. VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS	25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING	25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING	$2.00 to $1.50.

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS. COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House. New Furniture. Low Rates

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW, Proprietor.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on TUESDAY, December 27, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the E½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, Sec. 33, Tp. 12 S., R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: Henderson D. Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Notice of Sale of Real Estate

Notice is Hereby Given, that in pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 14th day of May, 1898, and of an order of said Court, made on the 26th day of November, 1898, in the matter of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, the undersigned, the Administrator of said Estate, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United states, and subject to confirmation by said Superior Court, on MONDAY, the 12th day of December, 1898, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Court House, in the Town of Independence County of Inyo, State of California, all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, at the time of his death, and all the right, title and interest that the said estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired since his death, in and to all those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, situated and being in the County of Inyo, State of California bounded and described as follows:

The N½ of NE¼ of Sec 5, W½ of NW¼, SE¼ of NW¼, NE¼ of SW¼, NE¼ of SE¼ and S½ of SE¼ of Sec 4, and W½ of NE¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 8 South, Range 36 East, M. D. M., containing 400 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M. containing 160 acres.

Also, all of Sec 16, Township 9 south, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 640 acres.

Also, Lot No. 1 and W½ of Lot No. 2 in NE¼, and NE¼ of SE¼ of sec. 5, SE¼ of SE¼ of Sec 5, SW¼ of SW¼ of Sec. 4, and W½ of NW¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 319 and 170-100 acres.

Also, the W½ of NW¼, and NW¼ of SW¼ of Sec. 19, Township 9 South, Range 33 East, and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 24, Township 9 South, Range 32 East, all of Mount Diablo Meridian, containing 192 and 70-100 acres.

Also, the NW¼ of the SE¼, and the S½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 120 acres.

Also, the N½ of the NE¼ of Sec. 19 and the E½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 18, Township 9 south, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, the SW¼ of the SW¼ of Sec 4, Township 9 S., R. 34 East, M. D. M., containing 40 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec 8, Township 9 S., Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Terms and Conditions of Sale: Cash, lawful money of the United States; ten per cent of the purchase money to be paid to the undersigned on day of sale, balance on confirmation of sale by said Court.

Deed at the expense of purchaser.

JAMES R. MOFFETT, Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased.

Dated November 17th, 1898.

SODA WATER.....

.....ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

No. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.

Will ship to all points, in first-class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,

Bishop, Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E

SURVEYOR

AND

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET,

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Sausage.

j19-tf

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE

TAILOR

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHNG OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY

L. MUNZINGER & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points Of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to L. MUNZINGER & CO. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

" ..... May 28th
" ..... Jul 2
" ..... July 30
" ..... August 27
" ..... September 24th
" ..... October 22nd
" ..... November 26th
" ..... December 24th

THOS. C. ROLAND, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff, vs. IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898. D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL] o21t5

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of Edouard Chenot, deceased. Notice for Publication of Time Appointed for Probate of Will

NOTICE is hereby given, that SATURDAY, the Twenty sixth day of November, A. D. 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, and the Court-Room—Probate—of said Court, at the Court House, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, have been appointed as the time and place for proving the will of said Edouard Chenot, deceased, and for hearing the application of J. E. Shepherd and W. L. Hunter for the issuance to them of Letters Testamentary thereon.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk. By C. N. ROSE, Deputy Clerk.

P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Petitioners.

Dated, Nov. 2d, A. D. 1898. nv4td

MERCHANDISE.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD, Independence, Cal.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

—Consisting of—

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
TOBACCO,
CIGARS,
WINES and LIQUORS,
FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

HORSESHOEING

AND

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

OFFICIAL.

ORDINANCE NO. 63.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:—

SECTION 1. All persons doing business in the County of Inyo, state of California, shall obtain licenses from the Tax Collector as follows:

SECTION 2. Auctioneers are divided into two classes, and must obtain license from the License Collector as follows:

1. Those whose average monthly sales amount to $2500 and upwards constitute the First Class, and must pay a license of $25 per quarter.

2. Those whose average monthly sales are less than $2500 constitute the second class and must pay a license of $6 per quarter.

SECTION 3. Persons engaged in banking, loaning money at interest, or in buying or selling notes, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of private persons, or in buying or selling State, County or City stocks, or other evidences of State, County or City indebtedness, or stocks, notes, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of incorporated companies, or in buying or selling gold dust, gold or silver bullion, gold or silver coin, are divided into two classes, and must pay licenses as follows:

1. Those doing business in the aggregate to the amount of $10,000 per quarter or over constitute the First Class, and must pay a license of $25 per quarter.

2. Those doing business in any amount less than $10,000 per quarter constitute the second Class, and must pay a license of $15 per quarter.

SECTION 4. From each proprietor of a billiard table not kept exclusively for family use, for each table $5 per quarter; and for each bowling alley $15 per quarter; but no license must be granted for a less term than three months.

SECTION 5. For the exhibition for pay for a theatrical performance, caravan or menagerie, or any collection of animals, circus or other acrobatic performances, vocal or instrumental concert, $7; and for each show of any figures, jugglers, necromancers, magicians, wire or rope dancing, sleight of hand exhibition, $5 for each performance. The provision of this section do not apply to exhibitions given for benefit of churches, schools, or other charitable entertainments by any amateur dramatic association or literary society of the town or district in which such exhibition or entertainment is given.

SECTION 6. Each pawn-broker must pay a license of $25 per quarter.

SECTION 7. Every keeper of intelligence office must pay a license of $10 per quarter.

SECTION 8. Every person who at a fixed place of business sells any malt or fermented liquors, wines or distilled liquors, whether on commission or otherwise (except viticultural productions when sold by the producer thereof, and fermented or malt liquors when sold by the manufacturer thereof, on the premises on which the same shall be manufactured) must obtain from the Tax Collector, and for each branch of said business, a license, and must pay quarterly therefor the sum of Forty Dollars; and every such manufacturer of any malt or fermented liquors, who sells the same on the premises on which such liquors may or shall be manufactured, must obtain from the Tax Collector, for such business, a license, and must pay quarterly therefor the sum of Twenty Dollars.

SECTION 9. Every person who at a fixed place of business sells any goods, wares or merchandise, drugs or medicines, jewelry or precious metals, whether on commission or otherwise (except agricultural or viticultural productions or the productions of any stock, dairy or poultry farm, when sold by the producers thereof, and except such as are sold at public auction by auctioneers under license) and all persons who keep horses for hire, except such as are used for the transportation of goods, must obtain from the Tax Collector, and for each branch of said business, a license, and pay quarterly therefor an amount of money to be determined by the class in which such person is placed by the Tax Collector; such business to be classified and regulated by the amount of the average monthly sales made or hiring done, and at the following rates:

1. Those who are estimated to make average monthly sales or hiring to the amount of $2500, or more, constitute the First Class, and must pay a license of $8 per quarter.

2. Those who are estimated to make average monthly sales or hiring to the amount of $1500 and less than $2500 constitute the Second Class, and must pay a license of $4.50 per quarter.

3. Those who are estimated to make average monthly sales or hiring less than $1500 constitute the Third Class, and must pay a license of $3 per quarter.

SECTION 10. Every traveling merchant, hawker or peddler who carries a pack, and vends goods, wares and merchandise, must pay a license of $5 per month; and every such traveling hawker, merchant or peddler who uses a wagon and one or more animals for the purpose of vending such goods, wares or merchandise of any kind, must pay a license of $10 per month.

SECTION 11. Every person who keeps a stallion, jack or bull, and who permits the same to be used for the purpose of propagation for hire must annually obtain a license therefor from the Tax Collector of said Inyo County, and pay therefor as follows:

1. Horses that are hired for the purpose of propagation by the season at $100 or more constitute the First Class, and require a license of $75;

2. At $75 and less than $100 constitute the Second Class and require a license of $50;

3. At $50 and less than $75 constitute the Third Class and require a license of $40;

4. At $35 and less than $50 constitute the Fourth Class and require a license of $25.

5. At $15 and less than $35 constitute the Fifth Class and require a license of $15;

6. At less than $15 constitute the Sixth Class and require a license of $10;

7. For each Jack, $10.

8. For each Bull, $10.

Provided, however, that each and every license granted under or by virtue hereof shall expire on the last day of December of the year for which said license was so granted.

SECTION 12. The Tax Collector of said Inyo County shall have the collection of licenses provided for by this ordinance, and it is hereby made his duty to collect the same; and any person required to take out a license under the provisions of this ordinance who fails or neglects or refuses to take out such license, the said Tax Collector may direct suit to be brought in the name of the County of Inyo, as plaintiff, for the recovery of such license, and in case either the said Tax Collector or the attorney for the said plaintiff in said suit may make the necessary affidavit for and a writ of attachment may issue without any bonds being given on behalf of the plaintiff, and in case of recovery by the said plaintiff fifty dollars damages must be added to the judgment and costs, to be collected from the defendant.

SECTION 13. The County Auditor of said Inyo County shall prepare and have printed suitable blank licenses for the said Collector to carry out the provisions of this Ordinance, with a blank receipt attached for the signature of the Tax Collector when sold.

SECTION 14. The said Tax Collector shall collect a fee of one dollar for each license sold, which shall be paid into the Salary Fund of the said County of Inyo.

SECTION 15. All money collected for license under the provisions of this ordinance shall be paid over to the County Treasurer of said County as other moneys and placed to the credit of the Salary Fund of said County.

SECTION 16. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after fifteen days from its passage, and Ordinances Nos. 43, 44, 47, 49 of said Board of Supervisors, passed on the 8th day of January, 1892, April 6th, 1892, April 5th 1893, and July 11th, 1893, respectively, are hereby repealed, and all ordinances or parts of ordinances of said Board in conflict herewith are hereby and all of them hereby repealed.

SECTION 17. This Ordinance shall be published with the names of the members of said Board of Supervisors voting for and against the same in the INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper published in the said County of Inyo at least one week prior to said publication to be made for said time, and before the expiration of said fifteen days.

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

[SEAL] Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk of said Board of Supervisors.

The above and foregoing Ordinance No. 63, was duly passed, enacted and ordained by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at a regular meeting of said Board, on the 15th day of July, 1898, by the following vote:

AYES—A. C. Freeman, J. J. Stewart, Ben T. Williams, Frank Shaw, J. R. Eldred.

NOES—None

A. C. FREEMAN, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California.

[Seal.] Attest: D. J. HESSIGN, Clerk of said Board of Supervisors.

Endorsed: Ordinance No. 63. Filed July 15, 1898.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	4.	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m
		No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m	5:50 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m	5:30 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m	3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	267	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound Houso with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—or soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:36 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:20 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for

LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with

CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains of Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leav promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $6 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with pain and nails $4.00

Manufactured by Paraffine Paint Co. 116 Battery St San Francisco.

Sample free.

THE COST OF FREEING CUBA.

The United States are certainly entitled to retain possession of the Philippine Islands if the peace commissioners so decide, for the cost of the war runs far into the millions, and the end is not yet. The money paid out reaches an astonishing total. To free the stomach, liver, bowels and blood of disease, however, is not an expensive undertaking. A few dollars invested in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will accomplish the task easily. The poor as well as the rich can afford it.

A mitigating Thought—"You must have been awfully homesick, John." "I was. If it hadn't been for thinking of the lawn-mower I don't believe I could have stood it."

DEAR EDITOR:—If you know of a solicitor or canvasser in your city or elsewhere, especially a man who has solicited for subscriptions, insurance, nursery stock, books or tailoring, or a man who can sell goods, you will confer a favor by telling him to correspond with us; or if you will insert this notice in your paper and such parties will cut this notice out and mail to us, we may be able to furnish them a good position in their own and adjoining counties. Address, AMERICAN WOOLEN MILLS CO., Chicago.

Wife—John, is it true that you invited our cook's soldier lover to my birthday dinner? Husband—Certainly. I did not want him to get the best morsels of every dish.

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208-212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

Cholly—Aw—I always pity a man who lives by his wits, doncherknow? Miss Sharp—I should think you would envy him.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Omens—"To snuff a candle out accidentally is a sign of marriage." "Yes, and to turn down a lamp intentionally is a sign of courtship."

We pay you $100 if we cannot prove that we can save you MONEY on everything you buy. We are saving the people of the Pacific Coast thousands of dollars every month. For full particulars, address, Gilbert Clements' Sons, 218 California St., San Francisco, Cal., Wholesale and Retailers of Family Supplies.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has been a God-send to me.—Wm. B. McClellan, Chester, Florida, Sept. 17, 1895.

No One Stopped the Stage.

The morning after the assassination of President Lincoln the telegraph operator of a small town in Ohio read a passing dispatch which conveyed the sorrowful information to him. This speedily spread through the surrounding country, and at 11 o'clock, when the mail train was due, nearly 100 men had congregated to buy a morning paper.

As a matter of course not a single paper remained, and all were in despair, until some one remembered that the postmaster was a regular subscriber, and that the mail bag must contain a morning newspaper addressed to him.

The coveted paper found, the aged postmaster proceeded to read to the people who had crowded into the long store the details of the murder. In the crowd stood a very patriotic but ignorant old man, who was ever making pertinent suggestions.

The voice of the reader faltered more than once as he read the account, now so familiar to all Americans. Finally he reached the point where it was said of Booth that he "shrieked out 'Sic semper tyrannis,' leaped on the stage and made his escape."

Throwing his old poke hat upon the floor, the patriotic old man lifted his hand aloft and shouted:

"Good gracious! Why didn't somebody have sense enough to stop the stage?"—Chicago Chronicle.

Corrupting an Echo.

At Killarney every visitor hears some laughable stories. Here is one—new and fresh, I think—which I picked up during my last visit to the glorious lakes: A number of boatmen who were quarreling about the division of "tips" indulged at the top of their voices in a good deal of profane language, which the marvelous echo repeated verbatim.

"Arrah, look at that, now, for a scandal," said one of the party who was of a pious turn. "T'achin the poor harmless echo to curse and sware."—Spectator.

Big Similarity.

"The minister and the policeman," said the young and cynical boarder, "are inseparable adjuncts of civilization."

"They are very much alike," said the cheerful idiot. "One is a pairer, and the other is a peeler."—Indianapolis Journal.

St. Jacobs Oil cures Rheumatism.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Neuralgia.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Lumbago.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Sciatica.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Sprains.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Bruises.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Soreness.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Stiffness.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Backache.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Muscular Aches.

A Popular Delusion.

"Did you read this, dear?" said Mrs. Grigsby to Orlando the other night. "It's a strange case. A harmless lunatic imagines that he's a grain of corn and will not go into the yard lest a chicken eat him. Isn't it an odd delusion?"

"Oh, the world's full of such delusions, dear!" said Grigsby. "I know a harmless lunatic who seems to imagine that she's a piece of cheese, and she will fly from a room when a mouse enters it for fear the little creature will devour her."—London Tit-Bits.

Do You Like Boils

If you do not, you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla and it will purify your blood, cure your boils and keep your system free from the poisons which cause them. The great blood purifying power of Hood's Sarsaparilla is constantly being demonstrated by its many marvelous cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure Sick Headache. 25c.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

And How Mrs. Pinkham Helps Overcome Them.

MRS. MARY BOLLINGER, 1101 Marianna St., Chicago, Ill., to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I have been troubled for the past two years with falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, pains over my body, sick headaches, backache, nervousness and weakness. I tried doctors and various remedies without relief. After taking two bottles of your Vegetable Compound, the relief I obtained was truly wonderful. I have now taken several more bottles of your famous medicine, and can say that I am entirely cured."

MRS. HENRY DORR, No. 806 Findley St., Cincinnati, Ohio, to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For a long time I suffered with chronic inflammation of the womb, pain in abdomen and bearing-down feeling. Was very nervous at times, and so weak I was hardly able to do anything. Was subject to headaches, also troubled with leucorrhœa. After doctoring for many months with different physicians, and getting no relief, I had given up all hope of being well again when I read of the great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing. I decided immediately to give it a trial. The result was simply past belief. After taking four bottles of Vegetable Compound and using three packages of Sanative Wash I can say I feel like a new woman. I deem it my duty to announce the fact to my fellow sufferers that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable remedies have entirely cured me of all my pains and suffering. I have her alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am grateful. May heaven bless her for the good work she is doing for our sex."

Growing a Grandmother.

He was a wee little man, only 3 years old, but very brave, courageous and uncomplaining, more courageous and uncomplaining than any one knew, for though he was only a baby he had trials to bear. The family had gone to a new country in the far west, the mamma, this little man, and the sister, a little older. It was a very new country, very different from the city in the east where they had left many friends, relatives and, nearest of all, a dear old grandmother. The mamma was so busy in her new home that she had little time for the babies except to see that they were clean and well fed. So they were lonesome, sometimes, as mamma found out one day in a way that brought the tears to her eyes.

The little 3-year-old had been very busy and very quiet making a big hole in the ground with such earnestness of purpose that she went to see what was being done.

The hole was completed when she reached the spot and in it had been placed something that she took out and examined with wondering curiosity. It was the strangest thing to go into a hole in the ground—an old daguerreotype, a picture of the dear grandmamma at home.

"Why, baby," exclaimed mamma, "what are you doing with this?"

"I fought," said the little man with a quivering lip and all the pent up loneliness and homesickness in his voice, "I fought, maybe, if I planted it annozzer grandma would grow."

Follow it Up.

Sit down and cool off suddenly, and then regret it, for stiffness and soreness is bound to follow. Follow it up with St. Jacobs Oil and you will have nothing to regret from a prompt cure.

Where Kentucky Language Runs Out

Baron Cassiers, one of the best known Frenchmen of this city, when he first came here made a trip to Lexington on behalf of a friend of his in Paris who asked him to secure a very fine horse. While in Lexington he was treated most hospitably. Although he did not speak the very best of English, he found himself getting along very handsomely with the Kentuckians. On the afternoon of the first day he inquired of one of his entertainers, "Should I desire to invite the gentleman to drink, how should I say it?"

The enthusiastic Bourbonite replied, "Will you do me the honor, sir, to drink with me, sir?"

"It is very good," replied the baron, "but if the gentleman asked me to drink what should I say?"

"The plan here is to slap him on the back, sir, and say, 'It gives me great pleasure, sir, to drink with you.'"

"It is very good," replied the baron, "but if I am satisfied and don't want to drink any more and wish to decline an offer to drink, what should I say?"

"You are a —— fool," replied the astounded Kentuckian. "There is no expression in the English language to cover that idea."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Australian Oysters.

The Australian mollusk is of two kinds—the mud oyster and the rock oyster. The former grows to a larger size, but the rock oyster is more generally esteemed for flavor. Their names indicate their place of growth. The rock oysters love the beds and adjoining rocks of tidal streams. They grow in clusters, in a variety of shapes and sizes, and each cluster is attached to something solid. Here they are alternately bathed in salt water and in fresh or brackish. They are also left for hours high and dry until the incoming tide refreshes them. Nor do these oysters always select rocks on which to dwell. These accommodating mollusks may frequently be found adhering to the roots and lower branches of the mangrove and other trees which delight in a sort of submarine residence. It is doubtless to this peculiarity that the sailor referred when he wrote to his mother at home, telling the old lady, and not untruly, that in Australia oysters grow on trees.—Chambers' Journal.

Rale Ould Irish Bulls.

One of the finest specimens of a real Irish bull was perpetrated by that clever and witty but blundering Irish knight, Sir R. Steele, when inviting an English nobleman to visit him. "If, sir," said he, "you ever come within a mile of my home, I hope you will stay there."

A rich bull is recorded of an alderman at cards who, on inspecting the pool, found it deficient. "Here's a shilling short," said he. "Who put it in?"

At the time of the home rule difficulty and when the cause seemed to be languishing a meeting was held, and one of the speakers thus addressed the audience, "Friends, the cup of our trouble is running over, and it is not yet full."—London Telegraph.

UNCLE JUDSON'S CRUST.

A DAPPER little man, with a silky, yellow mustache which curled up jauntily at the ends came out and closed the door softly behind him.

"Mr. Hardacre says he will see you in a few minutes. Will you be seated?" and the little man turned and began to rustle the papers on his desk as if he were very busy indeed.

Willis Everett dropped down in a chair close to the railing, fussed with his hat and watched for Judson Hardacre's door to open. He thought it was rather a cold reception for an uncle to give his nephew, and yet his mother had warned him what to expect.

"Your uncle Judson," she had said, "is very much devoted to his business. He has never in his life had time to give to his friends, and people say that he is crusty and hard-hearted, but I am sure that my brother Judson has as kind a heart as any man living, if only you can reach it."

Willis had come to his uncle as a last resort. He had just finished his junior year in college, and he knew that the completion of his course would depend on his own earnings during the summer. His father had been able to supply him with money, although not so liberally as he really needed, for the first three years of his college life, but hard times had ruined his business, and it was all he could do to pay rent and grocers' bills, not to mention the provision of clothing for the younger children.

"I want to see you finish up with your class," he said to Willis, "but it is out of the question for me to furnish the money. You will have to get out and see what you can do for yourself."

And Willis had tried his best to get a position. But he found that he was compelled to compete in this struggle for an opportunity to make a living with men older and more experienced than himself, who knew better what the employers required. One man said he would take Willis on trial, but he couldn't pay him anything for a few months; another said he had a position, but he wished to give it to a man who had intended to remain with him permanently and work up in the business. And so they all put him off, and now he was watching for the door of his uncle's private office to open.

He had not seen his uncle in several years. He remembered the last meeting without any exuberance of pleasure. Uncle Judson had called on his mother one afternoon, and he had come in warm and excited from a tennis game.

"What's that thing you have got in your hand?" his uncle asked, after his mother had presented him.

"Why, a tennis racquet."

"Sarah, can't you teach your children to go into better business than dawdling around in white trousers with a toy bat?"

Even as Willis thought of it now, he felt his cheeks tingle with mingled mortification and anger.

"Mr. Hardacre is ready to see you," said the dapper little man.

Willis stepped quietly into the private office. He saw his uncle at a handsome roll-top desk and glaring at him from under his shaggy, gray brows. He had a square, lean face, with a determined chin, and his hair was coarse and gray.

"Well, sir."

"I am in search of work," said Willis, somewhat falteringly; "my father can't supply me with money for my last year in college, and unless I earn it I can't go."

"That's just what I told your mother before she married Everett. Now that he has got a family of boys he can't educate them. But she wouldn't listen to any of my advice."

The hot blood surged into Willis' face. He couldn't bear this reference to his hard-working, noble-minded father, who had sacrificed everything in order that his boys might have their schooling.

"My father has done the best he could," Willis said, hotly, "and I can't listen to anything against him. If you have nothing I can do——" and Willis turned and started toward the door with his shoulders thrown back.

"There, there," said his uncle, with the trace of a grim smile curling his lips, "we'll let that drop. You say you are in search of work—what can you do?"

"Anything out of college," Willis said, "I can do 'most anything I set my mind on. I am well up in tennis and can win in a hard race, and I can clear a five-barred gate and leaping the pole, and all that sort of thing."

"Yes, sir," responded Willis, tempted again to turn and leave the room.

"Well, I don't happen to have any of those things in my business. You know I'm not engaged in the manufacture and sale of lumber. It's very prosaic—you can't wear white trousers—might get soiled."

Willis kept his temper, although every one of his uncle's words stung him to the quick.

"I understand all that," he said, "and I am willing to do anything from wood-sawing up that will enable me to save a little money."

"Wood-sawing, eh?" said Judson Hardacre, and the grim smile again curled his lips. "Let me see your hands."

Willis held out his hands—they were certainly rather small and white, although tennis playing had worn a few hard callouses on the right palm.

"I thought so," said Uncle Judson; "tennis hands, eh?"

"They may be soft now, but I assure you, Uncle Judson, I am not afraid of any kind of work which will help me finish my course."

At the sound of the unfamiliar words, "Uncle Judson," Judson Hardacre glanced up sharply, and then he said, rather more gruffly than before:

"Well, I'll take you at your word. Times are dull and I haven't much of anything else besides chopping and sawing."

Judson Hardacre pressed a button, and a tall, quiet man with a pen thrust behind his ear stepped into the room.

"Calkins, this is Willis Everett. He will go to work to-morrow morning at the Edwardsburg mill at $30 a month. He will board at the company's hotel. Have him report to Matthews. Let me know each week how he is doing."

"I'm very much obliged to you——" Willis faltered, hardly realizing that at last he had found a job.

"Don't thank me yet," said his uncle, almost gruffly; "you may not want to after you have been working awhile."

Willis went home in high spirits.

"Mother, mother," he called; "I've got a job at last—and a job from Uncle Judson, too."

That afternoon Willis packed his satchel and took the train down the valley for Edwardsburg, where the Hardacre mills were located. It was about twenty-five miles from home, and he had never been in the place except on his bicycle and he hardly knew where the mills were located. But he found them easily enough, and with them the foreman, Matthews—a big, red-faced, stoop-shouldered giant, with a voice like a foghorn. Matthews read the letter and then glanced at Willis keenly and half contemptuously, Willis thought.

"Well," he said, "be on hand at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, and I'll put you to work."

Willis found a place in the company's boarding house—a single bunk in an attic room with four other men. The walls were dingy, the floor was covered with coarse matting and the bedding did not look any too clean. One little, cobwebby window commanded a view of a vast heap of sawdust and slabs. Supper was served on a long table covered with oilcloth, and the tea was brought in by men waiters, who laughed and joked one another. The workmen came in with their sleeves rolled up and ate almost in silence.

In the morning Willis was set to loading slabs from the waste pile into a box car which stood on a siding near at hand. One man handed them down from the pile, a second tossed them into the car, and a third corded them up. Willis was given the easiest job—that of piling—but he was compelled to keep up with the other two. The slivers stuck into his soft palms and the jagged bark bruised his arms. Besides that, it was a hot June day without a breath of air stirring in the car. For an hour or two he stood it pretty well, but before noon he began to feel that he should drop in his tracks, but he was determined never to give up. He was a cog in the machinery of the mill, and he proposed to do his duty until he broke down. Never was music sweeter than the sound of the noon whistle. He wearily dropped the last slab and staggered into the dining-room of the boarding-house. At first he was too tired to eat, but he managed to swallow a little dinner, and by 1 o'clock he felt better. But he knew he never could last through the long afternoon at the same work, and it was with a deep feeling of relief that he heard Matthews order his crew from the car-loading to the sawdust chutes. Here he was required to stand knee deep in soft sawdust at the end of the chute, where the waste of the mill came blowing out in a dusty cloud, and shovel for dear life to keep himself from being buried. It was hot, wearing work, and by the time the afternoon was finished Willis was thoroughly discouraged.

But he was naturally vigorous of body, and, although his uncle had made fun of his tennis and foot-ball, he knew now how much good strength they had added to his muscles. He awakened the next morning lame in every joint, with his hands almost raw with blisters. "But I'll stick to it," he said, gritting his teeth; "I've got to get through college next year."

That day he was paired with a big, red-bearded Scotchman, and they were assigned to the work of trimming up some timbers with a long cross-cut saw. For a few hours Willis bent bravely back and forth. It was fearfully hard work, particularly because he did not understand the science of getting the greatest results from the least effort. Towards noon the big Scotchman, who had been watching him keenly, found that the saw would need filing. Willis never felt more grateful for anything in his life, and in the afternoon he was enough rested to continue the work.

I AM IN SEARCH OF WORK.

And so it went on day after day. Before the end of the second week Willis grew somewhat hardened, and although the work was still very hard he did not grow painfully exhausted. He also found that the other men were good-hearted, kindly fellows, and always ready to help him where they could. Before the middle of July, Matthews, the big foreman, had given him the place of checker and scaler, in the temporary absence of the regular checker. This was much easier work, and Willis did it with a quickness and thoroughness and kept his accounts so accurately that Matthews more than once grunted his satisfaction.

About this time Willis saw his uncle for the first time. Judson Hardacre came around with the superintendent, examining the work of the mill, and he must have seen Willis as he stood with his pad and pencil where the lumber shot from the whirring saws, but he gave no sign of recognition. It hurt Willis' sensitive nature, but he only set his teeth the harder.

"I'm making the money," he said to himself, "and I'm going back to college."

None of the men knew that he was Judson Hardacre's nephew. He had said nothing about it, preferring to stand on his own merits, and his uncle had been equally silent.

About the middle of September Willis resigned his job, much to the regret of the big foreman, who had come to like the clever, prompt young man.

"When you try to get a job somewhere else," he said, "just let me know and I'll give you a good recommendation."

It was said in a blunt, honest way, and no praise that Willis ever had received had sounded so sweet in his ears.

"By the way, Everett," said Matthews, as he paid over the last salary check, "Mr. Hardacre wished me to ask you to call and see him as soon as you get back to town."

Willis wondered why his uncle should care to have anything to do with him, but he called the next afternoon. He had grown brown of face and his hands were calloused and muscular. When he came in Judson Hardacre said, gruffly:

UNCLE JUDSON'S CRUST WAS BROKEN.

"Well, how much money have you saved this summer?"

"Nearly $75."

"Is that enough to take you through college?"

"No, sir; but I shall start with it. Father thinks he can help me toward the end of the year."

"How did you like your work?"

"Part of it I liked very well, Uncle Judson, but it was too hard for me at first."

At the words "Uncle Judson," Judson Hardacre looked up sharply. It was not at all usual for anyone to address him as a relative, and somehow the hard lines of his face softened and his shoulders shook a little, as if he were laughing somewhere inside.

"Well, my boy," he said, "you've showed yourself pretty plucky this summer. You've got the genuine Hardacre blood in you. Let me tell you, I've watched you a good deal more closely that you thought, and I like you, sir. Yes, I like you."

He held out one hand, and Willis, flushing red and then paling again, with surprise and pleasure, grasped it warmly.

"Let's be friends," said the old man. "I haven't many of them, and I need a good one," and his voice took on a half-pitiful tone. Then he changed the subject.

"Here's a check for $400. Get your last year of schooling and don't scrimp on the expenses. If you need any more let me know. And when you get through come back here. I've got a good place for you in my office, where you will have a chance to work up."

Willis stammered his thanks, and stumbled, half-dozed, toward the door way. His uppermost thought at that moment was:

"How happy my father will be."

As he reached the door his uncle Judson called after him:

"And say, just go ahead and play all the tennis you want to."

Uncle Judson's crust was broken.—Chicago Record.

AFLOAT AS WELL AS ASHORE.

Middle-Aged Man's Discovery of the World-Wide Use of the Buck Saw.

"The bucksaw in any mind," said the middle-aged man, "is indelibly associated with a sawbuck—the reach between the two X's half sawed through, where it had been scored by the saw dropping down upon it—standing by a wood pile in the back yard. There are chips scattered around on the ground, and scraps of bark and more or less sawdust.

"What brings all of this to my mind is the sight of a man sawing wood with a bucksaw on the deck of a schooner lying at a South street wharf, a stick of cordwood resting in the sawbuck, and the man with his knee on it and sawing away just as he would ashore. At first this looked strange; and so it does still to same extent. I had seen sawbucks and bucksaws on the decks of canal boats, where they looked natural enough, because the canal boat is usually close by the land, where one could step to or from it easily; but I could scarcely make the bucksaw seem familiar on a salt-water craft, because it seemed to me so essentially a thing of the land.

"Finally, I did make it seem all right on the schooner, though, by thinking of that as a vessel making short voyages and keeping near land, and hauling up, maybe, in creeks, close by the shore, and as being in various ways intimately associated with the land; but I couldn't think of it as being used at sea. But when I came to think it over I knew, of course, they must have some way of sawing wood aboard deep-water ships, and when I came to inquire I learned that the bucksaw is used afloat just as it is ashore; it is plied on a ship 1,000 miles at sea just as it would be on a farm."—New York Sun.

Pay of Actors in China.

In China a company of thirty actors can be engaged for $30 to play as many pieces as may be desired for two days at a stretch.

The elevator in a department store is merely a shop-lifter.

NATURE'S EPITAPH.

Who knows where the graveyard is
Where the fox and the eagle lie?
Who has seen the obsequies
Of the red deer when they die?

With death they steal away
Out of the sight of the sun,
Out of the sight of the living; they Pay the debt and are done.

No marble marks the place;
The common forest brown
Covers them over with Quaker grace
Just where they laid them down.

But a few years, if you see
In summer a deeper green
Here and there, it is like to be
The spot where their bones have been.

Thus, not more, to the poor dead year
No grave nor ghostly stone,
But a greener life and a warmer cheer
Be the only sign that he's gone.

—Christian Register

BURNE-JONES.

Rossetti's Influence In Causing the Artist to Hyphenate His Name.

It may or may not be true that it was Rossetti who urged Burne-Jones, when at the outset of his career, to connect with a hyphen "Burne" and "Jones," says William Sharp in The Atlantic. "'Jones' is nobody," Rossetti would declare, "only a particle of a vast multiple! But Burne-Jones—that is unmistakable!"

It was an amusing trait in Rossetti that he was wont to designate the good work of this or that friend as the work of—and he would mention the most distinctive name or part name of the person concerned. Thus he would say, "Yes, that is Burne-Jones, but this, this here, you know, is only Jones," or "That now is the real Holman Hunt, but this here is only Hunt," or, "You can hear Tennyson in that, but Alfred wrote the other lines."

I recall two amusing instances where Burne-Jones more or less unconsciously adopted the same method. He was asked once if he thought William Bell Scott more eminent as a poet or as an artist. "I never thought very highly of Bell," he replied. Then, seeing a look of surprise, added, with a humorous twinkle, "I liked old Bell Scott—old Scotus, as we always called him—immensely, and I think William Bell Scott wrote some very fine verse, but I always thought it was a pity that Bell took to painting!"

The other instance occurred when some one remarked to him that "Parnell was only an agitator." "Charles Stewart Parnell," he replied with emphasis, "was one of the greatest public men of our day and far and away the ablest Irish leader." "But Parnell," etc., resumed the objector, to be again corrected by the other disputant, "Charles Stewart Parnell," etc.

Seems to Get Ripe.

One complaint seems to get ripe in autumn, and that is neuralgia. To soothe the pain, strengthen the nerves and rid the system of it, use St. Jacobs Oil, the best known cure.

Appropriate Hymns.

Some people have peculiar notions of what is "appropriate." Some time ago a resident of a neighboring town was preaching at the Gladstone jail and prefaced his remarks by regretting the small attendance. At a race meeting held at —— a band was engaged to play "appropriate music," and it was found that the numbers selected were from Moody and Sankey. "Go Bury Thy Sorrow" was one of them, and the others were all equally "appropriate."

Christmas religious service was held at the local jail and hymns suitable to the occasion were of course selected. The first one was "Free From the Law, Oh, Happy Condition," and the last, "We'll Never Leave This Safe Abode, a Refuge In the Time of Storm." The funny side of it all appealed to some of the inmates, and the intended good effect of the service was lost.—Adelaide Quiz.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

The sooner the supply of seed corn for next spring planting is selected out and stored away the better. If left out and subjected to freezing and especially if damp the vitality is often injured, to the detriment of the next year's crop. Dry thoroughly and store away where it is safe from vemin.

SYRUP OF FIGS

NEVER IMITATED IN QUALITY.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS.

Gained 22 Pounds in 5 Weeks.

From the By-Stander, Macomb, Ill.

Alderman Louis W. Camp, of our city, has quite astonished his friends of late, by a remarkable gain in weight. He has gained 22 pounds in five weeks. Those of his friends who do not know the facts of his sickness will read with interest the following:

"I was broken down in health and utterly miserable," said Mr. Camp to our reporter. "I was unable to work much of the time and so badly afflicted with a form of stoamch trouble that life was a veritable nightmare.

"I tried various remedies, but during the six months of my sickness I obtained no relief. I had always been a robust, healthy man and sickness bore heavily upon me.

"About two years ago I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I purchased one box and received so much benefit that I used five more and was entirely cured. I gained twenty-two pounds in five weeks. Since I stopped taking the pills I have scarcely had an ache or pain.

Interviewing the Alderman.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills restored me to health and I most heartily recommend them."

L. W. Camp on oath says that the foregoing statement is true.

W. W. Mcloan, Notary Public.

Following is the physician's certificate as to Mr. Camp's present condition.

I am a regularly licensed physician of Macomb, McDonough County, Ill. I have very recently exmined Mr. L. W. Camp as to his general physical condition, and find the same to be all that could be desired, appetite and digestion good, sleeps well, and has all the evidences of being in a good physicl condition. Sam'l Russell, M. D.

Subscribed and sworn to before me his 30th day of September, 1897.

W. W. Mcloan, Notary Public.

Premature.

"You've kissed that young squirt good night and let him go, haven't you, Stella?" said a weary voice at the top of the stairway.

There was an awful silence for a moment, and then in a timid, hesitating voice the young man in the darkened hall below responded:

"No, ma'am, but I—I think she's going to."—Chicago Tribune.

This Seems Correct.

Riprap—The eyes are the windows of the soul.

Wigwag—Then the soul of the man whose eyes have been blacked looks out of stained glass windows.—Detroit Free Press.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnolds's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory

MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated
IXL TAMALES FRIJOLES CHILE CON CARNE CHICKEN SOUP IN CANS
Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.
If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.
ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.
Send For Catalogue
WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Trade Mark. Price $1.00
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right. Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Sea

HERCULES
GAS
ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 853. New Series No. 44.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 25. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., DECEMBER 2, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1496.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4 00
Six Months	2 00
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

OLD FOLKS.

Ah! don't be sorrowful, darling,
And don't be sorrowful, pray;
Taking the year together, my dear
There isn't more night than day.

'Tis rainy weather, my darling;
Time's waves, they heavily run;
But taking the year together, my dear,
There aren't more clouds than sun.

We are old folks now, my darling;
Our heads are growing gray;
And taking the year together, my dear,
You will always find the May.

We have had one May, my darling,
And our roses long ago;
And the time of the year is coming, my dear,
For the silent night and snow.

And God is God, my darling,
Of night as well as day;
And we feel and know that we can go
Wherever He leads the way.

Aye, God of the night, my darling—
Of the night of death so grim;
The gate that leads out of life, good wife,
Is the gate that leads to Him.

AN AIMLESS LIFE.

ANDREW FRENCH was one of those mortals who are so unfortunate as not to be dependent upon their own efforts for support.

Having graduated at college, he passed two years abroad, and returned to his native land uncertain whether he would be a physician, a lawyer, or a minister of the gospel, for either of which vocations he deemed himself equally adapted. For "business" he had no inclination.

As he lazily reclined in an easy chair smoking a fragrant cigar, his eye fell upon the following "ad" in a paper of that day's issue which he had been reading:

"Wanted—Intelligent young man, of pleasing address, to canvass for the sale of a domestic article on commission. References required, but experience unnecessary. Call upon or address Brown & Co., 15 —— street."

For a few moments he remained silent, and then muttered:

"I am not destitute of intelligence, and think that I can be pleasing in my address," smiling as he spoke. "I wonder if it would not be advisable for me to confer with Brown & Co.?"

He rose from his seat, started from the house, and wended his way to 15 —— street, where he learned that the "article" was a kerosene lamp appliance which increased the volume of light at the same time that it decreased the quantity of oil consumed.

He easily—indeed, greatly to the satisfaction of Brown & Co., when they had acquainted themselves with his antecedents—secured a situation as canvasser, and the next day left the city on his bicycle.

The first place which he "worked" was a thriving village, where his sales were few, and, despite his uniform courtesy, he was subjected to the repulsive treatment which agents are wont to receive. His next venture was in a rural district, where the houses were far apart, and he "wheeled" many miles without being allowed to even show what he wished to dispose of, as he was usually confronted at the door by some one who said: "We are not prepared to purchase anything of the kind to-day," or similarly.

"I declare, I pity the poor fellows whose bread and butter depend upon work like this," he frequently remarked to himself, laughingly.

Quite late one showery afternoon he reached a hamlet where there was no hotel, but he finally secured entertainment in a private family.

As he sat on the veranda of the house where he was temporarily domiciled, the first evening of his stay in the place, the tones of some one singing to the accompaniment of a piano were audible, and addressing his host—Thomas Marsh by name—with whom he had been conversing, he asked:

"Who is possessed of such a wonderfully fine voice?"

"It is the daughter of a man who lives in that house," Mr. Marsh replied, indicating with his finger the house nearest his own, "who is fitting herself to teach music."

"I should think her already fitted to teach it—vocal music at least," French observed.

For a few minutes he sat without uttering a word, and then he inquired:

"Are you willing to go with me a little nearer her house? I wish to hear her more distinctly, and were both of us seen by any member of the family I should not be deemed so impertinent as otherwise I might."

"I will conduct you into the room where she is."

"Will she not be offended if we go there?"

"She is not the kind of girl that is so easily offended."

Ten minutes later French had been formally introduced to "Miss Stella Reid" by Mr. Marsh, who said:

"Mr. French heard you singing from my veranda, and desired to hear you at a less distance, so I invited him over here."

"That's it," she rejoined, a flush suffusing her countenance.

"Now, please to favor us with one of your best selections," Mr. Marsh remarked, as he and French seated themselves.

Without a word of objection she played and sang several pieces, for which her visitors complimented her.

"Do you sing or play, Mr. French?" she inquired.

"A very little of both," was the reply.

"It will be no more than fair for you to take my place at the instrument," she observed, leaving the piano stool.

"I make no claims to musical ability, but will reciprocate your kindness as well as I can."

Taking the vacated stool, he played a fantasia so skilfully that she nervously said:

"I believe you are a 'professional.'"

"I assure you that I am not," he rejoined.

"Now you must sing," she said.

In a mellow tenor he sang a selection from Mendelssohn, so pathetically that tears filled the eyes of his hearers, four in number, as his unknown voice had drawn her parents into the room.

"You may 'make no claims to musical ability,' but it is yours," Mr. Marsh tremulously observed, "and, having it, I do not understand how you came to be selling——"

"Sh!" fell from French's lips, and the sentence was not completed.

He rose from the stool, and was introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Reid.

"How long shall you remain in the place, Mr. French?" Mr. Reid inquired.

"I cannot say exactly," was the answer.

"While you are here, I hope you will come in to sing and play as often as you can," fell from Mr. Reid's lips.

"You must, Mr. French," the daughter enjoined in an earnest tone.

"Thank you; I shall be pleased to do so," he replied.

Soon after he and his host left the house, and on their way back to the latter's home he explained how he chanced to be following his present vocation, causing Mr. Marsh to laughingly exclaim:

"Well, I declare!"

After breakfast, the next morning he said to Mr. Marsh:

"I should like to remain here two or three weeks; can you conveniently accommodate me for that length of time?"

"As well as not," was the cordial reply.

"Thank you very much."

For two—yes, nearly six—weeks he was a member of Mr. Marsh's household, during which he discontinued his canvassing and passed most of the time with "Stella," as he soon came to address her, while he to her became "Andrew."

They sang—she to him, he to her, or together; they played for each other, or duets, often having quite an audience. They rode, rambled, read together, until—what?

She was acquainted with his antecedents, and had been urgently entreated to share his future with him. Responding to this entreaty she said:

"If there is anything which I have always held in contempt it is an aimless life, such as has, confessedly, been yours. I think that my affection for you is as strong as yours is for me. As soon as you are independent of your father's assistance, and have some visible means of support, I shall not hesitate to say yes."

Within three months thereafter he had secured a situation as a teacher on a liberal salary. Then, in her home, at her request, with the hearty consent of her parents, they were quietly married.

After the ceremony, grasping him by the hand, Mr. Marsh said:

"It has turned out exactly as I thought it would, Andrew, when you two first met in this room."—The Newsman.

QUEENS OF EGYPT.

Females Who Ruled Over That Country in Ancient Times.

Women always stood on a level with men in ancient Egypt, unlike the custom of other eastern countries. They were allowed to rule as queens as early as the second dynasty. Their palaces were of bricks, adorned with gorgeously painted walls, rich carpets, rugs of fur, ivory and ebony chairs and couches. Till the end of the eighteenth dynasty there was little change in feminine attire, which consisted of a fine and often transparent linen garment extending from shoulder to ankle, supported by straps over the shoulders. Colored robes were not frequently worn—gay plumage was left to the men. Women contented themselves with blackening their eyebrows, letting their hair down and decking themselves with innumerable rings, chains and bracelets.

To one of these ancient queens there is attached a Cinderella-like story. Nitocris is spoken of as rosy-checked and flaxen-haired and was doubtless not a pure Egyptian. The story goes the king found on the sands of the Nile a tiny sandal and sought the maiden to whom it belonged and made her his wife. To her is attributed the building or improvement of the third pyramid, in which she is said to have been buried. She invited the murderers of her brother to a feast in a chamber below the level of the ground, caused the waters of the Nile to be let in on them and then smothered herself with ashes—an unpleasant method of committing suicide.

The greatest feminine ruler of Egypt ever know was Hatasu. She had a masuline brain, a strong grasp of affairs and a keen intellect, yet her statue shows a smiling, pretty face, well-formed lips and dimpled chin. She built temple and statues and sent out commercial expenditions and exploring parties. She wore male attire, put on ornaments and jewels which belonged to kings only, and, in fact, was often spoken of as the king.

Of course, Cleopatra stands out above all the numerous queens who ruled Egypt, laughed at it and created trouble and happiness at will, from the dim ages of mythology down to the Roman period.

The Kaiser's American Friend.

In spite of Emperor William's dislike of America he has taken a great liking to the naval attache of the United States Embassy at Berlin, Lieutenant Niblack. He frequently invites him to the palace, and they discuss naval matters with great informality.

Some men would rather be right than be President, but there are others who never make an effort to be either.

ELEVATING CHICAGO'S RAILROADS

ONE OF THE GREATEST-OF-THE-CENTURY WORKS

SOME stupendous undertakings in the way of vast mechanical improvements have been encompassed by Western railroads during the past few years. To a person unfamiliar with the details of the same an outline proves both surprising and amazing. The demand for perfect train service, roadway accessories that enable a correct calculation on small parts of a minute, convenience, comfort, utility—all are elements in the enterprise that thinks nothing of expending millions on placing the railroad on the most approved basis. The last and most important object of attention to engross railroad managements has been the advantages of track elevation. The enormous evils of grade crossings. It was found, had to be done away with—safety to life and limb insured to citizens, while the solving of the problem of rapid transit was also concerned—for ordinance has failed to restrict speed. Delays and interruptions to street traffic and travel will never be abolished, guards and gates dispensed with, length of trains regulated, the noise of bells and whistles mitigated—in fact, the elevation of tracks, as in London and Philadelphia—will place the railway systems about Chicago on a kind of automatic basis, so to speak.

Chicago is the greatest railroad center in the world, and its mileage of tracks exceeds that of any other city. Within the corporate limits are found 115 lineal miles of main tracks. This does not include every track of each system, but the real aggregate—from two to ten tracks—of each line as one. There are in addition 1,500 miles of other tracks—switches, yards, belt lines and the like. Nearly ten years since the public began to discuss how the great loss of life occurring to persons passing over these tracks could be avoided. Fences, walls, guards—gates even—did not entirely insure safety. Isolation seemed necessary. At one single crossing it was found that from morning till midnight 743 trains passed, with 3,952 cars. During these eighteen hours, 827 street cars passed, carrying 16,540 passengers; 2,232 wagons, trucks, buggies and other vehicles, with 4,464 drivers and other persons. People on foot aggregated some 20,000. This was at a point that, from the frequency of accidents, came to be known generally as "Dead Man's crossing."

The movement to force railroads to elevate their city tracks developed very rapidly after its first agitation. In 1892 the Illinois Central took the lead by elevating its ten tracks on the lake front for a distance of five miles. Vast pecuniary benefits immediately accrued to the road, for during the next year of the World's Fair it was enabled to almost double its speed in carrying passengers. The cost was something over $2,000,000, and the Northwestern road soon followed the example. Within three years the plan was in prospect or operation with nearly all the railway lines centering at Chicago.

The result is that skilled contractors have reduced track elevation to a positive science, Chicago mechanical ability bringing this about distinctively. The first venture cost extra time and money, being practically experimental. The methods then employed lacked economical results. Now, tracks are elevated with no interruption to traffic. The tracks are raised by jacks in sections of about 300 yards, and dirt is rammed under them. The elevation is so distributed as to allow a gradual incline from the surface level to the elevation grade. A clear idea of this method was furnished at one crossing, where hundreds of trains—freight and passenger—climed up and over the elevation in progress without mishap.

In building the big retaining walls to hold the sand or dirt, concrete resting upon a solid foundation of clay is used. In the process of formation, molds of heavy planking are sometimes employed, one side vertical, or nearly so, the other in a series of offsets, to give the necessary batter to the finished wall. Into this substantial mold is poured the concrete mixture, which is made to a consistency to adapt itself readily to the sides of the mold. Constant ramming insures the solidity of the mass, and fills all inequalities. The mixing and handling of the concrete is done by portable machinery, and the mold is left until the concrete walls have thoroughly hardened.

At one point where the tracks of one railroad had to be depressed under those of another at the same crossing, details were both skillful and interesting. Pilings were at first driven down, and the dirt was then excavated therefrom, it being necessary to put in several sets of pilings. At the proper stage of the work the tracks to be elevated were set across the depression by means of pilings fixed at intervals.

As closely as can be figured out at present, the total elevated and rock-ballasted trunk line trackage within the limits of Chicago, if stretched out across the continent, would reach Salt Lake City ten feet above the present trans-continental grade. In short, more than 1,500 miles of railroad would be inclosed within massive restraining walls at the average height stated above street grades. The great Gizen pyramid, which took 100,000 men twenty years to complete, cost $42,500,000. Owing to improved appliances in excavation, moving and filling, 15,000 workmen have finished the work of elevating the trunk railroads of Chicago in fourteen years, though the total outlay will be $7,500,000 more than was expended on the monster pyramid of the Egyptians, or, approximately, $50,000,000. In the 300 miles of restraining walls for the Chicago elevated grades, the largest blocks of stone are eight feet long, four feet wide and two feet thick, or a cubic contents of about two and one-quarter yards. The total cubic measurement of stone used in the grade walls and subways will fall little short of 3,000,000 yards. Of sand and dirt, mostly taken by trains from drives along the Lake Michigan shore, not less than 300,000,000 yards will eventually be packed into elevated grades. If the filling of the Chicago elevated trunk roads were raised and shaped compactly, it would form three Gizen pyramids, and a fourth one about two-thirds as large.

On many roads the task of elevation has been simple, but at "Dead Man's Crossing," as the district about Clark and 12th streets is called, since early spring the work in progress has marked some extraordinary activity and the evolution of many remarkable engineering problems. Here sixteen railroad rights of way crossed each other at street grade: the Santa Fe, Eastern Illinois, Erie, Monon, Wabash, Grand Trunk, Illinois Central, Michigan Central, Burlington, Madison, Lake Shore, Rock Island, Alton, Western Indiana and Nickel Plate. In this network of tracks many an imperiled citizen has been kept busy guessing which way to jump out of the way of cow catchers and bumpers, and the loss of life in ten years has been enormous. The work here has been more important and engrossing than at any other point of track elevation. Here labor has been the rule, day and night, rain or shine. The problem of so many lines crossing so as to insure noninterruption and absolute safety of trains, while prescribing open way for street traffic, was solved only after intricate calculation. No such complicated and busy railroad and street crossing exists in any other place on earth. It has been found necessary to raise two of the lines on a little island of masonry at the mouth of a subway. This subway, which is cement-walled, is graded four feet above the river, which is near by, and is perpetually drained by a pumping station constructed in the west wall. It will be crossed by six railroad bridges. Perfect security and facility of movement at the few elevated crossings remaining will be guaranteed by a system of interlocking switches, which will stop only one of two approaching trains, thus rendering collision impossible.

AT WORK ON THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL WALL.

SUBWAY OF THE A., T. & S. F. RY.

SAND TRAIN CROSSING CLARK STREET.

From "Dead Man's Crossing" out five miles, it is now possible to take a suburban train that runs at the rate of a mile a minute. Beyond, the railroads have combined to use a union depot. Here are yards with an area of fifty-two acres, containing about 13,500,000 yards of filling. They take the form of subways at an oblique angle, and are of exceptional length. The semi-subterranean highways leading up, including approaches, are about 1,000 feet. The cost of this piece of work is about $1,000,000.

Track elevation has come to be as important a plank in Republican and Democratic party platforms in mayoralty and town trustee elections, as the "clean street" plank. In Chicago, in the past four municipal elections, the track elevation idea was made conspicuous. This principle is spreading to other large cities and to towns. At several places tracks have been elevated to a distance of even fifteen miles out of the city, where they run through large suburbs.

Twenty-seven ordinances have been passed already, respecting the elevation of the railroad tracks, and during the present city administration an uncompromising determination and zeal to have the laws complied with has been displayed. Only one pugnacious company seemed disposed to hold aloof and fight. Drastic measures were adopted in treating with this corporation. Other roads commendably have hurried the work prescribed. Several of these corporations have not only crowded the improvements required of them, they have rock-ballasted their roadways into the very depots.

The following tables give a very clear idea of what Chicago has done and is doing in the way of track elevation. Here are some facts that very clearly outline the scope of the work done:

Total lineal mileage of main track inside of city limits of Chicago	115
Total miles of track elevation as per ordinances passed since 1892	51.7
Total miles elevated to June, 1898	19.0
Total mileage yet to be elevated	32.7
Total miles elevating during 1898	23.5
Total grade crossings eliminated as per ordinances passed	271
Total eliminated by completed elevation	86
Total yet to be eliminated	185
Approximate estimated cost of elevation under ordinances	$17,380,000
Approximate amount expended to June 1, 1898	6,000,000
Yet to be expended	$11,380,000
Amount expending in 1898	[illegible]

The following table show[illegible] has been carried out this [illegible] ous lines, as is now in [illegible] proximate cost to each, and the number of grade crossings abolished:

St. Charles Air Line and joint roads, eight grade crossings to be abolished—ten tracks, six of which are depressed eleven feet	$2,000,000
Pennsylvania Company, seventeen grade crossings to be abolished—two tracks	1,250,000
Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, eight grade crossings to be abolished—two tracks	1,600,000
Chicago and Northwestern, thirty-two grade crossings to be abolished—four tracks	1,200,000
Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, twelve grade crossings to be abolished—two tracks	750,000
Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, twelve grade crossings to be abolished—two tracks	1,000,000
Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, twenty grade crossings to be abolished—two tracks	1,250,000
Total miles of track elevation	23.5
Total grade crossings to be abolished	106
Total approximate cost	$9,000,000

The agitation of track elevation has been like a small snowball, set in motion and fast growing apace. As an economic feature of railway progress it has proven itself to be an adjunct not only profitable but in line with the demands of the age. The matter is one that is now occupying the interested attention of townships as well as municipalities, and the grade crossing is fast becoming a dangerous and troublesome thing of the past.

NORMAL AND ABNORMAL.

Difference Between Physical Culture and Professional Training.

Dr. W. L. Savage explains the difference between the trainer and the physical-culture man. "We take a man and build him up and make him a strong and useful man, one who, if he has the inclination, may become an all-round athlete. The trainer, on the other hand, takes a man who has an aptness in some particular direction and in whom some muscles are possibly developed beyond the normal point, and with a view to making the man still stronger in that particular part he produces an abnormal man. While the trainer is building up his man—or rather the strong part of him—the weak points are being neglected. While the strong ones are becoming still stronger, the weak parts, although they may remain stationary for the time being, appear weaker than they really are by contrast. The physical culture expert leaves the strong and superdeveloped parts of his patient alone and applies himself only to the weak parts—the others will take care of themselves. Take, for example, the men who have the bicycle craze. They have heavy thighs and calves, but many who have gained in that direction have acquired hollow chests, round shoulders, abnormal arms and weakness in the abdominal region. Now, we do not try to make such a person's legs stronger, but we do try by proper exercise to bring the rest of the body up to the thigh standard. After the whole body has been thoroughly developed, no one part at the cost of the other, then, if the man has a taste for sprinting, for jumping or for any other sport, he may safely place himself in the hands of a trainer, but without the proper foundation he would run a risk in doing so. The athletic clubs take care of that end of it, and with men in good condition they do good work."

The Flagellants.

The Christian sect known in history as the Flagellants arose in 1260 at Perugia, and spread throughout and beyond Italy. Its adherents, who saw a plague raging, and moreover expected the world speedily to terminate, believed that they could propitiate the Divine Being by walking in procession with only a cloth tied around them, and flogging their bare shoulders with whips, which they carried, and preaching "that without shedding of blood there can be no remission." At first they were noted for sanctity, and made many converts, but doubtful characters beginning to join their ranks, they fell into disrepute, and were restrained from their processions by the civil and ecclesiastical authorities, and the sect gradually died away. The terror produced by the dreadful diseases called the Black Death, which destroyed many millions of people in Europe between 1348 and 1351, caused a revival of the Flagellation mania, which spread over most of Europe, and was attended by greater extravagances than before. In the reign of Edward III., a band of 120 Flagellants made their appearance in London on a missionary enterprise. They marched in procession through the streets, singing hymns, and then scourging each other, trusting that the spectacle would prove contagious, but the sober-minded Englishmen could not be induced either to flagellate themselves, or submit to be flagellated by others, and the strangers left the country without having made even one proselyte. In 1349, Pope Clement VII. declared the Flagellants heretics, and took steps to repress them. The first leader of this extraordinary sect was a hermit called Rainer. In the fifteenth century their leader was Conrad Schmidt, who, with several of his followers, was burnt by the German Inquisitors about 1414. They existed in some parts of Italy until recent times.

Molecules in Gas.

It has been calculated that the number of molecules in a cubic inch of any gas is 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000, and in each of these molecules there are several atoms moving among themselves at the rate of 70 miles a minute.

Onions and Garlic.

There is a tradition in the East that, when Satan stepped out of the Garden of Eden after the fall of man, onions sprang up from the spot where he placed his right foot, and garlic from that which his left one touched.

He Wouldn't Understand.

Birdie—There's a Frenchman behind us; I'd better tell you this in English.

Bertie—On the contrary, you'd be safer if you were to speak French.

Sunday School Teacher (illustrating the "still, small voice")—What is it, dear children, that makes you feel so uncomfortable and unhappy after you have done something which you ought not to do? Dear Child—A lickin'.—Roxbury Gazette.

"Don't you think forty dollars a week alimony is a little too much to demand?" asked the referee in the divorce case, "when he is only making fifty dollars?" "No, I don't," said the lady. "That's what I used to make him gimme when I was livin' with him."

Lots of men who claim to be gentlemen don't work at it.

MONTANA "CATTLE QUEEN."

Mrs. Nat Collins, Who Has Had an Adventurous Career.

Mrs. Nat Collins, the "Cattle Queen of Montana," has had a varied career. In 1854, when she was 10 years old, she went West from Rockford, Ill., with her parents. Their journey lay across the prairies and they had some adventures with Indians before they finally reached the site of the city of Denver, then a small collection of huts. Here the family located and the men engaged in mining. Being unsuccessful they drifted about from place to place and thus she passed through the most exciting times and toughest towns the West ever knew.

When she was little more than 20 she married Nat Collins, a miner. He was no more successful than her people had been, and they finally decided to go into the business of raising cattle. They were immediately successful. Taking up a small ranch near Helena, their herd soon increased to such an extent they moved to northern Montana, where immense ranges were accessible, locating in the Teton valley. Mr. Collins was taken ill and the management of the ranch, cattle and cowboys devolved largely upon Mrs. Collins. He never regained his health and she has continued as the active head of the concern, adding to their fortune by her successful management.

MRS. NAT COLLINS.

NOVEL KEROSENE LAMP.

Will Interest Householders Who Use Kerosene for Lighting.

A Saxon lamp manufacturing concern has introduced a novelty which is interesting to the numerous households where kerosene is the only method of lighting. A kerosene lamp has been constructed in the center of which there is a small wick burning constantly at the expense of about 2 cents in twenty-four hours. The main wick is of the round pattern and arranged in the ordinary way, the small wick projecting a little above the round one. The wicks can be raised or lowered independently of each other, the adjusting screw for the little wick being placed within the one of the larger wick. This arrangement will be particularly welcome where the lamp is only used temporarily or where it is used as a night lamp. It is also made with a lever and chain arrangement, where it hangs from the ceiling at a height which makes it difficult to reach. When the small wick is once lighted all that is necessary to light the larger flame is to turn up the larger wick; this will light without the use of a match within half a minute or less. When the large flame is turned out the smaller flame continues to burn.

IT LIGHTS AUTOMATICALLY.

New Industry in Virginia.

A new industry in this country is to be established near Norfolk, Va. It is an institution for extracting the oil from peanuts. The prospectus of the company announces that the product from five tons of peanuts will be 225 gallons of oil, worth 50 cents a gallon, 3,680 pounds of peanut flour, worth 2 cents a pound, and 3,680 pounds of meal for stock feed, worth 60 cents per 100 pounds, which will make the value of the product $450 for each day's operations.

The peanut flour is used for making bread, cakes, etc., which are used in some of the hospitals in Europe. It is claimed that much of the castile soap of commerce is made from the oil of the peanut, and to that purpose the product of the Virginia mill will be devoted.—Waverley Magazine.

Offhand Sleeping.

A gentleman, over 50, says: "I cultivated the habit of sleeping offhand when I was a youngster," he says, "and have kept it up ever since. I don't go to bed or lie down when I want to nap, but as soon as I feel drowsy I put my elbow on the back of my chair, rest my head upon my hand and go off sound for five minutes. When I wake up I am in first-class trim again. I have got so used to that way of napping that if I lie down I am wide awake in an instant."

Hair Turned White.

The hair of a driver of a New York fertilizer wagon turned white suddenly, owing, it is supposed, to the effect of certain chemicals in the contents of his vehicle.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2 1898

The great problem which in the near future is going to confront the advocate of "imperialism" and its necessary consequence of a large standing army, will be the difficulty of securing for enlistment a sufficient number of able-bodied Americans to make a respectable force. Last spring Congress authorized an increase in the regular army to 61,000 men, but up to the present time the total number secured has not come within 10,000 of that limit. Plenty of men have offered as volunteers but few seem to desire to serve in the regular army aside from a limited class who can find nothing more profitable to do. The pay and allowance of a regular soldier exceeds that of a volunteer by several dollars a month, and yet General Greely is quoted as saying that enlistments are rapidly falling off and that unless something is done to encourage soldiering the regular army will never reach 61,000 men. The suggestion that Congress will either have to increase the pay of privates or lower the physical, mental and moral standard demanded of the men has been thrown out by no less an authority than Senator Hoar, who thinks that if the policy of "imperialism" is finally adopted the regular army will have to be increased to 150,000. The fact seems to be that first-class Americans will not enlist for any other purpose save to fight. They want adventure, glory and distinction, and they do not wish to be sent to foreign countries to do garrison duty. This is shown by the fact that applications for discharge among the volunteers are numerous, one day recently having produced action by the War Department on as many as ninety. The enlistments fell off from 6500 to 2800 in October, and there are no signs that the regular forces can be recruited any faster than they have been. Nor is it at all clear that raising the pay of privates will tempt men to enter the service. The present wages of a volunteer are $13 a month, and about $15 for a regular. It is thought that an increase of $25 to $30 would draw into the service able-bodied men, but this is doubtful when it is considered that being sent away from the country is objectionable to nearly all men in the service, regular and volunteer alike. But if the United States is to have colonies, and a large standing army, the problem must be solved in some way.

An editor's life is not what it's cracked up to be. There are always those who will kick. For instance, if you put high jokes with whiskers on them some will say that you ought to be in a lunatic joint. If you don't print something to smile at, they say you are a pessimistic fossil. If you spread yourself and write a good, original article, they will say it is stolen. If you reprint an article, they say you can't write. If you say a deserving word for a man, you are partial; if you compliment the women, the men are jealous, and if you don't the verdict of the women is to the effect that your paper is not fit to use in the construction of a bustle. If you stay in your office, you are afraid to remain on the streets; if you do, you are lazy. If you look seedy, you are squandering money; if you wear good clothes, you are a dude, and don't pay for them. If you play a social game of any kind and get stuck, you are a fish; if you win you are a tin horn, and so it goes through one continual round of pleasant complications.

The Republicans are getting up a lively war over United States Senator. Grant seems to be in the lead, but he is viciously fought by the Call, while de Young of the Chronicle says nothing. It is said that votes will command a higher price when the Republican caucus meets than when Stanford was elected. Eastern Republicans are making Grant's fight and it is likely to force a combination between the other candidates in favor of a California man.

In the city of Rochester, N. Y., voting machines were in use in the late election, and within thirty minutes after the polls closed the result of the vote was announced. It is one of the certainties of the near future that these machines will entirely supplant the present cumbersome method of voting and counting.

For swindling the susceptible public two so-called pugilists the other night acquired $15,000 each. "What fools these mortals be" is still an apt quotation. Indeed, such fools are they that at the first chance they will be taken in again.

Constable Matthews of Milpitas, who killed an inoffensive boy, will go to San Quentin for five years. As many a better man has gone to the gallows for a less crime, Matthews might well while away his spare time in congratulating himself.

Spain has accepted our terms, but Aguinaldo shows a disposition to "break off negotiations." Aggie is playing for a cash consideration, but he is quite likely to get an artistic drubbing instead.

Some of the political unfortunates in this bailiwick have seemingly concluded to "take their medicine," but have as yet failed to acquire the habit of looking pleasant at the same time.

One man has gone crazy over the defeat of Corbett, but the defeated seems to keep his head all right and is probably even now planning how next to fleece the public.

Spain will get $20,000,000 for the Philippines.

Record of all Votes Polled at the General Election held November 8, 1898.

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Laws	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Tabosa	Independence	Citrus	Georgia Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Springs	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
PRECINCTS.
For Governor of State.
HENRY T. GAGE	22	32	23	65	17	10	61	10	9	52	11	17	4	1	11	7	7		2	16	7	478
JOB HARRIMAN				1	1			1		4	1				1						1	1
JAMES G. MAGUIRE	2	38	1	60	6	7	56	14	7	7	7	21	24	7	9	4	24	5		17	21	70	3
J. E. MCCOMAS	1	3		7			1															1
Lieutenant-Governor.
JAMES ANDREW		3		3	1					4			1		1		1			1		21
EDWARD L. HUTCHISON	21	35	17	69	5	4	54	11	7	6	7	19	17	7	8	5	23	7		15	20	479
JACOB H. NEFF	2	28	23	64	23	11	61	11	8	56	12	17	5	2	12	3	6		1	16	8	479	1
ROBERT SUMMERS	2	4		9	2					1		1	1									27
Secretary of State.
CHARLES F. CURRY	20	29	28	71	43	1	60	15	8	45	10	17	54	1	11	5	7			12	7	464
EMIL LIESS	2	2		1				1												2	2	16
R. A. THOMPSON	20	25	19	53	4	5	54	14	7	71	8	20	21	6	10	5	34	7	3	14	25	479	32
J. W. WEBB	1	2		10	4		1		1	1			1								1	2
Controller.
EDWARD P. COLGAN	20	28	24	65	4	11	63	14	8	49	11	17	5	1	12	5	9			12	7	449
T. L. HIERLIHY	2	6		8	4		1		1	2		1									1	25
T. W. MAPLES	20	24	18	55	5	7	58	16	6	7	8	19	3	7	9	5	21	5	3	14	20	459	40
JOHN ROBERTSON	1	2		1				1	1	4					1					1	1	1
Treasurer.
E. M. DEWEY	2	2		2	3		2	2		1			4		1					1	2	2
WILLIS GREEN	20	32	19	57	45	7	59	15		61	8	16	23	7	9	4	34	5	3	16	2	455
TRUMAN REEVES	20	29	30	75	43	1	61	16	8	5	10	16	5	1	11	6	7			15	1	47	9
C. B. WILLIAMS	2	6		7	4		4			1		1	1									2
Attorney-General.
H. P. ANDREWS	22	36	30	61	56	6	6	17	6	7	8	21	27	7	10	5	34	5	3	14	26	50	92
J. H. BLANCHARD	2	8		10	9		4			4	1	1	1									41
TIRY L. FORD	18	27	28	58	32	11	55	12	9	43	9	15	54	1	11	5	7			1	8	418
A. F. STRAWN-HAMILTON	1	1						1							1							2
Surveyor-General.
I. H. MULHOLLAND	24	32	23	78	58	7	64	16	7	73	6	18	21	7	9	5	24	5	3	20	1	549	140
J. GEORGE SMITH					2		2			2		2			1							10
GREEN SPURRIER				11	10		1	1	1	2		1					1					4
MARTIN J. WRIGHT	17	26	26	43	25	11	49	15	8	44	1	7	44	1	11	5	6			7		369
Clerk of Supreme Court.
LEMUEL D. BIDDLE	1	1	1	1	3		1	2		1		1	1		1		1			1		20
W. P. FASSETT	1	7	1	10	6		2		1	1	1	1	1									22
H. A. MCKANEY	22	37	26	58	50	7	56	16	6	60	7	16	26	7	11	4	32	5		1	2	48	57
GEORGE W. ROOT	18	24	27	58	38	11	66	11	8	55	1	18	50	2	9	6	7			12	8	429
Superintendent of Public Instruction.
P. D. GALLAGHER	1	1			4			2		1							1			1		1
THOMAS J. KIRK	19	24	24	62	54	5	61	12	8	54	1	18	55	2	9	7	7			12	7	439
FANNY M. PUGH	4	7	5	15	8	6	5			4	1	1	1			1	1				1	5
CHRISTIAN RUNCKLE	21	32	21	74	49	7	54	16	7	63	8	16	27	7	12	2	33	5	3	15	19	468	36
JANE A. ROULSTON	1	2			2					8	1	2			1							11
Superintendent of State Printing.
LEROY S. ATWOOD	2	4	3	11	5		3	1		2			1								1	34
A. CONTI					1										1					1		1
ALFRED J. JOHNSTON	1	27	26	59	37	1	59	15	8	49	11	18	54	2	11	5	7			10	5	458
E. L. WOODMAN	23	37	21	60	54	5	56	15	7	67	7	19	25	7	10	5	28	5	2	14	21	534	79
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court.
WILLIAM M. CONLEY	19	2	17	52	42	5	49	17	7	57	11	16	19	5	11	3	36	5	2	1	14	444
THOS. H. MCFARLAND	21	34	22	47	37	11	46	12	7	56	7	16	41	1	9	4	4	1	1	5	2	424
T. M. STEWART	1	1	1	11	8		4			1		1										44
ROBERT THOMPSON	1	1			2		5			2		1	1		1							20
WALTER VAN DYKE	18	32	20	55	51	4	55	16	6	66	10	17	28	6	11	5	35	5	2	15	19	480	56
WILLIAM C. VAN FLEET	16	17	23	4	22	1	43	11	5	27	1	17	49	2	8	7	6	1	1	1	5	341
Representative in Congress.
MARION DE VRIES	23	4	22	68	49	10	72	18	7	77	9	20	25	6	11	5	3	5	3	14	19	57	132
FRANK D. RYAN	19	24	21	81	27	7	47	12	7	44	10	18	45	2	17	4	8		1	15	6	384
Board of Equalization.
GEORGE L. ARNOLD	20	2	20	60	43	10	62	13	8	54	1	13	47	1	14	6	4			18	7	458
T. O. TOLAND	22	32	22	83	48	7	59	16	7	68	7	16	29	5	8	2	29	5	2	15	12	484	6
Railroad Commissioner.
NEHEMIAH BLACKSTOCK	18	27	20	67	40	11	60	15	7	56	1	21	54	2	11	6	4			11	6	457
L. L. DRYDEN	21	24	18	5	52	4	57	14	8	66	7	12	29	1	1	3	3	5	1	1	20	470	13
State Senator.
GEORGE B. MCCORD	23	34	23	7	47	1	71	13	8	60	11	18	52	2	12	7	1			5	7	473
H. L. PAGE	20	31	16	82	56	4	47	13	8	6	7	18	28	5	1	4	38	5		8	20	468	68
Member of the Assembly.
P. H. MACK	22	34	21	69	55	8	53	17	7	70	11	18	26	6	11	5	3	5	1	11	21	464	7
FINLAY MCIVER	22	30	30	61	43	7	62	16	12	56	1	23	59	1	9	1	14			1	7	457
Sheriff and Tax-Collector.
A. K. BRIGGS	15	7	1	1	10	1	7	1		1		1	8		1	1				1		83
A. M. GIVEN	2	4	23	69	46	9	61	1	8	62		18	41	5	1	3	1			1	9	480	15
J. J. GUNN	1	2	17	52	4	2	54	13	8	16	1	20	35	4	11	6	26	5	5	21	18	454
Clerk, Auditor and Recorder.
D. J. HESSION	20	4	31	7	65	10	8	20	13	107	17	23	56	8	14	8	25	5	4	21	28	69	112
J. H. SHOUTENBOROUGH	17	1	20	544	31	7	56	4	2	2	1	14	27	5	1	2	6			7	4	28
Treasurer.
W. T. BUNNEY	28	4	28	88	52	8	27	13	11	87	13	24	53	5	10	1	13		1	13	10	50	4
S. G. GREGG	17	32	22	44	47	4	87	20	5	7	4	14	3	4	12	9	25	5	3	16	2	455
Assessor.
DAVID HOLLAND	16	23	31	52	15	10	73	12	8	54	8	22	55	4	14	5	13	2	2	17	17	457
W. W. YANDELL	30	48	19	83	85	7	45	18	8	7	13	17	34	3	7	3	26	5	5	10	18	58	95
District Attorney.
WM. D. DEHY	27	41	44	98	41	7	60	15	8	63	1	23	58	3	14	4	13	1	2	21	19	18	86
P. W. FORBES	18	2	27	37	60	1	59	14	8	61	4	11	32	6	8	1	24	4	3	9	9	4
Superintendent of Schools.
H. C. HAMPTON	27	4	16	69	47	1	65	16	7	7	14	26	33	5	10	7	23	5	4	19	21	57	115
J. H. SHANNON	19	31	38	68	24	7	58	11	4	53	1	12	53	2	11	3	1		1	11	8	424
Coroner and Public Administrator.
J. H. KISPERT	20	1	24	38	28	8	62	17	10	8	11	28	57	4	1	8	1		2	15	9	46
I. P. YANEY	24	34	26	89	44	1	49	12	6	55	7	11	23	4	7	1	3	5	2	16	18	5	42
County Surveyor.
W. G. DIXON	30	52	31	90	73	1	95	21	12	93	14	20	58	3	11	8	36	5	3	29	24	7	7.30
JOS. SEELY										1												3
Proposed Constitutional Amendments.
For Amendment No. 1	7	11	14	23	13	1	1	9	1	11	2	5	11	1	2		1			4	6	14
Against Amendment No. 1	15	25	16	41	34	5	56	11	10	4	9	18	24		5	8	1		1	5	7	254
For Amendment No. 2	17	32	15	45	42	7	57	11	8	7	3	18	4	7	8		9	4	1	9	6	347
Against Amendment No. 2	8	1	8	5	15	4	55	7	7	4	1	10	1		1	9	4		1	4	2	21
For Amendment No. 3	9	21	7	4	30	7	19	1	1	2		8	13	5	4	6	18		1	12	7	263
Against Amendment No. 3	9	5	3	23	14	1	21	6		4	4	18	2		4	3			1	1	4	148
For Amendment No. 4	5	13	1	26	17	2	52	6	1	7	1	12	5	2	5	8	10		1	8	6	165
Against Amendment No. 4	11	5	1	24	14	3	18	7	7	1	4	12	27		2	6	4		1	8	1	23
For Amendment No. 5	9	18	1	4	38	5	51	4	1	1	1	12	16	6	8	4	12		1	9	7	284
Against Amendment No. 5	10	7	23	14	1	1	4	1	1	1	1	12	24		4	5			1	1	1	11
For Amendment No. 6	6	19	2	13	27	6	21	7	6	1	2	11	23	2			13		2	13	9	228
Against Amendment No. 6	10	4	4	23	17	2	22	6	1	2	1	12	16	2	4	8	1		1	2	1	197
For Amendment No. 7	11	14	23	23	24	7	26	11	7	23	2	18	7	3	5	4	12	2	1	7	7	243
Against Amendment No. 7	8	1	7	30	14	2	21	7	7	28	4	11	25		2	5			2	4	1	214
For the Convention to revise Const'n	5	1	7	30	14	1	1	1	5	15		4	12	2	1	4	3	2	1	4	5	1 3
Against Convention to revise Const'n	7	8	7	36	23	7	21	1	6	22		12	13		8	4	9		1	4	2	264

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Laws	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Tabosa	Independence	Citrus	Georgia Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Spring	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
Supervisor, 1st District.
N. J. COOLEY	16	30	18																			64
T. D. HARGER	18	31	6																			55
FRANK SHAW	1	12	29																			54
Supervisor, 3d District.
O. L. MAIRS							39	8	6	56	11											120
JAMES JONES							77	22	2	74	7											188
Supervisor, 5th District.
CHAS. ANTHONY																	9	15		2	7	8	41
T. H. HENEBRY																	1	27	5	2	24	21	80
Justice of the Peace, 1st Township.
T. H. WOODWORTH	39	75	35	113	81	14																335
CHAS. JOHNSON						1																1
Justice of the Peace, 2d Township.
A. C. McDONALD							50	16	8													74
R. ROBINSON							50	9	7													66
J. S. GRAHAM							16	2														18
Justice of the Peace, 3d Township.
A. V. DAVIDSON										10	13	18										134
B. RHINE										24	6	13										43
Justice of the Peace, 4th Township.
A. C. HARVEY														64	1	10						76
Justice of the Peace, 5th Township.
R. DECKER																		6	35	5	2	18	23	89
J. H. TROTTER																			1					1
J. M. KING																					14	6	20
Constable, 1st Township.
GEO. L. DRAKE	5	14	5	25	19	3																71
MILBURN C. HALL	2	14	8	29	9	1																63
EDWARD SCHOBER	7	22	13	34	40	2																118
W. E. SMITH	6	21	19	21	26	7																100
DAVID J. WILKINS	27	4	7	24	7	3																72
Constable, 2d Township.
A. P. SMITH							85	21	10													116
V. G. SMITH							33	8	5													46
Constable, 3d Township.
JOHN KEFGAN										66	12	17										95
C. W. ROBINSON										62	6	15										83
Constable, 4th Township.
E. ELDER														61	2	11						74
Constable, 5th Township.
J. W. TROTTER																		4	11		12	19	46
JEREMIAH FITZGERALD																			3				3
C. DOTY																			2		19	7	28

Watch this space for Rhine's announcement of holiday novelties.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending sept. 30th. 1898.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	530 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 56
	P A Chalfant assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collector	27 00
	to J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon lot on Bishop land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, lot State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Hicks, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Malloy, rent	3 03
	Joseph Shirley, rent	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	J H Edwards lot State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	2 4 60
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	6 98
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock & A M Given redemption	14 55
30	John R Churchman Lake land	123 16
	A R Schivelbein sale land	3 8 63
		21 [illegible] 01
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 [illegible]
	P A Chalfant, co. Assessor	377 [illegible]
	A M Given, Tax col fees	2 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	43 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine bd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 5 7 28
	Hospital	1 63 99
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	13 43
	Road Dist No 1	77 0
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	2 [illegible]
	" " " 4	124 50
	Big Pine Sch'l Bd	1 500 00
	" " " "	5 0
	Sunday Sch'l Library	6 0
	Library "	8 18
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 0
	Milton "	15 0
	County School Fund	16 [illegible]
		8 5[illegible] 0
Aug.	Salary	1 024 98
	Road Dist, No 2	5 0
	" " " 3	21 [illegible]
	General Expense	1 0[illegible] 4 4
	Hospital	[illegible]5 50
	Fish Springs	12 0
		10 [illegible] 6
Sept.	General Expense	11 3
	Salary	1 024 98
	Hospital fund
	Fish Springs
	Round Valley
	Union
	Milton School Fund	21 46
	Independence	161 15
	Big Pine School	1 100 00
	Fish Springs Library	8 0
	County Bond	1 500 0
	Cash	8 146 3
		22 733 20	22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	311 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 541 29
General expense		1 151 08
Hospital		2[illegible] 1.
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 33
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	2 3 7
" " " 4	86 22
" " " 5	50 [illegible]
Road Poll tax	2 5
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	292 87
Institute	[illegible] 0
Teacher's library	34
County school	26 5
Property tax	1 559 58
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 [illegible]
Irving	3[illegible] 2
Bishop	21 17
Swall	28 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Riverside		14
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Springs	1 55
Library	15 94
Tabosa		2 56
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	5 0 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 31
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Tabosa	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	136 71
Bishop	579 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 39
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Poleta	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Statewide	10 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Library	28 42
Tabosa	131 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and wild land	481 79
Round Valley School	120 43
Cash on hand		8 146 39
	10 425 17	10 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2 1898

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Hon Walter A. Lamar, Judge.

NOVEMBER 28th, 1898.

Estate of Edouard Chenot, deceased—Letters testamentary issued to J. E. Shepherd and W. L. Hunter. Order appointing A. S. Nibecker, A. A. Eibeshutz and D. Stubblefield appraisers. Order of publication of Notice to Creditors.

DECEMBER 1st, 1898.

Estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased—Hearing of petition for letters of administration. David Holland appointed administrator.

First Quarterly Meeting

Services for the week ending December 10th will be as follows:

Lone Pine—Saturday evening December 3rd at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. E. W. Van Deventer, D. D., Superintendent of the Nevada Mission will preach. Sunday at 10.00 a. m., Sunday school; 11.00 a. m., sermon by Dr. Van Deventer, followed by the administration of the Lord's Supper.

Georges Creek—Sunday-school at 1:30 p. m.. Preaching service at 2:30, sermon by Dr. Van Deventer.

Independence—Sunday school at 2:00 p. m; 7.00 p. m., sermon by Dr. Van Deventer after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered. Monday at 3:00 p. m., first Quarterly Conference. Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. lecture at the Church by Dr. Van Deventer, subject to be announced Sunday evening.

Keeler—Saturday December 10th at 7:30 p. m., services by the pastor at the school house.

All are most cordially invited to attend these meetings.

JOHN I. PARDEE, Pastor.

Peter Mecham has sold all of his cattle except a couple of milk cows to T. B. Rickey.

Sheepmen are passing south in large numbers. Ten bands passed west of town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Russell, formerly of Benton and well known in this county, have been divorced.

C. F. Fuller came down from Fish Springs yesterday and is spending a couple of days in town.

George Drake got back yesterday morning from his trip to San Bernardino with Frank Blaisdell.

Misses Effie Roeper and Edna Matlock returned home last Monday from a two months visit to Los Angeles.

Norman Mairs and Charley Rose arrived home from Los Angeles last Monday. The latter spent several weeks in the Southern metropolis.

Dave Holland came up from Lone Pine yesterday and is spending a few days in town on business connected with the settlement of the Van Dyke estate.

O. I. Mairs got back from Los Angeles last Tuesday accompanied by John Kispert. John spent several weeks in Los Angeles and he says there is a whole lot of fun to the square inch there.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Athletic Club is set for Thursday evening, December 22nd. There will be no dance as the whole evening will be devoted to musical, literary and athletic numbers.

Fred Wallace came up from Lone Pine on Wednesday and is spending a few days in town. Mr. Wallace has been operating in mining ventures at Darwin for several years past and has great faith in the future of that camp.

W. Rowan went south on Wednesday with three big teams loaded with hay which he will leave at stations along the road. Gilbert Bourland started down to day with a big herd of horses belonging to parties in Ventura and other parts of southern California. Mr Bourland and Mr. Rowan have had the horses here on pasture during the summer.

Grand Jury

The following-named persons have been selected as a Grand Jury which will meet at Independence on Tuesday next:

John Fichman	Keeler
James E. Shepherd	Georges Creek
John Kispert	" "
John A. Doty	Lairs
Jacob A. Pfohl	Citrus
Charles H. Parsons	Bishop
Andrew Doll	"
Charles A. McKay	"
Augustus A. Cashbaugh	"
Abney L. McGee	"
William Watterson	"
Cyrus B. Rawson	"
Robert H. Blake	Big Pine
Daniel Hall	" "
Albert Halverson	" "
C. L. Myers	" "
Johnathan W. McClurry	" "
Frederick W. Conn	" "
August Stecker	Independence
Henry Giles	"
Elijah Robinson	"
Thomas Webb	"
William F. Matlack	"
John R. Turner	Lone Pine
Edwin H. Edwards	" "
Josiah G. Dodge	" "
Robert Lowe	Lincoln
August Walker	Olancha
Albert A. Neil	Taboose

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending December 1, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.276	25th
Lowest "	29.917	29th
Highest temperature	69.0	29th
Lowest "	25	27th
Mean "	52.8
Average dew point	15.1
Average humidity	34.9
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	36	N W 25th
No. clear days	5
No. part cloudy days	2
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	1
Precipitation for week	.04

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

Board of Supervisors.

MONDAY, November 21, 1898.
9 o'clock a. m.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California met at above stated time pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Supervisors Shaw, Eldred, Stewart, Williams and Chairman Freeman.

The matter of appointing and fixing the compensation of a County Stock Inspector for Inyo county laid over till next regular meeting.

Clerk directed to advertise for proposals for building branch jail at the town of Lone Pine and also one at the town of Big Pine. Said proposals to be published for two weeks and to be opened on Thursday, January 5, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Ordered that the sum of $40.00 be allowed to the indigent children of Robert Harry for transportation to St. Francis Orphan Asylum at Watsonville, California, and Auditor directed to draw warrant in favor of J. J. Stewart for the above amount.

Claims against the County were allowed on the General Expense fund as follows:

John Clarke, arranging election booths	$ 23 00
W. O. Moroney, registering voters	50 82
A. Carlisle & Co., election suppl's	389 40
G. L. Albright, honoraria for election purposes	10 00
C. F. Fuller, conveying election returns	2 00
Paul Peterle, house rent for election purposes	6 00
T. W. Parker, arranging no this	5 00
C. Anthony, conveying election supplies	1 75
J. C. Prewitt, furnishing house for election purposes	5 00
J. C. Prewitt, conveying election returns	10 00
W. Eldred, conveying and arranging election booths	8 00
Wearer & Porter Bros., house for election purposes	1 00
D. I. Hession, election expenses	44 57

Ordered that the following sums be allowed to the various election boards and the Auditor is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the Treasurer in favor of the various election boards on the General Expense fund as follows, to wit:

Round Valley	$48 00
Lincoln	48 00
Laws	48 00
Bishop	48 00
East Bishop	48 00
Poleta	48 00
Big Pine	48 00
Fish Springs	48 00
Taboose	48 00
Independence	48 00
Citrus	48 00
Georges Creek	48 00
Lone Pine	48 00
Cerro Gordo	36 00
Keeler	48 00
Olancha	48 00
Darwin	48 00
Modoc	30 00
Mt Springs	30 00
Badarat	48 00
Panamint	48 00

The following claims for mileage and per diem of the members of the Board of Supervisors were presented, approved by the District Attorney and warrants therefor ordered drawn on the Salary fund as follows:

Geo. T. Williams	$58 80
Frank Shaw	56 40
J. R. Eldred	51 30
L. J. Stewart	55 80
A. C. Freeman	54 00

(Here the Board adjourned.)

Ladies' Auxiliary Club

The following letter is self explanatory and it is hoped that all the ladies will respond.

To the Ladies of Independence and Vicinity:

The Auxiliary Society of the Athletic Association of Independence desire to secure the assistance of all ladies interested in the social life of the community. The object of this society is primarily to encourage the Athletic Association to maintain its present flourishing condition, and it is desirable that all those interested in physical culture should unite with us as soon as possible; but we hope to promise the higher forms of social life, in whatever way may from time to time seem best.

To do this most effectively we need the interest and help of the whole community, and we take this method of bringing the matter to your personal attention in order to ascertain to what extent we may rely upon your aid. Anyone may become an active member of this Society by signing the Constitution and paying their initiatory fee of ten cents. Active members will be entitled to a vote and to all the privileges of the Society.

Those who are interested in the welfare of this Society, but by reason of other duties find it impossible to take an active part may become members by signifying their intention to one of the subjoined committee.

Regular meetings at the Gymnasium Tuesday of each week at 3 o'clock p. m.

If we do not hear from you at the expiration of two weeks we will conclude that you are not interested and will not rely upon your assistance for the present.

Yours Respectfully,
ETTIE WOOD,
BERDIE LEVY,
LIZZIE THOMPSON.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of Edouard Chenot, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned, Executors of the last Will and Testament of

EDOUARD CHENOT

deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executors, at the residence of F. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of the said estate in the County of Inyo, State of California.

J. E. SHEPHERD and
W. L. HUNTER,
Executors of the estate of Edouard Chenot deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., November 23th 1898.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley.

About the Razorback Pig.

From the experience of bacon raisers, both north and south, we come to the conclusion that the best bacon is not produced from our most highly improved breeds as they are commonly fed. As a rule, the bacon of the south is far superior to that of the north. It is usually secured from the nondescript hog, nearly mature; one which has had to "hustle" except during the last few weeks of its life, when it is finished off by feeding a full ration of corn.—Country Gentleman

The nondescript referred to is none other than the much maligned razorback. Time was when no other sort of bacon was known in the south, and it was the best bacon that ever man stuck his teeth into. Watch out for the razorback. We have long believed he will come into fashion again. He is the healthiest hog that ever lived—in fact, hardly anything less powerful than dynamite will feeze him. And he is a rustler from Rustfersville. It costs no more to raise a razorback as a rule than it does a chicken. The breed has been allowed to degenerate to some extent by neglect and shameful treatment since the aristocratic hogs have come into vogue. Still to this day wherever his blood is a prominent factor among hogs in the south there they have the best bacon in the world.—Texas Farmer.

Trimming Sugar Beets.

It is important that farmers should understand how to properly trim sugar beets, for if too much of the crown is left on, carrying with it its large percentage of impurities, the value of the beet for the manufacturer is much reduced. The farmer gains nothing by sending to the factory improperly trimmed beets or those loaded with dirt, as the state weigher samples each load, washes and if necessary trims the sample and determines the percentage of dockage. The farmer not only gets nothing for the crown at the factory, but loses its value on the farm as stock food and fertilizer, says a bulletin of the Cornell university station, from which the illustration of trimmed beets is reproduced. The beets in the upper row are properly trimmed, those in the lower row improperly.

PROPERLY AND IimproperLY TRIMMED.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND

U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRESS Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. A. C. R. R. Station. The Lines stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT

STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek station.

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me. JOHN CLARKE.

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
610 Commercial St., San Francisco.

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK,

HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

MINING and SCIENTIFIC PRESS

THIRTY-NINTH YEAR.

24 Pages : Weekly : Illustrated.

INDISPENSABLE TO MINING MEN.

$3 PER YEAR, POSTPAID.

SEND FOR SAMPLE COPY.

MINING and Scientific PRESS

330 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

HOTELS.

BISHOP HOTEL.

Nearly opposite Hughes' Stables, Bishop.

Completely Renovated, Refurnished

A STRICTLY TEMPERANCE HOUSE.

—o—x—o—

EUROPEAN PLAN.

OR WILL FURNISH

Regular meals for	25 cents
Board and Room, per day	$1 and 1.5
Board, per week	5.0
Board, per month	20.00

—o—x—o—

Nine New Rooms Have been Added

—o—x—o—

These rooms have perfect ventilation, high ceilings and are handsomely furnished. Apartments can be had single or en suite.

J. L. BOURLAND,
Manager.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
ALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL, - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS	25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING	25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING	$2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

—x—

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on TUESDAY, December 27, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the E½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, Sec. 32, Tp. 14 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henderson D. Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is Hereby Given, that in pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 14th day of May, 1898, and of an order of said Court, made on the 26th day of November, 1898, in the matter of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, the undersigned, the Administrator of said Estate, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States and subject to confirmation of said Superior Court, on MONDAY, the 12th day of December, 1898, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Court House, in the Town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, at the time of his death, and all the right, title and interest that the said estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired since his death in and to all the certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, situated and being in the County of Inyo, State of California, bounded and described as follows:

The N½ of NE¼ of Sec. 5, W½ of NW¼, SE¼ of NW¼, N½ of SW¼, NE¼ of SE¼ and S½ of SE¼ of Sec. 4, and W½ of SE¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 8 South, Range 36 East, M. D. M., containing 400 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec. 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, all of Sec. 16, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 640 acres.

Also, Lot No. 1 and W½ of Lot No. 2, in NE¼ and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 3, SE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 5; SW¼ of SW¼ of Sec. 4, and W½ of NW¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 239 and 170-100 acres.

Also, the W½ of NW¼, and NW¼ of SW¼ of Sec. 19, Township 9 South, Range 33 East, and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 24, Township 9 South, Range 32 East, all of Mount Diablo Meridian, containing 120 and 160 acres.

Also, the NW¼ of the SE¼, and the S½ of the SE¼ of sec. 12, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 120 acres.

Also, the N½ of the NE¼ of sec. 19 and the E½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 18, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, the SW¼ of the SW¼ of Sec. 4, Township 9 S., R. 34 East, M. D. M., contain 1 ig 40 acres.

Also, the N½ of Sec. 8, Township 9 S., Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 320 acres.

Terms and Conditions of sale: Cash, lawful money of the United States; ten per cent of the purchase money to be paid to the undersigned on day of sale, balance on confirmation of sale by said Court.

Deed at the expense of purchaser.

JAMES R. MOFFETT,
Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased.

Dated November 17th, 1898.

SODA WATER.....
.....ALL FLAVORS

75 Cts. per Case.

INO. 1 ICE CREAM

$1.50 per Gal.

LARGER AMOUNTS at reduced rates.

Will ship to all points, in first class shape.

INYO SODA WORKS,

Bishop. Cal.

C. E. JOHNSON.

MISCELLANEOUS

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draw direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

A first class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET,

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j10-tf

S ZAUN. LONE PINE

TAILOR

—SATISFACTION GUARANTEED—

Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED	$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS	$1.00

All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY.

L. MUNZINGER & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of a First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

Customers supplied on all points of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to

L. MUNZINGER & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

"	May 28th
"	July 2nd
"	July 30th
"	August 27th
"	September 24th
"	October 22nd
"	November 26th
"	December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M.
P. H. WACK, Sec.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff,
vs.
IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 26th day of January, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
[SEAL] Clerk.

62115

Probate Notice.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

In the Matter of the Estate of Edouard Chenot, deceased. Notice for Publication of Time Appointed for Probate of Will.

NOTICE is hereby given, that SATURDAY, the Twenty sixth day of November, A. D. 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, and the Court-Room—Probate—of said Court, at the Court House, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California have been appointed as the time and place for proving the will of said Edouard Chenot, deceased, and for hearing the application of J. E. Shepherd and W. L. Hunter for the issuance to them of Letters Testamentary thereon.

D. J. HESSION, Clerk.
By C. N. ROSE, Deputy Clerk.

P. W. FORBES, Attorney for Petitioners.

Dated, Nov. 26, A. D. 1898. nv4td

MERCHANDISE.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:—
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:—
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold—

A complete stock of Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines—

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

HORSESHOEING

....AND....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP.
INDEPENDENCE

Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.		From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv	10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6		11:25 a m		4:46 p m
Clifton	18		12:10 p m		4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26		12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38		1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	41		1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	45		2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54		2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	65		3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Hills	78		3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100		5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
			No. 3.		No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv	6:00 a m	Ar	7:25 p m
Kinkead	113		6:37 a m		6:48 p m
Luning	125		7:10 a m		6:15 p m
New Boston	131		7:30 a m		5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137		7:50 a m		5:35 p m
Rhodes	142		8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	150		8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	152		9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar	9:30 a m	Lv	3:50 p m
Junction			10:10 a m		3:25 p m
Basalt	167		11:10 a m		2:25 p m
Summit	175		12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	183		12:50 p m		12:35 p m
Benton	193		1:30 p m		11:50 a m
Hammill	204		2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv	3:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	239		4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbets	253		4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	267		5:35 p m		7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281		6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290		6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	298	Ar	7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages, leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers t the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—ou soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FT'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.		LOCAL PASS. P. M. RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv	1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m		2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m		3:05 p m
Carson	9:30 a m		3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m		5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m		6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar	6:55 p m
	TO RENO.		TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv	7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m		7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m		8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m		9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m		10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m		11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:30 p m	Ar	11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for

LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT
CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN,
SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with

CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through Tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 2,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table. Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office above Reno.

aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

OUR TREATMENT OF SPANISH CAPTIVES.

Never before in history was there a case where a defeated and captive enemy received such generous treatment as we gave the Spaniards. Equally astonishing are the cures brought about by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never has there been so successful a medicine for stomach and liver disorders, like dyspepsia, indigestion, billiousness and constipation.

"Ah," said Sherlock Holmes, "the murderer must surely have been a printer." "Why?" "See, he ate the dead man's lunch. Not a crumb left."

DEAR EDITOR:—If you know of a solicitor or canvasser in your city or elsewhere, especially a man who has solicited for subscriptions, insurance, nursery stock, books or tailoring, or a man who can sell goods, you will confer a favor by telling him to correspond with us; or if you will insert this notice in your paper and such parties will cut this notice out and mail to us, we may be able to furnish them a good position in their own and adjoining counties. Address, AMERICAN WOOLEN MILLS CO., Chicago.

"How did Bickerham earn the right to put 'Hon.' in front of his name?" "Someone once mentioned him as justice of the peace."

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208-212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

"I wonder why Spain can't float a war loan?" "Because she sunk the Maine."

We pay you $100 if we cannot prove that we can save you MONEY on everything you buy. We are saving the people of the Pacific Coast thousands of dollars every month. For full particulars, address, Gilbert Clements' Sons, 218 California St., San Francisco, Cal., Wholesale and Retailers of Family Supplies.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

I know that my life was saved by Piso's Cure for Consumption.—John A. Miller, Au Sable, Michigan, April 21, 1895.

A Duel of Blankets.

A returned missionary from southeastern Alaska tells in The Midland Christian Advocate of a strange custom among the Indians of that region:

When a difference arises between two of them, and a friendly settlement seems impossible, one of them threatens the other with dishonor. He will cover the face of his foe with shame. He executes his threat by tearing up a certain number of his own blankets. The only way his antagonist can get even with him is by tearing up a greater number of his own.

If the contest is prolonged, it results in the destruction of all the blankets they have, each Indian destroying his own. The one who destroys the greater number is regarded as having won the fight.

The Fields of Sport.

From the fields of sport we go to bed and get up full of pains and aches. The next night, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, we are soothed to sleep and get up cured.

Poorly-paid help is likely to take its own pay out of the farm. Only a man who values his position will try to fill it well.

Good Blood Makes Health

And Hood's Sarsaparilla makes good blood. That is why it cures so many diseases and makes so many people feel better than ever before. If you don't feel well, are half sick, tired, worn out, you may be made well by taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory.
MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated
IXL TAMALES, FRIJOLES, CHILE CON CARNE, CHICKEN SOUP — IN CANS
Manuf'd and Put Up by IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.
If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.
ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.
Send For Catalogue.
WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

BUY THE GENUINE SYRUP OF FIGS
... MANUFACTURED BY ...
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
☞ NOTE THE NAME.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

The Ukiah Hatchery.

One of the most interesting and instructive points to visit in the beautiful little town of Ukiah, the terminus of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad, is the fish hatchery, which is located in Gibson Canyon, about one mile from the town. There is a well-graded road the entire distance through a most beautiful part of the country, and the trip is interesting enough from every point of view to warrant a visit from every tourist who chances to find himself in that locality.

During the season of 1897 Mr. A. W. Foster, president of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad Company, being desirous of adding to the attractions of the streams along the line of his road by thoroughly stocking them with fish, caused to be built at Ukiah a fish hatchery, having a capacity of two million eggs, and arranged with the California State Fish Commission to supply the hatchery with trout spawn, with the agreement that the fish should be planted in public waters. The proposal to build a hatchery met with hearty sympathy and support of the residents of Ukiah, and it took but a short time to complete the buildings, dams, etc., and grade a splendid road up the canyon to the point where the hatchery was located. A. V. La Motte was chosen as superintendent, and H. C. Mohn as assistant, and they were soon busily engaged in hatching some seven hundred thousand Mykiss eggs that had been forwarded by the Fish Commission from Lake Tahoe station. These were successfully hatched and afterward liberated in the streams of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties. Two hundred thousand eggs were again forwarded from the Tahoe hatchery in 1898, the majority of which were successfully hatched and planted. In addition to this, many eggs were taken from Eel river by Mr. La Motte, the superintendent of the hatchery, who established a spawning station at Willitts, Mendocino county, about thirty miles from Ukiah. The spawning season at that place commences with the early rains in the fall, and the eggs secured are of the variety known as the Steel Head, while the ones supplied by the State Fish Commission are taken in May and June, are of the variety known as Mykiss or Cut Throat Trout.

During the time the hatchery has been in operation immense numbers of fry have been planted in the numerous streams along the line of the road, the good effects of which are apparent already. Visitors to the hatchery will be received with every courtesy and shown the numerous attractions of the place.

The San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad is the only railroad corporation in the United States which owns and operates its own fish hatchery, and deserve much credit for their enterprise.

The continual whipping of the streams in the northern counties has, without doubt, depleted, to a certain extent, the waters, but it is certain that under the plans now being followed out by the company that within a very short time the three counties above mentioned will furnish fishing equal to that of past years and an attraction to anglers which will be second to none in the State.

HOW POMP WAS CONVERTED

Rainy Sunday at Church, Where He Was the Only Sinner.

Dr. Payson, the famous and beloved preacher of Portland, Me., used to tell the following pointed story:

One very stormy Sunday he went to church, more from habit than because he expected to find anybody there. Just after he had stepped inside the door an old negro came in and asked if Dr Payson was to preach there that day, explaining that he was a stranger in town and had been advised to go to his church.

"Upon that," said Dr. Payson, "I made up my mind to preach my sermon if nobody else came."

Nobody else did come, so the doctor preached to the choir and the old negro.

Some months afterward he happened to meet the negro, and stopping him asked how he enjoyed the sermon that stormy Sunday.

"Enjoy dat sermon?" replied the old man. "I 'clar, doctor, I nebber heerd a letter one. You see, I had a seat pretty well up front, an whenebber you'd say somethin I'd jess look all roun, ter see nobody on'y jess me. An I says to m'self, 'He must mean you, Pomp; you's sech a dretful sinner.' Well, doctor, dat are sermon set me a thinkin what a big sinner I war, an I went an j'ined the church down home. I'ze a deacon now."—Christian Endeavor World.

One Way of Posting a Letter.

The island of St Kilda is often visited by tourist steamers in the summer, but its regular mail communication with the mainland, some 150 miles distant, is confined to the annual visits of the steamer which brings the factor and his stores, says Household Words. But if at other times the inhabitants desire to communicate with Great Britain they employ the following curious device: A man cuts the rough model of a boat from a billet of wood, hollows it partly out, places in the hollow a tin or small bottle containing a letter, nails on a deck, and when the wind is blowing toward the mainland launches the tiny craft, having first connected it with a bladder, which drives along before the wind and acts as a tug to the little mail boat. But the set of the gulf stream frequently drives this curious craft out of its course, and as often as not it reaches the Shetland islands or the coast of Norway, where, however, the letter is pretty sure to be found and posted to its destination.

The Frigate Bird.

Many sailors believe that the frigate bird can start at daybreak with the trade winds from the coast of Africa and roost the same night upon the American shore. Whether this is a fact or not has yet to be determined, but it is certain that the bird is the swiftest of winged creatures and is able to fly, under favorable conditions, 200 miles an hour.

Honors Easy.

"Who carried off the honors at the walk, Rastus?"

"Mr. Sam Johnsing, sah, but de Lawd only knows who carried off de cake."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE YOUNG WIFE'S DEVICE.

"OUT again to-night?" said Mrs. Hayes, fretfully, as her husband rose from the tea-table and donned his overcoat.

"Yes; I have an engagement with Moore; shall be in early; leave a light in the library; good night." And with a careless nod William Hayes left the room.

"Always the way," murmured Lizzie Hayes, sinking back upon the sofa; "out every night. I don't believe he cares one bit about me now, and yet we have been married but two years. No man could have a more orderly house, I am sure. And I never go out anywhere; I am not a bit extravagant. Oh, dear! why is it? I was not rich; he did not marry me for money, and he must have loved me then; why does he now treat me with such neglect?" And with her mind filled with such fretful questions, Lizzie Hayes fell asleep on the sofa.

Let me print her picture as she lay there. She was a blonde, with a small, graceful figure and a very pretty face. The hair, which showed by its rich waves its tendency to curl, was brushed smoothly back and gathered into a knot at the back. "It was such a bother to curl it," she said. Her cheek was pale, and her face wore a discontented expression. Her dress was a neat chintz wrapper, but she wore neither collar nor cuffs. "What's the use dressing up just for William?"

Lizzie slept soundly for two hours, and then awoke suddenly. She sat up, glanced at the clock, and sighed dreadly at the long interval still to be spent alone before bedtime.

The library was over the room in which she sat, and down the furnace flue, through the register, a voice came to the young wife's ears; it was her husband's.

"Well, Moore, what is a man to do? I was disappointed, and I must have pleasure somewhere. Who could have fancied that Lizzie Jarvis, so perfectly sprightly and loving, could change to the fretful dowdy she now is? Who wants to stay at home and hear his wife whining all the evening about her troublesome servants and headaches and all sorts of bother? She has so got that knack of drawling that, upon my life, I do not believe that she could speak a pleasant word."

Lizzie sat as if stunned. Was this true? She looked in the glass. If not exactly a dowdy, her costume was not fit for an evening at home, with only William to admire. She rose, and slowly went to her room, with bitter and sorrowful thought, and a firm resolution to win back her husband, and then, his love regained, keep it.

The next morning William came into the breakfast room with his usual careless manner, but a bright smile came on his lip as he saw Lizzie. A pretty chintz wrapper, with a neat collar, and sleeves of snowy muslin, and a wreath of soft, full curls, had really metamorphosed her; while the blush his admiring glance called up to her cheek did not detract from her beauty. At first William thought there must be a guest, but glancing, he found they were alone.

"Come, William, your coffee will be stone cold," said Lizzie, in a cheery, pleasant voice.

Not one fretful speech nor one complaint fell upon William's ear during the meal. The newspaper, his usual solace at that hour, lay untouched, as Lizzie chatted gayly on every pleasant subject she thought of, warming by his gratified interest and cordial maner.

"You will be at home to dinner?" she said, as he went out.

"Can't to-day, Lizzie; I have business out of town; but I'll be home early to tea. Have something substantial, for I don't expect to dine. Good-by."

And the smiling look, warm kiss and lively whistle were a marked contrast to his lounging, careless gait the previous evening.

"I am in the right path," said Lizzie, in a low whisper; "oh, what a fool I have been for two years! A fretful dowdy! William, you shall never say that again."

Tea time came and William came with it; a little figure, in a tasty silk dress, smooth curls, and oh! such a lovely blush and smile, stood ready to welcome him as he came in, and tea time passed much as the morning meal had done. After tea there was no movement, as usual, toward the hat rack. William stood up beside the table, lingering, chatting till Lizzie also arose.

LIZZIE SAT AS IF STUNNED.

"What are you making, Lizzie?"

"A pair of slippers. Do you remember how much you admired the pair I made for you ever so long ago?"

"I remember; black velvet with flowers on them. I used to put my feet on the fender and dream of blue eyes and light curls, and wished time would move faster to the day when I could bring home my bonnie wee wife to make music in my house."

Lizzie's face saddened for a moment as she thought of the last two years, and how little music she had made for his loving heart, gradually weaning it from its allegiance, and then said:

"I wonder if you love music as you did then?"

"Of course I do. I have often dropped in at Miss Smith's for nothing else than to hear the music."

"I can play and sing better than Miss Smith," said Lizzie, half pouting.

"But you always say you are out of practice when I ask you."

"I had the piano tuned this morning. Now open it, and we will hear its sounds."

William obeyed her joyfully, and tossing aside her sewing, Lizzie took the piano stool. She had a very sweet voice, not powerful, but most musical, and she was a fair performer, on the piano.

"Ballads, Lizzie."

"Oh, yes! I know you dislike operatic music in the parlor."

The mantel clock struck 11.

"Eleven! I thought it was about 9. I ought to apologize, Lizzie, as I used to do, for staying so long, and, I can truly say, as I did then, that the time has passed so pleasantly I can scarcely believe it is so late."

The piano was closed, Lizzie's work put up in the basket, and William was ready to go up stairs, but, glancing back, he saw his little wife near the fireplace, her hands clasped, her head bent, and large tears fell from her eyes. He was beside her in an instant.

IT SEEMED LIKE OLD TIMES.

"Lizzie, darling, are you ill? What is the matter?"

"Oh, William, I have been such a bad wife! I heard you tell Mr. Moore last evening how I had disapointed you; but I will try to make your home pleasant, indeed I will, if you will forgive and love me."

"Love you! Oh, Lizzie, you cannot guess how deeply I love you."

As the little wife lay down that night she said:

"I have won him back again! Better than that, I have learned to keep him!"

AMERICAN WOMEN.

Their Shortcomings as Seen in a Paris Drawing-Room.

"The longer I live in Paris," writes Laurence Franklin in the Providence Journal, "the more I am convinced that our women have the largest share of beauty and the smallest amount of training among those one meets in the French capital. They have no conception of the value of that quality which the French call 'tenue,' and which embraces the idea of manners, bearing, and speech. Watch the American girl in a salon, on the beach at Dinard, or in the Casino at Ostende. She is invariably the prettiest, and often the best-dressed; but here her superiority ends. She does not hold herself well; she has a way of throwing herself about which detracts from her grace and dignity, while, although she may not talk louder than her neighbors, her voice carries farther and draws the attention of the crowd upon her. She is, in a word, as nonchalant and indifferent to her surroundings as she might be in the privacy of her own room. Do not fancy, however, that this indifference means unconsciousness. No. As a race we are like the English, notably self conscious. This may be remarked in any salon where a mixed company is gathered. A French girl gladly contributes her share toward the evening's entertainment, however modest it may be, knowing that her listeners will accept her offerings in a sympathetic spirit, for nothing could be more kindly than a French informal gathering. The American girl, in her turn, 'has not music with her,' or 'is not in voice,' or 'is afraid to play before people,' and most often ends by refusing to do anything for the pleasure of her fellow guests. The chances are, in fact, that she takes flight into an obscure corner and spends her evening with some chosen man friend. Yet the training received by the two nations would lead one to expect diametrically opposite results. The American girl is allowed to grow up without restraint, mingling with the world at every age, playing tennis, golf, riding, bicycling, developing, in short, like a child of nature. The French girl, on the contrary, is repressed and shaped from her infancy. She must always wear a veil to save her complexion; play in gloves to keep her hands white; and only take part in games that are not boisterous. At every instant she is told to sit up straight, to take her elbows off the table, to walk with her head erect, to talk quietly and only when spoken to; in a word, her training for the drawing-room begins before she leaves the nursery."—Argonaut.

Matrimonial Item.

"Where are you going in such a hurry?" asked Hostetter McGinnis of Johnnie Fewsends.

"I am going to old Bondclipper to ask for the hand of his daughter."

"Which one?"

"That depends upon what kind of a humor he is in. If he is in a good humor I'll propose for the youngest. If he has a cranky spell I'll propose for the oldest."

The Crookedest Stream.

The crookedest brook in America is the No Name Pond brook in Maine, beside which an electric road runs for some distance below Crowleys. The Congo river is no instance to this crooked little stream. It is so crooked that fish caught there have curvature of the spine, according to a Lewiston humorist.

The trouble with too many children is that the education of their parents has been sadly neglected.

AN OPERATION AVOIDED.

Mrs. Rosa Gaum Writes to Mrs. Pinkham About it. She Says:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I take pleasure in writing you a few lines to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done me. I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me; it has, indeed, helped me wonderfully. For years I was troubled with an ovarian tumor, each year growing worse, until at last I was compelled to consult with a physician. He said nothing could be done for me but to go under an operation

In speaking with a friend of mine about it, she recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, saying she knew it would cure me. I then sent for your medicine, and after taking three bottles of it, the tumor disappeared. Oh! you do not know how much good your medicine has done me. I shall recommend it to all suffering women.—Mrs. ROSA GAUM, 720 Wall St., Los Angeles, Cal.

The great and unvarying success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in relieving every derangement of the female organs, demonstrates it to be the modern safeguard of woman's happiness and bodily strength. More than a million women have been benefited by it.

Every woman who needs advice about her health is invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

How Bismarck Could Drink.

Count Andrassy's story of an interview he had with Bismarck is as follows:

"Bismarck had two immense mugs of beer brought to us. He took one of them and shoved the other over to me. I remarked that I drank only water. He looked at me in silence, curiously and almost suspiciously for a minute and then proceeded with the subject under discussion. The more interested he became in our conversation the more frequently and copiously he drank. After finishing his own mug he appropriated mine without a word and put down its contents in three or four tremendous drafts. Then he had a servant fetch and fill two enormous pipes. When he offered me one of them, I explained that I never smoked.

"'What!' he cried, 'neither drink nor smoke? What kind of a supernatural man are you anyway?'

"It was a mercy to both of us, however, that I did not accept the pipe, for Bismarck smoked so incessantly that within 15 minutes the air in the room was dense. When I rose at the end of the evening from the table at which we were sitting, the smoke was so thick that I could hardly see the chancellor's face."

A Short Fight.

The damp of autumn nights and mornings stirs up sciatica, and then comes a tug of pain. Use St. Jacobs Oil, and then comes a tug to cure it. It is a short fight and the cure is sure.

A Mean Trick.

Absentmindedly Brooks stepped up to the cashier's desk and paid for his luncheon. Then, accompanied by Rivers, he went out into the open air.

"Brooks," said Rivers, "you'd better go back and settle for your dinner if you don't want the proprietor to follow you out and dun you right here on the street."

"Great Scott! Didn't I pay for it?" ejaculated Brooks. "Where's my check? I haven't got it."

"I picked it up as we left the table," said Rivers. "Here it is."

"Ah, you have come back to pay the other gentleman's check," said the cashier as Brooks went back, stepped up to the desk a second time and handed out a half dollar.

When Brooks went outside again, a moment later, Rivers was nowhere in sight, and there is another unsettled account between them.—Chicago Tribune.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

Othello Whitewashed.

Othello is the latest historic disreputable to have a good character established. Italian papers claim certain manuscripts concerning the Moor have been found in the archives of a convent in Venice. They are notes taken in 1542 by a Cretan diplomat sent on a mission to the republic of Venice. The writer knew Othello well and vouches for the fact that the lady was never killed at all. In fact, she survived Othello, died a natural death and gave the coroner no trouble at all. So that there never was a tragedy of the moor of Venice.

"A Perfect Type of the Highest Order of Excellence in Manufacture."

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa

Absolutely Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

..Costs Less Than ONE CENT a Cup..

Be sure that you get the Genuine Article, made at DORCHESTER, MASS. by
WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.
ESTABLISHED 1780.

☞ This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

Matches.

The man who was old enough to know better was chasing up and down a Sixteenth street boarding house, trying to find a match to light a cigarette with.

"Did it ever occur to you," he said to the man who finally found a light for him, "what a boon and a benison the cigarette manufacturer has been to the match manufacturer? Think of it a moment. First, however, give me another match for this cigarette. I don't know how many cigarettes are made in this country, but let us, for the sake of argument, say there are a thousand carloads a year. Well, it takes on an average—another light, please—four matches to the cigarette, and the manufacturer of matches must therefore make 4,000 carloads of matches just to meet the cigarette demand. You may not think 4,000 carloads is a great quantity, but if you knew how hard it was to get one match when your cigarette is out, you would think 4,000 carloads wasn't a few if you had to go around begging them. I have never given serious study to the matter, but, looking at it casually, I should say the match manufacturers owe an inestimable debt of gratitude to the cigarette makers."—New York Sun.

Cash Versus Glory.

An ordinary service to mankind is usually paid for at current rates in legal tender. An extraordinary service, not involving the element of heroism, is rewarded by both legal tender and more or less fame. The highest of all services, rendered at the risk of life, is supposed to receive its full compensation in glory, unaccompanied by more sordid considerations. If, however, the hero of the service last mentioned should not be contented with his meed of glory, but should demand more substantial reward, he may receive it indeed, but at a large discount from the other (and in sentimental estimation more valuable) consideration.

Unlike the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, who receive their quid pro quo without a thought of humiliation, either in their own minds or yours, the man who saves your life at the risk of his own is looked upon as almost if not quite disgracing himself by accepting your proffered pecuniary reward, although he may, in fact, be in far sorer need than any one of the worthy trio who simply contribute to your necessities or comforts.—Edward P. Jackson in North American Review

The Glowworm's X Ray.

The glowworm's light is said to have been shown to be due to the emission of rays similar to Roentgen's. Three hundred glowworms were caught near Kioto and placed before photographic plates screened from the light by several thicknesses of black paper, together with plates of brass, copper and aluminium. A piece of cardboard with a hole in it was placed between the metal and the photographic plate, and for two days the arrangement was kept in a dark chamber, sheltered from all foreign lights. On developing the plate it was found to be blackened, except the part opposite the hole in the cardboard. The rays of the glowworm would appear therefore to penetrate metal and excite luminosity in cardboard. When there is nothing between the sensitive plate and the glowworm, the rays are said to behave like ordinary light, but in traversing some metals and cardboard they seem to acquire properties like that of X rays, or it may be that the ordinary glowworm emits X as well as ordinary rays.—Revue Scientifique.

Swiss Funeral Customs.

Swiss funeral customs are most peculiar. At the death of a person the family inserts a formal black edged announcement in the papers asking for sympathy and stating that "the mourning urn" will be exhibited during certain hours on a special day. In front of the house where the person died there is placed a little black table, covered with a black cloth, on which stands a black jar. Into this the friends and acquaintances of the family drop little black margined visiting cards, sometimes with a few words of sympathy on them. The urn is put on the table on the day of the funeral. Only men ever go to the churchyard, and they generally follow the hearse on foot.

The Most Common of All.

The most common of all ailments from sports of all kinds are sprains and bruises. The most common and surest cure of them is by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, which is prompt in its action.

Impossible!
If you'd pay your grocer $10 a pound he couldn't sell you better baking powder than Schilling's Best. 55

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO.

Women and the Wheel.

From the Gazette, Delaware, Ohio.

The healthfulness of bicycle riding for women is still a disputed question between eminent physicians and health reformers.

Used in moderation it surely creates for women a means of out-door exercise, the benefit of which all physicians concede. Used to excess, like any other pastime, its effect is likely to be dangerous.

The experience of Miss Bertha Reed, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. J. R. Reed, 335 Lake St., Delaware, Ohio, may point a moral for parents who, like Mr. and Mrs. Reed, have experienced some concern for their daughters who are fond of wheeling. In the fall of '96 Miss Bertha, who had ridden a great deal, began to fail in an alarming manner. She grew steadily paler and thinner, and it appeared she was going into consumption. Rest and quiet did her absolutely no good. A physician found her pulse at 104—a very high rate. Thinking this may have been due to temporary nervousness when he examined her, he watched her closely, but her pulse continued at that rate for two weeks. He was satisfied then, from her high pulse and steadily wasting condition, that she was suffering from anæmia or a bloodless condition of the body. She became extremely weak and could not stand the least noise or excitement. In this condition of affairs they were recommended by an old friend to get some of that famous blood medicine, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They did so, and almost from the first dose Bertha began to improve. She continued to take the pills and was by means of those pills made entirely well, and more grateful people than her parents cannot be found in the whole State of Ohio.

She Rides Well.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved a boon to womankind. Acting directly on the blood and nerves, they restore the requisite vitality to all parts of the body; creating functional regularity and perfect harmony throughout the nervous system. The pallor of the cheeks is changed to the delicate blush of health; the eyes brighten; the muscles grow elastic, ambition is created and good health returns.

J. J. O'Brien & Co.
Market, Jones and McAllister Sts.
San Francisco, Cal.

Importers and Dealers in HIGH GRADE DRY GOODS AND CLOAKS.

We respectfully beg to announce to the public, the arrival of recent large shipments of Fall and Winter Styles and Novelties.

THE LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE ASSORTMENT ON THE PACIFIC COAST. : : :

We invite special attention to the following UNEXAMPLED INDUCEMENTS IN NEW GOODS.

VALUE IN BLACK SATIN.
75c Black Satin Duchesse, soft, heavy finish, excellent value for $1.00 on special sale at 75c a yard.

AN OPPORTUNITY IN JACKETS AND UNDERSKIRTS.
$5.00 Ladies' Tan Covert Cloth Jackets, fly fronts, faced with cloth, regular price $8.50, on special sale at $5.00 each.
$6.00 Ladies' Taffeta silk underskirts, in all the latest shades, also black, spanish flounce with three rows of cording, easily worth $8.00, on special sale at $6.00 each.

REDUCTIONS IN HOUSE FURNISHINGS.
$4.75 11/4 California White Blankets, full double bed size, made from a fine grade of wool, very solid and heavy; a soft, fine finish, silk bound, and unshrinkable; good value for $5.75, on special sale at $4.75 a pair.
50c Red Comforters, full size, filled with pure white Laminated Cotton, medium colors, worth $1.00, on sale at 50c each.
50c Table Damask, in both Bleached and Cream, 61 inches wide, pure Irish linen, pretty patterns, heavy and durable, on sale at 50c a yard.

SPECIAL IN GLOVES.
75c Ladies 2-clasp, prime lamb, colors—tan, mode, purple, black, butter, dark green, navy, white and grey; regular value $1.25, on special sale at 75c a pair. NOTE—Every pair guaranteed.

Our extensive Country Order Department enables us to give prompt and careful attention to the filling of all orders received by us.

HERCULES GASOLINE ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

Ben H Yandel

INYO INDEPENDENT.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.
Independence, Cal.
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 26. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., DECEMBER 9, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1497.

INYO INDEPENDENT
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.00
One Month	.50
Single Copies	.10

THAT BABY BOY.

Who opes his eyes at early dawn
Without a word or sleepy yawn,
As does the deer and spotted fawn?
That baby boy.

Who wants to get right out of bed,
And, in a word, wants to be fed,
Regarding not a thing that's said?
That baby boy.

Who wears his mother's patience out,
As well as many a willow sprout,
And shoes and stockings good and stout?
That baby boy.

Who breaks and tears and pulls and hauls,
Who burns the dog, the kittie mauls,
Who makes black marks upon the walls?
That baby boy.

Who eats and thrives on mud and dirt,
And makes a towel of his skirt?
Who bawls when he's more scared than hurt?
That baby boy.

Who rules the house as does a king,
And fairly makes the welkin ring
With shouts and vain attempts to sing?
That baby boy.

Who in his way is better far
Than either of his parents are,
Who oftimes threaten they will mar
That baby boy.

Who is so bad and yet so good?
Whose naughty ways are understood,
And we forgive as others should?
That baby boy.
—Chicago Inter Ocean.

CROOKED JOE.

A GREAT railroad depot may not be the best school for a boy, yet poor little Joe Bryan had scarcely known any other. He could not remember when the long waiting rooms with their tiled floors and dreary rows of stationary settees, and crowds of hurrying people, were not quite as familiar to him and more homelike than his mother's small, bare house, which he knew as little more than a place for eating and sleeping.

He had been only six months old when a dreadful accident happened which, at one fell stroke, made him fatherless and transformed him from a strong, well-developed infant to a pitiful creature, which even death refused to take.

"What a pity that it was not killed outright!" said everybody but the mother. She herself always insisted that only her constant watching over the little flickering life kept her from going mad in the first dreadful months of her bereavement.

The officers of the railway company were kind to poor Mary Bryan. They paid the expenses of the burial, and, after little Joe had slowly mended, employed her about the depot to scrub floors and keep the glass and woodwork bright and neat.

When Joe was seven years old his mother sent him to school. He went patiently day after day, making no plaint, but she awoke suddenly one night to find him sobbing on the pillow beside her. Only by dint of long coaxing was she able to find out the cause of his grief. Some of the rougher boys—more thoughtless than cruel, let us hope—had called him "humpy," and asked if he carried a bag of meal on his back.

Mary flamed with the fierce anger of motherhood. "You shan't go another day," she declared. "The ruffians! I won't have my darling put upon by the likes of them."

So Joe's schooling had come to an untimely end. Yet, meager as was his stock of book learning, the development of his mind far outstripped the growth of his stunted and deformed body. Everybody liked the patient little fellow, tugging manfully at his mother's heavy water buckets and running willingly at every call of the station men. At twelve years old he had picked up no small amount of information, especially on railroad topics. He knew every locomotive on the road, understood the intricacies of sidetracks and switches, and could tell the precise moment when any particular train might be expected, with the accuracy of a time table.

Yet the very quickness and ardor of his nature deepened his sense of his infirmity. How wistfully his eyes followed boys of his own age—straight, handsome, happy—who sprang lightly up and down the steps of the coaches or threaded their way along the crowded platforms. For one day of such perfect untrammeled life he would have bartered all the possible years before him. Yet he never put his yearning into words—even to his mother.

Mr. Crump, the telegraph operator, was Joe's constant friend. It was he who, at odd moments, had taught the boy to read, and had initiated him into some of the mysteries of the clicking instrument, which to Joe's imaginative mind seemed some strange creature with a hidden life of its own.

It was growing towards dark on one November afternoon. Joe—never an unwelcome visitor—sat curled up in a corner of Mr. Crump's office, waiting for his mother to finish her work. He was spelling out, by the fading light, the words upon a page of an illustrated newspaper, quite oblivious of the ticking, like that of a very jerky and rheumatic clock, which sounded in the room.

Mr. Crump, too, had a paper before him, but his ears were alive. Suddenly he sprang to his feet, repeating aloud the message which at that moment flashed across the wire.

"Engine No. 110 running wild. Clear the track."

He rushed to the door shouting the news.

"Not a second to spare! She'll be down in seven minutes!"

The words passed like lightning. In a moment the yard was in a wild commotion. Men flew hither and thither, yard engines steamed wildly away, the switches closing behind them.

The main track was barely clear when 110 came in sight swinging from side to side, her wheels threatening to leave the track at each revolution. She passed the depot like a meteor, her bell clanging with every leap of her piston, the steam escaping from her whistle with the continuous shriek of a demon, and the occupants of the cab wrapped from view in a cloud of smoke.

Some hundred rods beyond the depot the track took a sharp upward grade, from which it descended again to strike the bridge across a narrow but deep and rocky gorge.

Men looked after the flying locomotive and then at each other with blanched faces.

"They're gone! A miracle can't save 'em," said one, voicing the wordless terror of the rest. "If they don't fly the track on the up grade, they'll go down as soon as they strike the trestle."

The crowd began to run along the track, some with a vain instinct of helpfulness, some moved by that morbid curiosity which seeks to be "in at the death."

But look! Midway the long rise the speed of the runaway engine suddenly slackens.

"What does it mean? She never could 'a' died out in that time" shouted an old yard man.

Excitement winged their feet. When the foremost runners reached the place the smoking engine stood still on her track, quivering in every steel clad nerve, her great wheels still whizzing round and round amid a flight of red sparks from beneath.

"Who did it? Who stopped her?"

The engineer, staggering from the cab, with the pallid face of the fireman behind him, pointed, without speaking, to where a little, pale-faced, crooked-backed boy had sunk down, panting with exertion, beside the track.

At his feet a huge oil can lay overturned and empty.

The crowd stared at one another, open-mouthed. Then the truth flashed upon them.

"He oiled the track!"

"Hurrah for Crooked Joe!"

They caught the exhausted child, flinging him from shoulder to shoulder, striving with each other for the honor of bearing him, and so, in irregular, tumultuous, triumphal procession, they brought him back to the depot and set him down among them.

"Pass that hat, pards!" cried one.

It had been pay day, and the saved engineer and fireman dropped in each their month's wages. Not a hand in all the throng did not delve into a pocket. There was the crisp rustle of bills, the chink of gold and silver coin.

"Out with your handkerchief, Joe! Your hands won't hold it all! Why, young one, what—what's the matter?" for the boy, with scarlet cheeks and burning eyes, had clinched both small hands behind his back—the poor, twisted back laden with its burden of deformity and pain.

"No, no," he cried, in a shrill, high voice. "Don't pay me! Can't you see what it's worth to me, once—just once in my life—to be a little use—like other folks?"

The superintendent had come from his office. He laid his hand on the boy's head. "Joe," he said, "we couldn't pay you if we wished. Money doesn't pay for lives! But you have saved us a great many dollars besides. Won't you let us do something for you?"

"You can't! you can't! nobody can!" The child's voice was almost a shriek. It seemed to rend the air with the pent-up agony of years. "There's only one thing in the world I want, and nobody can give me that. Nobody can make me anything but Crooked Joe!"

The superintendent lifted him and held him against his own breast.

"My boy," he said, in his firm, gentle tones, "you are right. None of us can do that for you. But you can do it yourself. Listen to me! Where is the quick brain God has given you and the brave heart? Not in that bended back of yours—that has nothing to do with them. Let us help you to a chance—only a chance to work and to learn—and it will rest with you yourself to say whether in twenty years from now, if you are alive, you are Crooked Joe or Mr. Joseph Bryan!"

Visiting in C—— not long ago, a friend said to me:

"Court is in session. You must go with me and hear Bryan."

The court room was already crowded at our entrance with an expectant audience. When the brilliant young attorney rose to make his plea I noticed with a shock of surprise that his noble head surmounted an undersized and misshapen body. He had spoken but five minutes, however, when I had utterly forgotten the physical defect; in ten, I was eagerly interested, and thereafter, during the two hours' speech, held spellbound by the marvelous eloquence which is fast raising him to the leadership of his profession in his native city.

"A wonderful man!" said my friend, as we walked slowly homeward. Then he told me the story of Crooked Joe.—Exchange.

Hard on the Pickles.

Virtue isn't always its own reward. The English pickle manufacturers have been making their pint bottles hold a little more than a pint, to be on the safe side of an English law on the subject. But when they send these pint bottles to Canada they run against a law which provides that any package measuring more than a pint must pay duty on a quart.

There is a period in every boy's life prior to which he can't be put to sleep at night, and after which it's difficult to get him up in the morning.

FASHIONS FOR FALL.

New York correspondence:

IN fall tailor gowns there are many reminders of fine figures. In these glove fitting suits figures are disclosed that have not been suspected of shapeliness for several seasons. Allegiance to blouse models has been accountable for all this, and now that the fit is close from chin to well over the hips, women find less and less reason to regret the blouse's departure. Another feature that makes the new tailor suits attractive is that tasteful trimming is permitted. Once this glove tightness had to be left unrelieved. The first of to-day's pictures shows one way in which a little ornamentation may be made to go the needed distance. The goods here was heavy mixed gray cheviot, the severity of outline in front being relieved by the odd interlocking fastening, and by bright scarlet braid with which the jacket was bound. A scarlet broadcloth collar was laid on the cloth collar, the gray and scarlet being an imitation of one of the Russian official combinations. Scarlet silk lined the skirt, the hat was hardly more than a big bow of very dark red holding back a black brim, and little tabs of scarlet were at the wrists. Such a dress will wear well into the winter, for it is heavy, and the scarlet gives it a cozy look. Its skirt was long, but an ankle walking skirt went with the jacket, all the best tailor gowns taking two such skirts according to the current fancy.

Other tricks of tailor trimming are more accurately described as tricks of cutting. Almost all skirts are two pieced, either actually or in effect, and jackets are divided, a new notion being to have a yoke-shaped top extended in a shield front, while back and sides are one. In such models the joining of yoke and front shields is rendered conspicuous by cording or trimming. In the gown of this type pictured here an appearance of an overskirt was given by cording, while what is supposed to be the underskirt was run with close set lines of black stitching. The jacket was trimmed to match. The material was a leaf brown, smooth faced wool.

SWAGGER LOUNGERS WHO SHOULDN'T LOUNGE.

Strapping is more fashionable than ever, and there is a fancy for strapping in cloth contrasting with the cloth of the dress. The third of the tailor mades the artist puts here was one of these. Of bright blue mohair, the gown was strapped with brown broadcloth, brown and blue being one of the later combinations. The double points strapped on the skirt make a very becoming relief to its simplicity, and the scrolling is very stylish on jackets. The waistcoat was overlaid with brown straps. Such a dress will serve all walking and simpler demands, and every one knows that nothing wears better than mohair. A waistcoat of bandana plaid showing blue, brown, scarlet and bright green, with yellow in the blending, would have been more striking and perhaps more stylish a combination with this dress, these bandana plaid waistcoats being the very latest cry.

EFFECTS GAINED BY CORDING AND STITCHING.

The companion design to the one just described is a redingote costume, of which many are to be worn. It was a mixed woolen stuff, the front trimmed with braid to give a suggestion of skirt and overskirt. The redingote was open up the front, the skirt portion overlapping, the bodice turning back to a little below the waist to show a corded scarlet waistcoat. The entire costume was planned to give slenderness and height to a figure needing careful dressing, and for that was to be recommended. To the same end were the uplifted single feather on the jaunty hat and the up-curve of the brim.

If a little trimming is made to go a good ways in tailor costumes, the same cannot be said of breakfast and lounging gowns. The graceful wrapper that is first in the accompanying large picture was fitted snugly everywhere, the lines of the figure being relieved by a straight fold turning back each side of the open front. The belt passed under these folds to clasp close the front of tucked and ribbon-run lawn, and the fold's edges were finished with little lace frills. The back was exactly like the front in design, a slight train being added and the lawn front overlying the shoulders in a deep frill. It was of ivory gray cashmere.

TRIMMED WITH FOLDS AND BRAID.

Another of these pretendedly easy and careless gowns that are dress-ups, in a way, is second of these three pictures. It was made with an overgown of ruby velvet, princess in the back and laid back in generous revers that extended almost to the hem of the skirt. These revers were faced with white velvet and edged with a tiny line of black fur and inlaid with white lace flowers. The belted-in underrobe was pleated crepe de chine in a lovely sunrise pink.

The last of these dresses is genuinely loose and easy, its overgown, hung free from the shoulders, being shaped towards the figure just enough to suggest graceful outlines. The sleeves of the overgown were loose, also, like drooped flounces from the shoulders over the bare arms. The underrobe of ciel blue satin fell loose from the point of its collar, which showed the throat in classic severity. The outer robe was heavy white broc de velvet, figured with silver outlines. The facing back of the outer robe was ermine, and an edge of the fur finished the collar. Sleeves were edged with blue satin, a cap of satin finishing the shoulders. For a silver blonde nothing could be more beautiful, and though costly, the simplicity of arrangement saved the robe from undue ostentation. Each of these three models is susceptible of reproduction in less expensive stuffs.

Copyright, 1898.

Picture of George Eliot.

George Eliot was at this time about 50, but looked years older. She wore, as she always did, a plain silk dress, to-night having a white shawl about her shoulders and light gloves in her hand, being indeed dressed for the opera. Some people have talked and written of the ugliness of this great woman; this sort of criticism recalls a famous scene in "Middlemarch." "Mr. Casaubon has a wart on his nose," said pert little Celia to her sister. "I dare say he has," was Dorothea's dignified rebuke, "when certain people look at him." And thus George Eliot in some eyes was ugly because, forsooth, she lacked dimpled cheeks, round eyes, and pretty mouth! If hers was ugliness, would we had more of it in the world! When in speaking, her large, usually solemn features lighted up, a positive light would flash from them, a luminosity irradiate, not her own person only, but her surroundings. A sovereign nature, an august intellect, had transported us into its own atmosphere.—Miss Betham Edwards' Reminiscences.

Centuries Old.

Some of the wooden churches of Norway are fully 700 years old, and are still in an excellent state of preservation. Their timbers have successfully resisted the frosty and almost Arctic winters because they have been repeatedly coated with tar.

A Stable Industry.

It is said that cow bells are produced only in four factories in the United States, and are made just the same as they were 100 years ago, and sound the same.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING

The merchant princes of to-day,
With fortunes made completely,
Are those who early found the way
To advertise discreetly.

Advertising Fakes.

The merchants of every town are buncoed out of hundreds of dollars annually by advertising fakirs. The directory fake, the stereopticon fake, the bill board fake and a hundred other fakes are repeated on business men year in and year out, and the money might as well be burned up as far as the return it brings them. Even newspapers engage in the bunco business, and because merchants reap no benefit from the money expended in the fraudulent schemes they lose faith in advertising and denounce the whole business. Legitimate newspaper advertising is the only means of reaching the people. It has been tested in a thousand ways.

Ink Drops.

If you don't advertise your goods nobody else will.

It is not always the largest ad that brings the largest trade.

The big advertisers who kept up their advertising through the hard times all made money.

Better be well advertised and understocked than under-advertised and over-stocked.

The amiable, affable, candid fellow sells more goods than the other fellows do. So of good-natured, straightforward ads.

What you say about your goods to the man that comes into your store, if said in the local newspaper, will make more men come in to buy.

Until you climb the business hill you cannot go coasting merrily down the other side. Nothing helps the climbing like good, strong advertising.

In the mind of the reader there is an association of impressions between an attractive ad and attractive goods. He assumes one from the other.

Your store is known by the ads you print. Be careful to make them as attractive as your show windows, and as full of honest merit as the goods you sell.

"Women read the ads with more interest than the news," it has been said. Why not? What's more interesting to the buying head of the family than news from the selling world?

GRANDPA'S LIGHT.

If You Have an Old Tinder-Box, Save It.

Museums and private collectors have awakened to the fact that the tinder-box, with which our grandparents used to obtain a light, is rapidly disappearing, and, as a consequence, the country is being eagerly scoured in search of what yet remain. The illustration shows a very good specimen of the round type; the lid does not fit at the top of the box, but is constructed to rest upon the tinder (charred rag) and prevent it being lost when not in use; also, it could thus be pressed closely down upon it, thus acting as an extinguisher. The method of obtaining a light was to grasp the steel by the narrow side, hold it in the right hand and a flint in the left, and strike the one violently against the other; they had to be so held that the sparks thus obtained fell upon the tinder and ignited it. This process is by no means an easy one to perform successfully, and it was often a case of "the light that failed" several times before the tinder "caught" and a rushlight taper could be ignited.

THE LIGHT OF OTHER DAYS.

Sweetness.

"Some of the days when summer is merging into autumn are wonderfully fine," remarked the girl who likes the poetry of nature. "Now and then there seems to be a good deal of sweetness in the air."

"Deed dey is, honey," replied the colored woman. "As I wuz comin' past de ma'sh, ev'y now an' then I see places whah de air wus chock full o' reed birds. It do seem a shame wif so much sweetness floatin' around, dat it should be so hard ter git at."—Washington Star.

A Possible Sequel.

"If you should buy dry goods for two dollars," began the professor, who was explaining an obscure point in political economy——

"Say one ninety-nine," murmured Miss Vassar.

"——or, say one ninety-nine—the transaction will be complete when the goods are paid for."

"Unless," suggested Miss Vassar, "I should bring them back to be exchanged for something else."—Puck.

Charges for His Autograph.

Lord Charles Beresford, the noted sailor, charges a half-crown for each of his autographs. He does not pocket the money thus made, although in a year it amounts to a very considerable sum, but devotes it all to the various naval charities in which he takes so lively an interest.

The youth who has to scratch for his living never sows many wild oats.

THE NEW FRENCH FIELD GUN.

It Is One of the Deadliest Agencies of Destruction Yet Devised by Man.

The secret about the new gun of the French army has leaked out, and it is now known that the French have a very deadly weapon. The gun is of 2.95 inches caliber. The barrel is of nickel steel, and the breech mechanism is based on the screw principle, simplified so that it can be closed quickly enough to make the cannon a rapid firearm. The ammunition is in the form of a complete cartridge, made of drawn brass. The weapon is a single-loader, as may be imagined from its size, and in order to secure rapidity of fire it must be served by at least four men. In practice the gun is served by a gunner who passes the cartridges to a man who stands on the left side of the carriage. He in turn passes it to the gunner, who sits behind the breech. The latter is charged with opening the breech, inserting the ammunition and closing the breech. The breech in closing cocks a hammer. By the right side of the gunner charged with loading the gun sits the gunner, who is charged with aiming and firing it. The discharging of the hammer is done with the ordinary line known technically as the lanyard.

Behind the gun carriage is another soldier, who with a lever turns the gun if it needs to be swung far on one side or the other, but the ordinary aiming is done by the gunner on the carriage.

NEW FRENCH RAPID FIRE FIELD GUN.

A valuable feature of the French gun is the apparatus to take up the recoil, so that the carriage is not moved by it.

With a full force of men the weapon can discharge twenty shots a minute, which is an enormous amount of fire considering the size of the ammunition. The projectiles are shrapnel, each loaded with 250 leaden bullets. The bursting charge is mellinite. The bullets are scattered with terrific force by the explosion of this terrific explosive. Thus in one minute the new gun can throw 5,000 bullets, covering a radius so great that it can put an entire battery out of action or even destroy it utterly at a range of from 5,000 to 6,000 yards. As the shells can be set to explode at a mark directly overhead of the enemy, they can demolish even a battery under cover of trenches.

A FARM OF 21,700 ACRES.

It Is Not the Only One Owned by Missouri's Millionaire Farmer.

The phenomenal success of David Rankin, of Tarkio, Mo., proves that fortunes can be made in farming as well as in other lines of industry. Mr. Rankin is known as the "millionaire farmer." He is worth $5,000,000, and it all resulted from an original investment of $52. That was in 1846, when, at the age of 21, he was given a colt by his father. He sold the colt for $52, invested the money in calves and rented a farm. His first investment brought good results and he bought a farm. At the age of 25 he owned eighty acres, clear of debt. Step by step he added to his possessions, until after being fifteen years in the business he owned 4,000 acres. At the same time he continued to deal in cattle, until he had 12,000 to 15,000 head. When he had acquired 10,000 acres of land in Missouri and 4,000 in Nebraska he was not yet satisfied. That was in 1885. He went to Atchison County, Mo., and bought 21,700 acres, which he divided into fourteen ranches. He built his home near by, in the city of Tarkio, and every day he rides out over his great estate, interviewing his superintendents and watching the progress of crops.

Of course hundreds, and sometimes thousands, of men are required in the management of Mr. Rankin's immense farm—cowboys, plowmen, gardeners, builders and practical farmers. An idea of the immensity of his business can be gained by the man who cares to sit for an hour or two, in the shade of his five-story brick barn in Tarkio, and watch wagon after wagon, with four and six horse teams hitched to them, and with two pairs of sideboards on them, loaded to their utmost capacity with oats, wheat and corn, driven into the yard.

DAVID RANKIN.

Smoking Before a Battle.

Soldiers returning from the war in Cuba had many stories to tell of the comfort they took in a pipe of tobacco. In too many cases it was about all the comfort they experienced until they reached home and friends once more. A story of tobacco on the battlefield is told by an officer of the British royal horse guards, who took part in the charge of the "Blues" at Tel-el-Kebir, Egypt. During a bivouac in the early hours of the morning, just before the engagement commenced, orders were issued against smoking. Some of the troopers, however, dug little holes in the sand, in which they buried their heads, in order to enjoy a few whiffs of a pipe. The order to mount was suddenly and softly given. In a minute the squadrons were mounted and riding off, and were almost at once engaged with the enemy's outposts. The well-known charge followed, and when the troop corporal majors came out to call the roll of their men one of them still had a short pipe between his lips. The charge had been dashing, and the soldier's disobedience was wisely overlooked.

True Blue.

Every reader is familiar with the phrase "true blue," but very few know aught of its origin. Its first assumption was by the Scotch Covenanters in opposition to the scarlet badge of Charles I., and hence it was taken by the troops of Leslie and Montrose in 1639. The adoption of the color was one of those religious pedantries in which the Covenanters affected a pharisaical observance of the Scriptural letter and the usages of the Hebrews, and thus as they named their children Habakkuk and Zerubabel and their chapels Zion and Ebenezer, they decorated their persons with blue ribbons because the following precept was given in the law of Moses: "Speak unto the children of Israel and bid them that they make them fringes in the borders of their garments, thoroughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribbon of blue."

FOLDING STOVE.

Clever Invention of Chicagoans Fills a Long-Felt Want.

Hunters, campers and those who delight in out-of-door sports are interested in an invention which is the work of two young Chicagoans who have sought to overcome some of the perplexities of "roughing it."

The affair is a small folding gasoline stove which can be placed in a camping outfit without taking up any room to speak of. Its dimensions are 7 by 7 by 4 inches and it weighs 4½ pounds.

LATEST IDEA IN CAMP STOVES.

There is a tank attached for the oil, which is forced into the burner by air pressure from a small rubber pump.

London and Its Fire Department.

Everybody knows that fire brigade work is done better in America than in England, and a foreign office report on the fire department of Boston enables us to judge how much better. It is a little startling to find that a city of the size of Boston has a larger and a far more costly fire service than London. The metropolitan fire brigade last year numbered 842 officers and men, as against 849 in Boston. In London the yearly expenditure amounts to about £155,000, in Boston to £235,000. Thanks to the great fire in the city, the London force is to be strengthened, and the outlay will be considerably increased. But when everything is done that the County Council have planned the disparity between the two fire services will still be enormous.—London Chronicle.

An Apt Reply.

A student recently asked the president of Oberlin College if he could not take a shorter course than that prescribed by the institution. "Oh, yes," was the reply, "but that depends upon what you want to make of yourself. When God wants to make an oak he takes a hundred years, but when he wants to make a squash he takes six months."

Iron Mountain.

Near the city of Durango, Mexico, is an iron mountain 640 feet high, and the iron is from 60 to 70 per cent. pure. The metallic mass spreads in all directions. The entire deposit is estimated to be sufficient to supply all the iron required in the world for 1,000 years.

England's Lifeboat Service.

The volunteer lifeboat service of England, established in 1824, has more than 300 lifeboats on the shores of the kingdom and has been instrumental in saving 30,000 lives.

Rats Suck Oranges.

Rats climb the orange trees in Southern Italy and suck the blood oranges.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9.....1898

There is an adage about sewing the wind and reaping the whirlwind. President Valentine of the Wells-Fargo Express will appreciate it because he not only has a leaning toward quotation, but the whirlwind harvest is his to reap. The inexcusable dishonesty of the express companies in refusing to pay their share of the war tax has been vigorously denounced by everybody not in the business of carrying goods. That there was any merit in the contention of the companies was not believed even by themselves. They merely thought to beat back the inevitable verdict until such time as the tax had become a thing of the past. The courts have been slow, but justice is moving. There will be introduced into Congress more than one bill for the establishment of a parcels port. The plan is feasible. It has been tried elsewhere with success. So strong is the demand for it that it will in all probability be endorsed and put into operation. Then the petty exactions of the express companies will be of no consequence. A parcels post would be popular and there is no doubt that it would in time be profitable to the department. In any event it would relieve the people from domination by a series of monopolies and teach the corporations a lesson in manners and business ethics. They have uniformly charged all the traffic would bear. When they added the price of the stamp, for which they should have paid themselves, they added a trifle more than the traffic would bear, and to be deprived of the traffic would serve them rightly.

Here is one of those statements, the absolute truth of which no one will contest, but which seems to have no abiding place in the minds of men. It is credited to Mr. J. P. Connell, a prominent mining man of Plumas county, Cal., and who has been in the mining business for thirty years. Mr. Connell says: "California mines would have proved much more satisfactory than Klondike had the same amount of money been spent in this State as has been spent for mining in the Klondike." The lowest amount given for expenses incurred by those who went to the Klondike last season is $50,000,000. Some figures place it as high as $50,000,000. But take the lesser of the two amounts and endeavor to imagine what the increased gold out-put of California would have been this year had $30,000,000 been expended on machinery and development work on California's mining properties. And it should be further remembered that that the development work done would have been productive not for one year only, but for years to come.

Twenty millions or more of dollars are to be paid Spain for the Philippines, so it seems, but the open-door policy is a part of the bargain; that is to say, Spain and other nations are to have all the privileges of trade, etc., as the people of the United States. We are told that we cannot afford to have free trade with those islands and hence that we can well afford to let other nations in on equal terms with ourselves. This being true, what do we want with the islands? We must pay all the money for government, build a big navy to protect them and then open the door for all alike. As we are not a maritime nation there are others that must profit more than we.

But it will be a glorious excuse for fine jobs! Lots of excuse for shipping old mules across the continent!

The twenty million dollars this country has agreed to pay Spain for the Philippine islands is only a beginning of what it will cost us if we try to force the natives to yield obedience to laws they are unable to comprehend and which they do not recognize our right to enforce. We predict a lively fight in the House and Senate before the Philippine islands are annexed, notwithstanding the agreement to pay Spain $20,000,000 for something that country had no right to sell. About all the title that bankrupt country can give is a mere right to fight the natives and whip them into submission, which, by the way, is a curious ending for a war began in the interests of humanity.

During the late campaign M. H. De Young's supposed candidacy for the Senate was made an issue, and in the face of it a Republican Legislature was chosen by the people of the State. Such being an accomplished fact, Mr. De Young is entitled to the honor as much as though he had been voted for directly and elected. It is now announced though, that the gentleman will not permit his name to go to the legislature, and a new candidate must be found. He has been selected in the person of Col. Dan Burns and it is now in order for the statesmen to rally to his support. And they will rally. There is no question about that.

The assassin of the President of Uruguay has been acquitted on the ground that at the time he committed the deed he was "under the influence of political effervescence". This is probably the polite Uruguayan way of saying that the man was fighting drunk.

The Pacific Coast delegation to Congress three years ago contained but one member who voted against free silver. In the next House the delegation will stand 10 to 1 in favor of the gold standard.

San Francisco teachers do not often take to the warpath, but they are there now, and Directors will manifest sound judgment by taking to the woods while they yet have scalps.

Record of all Votes Polled at the General Election held November 8, 1898.

PRECINCTS.

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Lake	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Tabosa	Independence	Citrus	Georgia Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Springs	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
For Governor of State.
HENRY T. GAGE	22	22	23	66	27	10	61	16	9	52	11	17	60	2	12	6	7		2	15	7	475
JOB HARRIMAN				1			1	1		4	1	2	1		1						1	15
JAMES G MAGUIRE	22	28	17	60	6	7	59	14	7	71	7	21	24	7	9	4	24	5	1	17	21	50	30
J. E. McCOMAS	1	3		7			1			1												17
Lieutenant-Governor.
JAMES ANDREW		3		3	2			2		6			1		1		1			1		21
EDWARD L. HUTCHISON	21	25	17	60	54	6	58	13	7	60	7	19	23	7	8	5	26	5	2	15	20	475
JACOB H. NEFF	2	28	30	64	29	11	61	15	8	59	12	17	60	2	12	5	9		1	16	8	457	1
ROBERT SUMMERS	2	4		9	2				1	1		1	1									22
Secretary of State.
CHARLES F. CURRY	20	26	28	71	43	1	60	15	8	43	10	17	54	2	11	5	7			12	7	474
EMIL LIESS	2	2			2			1		1			1		1							19
R. A. THOMPSON	20	27	19	58	40	5	56	15	7	71	8	20	55	8	10	5	34	1	3	15	24	478	22
J. W. WEBB	1	5	1	10	4		1		1	1			1								1	25
Controller.
EDWARD P. COLGAN	20	25	30	65	40	11	62	14	8	46	11	17	50	2	12	5	9			12	7	448
T. L. HIERLIHY	2	8	1	8	4		1		1	3		1	4								1	25
T. W. MAPLES	20	24	19	55	52	7	59	16	6	7	8	19	50	7	9	5	32	5	3	10	20	480	40
JOHN ROBERTSON	1	2		1				1	1	6					1					1	1	21
Treasurer.
E. M. DEWEY	2	2		2	3		2	2		7			4		1					1	2	28
WILL S. GREEN	20	32	19	50	45	7	56	13	7	63	8	19	52	7	8	4	34	5	3	16	4	485
TRUMAN REEVES	20	29	30	75	48	13	66	16	8	58	10	16	58	2	11	6	7			12	5	479	9
C. B. WILLIAMS	2	6		7	4		4			1		1	1									26
Attorney-General.
H. P. ANDREWS	22	26	26	61	56	6	60	17	6	70	8	21	57	7	10	5	34	5	1	14	20	50	92
J. H. BLANCHARD	2	8		10	9		4			4	1	1	1									41
TIRY L. FORD	18	17	28	58	32	11	55	12	9	43	9	15	54	2	11	5	7			13	8	410
A. F. STRAWN-HAMILTON	1	1						1		2					1							5
Surveyor-General.
I. H. MULHOLLAND	24	35	22	78	58	7	64	16	7	73	6	18	23	7	9	5	34	5	1	2	11	549	130
J. GEORGE SMITH		2			2		2			1			2		1							10
GREEN SPURRIER		2		11	10		2	1	1	2			1				1					4
MARTIN J. WRIGHT	17	26	26	43	25	10	45	13	8	44	10	17	44	2	11	5	6			7	9	369
Clerk of Supreme Court.
EMUEL D. RIDDLE	2	1	1	1	3		1	2		2		1	2		1		1			1		2
W. P. FASSETT	1	7	2	10	6		2		1	1	1	1	1									23
H. A. McKANEY	23	27	29	58	50	7	56	16	6	60	7	16	56	7	11	4	27	5		12	2	458	57
GEORGE W. ROOT	18	24	27	58	38	11	60	11	8	55	7	18	56	2	9	6	7			12	7	453
Superintendent of Public Instruction.
P. B. GALLAGHER	1	3	1		4					2							1			1		1
THOMAS J. KIRK	18	23	24	65	54	7	61	12	8	56	7	18	56	2	9	7	7			12	7	459
FANNY M. PUGH			2	13	8	1	2			4	1	1	2			1	1				1	32
CHRISTIAN RUNCKLE	21	25	21	54	49	7	54	16	7	63		16	27	7	12	1	32	5	3	15	15	465	56
JANE A. ROULSTON	1	2		2	2		2			8	1	2				1						21
Superintendent of State Printing.
LEROY S. ATWOOD	2	4	3	12	5		3	1		2			1									35
A. CONTI					1										1					1	1	4
ALFRED J. JOHNSTON	1	27	26	56	37	1	56	15	8	49	11	18	54	2	11	5	7			10	5	453
E. I. WOODMAN	23	28	21	60	54	5	58	15	7	67	7	19	56	7	10	5	28	5	3	15	21	524	79
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court.
WILLIAM M. CONLEY	19	2	17	55	42	5	49	17	7	57	11	16	18	5	11	3	30	5	2	10	18	454
THOS. B. McFARLAND	1	26	23	45	37	11	46	12	1	56	3	10	41	1	9	4	4	1	1	5	2	356
T. M. STEWART	1	5	2	11	5		4			4			2									34
ROBERT THOMPSON	1	1		1	2		1			2		1	1		1							29
WALTER VAN DYKE	23	26	26	55	51	6	55	16	8	60	10	17	58	6	11	5	25	5	1	13	12	488	56
WILLIAM C. VAN FLEET	16	17	23	46	25	9	42	11	9	37	7	17	49	2	8	7	6	1		10	5	351
Representative in Congress.
MARION DEVRIES	25	40	29	80	68	10	72	18	7	77	9	20	55	6	11	5	25	5	1	14	12	57	192
FRANK D. RYAN	19	21	21	60	27	7	47	12	7	44	10	18	43	2	10	4	8		1	15	6	384
Board of Equalization.
GEORGE L. ARNOLD	20	2	24	68	41	10	63	15	8	54	1	19	47	1	14	6	1			12	7	458
T. O. TOLAND	22	26	20	55	48	7	53	16	6	68	8	16	59	5	8	2	25	5	2	15	19	464	6
Railroad Commissioner.
NEHEMIAH BLACKSTOCK	18	27	30	67	40	12	60	15	7	55	11	23	54	2	11	6	6			11	6	457
J. L. DRYDEN	21	24	18	5	52	8	57	14	6	66	3	18	29	7	11	3	28	5	1	14	20	470	13
State Senator.
GEORGE B. McCORD	22	24	23	7	47	1	71	13	8	60	11	18	52	2	11	7	11			15	7	471
H. L. PACE	21	31	16	52	50	4	47	13	8	60	7	18	28	5	1	3	26	5	1	15	20	458	58
Member of the Assembly.
P. H. MACK	22	26	21	60	55	8	52	17	7	7	7	18	26	6	1	5	30	5		12	21	454	7
FINLAY McIVER	22	30	20	64	45	7	62	16	12	56	12	26	59	2	5	5	11			9	7	487
Sheriff and Tax Collector.
A. K. BRIGGS	15	7	5	13	16	1	7	1		3	1	1	8		1							82
A. M. GIVEN	2	4	23	60	40	7	61	15	8	65	7	18	41	5	7	4	12			1	5	480	13
J. J. GUNN	12	23	17	5	45	7	54	14	8	46	9	20	35	4	11	6	20	5	5	11	18	464
Clerk, Auditor and Recorder.
D. J. HESSION	29	42	31	7	65	10	83	26	13	107	12	23	59	6	14	8	33	5	4	21	28	652	412
J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH	17	18	20	54	31	7	35	4	3	25	3	14	27	2	7	2	6			7	4	287
Treasurer.
W. T. BUNNEY	28	41	28	88	52	1	81	25	11	111	11	24	55	5	10	1	12			1	10	502	4
S. G. GREGG	17	21	22	41	47	7	37	2	5	7	1	14	3	4	12	9	23	5	3	17	18	498
Assessor.
DAVID HOLLAND	16	25	31	5	15	10	7	15	8	59	8	22	53	4	14	5	15	2		2	17	457
W. W. YANDELL	30	48	19	83	80	7	45	18	8	70	10	17	54	2	7	5	30	5	5	7	19	48	95
District Attorney.
WM. D. DERBY	27	44	44	98	41	7	60	15	8	62	1	25	56	5	14	4	12	1	2	21	19	48	116
P. W. FORBES	18	21	7	17	60	10	59	14	8	63	4	11	32	0	8	1	30	4	2	8	9	464
Superintendent of Schools.
H. C. HAMPTON	27	43	16	69	67	10	65	19	12	7	14	26	25	5	10	7	13	5	4	18	21	579	115
J. H. SHANNON	19	21	26	68	14	7	58	11	4	5	1	12	56	2	11	7	1			11	8	464
Coroner and Public Administrator.
J. H. KISPERT	20	14	24	38	38	7	63	17	10	80	10	25	57	4	12	8	11		2	12	9	431
I. P. YANEY	24	54	26	89	64	7	49	12	5	58	1	12	24	4	7	2	30	5	2	16	18	53	42
County Surveyor.
W. G. DIXON	30	52	31	90	7	1	95	21	12	95	14	20	55	5	11	8	34	5	3	20	24	762	700
JOS. SELLY										2												2
Proposed Constitutional Amendments.
For Amendment No. 1	6	11	14	25	13	1	16	9	2	19	2	5	10	1	2		15			5	6	156
Against Amendment No. 1	15	15	8	35	24	5	26	4	10	40	5	18	24		8		15		1	5	7	234
For Amendment No. 2	17	30	19	48	42	7	27	7	5	37	3	8	18	4	7	4	15	4	1	9	6	247
Against Amendment No. 2	8	1	8	25	10	1	27	7	7	7	6	10	18	1			9		1	4	2	13
For Amendment No. 3	9	21	23	46	30	7	19	7	1	25	2	8	15	5	4	6	15		1	12	7	25
Against Amendment No. 3	9	5	2	30	14	3	21	6		4	4	18	26		4	3	3		1	1	4	158
For Amendment No. 4	5	12	13	26	17	2	22	8	4	23	1	1	8	2	5		10		1	8	6	185
Against Amendment No. 4	11	5	10	31	14	3	18	5	1	27	4	19	26		2	6	4		1	2	1	185
For Amendment No. 5	9	18	19	43	25	5	28	7	1	31	1	9	24	4	3	4	12		1	9	7	254
Against Amendment No. 5	10	6	7	30	14	1	18	3	1	27	5	15	24		4	3	2		1	1	1	151
For Amendment No. 6	6	19	20	33	27	6	21	6	6	31		11	9	2	2		13		2	10	6	228
Against Amendment No. 6	10	6	4	23	17	2	22	6	1	24	4	16	25		4	8	1		1	2	1	197
For Amendment No. 7	11	14	23	29	24	7	26	11	7	32	2	18	28	3	5	4	12	2	1	7	7	245
Against Amendment No. 7	16	12	7	38	14	2	21	7	1	28	4	11	28		4	3	7		2	7	1	214
For the Convention to revise Constit'n	1	12	7	20	14	1	20	11	5	18		4	8	2	1	1	9	2	1	4	5	13
Against Convention to revise Constit'n	7	8	7	30	23	7	21	15	5	25	6	12	13		8	4	3		1	4	2	264

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Lake	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Tabosa	Independence	Citrus	Georgia Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Spring	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
Supervisor, 1st District.
N. J. COOLEY	16	30	18																			64
T. D. HARGER	18	31	6																			55
FRANK SHAW	13	12	29																			54
Supervisor, 3d District.
O. I. MAIRS								39	8	6	56	11										120
JAMES JONES								77	22	8	74	7										188
Supervisor, 5th District.
CHAS. ANTHONY																9	15		2	7	8	41
T. H. HENEBRY																1	27	5	2	24	21	80
Justice of the Peace, 1st Township.
T. H. WOODWORTH	39	53	35	113	81	14																335
CHAS. JOHNSON						1																1
Justice of the Peace, 2d Township.
A. C. McDONALD								50	16	8												74
R. ROBINSON								50	9	7												66
J. S. GRAHAM								16	2													18
Justice of the Peace, 3d Township.
A. V. DAVIDSON											10	13	18									124
B. RHINE											24	6	13									43
Justice of the Peace, 4th Township.
A. C. HARVEY														64	2	10						76
Justice of the Peace, 5th Township.
R. DECKER																6	35	5	2	18	23	89
J. H. TROTTER																	1					1
J. M. KING																				14	6	20
Constable, 1st Township.
GEO. L. DRAKE	5	14	5	25	19	3																71
MILBURN C. HALL	2	14	8	29	9	1																63
EDWARD SCHOBER	7	22	13	34	40	2																118
W. E. SMITH	6	21	19	21	26	7																100
DAVID J. WILKINS	27	4	7	24	7	3																72
Constable, 2d Township.
A. P. SMITH								85	21	10												116
V. G. SMITH								33	8	5												46
Constable, 3d Township.
JOHN KEEGAN											66	12	17									95
C. W. ROBINSON											62	6	15									83
Constable, 4th Township.
E. ELDER														61	2	11						74
Constable, 5th Township.
J. W. TROTTER																	4	11			12	19	46
JEREMIAH FITZGERALD																		3					3
C. DOTY																		2			19	7	28

GRAND

HOLIDAY OPENING AT

Rhine's

DEC. TUESDAY 13TH.

A CORDIAL WELCOME TO ALL.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	559 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 975 56
	P A Chalfant assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collector	27 00
	to J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon list on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, list State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Malloy, fed	3 03
	Joseph Shirley, fed	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards list State tax	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders Big Pine bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	2 4 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	6 98
	A M Given, Tax col fees	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	43 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock & Nunn M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John Hutchinson license	133 16
	A R Schivland, on state land	3 8 63
		21 496 01
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 70
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax col fees	24 00
	D J Hession, clerk	81 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	* 48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 5 7 28
	Hospital	1 638 99
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	13 43
	Road Dist No 1	77 0
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	2 1 0 8
	" " " 4	121 50
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 500 00
	Sunday Sch'l Lib'ry	6 00
	Library "	8 18
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Milton "	15 00
	County School Fund	16 00
		8 5[illegible] 0
Aug.	Salary	1 024 98
	Road Dist. No 2	5 0
	" " 3	24 00
	General Expense	1 0 4 4
	Hospital	65 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 [illegible] 36
Sept.	General Expense	11 3
	Salary	1 024 98
	Hospital Fund
	Fish Spring
	Round Valley
	Union
	Milton School Fund
	Tabosa	21 46
	Independence	161 15
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 000 00
	Fish Springs Library	8 0
	County Bond	1 500 0
	Cash	8 146 3
		22 733 20	22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	341 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 511 29
General Expense		1 151 08
Hospital		259 1[illegible]
Road District No 1	174 80
" " " 2	386 39
" " " 3	297 97
" " " 4	233 17
" " " 5	83 22
Road Poll tax	50[illegible] 51
Unapportioned county	2 [illegible]5
Irrigation	167 99
Restitution	292 87
Teacher's Library	5 00
County school	33
Property tax	26 85
Mono school library fund	1 559 58
Round Valley	9 19
Irving	25 19
Bishop	35 [illegible]2
Sawtooth	21 17
Warm Spring	28 78
Big Pine	64
Independence	11 50
Union	1 58
Riverside	30
Lone Pine	2[illegible] 49	64
Fish Springs	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Tabosa		2 56
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Sawtooth building fund	20 14
Big Pine	5 0 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 31
Fish Springs	68 56
Lone Pine	77 60
Tabosa	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	126 71
Bishop	57[illegible] 91
Lone Pine	3[illegible]7 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 29
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Poleta	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Station	50 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Liberty	28 42
Tabosa	13[illegible] 52
Riverside special	26
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 29
Swamp and levee fund	481 79
Round Valley School	120 43
Cash on hand		8 146 39
	10 425 17	10

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL. VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING..... 25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING ..... $2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS. COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS. - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS.

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates

-- -x- --

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW, Proprietor

MISCELLANEOUS

NATHAN RHINE NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draws direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE. NATHAN RHINE.

S. P. M'KNIGHT C. E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL —

Obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY.

L. MUNZINGER & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a quantity of ice for outdoor parties.

☞ Custom respectfully solicited on all points on the C. A. C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to L. MUNZINGER & CO. Bishop Creek, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET.

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest cuts of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j19-tf

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address F. A. HYDE, 630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MERCHANDISE.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me a call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD, Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m		4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m		4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	41	1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
		No. 3.		No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar	7:25 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m		6:48 p m
Luning	122	7:10 a m		6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:29 a m		5:55 p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m		5:35 p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:30 a m		3:50 p m
Junction		10:10 a m		3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:10 a m		2:25 p m
Summit	175	12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	183	12:50 p m		12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:30 p m		11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	239	4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbets	253	4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	257	5:55 p m		7:55 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	293	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rai

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company, daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8.00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 6 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canyons of the south fork of Kings river, offers to the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—one soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.		LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv	8:15 a m	Lv	1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs		8:57 a m		2:26 p m
Franktown		9:05 a m		2:40 p m
Carson		9:20 a m		3:15 p m
Mound House		10:12 a m		5:45 p m
Gold Hill		10:55 a m		6:23 p m
Virginia	Ar	11:05 a m	Ar	6:35 p m
	TO RENO.		TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv	5:55 p m	Lv	7:45 a m
Gold Hill		6:06 p m		7:56 a m
Mound House		6:43 p m		8:30 a m
Carson		7:10 p m		9:55 a m
Franktown		7:44 p m		10:29 a m
Steamboat Springs		8:08 p m		11:13 a m
Reno	Ar	8:50 p m	Ar	11:50 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,10 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00

Manufactured by Paraffine Paint Co. 116 Battery St San Francisco.

Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9.....1898

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Hon Walter A. Lamar, Judge.

DECEMBER 6th, 1898.

In the matter of impanelling a grand jury, the following-named persons were selected and sworn:

James A. McKenzie	Darwin
Robert H. Blake	Big Pine
Daniel Hall	" "
Johnathan W. McMurry	" "
Frederick W. Conn	" "
John A. Delay	Laws
Charles H. Parsons	Bishop
Abey L. McGee.	"
August Walker	Olancha
Elijah Robinson	Independence
Thomas Webb	"
John Fichman	Keeler
Albert A. Neil	Taboose
James F. Shepherd	Georges Creek
Robert Lowe	Lincoln
Jacob A. Pfohl	Citrus
Josiah G. Dodge	Lone Pine

Methodist Church.

Services for Sunday, December 11th, 1898:

Sunday: Lone Pine—Sermon at 11 a. m. by the pastor.

Georges Creek—Sunday-school at 1:30 p. m.; preaching at 2:30 p. m.

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock.

All are most cordially invited to attend these meetings.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending December 8, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.376	3rd
Lowest "	30.004	8th
Highest temperature	62.0	2nd
Lowest "	26	5th
Mean "	44.0
Average dew point	46
Average humidity	20.8
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	32 N W	8th
No. clear days	3
No. part cloudy days	3
No. cloudy days	1
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

T. C. Boland was in town yesterday.

Dr. G. P. Doyle spent part of the week at Bishop.

The Van Dyke estate has been appraised at $10,262.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy of Keeler are visiting Independence.

D. A. Johnson went to Keeler last Monday returning next day.

Don't forget the display of Holiday Goods at Rhine's next Tuesday.

Ed Rose is spending a few days in town. His cattle are near Bishop.

The young people gave a social hop at Mairs hall last Saturday evening.

The Sunday school has a Christmas entertainment and tree under preparation.

There was another light fall of snow in the mountains this week. Every little helps.

A letter from Los Angeles states that there has been no rain there yet and the outlook is very blue.

Mrs. Jas. A. McKenzie came up from Lone Pine on Tuesday to join her husband who is a member of the Grand Jury.

Wells Barnes came in from his mine near Francis early in the week. He has been doing assessment work and has a good prospect.

Irving Woodin Jr., came home from below last week where he has been attending school. He was ill and unable to study.

The closing down of the Reward has thrown quite a number of men out of employment and the ill effect is being felt here pretty severely.

John Kelly came down from Bodie last week and spent several days examining some prospects in the neighborhood of the Key's mine. He went north Tuesday morning.

The Independence Athletic Association will give an exhibition very soon which will prove that the citizens have not encouraged this institution in vain. The Ladies Auxiliary will assist and this means a successful entertainment in every respect.

Henry Cartier has erected a jail building at Keeler which will be quite a convenience to that town. As it is intended for "drunk and disorderly" only, it is constructed entirely of lumber containing one cell 10x10 feet and a hallway. Similar buildings are to be erected at Lone Pine and Big Pine.

It is reported that Hon. P. Reddy will have a smelter running in a short time on ore from the Defiance mine. He has a very large quantity of smelting ore in his group of mines at Darwin and can keep a smelter running steadily for some time. The starting up of this enterprise will mean a great deal to this end of the Valley.

The Vaughn Bros. are reported to be taking out four dollars per day per man at their gravel mine near Citrus. The Mazourka Canyon country has produced a large amount of placer gold during the past three years, amounting, probably, close to a quarter of a million of dollars, and there has been no fuss made about it either.

Harry Cook came in from Mazourka last Monday for a load of supplies, going back Wednesday. He and Thorpe are still at work in the long tunnel, being now in about 2,300 feet. They have got to water level and beyond question will soon be on bedrock. They deserve all kinds of success, for a more plucky pair of men never existed.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Report of Grand Jury.

To the Hon. Walter A. Lamar, Judge of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo State of California.

We, the Grand Jury, impaneled in the said Superior Court on the 6th day of December A. D. 1898, hereby report to the Court as follows.

We have examined the books of the various County officers, and as far as our limited time would permit, find them to be correct and in a neat and orderly condition.

We have examined the County Hospital and find the patients well satisfied with the food, lodgings, accommodations and medical treatment.

We have examined the Court-House and find the same in fair condition.

Resolved, that it is the opinion of this Grand Jury that the County of Inyo, through and by its Board of Supervisors, should procure forty acres of land in a suitable location and erect thereon suitable buildings and appurtenances for a home for the indigent sick and dependent poor of this County, and that a suitable matron be appointed to supervise and take charge of the same.

Resolved, that the Road Commissioners expend more money for labor on the County roads and less for time-keeping and overseeing the same, as some of the Road Commissioners bills are more than three times as large as the amount expended for labor on the roads in their Road Districts.

We believe it necessary and shall employ an expert to expert the various Books of the County officers.

We adjourn to meet the 28th day of March, 1899.

JAMES A. MCKENZIE
Foreman.

Big Pine News.

BIG PINE, December 7, 1898

ED. INDEPENDENT:

The banner camp of Inyo still stands off. The lack of humidity in the atmosphere so prevalent on the coast is evident here, but the dwellers are reasonably healthy and happy. The crops around the hamlet were quite bountiful and the exhibit of thanks displayed on the 24th of November last were as decent a lot as any in the State. The building mania of our citizens still continues. The Barhams—late of San Diego—have erected two neat houses on the Uhlmeyer addition and two new smokes ascend from two new homes. Mr. Louis Schalton will soon complete a neat new structure opposite Judge McDonald's place. More new homes are planned for the closing year of the century.

The crop of broken pledges and promises harvested by the election Board at the November round-up showed the presence of more of the lineal descendents of Annanias than of any previous census, yet they all exclaim with truthful acclaim, "Thou canst not say I did it."

The good people of this camp will illustrate the "Peace on earth and good will to men" on the evening of December 23rd as follows: A Christmas tree for the little ones accompanied by music and literary exercises at Educational hall helped by an "eat" planned after the ever-memorable Big Pine canal supper, the red letter eat of the hamlet. The doing of the aforesaid will consume the evening up to about 8:60 when a hop, a "Big Piner", will appear with an "eat" which will be a hummer. The shekels gathered from our Christmas festivities will be appropriated by our Board of Trustees of the Big Pine school district for the purpose of seating, ceiling and lighting Educational hall, and no one is barred from participating in the aforesaid festivities and aiding in the worthy object mentioned above.

Mr. Archie Farrington is quite ill with rheumatism at Alvord.

SWAMPER.

The Walker Lake Bulletin is responsible for the following:

Searchlight is the latest Nevada camp to crop up. It is 25 miles north-east of Manvel, 12 miles west of the Colorado river, and 60 miles north of the Needles. There are about 80 prospects, some few of which are opened to the depth of 125 feet and show good ore.

The Holmes Mining Company has authorized the Directors to create a bonded indebtedness of $175,000, with which to pay existing debts and to provide funds for resuming work in the mines.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Laws will leave this week for a trip through the Eastern States. This will be their first visit to the scenes of their childhood for many years.

Bishop is growing steadily but surely, and if the spirit of enterprise now manifesting itself in plans assumes practical shape the community will improve still more rapidly. Several propositions of importance are under consideration, and if they materialize the effect will be to give this neighborhood more or less of a boom. We hope to be able to announce some interesting details before long.—Register.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff,
vs.
IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898. D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

[SEAL] 62:t5

FARM AND GARDEN

A DEHORNING CAGE.

How to Make a Kind of Cage That Has Been Well Tested—Directions For Use.

A cage to be used in dehorning cattle and which can be easily transported by wagon and set down at any convenient place at the opening of a shed or end of a lane is illustrated and described in The National Stockman and Farmer:

Dimensions.—Six feet long, 6 feet high, 3½ feet wide at top in front and 4½ feet wide at top at back end; bottom or footboard 1 foot wide, with 7 cleats 1½ inches thick, 1 foot long, nailed across it to keep cattle from slipping; footboard 2 inches thick and rests on three 2 by 4 inch crosspieces 4 feet long. To these are bolted upright pieces 7 feet long and 2 by 4 inches for nailers for sides of cage. Across the top of cage are used two strips 1 by 4 inches for each set of uprights, bolted one on each side of upright. The inside of this frame is headed up with inch plank of convenient widths. The lower 2½ feet should be close enough to prevent animals putting their feet through the cracks.

On left side, 3½ feet from bottom, should be used a board a foot wide and 1 foot longer than the cage. In this bore two inch holes four inches from sides of board. Through these put a piece of rope and tie on outside. This loop is put over the animal's nose and drawn tight by the use of a handspike. An upright lever is used to catch back of the head and draw it to the left side of cage. This upright should be a strong 3 by 4 inch, 9 feet long, bolted to bottom cross piece near the right side, the upper end slipping back and forth between the crosspieces that hold the tops of the two front uprights in place. This lever is thrown to the right when open for the animal to enter. As soon as the head passes it is pushed to the left side and fastened as tight as required by a small iron pin slipped through the crosspieces at top back of it.

CAGE FOR DEHORNING.

As soon as the head is fastened a handspike is slipped through the cage back of the animal and another over the neck to hold the head down. There remain in place usually without holding, the operator standing in front while taking off the horns. The smallest animals having horns up to a bull weighing 1,800 pounds have been dehorned in this sized cage. Animals weighing up to 1,200 pounds pass right through the cage when the holding lever is thrown back against the right side. Cows heavy in calf and larger animals back out of cage. The maker of this cage has remodeled it three times to get it as described and has used it nine years.

An exchange quotes statistics of the department of agriculture to the effect that the farmers of the United States received from their cereal crops of 1897 something like $130,000,000 more than for those of 1896 and $80,000,000 more than for those of any preceding year since 1892.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

IN the Matter of the Estate of EDWIN M. CROCKER, deceased. Notice of Sale of Real Estate

Notice is Hereby Given, that in pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 14th day of May, 1898, and of an order of said Court, made on the 16th day of November, 1898, in the matter of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, the undersigned, the Administrator of said Estate, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, and subject to confirmation by said Superior Court, on MONDAY, the 12th day of December, 1898, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Court House, in the Town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Edwin M. Crocker, deceased, at the time of his death, and all the right, title and interest that the said estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired since his death, in and to all those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, situated and being in the County of Inyo, State of California bounded and described as follows:

The NE¼ of NE¼ of Sec 5, W½ of NW¼, SE¼ of NW¼, NE¼ of SW¼, NE¼ of SE¼ and S½ of SE¼ of Sec. 4, and W½ of NE¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 8 South, Range 35 East, M. D. M., containing 560 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, all of Sec 16, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 640 acres.

Also, Lot No. 1 and W½ of Lot No. 2 in NE¼, and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 3, SE¼ of SE¼ of Sec 5; SW¼ of SW¼ of Sec 4, and W½ of NW¼ of Sec. 9, all in Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 319 and 79-100 acres.

Also, the W½ of NW¼, and NW¼ of SW¼ of Sec. 19, Township 9 South, Range 33 East, and NE¼ of SE¼ of Sec. 24, Township 9 South, Range 32 East, all of Mount Diablo Meridian, containing 192 and 79-100 acres.

Also, the NW¼ of the SE¼, and the S½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 17, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 120 acres.

Also, the N½ of the NE¼ of Sec. 19 and the E½ of the SE¼ of Sec. 18, Township 9 South, Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Also, the SW¼ of the SW¼ of Sec 4, Township 9 S., R. 34 East, M. D. M., containing 40 acres.

Also, the NE¼ of Sec 8, Township 9 S., Range 34 East, M. D. M., containing 160 acres.

Terms and Conditions of Sale: Cash, lawful money of the United States; ten per cent of the purchase money to be paid to the undersigned on day of sale, balance on confirmation of sale by said Court.

Deed at the expense of purchaser.

JAMES R. MOFFETT,
Administrator of the Estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased.

Dated November 17th, 1898.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased, to the Creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within Ten Months after the first publication of this notice to the said administrator at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate in the said County of Inyo, State of California.

DAVID HOLLAND,
Administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., Dec 9th, 1898.

LEGAL.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of Edouard Chenot, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned, Executors of the last Will and Testament of

EDOUARD CHENOT,

deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executors, at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of the said estate in the County of Inyo, State of California.

J. E. SHEPHERD and
W. L. HUNTER,
Executors of the estate of Edouard Chenot deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., November 30th 1898.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on TUESDAY, December 27, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the S. ½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, Sec. 35, Tp. 12 S., R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: Henderson D Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

" ..... May 28th
" ..... July 2nd
" ..... July 30th
" ..... August 27th
" ..... September 24th
" ..... October 22nd
" ..... November 26th
" ..... December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE——

TAILOR

——SATISFACTION GUARANTEED——

☞ Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

☞ All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

HORSESHOEING

....AND....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRESS Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT, STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley.

WHEAT $2 A BUSHEL.

Some farmers are holding their wheat because they think the price will go to $2 a bushel. The price, however, may go down and thus great losses will follow. In all matters delays are dangerous, particularly so in sickness. At the first sign of biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion or constipation, cure yourself with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

The output of the coal mines of Wyoming is double this year what it was last.

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208-212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

"You say he is not a litterateur." "Yes." "How do you know he isn't?" "He is able to sell what he writes."

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

"The living skeleton objects to playing the second fiddle and sitting at the end of the platform," said Fatima. "There's no second fiddle about it," replied the Circassian beauty, "he's the bones."

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has saved me large doctor bills.—C. L. Baker, 4228 Regent Sq., Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8, 1895.

Difficult to Inflict Pain.

The doctor smoked slowly on his cigar. It was plain that he had something to say.

"I was thinking of my early college days," he said, "and of a peculiar incident that happened very soon after I began my studies. The professor was instructing the class one day on the corpuscles of the blood. In order to get some fresh blood for microscopical examination each student was ordered to tie a rag around his forefinger and strike the top of the finger suddenly with a needle with sufficient force to draw blood. Seems easy, doesn't it? Do you know there wasn't a man in the class that did it at the first attempt. It was funny to watch some of those embryo surgeons poise the needle with a determined air and launch it to within a hair space of the flesh and there stop dead. Others tried to force the needle in slowly, but paused very shortly, with an expression of pain commensurate to that of an amputation. I myself gave it up as a bad job, and hacked a cavity in my thumb with a penknife, and found it easier.

"The fact that we were very young and inexperienced is no explanation for this peculiarity, as I have since found by personal test. Almost everybody exhibited the same repugnance to inflicting pain in that manner. Try it yourself."

The other man tried and succeeded on the fourth trial.—New York Sun.

Art of Making a Mustard Plaster.

To put on a mustard plaster is not at all difficult, but to do it in the best way requires some care and skill. In the first place, remember never to give a cold mustard plaster to a patient. To a weak or sensitive person the shock is often great. Either mix with very hot water, or, better still, have a plate put where it can get warm while you are mixing. Having everything ready at hand, mustard, flour and a spoonful of molasses, with a bit of old muslin or linen—an old handkerchief is the best thing for the purpose. Stir the mustard and flour together first, making the plaster stronger or weaker with mustard as you have been directed. Add the molasses and then the water until the smooth mass is about as thick as porridge or poultice. Spread your cloth on the warm plate, using the middle portion of the linen and leaving a margin on all sides, which is to be folded back at the edges. Put a second cloth over the whole, so that the mustard is entirely hid between the two covers and keep on the plate until it is necessary to apply the plaster.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Just the Time.

This is just the time of the year we feel the muscles all sore and stiff, and then is just the time to use St. Jacobs Oil to relax them and to cure at once.

A General Proposition.

Wickwire (looking at board with "Pity the Blind" on it)—You are no more blind than I am.

Dismal Dawson—Well, what's it to you?

Wickwire—What business have you wearing that card?

Dismal Dawson—Jist as much right as anybody. I don't say I'm blind. This here is jist a abstract proposition. See?—London Tit-Bits.

Dawson City Prices.

Here is a recent bill of fare of a Dawson City restaurant: Coffee or tea, 75 cents a cup; pie, 75 cents a piece; porridge, $1.75 a plate; soup, $1 a plate; sandwiches, 75 cents each; steak, $3; a portion of candied fruit, $1; whisky, 50 cents a glass; complete table d'hote meal, half an ounce of gold.

Every Action

And every thought requires an expenditure of vitality which must be restored by means of the blood flowing to the brain and other organs. This blood must be pure, rich and nourishing. It is made so by Hood's Sarsaparilla which is thus the great strength-giving medicine, the cure for weak nerves, that tired feeling and all diseases caused by poor, impure blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure indigestion. 25 cents.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

: A COUNTRY CRACKER. :

ACCORDING to his schoolmates, Bubber Ramp was a country cracker. And who knows better a child's social and financial standing than its schoolfellows.

His face was not round and rosy like other jolly, sweet-tempered boys, for Bubber was a slender child with face pale and lanky, straight hair, streaked in color with the shades of half-pulled molasses candy. He was subject to chills and fevers which kept him away from school about half the time and gave his teacher an excuse for scolding him whenever there was no one else in particular for her to scold. His father was a section master on the Georgia railroad and they lived in the "ten-mile shanties," which were built on the side of the railroad and on the edge of a deep cut, through which the wind blew a perfect gale the whole year round.

But if by living on the cut Bubber acquired the chill and fever habit, he also gained the knowledge which enabled him to save the lives of some 500 people—Sunday school children with their friends and teachers. It was the picnic of Bubber's Sunday school, but because it fell on his chill day his mother said he could not attend. So he contented himself with walking five miles up the rilroad to Belair, the nearest station where the train would stop, with a huge bunch of flowers for his Sunday school teacher. This teacher, be it understood, was one of the people who did not know about Bubber being a country cracker, but considered him a jolly, amiable boy.

After handing the bouquet through the car window, Bubber stood for a while looking wistfully at the trainload of happy children. Then something occurred which made his schoolmates forget forever that he was homely and poor, and this is how it happened.

II.

Southward from Brazelia the road drops down steadily for five or six miles. There follows the little rise to the top of Habersham hill; and then comes the sharp sag of a mile or more to Belair and the level valley of the Savannah.

John Johnson, or "Yucker," as he was called for short, was the most darling engineer on the Georgia and had the best run on the road until he joined the strike of the Knights of Labor. After the difficulty was settled and the strikers went back to work, Yucker, for the sake of discipline, was put to hauling way freight between Union Point and Augusta.

There was nothing at Brazelia but the siding and the dull red station house, and little else at Belair. It wasn't often that Yucker had to leave or pick up anything at either place, and he liked to sail by both stations at top speed, and loaf further down the line to make up for it.

On this particular day, while his fireman was taking water at the big red tank at Thompson, Yucker went into the station for orders. He found that there was nothing for him at Brazelia or Belair. He had nothing to leave at either station, so he climbed back into his cab, meaning to go through to Wheelers to meet the up freight. Sometimes he met it at Belair, but whenever he got the chance he ran by and trusted to luck that it would be held for him at Wheelers.

III.

The people at the station were benumbed with fright. They stared with horror-stricken faces at the oncoming engine as some great demon hurrying to destroy the excursion train with its load of human freight. Paralyzed with fear, they could neither move nor cry aloud.

In the whole crowd there was but one who could think and act. He was a slender, pale-faced boy, and he rushed up the track towards the coming train.

"TO THIS BRAVE BOY YOU OWE THE PRESERVATION OF YOUR LIVES."

"Git out, git out," his shrill voice shouted to the men in the cab of the up freight. "Jump and run, jump and run."

He was tugging at a switch key, and they saw what he meant. So down the men jumped from the engine, while the boy ran on to the switch. His hands seemed paralyzed, so long did it appear before he forced it open, then he stepped back just as the way freight rushed by and ran full tilt into the up freight. There was a tremendous crash. The engine of the way freight rode over the other and smashed it into fragments. Then it sat down on its own cab with the forward truck in the air and one wheel whirling around like a millstone. The following cars piled up in a great heap, and over it all rose a great cloud of dust.

The terrified excursionists scrambled from their own train rushed over to the wreck and stood in speechless horror and amazement. Then the freight conductor came up and searching among the crowd led out a slender, pale-faced lad.

"To this brave boy," he said, raising his hand to attract attention, "you owe the preservation of your lives. But for his presence of mind—" Here his voice choked. With tears streaming down his face he finished the sentence by motioning toward the excursion train.

"There were more than 500 on board," said the Sunday school superintendent. "The majority of them children."

"Not a life lost," cried one of the trainmen, running up. "Yucker, his firemen and both brakemen jumped for their lives after shutting off steam

"IT'S 'BOUT TIME FOR MY CHILL," SAID BUBBER.

and putting down brakes. They came off without a scratch."

"It was a miracle," said the preacher.

"It was Bubber Ramp," cried a childish voice. "I seen him when he opened the switch."

Then the crowd surrounded the pale-faced lad, pushing and shoving to shake his hand, to touch him, or even to get a look at him. What was said or who said it no one could ever tell, but in the midst of it all there sounded the shrill whistle of a nearby sawmill.

"It's 'leven o'clock," said Bubber, looking up at the sun. "It's 'bout time for my chill, so I'd better be gittin' home." And he hurried off down the track toward the ten-mile shanties as complacently as though nothing unusual had happened.

The following week the Sunday school superintendent accompanied the railroad official when he went to tell Mr. Ramp of his appointment to a better position on the road. The superintendent, in behalf of the people on board the excursion train, presented Bubber with a bicycle and a gold watch.

"Why, Mr. Brand," said Bubber, regarding in awed astonishment the handsome wheel and timepiece, two things above all others he had most longed for, "I never done nuthin' but turn the switch key. Anybody could 've done that. I've been doin' it ever since I was goin' on seven years old."—Omaha Bee.

A Multi-Millionaire.

At 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Aug. 16, Mavro Gruenbaum had only one blue shirt, no summer coat, no money, no home even of the humblest kind except what his friend Schwartz gave him. At 4 o'clock Gruenbaum was heir to $7,500,000 and knew it.

The news of Gruenbaum's good fortune came to him suddenly as he was taking a walk and musing despondently on his misery. A casual acquaintance from Buda Pesth, Hungary, broke the wondrous news to him. It was contained in a letter from an attorney of Buda Pesth, who inquired as to the whereabouts of Gruenbaum, whose uncle had died in Turin, Italy, leaving $15,000,000 to his two nephews. The dead uncle had been a leader under Kossuth and had been driven into exile. In Italy he became a contractor and then a capitalist and when he died had amassed the fortune which he left to his nephews, whom he had never seen.

Mavro Gruenbaum arrived in New York five months ago almost penniless. He had been unable to procure work and would have starved if it had not been for Schwartz. He will share his fortune with his benefactor in adversity.

Franklin's Famous Toast.

Franklin was dining with a small party of distinguished gentlemen, when one of them said: "Here are three nationalities represented; I am French, and my friend here is English, and Mr. Franklin is an American. Let each one propose a toast." It was agreed to and the Englishman's turn came first. He arose and in the tone of a Briton bold said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to all nations of the earth." The Frenchman was rather taken back at this, but he proposed "Here's to France, the moon of whose magic rays move the tides of the world." Franklin then arose, with an air of quaint modesty, and said: "Here's to George Washington, the Joshua of America, who commanded the sun and moon to stand still—and they obeyed."—Our Youth's Friend.

Scarcity of Camphor Trees.

The manufacture of camphor in Japan has fallen off considerably and many men have gone out of the business altogether. This is due to the growing scarcity of camphor trees. Japanese production is now confined almost wholly to Formosa.

To Stop Hemorrhage.

To stop bleeding from the lungs take a teaspoonful of table salt and swallow it dry. Keep perfectly quiet, in a recumbent position, until a physician arrives.

PROFITS FOR THE TATTOOER.

War Has Brought Extra Business for the Artist on Skin.

The war boomed at least one Bowery industry, says a New York correspondent. It brought grist to the mills of the "professors" who use the Japanese needle on the human skin. One of the best known tattooers has a "studio" in Chatham square, another expert can be found under the skylight of a Bowery saloon. There is no better profession for a young man to adopt, according to the leading professor, than that of tattooing, provided, of course, that the learner has a gift for the art. He modestly admits that it is a mighty poor year when he doesn't earn $5,000 or $6,000. For the benefit of those who know nothing of tattooing, it may be said that the prices vary from 25 cents to $40. You can get an anchor and three stars for 30 cents, but a Japanese dragon costs $40. "In Memory of Mother," "The Sailor's Return" and "Hope" come at about $3 apiece, and are very popular. "The Sinking Ship" has a certain vogue among the despondent, but "Hoisting the Flag," which represents a sailor turning the glorious stars and stripes loose in a gale of wind, is deservedly the most popular design. It figures on the bosoms of most American seamen. Of late, however, pictures of the Maine, the portraits of the naval heroes, eagles and flags have had the call. The professor is himself a walking art gallery. He proudly exhibits "The Crucifixion," a battle scene and several other works of his beloved tutor. One of the earliest photographs of Lillian Russell, taken when she was about 17 years old, has been tattooed on the arms of thousands of American citizens, and it is not a very attractive photograph at that. Experts say the tattoo mark is one of the best aids the police have in catching criminals. One Bowery artist makes a specialty of "covering old work" and administers cocaine when it is desired, though he says the needle doesn't hurt.

Tornado and Cyclone.

The government weather bureau has sent out the following distinction, so that all may know the difference between these two forms of atmospheric disturbance.

The tornado is a sudden outburst of wind in an otherwise quiet, sultry atmosphere; it is ushered in by a loud, indescribable roar, similar to a continuous roll of thunder; its path is very narrow—seldom more than 500 feet wide at greatest destruction; it moves generally from southwest to northeast, and rarely extends more than 20 miles; it very often rises in the air, to decend again at a point a few miles ahead; it is always accompanied by thunderstorms, with often a bright glow in the cloud; the cloud has usually a funnel shape, which appears to be whirling, though some observers have described its appearance as like that of a huge ball rolling forward. A tornado may be considered as the result of an extreme development of conditions which otherwise produce thunderstorms.

A cyclone, on the other hand, is a very broad storm, oftentimes 1,000 miles in diameter, and sometimes can be followed half around the world; the winds circulate about it from right to left, or the way one turns clock hands backward (in the Southern Hemisphere this motion is reversed). The air pressure always falls as one approaches the center, where at sea, there is often a calm, with clear sky visible at times. The cyclone winds often rise to hurricane force, but are not to be compared with the extreme violence of the tornado, before which the most solid structures are razed.

Bee Stings.

Nature has been getting information from bee-keepers as to immunity from stings. Circulars were sent to one hundred and forty-five bee-keepers in Germany. From the replies, it appears that all but twenty-six had acquired immunity, nine or so having it naturally. The number of stings required to bring the result varies from about thirty to one hundred, and the remedies applied range from tobacco juice, salvia and water to French brandy, rum, ammonia, acetate of alumnia, heat and massage. Doctor Langer, who is conducting the investigations, states that a two to five per cent. solution of permanganate of potash injected will counteract the poison. It used to be supposed that the poison of bee stings was due to formic acid; but as it has been found that heat does not destroy the poisonous activity, this can hardly be the case, and it is more likely that the toxic substance partakes of the nature of an alkaloid.

Collection of Garters.

There is one collection of garters in Normandy and another in the North of England. In one there are some 200 examples, classified into two sections—the curious and the historical. One of the most interesting of the latter class is a faded garter of green silk, sewn with a design of hearts and diamonds in gold threads, which is reputed to have belonged to the famous Miss Stewart, one of Charles II.'s favorites. Another interesting item of the collection is genuine garter once belonging to Queen Elizabeth, made of wide white satin, embroidered with silver thread and having paste buckles in the shape of stars.

She Will Be Rich.

There is considerable comment concerning Christina Linke, a servant in the house of a Vienna merchant, who has come into possession of a large fortune, inherited from her father, a usurer who was several times arrested and put into prison. The girl was brought up in the greatest penury and was entirely ignorant of the great wealth hidden in her father's house at found after his death.

The World's Newspaper Output.

The total number of copies of newspapers printed throughout the world in one year is 12,000,000. To print these requires 781,240 tons of paper, or 1,562,480,000 pounds, while it would take the fastest press in London 333 years to print a single year's edition, which would produce a stack of papers nearly fifty miles high.

White elephants have become so scarce in India that they are now protected by law. Sportsmen will be glad to know that the law is not in effect in this country.

Stiff hats cover a multitude of soft brains.

STRONG STATEMENTS.

Three Women Relieved of Female Troubles by Mrs. Pinkham.

From Mrs A. W. SMITH, 59 Summer St., Biddeford, Me.:

"For several years I suffered with various diseases peculiar to my sex. Was troubled with a burning sensation across the small of my back, that all-gone feeling, was despondent, fretful and discouraged; the least exertion tired me. I tried several doctors but received little benefit. At last I decided to give your Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The effect of the first bottle was magical. Those symptoms of weakness that I was afflicted with, vanished like vapor before the sun. I cannot speak too highly of your valuable remedy. It is truly a boon to woman."

From Mrs. MELISSA PHILLIPS, Lexington, Ind., to Mrs. Pinkham:

"Before I began taking your medicine I had suffered for two years with that tired feeling, headache, backache, no appetite, and a run-down condition of the system. I could not walk across the room. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound, one box of Liver Pills and used one package of Sanative Wash, and now feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work."

From Mrs. MOLLIE E. HERREL, Powell Station, Tenn.:

"For three years I suffered with such a weakness of the back, I could not perform my household duties. I also had falling of the womb, terrible bearing-down pains and headache. I have taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel like a new woman. I recommend your medicine to every woman I know."

The Round Robin.

The "round robin" had its origin several centuries ago in France.

It was used there by officers of the army as a method of expressing their dissatisfaction with the course of the king or his ministers. By signing in a circular form the leaders of the movement could not be ascertained and singled out for punishment.

The first instance on record of the use of this form of protest in the navy occurred in 1625. At the instigation of the Duke of Buckingham, the king's favorite, an English fleet, under Admiral Bennington, was dispatched to Rochelle to assist in the coercion of the Protestant subjects of Louis XIII of France. But the English tars, in common with their fellow countrymen, looked with favor upon the resistance of their coreligionists against the proselyting zeal of the French king, and they signed a "round robin," expressing their determination not to fire a shot against them, and without waiting for a reply they weighed anchor and brought their ships back to England. The admiral, however, received a peremptory order to return to Dieppe, whereupon the whole of the crews quitted the ships without further parley.—Providence Journal.

Value of Toes In Walking.

The idea that the lesser toes are necessary in walking is generally entertained, and it has been a surprise to European physicians to learn that amputation of all the lesser toes of both feet has been followed by complete recovery and the restoration to usefulness of both the feet operated upon. The feet healed slowly after the operation, but very steadily and without unpleasant complications. The operation was performed, and in a little more than a year and a half the patient danced all night and experienced no inconvenience whatever on account of having only one toe on each foot. She rides a wheel, plays tennis and enjoys every sport that girls of her age are fond of. The cause of the trouble was originally chilblains, which was neglected until it produced contraction of the muscles with the most intense pain, which was at times so severe that she could not enjoy the necessary amount of sleep. Surgeons are of the opinion that a great deal of needless suffering is endured which might be relieved by extremely simple operations on the feet.—New York Ledger.

Dodging a Shot.

When Dewey was first lieutenant of one of the gunboats which Farragut used as a dispatch boat the admiral used often to come aboard and steam up near the levee to reconnoiter. The southerners had a way of rushing a field-piece to the top of the high bank, firing point blank at the gunboat and then backing down again. Upon one such occasion Farragut saw Dewey dodge a shot.

"Why don't you stand firm, lieutenant?" said he. "Don't you know you can't jump quick enough?"

A day or so after the admiral dodged a shot. The lieutenant smiled and held his tongue, but the admiral had a guilty conscience. He cleared his throat once or twice, shifted his attitude and finally declared:

"Why, sir, you can't help it, sir. It's human nature, and there's an end to it."

The Recruit's Religion.

Captain Philip Trevor begins a paper in The Nineteenth Century on "The Catholicism of the British Army" as follows:

"What's yer religious persuasion?" said the sergeant to the recruit.

"My what?"

"Yer what? Why, what I said. What's yer after o' Sundays?"

"Rabbits mostly."

"'Ere, stow that lip. Come, now, chu'ch, chapel or 'oly Roman?"

And after explanation from his questioner the recruit replied: "I ain't nowise pertickler. Put me down chu'ch o' England, sergeant. I'll go with the band."

Accounting For the Size of a Fee.

"It strikes me, Mr. Brief," said Mr. Dogway, "that your charge of $750 for this opinion is pretty steep."

"No doubt," said Mr. Brief. "But you see, Dogway, when you come and ask me for an opinion which violates all my convictions you've got to pay not only for your law, but for my conscience."—Harper's Bazar.

While You Sleep.

Do not have too much air blowing through your room at night, or neuralgia may creep upon you while you sleep. But if it comes, use St. Jacobs Oil; it warms, soothes and cures promptly.

FORESTALLED HIM.

The Chipper Youth Knew What Usually Happened In Such Cases.

The fresh young man with no respect in his soul for gray hairs and dyed whiskers swung himself on the car in the middle of a block, and leaning against the brake handle proceeded to roll a cigarette with great deftness. The fat man who despises the ways of the youth on general principles leaned against the window guards and watched the development of a cigarette.

"Got a match, neighbor?" inquired the fresh young man as he put the last finishing twist to his smoke.

"Young man"—began the fat man after a brief, elderly pause, calculated to greatly impress the cigarette smoker.

"Yes, I know all about"— interrupted the youth, "so you might as well choke your lecture on a bornin. I know cigarettes will kill me if I stick to 'em, but I don't care. It's an easy death. I know if I must smoke I should smoke cigars, but I don't like the color of 'em. I've got a touch of paresis now, and I'm due for more. I know you think of all the disgusting things in the world a cigarette is the worst.

"I know they undermine the constitution and are wrecking the rising generation. Now if I've forgotten anything you were going to say help me out. Come to think of it, I've got a match myself. If I keep on smoking these things, I won't be able to think at all before long. I know if you had a boy that smoked cigarettes you would lick him within an inch of his life. I nearly forgot you were going to say that. Where do you get off anyhow?"

"Here," gasped the fat man as he dropped off the platform, muttering something about what this country is coming to. And the fresh young man lighted his cigarette with a grin.—Washington Times.

The Birth of the Prince.

Paris was in an uproar. The whole city was as if insane. Church bells rang joyful peals, great guns fired equally joyful salvos, happy announcements were posted up at every point of vantage, and excited crowds besieged every entrance and avenue to the palace in a perfect delirium of joy.

Now, after many years, I find it difficult to understand—or indeed almost to realize—that many of those then shouting so enthusiastically for joy are the same people who lately yelled with savage fury: "A bas l'empire! A bas l'imperatrice!"

Equally mad was the enthusiasm, equally mad the delight, when the prince imperial was baptized, and equally mad were the howls of fury against the whole imperial family when the sad news came of the reverse the imperial army had suffered when battle after battle had been lost.

Some of the noblest, the most generous, the most self devoted men I have ever known in the course of a somewhat long life I have found among Frenchmen—men quite worthy to be classed among the grandest heroes of antiquity. But there is a reverse side to the medal, and when the tigerish nature of the excitable Frenchman is roused he is capable of a savage cruelty very near akin to that of the wild beast to which he has been compared.—Cornhill Magazine.

Culinary Information.

Mistress—Do you call this sponge cake? Why, it's as hard as it can be.

New Cook—Yes, mum, that's the way a sponge is before it's wet. Soak it in your tea, mum.—Town and Country Journal.

It Can Be Made to Go.

"The melancholy days have come;" has rheumatism come with them? It can be made to go right off by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, which cures and leaves no trace behind.

In France the oxen that work in the fields are regularly sung to as an encouragement to exertion, and no peasant has the slightest doubt but that the animals listen to him with pleasure.

Elephants on Indian railways pay at the rate of 6 cents a mile. The baggage cars have compartments for dogs, cats, guinea pigs, rabbits and monkeys.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

The king of Greece, when conversing with the members of his family, never employs any but the English language. He seldom speaks French and only uses Greek when compelled to do so.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

A Benefactress' Kind Act.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. John Tansey, of 130 Baker Street, Detroit, Michigan, is one of those women who always know just what to do in all trouble and sickness. One that is a mother to those in distress. To a reporter she said:

"I am the mother of ten children and have raised eight of them. Several years ago we had a serious time with my daughter, which began when she was about sixteen years old. She did not have any serious illness but seemed to gradually waste away. Having never had any consumption in our family, as we come of good old Irish and Scotch stock, we did not think it was that. Our doctor called the disease by an odd name which, as I afterward learned, meant lack of blood.

"It is impossible to describe the feeling John and I had as we noticed our daughter slowly passing away from us. We finally found, however, a medicine that seemed to help her, and from the first we noticed a decided change for the better, and after three months' treatment her health was so greatly improved you would not have recognized her. She gained in flesh rapidly and soon was in perfect health. The medicine used was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I have always kept these pills in the house since and have recommended them to many people. I have told many mothers about them and they have effected some wonderful cures.

Most of the Time She Was Confined to Bed.

"Every mother in this land should keep these pills in the house, as they are good for many ailments, particularly those arising from impoverished or diseased blood, and weakened nerve force."

The Place For the Repentant.

They had eloped and returned for the parental blessing.

"Father," the beautiful young woman said, "we are sorry for what we have done. Will you"—

"Then," the stern old man interrupted, "why don't you go to the lawyer around the corner? I'm no divorce court."—Chicago News.

One Consolation.

There is one consolation in being on the shady side of life. When a man gets to be 50 years or so and he says of a young woman, "Confound it, if I wasn't married already I'd marry the girl myself," he actually believes she would have him. This is as good as getting her, better perhaps.—Boston Transcript.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnolds's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory.

MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated

IXL TAMALES, FRIJOLES, CHILE CON CARNE, CHICKEN SOUP — IN CANS

Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.

If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.
ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.
Send For Catalogue
WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

THE REALTY SYNDICATE
14 Sansome St., San Francisco, CALIFORNIA.
ASSETS, $6,533,192.43. CAPITAL PAID IN $1,704,150.68
Small and large sums received, in single payment or installment. Interest 6 per cent per annum, paid semi-annually. Correspondence solicited.

司公業實

Trade Mark. BIG G. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Sea

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

HERCULES ✳ GAS ✳ ENGINES,

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

S. F. N. U. No. 855. New Series No. 46.

Ben H Yandel

INYO INDEPENDENT.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.
Independence, Cal.
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 27. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., DECEMBER 16, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1498.

INYO INDEPENDENT
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.20
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

THE LAD THAT IS GONE.

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone,
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to the Skye.

Mull was astern, rum on the port,
Eggs on the starboard bow;
Glory of youth glowed in his soul—
Where is that glory now?

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone,
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to the Skye.

Give me again all that was there;
Give me the sun that shone!
Give me the eyes, give me the soul,
Give me the lad that is gone!

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone,
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to the Skye.

Billow and breeze, island and sea,
Mountains of rain and sun;
All that was good, all that was fair,
All that was me is gone.
—R. L. Stevenson.

MY ENGAGEMENTS.

I AM convinced in my own mind that it is quite the right thing for a woman to be really angry sometimes. I don't mean a raging, violent sort of anger that makes one untidy and flushed, but a superior, discreet anger through which one can smile and talk and cause no damage to the arrangement of one's back hair.

He proposed to me five times, which I thought a pity each time he did it, and his proposals used to make me hot and exhausted. They were all made in June, and generally in the sun (Cousin George never had much idea of the fitness of things), and I so soon came to the end of all I had to say that I was at a disadvantage, and quite uncomfortable, sitting there and saying nothing; whereas, Cousin George seemed able to prattle on forever.

I don't know why I did it, but the fifth time Cousin George grew white about the lips and finished up, as usual, by saying: "Will you marry me, Flo?" I said: "Oh, well, I don't mind if I do." And really I didn't mind, for I had known Cousin George for years and years, and was fond of him, and I felt that, at any rate, it would put an end to his proposals; and Aunt Theresa said that July was going to be hot.

So the months went on and George had to go away; and I grew much fonder of him then, and I don't think I would have cared to change him for any other man I knew—as a fiance; and I used to write lovely letter to him. I used to think out sentences in the night—little remarks I knew he'd like to get from me. I really was attentive to him. I've nothing to reproach myself with on that score. And so things went on.

And then, after a while, when George had been gone some time, his letters changed and he seemed rather troubled about something. I didn't take much notice of it—I just thought that perhaps the climate didn't suit him; and once I took the trouble to copy out and send to him a recipe which I had heard was good for one if one felt irritable.

But nothing seemed to cheer George, and at length, when I was really beginning to grow troubled about his temper, I had a letter from him to say he thought he had better say "Good-by;" he thought it was his duty to me to say so; he felt that we (we, if you please!) had made a mistake; he could never hope to be worthy of me (his modesty was somewhat new), etc.—a whole heap of it.

I wrote back and said: "Oh, quite well; I expect you know best." But I was really awfully angry; and what made me angrier than anything else was the thought that neither he nor any one else really knew how hard I had found it to play the sweetheart part of the arrangement to George, and that I hadn't wanted to be engaged at all. Of course, they all thought that I was secretly wearing the willow; and the liveller I became as the days passed by the more compassionately my relations looked at me. "She's overacting, poor dear," they were thinking. I'm fairly placid, as a rule, but my wrath did simmer up at times, and I did think a few strong thoughts of George.

As I said just now, my wrath blazed out as strong as ever when Jane opened the door this afternoon and announced Cousin George, his own self, and I smiled straight into his face, and talked away without a moment's awkwardness, and said how glad I was to see him (which was true). I told him about every person and every place we had seen and known together, and I positively dallied over the subject of his long absence and the summer before his departure. I did it chiefly to prove to him that memories were nothing to me—that was mere justice to myself; but I did see him grip his hands now and then, and his lips grew white, just as they used to do when he kept on proposing.

At length there came a pause in our conversation, and then I feigned another mood, and I made up my mind that I would not break the silence. Cousin George sat and breathed hard for a minute or two, and then, I suppose, he decided on breaking down the artificiality of our interview, for he got up from his chair and strode about. I looked out of the window and pretended to be pensive. At last he stopped beside me and said: "Flo."

I looked up at him and laughed.

"Cousin George," I said with mocked solemnity.

"Flo, won't you—forgive?"

"Forgive?" I repeated, wrinkling my brow and looking puzzled. "Forgive? I have no enemies; people are so good to me. I rarely have anything to forgive."

"Forgive me," he pleaded.

"You!" I cried. "Surely I've nothing to forgive you. Why, you have never done me anything but kindness."

He turned hastily away, and muttered something which sounded wicked. Then he turned to me again.

"Flo," he pleaded, "will you row down with me to the island?"

"Oh," I said lightly, "I'm so sorry, but I'm engaged this afternoon." Then I sighed and added, "I've so many engagements."

"To-morrow, then—next day—next week, only promise."

"Oh, you've no idea of my importance," I laughed. "Listen to this," and, rising, I went to a drawer of my writing table and took out my little tablets.

"Listen," I again said, holding a finger up to him. "Thursday—that's today; tea at the Forresters'. Friday: Drive to Ellerton Manor, P. P. C."

"P. P. C.!" he repeated. "Are you going away?"

I laughed half shyly, but significantly.

"Yes, I am going away," I admitted. "On Saturday, to town, shopping. On Sunday, to the Daltons', luncheon and dinner. On Monday, picnic on the island. Oh, by the way——" I looked up with pleased interest—"if you want to see the island, better come to the picnic. I'm sure the Wendovers would like to have you."

"Picnic!" he snapped, angrily. "Do you think I want to go with a whole camp-meeting?"

"Oh," I protested, blandly, "we shan't be that sort at all."

"Thurs——" he began.

"Thursday," I said. "Oh, yes, here it is! Thursday: To be married. Ye-es, I shall be occupied on Thursday."

I looked up at Cousin George. He was quite white about the lips then.

"To be married?" he repeated in a sort of hoarse whisper.

"Yes," I said, nonchalantly. "Mr. Featherstone-Hope."

"That——" he began, then stopped short.

"Yes," I said, "that one."

"Good-by, Flo," he blurted out, shooting his hand at me as if it were a gun. I really felt as if I were taking hold of a bayonet point.

"Must you go?" I said sweetly.

"It seems I must"—and his tone was bitter, which seemed rather cool, considering how he'd treated me.

"I'm so glad you're home," I said pleasantly. "I will send you an invitation. I want to have all my loving relatives about me. Uncle Edward would adore you if you'd go one better, and relieve him by giving me away."

Then I know Cousin George said something wicked. I won't repeat it. Then he strode out and slammed the door. And I stood still and laughed to myself, for I'd scored one that time, at any rate. And he deserved it, for a man shouldn't be so changeable.

* * * * * * * * *

I don't believe it was anger after all. I believe it was pure enjoyment.

That's so like a woman, to mistake the core of a thing and realize it when she's wasted herself.

* * * * * * * * *

Poor old George! I've been thinking it over. I don't think I'll send him the invitation, after all.—Lillian Quiller Couch, in the Sketch.

How Fish Breathe.

Fish do not breathe air, but the life-supporting constituent of air—oxygen gas—which is soluble in water to the extent of 3 volumes in 100 at ordinary temperatures and 4 in 100 at freezing point.

The water containing the dissolved oxygen is made to pass over the gills, where it is separated from the blood only by a very thin membrane, through which the gas is able to pass.

Fish in ice-bound rivers have to depend entirely upon this store of oxygen for their respiration, and if it becomes exhausted they are suffocated, just as we should be if deprived of oxygen.

It rarely happens, however, that any considerable area of water is entirely covered with ice, especially in the case of rivers. Holes and cracks are almost sure to occur here and there, by which the oxygen of the air can reach the water and become dissolved in it. During a long frost fish may always be found congregated beneath air holes in large numbers. They are there to breathe.—Pearson's Weekly.

Japan's Commerce Augmenting.

Since the Chino-Japanese war the commerce of Japan has shown a remarkable increase as compared with other periods in the history of the empire. Her imports last year were valued at $44,940,000, an increase of about $5,000,000 over those of 1896; the exports reached $46,059,100, which is an increase of $12,500,000. The share of the United States in the aggregate is set down at $25,050,000, while Great Britain has a little over $30,000,000. Japan's trade with Australia is also improving rapidly, last year's total representing an increase of 33 per cent. on the figures of 1896. There is also noted a tendency of imports to increase and of exports to decrease.

Ferocious Humming Birds.

In the island of Minora, one of the Philippines, the humming birds are pugnacious little creatures. Thousands of them frequently attack huntsmen without the slightest provocation, inflicting sometimes serious wounds on the face and neck.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Burials in Westminster Abbey.

No fewer than 1,173 persons have been buried in Westminster Abbey.

WHICH OF THESE HANDS HAVE YOU?

No. 1. Uncouth Hand—The uncouth, boorish or common hand, is heavy, with very short fingers, which look as though they had a swelling at the ends. The hand has no symmetry. The thumb is very short and the general appearance of the hand is repulsive and obnoxious.

No. 2. Ideal Hand—The ideal hand has straight fingers that run to a point, with pink nails. The thumb has a strong root or base, a very symmetrical form and runs to a decided point. The person with such a hand is self-sacrificing in his nature and would die for an ideal or principle. This hand is that of poets, great reformers and religious enthusiasts.

No. 3. Artistic Hand—The artistic hand has a small and narrow shape. It is fleshy, with short fingers and the muscles are hardly visible. The finger joints are perfectly smooth and fingers tapering. The hand has an effeminate appearance and is that of artists, sculptors and people of remarkably refined tastes.

No. 4. Scientific Hand—The scientific or mathematical hand has the following outlines and characters: The hand should show on the upper surface a flat and broad construction and should have rather long fingers, inclined to be straight, knotty in the joints and round at the point. The thumb has a very strong and determined base, and while being rather long is also rounded at the end.

No. 5. Self-confessed Murderer's Hand—The hand shown in the illustration is that of a well-known murderess, who confessed she had stabbed her husband through love of another man. It is noticeable that the upper part of the hand is extremely short and angular. The index finger is bent in such a shape that it almost overlaps the middle finger. The chief point in connection with this hand is the extreme length of the middle finger. The finger nails are very short and thin, which characteristic indicates weakness, treachery and trickery.

No. 6. Kleptical Hands—The kleptical hand has these characteristics: The thumb is somewhat elongated and varies but slightly in its shape from the root to the tip. The knuckles of the hand are somewhat coarse and the extreme ends of the fingers have an inward inclination. The nails are usually short and thin.

No. 7. Ordinary Criminal—The ordinary criminal's hand has a peculiarly rough shape, the thumb being very plump and short, while the fingers are uneven and heavy. The small finger is turned inward and bluntness is the hand's chief characteristic.

OOM PAUL AT HOME.

Description of an Interview Held with Him by an American Traveler.

Charles Kilpatrick, the one-legged trick cyclist, interestingly describes an interview he had with Ooom Paul, the great President of the Boer republic, Africa.

"President Krueger," he says, "can speak English quite as well as Dutch, but declined to speak to me in my own language, and a Boer named Waldeck acted as our interpreter. After introductions the President said to the interpreter in Dutch: 'Ask him how he lost his leg.' 'Run over by a train,' I replied, and this was translated. 'Tell him he is marvelously expert for a one-legged man,' said Kruger. 'Tell him,' said I, 'that he is very kind to say so.' 'Tell him,' said Kruger, 'that I am always happy to meet an American—one of his great race.' 'Tell him,' said I to the buffer on the fender, or whatever you want to call him, 'that we had two men in America that were greater than any three men that ever set foot on earth.' 'Ask him,' said Kruger, 'who they are.' 'George Washington,' said I, 'and Abraham Lincoln.'

"The old man glared at the interpreter with an awful face. He did not look at me at all, but, to tell you the truth, I was terribly awed. Now, Kruger speaks in a tone that would do considerable credit to a large-sized megaphone. But in making his reply to my last shot he doubled the volume of his voice and almost put me to flight. 'Tell the young man,' roared Oom Paul, 'that I know more about the history of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln than he does.' I thought I had gone far enough after that, and I then made some remarks I thought complimentary to the Boers, and the President made a sign that the interview was over. He was sitting on his porch, and he arose and went within. Waldeck and I turned to leave, but as we were going Mr. Kruger came back and gave Waldeck an English sovereign with instructions to have it properly engraved and presented to me as a gift from the President of the Transvaal. I thoroughly appreciated the gift, and the story was told about town. The next day an English newspaper edited by an Englishman and an Irishman came out with an editorial about the matter, in which it was stated that this was the first time Paul Kruger was ever known to give away anything."

PAUL KRUGER.

A NEGLECTED TOMB.

Last Resting Place of Zachary Taylor, Soldier and President.

Of all the Presidents of the United States the grave of none is more neglected than that of the hero of Palo Alto, Zachary Taylor. Though only a few miles from Louisville, the place is seldom visited, though a handsome monument marks the place where the remains lie. The place is unkempt and fast going to ruin. It is overrun with weeds. One can barely find the path which leads from the broken stone wall to the tomb, while ivy and long grass have run riot, making walking difficult.

The father of Zachary Taylor was a soldier of the revolution, and came to Kentucky when Zachary was a mere lad. He settled on a farm, which is yet the Taylor homestead, though now occupied by a family in no manner related. The Taylor burying ground occupies one corner of the lot.

The fact that Zachary Taylor, when a lad of 23, left the farm to enter the army as first lieutenant of the Seventh Infantry and remained away from his home until elected to the Presidency, dying soon afterward, may account for the little interest taken in his memory in Louisville, Kentucky saw but little of the soldier, and knowing him little in life worships him less in death.

The monument to Zachary Taylor, which stands in a wild confusion of vegetable growth, is forty-five feet high and is surmounted by a life-sized statue in marble. One inscription reads,

ZACHARY TAYLOR'S GRAVE.

"I have endeavored to do my duty. I am ready to die. My only regret is for the friends I leave behind me."

There are other inscriptions dealing with the events in which President Taylor participated. Some distance from the monument is the tomb in which the President lies buried. It is of brick and faces the rising sun. Spiders have worked a myriad of cobwebs around the door, the corners being hidden. Ivy is banked on either side and extends all over the tomb and for fifty feet in each direction. The grass is more than knee high. On a slab of marble above the door is the simple inscription, "Z. Taylor. Born November 24, 1784. Died July 9, 1850."

Vaccination.

In the German army only six or seven cases of small-pox occur annually, and there can be little doubt that this almost complete immunity from a disease which formerly decimated continental armies is due to the thorough way in which vaccination is carried out. All recruits are revaccinated, and the regulations prescribe that there shall be at least ten punctures in each arm. A further confirmation of this view may be found in the fact that the one soldier who died from small-pox in the period from 1874 to 1887 was a man who was twice unsuccessfully revaccinated when recruited. There can be no doubt that other diseases are sometimes communicated through the medium of the vaccine lymph, but the unprejudiced observer will probably arrive at the conclusion that these form but a very insignificant fraction of the number of small-pox cases which would ensue from the abolition of vaccination. There are, no doubt, many objections to either human or animal lymph, and we look forward to the time when the cultivation of vaccine virus shall take place in a sterilized medium which can transmit no other disease.

A Natural Mud Pie Foundry.

Uncle Sam has a freak artesian well on the Brule Indian agency that is attracting widespread attention, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. It threw a six-inch stream of water when it was first opened, and for several years thereafter, but for about eight months it has been engaged in making mud pies. Since that time an endless chain of blue clay six inches in diameter has been forced up through the pipe, rising slowly above the casing to a height of ten feet, and then toppling over on the ground. The eruption continues night and day, and the amount of clay so far forced up from the bowels of the earth has made it necessary for the Government to employ a man to care for the premises. Very little water comes up with the clay. A noticeable peculiarity of this well is that the clay rises more rapidly previous to the advent of windy weather, resuming its steady, even grind again on the return of pleasant weather.

Darwin's Debt to His Family.

Charles Darwin was so weak in health that but for the wife and children who saved him from trouble and gave him the leisure of a peaceful home he would probably never have made his great discoveries.

Some men drink for the shakes and others shake for the drinks.

WORLD'S ONLY WOMAN JOCKEY

Mrs. Bagwill of Nevada, Rides Just Like a Man.

Carson City, Nev., is famous for its silver mines and for having been the scene of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight. Now its citizens are laying claims for further fame, for it is a fact that that city is the home and birthplace of the only woman jockey in the world. The name of this new rival of Sloane and Maher, and she, by the way, is young and pretty, is Mrs. W. A. Bagwill. She has been riding professionally for about a year and rode her last race at Reno, Nev., on Sept. 19. Of the three horses first under the wire the last of the trio was ridden by Mrs. Bagwill, who, sitting astride, plied whip and spur in masterly style, and though her animal was beaten clearly outrode her competitors.

Her experience as a jockey has not been very extensive as yet, she having ridden in five races only; but in proportion to her attempt Mrs. Bagwill's success has been remarkable. Of the five races in which she has ridden twice has her horse come in a winner, and never has she ridden "outside" of the money.

Mrs. Bagwill's first attempt was at Carson City about one year ago. Then she rode third to Coates, sometimes known as "Pizen," and Feathergill. She was greatly elated with this result, even though she did not win, and determined to continue her efforts until she might take rank with the top-notchers in the business.

She is 24 years of age and has been married for five years. She is of medium stature, petite in figure, but well proportioned and weighs 101 pounds. She is very modest, demure and unassuming. When on the street she dresses in plain black, and from her appearance none would imagine that she ever assumed the part of a jockey.

MRS. W. H. BAGWILL.

In the saddle, when ready for a race, Mrs. Bagwill wears bifurcated skirts, not so wide or loose as to catch too much wind and thereby impede the progress of her horse, but fitting neatly. She rides astride, well forward over the horse's foreshoulders, and with whip, spurs and steady hand pilots her mount like a veteran.

The Price.

Gen. Lefebre was one of Napoleon's generals who rose from the ranks, and was finally made a marshal and Duke of Dantzig. After this elevation he met an old acquaintance, who congratulated him in a rather sneering tone.

"Yes," said Lefebre, readily, "I am Duke of Dantzig and also a marshal, while you are a poor clerk; but if you wish to change places with me I'll accept the bargain at cost price. Do you know how many shots I've been exposed to before I won my epaulettes? Twenty thousand; that's all. I've heard more cannon rear than there are stitches in my uniform. I will place you in the courtyard of my hotel and expose you to the chances of 20,000 shot and shell at a hundred paces. If you escape alive you shall have my sabre, plume, scarf and orders; all my honors shall be yours when you have bought them as I bought them." The clerk begged to be excused.

Patchworth Quilt Up to Date.

Mrs. B. A. Corthell, of Millbridge, Me., has made a wonderful patchwork quilt, the centerpiece of which is a lot of blue bunting from a signal flag saved from the battleship Maine.

Electric Dark Lantern.

Electric dark lanterns have been supplied to the Paris police, enabling them to see 150 feet away.

Numerous crimes have been committed against the helpless oyster in the name of charity.

IN A PORTO RICAN FOREST.

The Wealth of Tropical Fruits and Nuts that Are to Be Found.

By nightfall, after I had ridden up and down some of the most unprepossessing hills, and had got tangled in no end of chaparral, cactus and other thorny undergrowth, which changed a new pongee coat I had bought in San Juan into an old rag, I found myself on a high range of sierra. From a jibaro negress I learned that I was half way between the towns of Quemados and Jaquas, and that I would find a better trail for my horse below. So I rode down a lovely green valley, where plantations of coffee and tobacco lay side by side. As it grew darker, bats flew all about me, and I heard the evening cries of birds which sounded like our whip-poorwills and mockingbirds. At last I struck the trail that the woman had mentioned. I rode on a little way, and took the horse into a clearing, where there was a spring well hidden from view, and there I hobbled his feet to the halter rope, flung myself on the ground, and went fast asleep. The last thing I heard was the beautiful song of the solitaire singing in a copse above me.

I was awakened early the next morning by the screeching of green parrots, quarreling with other birds in the top of a cocoanut palm. I was drenched with dew, but forgot all as I thought of my horse. To my great relief, I found him standing behind a bit of oleander bush red with flowers, crunching the juicy stalk of a prickly pear. I watched him with interest as he took the stalk and with his teeth ripped off the skin with all its thorns. He whinnied as if we were old friends. After bridling and watering him I found the trail, and rode off southward. On the way I ate everything I could find, from green cherries and guava plums to juicy mangoes, which stained the front of my coat, and bell apples, the meat of which suggested mildew. There were also custard apples, a large green fruit not unlike cream puffs inside.

The most astonishing and best of all was a fruit called pulmo—in our language, sour sap. It is about as large as a quart bowl, and so nourishing and full that a single fruit was enough for a good meal, although that did not deter my horse from eating four. Later I found that they are also relished by dogs. Of springs and streams there were so many that I had no fear of dying of thirst. If water was not handy, I could always climb a cocoanut tree and throw down the green nuts, which were filled with an abundance of watery milk, more than I could drink at one time. Other nuts there were in plenty, but many were more curious than edible, even to my willing appetite. One had a delicious odor, I tasted a little, and thought it ideal for flavoring candy. But it soon dissolved in my mouth in a fine dust, absorbing all the moisture, so that I had to blow it out like flour. Nothing ever made me so thirsty in my life, and even after rinsing out my mouth I felt for a long time as if I were chewing punk or cotton. The fruit of the tamarind only added to my torments by setting all my teeth on edge. When we reached the next spring I fell off my horse for fear he would get all the water. Only after I had satisfied my thirst would I let him drink.—Century.

A Mathematical Mule.

A writer in Lippincott's Magazine tells a rather remarkable mule story. The animal in question was used to reenforce the regular teams, being hitched beside them on a certain steep incline on one of the Cincinnati street railroads.

The mule made a certain number of trips in the forenoon (I have forgotten the number, but will say fifty for the sake of convenience), and a like number in the afternoon, resting for an hour at noon. As soon as it completed its fiftieth trip it marched away to the stable without orders from the driver.

To show that it was not guided by the sound of the factory whistles and bells, the following remarkable action on the part of this animal is vouched for by the superintendent of the line:

On a certain occasion during a musical festival, the mule was transferred to the night shift, and the very instant it completed its usual number of shifts it started for the stables. The combined efforts of several men were necessary to make it return to its duty.

At night there were no bells or whistles to inform the mule that "quitting time" had come; it had counted the trips, and having finished its quota, it thought that the time for rest and food had arrived.

Singular Railroad Accident.

One of the most singular of railway accidents was that near Genoa by which a dozen lives were recently lost. The Glori Tunnel, in which it occurred, is very long, and so foul that the windows are shut, leaving the passengers to keep alive on what air is already in the car. But the engineers have no such support, and the accident was caused by the fact that all the drivers and firemen on the three engines needed to haul the train up the heavy grade of the tunnel were asphyxiated. The train consequently slipped back and plunged into a passenger train at the bottom of the incline.

Most Mediaeval Race.

The Spaniards are not the most mediaeval of races. The Svantians, who live in the inaccessible mountain range between the Black and Caspian seas are probably the laziest people in the world. They have made no advance toward civilization in 2,500 years. It is their invariable rule to hold holidays four times a week, with saints' days as extras.

British Dogs.

There are fifty-five dogs in the United Kingdom to every 1,000 inhabitants.

FLASHES OF FUN.

"What do you consider the hardest problem of a man's existence?" "Getting his own consent to crawl out of bed in the morning."

Minister's Wife—Tommy Crowther, you haven't washed your face to-day. Tommy Crowther—Taint Sunday.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Georgie, don't you see that Jane is taking your candy?" "I don't care. It's the kind that always makes her sick."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Mrs. Wackum—Howdid that naughty boy of yours hurt himself? Mrs. Snapper—That good little boy of yours hit him on the head with a brick.

Algy—You say she only partially returned your affection? Clarence—Yes. She returned all the love letters, but retained all the jewelry.—Tit-Bits.

Goldsborough—You may say what you like about Ricketts, but he's as good as his word. Poindexter—But consider how many bad words he uses.

A Tangled Web.—Tommy—Pa, why are single women called spinsters? Pa—I expect it's because they are always spinning a web to catch a man.—London Fun.

Progress.—"They say the Friday superstition has been exploded in Spain." "Indeed?" "Yes; they've come to think that one day is just as unlucky as another."—Puck.

"He says his soldier life reminded him constantly of home and mother." "How was that?" "They wouldn't let him sleep late in the mornings."—Chicago Evening Post.

"Do you think Boeckle, the tailor, would give me credit on a suit of clothes?" "Does he know you?" "No." "O, in that case he would."—Das Kleine Witzblatt.

Coal dealer (anxiously)—Hold on! That load hasn't been weighed. It looks to me rather large for a ton. Driver—Tain't intended for a ton. It's two tons. Dealer—Beg pardon. Go ahead.

"No," he said, "I don't care for poetry. Fact is I haven't time to read much of anything." "Why," she sweetly asked, "don't you try to learn to roll your cigarettes with one hand?"—Chicago News.

"This dog, madame, would be cheap at one hundred." "I would take him, but I am afraid my husband might object." "Madame, you can get another husband much easier than a dog like that."—Life.

Visitor (to sexton digging grave in churchyard)—Who's dead? Sexton—Old Squire Thornback. Visitor—What complaint? Sexton (without looking up)—No complaint; everybody satisfied.—Tit-Bits.

"Yes," remarked the Widow Tacum, "before we were married I used to admire John because I thought he was so noble. I continued to admire him afterwards; but it was because he was such a splendid humbug!"

Aline—Isn't it sickening the way Miss Up-to-date tries to put on mannish airs? Anna—Perfectly! Pretended to lose her collar button this morning when she knew all the time where it was.—Harper's Bazar.

"I understand you won the blue ribbon, so to speak, in the examination for the civil service." "I—ah—would hardly call it that," answered the mild young man. "Let us say I won the red tape."—Indianapolis Journal.

Tommie—Hullo, Jimmie, what kep' you? Jimmie—Me and the ol' man had an arg'ment. He wanted me to haul some wood into the back yard. Tommie—How did it end? Jimmie—In a draw—I drawed it.—Truth.

"Why is a merchant who does not advertise like a man in a row-boat?" asked the student. "Keeps going backward," guessed his friend. "No; he is trying to get along without sales," said the student.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

She—Before we are married and it is forever too late, confess to me whether there is anything in your past life that you think I might not approve of. He (trembling)—Well, if you must know all, I kept a diary for nearly three weeks once.

Mistress—I saw two policemen sitting in the kitchen with you last night, Bridget. Bridget—Well, ma'am, yez wouldn't hov an unmarried lady be sittin' alone with only wan policeman, would yez? The other wan was a chaperon.—Tit-Bits.

"What did Colonel Stilwell say about the brandied peaches we sent to cheer his convalescence?" "He said he was afraid he was not strong enough to eat the fruit," replied the little girl, "but that he appreciated the spirit in which it was sent."—Washington Star.

"I understand that a fellow has to know a lot to get into office under the District government," said the young man. "Y-e-e-s," replied the old employe. "It's a good idea for him to know considerable, provided he doesn't tell any of it."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Gager—They say our government is at a terrible loss what to do with the Philippines. Mrs. Teller—I know it, and they haven't one of them asked my husband what to do with them. He could solve the difficulty in a minute, for I've heard him say so.—Boston Transcript.

Teacher—Now, children, we all know what the word posterity means, do we not? Pupils—Yes, ma'am. Teacher—Well, then, write a sentence containing the word. (Five minutes later.) "Now, Johnny you may read yours." Johnny—I am sorry for the kids of posterity that will have to learn this war out of a book; we have a regular snap.—Truth.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16 1898

According to reports from the office of the Secretary of State giving an account of the vote cast upon constitutional amendments at the late election, all the propositions submitted to the people on that occasion have been defeated except one. This is the amendment providing for the gubernatorial succession and removing from the Lieutenant-Governor his present disqualification to hold any other office during his term. The amendment authorizing counties to frame their own charters is in doubt. The vote is very close and it is said that the amendment will probably be beaten when the returns are all in. There is no doubt, however, about the others. The amendments relating to the indebtedness of San Francisco, establishing a Court of Claims, exempting cities and counties from State legislation, defining grammar schools, and providing for the adjournment of the Legislature are all snowed under. The majorities against some were as great as 30,000 and none of these were beaten by less than 10,000. We do not know exactly how to interpret this result. Either the people have become very cynical upon the subject of constitutional amendments or they have been misled with reference to these propositions. The newspapers supported every one of them except those relating to the Legislature, county governments, and the indebtedness of San Francisco. Yet the county government amendment came very nearly being adopted and all the others, except one, to which no attention whatever was paid, have been badly beaten. As an exhibition of the capacity of the people to exercise the privilege of legislation these results will prove exceedingly unsatisfactory. There was no sense in rejecting the amendment providing for a Court of Claims, nor the one exempting cities and counties from State legislation. Both these were in the line of reform and should have been adopted. Those who advocate the reference of statutes to the people for ratification should study the result upon these amendments with interest. Evidently the votes have been cast on very much the same theory that some players "copper" cards in a faro table. The people have played against them to win. They did not understand them and so took no chances, voting in large numbers to reject them. There is no way to legislate, and no progress can be made by taking such action upon important subjects.

One of the subjects likely to be considered at the coming session of the Legislature will be the adoption of a statute authorizing tests to be made of voting machines. Several devices for recording votes by means of machinery were submitted at the last session, but the law makers were afraid to adopt them, and even refused to authorize tests to be made at actual elections. But machine voting is destined to be one of the great reforms of the future. The independence of the voter has been secured, and nomination for office is now practically free, but election officers still cheat and ballot-box stuffers still stuff. What the people now want is a machine which will record their votes accurately and which cannot be tampered with except through flagrant violations of the law. A test of voting machines was held at Rochester, N. Y., at the late election. The full vote of the city was announced long before that of any other city in the Empire State, and no complaint whatever has been made of the work of the machines, and no one has questioned their accuracy. Since the election, statistics have been compiled showing that the machines effected a large saving in expense over the cost of the old system of counting. The number of election precincts in Rochester was reduced nearly a quarter, thus cutting off rentals of polling places and the services of a large number of ballot clerks judges and inspectors. Printing was entirely dispensed with, and it is stated that the machines used at Rochester will pay for themselves in five years. The great advantage of machine counting is that it is practically out of the question for anybody to alter the returns. The totals are locked in an iron box, and all the election officers can do is to carry the machine to a central place and exhibit the dial. There is no defective ballots and no false counting.

Nearly every mining commonwealth shows a realization of the importance of appropriate representation at the Paris Exposition of 1900. This week the executive committee of the California State Miners' Association decided to ask the State Legislature when it or if it appropriated money for California's representation to have one-third of such possible sum specially designed for the mineral exhibit. The result of such indeterminate action may not be satisfactory. It were better to settle on some specific amount—$25,000 should be the minimum, twice that would be none too much—and take proper action to have a bill appropriating that amount for the specific purpose named passed by the State Legislature early in the coming session. That amount of money is necessary if any proper exhibit of the mining industry be made, and the way indicated is the best manner of securing the necessary funds. The general advisability of such appropriation is too obvious to need argument.

Another court—this time in Michigan—has decided that express companies must pay the war tax. Against this ruling the companies advance the plea that they don't want to pay it. There does not seem to be much in the plea but so far it answers the purpose, which is that of robbing patrons.

Record of all Votes Polled at the General Election held November 8, 1898.

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Laws	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Taboose	Independence	Citrus	Georges Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Springs	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
For Governor of State.
HENRY T. GAGE	22	32	21	66	37	10	61	16	9	53	11	17	63	2	12	6	7		2	15	7	478
JOB HARRIMAN				1	1			1		4	1		2		1						1	11
JAMES G. MAGUIRE	2	38	1	60	6	7	56	14	7	72	7	21	24	7	9	4	34	5		17	21	50	30
J. E. McCOMAS	1	3		7			1															1
Lieutenant-Governor.
JAMES ANDREW		3		3	5					6			1		1		1					21
EDWARD J. HUTCHISON	21	25	17	69	54	6	58	12	7	66	7	19	24	7	8	1	32	4	2	15	26	479
JACOB H. NEFF	2	25	35	64	29	11	61	13	8	58	12	17	6	1	12	1	6		1	16	8	479	1
ROBERT SUMMERS.	1	4		9	3				1			1	1									22
Secretary of State.
CHARLES F. CURRY	20	29	28	71	42	11	60	17	8	49	10	17	54	1	11	5	7			12	7	492
EMIL LIESS	2	2			2			1					1									19
R. A. THOMPSON	20	25	19	53	47	5	59	15	7	71	8	20	25	6	10	5	34	5	3	15	21	479	22
J. W. WEBB	1	5		10	4		1		1				1							1		25
Controller.
EDWARD P. COLGAN	20	28	30	65	40	11	62	14	8	40	11	17	56	1	12	5	9			12	7	449
T. L. HIERLIHY	2	6	1	8	6		1		1				1								1	35
T. W. MARTES	20	34	18	55	52	7	55	16	6	71	8	19	30	7	9	5	32	5	3	10	21	488	40
JOHN ROBERTSON	1	2		1					1						1					1	1	10
Treasurer.
E. M. DEWEY	1	2		2	3		1	2		7			4		1					1	1	27
WILL S. GREEN	20	32	19	50	45	7	55	13	7	61	8	19	25	7	9	4	34	5	3	10	2	463
TRUMAN REEVES	20	29	30	75	43	11	61	16	8	58	10	16	57	1	11	6	7			12		47[illegible]	9
C. B. WILLIAMS	2	6		7	4		4			1		1	1									25
Attorney-General.
H. P. ANDREWS	22	36	20	61	56	6	6	17	6	70	8	21	27	7	10	5	34	5	1	14	20	503	92
J. H. BLANCHARD	1	8		10	2		4			4	1	1	1									41
TIRY L. FORD	18	27	28	58	52	11	55	12	9	4	9	15	55	1	11	5	7			1	1	416
A. F. STRAWN-HAMILTON	1	1			—			1							1							9
Surveyor-General.
I. H. MULHOLLAND	24	33	23	78	58	7	64	16	7	73	6	18	33	7	9	5	34	5	1	2	1	549	130
J. GEORGE SMITH					2		2			7		2			1							12
GREEN SPURRIER		7		11	10		2	1	1	7		1					1					41
MARTIN J. WRIGHT	17	21	26	43	25	10	48	15	8	44	1	17	43	2	12	5	6			7	7	569
Clerk of Supreme Court.
LEMUEL D. BIDDLE	1	1	1	1	3		1	3		8		1	2		1	1	1			1		26
W. P. FASSETT	1	7	1	10	6		2		1	1	1	1	1									32
H. A. McCRANEY	22	35	20	58	50	7	56	16	7	69	7	16	28	7	11	4	32	5		1	10	486	57
GEORGE W. ROOT	18	24	27	58	38	11	60	11	8	55	1	18	50	2	9	6	7			12	8	425
Superintendent of Public Instruction.
P. B. GALLAGHER	1	1	1		4			2		1							1			1		13
THOMAS J. KIRK	18	23	24	62	34	9	61	12	8	56	1	18	55	2	9	7	7			12	7	459
FANNY M. PUGH	4	7	3	15	8	1	2			4	1	1	1			1	1				1	56
CHRISTIAN RUNCKLE	21	32	21	54	49	5	54	16	7	65	8	16	27	7	12	1	32	5	3	15	19	498	36
JANE A. ROTHSON	1	1		1	2		1			8	1	2			1		1					21
Superintendent of State Printing.
LEROY S. ATWOOD	1	4	3	13	5		3	1		1											1	35
A. CONTI					1										1					1	1	10
ALFRED J. JOHNSTON	1	27	26	59	37	1	56	15	8	49	11	18	54	2	11	5	1			10	5	4[illegible]
E. I. WOODMAN	20	28	21	60	54	5	56	15	7	67	7	19	29	7	10	1	36	5	3	15	21	534	79
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court.
WILLIAM M. CONLEY	19	28	17	52	43	7	49	17	7	57	11	19	19	5	11	3	30	5	2	10	18	474
THOS. B. McFARLAND	18	26	22	47	37	11	46	12	7	58	7	16	41	1	9	4	4	1	1	9	2	355
T. M. STEWART	1	7	1	11	5		4			4			2									54
ROBERT THOMPSON	1	4	1	7	2		5			2			1		1							25
WALTER VAN DYKE	21	26	22	53	53	6	55	16	6	66	10	17	58	6	11	5	35	5	3	13	19	480	56
WILLIAM CAVAN FLEET	16	17	23	46	22	9	43	11	5	37	1	17	49	2	8	7	6	1		10	5	341
Representative in Congress.
MARION DEVRIES	23	43	28	63	68	10	72	18	7	77	9	20	35	6	11	5	32	5	3	14	19	575	192
FRANK D. RYAN	19	21	21	66	27	7	47	12	7	44	10	18	45	2	10	4	8		1	15	6	384
Board of Equalization.
GEORGE L. ARNOLD	20	2	20	69	41	10	63	15	8	54	1	18	47	1	14	6	1			13	7	453
T. O. TOLAND	22	33	23	55	48	7	53	16	6	68	8	19	29	5	8	2	35	5	2	15	19	464	6
Railroad Commissioner.
NEHEMIAH BLACKSTOCK	18	27	20	63	43	12	60	15	7	55	11	21	54	2	11	6	1			11	6	457
J. L. DRYDEN	21	34	18	5	52	4	57	14	6	66	7	16	29	7	11	3	32	5		1	20	470	13
State Senator.
GEORGE B. McCORD	23	34	23	7	47	1	71	13	8	60	11	18	52	2	12	7	11			19	7	513
H. L. PACE	21	31	16	53	50	4	47	18	8	66	8	18	28	5	10	3	36	5		15	20	46[illegible]	58
Member of the Assembly.
P. H. MACK	22	36	21	69	55	8	52	16	7	73	7	15	26	6	11	5	36	5		12	11	494	7
FINLAY McIVER	23	30	30	64	45	7	62	16	12	58	12	24	59	2	7	5	11			9	7	487
Sheriff and Tax Collector.
A. K. BRIGGS	13	7	2	13	16	1	7	1		2	1	1	8		1	1					1	8
A. M. GIVEN	20	4	13	69	46	8	61	13	8	63	1	18	41	5	8	3	12			1	1	480	15
J. J. GUNN	1	23	17	51	42	3	54	14	8	66	1	20	38	4	12	6	20	5	1	21	18	464
Clerk, Auditor and Recorder.
D. J. HESSION	20	4	21	70	65	10	85	20	8	107	11	23	56	6	14	8	33	5	4	21	21	698	412
J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH	17	18	20	58	21	7	36	4	3	22	1	14	27	5	8	2	6			7	4	285
Treasurer.
W. T. BUNNEY	28	41	28	88	52	8	35	11	11	57	13	24	57	5	10	1	13		1	10	10	50	4
S. G. GREGG	17	23	22	44	47	3	87	20	5	73	6	14	3	4	12	9	20	5	3	13	18	49
Assessor.
DAVID HOLLAND	16	23	31	55	15	10	73	12	8	59	8	22	53	4	14	5	13	2		2	17	4[illegible]
W. W. YANDELL	30	48	19	88	88	7	45	18	8	77	10	17	34	3	7	1	36	2	5	8	10	75	95
District Attorney.
WM. D. DEHY	27	44	44	98	41	7	60	15	8	64	1	25	56	3	14	4	13	1	1	21	19	78	146
P. W. FORBES	18	22	7	57	60	10	59	14	8	63	4	14	32	6	8	1	23	4	2	8	9	4[illegible]
Superintendent of Schools.
W. HAMPTON	17	43	16	69	67	10	65	18	12	71	14	26	32	5	10	7	33	5	4	19	21	57	145
J. U. SHANNON	19	24	26	68	14	7	57	11	4	53	1	12	56	2	11	2	1			11	8	43[illegible]
Coroner and Public Administrator.
J. H. KISPERT	20	1	24	58	58	7	63	17	10	83	10	25	57	4	12	8	11		2	15	9	461
I. P. YANEY	24	54	26	89	64	1	49	12	5	34	1	12	24	4	7	1	3	5	2	16	18	50[illegible]	42
County Surveyor.
W. G. DIXON	30	52	31	90	73	13	95	21	12	93	14	20	56	3	11	8	34	5	3	20	24	703	700
JOS. SEELY										1												3
Proposed Constitutional Amendments.
For Amendment No. 1	6	11	14	27	13	1	1	9	3	1	3	5	16	1	2		1		1	5	6	13[illegible]
Against Amendment No. 1	15	17	7	57	54	5	56	8	1	4	1	18	34	7	8		1		1	5	1	584
For Amendment No. 2	17	30	19	43	42	7	57	1	5	1	1	18	40	7	6		1	4	1	9	6	547
Against Amendment No. 2	8	1	8	35	13	4	55	7	7	4	1	10	17	1	9	6	1		1	4	2	21
For Amendment No. 3	9	14	5	4	50	7	19	1	1	5	1	18	33	3	4	1	12		1	12	2	2[illegible]5
Against Amendment No. 3	9	5	1	93	14	5	24			4	1	12	28	4	4	5			1	1	4	18
For Amendment No. 4	13	18	1	4	17	3	1	4	2	1	1	1	8	1	5		10		1	8	6	185
Against Amendment No. 4	11	5	5	34	14	3	18	7	7	5	4	12	27	2	6	4	1		1	3	1	28[illegible]
For Amendment No. 5	9	18	12	4	28	5	28	1	1	6	1	12	18	2	3	4	1		1	9	7	254
Against Amendment No. 5	10	6	1	88	14	1	28	7	7	5	5	12	24	4	4	5			1	3	1	1[illegible]
For Amendment No. 6	6	19	29	33	27	6	23	6	1	23	1	11	7	2	2	4	12		2	10	6	22[illegible]
Against Amendment No. 6	10	6	4	33	17	2	32	6	1	23	4	16	23		4	8	1		1	2	1	197
For Amendment No. 7	11	14	29	23	24	7	26	11	5	23	2	16	8	3	5	4	12	2	1	7	7	24[illegible]
Against Amendment No. 7	10	12	7	38	14	2	31	7	7	38	4	11	28		2	5	2		2	4	1	214
For the Convention to revise Constit'n	1	12	1	30	13	7	11	1	5	23	1	12	12		1	4	3	2	1	4	2	1[illegible]3
Against Convention to revise Constit'n	7	8	7	30	13	7	31	11	5	23	6	12	13		8	1	4		1	4	2	204

CANDIDATES.	Round Valley	Lincoln	Laws	Bishop	East Bishop	Poleta	Big Pine	Fish Springs	Taboose	Independence	Citrus	Georges Creek	Lone Pine	Cerro Gordo	Keeler	Olancha	Darwin	Modock	Mountain Springs	Ballarat	Panamint	Totals	Majorities
Supervisor, 1st District.
N. J. COOLEY	16	30	18																			64
T. D. HARGER	18	31	6																			55
FRANK SHAW	13	12	29																			54
Supervisor, 3d District.
O. I. MAIRS							39	8	6	56	11											120
JAMES JONES							77	22	8	74	7											188
Supervisor, 5th District.
CHAS. ANTHONY																9	15		2	7	8	41
T. H. HENERRY																1	27	5	2	24	21	80
Justice of the Peace, 1st Township.
T. H. WOODWORTH	39	53	35	113	81	14																335
CHAS. JOHNSON						1																1
Justise of the Peace, 2d Township.
A. C. McDONALD							50	16	8													74
R. ROBINSON							50	9	7													66
J. S. GRAHAM							16	2														18
Justice of the Peace, 3d Township.
A. V. DAVIDSON										10	13	18										134
B. RHINE										24	6	13										43
Justice of the Peace, 4th Towhship.
A. C. HARVEY													64	2	10							76
Justice of the Peace, 5th Township.
R. DECKER																6	35	5	2	18	23	89
J. H. TROTTER																	1					1
J. M. KING																				14	6	20
Constable, 1st Township.
GEO. L. DRAKE	5	14	5	25	19	3																71
MILBURN C. HALL	2	14	8	29	9	1																63
EDWARD SCHOBER	7	22	13	34	40	2																118
W. E. SMITH	6	21	19	21	26	7																100
DAVID J. WILKINS	27	4	7	24	7	3																72
Constable, 2d Township.
A. P. SMITH							85	21	10													116
V. G. SMITH							33	8	5													46
Constable, 3d Township.
JOHN KEEGAN										66	12	17										95
C. W. ROBINSON										62	6	15										83
Constable, 4th Township.
E. ELDER													61	2	11							74
Constable, 5th Township.
J. W. TROTTER																4	11			12	19	46
JEREMIAH FITZGERALD																	3					3
C. DOTY																	2			19	7	28

GRAND

HOLIDAY OPENING AT

Rhine's

TOYS TOYS TOYS.

A CORDIAL WELCOME TO ALL.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 975 56
	P A Chalfant assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collect	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon lot on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, lot State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Mulloy, rent	3 03
	Joseph Shelly, rent	1 04
	A V Davidson fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards lot State land	32 00
27	Morgan Sanders Big Pine bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	2 4 00
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 98
	A M Given, Tax collector	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock C N M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John B Churchman Lake land	123 16
	A R Schvely on Lake land	3 8 63
		21 697 01
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 20
	P A Chalfant, co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax collect fees	26 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state lan	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund Salary	1 160 00
	Hospital	1 5 7 28
	General Expense	1 68 99
	Bridge	1 795 65
	Road Dist No 1	13 49
	" " " 2	57 00
	" " " 3	267 00
	" " " 4	20 00
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	124 50
	" " "	1 500 00
	Sunday Sch'l Lib'ry	5 00
	Library	6 00
	Bishop "	8 18
	Irving "	15 00
	Milton "	7 00
	County Sch'l Fund	15 00
		8 571 0
Aug.	Salary	1 021 98
	Road Dist, No 2	5 00
	" " 3	24 00
	General Expense	1 0 4 4
	Hospital	55 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 70[illegible] 9
Sept.	General Expense	11 3
	Salary	1 021 78
	Hospital fund
	Fish Spring
	Round Valley
	Union
	Milton School Fund
	Taboose	21 46
	Independence	161 15
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 000 00
	Fish Sp Library	8 00
	County Board	1 500 00
	Cash	8 146 39
		22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	341 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 511 29
General expense		1 151 08
Hospital		259 12
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	2 3 17
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	30[illegible] 51
Road Poll tax	2 55
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	292 87
Institute	5 00
Teacher's library	34
County school	26 85
Property tax	1 559 58
Milton school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	34 82
Bishop	21 17
Sation	28 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Riverside		64
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Spring	1 55
Library	15 94
Taboose		2 56
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Sation building fund	20 14
Big Pine	500 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	71 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 31
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Taboose	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	574 91
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 99
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Poleta	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Station	10 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	263 65
Library	28 42
Taboose	135 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and overflowed land	481 79
Round Valley School	120 48
Cash on hand		8 146 39
	10 425 17	10 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.

D. J. HESSION, Cler

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS.....25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING.....25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING..... $2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.

jy27-tf O. I. MAIRS

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

—x—

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure-seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor.

MISCELLANEOUS

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Drafts drawn on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E.

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY

L. MUNZINGER & CO.
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of a First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

☞ Custom Ice supplied on all points ☞ on the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to

L. MUNZINGER & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET.

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j19-tf

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MERCHANDISE.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs
Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of

Miners and Prospectors' supplies.

And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT. Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m		4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m		4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	42	1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	45	2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
		No. 3.		No. 4.
Hawthorne	0	Lv 6:00 a m		2:25 p m
Kinkead	12	6:27 a m		1:58 p m
Luning	22	7:10 a m		1:15 p m
New Boston	151	7:30 a m		1:55 p m
Soda Springs	157	7:50 a m		[illegible] p m
Rhodes	162	8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	170	8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	175	9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	178	Ar 9:20 a m		3:40 p m
Junction		10:10 a m		2:25 p m
Lesalt	187	11:10 a m		1:25 p m
Summit	197	12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	198	12:50 p m		12:35 p m
Fenton	203	1:20 p m		11:50 a m
Harmill	204	2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 4:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	233	4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbes	243	4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	247	5:25 p m		7:35 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	297	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rail

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 38 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 15 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8:00 a. m., for Downieville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, miles, Darwin, 32 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canyons of the south fork of Kings river, offers to the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT.

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.		LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv	8:15 a m	Lv	1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs		8:37 a m		2:26 p m
Frankstown		9:05 a m		3:05 p m
Carson		9:30 a m		3:15 p m
Mound House		10:12 a m		5:45 p m
Gold Hill		10:55 a m		6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar	11:05 a m	Ar	6:55 p m
	TO RENO.		TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv	5:25 p m	Lv	7:45 a m
Gold Hill		6:16 p m		7:36 a m
Mound House		6:48 p m		8:30 a m
Carson		7:10 p m		9:55 a m
Frankstown		7:44 p m		10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs		8:08 p m		11:18 a m
Reno	Ar	8:30 p m	Ar	11:45 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT, CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound over-land trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:30 a m, arriving at Carson City at 9:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening, where connection is made with west-bound passenger train on Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5.00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 32 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,10 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time Table above. Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug5-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00

Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.

Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16..... 1898

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Hon Walter A. Lamar, Judge.

SATURDAY, Dec. 10 1898

People vs. Jacob Hodge—Filed information.

Mettler vs. Carthery—Trial of cause postponed without date.

Estate of Frank Fitzgerald deceased—Order setting aside all property of deceased to Marie V. Fitzgerald.

MONDAY, Dec. 12, 1898.

Estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased—Petition granted setting aside three tons of hay and $75 per month for use of widow.

TUESDAY, Dec 13, 1898.

Boland vs. Lone Pine Water Co. et al—Order substituting David Holland as administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke deceased for R. Van Dyke.

W. T. Grant and I. J. Woodni vs. Louis de Tourniel—Defendant allowed ten days to file authorities at the expiration of which time motion for new trial to stand submitted.

Methodist Church

Services for Sunday, December 18th, 1898:

Sunday: Lone Pine—Sermon at 11 a. m. by the pastor.

Georges Creek—Sunday-school at 1:30 p. m.; preaching at 2:30 p. m.

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock.

All are most cordially invited to attend these meetings.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending December 8 1898:

Highest barometer	30.273	13th
Lowest "	30.061	14th
Highest temperature	48.0	12th
Lowest "	29	12th
Mean	24.3
Average dew point	5.0
Average humidity	47.1
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	24 N W	9th
No. clear days	4
No. part cloudy days	1
No. cloudy days	2
No. rainy days	2
Precipitation for week	.20

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

MARRIED.

CARRASCO—SALAZAR—At Lonepine, December 14, 1898, Cristobal Carrasco and Eliza Salazar.

C. Carrasco and O. Dearborn of Lone Pine were in town last Tuesday.

Henry Giles arrived home last Monday evening from a visit to England.

Thomas Ferguson got back last Monday from a month's visit to Los Angeles.

Charley Walter has gone to Mountain Springs on business for the Sheriff's office.

J. H. Shannon came down from Bishop yesterday and went to Lone Pine to-day.

Judge Lamar has purchased the Fehrman house and he and his wife will make it their residence.

Mrs. H. Levy returned home Wednesday evening from Oakland, where she has been staying for some months past.

The Board of Education holds its regular winter meeting at Independence next week, when candidates may present themselves for examination.

J. C. Crocker and S. G. Gregg were down from Big Pine early in the week on business connected with the estate of Edwin M. Crocker, deceased.

John T. Erwin died at Camp Independence last Tuesday from Bright's disease. He was an old time prospector and had lived at Fish Springs for many years.

Ed Brown came down from Soda last Monday, and in company with Sheriff Given and John Kispert went up the Valley on a hunting trip next day. The party is evidently meeting with good success judging from the game they have sent back.

Mrs. Castro, wife of Miguel Castro died at Lone Pine last Monday of typhoid fever, after being ill about a month. Mrs. Castro was a very lovable woman, and her death is sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends. Her funeral took place on Tuesday and was largely attended.

George B. Senter, a mining expert who has been employed at Snow's Canyon for the past two months, died at Darwin last Monday of pneumonia. His remains were brought to Keeler and were embalmed by Dr. Woodin, and from there forwarded to Pasadena, the home of the deceased, where he leaves a widow and two small children. His mother lives at Cleveland, O., and is said to be wealthy.

Governor Budd has appointed Thos. Callow, W. H. Uhlmeyer, L. M. Newman, G. W. Dixon, R. W. Thomas and A. M. Given Directors of Agricultural Society No. 18. It is an assured fact that the coming Legislature will pass an appropriation bill, and that the Governor will sign it. It is also a certainty that the State will be re-districted and all the old districts abolished, establishing in their place about half a dozen districts in the State, probably one in each congressional district. Big Pine is wide-awake and on the lookout for anything that will promote the interest of the town, and their enterprise is deserving of encouragement, even if it fails in accomplishing its purpose.

The Land Districts.

The Chamber of Commerce took important action this week when it petitioned the Interior Department at Washington for a rearrangement of the land office districts in Southern California. The changes asked for are of course demanded by the topography of the section and the conditions generally. In one district, for instance, it may be necessary to travel 800 miles for the transaction of land office business, although the location may not be more than eighty miles' distant in a straight line, and the journey may consume from four to six day. This is within the jurisdiction of the Independence office.

The business interests and the lines of rapid communication in the Rand mining district lead to Los Angeles, rather than to Independence. More Los Angeles people are interested in this district than from all the rest of the State together. The land office business should be done here.

The government departments at Washington are consecrated to the sacred use of red tape, and the work of securing the needed change may be a painfully slow process. Still, if they are never asked for they will never be made, and the sooner the agitation is begun the sooner the desired results will accrue.—Los Angeles Express

The Los Angeles people, through a couple of shyster lawyers, have been agitating the question of annexing the Randsburg country to the Los Angeles district for the past three years. Of course it is a simple, everyday lie that it is necessary to travel 800 miles from Randsburg to reach Independence. There is a well equipped stage and railroad line connecting both towns and the distance is 120 miles, much less than from Randsburg to Los Angeles. The former land officers of Independence, after much correspondence, preserved the district intact, and it will be necessary for the incumbents to use every effort to head off the present movement, as, should it be successful, it means the absorbtion of the district and the closing of the local office.

Voting by Machinery.

By the report of W. M. Hinton, C. B. Morgan and J. V. Webster, members of the State Commission appointed in 1897 for the purpose of examining, testing and investigating voting machines, the question of adopting some form of mechanical balloting will be brought before the coming session of the Legislature, and it is possible that action may result from it.

A statement of the principles upon which the various machines are constructed is given. The Commissioners say: "It has been our purpose in examining machines to study principles rather than the execution of the devices as most of the machines presented have been imperfectly constructed." It is added that in machines manufactured for use "many existing minor faults could and would be corrected, but that of the hand-made machines submitted for examination only three were made upon a scale to admit of practical tests."

It appears that but two of the inventions submitted to the commission were factory made. These were the "Standard," or the Gillespie patent, and the "American Ballot Company", or the McTammany patent. As a consequence the Commission was unable to report upon the cost of the machines except the two named. It is stated, however, that the price for factory-made machines would doubtless range from $250 to $500.

In conclusion the Commission says: "By the use of the machines the cost of conducting an election would be reduced by the expense for ballots and the lessened number of election officers employed. Doubtless it would prove advisable to retain an inspector, a judge, two register clerks and two poll list clerks. As their services would be required for only a short time after the close of the polls, a reduction in the amount now paid them could be made—thus in San Francisco where twelve election officers are employed in each precinct at a cost of $10 each, the savings in expenses for officers, ballots, tally sheets, etc., would soon cover the cost of the machines. The moral gain in the avoidance of mistakes, and the certainty of the count, would prove of inestimable value and would far outweigh all minor considerations."

Cutting Timber On Public Lands.

Following are two provisions of the law governing the cutting of timber on public lands: "No person will be permitted to fell or remove any growing tree of any kind whatsoever less than eight inches in diameter. This will not be regarded as applicable to black or 'lodge pole' pine growing in seperate bunches upon mineral land. Persons felling or removing timber from public mineral lands of the United States must utilize all of each tree cut that can be profitably used, and must cut and remove the top and brush or dispose of the same in such manner as to prevent the spread of forest fires." The penalty for such violation is in a sum not to exceed $500 or imprisonment not to exceed sixty days, or both.

Thos. Hill and J. H. Coe were at Independence early in the week. Mr. Coe has spent some time prospecting in the vicinity of the old Montezuma mine and believes he has discovered the main ledge. Mr. Hill is associated with Mr. Coe in the ownership of the mine and they have bonded the property to L. F. J. Wrinkle, who will thoroughly prospect the claim. They have six feet of low grade galena ore uncovered, and if the ore body warrants it a smelter or concentrating plant will be erected. The parties own a good mill-site on the river. Mr. Wrinkle is very thorough in everything he undertakes and beyond question will determine accurately the value of the property.

On Wednesday the long threatened storm culminated in a heavy fall of snow in the mountains. It commenced falling Wednesday afternoon and continued until Thursday noon, during which time more snow fell than at any one storm for three years past, and there is now more snow in the canyons than at any time last winter. This will pack into ice and with the further snow which is sure to fall will assure an excellent water season next year.

The Independence Athletic Club will give their second entertainment at their hall next Thursday evening, consisting of bar work, tumbling, high-kicking and other exhibitions, closing with some red-hot boxing bouts. Admission free and a cordial invitation to all. On Monday evening, January 2nd the Club will give a grand ball at Athletic Hall, and no expense will be spared to make it the affair of the season. Special features will be added that will make it especially novel and attractive.

To Whom It May Concern.

My wife, Lydia Willett, having without just cause or provocation, and without my consent, left my bed and board, I hereby give public notice to all whom it may concern that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract.

J. C. WILLETT.

OFFICIAL.

Proposals for Building a Branch Jail at Bigpine.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the board of supervisors of Inyo County, State of California, made November 21 1898, sealed proposals will be received for the construction of a branch jail in the town of Big Pine, County of Inyo, State of California to comply with the following specifications: To be 14x16 feet, double walls, double ceiling, double floor and double partitions to be laid on diagonally. The sills 4x4, posts 2x6, ceiling joists 2x4 braced to the roof plates and rafters 2x4; the building to be battened on the outside with 1x6 and on the inside with 1 inch lumber to be surfaced. Three doors 3x6 feet in size in solid walls; the building to be 10 foot walls. Three jail locks. Hinges to be strong T put in with 5/16 bolts. Three hasps to suit the locks. One 12x12 ventilator in each cell. Redwood sashes.

Bids must be sealed and indorsed "Proposals for building branch jail at Lonepine" addressed to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors, the same to be received not later than 10 o'clock a. m. of Thursday, the 5th day of Jan., 1899, and the same will be opened between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on the 5th day of Jan., 1899, and the Board hereby reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

Proposals for Building a Branch Jail at Lonepine.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the Board of Supervisors of Inyo County, State of California, made November 21, 1898, sealed proposals will be received for the construction of a branch jail in the town of Lone Pine, County of Inyo, State of California, to comply with the following specifications: To be 14x16 feet, double walls, double ceiling, double floor and double partitions, to be laid diagonally. The sills 4x4, joist 2x6; ceiling joists 2x4 braced to the ceiling plates and rafter 2x4; the building to be battened on the outside with 1x6 and on the inside with 1 inch lumber to be surfaced. Three doors 3x6 feet in size in solid walls; the building to be 10 foot walls. Three jail locks. Hinges to be strong T put in with 5/16 bolts. Three hasps to suit the locks. One 12x12 ventilator in each cell. Redwood sashes.

Bids must be sealed and indorsed "Proposals for building branch jail at Lonepine" addressed to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors, the same to be received not later than 10 o'clock a. m. of Thursday, the 5th day of Jan., 1899, and the same will be opened between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on the 5th day of Jan., 1899, and the Board hereby reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT.

INYO MARBLE COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA

Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California. Location of works, Inyo county, California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the 8th day of December, 1898, an assessment, No. 27, of ten per share, was levied upon the Capital Stock of the Corporation, payable immediately in United States gold coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the Company, Room 11, 14th Floor, Mills building, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 20th day of January, 1899 will be delinquent, and advertised for sale at public auction; and unless payment is made before, will be sold on Thursday, the 3rd day of March, 1899 to pay the delinquent assessment, together with costs of advertising and expenses of sale.

By order of the Board of Directors.

CHARLES E. ANDERSON,
Secretary.

OFFICE—Mills Building, Room 31, 14th Floor, San Francisco, California.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

ANNIE VALENZUELA, Plaintiff,
vs.
IGNACIO VALENZUELA, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, state of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the clerk of said County of Inyo. P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

THE People of the State of California send Greeting to Ignacio Valenzuela, Defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this 28th day of January, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

(SEAL) 62115

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within Ten Months after the first publication of this notice to the said administrator at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate in the said County of Inyo, State of California.

DAVID HOLLAND,
Administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., Dec 9th 1898.

BABBITT METAL.

In lots to suit, from 1 pound to a ton

☞ Inquire at this office ☜

LEGAL.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of Edouard Chenot, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned, Executors of the last Will and Testament of

EDOUARD CHENOT,

deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executors, at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of the said estate in the County of Inyo, State of California.

J. E. SHEPHERD and
W. L. HUNTER,
Executors of the estate of Edouard Chenot deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., November 30th 1898.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal.,
November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on TUESDAY, December 27, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the E. ½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, Sec. 18, Tp. 12 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henderson D. Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet, of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

" ..... May 28th
" ..... July 2nd
" ..... July 30th
" ..... August 27th
" ..... September 24th
" ..... October 22nd
" ..... November 26th
" ..... December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M.

P. H. MACK, Sec

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER
BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK,

HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE——

TAILOR

——SATISFACTION GUARANTEED——

☞ Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00

☞ All work guaranteed first class.

BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

HORSESHOEING

....AND....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRESS Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT, STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek station.

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me

jo29 tf JOHN CLARKE.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley.

The Best Time.

No autumn or winter is so good but may be bad for rheumatism. The worst time for it is the best time to buy and use St. Jacobs Oil to cure it, because it cures promptly.

Good Reasons For Giving.

At the meeting of the Fifeshire association held in London Dr. Wallace told a story of a pensioner who used to stand with a placard on his breast enumerating his claims to the coppers he begged. The list ran thus: "Battles, 4; wounds, 5; children, 6; total, 15." This is almost as good as Sir M. Grant-Duff's story of the Irish beggar who prayed, "For the love of God, sir, give me a crust, for I am so thirsty that I don't know where I shall sleep tonight!"—London Globe.

Pure Blood
Good Digestion

These are the essentials of health. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier and stomach tonic. It promptly expels the impurities which cause pimples, sores and eruptions and by giving healthy action to the stomach and digestive organs it keeps the system in perfect order.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine, $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO.

The Owl Drug Co.

1128 MARKET STREET, San Francisco, Cal.
320 S. SPRING STREET, Los Angeles, Cal.
10TH AND BROADWAY, Oakland, Cal.

CUT-RATE DRUGGISTS.

We Save You 25 to 50 per cent on all Drugs, Medicines, Rubber Goods, Trusses. Send for 100 page price list.

FREE! FREE!

On all orders of $1.00 or more, we will include an ounce of Raymond's Fragrant Sachet Powder worth 50c, free of charge, providing you cut this advertisment out and send with order.

We Pay the Freight

On all orders within 100 miles of our store, if order amounts to $5.00 or more and money accompanies the order.

Thompson's Dandelion and Celery Tonic	$ 60
Hood's, Ayer's or Joy's sarsaparilla	70
Paine's Celery Compound	60
Dr. Baker's Honduras Sarsaparilla	75
Scott's Emulsion	70
Carter's or Thompson's Liver Pills	15
New York Elastic Trusses	1 00
Epsom Salts or Sulphur, per pound	10

Write For Catalogue---Free.

KLEENO WASHING POWDER.

Something new. Not made of strong alkalies, but a combination of vegetable oils, and Borax, pulverized as fine as flour. Made in California by white labor, and superior to any Eastern washing powder. Send to us for a sample. For sale by all Grocers.

New England Soap Co.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
OFFICE—307 SACRAMENTO STREET.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory.
MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated

IXL TAMALES, FRIJOLES, CHILE CON CARNE, CHICKEN SOUP — IN CANS

Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.

If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

R. THOMPSON
ATT'Y. AT LAW.
OFFICE, 330 PINE ST. SAN FRANCISCO.
BANKRUPTCY A SPECIALTY

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

VENOMOUS SNAKES.

The Poison Machinery of the Reptiles and How It Is Operated.

Some years ago a physician undertook a series of experiments on snakes with a view to extracting a sufficient amount of their venom to form a basis for investigation, in order, if possible, to discover some antidote. His laboratory is a curious and somewhat uncanny place and one from which those with unsteady nerves instinctively recoil.

The apparatus for extracting the venom is a most ingenious and yet a very simply one. A bit of chamois is tied over the top of a funnel which leads to a bottle. Everything is secured very firmly. The snake is caught by the back of the neck and placed close to this chamois. He strikes his fangs through it, when tiny jets of venom are thrown from the fangs upon the glass sides of the bottle, trickling thence into the bottle. Again and again the snake is made to strike. If necessary, other snakes of the same species are used until a sufficient amount of the venom is collected.

The relative deadly qualities of the venom of snakes have also been the subject of experiments. It appears that the diamond back rattlesnake is the most to be dreaded. The next in order is the banded rattlesnake, followed by the copperhead and the water moccasin or cottonmouth.

The poison machinery of the snake consists of a pair of needle pointed fangs, which, when the creature is at rest, are folded back in the roof of the mouth. When it becomes angry, these fangs are thrown forward, and in the act of striking a tiny jet of poison is thrown from each. The poison is a thin, yellow fluid which upon exposure decomposes very rapidly. Snake poison, if kept from the air or dried, retains its full force for many years.—New York Ledger.

SHALL WE KEEP THE PHILIPPINES?

While public opinion is divided as to the wisdom of keeping the Philippines, it is, however, all one way in regard to the wisdom of everybody keeping their health. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is widely used. This medicine is both preventive and cure for malarial fevers and stomach disorders.

The Grand Vizier was ambitious. "I think," said he, "that my head will be on a medal some day." "Ha!" said the Caliph. "Good idea! I'll have it struck off at once."

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208-212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

"The Indians no longer resort to scalping," remarks an exchange. No, the ticket-brokers have monopolized that business.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

"Rot" is popularly supposed to be the stuff the other fellow talks or writes, never the stuff the party of the first part talks or writes.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE Ltd., 930 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

I shall recommend Piso's cure for Consumption far and wide.—Mrs. Mulligan, Plumstead, Kent, England, Nov. 8, 1895.

A Timely Event.

The bell at the parsonage went ting-a-ling, and, as the dominie was in his study and his wife getting the baby to sleep, Master Harold, aged 7, went to the door. On opening it he found a couple, evidently from the country, both young and bashful; but, after looking at the boy a moment, the young man queried, "Is the parson to home?"

"Yes," said Harold. "Do you want to get married?"

"That's just what we're here for," said the prospective bridegroom as he looked fondly at the blushing girl by his side.

"Well, come right in, then," said the boy, ushering them into the parlor, and when they had seated themselves on the edge of two chairs side by side he started off, saying: "I'll call pa, and ma too. She'll be awful glad, for she has all the marryin money, and I heard her tell pa this mornin that she wished some folks would come to get married, 'cause she hadn't 'nough money to buy her new hat."—Chicago News.

Musicians Live Long.

A French writer notes that, though a few great musicians have died young—to wit, Mozart at 35, Schubert at 31, Bellini at 33, Mendelssohn at 38 and Weber when he was but 40—a large number have lived to be very old men. Those who died between 60 and 70 years of age include Bach, Von Bulow and Rubinstein. Living beyond 70 years came Gluck, Gounod, Handel, Liszt, Meyerbeer, Rossini, Spontini and Wagner, while the great age of 89 was attained by Auber and others. Dying at more than 80 were Cherubini, Cramer, Lachner, Palestrina, Rameau, Schutz and Taubert. The average age of musical celebrities is about 67 years.

Tender Flesh.

The more tender the flesh, the blacker the bruise. The sooner you use St. Jacobs Oil, the quicker will be the cure of any bruise, and any bruise will disappear promptly under the treatment of the great remedy.

Her View of Evolution.

When the late Professor Henry Drummond was giving a course of lectures on "Evolution" in the Lowell institute, he overheard two women, evidently much opposed to his views, discussing them. One of them said, "Mary, if what he says is not true, we can stand it, but if it is true we must hush it up."

It is said that there is in Sonora a tribe of Indians with yellow hair and blue eyes.

The three prime essentials in the nursery are fresh air, good food and pure water.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

VETERANS OF THE FUTURE.

What May Be Found in Daily Papers Thirty Years Hence.

"The reunion of the Society of the Survivors of the Battle of Cavite at Madison Square Garden last evening was a most successful occasion from both a social and financial point of view. Over 7,000 members were in attendance, nearly four-fifths of the entire membership, all the accommodations of the hall were strained to the utmost. After the banquet addresses were made by a number of the prominent members, and letters of regret were read from the President and the Governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Porto Rico and Cuba. Among those who addressed the meeting were Rev. George Dewey Fitzgibbons, Dewey Manila Brown, Cavite G. Jones, Governor Philippine Olympia Green and Vice President Raleigh Concord Tubb. After the banquet was over dancing was indulged in until a late hour."

"The Patriotic Order of the Sons of Cuban Liberty gave an entertainment in their hall at 1674 Bowery last evening, the receipts of which are to go toward building a monument to the memory of the Cubans who lost their lives in the late war. A fair attendance was present and the musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Santiago Cortez Coogan, Cienfuegos Murphy, Amphitrite Cook and Matanzas Johnson. Mr. Habana O'Donoghue made quite a hit with his recitation of 'When Gomez Marched to Dinner.' Quite a neat little sum was realized."

"From Sampson, Ky., comes a dispatch which says that John K. Littlejohn, a gunner's mate on the Nashville in the late war with Spain, who claims to have fired the first hostile shot of the war, died in that town on Wednesday. We have no wish to doubt the veracity of the Sampson Bugle, but at the same time Mr. Littlejohn is the twenty-third man to die since the war was ended claiming the honor of having fired the first hostile shot. Isn't this rather overdoing it?"

"Schley J. O'Brien, 28 years of age, was picked up by Officer Good on Bleecker street last night in an intoxicated condition. Before Judge Cooley this morning O'Brien claimed that his condition was the result of discussing the war with Spain in the Maine saloon yesterday evening with two old cronies, Bill Dewey Naughton and Bagley Terror O'Rourke. Judge Cooley declared that in view of the circumstances the prisoner was lucky to offend by a mere plain drunk, and Mr. O'Brien was released."

"A youth giving his name as Augustus Cuba Libre Lightfoot was arrested yesterday while acting in a suspicious manner on Broadway. Lightfoot is thought to be an alias of Hot Shot Smith, a noted sneak thief, who has of late been operating successfully in the neighborhood of Fifth avenue and Thirty-eighth street. The prisoner claims to have been the first child born on Cuban soil of American parents after the capitulation of Havana. He is still in custody."—Puck.

A Day Literally Lost.

Out in the Pacific Ocean, somewhere about midway between San Francisco and Yokohama, is a place where to-morrow is born and the traveler skips from yesterday to to-morrow without being able to get a grip on to-day. One day is absolutely stolen out of his life, for if it be Tuesday on one side of the line it is either Thursday or Tuesday is repeated on the other. No matter which direction the ship may be sailing, the passenger is shy one whole day when he gets to that point. The weekly calendar operates from different sides of the sea and the result is this conflict.

In crossing the Atlantic from London to New York the passenger gains slightly over half an hour a day. From New York to Chicago he adds another hour to the three or four crossing the ocean, another in reaching Denver, and still another on reaching San Francisco. The latter city reckons time eight hours later than London and the better portion of a day later than Shanghai or Yokohama. In crossing the Pacific the traveler comes to the time when he catches up with the procession and drops a whole day out of his life as easily as he glides through the water driven by the ship's powerful screws.

This line of demarkation is not a perpendicular one from north to south. The islands in the Pacific take their time reckonings from the continent with which they do the bulk of their trading. This causes the line to zigzag down the ocean in a very ragged manner. It might happen that the boat would strike an island which clings to San Francisco time, the vessel having already skipped a day. In such a case it would be Monday on shore and Tuesday aboard ship. These features illustrate the ease with which the days get tangled up in the Pacific.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Kink in Human Nature.

Some one has observed that there is one trait peculiar to human nature the world over—the desire to get something for nothing. It is engendered in the hearts of the rich, perhaps even more than the poor, who generally expect to pay for what they get. A good story illustrative of this quality is told of a little boy who went night after night to see a circus and always slept through the performance. He was asked one night why he came when he couldn't keep awake.

"Because I have a pass," he replied, "and must come."

Many instances could be told of the abnormal development of this characteristic. A young man was in great glee one day upon learning that a keeper of a fine restaurant was to serve lunch on a certain day free, provided his guests paid for their drinks. He went and partook of the fine lunch, having forgotten that he had been invited to dine with a friend at home that day.

Ferocious Humming Birds.

In the island of Minora, one of the Philippines, the humming birds are pugnacious little creatures. Thousands of them frequently attack huntsmen without the slightest provocation, inflicting sometimes serious wounds on the face and neck.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Bank of England.

The Bank of England will not take small sums in deposit. It requires private depositors to maintain a balance of £600.

"I DO MY OWN WORK."

So Says Mrs. Mary Rochiette of Linden, New Jersey, in this Letter to Mrs. Pinkham.

"I was bothered with a flow which would be quite annoying at times, and at others would almost stop.

"I used prescriptions given me by my physician, but the same state of affairs continued.

"After a time I was taken with a flooding, that I was obliged to keep my bed. Finally, in despair, I gave up my doctor, and began taking your medicine, and have certainly been greatly benefited by its use.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has indeed been a friend to me.

"I am now able to do my own work, thanks to your wonderful medicine. I was as near death I believe as I could be, so weak that my pulse scarcely beat and my heart had almost given out. I could not have stood it one week more, I am sure. I never thought I would be so grateful to any medicine.

"I shall use my influence with any one suffering as I did, to have them use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Every woman that is puzzled about her condition should secure the sympathetic advice of a woman who understands. Write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her your ills.

Sydney Smith's Joke.

Sydney Smith was very happy in his country life, and his children caught his spirit of delight over common things. They loved animals and spent long hours in training them. One little beast, a baby donkey, became under their tuition perhaps the most accomplished of his species and unconsciously gave rise to a quatrain which now belongs to the fame of Sydney Smith. The donkey was a well educated chap. He would walk up stairs, follow the family in their rambles like a dog and when they entered his meadow run to meet them with ears down and tail erect, braying joyously.

One day, when Billy's head was crowned with flowers and he was being trained with a handkerchief for a bridle, Mr. Jeffrey unexpectedly arrived. He joined in the sport and to the children's infinite delight mounted Billy.

Thus he was proceeding in triumph when Sydney Smith and his wife, with three friends, returned from a walk and took in the festal scene. The great man advanced, with extended hands, and greeted his old friend in an impromptu which has become familiar to the reading world:

Witty as Horatius Flaccus,
As great a Jacobin as Gracchus,
Short, though not as fat as Bacchus,
Seated on a little jackass!

—Youth's Companion.

The Death of Coaching.

The coaching system died a lingering, a lamentable death. I can remember something of a few coaches in remote districts which longest escaped strangulation, and memory of those distant days has been sweeter without them. They resemble what Nimrod describes as the obsolete, old fashioned coach of his boyhood, drawn by dispirited, ill fed jades over long stages. One of his paragraphs well describes what used to make my blood boil with impotent fury, imbittering the joy of returning home for the holidays, and deepening the depression of the schoolward journey:

"The four horse whip and the Nottingham whipcord were of no avail over the latter part of the ground, and something like a cat-o'-nine-tails was produced out of the boot, which was jocularly called 'the apprentice,' and a shrewd apprentice it was to the art of torturing, which was inflicted on the wheelers without stint or measure, but without which the coach might have been often left on the road."

No; the last of the road coaches—corruptio optimi—disappeared and left none to mourn them.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Practical Classics.

Mrs. Timkins was taking her son to school for the first time, and, after impressing the schoolmaster with the necessity of his having a thoroughly good education, finished up by saying, "And be sure he learns Latin."

"But, my dear madam," said the schoolmaster, "Latin is a dead language."

"All right," said Mrs. Timkins "He'll want it. He's going to be an undertaker."—London Tit-Bits.

An Awful Sentence.

A celebrated Irish judge once passed sentence in the following manner. The prisoner was a butler who had been convicted of stealing his master's wine: "Dead to every claim of natural affection, blind to your own real interests, you have burst through all the restraints of religion and morality and have for many years been feathering your own nest with your master's bottles."—London Telegraph.

Why He Refused to Pay.

"One dollar, please," said the clairvoyant.

"Not much," he replied. "I'll not pay you a cent."

"Do you think I reveal the future for nothing?"

"I don't care anything about that. You told me I was to marry three times, and I don't propose to put a premium on bad news."—Chicago News.

Pure Tea in packages at grocers'
Schilling's Best

SERMONS OF THE WEEK

Man.—Religion believes in man as the child of infinite possibilities, born to an edless destiny.—Rev. Jenkin Ll. Jones, Unitarian, Chicago, Ill.

War.—If war is always wrong, then the instincts in human nature need revolutionizing.—Rev. Lyman Abbott, Congregationalist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Changes.—The virtue of one generation becomes a vice to generations after. Humanity sweeps onward.—Rev. H. W. Pinkham, Baptist, Denver, Col.

The World's Teachers.—Great events, even more than great men, are the world's teachers.—Rev. Dr. Crowe, Congregationalist, New York City.

Your God.—Have you a God? Then what is he to you? Do you know him? Have you tried to know his will?—Rev. J. B. Nies, Episcopalian, Brooklyn, N. Y.

God's Power.—God's power and will are above armies and navies, and on him far more than on armies and navies nations depend.—Archbishop Ireland, Catholic, Chicago, Ill.

Preparations for Heaven.—To prepare for heaven should be our concern. This is only by faith and holy living.—Rev. Mr. Taylor, Presbyterian, San Bernardino, Cal.

Spiritualism.—Spiritualism is not wicked, for Jesus taught it, the disciples preached it, St. Paul wrote of it and gave it his sanction.—Dr. Astor, Spiritualist, San Bernardino, Cal.

Consciousness.—To walk humbly with God involves the consciousness of a definite relationship between the divine spirit and the human.—Rev. Lester Bradner, Jr., Episcopalian, New York City.

The Master.—Jesus Christ becomes the moral master of the world by the example of his life and by the self-sacrifice of his death upon the cross.—Rev. Dr. Bristol, Methodist, Washington, D. C.

Courage.—One of the great results of this last summer—a summer in which our country has discovered itself—is the finding that courage has not died out of the world.—Dr. Faunce, Baptist, New York City.

Living for Others.—The people who win the world's love and lasting remembrance are the ones who utterly forget themselves, and live for others.—Rev. Mr. Fisher, Methodist, San Bernardino, Cal.

Christ.—Christ came as a prince of peace, but because he encountered the established religion, the prejudice and vice of his time, the immediate effect was strife and contention.—Rev. R. E. Sykes, Universalist, Denver, Colo.

No Trivial Matter.—The taking of God's name lightly or blasphemously is no trivial matter. The mechanical rattling off of oaths and affidavits in our courts and by our notaries is rather adapted to weaken than to promote a sense of reverence for the name of God. The way the oath is administered makes one feel that God is far off.—Rev. A. E. Myers, Colleglate, New York.

To-day.—There was never a day in the history of the church when it had more reason to rejoice than to-day. This is our day—a day when the Lord has triumphed. His name has been glorified.—Rev. Johnston Myers, Baptist, Chicago, Ill.

The Church.—Once more has come an era when the multitude has lost its enthusiasm for the church. No longer do the multitude throng and crowd the church, waiting for the doors to open. Rev. N. D. Hillis, Independent, Chicago, Ill.

Visions.—The lives of the men who have left their imprint upon the world show that God has ever used visions for disturbing contentment; visions that inspire aspirations and provoke progress.—Rev. J. F. Carson, Presbyterian, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FINGER-STOCKS.

Relics of Days When Pain and Knowledge Went Together.

In the old Dames schools in country districts, even so late as fifty or sixty years ago, there was always kept on the desk, side by side with the birch, a pair of finger-stocks. As the children went up in turn to the desk to repeat their lessons, they were each obliged to put on these stocks. The hands were placed behind the back, and the four fingers of each hand inserted in the holes. With the shoulders brought well back, the child in this position was absolutely helpless, and entirely at the mercy of the old dame, should she be inclined to use the birch or box the ears of any delinquent scholar. These finger-stocks were also used as a mode of punishment, the children having to stand with their hands fixed in them for an hour or more at a time. Although they do not look a very formidable method of torture, it only remains for them to be tried to satisfy the inquirer of their efficacy. The finger-stocks here illustrated are slightly larger than the size of the picture.

FINGER-STOCKS.

"Quarter" on the Battlefield.

The term "quarter," used in warfare, originated from an agreement anciently made between the Dutch and Spaniards, that the ransom of a soldier taken in action should be a quarter of his pay. Probably it meant to "grant conditions." In this sense the expression was commonly used at one time. As a modern warlike term, to give quarter means that the prisoner of war should be sent to the rear of the army and there lodged and fed by the captors until exchanged or released on the termination of hostilities.

There is really only one kind of happiness too deep for words, and that is the kind that has its mouth full of apple pie.

Webster Cowed Them.

William Wetmore Story, the sculptor and poet, was one of the few men who presumed to call Lowell "Jim" to the end, and Miss Mary E. Phillips, in her "Reminiscences of William Wetmore Story," tells, in Story's own words to her, the following tale of the two young men: "James Lowell and I were very angry with Webster for staying in old Tyler's cabinet, and as he was to speak in Faneuil hall on the evening of the 30th of September, 1842, we determined to go in (from the Harvard Law school) and hoot at him and show him that he had incurred our displeasure. There were 3,000 people there, and we felt sure that they would hoot with us, young as we were.

"But we reckoned without our host. Mr. Webster, beautifully dressed, stepped forward. His great eyes looked, as I shall always think, straight at me. I pulled off my hat; James pulled off his. We both became as cold as ice and as respectful as Indian coolies. I saw James turn pale; he said I was livid. And when the great creature began that most beautiful exordium, our scorn turned to deepest admiration, from an abject contempt to belief and approbation."

His Hair In Danger.

A young artist whose pipe, eyeglasses and luxuriant blond hair have made him well known in town went to a garden party not so much for social amusement as for pencil studies of high life. He wore a tall hat, frock coat and lavender trousers and carried a sketching block a yard square. At the party his epigrams, paradoxes and fiendish silvery laugh overwhelmed, as he intended, all the girls in sight or hearing, but he got through with his social duties as speedily as might be, then went and sat down on a distant fence.

Soon pencil studies lay all around him on the grass. Suddenly he felt a gentle tug at his back hair. He thought, "That is some fresh Alec trying to guy me," and he did not look up. The gentle tugging ceased, began again, became much stronger, and then he felt something wet, soft, slimy, on his neck. With a dreadful oath he leaped from the fence and looked behind him. Back there was a smart trap, in which sat two girls and a young man laughing. The horses were close to the fence, and it was one of these that had commenced browsing on the artist's profuse locks. Explanations followed and apologies. "All flesh," the artist said, "is grass, but not all hair."

It's Your Own Fault.

How long have you had lame back? It's your own fault. St. Jacobs Oil would have cured it promptly, and will cure it now, no matter how long it has remained neglected.

The Apparent Difference.

Johnny—Pa, some of the curious people round here they call "odd" and some of the others "eccentric." What's the difference?

Pa—When a man is said to be eccentric, he usually has more or less money. When he is poor, a man is simply odd.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known Yellow Label on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.
MADE ONLY BY
WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.,
Dorchester, Mass.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.
ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.
Send For Catalogue.
WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

A Beautiful Girl's Affliction.

From the Republican, Versailles, Ind.

The Tuckers of Versailles, Ind., like all fond parents, are completely wrapped up in their children. Their daughter Lucy, in particular, has given them much concern. She is fifteen, and from a strong healthy girl three years ago had become weak and kept falling off in flesh until she became a mere skeleton. She seemed to have no life at all. Her blood became impure and finally she became the victim of nervous prostration. Doctors did not help her. Most of the time she was confined to bed, was very nervous and irritable, and seemed on the verge of St. Vitus' dance.

"One morning," said Mrs. Tucker, "the doctor told us to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which he brought with him. He said he was treating a similar case with these pills and they were curing the patient. He began giving the pills and the next day could see a change for the better. The doctor came and was surprised to see such an improvement. He told us to keep giving her the medicine. We gave her one pill after each meal until eight boxes had been used when she was well. She has not been sick since, and we have no fear of the old trouble returning. We think the cure almost miraculous."

Discussed Their Daughter's Case for Hours.

FRANK TUCKER,
MRS. FRANK TUCKER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 28th day of April, 1897.
Hugh Johnson,
Justice of the Peace.

These pills are wonderfully effective in the treatment of all diseases arising from impure blood, or shattered nerve force. They are adapted to young or old, and may be had at any drug store.

BIG G Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right. Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

VETERANS If you made a homestead entry prior to June 22, 1874, for LESS THAN 160 ACRES, you are entitled to an additional entry, which is assignable and worth something. Widows and minor orphans of deceased soldiers have same right. Do not waste postage unless you made an original entry as stated above.
JERE COLLINS, Helena, Mont.

HERCULES ✻ GASOLINE ✻ ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

BUY THE GENUINE SYRUP OF FIGS
... MANUFACTURED BY ...
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
☞ NOTE THE NAME.

S. F. N. U. No. 856. New Series, No. 47.

FREE HELP FOR WEAK MEN

"CALTHOS"—Prof. Laborde's French Cure for Lost Manhood

5 Days Trial Treatment Sent Absolutely Free

by Sealed Mail to all Sufferers

No C.O.D. or Deposit Scheme

The only preparation known to science which really cures Lost manhood is "CALTHOS," the marvelous French remedy discovered by Prof. Jules Laborde. It is controlled in this country by the Von Mohl Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, a concern which occupies a high and honorable place in the world of medicine. It is one of the most responsible houses in Cincinnati, as any one who is acquainted in that city will testify.

The Von Mohl Co., invites all men suffering from Lost Manhood, Spermatorrhœa, Varricocelle or weakness of any nature in the Nerves or Sexual Organs, to send their names and receive a five days' treatment. This will prove the wonderful vitilizing powers of "CALTHOS." After using it five days the sufferers will find new vigor in their organs, new force in their muscles, new blood in their veins, new ambition, and rapid progress toward the buoyant feelings and sensations of younger days.

This liberal free offer is genuine. There is no swindling C. O. D. or deposit scheme connected with it. The five days' treatment is sent by sealed mail to all on request, wrapped in a plain package, and printed instructions accompany the medicine, so that each patient becomes his own doctor and cures himself at home.

It doesn't make any difference what caused the weakness—whether bad habits in youth, or excess, or overwork, or business troubles. "CALTHOS" will effect a cure, no matter what big name the disease may be called by doctors.

The Von Mohl Co., treats all correspondence in perfect confidence. Under no conditions will it make public the names of the thousands who have written testimonials telling of their restoration to robust manhood after other medicines proved worthless. "CALTHOS" is regularly used in the French and German armies, and the soldiers in those countries have to come to be perfect models of of strength and vitality. Cures are affected at all ages from 20 to 80 years. There is no case (except where the stage of epilepsy or insanity has been reached) which it will not radically, quickly, and permanently cure. Sexual weakness does not cure itself. It grows worse from week to week. Each day aggravates the mental and physical anguish. Send to-day for the five days' trial treatment. If it helps you, more of the medicine can be purchased. If it does not help, no harm is done and no money paid out. You can send your name with the full knowledge that it will be kept from all. Address applications for trial treatment, etc., to the VON MOHL CO., 171 B Cincinnati, Ohio. Largest Importers of Stardard Preparations in the U. S.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 28. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., DECEMBER 23, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1499.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.25
One Month	50
Single Copies	10

SWEET ROSE.

Sweet rose, awaking to the light,
Into this fair world born
A little folded bud at night,
A flower at break of morn!
Yet thou a tiny tear of dew
Within thy heart dost bear,
Though earth is glad and life is new,
And thou art sweet and fair!

Sweet rose, unfold thy heart and shed
Thy perfume wider yet;
Though soon the summer hours are fled,
Thy fate, sweet rose, forget!
With fragrance all the garden fill,
That those who pass and see
Shall deem the bright world brighter still
Because of it and thee!

Sweet rose, God made thee fair to take
Thy tiny place and part,
To soothe some spirit like to break,
To cheer some burdened heart.
Weep not for aught that fate may send,
But, ere thy day is spent,
Live out thy life unto its end,
Then die and sleep content!
—Chambers' Journal.

"CUTHBERT'S CRIME."

"THE editor of the Covent Garden Magazine presents his compliments to Mr. Percy King, and begs to return the accompanying MS., which has already appeared in the columns of the Hyde Park Miscellany. The editor would further point out that it is a serious attempt at fraud to submit a MS. concurrently to two publications."

Percy King, with his untasted breakfast before him, sat staring in amazement at this totally unexpected and altogether unpleasant communication. What could it mean? He had not submitted his story of "Cuthbert's Crime" to any other magazine than the Covent Garden, nor was there any apparent possibility of such a thing being done by anyone else. And yet the editor could not be mistaken. In any case, there was that month's Hyde Park close to him, on the writing table, and he could easily prove the editor's statement. He picked it up, hastily turned over the leaves and soon found what he sought.

Yes, there it was: "Cuthbert's Crime; a Tale of the City;" by Percy King. The young author sat down again, tugging viciously at his mustache—a sure index to his present state of mind. When pleased, Percy would slowly fondle and smooth this straw-colored appendage; when thoughtful or concerned, he would twist its long, silky ends; when enraged or excited, he would strive to tear it out by the roots. "Percy's barometer," men had called it at Oxford.

At last he seemed to have made up his mind how to act, for he rose suddenly, upsetting his poor little terrier, who had taken her usual place at his feet. Pollie yelped painfully, and her master swore audibly. "Mrs. Gadd," he called, as he reached the little dingy hall, "I'm going out, and sha'n't be back to lunch."

"Yessir," said the voluble little woman—Percy's friend, Lord, had summed her up once as "voluble, valuable and volume-able""—"but surely you ain't goin' hout without hany breakfast, an' sich a bitter cold mornin', too?"

"Confound the breakfast," growled Percy, and Mrs. Gadd withdrew, in offended dignity—she was a "Plymouth 'sister'"—to her own stuffy little sanctum. Without further parley, Percy swung into the Inverness cape, and, regardless of east wind and sleet, made his way toward the temple. In one of the little streets close by there was a long-unpainted house, the door of which stood wide open, giving free access to an unwashed hall. "Tudor Chambers" was inscribed on the brass door-plate; and "Wm. Lord, Solicitor," was depicted in quite fresh paint over a set of offices on the second floor, one of which Percy now entered.

"Well, old man, and why so early?" was its occupant's cheery greeting. "Halloa! barometer set stormy?"—as Percy jerked at that tell-tale mustache. "Sit down, O 'King Percy,' fill your pipe, and unbosom your crime-laden soul."

"I've re[illegible] worry enough, 'Lord Bill,' without a[illegible] your Surrey drama tags," responded Percy, sinking into the "client's chair" and accepting from his friend's hands a [illegible] jar, well filled with Latakia. He filled and lighted his pipe, and then handed [illegible] the editor's note to the youthful-looking [illegible]. "What do you think of that, Bill? A pleasant pick-me-up?" he queried.

His host read it slowly through twice, and then turned to Percy. "Impudent, of course goes without saying that 'your Majesty' is incapable of such a dirty trick; and I know your methods in business matters too well to imagine that it has happened from inadvertence. Somebody has obtained a copy of your story, and has sent it in to the Hyde Park. When did you write 'Cuthbert's Crime,' and when did you send it in? Give me precise dates, if you can, old fellow."

Percy drew his pocket diary out, and turned over the pages slowly. "I wrote it at Rhyl in September, it was 'typed' at Mme. Citoyenne's on my return to town in October, and was sent to the Covent Garden just before Christmas. I was in Spain, as you are aware, during six weeks, and all my manuscripts were securely locked up during my absence, and apparently untouched on my return. The Garden accepted it January, and the thing has appeared in the March number of the Hyde. Now you have it all."

Lord reflected for a few moments. "It is perfectly plain," he at length said, "that access to the story could be obtained only at two times—when it was typewritten and when you were away. Mrs. Gadd is far too fierce a Cerberus to allow any stranger to touch your room, and her honesty is above reproach. We may say the latter of Mme. Citoyenne also, but it may—I say, may—be possible that not all her typists can resist temptation. May I look at the transcript?"

He eyed it carefully, and then made a minute examination of it, letter by letter. "Look here, Percy," he exclaimed at last, "I have a clew—slight enough, but enough to show if the Hyde copy was 'typed' by the same machine. The capital Q occurs in all nine times; in each case an O has been used instead, and the little tail has been added with a pen. We will now go and call on Hartland, the editor of the Hyde Park.

Making their way through the Temple, they passed through the windswept streets to the corner of Holborn Circus, where the offices of that magazine were situated, and sent in their cards. Mr. Hartland was in, and would see Mr. King and his friend.

"Delighted to meet you, Mr. King," lisped the dapper, bald-headed little man as they entered; "delighted to meet our gifted new contributor."

"I have never in my life contributed to the Hyde Park Miscellany," said Percy, shortly, impatiently pulling the ends of the "barometer."

"You amaze me. Why, surely——" began the other, when William Lord broke in, and in a few words explained the state of affairs, to the editor's manifest astonishment.

"Then you want me——"

"To give us the address of your correspondent, and to allow us to inspect the manuscript."

"Certainly." And the editor opened a drawer and produced a number of filed letters. "Here is the receipt for my check, signed 'Percival King, 3 St. Chad's pl., Westminster.'"

"I always sign as Percy, and I live in Bloomsbury, and that isn't my handwriting," exclaimed the young author, regardless of his friend's warning hand. Mr. Hartland, meanwhile, was shouting through a speaking tube, and a boy shortly appeared with a roll of paper.

"That is the typewritten copy of 'Cuthbert's Crime,' which I received on Oct. 28 and accepted a week later," said Mr. Hartland, consulting a ledger.

Lord closely scanned the paper roll, looking at certain passages very closely indeed. "The method of the fraud is clear," he said at length. "Two copies of my friend's manuscript have been made by a multiplying process. One was dispatched to his address, the other to the Hyde. The paging, etc., are identical, and you may see the pen-corrected 'Q's' in each."

"Yes, that is so," assented Percy and the editor. "What is your next step?" asked the latter.

"We will proceed at once to St. Chad's place, and interview the impostor," answered the lawyer; and, after thanking Mr. Hartland for his courtesy, the two friends withdrew.

They stopped on reaching the street, to consider their method of procedure. Eventually they decided to lunch first, and it was nearly 3 o'clock when a 'bus set them down at the corner of St. Chad's place.

Lord at once called his client's attention to a dusty card in the window of No. 3, which proved to be a small stationer's shop. It read: "Letters received here."

"We must be wary, my boy; it's a deep game. If I try to bluff, mind, you back me up."

A very stout, little old woman, clad in widow's weeds, waddled clumsily in from the tiny parlor beyond the shop. "What do ye want, gen'lemen?" she queried, in a hoarse, asthmatic whisper.

"We must see Mr. Percy King at once," was the solicitor's answer.

"Lor' bless yer, sir, 'e don' live 'ere; 'e on'y calls for 'is letters 'ere," gasped the old dame.

"What is he like?" asked Lord.

"Wy! is the pore feller in trouble?"

Lord drew himself up, and pointed to Percy. "That is Mr. King. Someone has personated him, and obtained money faudulently by using his name. Tell us all you know, or we may regard you as an accomplice."

"All right, then," said the fat woman, more huskily than ever. "My Mr. King is a 'andsome young lidy."

The two men started. Their suspicions were becoming certainties. "She's short, an' she's dark, and she's pretty," the stout dame continued; "an' she wears a navy blue jacket and a queer silver ring on 'er 'and."

"That will do," said Percy; "I know the lady." And he hastily explained that he had noticed a queer silver ring of Indian workmanship on the finger of one of Mme. Citoyenne's typists, when he once called to complain of certain errors in some work which she had copied for him.

"Do you expect an early visit from 'Mr. King?'" asked William Lord.

"Yes, sir; she'll call to-night; leastways, I expect as 'ow she'll, 'cause 'ere's a letter for 'er, wot 'as bin 'ere since Wednesday.

"About what hour does she usually come?"

"About sivin, gen'lemen."

The two friends withdrew. "We will go and have a 'hundred up' at 'pills,' and come back to meet your 'feminine counterpart,'" suggested Lord. Percy agreed, and they departed.

At 7 o'clock they stood within a passage nearly opposite No. 3, St. Chad's place, with collars turned up to their ears, for the sleet of the morning had given place to driving snow. After waiting some minutes, a 'bus passed the corner, and a woman alighted and entered the little stationer's shop. They crossed, and looked through the window. Yes, she answered to the fat lady's description, and they accordingly followed her indoors. Lord addressed her.

"Good-evening, madam. Allow me to introduce you to Mr. Percy King, whose existence you have forgotten, or you would have not made use of his name."

"Wh—wh—what do you mean?" tremblingly asked the girl—for she was little older. The solicitor pointed to the letter in her hand, and sternly asked, "Do you read the Hyde Park Miscellany?"

The woman sank half-fainting into a chair.

"We are waiting for your explanation. Am I to send for the police?" queried William Lord.

"No, no; for heaven's sake, no," the poor child moaned, her voice broken by violent sobs. "It was—I was mad—my mother was ill—the doctor said—wine—and good living—and I earned—10 shillings a week—and it seemed—so easy—and I thought—I could—never—be found out. Forgive—me—and I will—pay you back—the money—every—penny of it. But—don't let—poor mother—know it—it would—break—her heart."

"Call a cab, Bill," whispered the young author, whose soft heart was already melted by the poor girl's penitence and evident distress. "We will get her confession drawn up and signed in your room, to set things right with the Covent Garden, and then, poor child, we'll take her home to her mother."

This was the course he persisted in following, despite the lawyer's opposition. Nor did Effie Gray lose her situation at Mme. Citoyenne's—at least, not then; and yet, as certain "just causes and impediments" were not forthcoming on three recent Sundays, it is perhaps correct that a new typewriter with no defective "Q's" has lately been installed in Mrs. Gadd's front parlor, which will soon be manipulated by Mrs. King's deft fingers.—From London Tit-Bits.

QUEER STORIES

There is to be a new electric lighthouse placed on Fire Island that will have the estimated power of 45,000,000 candles, making it the most powerful artificial light in the world.

The first book printed in the limits of the United States was the "Bay Psalms Book," which was issued in Cambridge, Mass., in 1640. Specimens of this publication are extremely rare and command very high prices.

If the inhabitants of the fixed stars had powerful enough telescopes to see us, they would not see us as we are today, but as we were fifty, one hundred years, or even longer ago, for it would take light that long to travel to them.

Mathematical calculations show that an iron ship weighs 27 per cent. less than a wooden one, and will carry 115 tons of cargo for every 100 tons carried by a wooden ship of the same dimensions, and both loaded to the same draught of water.

Three of the best New York Central men testify that they would never under any circumstances reverse their engines in order to bring the train to a stop. When they had to stop a train in the shortest possible distance, they shut off the steam and applied the air, and did nothing else; there was only one quicker way to stop a train, and that was to run into something. They agreed that upon reversing, the back pressure in the cylinders was so great as to lock the drivers and cause them to slide, thus losing the braking power of the locomotive. Neither did they approve of sanding the tracks, for nothing seemed to be gained by it.

Chinese Economy.

No people in the world can exceed the Chinese in the matter of economy. They waste nothing. The old cast-off account book of the merchant is cut into pieces and oiled to serve, instead of glass, in windows or lanterns. A coolie who has a six hours' march with a heavy burden will return to his point of departure without having broken his fast, in order to save the two cents his breakfast would have cost away from home. Nothing is more curious than to see them eat, although, with their famous chopsticks, they do not perform all the wonderful feats generally supposed. Everything is served them in bowls or sauces, and with the chopsticks they raise the pieces of meat or fish to the mouth, with sufficient grace. Each one has a bowl of rice, which he hold near his lips, and with the aid of the chopsticks he pushes the contents into his mouth. It is curious to see them pick up with their chopsticks the grains of rice that fall on the ground. The children are taught this art from their earliest years; nothing must be lost, not even the smallest grain.

When Used to Excess.

Ordinary articles of consumption have a bad effect upon the body if used to excess. Not a few men have had their eyesight permanently affected by smoking too much, and the deafness of a very noted man of letters is to be traced to the fact that he had been for years a tea drunkard. That snuff may produce paralysis is well-known, but it seems almost incredible that a man may go mad through consuming too many eggs. Nevertheless, there is no doubt that to eat too many of them produces a kind of nervous excitement which may lead even to murder. Too much beef for a weak-brained boy tends to make him an idiot, and the number of men whose mental vigor has been sapped by constantly drinking strong coffee is extraordinary.

An Old Work on Mathematics.

The Rhind manuscript, now in the British museum, is the oldest intelligible mathematical work extant that has ever been deciphered.

Odorless Onions.

The Chinese cultivate an odorless onion.

Money is the root of the manufacturing plant.

MUSICAL CRIES OF DEPOT CALLERS.

Chants of Chicago's Railway Station Guards While Announcing the Various Trains.

WHEN the impressarios who manage the great opera companies are out of singers and are looking for a few choice tenors and baritones to stop the gaps in their troupes they might do worse than gather in some of the men who make a living by calling trains in the various railroad depots of Chicago, says the Sunday Chronicle. These have voices of strength and power and penetration, and although they are probably unconscious of the fact their announcements of trains are musical to a degree.

The train caller has a peculiar position, and he is a necessary adjunct to the railroad business only in a city like Chicago, which is the initial point of the trips of all trains. That is, no train arrives at this city and continues on its journey. This is the end of the road for all of them, and passengers wishing to go further in any direction must change cars. This usually necessitates a wait of more or less duration either in the depot at which the passenger arrives or at one in some other part of town to which he is hurried in an omnibus.

UNION DEPOT.

When a man or woman has been traveling a day or two across the country and is dumped in a big noisy depot in Chicago, hustled into a bus with a lot of other tourists and rattled across town to another depot equally large and noisy and confusing, with clanging bells and arriving and departing trains, it is a bit difficult to know just what is going on. The tourist is likely to become confused and not remember over what road the remainder of the journey is to be taken. The time the train is to leave is also a puzzling point, and to guard against mistakes and the missing of trains by inexperienced travelers the train caller is employed to announce every train half an hour or so before it leaves.

When a Chicago man is going on a journey he, of course, knows what road he is going over and what hour and minute the train leaves, and times himself to arrive at the depot a few minutes before train time. For him there is no need of a caller. But it is to the tired traveler who is going across the country, the woman with half a dozen children, the tourist who never before took a journey of over ten miles that the caller comes as a boon and a blessing. After sitting perhaps for hours in a big depot, watching with wide open eyes the hurried coming and going of the crowds of people, the starting of dozens of suburban trains, fearful that each one is the train that he should take, the man who never saw Chicago before and haply never wants to again after his tiresome experiences on the road, sees a man in uniform stroll into the waiting-room, lift up his voice, and in slow resonant tones begin to call out an announcement about the next through train that is to leave.

Every word he utters is eagerly listened to by the tourist, who anticipates hearing the name of the road over which he is to travel or the city to which he is bound. If he does not hear them he sinks back in his seat satisfied. That is not his train. He is all right thus far. In half an hour or so perhaps the caller walks leisurely into the big echoing room again, and he is watched and listened to by every one as he begins his slow chant. It is the train of another road this time, and as he announces the name of the road the people who have tickets for that line begin to gather up their effects, straighten out their children and put on their coats. As he concludes with the welcome news that "the train is ready" a small procession hurries out the door toward the train shed and the disappointed ones settle back in their seats to wait the glad moment when their trains shall thus be announced.

Develops a Chant.

In the course of time naturally the announcer develops a chant or song to which he fits the announcements. It comes easier than a plain recitation of the name of the road and the principal stations at which the train will stop. He is obliged to speak loudly and clearly enough to be heard in every part of the waiting-room, and to accomplish this end he causes his voice to rise and fall in regular cadence, and doing this day after day it becomes as natural for him to sing the calls as if he were chanting a popular ditty of the hour. It is largely unconscious music on the part of the caller. He does not stop to think about the tune he is chanting, the key in which he sings or the pitch of his voice. His business is to let people know about the trains and not to beguile their weary moments with song. But he is a picturesque and welcome feature of a very prosaic and humdrum place, the big depot in a big city.

DEARBORN STATION.

ROCK ISLAND DEPOT.

The man who does most of the calling at the Union depot is young and good-looking and possesses a splendid voice. His name is Tom Kennedy, and he seems to be as happy as is possible amid the depressing surroundings of tired passengers, crying babies, missent baggage and late trains which serve to make life miserable for most of the employes around a railroad station. He has four big railroads to keep tab on—the Burlington, Alton, Milwaukee, and Pennsylvania and they manage to send out a good many trains every day and evening. This gives Kennedy little opportunity to make money on the side or tell funny stories to the bus drivers, for he is kept fairly busy watching the clock and remembering what train is next on the list to be announced. Shortly after 8 o'clock every evening he enters the ladies' waiting room of the depot, and in a sonorous monotone he chants this melody:

"Panhandle, Pennsylvania train is ready. Passengers going south and east for Logansport, Kokomo, Richmond, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Columbus, Pittsburg, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Washington. Train leaves down-stairs gate No. 4."

His voice rings through the lofty room and is echoed from the vaulted ceiling, and as he rests after enunciating the name of each city there is no opportunity of mistaking what he says. The latter portion of the announcement, referring to the train leaving downstairs, is delivered a minor third lower than the other part in a sad, heart-rending way, as if Tom Kennedy deeply regretted the necessity of having that train go out.

In direct contradistinction to Kennedy, at least as shown by the tone of his voice in calling, is the fat, jolly policeman who makes the announcements at the Dearborn Station on Polk street. While the Union depot man sings in a minor the policeman pitches his voice in a major which seems to express fully the content with which he views the world, and even in his position as arbiter of all troubles that come to the traveling public. His job is even more trying than that of the man in the Union depot, for he has more roads to look after. The Erie, Grand Trunk, Santa Fe, Eastern Illinois, Wabash and Monon Roads are under his care, so far as announcing the trains is concerned, but he manages to keep plump and good natured, and it is reflected in his voice.

He has manifold duties, for he is depot policeman in addition to being caller, and when he is not telling people what train to take he is stopping somebody from smoking in the waiting rooms or directing some luckless stranger to a hotel or a theater. He keeps an eye on the clock, however, and never misses his turn at announcing the approach of the time for the departure of a train. When the minute hand reaches the proper hour in the evening he walks to the center of the waiting-room, and, without striking a pose or putting on any grand opera airs, he chants the following:

"Chicago and Erie train—going east, Huntington, Marion, Columbus, Niagara Falls, New York, Boston and all points east."

At another time he makes this simple announcement:

"Chicago and Grand Trunk train going east. All aboard."

He does not vary the theme particularly, and while his rendition may be lacking in color it certainly is full of atmosphere. His voice is rotund, and what might be called, for want of a better term, comfortable. He seems at peace with all the world, except probably the farmer who insists on smoking a villainous pipe in the ladies' waiting-room, and for him there is short shrift. The officer says that the number of duties he is called upon to perform as depot policeman and official train announcer hardly leaves time for such a rendition of the train and station obligations as might be wished, but he does the best he can. There are five waiting rooms, and were a man to go to each one and render a long-winded call he would not be half through with the last room before a train would be ready on some other road, and therefore he has to cut them short at times.

But the star caller of the city is at the Grand Central Station, Harrison street and Fifth avenue. His name is George Gimberling, and he has a voice like that of Campanari. The station has probably the loftiest ceiling in the waiting-room of any in the city, and an ordinary voice would soon get lost among the marble pillars and things up there. But not so with Gimberling's. He knows just how to modulate it and throw it and use it so that every one in the depot will know what is going to happen out on the tracks. He has a number of roads on his hands, too—the Baltimore and Ohio, Great Western and Wisconsin Central—and the big waiting-room is generally filled with passengers waiting the calling of their trains. When George goes through nobody has to ask the college graduate policeman what the caller said. They all hear him. He takes his post near the center of the big room and begins like this:

"Baltimore and Ohio train now ready for Garrett, Chicago Junction, Mansfield, Wheeling, Bellaire, Grafton, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and intermediate points. Train leaves track 9 in fifteen minutes."

GRAND CENTRAL STATION.

All this is delivered in a true, clear baritone voice, which he uses well. Every word is pronounced clearly and distinctly, and after the name of every city he rests long enough for the mental impression produced by the enunciation of the name to sink into the minds of the listeners. The voice is full of melody and is under complete control of the caller. Were Gimberling to take up music for a while he would not have to call trains any more.

At the Rock Island and Lake Shore depot the caller does not pay much attention to the musical part of his work. He calls the trains in a jerky way, using one theme, which he makes fit all announcements, regardless of what he says. He does not chant, but rather speaks, and his voice is not musical. It needs cultivation to bring it up to the standard of Kennedy and Gimberling and the big policeman at the Dearborn station. The theme he uses might well be employed for a waltz melody when he makes this announcement:

"Passengers going on the Rock Island and Pacific train. Rock Island and Pacific all aboard."

He does not call loudly and reverberantly, filling the waiting-room with his voice, but prefers to walk to different parts of the room and make the announcement in rather a low tone, which fits well with the subdued hum of voices in the waiting-room.

Altogether the callers at the depots form an interesting study of voice culture, or rather lack of culture. Each of them chants in a different key and uses a different theme from the others, and probably none of them ever stopped to think that he was really singing what he said.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23 1898

At last the treaty of peace has been signed and probably by this writing our Commissioners are homeward bound. The general features of the treaty are already well understood, but the instrument in detail will not be given to the public until the President has received it from the commission.

The question of the assumption of responsibility for the Philippines is now settled beyond recall, so far as Spain's withdrawal is concerned. She has yielded her sovereignty, and we are in practical possession. Spains troops are yet to be embarked for home, and the money consideration is to be appropriated and paid before the negotiations can be said to have reached their final stage. The House of Representatives holds the key to the appropriation question, the Senate to that of ratification or rejection of the treaty. If the latter comes to pass, which we do not expect, the effect will be the dispatch of a new commission to treat again, or the negotiation of a new treaty through diplomatic correspondence direct. The present House, as well as the next to convene, can be trusted to provide the administration with the funds to keep its compact with Spain. Any possible blocking of the Administration policy, therefore, must happen in the Senate. We entertain the belief that the President, with the aid of Democratic and Populist Senators, will have substantial majority for ratification. But if it is found that this is uncertain, the probability is that the treaty will not be communicated to this Senate, but the next, convened under a special call for Congress to assemble. In the meantime the military occupancy of the new possessions must continue. That is to say, until definite action upon the treaty is had, we will hold the islands in the Orient and the West Indies by military power precisely as we are now doing, and will continue to gain the confidence of the people of those possessions, as we are now doing day by day, by our conciliatory but firm and just administration of the affairs of the islands.

It is common knowledge that the public grazing lands of the Western and Pacific States are deteriorating rapidly under the policy which leaves them open to all comers and free from an sort of regulation. In Eastern Oregon, for example, it is easily remembered when tracts now all but barren and worthless were rich with bunch grass and unequaled for the purposes of pasture. It is the same everywhere else—lands which ten or fifteen years ago supported countless herds are now dusty barrens, from which all vegetation has been beaten out, says the Portland Oregonian. First came cattle in countless herds, who ate and trampled out the more luxuriant and nutritious grasses, and after these came sheep, which take not only that which rises above but all that can be dug from beneath the surface of the soil.

Thus a large source of national wealth has been destroyed. In the single State of Wyoming in 1886 there were 1,280,916 range cattle worth $32,022,900; and at the same time 518,416 sheep worth $1,072,199. The figures for the present year are 688,092 cattle worth $16,390,696, and 1,940,021 sheep worth $5,714,332. The cattle interest has fallen off and the sheep interest has expanded; but the balance is one of prodigious loss. The aggregate value of range cattle and sheep together in 1886 was $33,095,053, whereas in the present year it is $22,105,128. The loss in twelve years is $10,990,060, or approximately one-third. There has been no decline in enterprise in the Wyoming stock regions, the loss being due absolutely to the deterioration of the ranges. The country does not now afford subsistence for herds which once ranged there, because the lands are less productive than formerly of stock food. The same statement holds true of public grazing lands everywhere, including Oregon, where the decline in numbers of range cattle and the growth of sheep flocks attest the rapid deterioration in food supply.

California was entering on an era of sugar production from the beet when the annexation of Hawaii with her sugar, made cheap by reason of cheap labor and land adapted so well to the cane, put a check to the enthusiasm. California has vast orange orchards but the acquisition of Puerto Rico and the certain annexation of Cuba, with soil and climate better adapted to the growth of citrus fruit, with cheap labor and cheap transportation, will render these groves almost valueless in a few years. At least we have an end to the planting of orchards on this coast. Tobacco is a profitable production in many of the States, but our island acquisitions will bring in tobacco free and down goes that industry in a short time. Of course we will have many compensating industries grow up, but it will disturb things in some sections in a wonderful manner.

If hero Hobson has any judicious friends, they will advise him to discontinue his hippodrome as a hero and the indecent exhibition of kissing the female portion of the audience which the attraction must call together. It is announced that Hero Hobson is on his way to San Francisco, and has agreed to lecture or exhibit himself as a hero and kiss all the women of the city for the benefit of a hospital. Hobson is one of the legacies of the war, which added to the heroic names on the pages of story Dewey and Hobson. Further exhibition of gate-money heroism and promiscuity in the way of osculation will give us reason to be ashamed of one of them.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES.

Gold and Silver Out of Date—Brocade and Hand Embroidery In Vogue.

Photograph frames have a new wrinkle this spring. The photograph frame of gold, generally of the empire style, is going out of date, and that of silver has gone out completely. Their places are now taken by photograph frames of rich brocade, which, just brought over from Paris, are beginning to be sold in the shops and have at the moment an especial vogue for the reason that they are not made in this country.

For their decorativeness as well as their novelty these brocaded picture frames are getting to be very popular. Brocades of rich and subdued colors are used, and generally there are tinseled edges. They curve out slightly, being stuffed out so as to stand upon the edge. The favorite color is a tone of greenish gray, brocades of a deep red touch being also in favor.

A novelty in this line is a photograph box without a cover that holds a string of a dozen photograph frames. This string of frames folds up compactly and fits snugly in the box or case. Both box and frames are covered with the same brocade.

Another new photograph frame is hand embroidered. It is being shown in great variety and is exceedingly elaborate. Such frames are done in designs of flowers, bowknots and birds and in all the delicate colors, in tones of pinks, blues and greens. A favorite ground for this embroidery is pink satin, though satins of all other colors are used. Some of these frames show delicate white embroidery on a white satin ground. The entire frame is incased in glass to prevent soiling.

Crape paper frames have a vogue, too, and are highly esteemed for country houses. These styles of the shops, noted by the New York Herald, are particularly pleasing because home-made articles can so easily be fashioned after them.

Polishing a Hard Wood Floor.

Much labor may be saved in caring for hard wood floors by the use of the "trottoir," which is simply a heavy weight covered with carpet, to which is attached a long handle. The American Kitchen Magazine tells that an enterprising little woman, after a journey on the continent, where this implement is in general use, improvised one by covering a brick with carpet and catching it in the clamp with a long handle used for scrubbing brushes. It is unnecessary to buy patent polishes for this process. Melt a quantity of beeswax over the fire and stir in turpentine until it assumes the consistency of a paste. This polish is extremely inflammable, and the greatest care must be taken in mixing it not to allow it to come in contact with the fire. When about to use, melt a portion over the fire and spread a thin layer over the cloth covered brick. Begin at one corner and work sharply, taking an arm's length at a time; let the new row overlap enough to avoid showing a streak.

Novelties In Jewelry.

The Jewelers' Circular notes the following novelties:

Scarfpins for the fashionable bright plaid ascot scarf, which women are expected to wear this summer, are of sporting character, simulating tennis rackets, riding whips, golf sticks, etc.

Gorgeous hatpins are the natural sequence of gorgeous hats and give much employment to the semiprecious stones. Jade, by the way, is high in favor as a talisman and figures in these pins.

Women who possess the large oval miniature brooches of their grandmother's day set around with fine large pearls, as so many of these were, can have them transformed into handsome belt buckles.

Unique and exceedingly rich among new brooches are those for which a bit of the natural pearl formation furnishes the central ornament. The setting is India gold enriched with colored gems.

A diamond tortoise ornament on the bonnet is supposed to bring good luck.

French Fancy In Decoration.

The stiff white linen window shade has had a long reign. Now comes a rival, an accessory much more in harmony with the luxuriously furnished rooms of the present day. In the new shades the design has been to give them a certain elegance and daintiness suitable to their surroundings.

The New York Tribune illustrates one from among latest Parisian importations. The material is embroidered india muslin, with a design of guipure insertion, the bottom, which is cut in three scallops, being draped by a deep ruffle of the muslin and lace.

Receiving Her Husband.

Bachelor—You spend most of your time at home since your marriage?

Benedict (rapturously)—Ah, yes! A pair of blue eyes kept me there. By the way, I haven't seen you of late. Where have you been?

Bachelor—At home. A pair of black eyes kept me there.—Up to Date.

Booting For Success.

Quiet Man (on first night of new piece)—Excuse me, sir, but I don't see any occasion for such violent applause.

Demonstrative Neighbor—I do, my friend. The author is one of my wife's boarders, and he's now over two months behind with his bill.—New York World.

SELECTIONS

YANKEE GUNNERY.

The Tactics at Manila No New Thing In the History of the American Navy.

The old skipper unburdened his patriotic soul the other day on the subject of Yankee genius and valor in naval warfare. He had an audience of youngsters who felt dimly that they were the scions of a great nautical race, and when he got through with his palaver they were quite sure of it.

"In the war of 1812," the old skipper said, "we proved even to the satisfaction of the British admiralty that in a duel of warships noise, smoke, smash and splinters were inferior to skillful maneuvering and quick, strong and accurate firing—otherwise, gunnery. Nelson's tactics, to close in with your antagonist and pound him, went up in the smoke of the Guerriere, the Macedonian and the Java captures, and is now nothing but a tradition. The superiority of American ships, guns and seamen in those days staggered the European naval world. These victories of ours made the battles of the Nile and Trafalgar appear what they really were—brutally stupid.

"When our frigate Constitution met the brave Guerriere and the Java in single combat, it was a struggle of keen intelligence against brute force and arrogant ignorance. The Guerriere was then the crack frigate of the British navy, and the first one in 50 years to strike her flag in a naval duel between single ships. The great disparity of the loss in killed and wounded!—five times as many on the Guerriere as on the Constitution—astounded the naval world. Our sea fights set all Europe thinking, just as our fights in this war may do it was many years, however, before the English acknowledged that the real cause of their defeats in the war of 1812 was the superiority of the gunnery on the American ships. It was their excuse at the time of the war, and many years after, that the British tars had been simply overpowered by the American ships and the weight of their guns. The true explanation was that we were marksmen.

"At the siege of Yorktown in our Revolutionary war the deadly accuracy of Washington's artillery fire astonished the European artillerists. 'Your progress in artillery is wonderful,' said the gallant Lafayette to Major Shaw. General Knox personally superintended the serving of the guns. He was bred in the woods of Maine and was a born artillerist. 'You fire better than the French, upon my word you do,' said Lafayette to Major Shaw modestly protested.

"In all cases except one American gunnery in the war of 1812 was superior to the British. That exception was in the case of the British frigate Shannon, which whipped and captured the American frigate Chesapeake. It was an illustration of stealing an opponent's trumps and playing them back at him. The Shannon's guns were fitted with American sights and her crew were exercised after the American fashion. The commander of the Shannon paid particular attention to gunnery. In fact, he was the only officer in the British navy who did at that time. The brave Lawrence who, as Decatur said afterward, 'had no more dodge in him than the mainmast,' dashed recklessly against the deadly fire of the Shannon. After receiving the Shannon's first broadside the Chesapeake was out of it.

"As late as 1830 the American gun sight was considered the best device known to naval artillerists. It was introduced into naval gunnery by the Yankees in 1771. I have no doubt that in this war with Spain and in any future war that we may have on the sea Yankee ingenuity and intelligence will achieve the success that has always attended them."—New York Sun.

What Is Nirvana?

Rev. Shaku Soyen, having seen in a copy of the Chicago Tribune of Jan. 13, 1896, some quotations from a lecture of the Rev. John H. Barrows, D. D., in which he represented nirvana as "involving the extinction of love and life, as the going out of a flame which has nothing else to feed upon," addressed a letter to Dr. Barrows expressing his disappointment and asserting that "nirvana means extinction of lust, not of love; extinction of evil, not of existence." The contention of Mr. Soyen is that nirvana does not involve extinction even as a remote result, but, on the contrary, he implies that it is a living and conscious immortality.

The question here at issue is, "What is the historic teaching of Buddhist philosophy concerning nirvana?" I may say that as a rule I should be inclined to accept every intelligent man's statement of his own belief and the belief of his countrymen, or at least of his particular sect. But when we come to speak of a system which has undergone many and radical changes in the course of the ages, and a system which has presented important modifications in different lands even in the same age, we can hardly make any one broad assertion which shall cover the whole ground.—Homiletic Review.

GRAND

HOLIDAY OPENING AT

Rhine's

TOYS TOYS TOYS.

A CORDIAL WELCOME TO ALL.

CASSAVA CULTURE.

Some Points About a Crop In Which Considerable Interest Is Now Shown.

I prefer cutting my seed canes in short lengths and bedding them on a moderately warm bed, covering very slightly with soil, and on the top of that lay some litter to keep the bed moist. This causes the eyes in the cane to start growing; otherwise it might dry up and the white ant would then take possession of it. It is right at this stage that a great many growers make a failure of getting a good stand because instead of bedding the seed in this way and transplanting to its place in the field when it has made a few inches growth they put it in place in the field right away, and if a few wet, cold days come along there are ten chances to one that the half of it fails to grow, while in the beds as indicated 99 per cent of it will grow, and if properly taken care of will make a crop.

When the soil warms up along in late April or early May is the time to transplant from the bed to the field, and there is so little extra trouble or work in doing this that it is advisable to follow the plan every season if one wants to be sure of a crop.

To get the best returns from cassava the soil must be put in thorough condition. A sharp, narrow subsoil plow should be used for deep subsoiling, plowing both ways and thus opening up the soil and allowing circulation of air in it. The cassava plant sends its feeders away down deep after moisture, of which it requires a considerable quantity; therefore the more open and porous the soil the better. The subsoil must not be turned up in this operation, simply well stirred. This should be done in winter or early spring, and the necessary fertilizers should be applied immediately after, or at least six to eight weeks before the crop is planted.

The cassava plant is a gross feeder, but gives good account of the plant food it continues. On ordinary sandy pine land 1,000 pounds per acre would be none too much. This fertilizer should analyze about 6 per cent phosphoric acid, 9 per cent potash and 3 per cent nitrogen. Analysis of cassava gives 30 per cent of starch, and, like all other starch crops, potash is its chief nutriment.

All farmers should make cassava one of their staple crops. It is excellent food for stock of all kinds, and the yield is so large that it is one of the most productive root crops we have. Twenty tons an acre is quite a common yield (or nearly 700 bushels). Cows increase in milk when fed on cassava, and, in fact, everything on the farm likes it, says a writer in the Florida Farmer and Fruit Grower who gives the foregoing directions.

OFFICIAL.

Proposals for Building a Branch Jail at Tigpine.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the board of supervisors of Inyo county, State of California, made November 21, 1898, sealed proposals will be received for the construction of a branch jail in the town of Big Pine, County of Inyo, State of California, to comply with the following specifications: To be 14x16 feet, double walls, double ceiling, double floor and to hold prisoners to be hereafter designated. The sills 4x4, joists 2x6, ceiling joists 2x4 braced to the roof plates and rafters 2x4; the building to be fastened on the outside with 1x4; 1 of the one inch number to be surfaced; 2 breedloors 3x6 hold as near well; the building to be 10 feet walls. Three jail locks. Hinges to be such as put in with 5/16 bolts. Three hasps to suit the locks. One 12x12 ventilator in each side. Roof to shingles.

Bids must be sealed and addressed "Proposals for building branch jail at Tigpine" addressed to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors, and will be received not later than the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. on Thursday, the 5th day of January, 1899, at the same will be opened between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on the 5th day of Jan., 1899, and the board here by reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

Proposals for Building a Branch Jail at Lonepine.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the board of supervisors of Inyo county, State of California, made November 21, 1898, sealed proposals will be received for the construction of a branch jail in the town of Lonepine, County of Inyo, State of California, to comply with the following specifications: To be 14x16 feet, double walls, double ceiling, double floor and to hold prisoners to be hereafter designated. The sills 4x4, joists 2x6, ceiling joists 2x4 braced to the roof plates and rafters 2x4; the building to be fastened on the outside with 1x4; 1 of the one inch number to be surfaced; 2 breedloors 3x6 hold as near well; the building to be 10 feet walls. Three jail locks. Hinges to be such as put in with 5/16 bolts. Three hasps to suit the locks. One 12x12 ventilator in each side. Roof to shingles.

Bids must be sealed and addressed "Proposals for building branch jail at Lonepine" addressed to the clerk of the board of supervisors, these must be received not later than the hour of 10 a. m. on Thursday, the 5th day of Jan., 1899, at the same will be opened between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on the 5th day of Jan., 1899, and the board here by reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	Cash from A. M. Given, tax col	539 41
5	Cash from Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 76
	Cash from A. M. Given, tax col	28 40
	Cash from A. M. Given, poll tax	27 00
	Cash from Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	Cash from D. J. Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	Cash from J. H. Shamel, tax col	33 60
8	Cash from A. C. Shaunessy, int State fund	31 60
	Cash from J. H. Summers	2 25
13	Cash from F. H. Clark, Sundry money	3 074 06
18	Cash from Jack McCoy, rent	3 00
	Cash from Joseph Stellpflug, rent	1 00
	Cash from W. Davidson, fines	7 00
24	Cash from Edwards Lit State co.	32 00
27	Cash from Sanders Big Pine co.	3 010 00
		20 162 72
Aug 1	Cash from A. M. Given, tax col	2 400
	Cash from Chalfant, Co. Assessor	6 018
	Cash from A. M. Given, tax col	15 00
	Cash from A. M. Given, sheriff fees	1 50
	Cash from D. J. Hession, recorder fees	43 15
	Cash from D. J. Hession, clk. fees	28 35
8	Cash from Modesto & M. K. Co. exemption	14 55
30	Cash from Churchman & Kelly	123 16
	Cash from A. R. Schivelbon, lake land	3 863
		21 091 04
Sept 5	Cash from A. M. Given, tax col	455 00
	Cash from Chalfant, Co. Assessor	377 39
	Cash from A. M. Given, tax col fees	2 00
	Cash from D. J. Hession, clerk	51 15
	Cash from D. J. Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Cash from Thos. T. Smith, state land	48 01
	Cash from Thos. F. Rowlands, state land	48 01
	Cash from David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine Bd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 57 28
	Hospital	1 08 99
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	13 49
	Road Dist No 1	57 00
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	2 00
	" " " 4	121 50
	Big Pine Sch'l Bd	1 500 00
	" " " "	5 00
	Sunday Sch'l Library	6 00
	Library "	5 00
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Union "	7 00
	County Sch'l Fund	15 00
		8 500 00
Aug.	Salary	1 021 18
	Road Dist, No 2	5 00
	" " 3	24 00
	General Expense	1 063 41
	Hospital	65 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 090 59
Sept	General Expense	11 3
	Salary	1 024 78
	Hospital	21 46
	Fish Springs	161 15
	Independence	1 100 00
	Fish Springs	8 00
	Cosper Bird	15 00
	Cash	8 146 3
		22 733 20 22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	341 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 511 29
General expense		1 151 08
Interest		2 50 1
Road District No 1	174 80
Road District No 2	396 39
" " " 3	197 00
" " " 4	5 3 7
" " " 5	87 22
Poll tax	30 1
Unapportioned county	2 5
Irrigation	167 90
Hospital	29 87
Bridge	0 0
Teacher's library	3
Property tax	26 80
Library	1 59 08
Mono school library fund	9 13
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	3 2
Bishop	21 17
Swall	28 8
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 8
Union	30
Laws		64
Lone Pine	22 49
Fish Springs	1 55
Others	15 94
Tobacco		2 50
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Saline boarding house	29 11
Big Pine	5 0 60
Bishop school bond fund (gold)	71 02
Saline (new)	58 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 31
Fish Springs	48 56
Lone Pine	77 60
Tobacco	46 42
Fish Springs School	111 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	57 01
Lone Pine	387 61
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 19
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Poleta	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Statler	10 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	203 65
Library	78 42
Tabose	135 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 19
Swamp and overflowed	481 70
Round Valley School	120 43
Cash on hand		8 146 30
	19 425 17	19 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Filed Oct. 7, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Auditor

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

QUARTERLY REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR FOR QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

Exhibit showing amount of warrants drawn and upon what funds, between June 30th and Sept. 30th, 1898:

Total warrants drawn		11 521 81
General expense fund	2 811 41
School "	382 75
Hospital "	1 190 29
Sinking "	3 597 14
Road District No 1 fund	57 00
" " " 2 "	232 00
" " " 3 "	22 2
" " " 4 "	121 50
Bridge "	13 49
Salaries and wages	2 596 00
	11 921 81	11 921 81

Exhibit showing indebtedness of Inyo Co. as it was on last quarter.

Total indebtedness	6 910 55
Bonds issued		60 000
Outstanding indebtedness		9 0
	6 910 55	69 190
Inyo county total indebtedness	6 910 55
Cash in treasury		8 146 3
Remaining indebtedness		52 44
	60 910 55	60 910 55

Respectfully submitted to the Honorable Board of Supervisors.

D. J. HESSION
County Auditor.

Filed Oct. 5, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. Hession, Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

A. M. GIVEN,

SHERIFF AND TAX-COLLECTOR,

Independence, California.

J. F. WILLIS, - UNDER-SHERIFF

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

DISTRICT ATTORNEY, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION,

COUNTY CLERK

AND

EX-OFFICIO AUDITOR AND RECORDER.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

BISHOP, INYO CO., CAL.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,

GRADUATE CHICAGO COLLEGE DENTAL SURGERY

BISHOP, INYO CO., CALIF.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug-4-tf

JOHN D. LEWIS,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelso, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Shorter, L. J. Woodin, as administrator of the Estate of Thos. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, sole heir, and Todd, W. B. Staples, and Savings Bank of California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the clerk of said County.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelso, as administrator of the Estate of J. F. Glaser, deceased, J. S. Shorter, L. J. Woodin, S. Anthony, administrator of the Estate of Thos. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, W. B. Staples, and Savings Bank of California (a Corporation), Defendants.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment for the recovery of the sum of $1,000 with interest thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from the 1st day of Jan., 1896, upon sundry promissory notes, and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the court may deem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the said County of Inyo, State of California, this 3rd day of December, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

(SEAL)

Rooy, Campbell & Meyer, Chicago, Ill., and P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiff, vs. Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment for the recovery of the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The N. 1/2 of Sec. 30, township No. 12 south, Range No. 31 east, M. D. M., and cancelling, annulling and holding for naught the certificate of purchase thereof, and for the recovery of the sum of $1,232 for the rent of said premises from the date of purchase, amounting to $8.20, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands, and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 3rd day of December, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

(SEAL)

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiff, vs. J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment for the recovery of your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The N. 1/2 of Sec. 30, township No. 12 south, Range No. 31 east, M. D. M., and cancelling, annulling, and holding for naught the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 12,851, from the State of California, for non-payment of interest amounting to $34.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands, and the certificate of purchase thereof, aforesaid, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

(SEAL)

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
ALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS..... 25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING..... 25 to 50 cts
BOARD AND LODGING..... $2.00 to $1.50

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS. COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

—x—

O. L. MAIRS. - - PROPRIETOR.

—x—

THIS FIRST-CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and south.

jy7-tf O. L. MAIRS

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

—x—

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW, Proprietor.

MISCELLANEOUS

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Draws direct on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first class fire proof vault for the accommodation of patrons.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

S. P. M'KNIGHT C.E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY.

L. MUNZINGER & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of a First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ On the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to L. MUNZINGER & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE

MEAT MARKET.

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j19-tf

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE.
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MERCHANDISE.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:—
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:—
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs

Bought and Sold—

A complete stock of Miner's and Prospector's supplies.

And Patent Medicines—

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO,

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT. Hawthorne, Nevada

—o—

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES.	From Mound House. No. 1.	To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:55 a m	Ar 5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m	4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m	4:00 p m
Ft. Churchill	26	12:40 p m	3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m	2:30 p m
Cleaver	43	1:50 p m	2:15 p m
Mason	48	2:05 p m	2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m	1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m	12:55 p m
Ellis	78	3:50 p m	12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv 11:00 a m

STATIONS.	MILES.	No. 3.	No. 4.
Hawthorne	0	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar 7:35 p m
Sinkead	13	6:37 a m	6:48 p m
Yerington	22	7:10 a m	6:15 p m
New Boston	27	7:27 a m	5:55 p m
Soda Springs	33	7:50 a m	5:30 p m
Rhodes	44	8:10 a m	5:15 p m
Belleville	54	8:50 a m	4:35 p m
Junction	58	9:00 a m	4:25 p m
Candelaria	65	Ar 9:20 a m	4:0 p m
Junction		10:10 a m	3:20 p m
Lucky Boy	76	11:10 a m	2:25 p m
Summit	79	12:00 m	1:35 p m
Queen	88	12:50 p m	12:35 p m
Benton	93	1:20 p m	11:50 a m
Hammill	104	2:10 p m	11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	124	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv 9:50 a m
Alvord	139	4:05 p m	8:55 a m
Hibbs	153	4:50 p m	8:10 a m
Independence	167	5:35 p m	7:25 a m
Lone Pine	181	6:20 p m	6:40 a m
Swansea	190	6:50 p m	6:10 a m
Keeler	198	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv 6:0 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east west-bound trains of Central Pacific Rail

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 5:00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, 40 miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers to the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—or soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT.

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.	LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv 1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m	2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m	3:05 p m
Carson	9:20 a m	3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m	5:45 p m
Gold Hill	10:58 a m	6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar 6:55 p m
	TO RENO.	TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv 7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:16 p m	7:56 a m
Mound House	6:43 p m	8:39 a m
Carson	7:10 p m	9:05 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m	10:39 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m	11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:30 p m	Ar 11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWEETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD.

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains on Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe Steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5 00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,10 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00
Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.
Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23..... 1898

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDIKGS.

Hon. Walter A. Lamar, Judge.

MONDAY, Dec. 19, 1898.

Estate of John Kewley deceased—Petition to lease certain real estate.

Valenzuela vs. Valenzuela—Decree of divorce granted.

Methodist Church

Services for Sunday, December 25th, 1898:

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock. Special Christmas-tree sermon and music appropriate to the occasion.

All are most cordially invited to attend these meetings.

JOHN J. PARDEE, Pastor.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending December 22 1898:

Highest barometer	30.261	29
Lowest "	1.82	20
Highest temperature	61.	20
Lowest "	23.5	21
Mean "	41.4

Average dew point..... 34.6
Average humidity..... 47.2
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date.... 40 N 21
No. clear days..... 5
No. part cloudy days..... 2
No. cloudy days..... 0
No. rainy days..... 0
Precipitation for week ...Trace

JOHN J. MCLEAN, Observer.

John L. Collins is visiting with friends at Independence.

Mrs. J. J. Morton is visiting with relatives at Independence.

A. V. Davidson arrived home Wednesday from a visit to San Francisco.

Miss Minnie Allen is visiting at Independence with her cousin, Mrs. Bertrand Rhine.

Mrs. J. Schowalter is visiting relatives at Independence and will remain for the holidays.

J. J. Gunn has gone to Modock, where he will personally superintend operations at the Minietta mine.

George Thorpe and Harry Cook came down from Mazourka yesterday and will remain for the holidays.

F. E. Densmore, who has been spending the past week in San Francisco, is expected home to-night.

Make all your arrangements to fit the New Year ball. It will be the grandest affair of the kind given for years past.

Clifford Baxter arrived home on Wednesday from Berkely, where he is taking a college course. He will remain visiting with his parents until after the holidays.

Will Calloway came in from Ballarat recently and spent some time in town. He says that the Phebys have been at Ballarat for a couple of weeks and that a sale of the Tuber Canyon property will probably be effected.

J. C. Roeper of the Independence Market has made arrangements to receive every week a supply of fresh fish and oysters, which he will sell very cheap but for cash only. It is a difficult matter to get much variety of food here and Mr. Roeper's enterprise will be appreciated.

Mrs. J. C. Roeper will arrive home from Los Angeles this evening, coming via Reno by rail. Since the Carson and Colorado people established the rate of $25 from Los Angeles to all points in Owens Valley nearly every body travels by rail instead of the stage.

The Athletic Club will give grand ball at the Pavilion on the Monday evening following New Years. No expense will be spared to make it an elegant affair and the success of last night's entertainment will convince everybody that when the boys undertake anything they mean to make a success of it.

The annual Sunday-school Christmas tree will be held at the church on Saturday evening, December 24th, Christmas Eve. A cordial invitation is given to all to unite with the Sunday-school in this service and bring such things as they desire to put on the tree. There will be some one at the church all day to receive presents and put them on the tree. Come and give the little ones a treat like you had when you were young.

Kervin on Silver Peak.

The Virginia Chronicle says: Superintendent Kervin has returned from Silver Peak where he inspected the Blair and Chiatovich properties. Mr. Kervin went well equipped for a thorough examination of the mines, and was accompanied by Martin Little, an experienced miner and W. Morah, the well-known civil engineer. Mr. Kervin brought back a large lot of ore samples, which he will have assayed at the Con. Virginia assay office. He says in the Drinkwater tunnel the ore vein is 75 feet wide by careful measurements, but he cannot give an estimate of its value until he receives returns from the samples now being assayed. He says lack of water is the most serious drawback to the prosperity of the district, but this will be overcome when the property is acquired by progressive capitalists, as water can be brought to the mines from the White Mountaind, about 18 miles. The mill belonging to the company eight miles from the mines and is fully equipped with 30 stamps. The report that Mr. Kervin's trip was made in the interest of John Mackay was unfounded, the inspection not being made in the interest of any particular individual.

ELECTION CONTEST.

Finley McIver has filed a contest against the election of P. H. Mack as Assemblyman of the 60th District, comprising Inyo, Mono and Alpine counties. Mr. Mack received a majority in each of those counties. The full text of the contest affidavit is herewith given, and it will be noticed that no charge of fraud is made. It is based wholly upon technicality and is an effort to defeat the wishes of the people plainly expressed. As far as Mr. Mack is concerned it is a matter of small moment to him. From a financial standpoint there is nothing in the office. He has all the honor of the election, and even should he be unseated by petty methods, he has the pleasure of knowing that the majority of the people of each of the three counties are with him. Had Mr. Mack seen fit to fight the case he could have more than offset the difference by the throwing out of Taboose precinct, which was as technically illegal as the one in Alpine county, and for exactly the same reason. But he is too much of a gentleman to stoop to such petty devices, and furthermore, by so doing, he would have ousted from office a Republican who was duly elected by the expressed will of the people, and established a bad precedent. Should Mr. Mack lose, which is very doubtful, it will be the people's loss and his gain financially, and he has all the honor in any event. A commission to take testimony in Alpine County on January 4th has been issued to Frank Smith and to A. C. Harvey and A. V. Davidson, at Independence on January 9th.

THE AFFIDAVIT.

Now comes Finlay McIver, a duly qualified voter of the County of Inyo, State of California, and complains and contests the election of P. H. Mack, as Assemblyman of the Sixtieth assembly district of the State of California, and for cause of contest alleges as follows:

I.

That on the 26th day of November, A. D. 1898, the officers authorized by law to issue certificates of election in the County of Alpine, State of California, issued to the said P. H. Mack, a certificate of election whereby and by virtue thereof the said P. H. Mack was by the said officers of Alpine County duly declared elected to the office of Assemblyman from the 60th assembly District of the State of California for the ensuing term.

II.

That said certificate of election was improperly issued, that said P. H. Mack was not duly elected as such Assemblyman, by reason of the following facts, to-wit: That in the 3rd voting precinct of the County of Alpine the election was held contrary to law, in this, to wit: the polling place in said 3rd precinct was in the town of Woodford in said County, and at noon of said election day the election officers declared the polls closed for one hour. When the returns from that precinct were examined by the Board of Supervisors of said County, there were two tally lists in the package, and no copy of the Register. The Chairman of the Board made an affidavit stating the case and asking the Court to require election officers to deliver to the County Clerk of ssid County said Register as required by law. The Court made the order, and the following day the Register was delivered to the Board of Supervisors by a member of the election Board. The Register was not delivered to the County Clerk as required by law or by order of the Court, neither was it under seal or signed, as required by law, neither delivered by the election officer chosen by the Board of Election to deliver the returns.

III.

That the tally lists when canvassed by the Board of Supervisors of the said County did not correspond in several instances, and in some cases the tallies written and and figures in the same list did not borrespond. A member of the Board of Supervisors moved to throw out the returns, but was voted down. The canvass was then made by taking one vote from one tally list to make it agree with the other tally sheet. The vote in that district stands P. H. Mack, 22 and Finlay McIver, 7, leaving a majority for P. H. Mack of 15.

IV.

That in the County of Inyo in the said 60th Assembly District there were two precincts, viz., Modock and Mountain Springs, voting precincts which gave the said P. H. Mack a majority of 5 each in both of which the election was illegally conducted, in the following respects, to-wit:

That in each of said precincts there were an insufficient number of voters to hold an election according to law; that there were only in each of said precincts five voters duly qualified by law to vote or to exercise the elective franchise; and that the returns as received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, were only signed by one judge and one inspector from each of said election precincts; nor was there but one political party represented on either of said Boards of election, all of which is contrary to law.

Wherefore, the said Finlay McIver prays that this Clerk of the Court issue a commission directed to two Justices of the Peace of this County, that they may take depositions respecting the facts in this contest, and to examine witnesses thereon, and that they meet at a time and place specified in said commission, and that they do all in and about the premises as required by law.

And your petitioner will ever pray,

FINLAY MCIVER.

On Monday evening Carl Schuman will give an Edison Projectiscope Exhibition in Independence Pavilion. I carry a 1,500 power calcium light, and guarantee my scenes as natural in motion as life itself, and as brilliantly illuminated as in the large cities. If, after the exhibition is over any one is not satisfied, step up and I will cheerfully refund your money. Respectfully,

CARL SCHUMAN.

Athletic Entertainment.

The Independence Athletic Club gave their first public entertainment at their hall last evening, and it was a complete success in every respect. The establishment of the Gymnasium was one of the best things ever undertaken here. The Club has a fine large hall, well supplied with various athletic appurtenances. The entertainment last night was very interesting as showing what can be done with a little practice. The Club proposes to give an extensive exhibition about a month hence, when much greater improvement will be shown. While very well worthy of it, the programme is too long to give special notice to each feature. Suffice to say that all the participants acquitted themselves most creditably.

PROGRAMME:

1. Song ..... Quartette
Norm. Mairs, Julian Eibeshutz, J. Hodge and Lester Laird.
2. Tumbling ..... Boy's Class
Jesse Herndon, Howard Mairs, Philip McLean, David Wills, Jas. Horton, Milt. Levy.
3. Boxing ..... Three Rounds
Charles Rose, Lester Laird.
4. Ring Work—Jos. Allison and Ivan Bunney.
5. Bag Punching—Charley Mulholland, Chas Rose, G. P. Doyle.
7. Club Swinging—M. H. Naylor, Chas Rose.
8. Dumbbell drill ..... Little Girl's Class
Helen Gunn, Frances Vermilyea, Lulu Moffett, Lottie Peace, Hazel Chaney, Ruth Mulholland.
9. Bar Work—Jos Allison.
10. Song ..... Quartette
Mairs, Eibeshutz, Hodge, Laird.
11. Wrestling ..... Two Falls
Frank Willis, Jesse Lawrence.
12. Cat Wrestling—Julian Eibeshutz and G. P. Doyle, Lester Laird and Carl Walter.
13. Wrestling ..... Catch as Catch Can
Carl Walter and Julian Eibeshutz.
14. Glove Contest ..... Four Rounds
M. H. Church and Tom Harper.

Tribute for Sheepmen

It looks as though the sheep would have to stay out of the mountains for sure, says the Tulare Register. Superintendent of the reserves, Chas. S. Newhall, who devoted last summer to investigating the sheep question, has taken strong ground against allowing a sheep in the reservations, and it will be hard for sheepmen to get into them without having a row with Uncle Sam and a row with Uncle Sam is likely to be expensive. That is the situation and the sheep industry will probably have to be put on a different basis or no basis at all. A national policy will not be permanently set aside out of sympathy for sheep or sheepmen. It is a hard blow, but there will be no avoiding it, and sheep men will have to raise their own feed. This ought to make alfalfa and cheap grazing lands of value.

Board Meets

Board of Education met December 19th, 1898 with all members present. Mr. J. H. Shannon was unanimously elected president of the Board for the coming year.

Grammar grade certificates were granted to Miss Florence Williams of Fish Springs and Miss Lucia R. Harper of Taboose, on credentials.

The questions for Diploma Examinations were compiled and filed.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that it is the sense of this Board that teachers of this County aid Mrs. M. Austin in her efforts to secure children's impressions of nature, for the use of the State Pedagogical department, in conformity with outlines furnished by her.

To Whom It May Concern.

My wife, Lydia Willett, having without just cause or provocation, and without my consent, left my bed and board, I hereby give public notice to all whom it may concern that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract.

J. C. WILLETT.

BLACKSMITHING.

—All kinds of—

GENERAL IRON WORK.

HORSE SHOEING A SPECIALTY

W. F. MATLACK,

IMMEDIATELY SOUTH OF INDEPENDENCE Hotel, Independence, Cal.

☞ First-class work at lowest living prices.

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT.

INYO MARBLE COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA

Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California. Location of works, Inyo county, California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of directors, held on the 8th day of December, 1898, an assessment, No. 22, of 50c. per share, was levied upon the Capital Stock of the Corporation, payable immediately in United States Gold Coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the Company, Room 21, 14th Floor, Mills building, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 26th day of January, 1899 will be delinquent, and advertised for sale at public auction; and unless payment is made before, will be sold on Thursday, the 23rd day of March, 1899 to pay the delinquent assessment, together with costs of advertising and expenses of sale.

By order of the Board of Directors.

CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Secretary.

OFFICE—Mills Building, Room 21, 14th Floor, San Francisco, California.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within Ten Months after the first publication of this notice to the said administrator at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate in the said County of Inyo, State of California.

DAVID HOLLAND,
Administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., Dec 9th, 1898.

BABBTT METAL.

In lots to suit, from 1 pound to a ton

☞ Inquire at this office ☜

LEGAL.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of Edouard Chenot, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned, Executors of the last Will and Testament of

EDOUARD CHENOT,

deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executors, at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of the said estate in the County of Inyo, State of California.

J. E. SHEPHERD and
W. L. HUNTER,
Executors of the estate of Edouard Chenot deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., November 30th 1898.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal., November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on TUESDAY, December 27, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the E ½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, sec. 13, Tp. 12 S., R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henderson D. Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

" ..... May 28th
" ..... July 2nd
" ..... July 30th
" ..... August 27th
" ..... September 24th
" ..... October 22nd
" ..... November 26th
" ..... December 24th

THOS. C. ROLAND, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE——

TAILOR

——SATISFACTION GUARANTEED——

☞ Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00
☞ All work guaranteed first class.
BISHOP - - - - . Cal.

HORSESHOEING

...AND...

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP, INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRESS. Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Lines stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT, STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me. je29 tf JOHN CLARKE.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley.

WHAT CUBA'S LOSS MEANS TO SPAIN.

The loss of Cuba means to Spain the loss of every sustenance of the nation. In the same way the loss of your appetite means starvation to your body. If any reader of this notice wants to fully enjoy hearty meals, we can recommend Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It cures indigestion, dyspepsia, and constipation.

The Elliott surveying party, which left Klamath Falls a month ago to survey the boundary lines of the Klamath reservation, went as for north as Mount Scott and were there turned back by the snow.

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208-212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

Reports indicate that the yield of dry wines throughout California will be about 8,000,000 gallons as against 27,000,000 last year. Sweet wines show about half the product of last year.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Sam Jackson, a Simcoe on the Yakima reservation, is a good Indian, and he is not dead either. He is industrious and law-abiding and harvested a large wheat crop this season.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, LTD., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

I believe Piso's Cure is the only medicine that will cure consumption.—Anna M. Ross, Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 12, '95.

Hard on the Gentler Sex.

There is much of the slave and the tyrant hidden in the nature of woman. Thus woman is not yet capable of friendship, but only of love.

In the love of woman is injustice and blindness to all that she does not love.

There are two things a true man likes—danger and play. He likes woman because she is the most dangerous of playthings.

A man should be reared for the vocation of a warrior; a woman for the recreation of the warrior. All else is rubbish.

A woman's principle of honor is to love more than she is loved, so as not to be second.

In any game where love or hate is not at stake women play a mediocre part.

All women behind their personal vanity cherish an impersonal contempt for woman.

As a rule, a mother loves herself in her son more than the son himself.

The chief danger that besets artists of genius lies in woman. The worshiping woman is their ruin. Hardly one has character enough to resist his ruin when he finds himself treated like a god. Man is a coward in face of the ewig weibliche, and no one knows it better than the small woman.

Women indulge in literature as they commit a little sin, glancing round to see if any one is looking—i. e., to attract attention.—Henry Nietzsche in Academy.

He Wasn't Afraid.

Little Tommy and his younger sister were going to bed without a light. They had just reached the bottom of the stairs, when Tommy, after vainly endeavoring to pierce the darkness, turned round and asked:

"Ma, is it polite for a gentleman to precede a lady when they have to walk in single file?"

"No, my son," replied the mother, "the lady should always take the lead."

"I thought so," said Tommy delightedly; "go ahead, Sue."—Pearson's Weekly.

Badly Named.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree relates an amusing story about a boisterous voyage from New York. He was lying in his cabin. The luggage and fittings were flying round. The vessel was rolling terribly. Suddenly there was an extra special lurch. Mr. Tree was knocked to the floor by a heavy weight and lay half stunned. On fully recovering his senses he looked to see what it was that had felled him. It was an admirable contrivance and was marked, in bold letters, "Life Saving Apparatus."—London Globe.

St. Jacobs Oil cures Rheumatism.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Neuraliga.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Lumbago.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Sciatica.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Sprains.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Bruises.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Soreness.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Stiffness.
St. Jacosb Oil cures Backache.
St. Jacobs Oil cures Muscular Aches.

A Spoiled Child.

"What are you crying about now, dearie?" asked the fond mother. "Is there something mamma's sweetest wants?"

"Yes."

"What is it?"

"I—I don't know! That's what I'm crying about!"—Indianapolis Journal.

The Morning Meal.

"Now, children," said the teacher, "what do you call the meal that you eat in the morning?"

"Oatmeal," promptly responded a number of the class.—What to Eat.

Scrofula
In the Blood

Scrofula lurks in the blood of almost every one and unless its poisonous taints are thoroughly expelled from the system, it is liable to break out at any time in sores, eruptions, hip disease or some other painful form. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula promptly and permanently.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure constipation. 25 cents.

CORONATION OATHS.

Solemn Promises Made by Rulers on Ascending the Throne.

On Sept. 6, 1898, the coronation of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland occurred, when she took the following oath:

"I swear to the people of the Netherlands to always maintain and observe the constitution of the kingdom. I swear to defend and preserve with all my power the independence and integrity of the territory of the kingdom, to protect the public and private liberty and the rights of all my subjects, and to employ for the maintenance and progress of public and private prosperity all the means which the laws may place at my disposal, as a good queen ought to do. So help me God."

Before the king of Belgium takes possession of the throne he swears in the presence of the united chambers "to observe the constitution and the laws of the Belgian people, to maintain the national independence and the integrity of the territory."

The king of Denmark, in the presence of the council of state, swears to observe inviolably the constitution of the kingdom. And the king of Italy, before the essembled chambers, swears to observe loyally the present constitution.

In Portugal the sovereign oath is: "I swear to be faithful to the Catholic, apostolic and Roman religion; to preserve the integrity of the kingdom; to observe, and cause to be observed, the political constitution of the Portuguese nation, the other laws of the nation, and to provide for the general good of the kingdom, to the best of my ability."

"I promise and swear to govern the kingdom of Norway in conformity with the constitution and the laws. So help me God, and His holy word." This is the oath which the king of Norway makes before the storthing.

The President of the United States, before he enters upon office, takes the following oath of affirmation: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

Finally, to quote but one other example of royal oath taking, there is the oath which our most gracious sovereign took at the time of her coronation.

This ran as follows:

Archbishop—Madam, is your majesty willing to take the oath?

Queen—I am willing.

Archbishop—Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the dominion thereto belonging according to the statutes in parliament agreed on, and the respective laws and customs of the same?

Queen—I solemnly promise to do so.

Archbishop—Will you to your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?

Queen—I will.

Archbishop—Will you to the utmost of your power maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the Gospel and the Protestant reformed religion established by law? And will you maintain and preserve inviolably the settlement of the United Church of England and Ireland, and the doctrine, worship, discipline and government thereof, as by law established within England and Ireland and the territories thereto belonging? And will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of England and Ireland, and to the churches there committed to their charge, all such rights and privileges as by law do, and shall, appertain to them, or any of them?

Queen—All this I promise to do. The things which I have herebefore promised I will perform and keep. So help me God.—London Mail.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

Massachusetts claims to have more different kinds of native trees than any kingdom in Europe, the number exceeding fifty, among them being nine large oaks.

In order to preserve the colors of plants it is necessary to kill the specimens quickly, and this can be effected by plunging them for a few seconds in boiling water. If a plant is allowed to die slowly, the colors of its leaves and flowers will gradually fade. A writer in Meehan's Monthly says that some succulent plants will live for months after being placed between the drying leaves of an herbarium, and finally dry up and turn black.

A new form of electric lamp, from which important practical results are anticipated, has been devised by Prof. Nernst, of the University of Gottingen. It has a filament composed of magnesia mixed with rare earths in place of the ordinary carbon filament, and no vacuum is needed as in other incandescent lamps. But the filament is non-conducting when cold, so that it must first be warmed before a current will pass and cause it to glow. The chief practical difficulty is the original warming of the filament.

In northern Russia the month of October is characterized by features so remarkable that it is reckoned as a fifth season, coming between autumn and winter, and called the rasputnya season. It is nearly coincident in time with our Indian summer, but is more regular in its occurrence, and lasts longer. The word "rasputnya," says Mr. Trevor-Battye, a recent traveler in Russia, means "the separation of the roads." During the season bearing this name the country is impassable, owing to the thawing of the first frosts and the blocking of the streams with broken ice. The land resembles a quagmire, and even the government postal service is suspended for a month.

The idea of Admiral Makaroff, the Russian explorer, that a powerful steamer can be forced directly to the north pole is rather startling, yet it has a basis of experience. Ice-breakers have been used since 1864 in Russia, and, in their improved American form, with two screws at the stern and one at the stem, have been made very powerful, so that the Ste. Marie, of three thousand horse power, easily sails through ice two and one-half feet thick, piercing ice-walls fifteen feet high. Admiral Makaroff believes that an ice-breaker of twenty thousand horse power should penetrate to the pole in twelve days from latitude 78 degrees north, forcing a passage through ice from four to seven feet thick.

In consequence of some experiments made in England, shopkeepers are warned of the danger of allowing inflammable goods to get into contact with the bulbs of incandescent electric lamps. The wide-spread notion that such lamps are practically free from heat is erroneous. A sixteen candle-power electric lamp immersed in half a pint of water will cause the water to boil within an hour. If buried in cotton-wool it will set the latter aflame. Celluloid placed in contact with an electric lamp bulb was set on fire in less than five minutes.

THE KAISER OFF DUTY.

Insight Into the Private Life of the Emperor.

The imperial family have been leading a delightfully quiet, unconstrained life at Wilhelmshohe, rare enough event, and just what the Kaiser and his wife enjoy. His Majesty has even been wearing civilian's dress, a thing he hardly ever does. He wore alternately a black serge suit and a knockabout pepper-and-salt jacket suit of rough tweed, with a collar a la Prince of Wales, and a large navy plastron tie. The Kaiser sported a plain straw hat with black band generally, but occasionally chose a small soft black cloth hat, and in this every-day attire he was frequently passed in Cassel unrecognized, to his intense amusement.

Almost at break of day the German ruler and his family were up and about. The Kaiser only allowed himself twenty minutes for his toilet, and punctually at 7 all met for morning coffee in the dining room, the Kaiserin pouring out for her husband and sons like any other hausfrau. After breakfast the Kaiser rode with his sons, or took a long walk till luncheon; then his Majesty superintended the swimming or riding lessons of the younger boys, frequently standing in the center of the riding school with a long whip, a la circus manager to assist in taking the jumps. In the afternoon the Kaiser and his wife went arm-in-arm round the farm, where her Majesty fed the chickens and pigeons with the assistance of princesschen, inspected the dairies and tasted the butter. The young princes looked for eggs, helped to gather fruit and enjoyed their holidays like any farmer's sons home from school.

Dinner was at 6; before and after the meal the Kaiser retired to his study for an hour or two to settle the affairs of the fatherland, while the Kaiserin drove her pony carriage, with her small daughter at her side, into Cassel, where she did shopping. Every evening was devoted to music. The Kaiserin, who is a very fair pianist—though not the magnificent performer the women's papers say she is—played Wagner and Bach to her husband, and accompanied her eldest son, who is becoming an excellent violinist. At 10 o'clock the eldest boys retired, and by 11 o'clock all the lights were extinguished in Schloss Wilhelmshohe.—London Society.

"Style" in the Klondike.

Mrs. Nellie Humphrey, of Spokane, invested $2,000 in dainty feminine apparel and took it to Dawson over Chilcoot Pass. She spent a month there, selling her stock at such high prices that she really surprised herself. Shoes brought $50, dresses $200 each, and hats from $10 to $150. Her trip netted her about $10,000 above expenses.

Not satisfied with this, Mrs. Humphrey purchased another assortment of lingeries, laces, and silks, and started again for the Klondike metropolis. She told friends just before starting that she expected to return in four months with a sack containing $65,000 in gold dust, which she should receive, judging by her former experience.

Mrs. Humphrey said that when she arrived in Dawson the streets there, contrary to her expectations, were thronged by stylishly dressed women, many of them being just as refined as any in the States. All were very particular regarding their personal appearance, the only thing that bothered them being that there was not enough finery to go around until she arrived with her stock. She expects to come out over the ice early next year.—Tacoma Correspondence San Francisco Call.

An Honest King.

Whoever reads the following must own to a feeling of respect for the honest king. King Frederick VI. of Denmark, while traveling through Jutland, one day entered a village school, and found the children lively and intelligent, and quite ready to answer his questions.

"Well, youngsters," he said, "what are the names of the greatest Kings of Denmark?"

With one accord they cried out, "Canute the Great, Waldemar and Christian IV."

Just then a little girl, to whom the schoolmaster had whispered something, stood up and raised her hand.

"Do you know another?" asked the king.

"Yes; Frederick VI."

"What great act did he perform?"

The girl hung her head and stammered out, "I don't know."

"Be comforted, my child," said the king; "I don't know, either."

A Strange League.

Young China has formed a strange league, but a sensible one. It seems that certain up to date young men have come to the conclusion that the "lily feet" which have so charmed susceptible young men for centuries past in the Celestial empire are not really admirable—in fact, that they are nothing more or less than a hideous deformity.

Having arrived at this conclusion, they have banded themselves together and taken a vow that they will not marry girls with compressed pedal extremities. As a Chinaman's great ambition is to marry off his daughters as speedily as possible, the wishes of eligible Ah Sins respecting the size of ladies' feet will certainly be considered, and no doubt in the future large-footed brides will be plentiful enough.

A married man watched a couple going to church to be married. "I wish," he said, "I had what they are going to throw away."

Beauty may be only skin deep, but it invariably manages to get a seat in a crowded car.

THE DUTY OF MOTHERS.

Daughters Should be Carefully Guided in Early Womanhood.

What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance; or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter!

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and young women are so taught. There is a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination; but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham and secure the most efficient advice without charge. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

The following letter from Miss MARIE F. JOHNSON, Centralia, Pa., shows what neglect will do, and tells how Mrs. Pinkham helped her:

"My health became so poor that I had to leave school. I was tired all the time, and had dreadful pains in my side and back. I was also troubled with irregularity of menses. I was very weak, and lost so much flesh that my friends became alarmed. My mother, who is a firm believer in your remedies from experience, thought perhaps they might benefit me, and wrote you for advice. I followed the advice you gave, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as you directed, and am now as well as I ever was. I have gained flesh and have a good color. I am completely cured of irregularity."

The Minnow Trap.

The minnow trap used for catching minnows for bait is of glass, shaped like a jar or a bottle without a neck and of a capacity of six or eight quarts. The bottom of the trap rises in a cone, like the bottom of a champagne bottle, but instead of being solid the top of the cone is cut off, making an opening in the trap. The top of the trap has over it a metal cap on a hinge. The cap is perforated with a number of holes to permit of the circulation of water through the trap.

The minnow trap is slung horizontally in a wire holder, which has a handle on top, to which a rope is made fast. Suitable bait to attract minnows is placed in the trap, which is then lowered into the water. The cone with the opening at the inner end in the bottom is in effect like the opening into an eel or fish trap. It is easy for the minnows to get through it into the trap in search of the bait, but hard for them to get out. When the trap has been raised, the captured minnows are got out by opening the cap at the other end of the trap.—New York Sun.

Vegetarian Crocodiles.

A report by George Hoare, one of the officials of the British Central Africa protectorate, summarized in the local gazette, contains some curious details of the crocodiles of Lake Chiuta. They would seem to be strict vegetarians, for not only have they never been known to attack the men fishing in the lake, but their tracks were shown by the natives to the writer at a distance of several miles from its shores, whence they are said to travel overland in search of roots. This is contrary to the habits of all known species of crocodiles, which are, in the first place, purely carnivorous, and, in the second, so helpless on land from their inability to turn, except in a large circle, that they never leave the immediate vicinity of their watery or muddy home. Efforts will accordingly be made to obtain a specimen of this abnormal type of the formidable amphibian.—London Tablet.

Cold weather is just as apt to affect the nerves as any other part of the body, and Neuralgia sets in. St. Jacobs Oil is just as certain to cure it as it cures all the pains and aches of the body.

The Pony Express.

W. F. Bailey contributes to The Century an article on "The Pony Express," between St. Joseph, Mo., and San Francisco. Mr. Bailey says:

At first the schedule was fixed at 10 days, an average of 8 miles an hour from start to finish. This was cut down to 8 days, requiring an average speed of 10 miles. The quickest trip made was in carrying President Lincoln's inaugural address, which was done in 7 days and 17 hours, an average speed of 10.7 miles per hour, the fastest time of any one rider being 120 miles, from Smith's Creek to Fort Churchill, by Pony Bob, in 8 hours and 10 minutes, or 14.7 miles per hour. Considering the distance and difficulties encountered, such as hostile Indians, road agents, floods and snowstorms, and accidents to horses and riders, the schedule was maintained to an astonishing degree. The service created the greatest enthusiasm not only among the employees, but also in the ranks of stage employees, freighters and residents along the route. To aid a "pony" in difficulty was a privilege, and woe be to the man who would so much as throw a stone in the way.

The Neapolitan and His Horse.

The Italians are not remarkable for kindness to animals, but rather the reverse. They have, however, a story of a Neapolitan driver notorious for his ill treatment of his horse. After death the man presented himself at the gate of paradise, but was refused admittance. He was recommended, however, to apply at the neighboring paradise of animals, if haply he might find favor there. The driver did so, and, lo, the door was opened to him by the very same poor, starved, wornout old hack on which he had been wont to shower his blows and curses, now transformed into a celestial steed of wondrous beauty. But, alas, the horse had not yet learned forgiveness, and here, too, the driver met with rejection.—Westminster Review.

What He Had on His Mind.

He—There is something I have wanted to say to you for a long, long time.

She (demurely)—Well, don't—don't you think this is as good a time as—as any to say it?

He—That mole on the left side of your nose—I know a surgeon who can remove such things without a bit of danger.

They adjourned sine die that evening.—Chicago News.

A QUEER CALCULATION.

The Power That Would Be Required to Move the Earth.

Statisticians sometimes have queer ideas. One of them has amused himself by calculating how much energy, water and coal it would take to move the earth a foot, supposing that it was subjected throughout its mass to a force equivalent to terrestrial gravitation. This is a gratuitous supposition, for in spite of its enormous mass the earth weighs nothing.

Starting with the fact that the earth's mass is about 6,100 million-million-million tons, our statistician calculates that we should require 70,000,000,000 years for a 10,000 horsepower engine to move our globe a foot. The boiler that should feed this engine would vaporize a quantity of water that would cover the whole face of the globe with a layer 300 feet deep. The vaporization of this water would require 4,000 million-million tons of coal. This coal carried in cars holding ten tons each and having a total length of 30 feet, would require 400 million-million cars, which would reach 80,000,000 times around the earth. This train, moving at the rate of 40 miles an hour, would take more than 5,000,000 years to traverse its own length. It would require for storage a shed that would cover 1,000 times the area of Europe.

If we realize that this fantastically huge amount of energy is nothing at all compared with what the earth possesses in virtue of its rotation about its axis, its revolution about the sun, and its translation in space with the solar system, of which the earth is but an infinitesimal part and which itself is but an infinitesimal part of the universe, we may get some idea of the importance of man in the universe and estimate his incommensurable pride at its just value.—Nature.

Women Guides In Berlin.

A Berlin paper thus speaks of the women guides employed in that city:

"They are partly elderly, partly middle aged ladies, with a certain amount of knowledge of the world, some acquaintance with languages and an assured and amiable demeanor, to whose care lone female travelers or the lady traveling parties recently imported from Scandinavia and America intrust themselves. Most of these resolute persons are Russians or Austrians."

When They Knew Him.

"There are plenty of women who would be glad to get me," he said.

"Very likely," she replied pointedly, "but none of them would care to keep you after she once had you."

He went outdoors to say what he wanted to say after that thrust. He felt that he couldn't do justice to it in the house.—Chicago Post.

Caughey—Who on earth is trying to play the piano, Caroline?

Mrs. Caughey (proudly)—It is Arabella. She is learning to read music.

Caughey (testily)—Well, ask her if it is necessary to read it aloud.—Stray Stories.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

Cheap Injury.

Casey—Shure, an it's th' unlucky mon Oi am!

Clancy—Unlucky be dom'd! Hov'n't yez kim out av th' wreck wid only a broken arm?

Casey (sarcastically)—An for which Oi only git foive hundred dollars! Thim fellies thot wor kilt git foive thousand.

A crop of sprains and bruises is harvested from outdoor sports. The cure is the crop St. Jacobs Oil delights in as the triumph of the season, the one that beats the record.

A Type of His Class.

"I see you've still got your old office boy."

"Yes."

"Improves with age, does he?"

"Well, he seems to get fresher every day."—Philadelphia Record.

SYRUP OF FIGS

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.
ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.
Send For Catalogue
WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

How to Get Strong

A system which has become run down by the trying weather of the past summer is not in a condition to meet the severe winter of this climate and will easily fall a prey to disease unless a proper tonic is used.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best medicine in the world for building up and strengthening an enervated system.

Do not confuse these pills with ordinary purgative pills: They do NOT act on the bowels, thereby further weakening the body. They build up the blood and strengthen the nerves.

Major A. C. Bishop, of 715 Third Ave., Detroit, Mich., is a well-known civil engineer. He says: "When I had my last spell of sickness and came out of the hospital I was a sorry sight. I could not regain my strength, and could not walk over a block for several weeks. I noticed some articles in the newspapers regarding Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which convinced me that they were worth trying and I bought two boxes. I did not take them for my complexion but for strength. After using them I felt better, and know they did me worlds of good. I am pleased to recommend them to invalids who need a tonic or to build up a shattered constitution."—Detroit Free Press.

At all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.Y. Price fifty cents per box.

DANGEROUS PIGS.

The Peccary Is Wholly Fearless and Will Fight Man or Beast.

A writer in the St. Louis Republic says that the most vicious and fearless member of the brute creation is the peccary, or wild hog, of Mexico. This animal seems utterly devoid of fear and displays an intelligence in fighting man strangely at variance with its apparently complete lack of mental attributes.

Their ability to scent men is particularly marked. The only thing to do when they get after you is to run away from them as fast as a horse can carry you, and then there is no certainty that they won't catch you. They are nearly as swift as a horse, and their endurance is as great as their viciousness.

A friend of mine encountered a drove of them in a wild part of Mexico a few years ago, and his escape was almost miraculous. He very foolishly shot and wounded a number of them. Then he took refuge in a tree.

The peccaries kept him in the tree all that day and through the night. They circled round the tree, grunting and squealing their delight at the prospect of a feast. He soon exhausted his ammunition and brought down a peccary at each fire, but this had no terrors for the beasts.

Toward morning they began to eat those he had killed, after which they formed in line and trotted off. If they had not had some of their own number to devour, they would have guarded that tree until my friend, through sheer exhaustion, dropped from his perch and allowed them to make a meal of him.

The wildcats and tigers that infest the Mexican wilds flee from the peccaries with instinctive fear, and even rattlesnakes keep out of their path.

A Bit of London Weather.

Our weather is grown decidedly good for the last three days—very brisk, clear and dry. Before that it was as bad as weather at any time need be. Long continued plunges of wet, then clammy, glarry days on days of half wet (a kind of weather peculiar to London, and fully uglier than whole wet)—a world of black sunless pluister [a soft mixture, neither one thing nor another], very unpleasant to move about in! The incessant travel makes everything mud here, in spite of all that clats [a clat, a wooden scraper] and besoms can do. A kind of mud, too, which is as fine as paint and actually almost sticks like a kind of paint. I took, at last, into the country, with old clothes and trousers folded up. There the mud was natural mud, and far less of it; indeed little of it in comparison with other country. We dry again in a single day of brisk wind.—Carlyle Cor. in Atlantic.

Not Very Pathetic.

An Ohio woman visiting Boston for the first time has been doing the sights. "I had my greatest thrill down at Copp's Hill burying ground," she said.

"Yes, that's just the place for the historic emotions," commented her interlocutor. She smiled.

"As soon as my sister-in-law and I got into the place," she said, "I found myself almost stepping upon a grave with an inscription on a queer little iron cover sort of tomb. I jumped back, feeling the way you do when you step on a grave, and read the inscription, just three initials, no name or date. 'Isn't it pathetic?' I said to my sister-in-law. 'Oh, I don't know,' she answered, 'B. W. W. means Boston Water Works.'"—Boston Transcript.

Hourglasses In a London Church.

Nearly everybody is aware that at one time it was the custom in many churches to regulate the length of the sermon by an hourglass, which stood on the pulpit immediately fronting the preacher. Quite a number of these curious relics are preserved in various ecclesiastical edifices throughout the land, but the British and Foreign Sailors' church, situated in what was formerly Ratcliff highway, is the only one possessing four. They are in perfect preservation, and are fixed all together in a framework of solid brass.—London Tit-Bits.

Colored Cotton.

Peruvian cotton grows in 12 different colors, running from white to a rich dark red. Each color produces when the seed is planted the same color.

It is said that 95 per cent of Chinese children suffer from throat worms, which is attributed to bad weather and eating vegetables raw.

Coal is a storehouse of colors, medicines, perfumes and explosives.

The Owl Drug Co.

1128 MARKET STREET, San Francisco, Cal.
320 S. SPRING STREET, Los Angeles, Cal.
10TH & BROADWAY, Oakland, Cal.

CUT-RATE DRUGGISTS.

We Save You 25 to 50 per cent on all Drugs, Medicines, Rubber Goods, Trusses. Send for 100 page price list.

FREE! FREE!

On all orders of $1.00 or more, we will include an ounce of Raymond's Fragrant Sachet Powder worth 50c, free of charge providing you cut this advertisement out and send with order.

We Pay the Freight

On all orders within 100 miles of our store, if order amounts to $5.00 or more and money accompanies the order.

Thompson's Dandelion and Celery Tonic	$ 60
Hood's, Ayer's or Joy's Sarsaparilla	50
Paine's Celery Compound	60
Dr. Baker's Honduras Sarsaparilla	75
Scott's Emulsion	50
Carter's or Thompson's Liver Pills	15
New York Elastic Trusses	1 00
Epsom Salts or Sulphur, per pound	10

Write For Catalogue---Free.

THE REALTY SYNDICATE
14 Sansome St., San Francisco, CALIFORNIA.
ASSETS, $3,533,492.43. CAPITAL PAID IN $1,704,150.08
Small and large sums received, in single payment or installment. Interest 6 per cent per annum, paid semi-annually. Correspondence solicited.

司公業業

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST
Corset and Cover Combined
Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory
MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated
IXL TAMALES FRIJOLES CHILE CON CARNE CHICKEN SOUP IN CANS
Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.
If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

HERCULES
---GAS---
ENGINES,
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

BIG G Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00
CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right.
Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Sea

VETERANS If you made a homestead entry prior to June 22, 1874, for LESS THAN 160 ACRES, you are entitled to an additional entry, which is assignable and worth something. Widows and minor orphans of deceased soldiers have same right. Do not waste postage unless you made an original entry as stated above.
JERE COLLINS, Helena, Mont.

This Paper is Printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 857. New Series No. 48.

Mrs A L Conklin

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor.

Independence, Cal.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1898.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XXX. NO. 29. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., DECEMBER 30, 1898. WHOLE NO. 1500.

INYO INDEPENDENT

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Editor & Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year (post paid)	$4.00
Six Months	2.00
Three Months	1.25
One Month	.50
Single Copies	.10

TWO ISLANDS.

Two islands lay within a lake at Munster,
And scarce three leagues of water flowed between;
On one Death came and went, but on the other
The shadow of his presence ne'er was seen.

Glad were the dwellers on one happy island,
For youth was there, high hopes, and lightsome hearts;
They built fair dwellings where they sang and feasted,
They bought and sold within their busy marts.

The years went swiftly by, almost uncounted,
Till marks of age were seen on many a face,
Till forms grew bent, and eyes grew dim and wistful,
Till life seemed weariness, and death a grace.

Disease grew rife, and pain was close companion,
Burdens pressed heavily, joys ceased to be,
Gain lost its charm, no more they cared for feasting,
And men grew tired with immortality.

And longingly they looked toward the island
Where sorrows ceased, and pain and all unrest,
Where cares could be laid down, at once, forever,
And deemed that island most supremely blest.

And lovers who in youth exulted, knowing
That in their future could no partings lie,
At last grew weary, and with solemn pity
Grieved for each other that they could not die.

And, though they spake no word, with furtive glances
They looked across the water's shimmering plain,
Unto those quiet fields of grass-grown hillocks,
And craved their utter, blissful rest to gain.

And, so the legend says—full many a shallop
Slipped from its moorings by Life's fair green isle,
And bore these heartsick ones to Death's own island,
To gain the boon denied such weary while.

—Utica Globe.

THE NEW TEACHER.

SCHOOL District No. 19, over in McComb County, had the reputation of being a very rough place for a young teacher, and no place at all for an old one.

It is a curious fact that any kind of a teacher can get along in some districts. The people are so kind; the children so apt and gentle; the schoolhouse so cosy and well furnished, and the salary paid so promptly and graciously, that teachers are never changed unless they marry or go into some other business.

I regret to say that model school districts are by no means in the majority; they are not nearly so plentiful as good teachers, for often all the success of a school depends largely on the hearty co-operation of the parents.

School 19, over in McComb County, was constantly changing its teachers. Every new teacher was perfection the first month; simply human the second, and if he or she remained through the third month the children were in rebellion at the instigation of their parents, and the brains of the gossips were busy concocting slanders which their tongues did not hesitate to utter.

Robert Cole had just graduated with honor from a well-known college, and by way of recruiting his health, replenishing his pocket-book and getting started in his legal studies he determined, in the absence of anything better, to teach school for a year.

The superintendent of schools for McComb County was Robert Cole's friend, and to him the young man applied.

"There is only one district in this county that has not a teacher engaged to open school at the end of the present holidays; it pays the largest salary in the county, and the money is sure, for the district is rich; but then——"

"But what, Mr. Moore?" asked Robert Cole, seeing that the superintendent hesitated.

"It is a hard district."

"How so?"

"Well, they slander the female teachers, particularly if they are pretty; and the big boys have a fashion of thrashing the male teachers."

"I should rather like to try a school like that," said the young man, with a laugh.

"Oh! I am sure, Mr. Cole, you could manage the boys, but the parents and older brothers interfere. Why, last year a young man taught in No. 19; he was a powerful fellow and a fine teacher, and he maintained order. Of course, he did some flogging, particularly with the Dooks, but a lot of the men folk lay for him one night, and after beating him they threw him into the pond, and if he hadn't been an expert swimmer he'd have drowned. As it was he escaped, and the very next day he resigned," said Mr. Moore.

"Who are the Dooks?"

"It is a large family; they are related in some way to nearly every one in the district, and I believe—yes, I am sure—two of them are trustees at this time."

"Are there no good people in the district?" asked Robert Cole, feeling a bit discouraged, yet anxious to undertake the school for its very difficulties.

"Oh, my! yes; indeed, a majority of the people mean to do right and would change matters if they could; but they are a quiet, law-abiding folk, who need a leader and dread to act for themselves. If you say so, I can get you the school," said Mr. Moore.

"I shall be thankful if you do. I have a theory of my own about managing hard boys, and I should like to try it," said Robert Cole.

The superintendent said "Very well," and within a week Robert Cole had met the trustees and was engaged for the ensuing school year.

He was a well-built, handsome young fellow, and during the ten days that elapsed between his engagement and the time when school was to open he visited all families that had children, and did his best to create a good impression. In this he was successful, and when he opened school the inhabitants in No. 19 felt that they had at last got the teacher they had been looking for years and years.

The doctor and the clergyman and a few other observant people shook their heads and said one to the other:

"Young Mr. Cole is certainly an accomplished gentleman, but his refinement and culture are all so much against him. The Dooks will either drive him out, or he will leave in disgust, as others have done, long before the term is out."

Robert Cole's plan was to do his work conscientiously; to treat all alike, and never to give an order which he had not well considered, and which he was not prepared to enforce. He determined to keep his temper, and to require prompt obedience from the very start.

It was often remarked that School 19 always began the new term with a new teacher, on which occasion the building was always packed; but as the term wore on the attendance grew less, until at the close there were neither scholars nor teacher.

Before getting to work Robert Cole made a quiet little speech to the children, and while he was talking he noticed a shock-haired lad of 17, with a hair-lip, who persisted in tickling the ear of a little boy in front of him with a straw.

Robert stopped, and pointing to the culprit he asked:

"What is your name, sir?"

The culprit looked about him with a laugh, as if he expected some one else to answer.

"Come up here, sir," said Robert, sternly.

The culprit again looked about him and laughed.

He was still looking about him when he felt a hand on his collar, and before he knew what was up he was jerked into the aisle and dragged up to the platform, where the teacher picked him up and set him against the wall.

"What is your name, sir?" Robert asked again.

The boy with the hair-lip stammered: "My name's Bill Dook."

"Bill Dook, I have heard of you, but I was not prepared to see you begin your devilment before I began my school. Now, I should prefer to get along well with you and with every other boy and girl in school, but I want you to know that you must do as I say from the very first, or else I shall flog you and put you out of school."

"My father's a trustee," gasped Bill Dook.

"I don't care if he is fifty trustees. You must promise to do as I say or I shall fling you out of school now; you understand?"

"Ye—yes," said Bill Dook.

"Say 'yes, sir.'"

"Yes, sir, I understand."

"Good; go back to your seat."

Robert Cole resumed his inaugural address just as if nothing had happened.

Beyond lecturing a red-headed girl of 16 till she cried—she was also a Dook—nothing unusual occurred during the rest of the day.

Robert examined his scholars, praised the bright ones, encouraged the backward and got them all classified.

Up to this time the oldest inhabitant of District 19 could not recall a teacher who began operations after Mr. Cole's manner.

He had not been there long enough to have his qualifications as a teacher called in question by the gossips; they did not know him long enough to make charges against his character, so even the Dooks had to confess that, while the young teacher had rather queer notions to start with, he meant right.

Robert Cole got his school well organized; he treated all alike, and while during study hours he never relaxed his discipline, at noon and recess he went out and played with the children, and so prevented rude conduct and vulgar language.

Bill Dook was on his guard and took care not to offend again, though hitherto he had been the terror of all the teachers; from his dogged manner, Robert Cole saw that the fellow harbored revenge, and that sooner or later he would try to gratify it.

As the winter came on Ned Dook, a young man of 20, who had left school "for good" two years before, took it into his head to attend again.

Ned Dook was a heavy, powerful fellow, and had the reputation of being the best wrestler in the county.

One of Robert's friends hinted to him that Ned Dook's object in coming to school was to make trouble for the teacher rather than to get instruction from him, and Robert soon saw that his friend was right.

The teacher, not a bit alarmed, determined to carry out his one rule for all. He would not let the big boys smoke or chew tobacco either in the schoolhouse or on the grounds.

"Edward Dook, are you chewing tobacco?" asked the teacher, the day after the big brother had entered the school.

"Yes, I am," said Ned Dook. And to prove it he spat on the floor.

"You cannot chew tobacco here; apart from the example you set the younger boys, I cannot stand such filth in the schoolroom."

"I've chawed for years," laughed Ned.

"I don't care what you have done; you can't use tobacco in this schoolhouse. Go to the door and throw that stuff in your mouth out."

Ned Dook laughed and threw the quid on the floor.

"Pick that stuff up and throw it out," said the teacher, calmly and firmly.

"Throw it out yourself, Mr. Teacher, but I won't," said Ned Dook.

"It is ten minutes to noon, but I shall dismiss school now and call it ten minutes earlier. The school will all leave but Edward Dook."

With alarm in their faces, the children went out, and some of the bigger boys, among them Bill Dook, with a look of satisfaction on his ugly face, looked in the windows.

Edward Dook tried to smile when the teacher locked the door and came back to him, but his trembling lips showed that his confidence in himself was somewhat shaken.

"Will you do as I told you, sir?" said the teacher, coming so close that he might have laid his hand on the other's arm.

Ned Dook's reply was a fierce oath and a savage blow.

"You licked my brother, but you can't lick me!"

Robert Cole saw his tack and knew his man. He threw off the blow with his right hand, and before Ned Dook, who was as clumsy as he was powerful, could recover a blow planted between his eyes sent him in a heap to the floor.

Quick as a flash, Robert dragged his rebellious pupil to the platform and set him on his feet.

The young savage struck another blow and again was knocked down. Then Robert seized a short pointer, and he applied it to the fellow's arms and shoulders till he roared with pain.

"Will you do as I say, Ned Dook?"

"Yes," howled the beaten cur.

"Then pick up that tobacco and throw it out. Quick, or I shall take off your coat and wear out another pointer on you."

Ned Dook picked up the tobacco, and when the teacher opened the door for him to throw it out he ran bare-headed like a deer in the direction of his home, followed by his frightened brother.

During the rest of the day Robert continued as if nothing had happened, and his school was a model of order.

School had just been dismissed for the day, when Ned Dook's father and Ned Dook's uncle, both trustees and powerful men under 50, came to the school and demanded an explanation.

Robert saw that these men meant fight, but that they were made of the same material as the younger bullies. He explained, and said in conclusion:

"If either of you men came to my school I should expect you to obey me."

"But if we didn't do so?" asked Ned's uncle.

"Then I should make you."

"Do you think you could?"

"I don't know whether you intend coming to my school or not, Mr. Dook," said Robert, "but I know pretty well why you and your brother are here. Your family has been a curse to this district, but they must not stand in my way." Here he rose, and, locking the schoolhouse door, he put the key in his pocket and said as he came back: "If either of you, or both of you together, imagine that I cannot flog you as quickly as if you were boys, I'll undertake to undeceive you."

The Dooks exchanged glances. They were flogged without striking a blow. They offered their hands to Robert and called him a brick, and told him to do as he pleased from this time on and they would stand by him.

Robert took them at their word, and District 19, from being the worst, became the very best in the county.

A lady succeeded Robert Cole and she said she had never met with better pupils or nicer people.

Robert practiced law near by, and the Dooks became his clients, not that they had a high admiration for his intellectual acquirements, but because they believed that the ability to resist was a primary qualification for a lawyer, and Robert had that quality in perfection.—New York Ledger.

There are four States in which mules are very numerous—Missouri, Texas, Georgia and Tennessee.

Probably few people who visit London are aware that one of the most novel sights of the great city is that of the pigeons round the public buildings.

The cries of sea birds, especially sea gulls, are very valuable to sailors in misty weather. The birds cluster on the cliffs and coast, and their cries warn boatmen that they are near the land.

Natal's hippopotamuses are extinct. The last herd was protected by the government on a reservation near Durban, but did so much damage to the surrounding sugar plantations that orders were given to have it destroyed.

An effort has been made to determine the pulling strength of elephants, horses and men. Attached to a dynamometer, Barnum & Bailey's largest elephant registered a pull of two and a half tons on the second trial, but a smaller and more active elephant gave a record of five and a half tons—whether as the result of a steady pull or a sudden jerk appears to be uncertain. A pair of powerful horses registered a ton and a fifth, while it required the strength of eighty-three men to equal the pull of the smaller elephant.

AMERICA ALONE CAN PREVENT THE WORLD FROM STARVING.

IF the strength of a country be measured by the abundance and nutritive value of its food, then the United States stands easily at the head of the dominant nations of the world. Not only can the farmers, the meadows and the orchards supply the needs of our own citizens, but there is left an immense surplus to be shipped to other countries.

Take wheat, for example, one of the leading staples. During the past ten years the nation's wheat crop has averaged about 465,000,000 bushels, ranging from less than 400,000,000 bushels in 1893 to over 600,000,000 two years earlier. The average yearly exports of this wheat for the same decade were 140,000,000 bushels, leaving 325,000,000 for home consumption. Excluding the wheat used for seed and for purposes other than human food, the present consumption is estimated to be a little less than one barrel of flour per capita, or 70,000,000 barrels for the nearly 75,000,000 population. That means an annual consumption of 14,000,000,000 pounds of flour—a bulk which, put into a single receptacle, would require a barrel twice the height of Washington monument and correspondingly big in circumference. Were all this flour made into bread it would yield 20,000,000,000 pound loaves. Reversing the metaphor of the sermon on the mount and "giving bread for a stone," these loaves would pave a roadway 36 feet wide and extending around the world. If bakery wagons were loaded each with 1,000 of the loaves, 20,000,000 would be needed to move the bread. They would make a procession over 60,000 miles long of 18 abreast from ocean to ocean. Of course, not all the flour is made into bread, since millions of pies, cakes and other products of the cook's art come from these 70,000,000 flour barrels.

Last year the farms of the country raised wheat sufficient to supply this enormous demand at home, besides sending 143,000,000 bushels to other countries. Of this export two-thirds went to Great Britain and less than a tenth to the rest of Europe. Six bushels in 100 went to our neighbor on the north and nine more to the other American countries. Australia and Asia took 10,000,000 bushels and Africa 4,000,000 bushels. But unless the nation's farms yield a larger wheat crop less will be exported in the future. At the present rate of consumption the increased population will demand the entire product in another decade.

The American Corn Crop.

But, while wheat is the staple, Americans do not live by bread alone. The corn crop is about four times as large as that of wheat, and about 1,700,000,000 bushels remain for consumption in our own country. But only a fraction of this reaches the stomach of man direct. For the most part it is taken in the pork, beef, milk, butter, eggs and other products of animals that fatten on its substance. In recent years, apparently, the direct use of corn for man's food is increasing in the form of "mixed" flour, patent food preparations, brown bread, corn dodgers and like cookery. Whole regions of the South use corn almost exclusively in preference to wheat flour.

Of the other grains which are partly used for food there is the oat crop, averaging 700,000,000 bushels, most of which remains in this country. Then there is the barley crop of some 70,000,000 bushels. And the usual yield of rye yearly is 8,000,000 bushels, very little of which is exported. But barley and rye are largely reduced to fluid form before the American consents to take them into his stomach. Some 15,000,000 bushels of buckwheat enter each year into the composition of American pancakes. The exact amount of these various grains used directly for human food cannot be determined, but probably another 6,000,000 pounds must be added to the wheat flour, making a total of 20,000,000,000 pounds used each year as food. Large as this seems in the aggregate, it is less than three-quarters of a pound a day to each person—not a very ample meal in itself, but quite sufficient when taken with the abundant varieties of other foods.

Look at the enormous quantity of other favorite American food products. The average potato crop in recent years has been about 225,000,000 bushels. Some 45,000,000 bushels of sweet potatoes are raised for the annual consumption. The yield of peas is 6,000,000 bushels, of beans 8,000,000, and of onions 2,500,000. More than 500,000 bushels of Spanish and Bermuda onions are imported each year. Half of the 300,000,000 pounds of rice used during the year comes from other countries.

The consumption of sugar reaches the astonishing total of 5,500,000,000 pounds, but only one-eighth of this is raised at home. Dairy products play a most important part in the food supply. To spread the bread, make the pies and concoct other appetizing dainties requires an annual supply of not less than 1,350,000,000 pounds of butter. Cheese is used to the extent of 230,000,000 pounds yearly. Made into one gigantic cheese it would measure 450 feet in diameter and half as many feet in height. The milk supply amounts to no less than 7,000,000,000 quarts annually, yet this is only half a pint a day to each person. Of this supply of milk Chicago takes 46,000,000 quarts and greater New York 634,000,000 quarts. Then there are the eggs, of which 850,000,000 dozen are used each year. Placed end to end they would girdle the world twelve times at the equator. But the egg supply is not excessive, since it allows less than three eggs a week to each person.

No people in the world eat as much meat as the Americans. The Secretary of Agriculture places the annual meat bill at $900,000,000. Figures can only be approximate, yet a fair estimate places the beef consumed at 5,000,000,000 pounds, pork at 4,000,000,000 and mutton at 800,000,000 pounds. With poultry and game the total meat eaten annually cannot be less than 10,000,000,000 pounds, which is nearly two pounds a day for each family of five persons. The exports of meat products are enormous.

Then there is the drink question. Last year Americans drank 1,200,000,000 gallons of coffee and 1,100,000,000 gallons of tea. To these must be added beer, 1,200,000,000 gallons, wines 25,000,000, and distilled spirits, such as whisky, brandy and rum, 90,000,000 gallons. This gives a grand total of over 3,600,000,000 gallons, or about forty-eight gallons for each man, woman and child. If you add the cocoa, "soft" drinks, mineral waters, etc., the total, not including plain water used for drinking purposes, is easily swelled to 4,000,000,000 gallons, or more than a gallon a person per week of liquids other than clear water. On the average a person drinks his own weight of these drinks every three months.

Vast Food Consumption.

All told, the consumption of solid food by this one nation during the year amounts in its raw state to some 90,000,000,000 pounds, or a little more than three pounds a day for each person. This means that the people eat their own weight of food about once in each month. The total cost must be placed at not less than $3,500,000,000 a year, to which must be added another $1,000,000,000 for drinks, making the total for food and drink more than could be purchased by the entire gold supply of the world. Of this expenditure, roughly, $1,000,000,000 goes for meat and fish, $700,000,000 for eggs and dairy products, $500,000,000 for wheat and other grains, an equal amount for fruits and sugar, and $300,000,000 for vegetables.

The 90,000,000,000 pounds of food consumed is about 1,200 pounds a year for each person. On a fair average the Americans may be considered a well-fed people. The statement in billions of pounds of the food consumed by the nation is impressive, but far less so than if one could actually see these enormous quantities. As an aid in measuring one day's food of the American people, imagine that a giant 2,000 feet tall were to land on this continent from a distant planet. Larger by far than the most famous giants found by Gulliver in the land of the Brobdingnag, this monster would tower four times as high as the Washington monument.

Taking a seat on the Chicago Masonic Temple roof, suppose he were to call upon the nations to supply him with food. He would need an amount equal to that consumed by 75,000,000 people. Set his daily supply before him and see what it would be. On a bread plate half as big as a city block would rest a loaf of bread 300 feet long and half as broad. Beside it would stand a pie as large as a gas house. From a saucer the size of a tugboat he would sip his oatmeal, with a spoon whose bowl would hold a trolley car. A smoking piece of beefsteak would be twenty-five feet thick and extend over an area equal to ten city lots; a covered dish contains three mammoth white potatoes and a sweet potato, each 100 feet long. His pat of butter would measure 100 feet in diameter. By his side is a glass of milk as large as the tower of the North Side water works, an egg 100 feet long, an apple of equal height and a 600-foot cube of sugar, making up most of the day's food.

But this giant does not forget to ask for drink. Besides two or three glasses of water, each the height of a tall office building, he drinks half the beer from a bottle which towers above a twenty-story structure, takes a sip of wine and two (giant) fingers of whisky. A mammoth cup of coffee and another nearly as large of tea are disposed of during the day. Yet all this food and drink represents only the quantities of these articles that disappear down the throats of the American people every twenty-four hours.

WEST POINT OF MEXICO.

One of the Most Picturesque Military Academies in the World.

Mexico has a West Point, which is one of the most picturesque as well as best military academies in the world. One of the sights of the capital city is the cadet in his neat, tasty uniform, with his erect military bearing and general air of superiority. The academy is in the ancient castle of Chapultepec, where Mexico's young men are indoctrinated in the art of war. All but the north end of the castle, facing the city, is devoted to the school. The north wing is the summer home of the President.

THE WEST POINT OF MEXICO.

The cadets receive frequent leaves of absence from school duties, a favor which they accept with eagerness. They usually go to the city in pairs and pose in little groups about the streets and paseos. Their uniforms are attractive, as all uniforms are, and the young fellows are as well versed in the cognate arts of war and flirtation as are the young men who attend the academy on the banks of the Hudson.

The castle makes an ideal, healthful place for the school. The view from the broad court in front is magnificent, covering the entire valley and including the two great snow-capped mountains to the east. The school buildings are being added to and improved.

The records do not show that any one was ever sensible enough to give a bride a cook book for a wedding present.

"Is Hobbs a man of fads?" "I'm inclined to think so. He has a fifth wife.

Harvey—George said he kissed you. Did he? Flora (ambiguously)—Not much.—Boston Transcript.

Teacher—Mary, make a sentence with "dogma" as subject. Mary (after careful thought)—The dogma has three puppies.—Ex.

"Did you say the man was shot in the woods, doctar?" "No, I didn't; I said he was shot in the lumbar region."—Yonkers Statesman.

Footlight—Who is the most promising person in your company? Sue Brette—Oh, the manager, by all means.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Snagsby is the most devoted golfman I ever met. The only meat he eats is sausage." "Ball?" "No, links."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

"There's a young woman who makes little things count." "How does she do it?" "Teaches arithmetic in a primary school."—Boston Globe.

"What a sanguine man Cooper is!" "Sanguine? He advertised for a middle-aged typewriter girl and expected to get applications."—Mexican Herald.

"Tommy," said the teacher to a pupil in the juvenile class, "what is syntax?" "I guess it must be the tax on whisky," replied Tommy.—Chicago News.

Blister—I'd like to see that new device of yours for preventing the theft of a watch. Kister—Can't show it. It was stolen from me yesterday by a pickpocket.

"Mary, there's dust on the piano at least six weeks old." "But, Missis, that's the fault of the last maid—I've only been here three weeks."—Fliegende Blaetter.

The lady in the sunbonnet—Oh, I guess you think whatever you say goes. The lady in the curl papers—If you hear it, it does; it goes all over the neighborhood.

Student—Fellows, the sheriff came to my rooms to-day. He seems to me just like a child. All—How so? Student—He wants everything he sees!—Lustige Blaetter.

Stranger—Is your society here very select? Arizona Al—See them graves over thar? They was all filled by fellers who came to our dances without invitashuns.—Brooklyn Life.

Miriam—Did you take the picture of the young man on the mantel? Mildred—Yes. Miriam—Friend of yours, I suppose? Mildred—Well, he was before I took the picture.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Soldier's Mother—I got a letter from George to-day, and he is grumbling about the victuals in the army. The Soldier's Wife—I am glad to hear that he is making himself at home.—Indianapolis Journal.

Reelman (to guest)—Oh, I assure you that I never make a business of fishing; I merely fish for recreation. Mrs. Reelman—Yes, and that's about the only thing I ever knew him to catch.—Richmond Dispatch.

Smith (the good father)—When I say anything in the presence of my children, I am very careful to have it accurate. Jones (the wretched bachelor)—Yes; I suppose they'd call you down if it wasn't.—Detroit Journal.

A wag the other day asked his friend: "How many knaves do you suppose live in this street beside yourself?" "Besides myself!" replied the other; "do you mean to insult me?" "Well, then," said the first, "how many do you reckon including yourself?"

Ex-servant—My husband's been beatin' me again, Miss Mary, and I'd twenty minds to have him arrested. Miss Mary—Why didn't you? Ex-servant—Well, I was thinkin' too, with me so lame, and him not workin', how'd I ever get money to pay the fine!—Life.

A little girl who had been told not to ask for anything to eat at a neighbor's came home with a face very suggestive of lunching. When asked by her mother why she had asked for something, she said: "But, mamma, I didn't ask Mrs. G. I just looked at her and said, 'Can't you see how hungry I am?'"—Truth.

Farmer Whiffletree—You say you want a job and would work for a cent a minute? Why, that is sixty cents an hour, six dollars a day, thirty-six dollars a week, a hundred and—— Weary Willie (faintly)—Hold on dere, boss! Call it half a cent a minute, den. I only want ter do five cents' worth.—Judge.

"I suppose," said the farm hand, who was looking for a job, "that you believe in the eight-hour system?" "That's what I do," replied the farmer. "I work eight hours in the forenoon and eight in the afternoon, but along about haylin' and harvest time I occasionally put in two or three hours extra."

"I saw a sign-painter barely save himself," said the student boarder, "by catching as he fell the sign he had finished. He was suspended twenty feet from the sidewalk." "He is not the first man," said Asbury Peppers, "who hung breathless on his own words when no one else did."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sammie had just returned from Sunday school, and his mother asked him if he had been a good boy. "No; not very," was the truthful reply. "Then you didn't get a good behavior card?" queried his mother. "Oh, yes, I did," replied the precocious youngster, "I saved the money you gave me for the heathen and bought two from the other boys."

INYO INDEPENDENT.

IRV. H. MULHOLLAND.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30 1898

The greatest travesty on justice in California is the acquittal of Rosser, the Tennessee volunteer who shot and killed a young married man named Hildebrand in a San Francisco market stall. The murder was entirely without provocation. The assassin was drunk and seeking a victim. Two trials were had; in the first the jury disagreed. In both the defense was that the liquor drunk by Rosser had been drugged and that he was therefore not responsible for his acts. On that plea he was acquitted and at once hurried out of the State. Thus a new method of evading punishment for murder has been devised. It is only necessary to get crazy drunk on cheap whiskey and take the trail for a victim. It matters not if no provocation is given, it will only be necessary to state that the liquor was drugged in order to go scot-free. The whisky drunk by Rosser just before he murdered Hildebrand was undoubtedly very bad, but it does not appear that proof of drugging was offered, nor has there been any attempt made to reach and punish the wretches who are supposed—for the purpose of defeating the ends of justice—to have doctored the miserable stuff absorbed by the murderer. If the precedent established by this case is to be followed, no man's life is safe. The home and the place of business may be invaded. Women and children are in danger if they walk the streets. California will reap a bitter harvest if she continues to sow such seed. This State has the reputation of being foremost in theoretical reforms. Some of our laws are radical in the extreme, yet in the practical administration of justice we have achieved but a sorry fame.

Some shrewd attorneys—and it is the business of attorneys to be shrewd—have persuaded the boards of supervisors of nearly all the counties of the State to give them half what they can collect from the State on a claim that the State ought to pay its proportion of the commissions allowed for collecting taxes on personal property, the whole of which the counties have been paying. The whole sum amounts to some million and a quarter of dollars. Now suppose they collect this of the State? The State will be short that much, and these same counties will be called upon to pay right back into the State treasury the amount they get plus the amount the attorneys get. This is certainly a very shrewd financial operation. Nobody can blame the attorneys. Each county that gets five hundred dollars will have to pay a thousand dollars into the State treasury next year. Awfully shrewd! Almost crafty! If the suit is decided in favor of the counties the half dozen that are not in the machine will get the full amount, but will have to pay it right back in the shape of increased taxes. Who makes any money?

Wells, Fargo & Co's reply to the suit against it to compel it to pay the war tax on packages instead of saddling it on its customers is amusing. The company pleads that a decision compelling it to bear the cost of a stamp for each and every package forwarded would mean "a dead loss to the company of $510 a day or 160,000 a year." It would be no dead loss. The money would go toward paying the expenses of a war by which the company gained as much as the rest of the country. Everybody is contributing more or less. That the company has to contribute $160,000 a year shows how well it can afford to pay it. Could the patrons of the company plead that they ought not to pay any of its charges for carrying letters or parcels, because such charges represented a dead loss to them?

The Call is just now engaged in the task of showing up the unworthiness of U. S. Grant, Jr., to be a Senator for California. It is charged that he used money to elect legislators, and he is further accused of having been a free silver advocate in 1896. The Call ought to be careful about fixing the date in 1896 when it was treason to advocate the free and independent coinage of the white metal, for the columns of that paper in May and June of that year will testify that John D. Spreckels was as enthusiastically in favor of silver as the supporters of Bryan were in the last presidential campaign.

If Congress desires to save the Government many thousands of dollars in revenue, they had better rush that bill extending our customs and navigation laws to Hawaii. A nice little scheme, hatched by the shrewdest class of men in the world, the importers and exporters of America and Europe, has just been discovered. They plan to import vast quantities of merchandise into the Hawaiian Islands at the low tariff that now prevails there and at their leisure dump the goods into the United States with a clear gain of 40 per cent. ad valorem. Such business acumen would be worthy of admiration if directed against the revenues of some other Government.

Ex-Secretary of State Day is a thrifty individual. He resigned a seat in the cabinet where he was receiving a salary of $8,000 per annum to become one of our peace commissioners at Paris. He worked 93 days at this job, counting traveling and entertaining as labor, and for this is to receive $100,000. Whitelaw Reid, a New York editor, will get a like sum, and the secretary of the commission, James Bassett Moore, will have to be satisfied with $50,000. The United States Senators on the commission will get nothing but their expenses, since they did not resign their seats in the Senate.

DRESS AND FASHION.

EVENING DRESSES AND COIFFURES—A PRINCESS CLOTH GOWN.

Satin and Velvet Ribbon Profusely Used For Garniture—Perpendicular Line Trimming, Fringes and Silk Cord Lacing—The New Padded Decoration.

Happy the woman whose "bonny brown hair" looks all the prettier for "the knot of blue ribbon," for blue is a favorite tone of the moment in evening gowns. The lovely shades of turquoise blend with primrose and show off gold and diamond embroidery with which most of them are bedizened. And it seems that with this particular shade of blue the medici collars from the shoulders look better than with almost any other tint, especially when worked in gold; for gold run lace is one of the extravagances of the day.

BUTTERFLY AND HIGH COMB COIFFURES.

Apropos of evening dress may be mentioned some new evening coiffures. In one of these the hair is dressed with the high comb now so greatly in vogue, the arrangement being carried out with a cluster of curls above the comb. A second coiffure, from its clever arrangement of wings or loops, has gained the name of "the butterfly."

Satin and velvet ribbons figure once more as fashionable dress trimmings. The skirt of a gray veiling dress is trimmed with innumerable rows of narrow black velvet, requiring some dozens of yards to make it what it should be. At the hem many rows follow the outline of the skirt, but above they are put on in rounded form, the two arrangements divided by a space.

Perpendicular line trimming of colored ribbon in groups of three lines on skirt and bodice affords the simple but distinguished garniture of some of the finest imported cloth gowns. Green on black and blue on gray represent some of the combinations.

Pink evening gowns in the fashion are pretty sure to show a touch of black somewhere. Black ruches in soft chiffon fall over the sleeves or hem the edge of the skirt, and with this there often appears an admixture of lightest dove color, a shade much in vogue and noticeable also in the newest light tinted cloth gowns.

Silk fringe and colored cord lacing furnish newest garnitures for skirt and bodice of house dresses. For example, an opening cut out showing a contrasting color underneath will have a lacing of cord across.

Much interest at present is centered in a new form of dress decoration which may best be likened to the padded stitching employed by saddlers. It is as though a conventional design or "motif" were stitched out in broad lines and the intervening space filled with padding. The extreme originality of this and the difficulty of its production will probably reserve it for the exclusive few. The second cut exploits the charms of this new decoration and also shows a simulated princess effect started by a box plait at the waist and continued below the band down the center of the skirt.

PRINCESS GOWN WITH PADDED DESIGN.

HOME MIXED FERTILIZER.

Items From the Ohio Station About Fertilizing Materials and Their Cost.

For several years the Ohio station has been using a mixture of equal parts of tankage and acid phosphate, with a small addition of muriate of potash (200 pounds to the ton), with most satisfactory results, but in order to make a more direct comparison of this mixture with factory mixtures the station began a year ago a comparative experiment in which four brands of factory mixed fertilizers, bought direct from four of the oldest fertilizer manufacturing firms in the state, are being used side by side with four home mixtures, made from the materials named, in such a way as to give approximately equal percentages of ammonia, total and available phosphoric acid and potash in the home mixtures to those claimed in the factory mixed brands.

The general outcome of this test to date is that home mixtures of similar chemical composition, made from the materials named, have given an equal increase of crop when used on corn with standard brands of factory mixed fertilizers, and at a reduction of more than 40 per cent in cost.

Acid phosphate is the basis of the phosphoric acid in practically all factory mixed fertilizers. It is a fossil bone, found in South Carolina, Florida and Tennessee, which is ground to a fine powder and mixed with sulphuric acid in order to make its phosphoric acid more easily soluble. The northern markets are supplied chiefly from Baltimore, where it may be bought at prices ranging from $10 per ton for single sack lots down to $7.50 per ton in carloads in bulk for a grade analyzing 14 per cent soluble phosphoric acid. In the experiments made at the Ohio experiment station a pound of available phosphoric acid in acid phosphate has apparently been as effective as a pound of phosphoric acid in bone.

Tankage is made at all the great slaughter houses. It contains both phosphoric acid and ammonia and is variable in quality. Different grades are classed as 6 and 35, 7 and 30, 8 and 20, 9 and 20, etc., meaning that they contain 6 per cent ammonia and 35 per cent bone phosphate or 7 per cent ammonia and 30 per cent bone phosphate, etc., the term bone phosphate meaning that combination of phosphoric acid and lime which is found in bone and of which it is 46 per cent is phosphoric acid. The lower grades shade off below into raw bone, which might be called a 3 and 50 tankage, and above into dried blood, which contains 10 to 14 per cent ammonia with 2 or 3 per cent or only a trace of phosphoric acid.

A 7 and 30 tankage has been sold in Cleveland for several years at the uniform price of $17 per ton in single sacks or carloads. The latest quotations in Chicago range from $12.50 per ton for 6 and 35 tankage up to $15.50 for 9 and 20 tankage, this being the standard grade.

Muriate of potash is a product of the Stassfurt mines in Germany, and its sale is controlled by a German syndicate. It may be bought in New York or Cleveland at about 2 to 2½ cents per pound. Both acid phosphate and tankage are fine, dry meals, in perfect condition to be used in the fertilizer drill, and mixing them does not alter their condition. Muriate of potash resembles common salt in appearance, except that it is usually somewhat yellowish in color. In its commercial condition it is about half actual potash.

A Business Method.

The cut, from The Farm Journal, tells it own story. The owner of this device is going to know hereafter just what each cow is doing. He will weigh each cow's milk as it is drawn, and then put it down on the paper in black and white—the milk record for each week. The prosperous farmer makes use of business methods. He knows what each animal is doing, and whether she gains or loses on particular kinds of feed. Guesswork is poor business on the farm, as elsewhere.

WEIGHING THE MILK.

And in this connection it may be mentioned that the pleasing, cleanly and economical practice of delivering milk in glass bottles is steadily increasing.

Sending Flowers by Mail.

It is always a trouble to know how to send flowers any distance to keep them from bruising and withering. A bunch of violets which was sent into the city the other day must have been in a close box for 36 hours before being taken out and put into water, and at the end of that time the flowers looked as fresh as if they had just been picked. They were tied up tightly in a bunch with a little maidenhair fern surrounding them, as such a bouquet is made, and then wrapped in oiled paper and placed in a square box the corners of which were filled in with the oiled paper to prevent them from tossing about.—New York Times.

FASHION AND FABRIC.

French ecru is the fashionable tint in laces this season.

White pongee is one of the materials used for yachting gowns.

The hat which turns back from the face is the latest Parisian fancy.

Rumor says that white skirts will soon oust the silk ones from favor.

Red and dark heliotrope forms one of the season's combinations of color.

A sash of black spangled tulle is very effective on a gown of some pale tint.

The gray faded shades of blue, red and brown are the popular colors for gowns.

A Roman sash with silk hose to match will add much to your white organdie costume.

Sapphire blue velvet and turquoise blue silk are used in combination to form the vest of a tan cloth gown.

Some of the newest coats are quite long in the back, rounding down from the front, and fastened a little to one side.

Black silk coats made by the tailors and stitched and pressed in the most approved fashion are one of the Parisian novelties.

The daintiest petticoats for summer wear are made of pink and blue batiste, with embroidered flounces for trimming.

White barege over white taffeta and trimmed with white satin ribbon and white chiffon makes a lovely summer dress.

The latest linen collar has pointed tab ends standing up at the back and a turnover finish in front, which folds down over the cravat.

Silk muslin is the material for the hot weather shirt waists, which are made with the inevitable tucked chemisette and collar band of mull.

The Greek peplum is revived in a modified form for the tea gown and demidress costumes, and transparent materials which display the figure to good advantage are favored.

The latest thing in belts to wear with shirt waists is a soft taffeta ribbon, five inches wide, made tight enough to wrinkle into half that width and fastened with a pretty silver gilt buckle.

The mushroom hat with a low crown and a brim that curves down all around is one of the many shapes which have some merit as a protection for the eyes. It is trimmed simply or elaborately with flowers and is charming on a young girl.—New York Sun.

Chinese Generals in Jail.

The death has occurred in the prisons of the Chinese Board of punishment of another of the generals confined there on the charge of cowardice during the late war with Japan and awaiting the execution which never came through the liberal distribution of the never failing silver cycee. The general whose death is now reported was Huang Shihlin, who deserted his brigade at the time of the capture of Port Arthur by the Japanese army, but was eventually captured, disguised as a Buddhist priest, somewhere near Canton. There now remain three others of these generals in prison.—North China Herald.

OFFICIAL.

Proposals for Building a Branch Jail at Bigpine.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the board of supervisors of Inyo County, State of California, made November 21, 1898, sealed proposals will be received for the construction of a branch jail in the town of Big Pine, County of Inyo, State of California to comply with the following specifications: To be 14x16 feet, double wall, double ceiling, double floor and double partitions, to be laid diagonally. The sills 4x4; joists 2x6, ceiling joist 2x4 braced to the roof plates and rafters 2x4; the building to be battened on the outside with 1x4; all of the one inch lumber to be surfaced; three doors 3x5 double as inside walls; the building to be 10 foot walls. Three jail locks. Hinges to be such as put in with 5/16 bolts. Three hasps to suit the doors. One 12x12 ventilator in each cell. Redwood shingles.

All bids must be endorsed "Proposals for Building Branch Jail at Bigpine" and addressed to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors and will be received up to and not later than the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. on Thursday, the 5th day of January 1899, and opened by said board on the first day of January, 1899, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 2 o'clock p. m. of said day, the right to reject any and all bids being reserved.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest: D. J. Hession, Clerk.

Proposals for Building a Branch Jail at Lonepine.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of the Board of Supervisors of Inyo County, State of California, made November 21, 1898, sealed proposals will be received for the construction of a branch jail in the town of Lone Pine, County of Inyo, State of California to comply with the following specifications: To be 14x16 feet, double walls, double ceiling, double floors and double partitions, to be laid diagonally. The sills 2x4; joist 2x6; ceiling joists 2x4 braced to the ceiling plate and rafter 2x4; the building to be battened on the outside with 1x4; all of the one inch lumber to be surfaced. Three doors 3x6 double as inside walls; the building to be 10 foot walls. Three jail locks. Hinges to be such as put in with 5/16 bolts. Three hasps to suit the doors. One 12x12 ventilator in each cell. Redwood shingles.

Bids must be sealed and endorsed "Proposals for building branch jail at Lonepine" addressed to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors, the same to be received not later than 10 o'clock a. m. of Thursday, the 5th day of Jan. 1899 and the same will be opened between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on that 5 day of Jan., 1899 and the board hereby reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman.

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

Treasurer's Report.

TREASURER'S QUARTERLY REPORT—FOR THE QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors, Inyo County, State of California:

GENTLEMEN—

I herewith submit my report of the receipts and disbursements of this office for the quarter ending Sept. 30th, 1898.

Respectfully submitte I,

W. T. BUNNEY, County Treasurer.

1898
July 1	To cash on hand	$12 025 12
5	cash from A M Given, tax col	539 42
5	P A Chalfant, co. assessor	1 875 56
	P A Chalfant assessor	38 10
	cash from A M Given, tax collector	27 00
	D J Hession, clerk fees	8 65
	D J Hession, recorder, fees	62 30
	J H Shannon, int on State land	33 60
8	A A Cashbaugh, int State land	33 60
9	J H Shannon, fines	2 25
13	Samuel T Black, School money	3,074 06
18	Jack Mallory, red	3 00
	Joseph Shively, red	1 00
	A V Davidson, fines	7 00
24	E H Edwards, int State land	32 00
27	Margaret Sanders, Big Pine bonds	3,000 00
		20 762 72
Aug 1	A M Given, tax col.	2 400
	P A Chalfant, Co. Assessor	60 98
	A M Given, Tax collector	15 00
	A M Given, sheriff fees	1 50
	D J Hession, recorder fees	48 15
	D J Hession, clerk, fees	28 35
8	Modock Co. in M & Co redemption	14 55
30	John Richardson, Lake land	123 16
	A R Schivland, Lake land	3 8 63
		21 697 04
Sept 5	A M Given, tax col	455 00
	P A Chalfant, co. Assessor	377 79
	A M Given, Tax collector	2 00
	D J Hession, clerk	31 15
	D J Hession, Recorder fees	24 20
	Thos T Smith, state land	48 01
	Thos T Smith, on state land	48 01
	David Scott, state land	25 50
		22 733 20

DISBURSEMENTS

July	Lone Pine B'd fund	1 160 00
	Salary	1 5 7 28
	Hospital	1 68 99
	General Expense	1 795 65
	Bridge	13 43
	Road Dist No 1	7 00
	" " " 2	267 00
	" " " 3	2 00
	" " " 4	124 50
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 500 00
	" " " "	5 00
	Sunday Sch'l Lib'ry	6 00
	Library "	8 10
	Bishop "	15 00
	Irving "	7 00
	Milton "	15 00
	County School Fund	16 00
		8 5[illegible] 00
Aug.	Salary	1 024 38
	Road Dist. No 2	5 00
	" " 3	21 00
	General Expense	1 064 44
	Hospital	65 50
	Fish Spring	12 00
		10 703 90
Sept.	General Expense	11 30
	Salary	1 021 38
	Hospital fund
	Fish Spring
	Round Valley
	Union
	Milton School Fund
	Tabosse	21 40
	Independence	161 15
	Big Pine Sch'l B'd	1 000 00
	Fish Sp. Library	8 00
	County Bond	1 500 00
	Cash	8 146 39
		22 753 20	22 733 20

TREASURER'S TRIAL BALANCE.

AMOUNTS IN VARIOUS FUNDS:

Salary Fund	311 99
County bond		885 38
Bishop school special	5 13
State general	1 541 29
General expense		1 154 08
Hospital		259 15
General road	174 80
Road District No 1	386 39
" " " 2	297 97
" " " 3	243 77
" " " 4	83 22
" " " 5	367 51
Road Poll tax	2 55
Unapportioned county	167 99
Bridge	292 87
Institute	5 00
Teacher's library	31
County school	26 85
Improving tax	1 559 58
Mono school library fund	9 10
Round Valley	25 10
Irving	3[illegible] 52
Bishop	21 17
Benton	28 78
Warm Spring	63
Big Pine	11 30
Independence	1 58
Union	30
Rovere		64
Lone Pine	29 49
Fish Spring	1 55
Liberty	15 94
Tabosse		2 56
Valley	8 45
Keeler	11 50
Independence school building fund	3 00
Station building fund	20 14
Big Pine	500 00
Bishop school bond fund (old)	70 02
Same (new)	78 65
Union school bond fund	79 58
Big Pine	75 31
Fish Springs	68 76
Lone Pine	77 60
Tabosse	46 42
Fish Springs School	121 08
Riverside	116 71
Bishop	57[illegible] 94
Lone Pine	327 62
Big Pine	157 95
Warm Spring	88 99
Irving	463 17
Independence	377 90
Poleta	80 25
Keeler	80 25
Statham	10 62
Milton	161 70
Union	80 29
Valley	203 65
Liberty	28 42
Tabosse	131 52
Riverside special	96
Irving special	19 07
Round Valley special	1 99
Swamp and overflowed land	481 79
Round Valley School	120 48
Cash on hand		8 146 39
	10 425 17	10 425 17

W. T. BUNNEY,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Oct. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Filed Oct. 7, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Auditor

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. Hession, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

QUARTERLY REPORT OF COUNTY AUDITOR FOR QUARTER ENDING SEPT. 30TH, 1898.

Exhibit showing amount of warrants drawn and upon what funds, between June 30th and Sept. 30th, 1898:

Total warrants drawn		11 921 81
Gen. Expense fund	2 811 49
School "	382 75
Hospital "	1 795 49
Salary "	3 597 24
Road District No 1 Fund	77 00
" " " 2 "	272 00
" " " 3 "	228 25
" " " 4 "	124 50
Bridge "	134 18
Big Pine Bldn'g "	2 500 00
	11 921 81	11 921 81

Exhibit showing indebtedness of Inyo Co. Interest not included.

Total indebtedness	69 990 55
County bonds		60 000 00
Old indebtedness		990 55
	69 990 55	60 990 55
Inyo county total indebtedness	69 990 55
Cash in treasury		8 146 39
Remaining indebtedness		52 844 16
	60 990 55	60 990 55

Respectfully submitted to the Honorable Board of Supervisors.

D. J. HESSION
County Auditor.

Filed Oct. 2, 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk

Approved Oct. 8, 1898.

A. C. FREEMAN,
Chairman

Attest: D. J. HESSION, Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

A. M. GIVEN,

Sheriff and Tax-Collector,

Independence, California.

J. F. WILLIS, - Under-Sheriff.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney, Inyo County, Cal.

Attorney-at-Law.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE. Civil Cases and business before the United States Land Office will be taken and carefully attended.

DENNIS J. HESSION,

COUNTY CLERK

AND

Ex-Officio Auditor and Recorder.

INYO COUNTY - - CALIFORNIA.

WM. T. BUNNEY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

Independence, Inyo Co., California.

Office in Court House.

I. J. WOODIN, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

COUNTY PHYSICIAN,

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—AT HIS RESIDENCE.

G. P. DOYLE, M. D.,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Independence, Cal.

OFFICE—GILL RESIDENCE.

P. H. MACK.

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

—o—x—o—

Independence, California.

BEN. H. YANDELL,

Attorney-at-Law,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

Will practice in the Superior Court and U. S. Land Office

HELEN M. McKNIGHT, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop, Inyo Co., Cal.

—o—x—o—

OFFICE—EAST LINE STREET.

J. S. McQUEEN, D. D. S.,

Graduate Chicago College Dental Surgery

Bishop, Inyo Co., Calif.

—o—x—o—

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES AND by latest improved methods. Will visit all towns in Inyo County as business may offer. Home Office—Wright's Drug Store. aug-4-tf

---

JOHN D. LEWIS,

Attorney and Counselor at Law.

Independence, California.

—o—x—o—

WILL PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS OF THE State of California, and in the U. S. Land Office at Independence, Calif.

LEGAL.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Charles Anthony, Plaintiff, vs. Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased; J. S. Stoller, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of T. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Sarlene Todd, W. H. Raipke, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, and the Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said county of Inyo.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Frank C. Young, Frank M. Kelsey, as Administrator of the Estate of J. F. Ginser, deceased, J. S. Stoller, I. J. Woodin, as Administrator of the Estate of T. M. Todd, deceased, H. M. Todd, Sarlene Todd, W. H. Raipke, and Savings Bank of Southern California (a Corporation), Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court forever quieting the plaintiff in his title and possession of the recreation mines, mill sites and water right described in the complaint, on file herein, to which reference is here made, against all claims thereto by the defendants, or either of them, and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, this second day of August, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

[SEAL]

Reddy, Campbell & Metson, Crocker Building, San Francisco, Cal., Attorneys for Plaintiff; P. H. Mack, of Counsel.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs. Lorenzo D. Matthews, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Lorenzo D. Matthews, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment for quieting all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The N½ of Section 36, Township 22 south, Range 37 east, M. D. M., and cancelling and annulling and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 11,232 from the State of California for non payment of interest amounting to $6.[illegible], due and unpaid to the State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said state school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, if forfeited, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 3d day of December, A. D. 1898.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF INYO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

The People of the State of California, Plaintiffs, vs. J. M. Keeler, Defendant.

Action brought in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the said county of Inyo, in the office of the clerk of said Superior court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to J. M. Keeler, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the Superior court of the county of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days, exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment for quieting all your right, title and interest in and to all the following described state school lands of the State of California, situate, lying and being in the county of Inyo, State of California, to wit: The East ½ of NW ¼ of Section 4; also the E ½ of Section 5, Township 17 south, and the E ½ of SE ¼ of Section 31, Township No. 16 south, Range No. 38 east, M. D. M., and cancelling, annulling, and henceforth rendering null and void the certificate of purchase thereto, No. 9,075, from the State of California, for non payment of interest amounting to $8.40, due and unpaid to the said State of California on the first day of January, 1896, upon said State school lands and the certificate of purchase thereof, if forfeited, then and now unpaid and delinquent for two dollars cost of publication, ten dollars attorney fee and for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief in the premises as the case may require, and as to the court may seem just and equitable; as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court of the said county of Inyo, State of California, this 31st day of December, A. D. 1896.

D. J. HESSION,
Clerk.

SEAL.

P. W. Forbes, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Watch this space for

Rhine's

New announcement.

HOTELS.

VALLEY VIEW HOTEL.
VALLY VIEW HOTEL.

BISHOP, CALIF

O. H. HILL - - - - - PROP'R.

—o—x—o—

GUESTS WILL RECEIVE EVERY COURTESY AND ATTENTION.

☞ Meals furnished on the American or European plan.

SINGLE MEALS.....25 cts. to $1.00
LODGING.....25 to 50 cts.
BOARD AND LODGING..... $2.00 to $1.50.

—o—x—o—

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.
COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

CORNER EDWARDS AND MARKET STREETS

Independence, California.

——x——

O. I. MAIRS, - - PROPRIETOR.

——x——

THIS FIRST CLASS ENTIRELY NEW HOTEL is fitted throughout for the comfort and convenience of guests, for whose entertainment no pains will be spared. The ROOMS are all large, light and airy, well furnished and kept in good order. The TABLE is at all times supplied with the best the market affords, and well served.

AT THE BAR

will found the best qualities of LIQUORS and WINES and the choicest brands of CIGARS.

BOARD AND LODGING

by the Day, Week or Month, at Reasonable Rates. Stages from the Norman House connect with Trains going North and South.
je27-tf O. I. MAIRS

BIG PINE HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - - - CALIF.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rate

-- -X- --

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by. In fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

THOMAS CALLOW,
Proprietor

MISCELLANEOUS

NATHAN RHINE
NATHAN RHINE

BANKING and EXCHANGE.

TRANSACTS a General Banking Business. Drafts drawn on all principal cities. TELEGRAPHIC TRANSFERS PERFECTED.

Agents for Wells, Fargo & Co.

☞ A first-class fire proof vault for the accommodation of parties.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE.

S. P. M'KNIGHT C. E

SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY.

L. MUNZINGER & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of a First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

☞ Custom respectfully solicited on all points ☞ On the C. & C. Railroad. ☞

Send orders to
L. MUNZINGER & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE
MEAT MARKET

J. C. ROEPER, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Sausage.

j19-tf

Government Lands

Surveyed or Unsurveyed,

Located and perfect title guaranteed.

LAND WARRANTS AND SCRIP

For Farming, grazing and Timber lands. No Settlement Required.

For Information address
F. A. HYDE,
630 Commercial St., San Francisco.

MERCHANDISE.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

DEALER IN

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CALIFORNIA

Keeps always on hand a full stock of fresh and well-assorted

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS,
HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
TIN-WARE,
GLASS-WARE,
CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
DRY-GOODS,
CLOTHING,
HOSIERY,
MILLINERY,
UNDERWEAR,
BOOTS, SHOES,
CUTLERY &c.

☞ Any goods not carried in stock will be promptly ordered when desired.

AGENT FOR:—
FIREMAN'S FUND INSURANCE COMPANY, of California.
COMMERCIAL UNION ASSURANCE COMPANY, of London.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

Give me call at the old stand, see goods and learn prices.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ.

L. WOOD.

Invites the Public to inspect his stock of

Gen'l Merchandise

Complete in every department.

The Latest Spring & Summer Styles in Ladies' and Gentlemen's clothing.

All kinds of fresh:——
Vegetables,
Fruits,
Nuts and Candies.

Farm Produce:——
Grain,
Bacon,
Butter and Eggs

Bought and Sold——

A complete stock of
Miner's and Prospector's supplies.
And Patent Medicines——

L. WOOD,
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

--Consisting of--

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

TOBACCO.

CIGARS.

WINES and LIQUORS.

FLOUR & GRAIN.

Together with an assortment of

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

ETC., ETC.

TIME TABLE.

CARSON AND COLORADO RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
R. J. LAWS, ASS'T SUPT., Hawthorne, Nevada.

—o—

TIME TABLE.

STATIONS.	MILES	From Mound House. No. 1.		To Mound House. No. 2.
Mound House	0	Lv 10:50 a m	Ar	5:20 p m
Dayton	6	11:25 a m		4:45 p m
Clifton	18	12:10 p m		4:00 p m
St. Churchill	26	12:40 p m		3:30 p m
Wabuska	38	1:40 p m		2:30 p m
Cleaver	4[illegible]	1:50 p m		2:15 p m
Mason	46	2:05 p m		2:05 p m
Rio Vista	54	2:30 p m		1:40 p m
Schurz	65	3:10 p m		12:55 p m
Gillis	78	3:50 p m		12:10 p m
Hawthorne	100	5:00 p m	Lv	11:00 a m
		No. 3.		No. 4.
Hawthorne	100	Lv 6:00 a m	Ar	7:35 p m
Kinkead	113	6:37 a m		6:48 p m
Luning	125	7:10 a m		6:15 p m
New Boston	131	7:30 a m		[illegible] p m
Soda Springs	137	7:50 a m		[illegible] p m
Rhodes	142	8:10 a m		5:15 p m
Belleville	150	8:50 a m		4:35 p m
Junction	152	9:00 a m		4:25 p m
Candelaria	158	Ar 9:20 a m		3:[illegible]0 p m
Junction		10:10 a m		3:25 p m
Basalt	167	11:11 a m		2:25 p m
Summit	176	12:00 m		1:35 p m
Queen	188	12:50 p m		12:35 p m
Benton	193	1:20 p m		11:50 a m
Hammill	204	2:10 p m		11:00 a m
Bishop Creek	224	Lv 3:15 p m	Lv	9:50 a m
Alvord	229	4:05 p m		8:55 a m
Tibbets	233	4:50 p m		8:10 a m
Independence	237	5:35 p m		7:25 a m
Lone Pine	281	6:20 p m		6:40 a m
Swansea	290	6:50 p m		6:10 a m
Keeler	297	Ar 7:00 p m	Lv	6:00 a m

Trains 1 and 2 run daily. Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connections Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Rail

—o—

STAGE CONNECTIONS.

At Hawthorne, with U. S. Stage Company's daily coaches for Aurora, 26 miles; Bodie, 37 miles, and for Lundy and Bridgeport.

At Luning, 125 miles from Mound House with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages leaving Tuesday's Thursdays and Saturdays, at 8:00 a. m., for Downeyville, Grantsville, etc.

At Candelaria, with U. S. Stage Company's stages from Columbus, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

At Keeler, with stages from Cerro Gordo, [illegible] miles, Darwin, 22 miles, and Panamint.

This road has a first-class equipment, is opening up new and most promising mining districts, farming and grazing valleys. West of Owens River Valley the Sierra Nevadas rise rapidly to an imposing height and are easy of access. A trip to Mt. Whitney, the "Nose" of the Sierras, and to the cataracts and great canons of the south fork of Kings river, offers to the tourist a new and unsurpassed region—ere soon to become famous

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE RAILROAD

GENERAL OFFICES, CARSON CITY, NEV.

H. M. YERINGTON, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT
E. B. YERINGTON, GEN'L FR'T & PASS'R AGENT

TIME-TABLE.

STATIONS.	EXPRESS PASS. FROM RENO.		LOCAL PASS. FROM RENO.
Reno	Lv 8:15 a m	Lv	1:45 p m
Steamboat Springs	8:37 a m		2:26 p m
Franktown	9:05 a m		3:05 p m
Carson	9:20 a m		3:15 p m
Mound House	10:12 a m		5:15 p m
Gold Hill	10:55 a m		6:43 p m
Virginia	Ar 11:05 a m	Ar	6:55 p m
	TO RENO.		TO RENO.
Virginia	Lv 5:55 p m	Lv	7:45 a m
Gold Hill	6:06 p m		7:56 a m
Mound House	6:45 p m		8:30 a m
Carson	7:10 p m		9:55 a m
Franktown	7:44 p m		10:29 a m
Steamboat Springs	8:08 p m		11:13 a m
Reno	Ar 8:30 p m	Ar	11:40 a m

Connects at Carson with Stages for LAKE TAHOE, GENOA, PINE NUT, CARSON VALLEY, SILVER MOUNTAIN, SWETWATER MINES, ETC.

Connects at MOUND HOUSE with CARSON & COLORADO RAILROAD

TO LAKE TAHOE

A TRIP OF RARE INTEREST.

Passengers on west-bound overland trains of Central Pacific Railroad are respectfully notified that during the excursion season, commencing May 1st and closing October 1st, a delightful trip to LAKE TAHOE can be enjoyed (losing but one day in their journey) by taking the Express train of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, leaving Reno at 7:10 a m, arriving at Carson City at 8:25 a m, where well-equipped stages leave promptly for Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe, connecting with Lake Tahoe steamer for Tahoe City, there connecting with Moody & Co.'s stages for Truckee, arriving same evening where connection is made with west-bound passenger train of Central Pacific Railroad. Through tickets, Reno to Truckee, by above route, for sale at Ticket Office, Reno, $5.00. East-bound passengers can leave Truckee early in the morning (Through Tickets for sale at Stage Office in Truckee) make the trip over the above described route, arriving at Reno same evening.

VIRGINIA CITY & THE COMSTOCK

Passengers may also take train mentioned at Reno for Virginia City, 52 miles, where an entire day may be pleasantly and profitably spent examining the famous Comstock Mines (now being worked to a perpendicular depth of 3,100 feet) with their massive hoisting and pumping machinery. Returning, see Time-Table above. Round Trip Tickets for sale at Ticket Office Reno. aug3-tf

P & B MANILLA ROOFING

250 square feet, complete with paint and nails $4.00
Manufactured by
Paraffine Paint Co.
116 Battery St
San Francisco.
Sample free.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30.....1898

U.S DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau.

Meteorological report for week ending December 29, 1898:

Highest barometer	30.623
Lowest "	29.822
Highest temperature	68.0	28
Lowest "	22.0	24
Mean "	41.7
Average dew point	9.3
Average humidity	29.6
Maximum wind velocity, direction and date	66	N W 29
No. clear days	7
No. part cloudy days	0
No. cloudy days	0
No. rainy days	0
Precipitation for week	.00

JOHN J. MCLEAN,
Observer.

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Hon. Walter A. Lamar, Judge.

FRIDAY, Dec. 23. 1898.

Estate of R. Van Dyke deceased—Order of sale of personal property.

THURSDAY, Dec. 29, 1898.

People vs. Jacob Hodge—Defendent arraigned and pleaded "Not Guilty." Trial set for Tuesday, January 31, 1899.

Methodist Church.

Services for Sunday, January 1st, 1899:

Independence—Sunday-school at 2 in the afternoon. Evening preaching service at 7 o'clock.

All are most cordially invited to attend these meetings.

JOHN J. PARDER, Pastor.

Don't miss the ball Monday night.

Supt. Hoskins of the Reward was in town yesterday.

Abe Diaz was up from Lone Pine one day this week.

The Marx brothers are spending the holidays at Independence.

Dr. Doyle spent a couple of days at Bishop early in the week.

Miss Minnie Collins spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Bert Rhine.

Thos. Williams of Round Valley was a visitor in town early in the week.

T. C. Boland and J. A. McKenzie came up from Lone Pine last Saturday.

Sam Gruber has been quite ill for the past two weeks and is unable to be out of bed.

A party of Independence boys left for Big Pine this morning to attend the New Year ball.

Charley Summers came down from Bishop last Monday and spent several days in town.

S. E. Vermilyea, Esq. came down from Bishop last Friday and spent Christmas at Independence.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Harvey of Lone Pine were visitors at Independence on Saturday evening last.

H. Levy has his new hotel nearly completed, and has received a lot of new and elegant furniture.

Arlie Mairs and Charley Houle have gone to Ubaheba to perform assessment work on the copper mine.

On Wednesday night we were treated to a 66-mile an hour gale, and the weather has turned quite cold.

Supervisor-elect Henebry came in from Ballarat Wednesday and will remain until after the coming session of the Board.

J. C. Roeper received a fine lot of fish on Wednesday's train consisitng of fresh salmon, flounder and sea bass. Try some.

Jim Woods, an old time prospector, came in from Darwin Wednesday for medical treatment. He is suffering acutely from rheumatism.

James Harry spent several days in town early this week settling up the estate of Robert Harry deceased. He returned to Darwin on Wednesday.

Lem Myers came down from Big Pine last Monday and consulted Dr. Woodin for an ailment he has been suffering from for some time. The doctor pronounced it rupture.

Carl Schumann gave an interesting entertainment at the Pavilion on Monday and Tuesday evenings. He has an Edison projectiscope and some really good views.

Harry Cook and George Thorpe have gone back to Mazourka and resumed operations on the big tunnel. George made final proof on his homestead on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Densmore arrived home last Friday evening from a visit with Mrs. Densmore's parents at Redlands. They spent a week at San Francisco on their way home.

It looks now as though another dry year was inevitable, and if so there will be great suffering in Southern California. There has been scarcely any rain south of Tehachapi, and there is no present indications of any.

The Independence Athletic Club have about completed arrangements for their New Years ball next Monday evening. The boys intend to make it an occasion that will be long remembered and are sparing no expense.

Inyo Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M. elected the following named officers last Saturday evening: John S. Gorman, W. M., James A. McKenzie, S. W., T. C. Boland, J. W., O. I. Mairs, Treasurer, P. H Mack, Secretary. An open installation will be given some time next month.

The Christmas Tree.

A crowd of happy, restless children filled with joyful anticipation, accompanied their beaming elders to the church Christmas eve. All of Independence and vicinity were there. The little ones viewed the beautiful tree with round eyes and could scarcely repress their impatience for the arrival of Santa Claus while the following programme was rendered.

Opening Chorus.....Glad Greeting.
Scripture Reading .....Prophecy.
Prayer .....
Chorus.....Angel Voices.
Scripture Reading.....Fulfillment of Prophecy.
Solo.....He Shall Lead Us.
Irma Webb.
Recitation.....Lester Gorman.
Christmas Carol.....Choir.
Dialogue.....Dora Schabbell, Edith Gorman.
Chorus.....Christmas Bells.
Recitation and Song...We Are Four Little Girls....Frances Vermilyea, Ruth Mulholland, Helen Gunn, Lulu Moffatt.
Recitation.....Mr. Guian.
Chorus....Glory to God in the Highest.

During the singing of the last piece Santa Claus popped in through an open window and fat, rosy and smiling shook hands with them all. Then came the happiest part of the evening while amid squeals, hand-claps and inarticulate gasps they received their presents. Much credit is due those who assisted in preparing the programme and the heavily laden tree. We may congratulate ourselves that one more bright spot is left in the children's memories.

That Coyote Bounty.

In the estimate given by Controller Colgan for the expenses of the next two fiscal years, he says:

"I have again included in my estimate the amount due to creditors of the State for bounty on coyote scalps. The greater part of these are legitimate claims and the State is morally and legally responsible for their payment. I have no doubt that there are many that are fraudulent, but these may be segregated from the honest claims and the latter should be paid without further delay." Of course they should be paid. Who ever heard of such an outrage. The State after having offered this bounty refuses to pay because there is representation that foreign scalps were being imported. This no doubt was so, and the State had a right to repeal the act if it saw fit. But it had no right to say they would not pay those legal claims arising under their bounty law. Ultimately the claims will be paid, but it is a long time to wait for some that have claims. The present legislature should, and no doubt will see that an appropriation for this purpose is passed.

A New County.

There has been considerable discussion in the press lately about the formation of a new county. The following is taken a Southern California paper:

"It looks like Kern county might be divided and another county formed by taking off a slice of the southern part of Inyo county and the western and eastern parts of Kern county. The suggestion is good. Randsburg would naturally be the county seat, and by taking off another slice of San Bernardino county would materially decrease the annual expense of that county also. Let's call it Gold county and see how it sounds,

Randsburg,
Gold County,
California.

To Whom It May Concern.

My wife, Lydia Willett, having without just cause or provocation, and without my consent, left my bed and board, I hereby give public notice to all whom it may concern that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract.

J. C. WILLETT.

Quite an excitement was caused in town late Wednesday night by a fire in the corral back of the Burney residence. A very high wind was blowing at the time and carried the fire into the sagebrush. A large force of men managed by hard work to keep it within bounds, and it soon burned itself out. Fortunately the fire caused no damage and it serves as a warning to everybody to be extremely careful.

The Board of Supervisors will meet next Tuesday in regular session, when the new members, Messrs. Cooley, Jones and Henebry will take their seats.

BLACKSMITHING.

—All kinds of—

GENERAL IRON WORK.

HORSE SHOEING A SPECIALTY

W. F. MATLACK,

IMMEDIATELY SOUTH OF INDEPENDENCE Hotel, Indepence, Cal.

☞ First-class work at lowest living prices.

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT.

INYO MARBLE COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA

Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California. Location of works, Inyo county, California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the 7th day of December, 1898, an assessment, No. 32, of 15c. per share, was levied upon the Capital Stock of the Corporation, payable immediately in United States Gold Coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the Company, Room 21, 13th Floor, Mills Building, San Francisco, California

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 26th day of January, 1899 will be delinquent, and advertised for sale at public auction; and unless payment is made before, will be sold on Thursday, the 3rd day of March, 1899 to pay the delinquent assessment, together with costs of advertising and expenses of sale.

By order of the Board of Directors.

CHARLES E. ANDERSON,
Secretary.

OFFICE—Mills Building, Room 21, 13th Floor, San Francisco, California.

TEMPTING RECIPES.

Chicken Saute, Garnished With Carrots, Parsley, Etc.—Asparagus and Eggs.

Cut a chicken, dressed, into ten pieces. Have a small quantity of fat tried out of fat salt pork heated. Dredge the joints with flour, season with salt and pepper and saute to a delicate brown in the hot fat. Drain the fat from the frying pan, add half a cup of cream and the sauted chicken and set into the oven to cook until tender. In the meantime cook balls cut from carrots, or new carrots cut in quarters, and two green peppers cut in thin strips, separately, in boiling salted water. Just before serving add the carrots and peppers to the chicken, with another half a cup of cream, and cook five or six minutes.

To serve, place the legs upon the platter and over them, at right angles, the two pieces forming the body of the chicken. Above these place the second joints.

At right angles to these place the breast, with the breastbone between the drumsticks and the "wishbone" resting against the second joints. Arrange the wings above the second joints and the pinions at the two ends of the body pieces. If two chickens are used, repeat the arrangement on the other side of the dish, thus forming a diamond shape on the platter. Season the cream with salt and pepper and pour it over the chicken. Garnish with the peppers and carrots. Sprinkle the whole with parsley, chopped fine. If the chicken be more than 4 or 5 months old, cut into joints and steam until tender and then saute. In this case it need not be cooked in the oven.

CHICKEN SAUTE, GARNISHED.

Cut the tender portions of the stalks of one large bunch of asparagus into pieces about the size of peas and cook in boiling salted water until tender; drain and keep hot while making the sauce. For one cup of asparagus use two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, one-fourth a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and one cup of the water in which the asparagus was cooked or use part cream. Add the asparagus and turn into a buttered baking dish. Break three or four fresh eggs over the top, season with salt and pepper and a grating of nutmeg, if desired. Set the dish in another containing hot water and place in the oven until the whites of the eggs are set. Serve in the baking dish. The foregoing recipes and illustration are from the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

The New Stationery.

Stationery is gayer than ever. One could almost hear a letter coming on the newest paper, it is so loud. In plain paper, pale yellow, burned orange, cerise and a peculiar shade of brown are the leading tints. The paper is of heavy quality in both rough and smooth finish and is decidedly ugly, but it is the thing, and therefore sells like hot cakes. Fancy papers are being used again, and dealers say that they will grow more and more in favor as summer advances. One style looks very much like alligator skin in color and texture, and if a fastidious person should receive a letter on it he or she would instinctively feel that it was about as tough looking. A pale gray moire paper is dainty and pretty and, as one pretty girl put it, "makes just any old writing look well." One style is covered with large white chrysanthemums having green centers and bright pink edges. The colors blend and the design would be lovely for an organdie or muslin, but it is hopeless for note paper.

A woman's stationery is and should be indicative of herself. If she is truly refined in her taste, she will no more use loud paper than she will wear loud boots or gloves. And, in conclusion to the foregoing, the New York Sun opines that it is, if possible, even worse for a man to use highly colored and decorated paper than for a woman.

An Easy Pudding.

A quart of flour sifted with a teacupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix in a stiff batter with sweet milk and bake about half an hour. When done, slice, put in sauce dishes and serve with a warm sauce made as follows: A pint of hot water and half a cupful of sugar. Stir into this a heaping tablespoonful of cornstarch wet with cold water. Let it cook on back of the stove for half an hour, stirring occasionally. Put in a pinch of salt and flavor with vanilla, lemon, cinnamon, a tablespoonful of vinegar, or any flavoring you happen to have. Also add a tablespoonful of butter to this sauce just before serving.—Good Housekeeping.

Fashion's Echoes.

The hue of the season is blue, but yellow is almost equally prominent in millinery.

Green and lilac is a favorite color combination for light wool costumes.

Crimping, plaiting, every kind of treatment produced by heat which can transform fabrics, have been made to play their part in the novelties of the day.

Large ostrich feather fans are once more to the fore.

Entire dresses of butter colored lace made up over silk are likely to have a run this season.

Guipure lace is very fashionable and used on the thinnest dress materials.

The up to date woman must have among her summer gowns at least one in some of the transparent nets or gauze materials now in vogue.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased, to the Creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within Ten Months after the first publication of this notice to the said administrator at the residence of P. W Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate in the said County of Inyo, State of California.

DAVID HOLLAND,
Administrator of the estate of R. Van Dyke, deceased.
Dated at Independence, Cal., Dec 9th, 1898.

LEGAL.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of Edouard Chenot, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned, Executors of the last Will and Testament of

EDOUARD CHENOT,

deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executors, at the residence of P. W. Forbes, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of the said estate in the County of Inyo, State of California.

J. E. SHEPHERD and
W. L. HUNTER,
Executors of the estate of Edouard Chenot deceased.

Dated at Independence, Cal., November 30th 1898.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

LAND OFFICE at Independence, Cal.,
November 11, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Register and Receiver at Independence, Cal., on TUESDAY, December 27, 1898, viz: George Thorpe, for the E ½ of N. E. ¼, N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼, N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼, Sec. 33, Tp. 12 S., R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: Henderson D Gill, of Independence, Cal.; John Willet of Citrus, Cal.; Harry A. Cook and Michael C. Muldoon, of Independence, Cal.

S. W. AUSTIN, Register.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1898, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

" .....May 28th
" .....July 2nd
" .....July 30th
" .....August 27th
" .....September 24th
" .....October 22nd
" .....November 26th
" .....December 24th

THOS. C. BOLAND, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec

P. M. LABERGE,

LONE PINE, - - CALIFORNIA,

BUTCHER

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, PORK, HAMS AND BACON.

BEEF delivered at Lone Pine Station for 6c. per lb. by wholesale.

S ZAUN.

LONE PINE——

TAILOR

—SATISFACTION GUARANTEED—

☞ Parties desiring work done please notify me, as I will call at various times through the County.

FIRST CLASS CLOTHING OR MONEY REFUNDED

R. W. SCOTT

Practical Watchmaker

and Jeweler.

WATCHES CLEANED.....$1.00
MAIN SPRINGS.....$1.00
☞ All work guaranteed first class.
BISHOP - - - - - Cal.

HORSESHOEING

....AND....

General Blacksmithing

J. C. HODGE,

AT THE GUNN BLACKSMITH SHOP. INDEPENDENCE

☞ Horseshoeing a specialty. Prices reasonable.

The Capitol Saloon

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

D. JOHNSON,

PROPRIETOR.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

LONE PINE

EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FAST FREIGHT AND U. S. MAIL LINE.

A. C. HARVEY, - - PROPRIETOR.

CARRYING U. S. MAIL, W. F. & Co. EXPRESS Passengers, Fast Freight and Parcels, make close connection to and from Lone Pine with C. & C. R. R. Station. The Line is stocked with fast stock and a comfortable covered wagon, and good service is guaranteed at fair prices. Public patronage Solicited. A. C. HARVEY

BISHOP AND LAWS

MAIL, EXPRESS, PASSENGER, FREIGHT, STAGE LINE.

JOHN CLARKE, - - PROPRIETOR

REGULAR STAGES CARRYING FAST Freight and Passengers, makes close connection with all regular trains at Bishop Creek Station,

FREIGHTING will receive prompt and careful attention, as will all business entrusted to me.
je29-tf JOHN CLARKE.

PIONEER STABLES,

BISHOP, INYO COUNTY, CALIF.

JOHN B. CLARKE, PROPRIETOR.

THE PUBLIC WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that I am established in the Feed and Livery Business at Bishop, and am fully prepared to furnish Teams and Rigs of any kind desired, to and from all parts of Owens Valley.

ACTIVITY OF VESUVIUS.

Much anxiety has been caused in Naples by the renewed activity of Mount Vesuvius. There is little likelihood that it will do any serious damage. On the other hand thousands die daily from stomach disorders, who might have survived had they resorted to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is the greatest tonic known for stomach and digestive organs.

"Bobby, won't you give a penny to help build Lafayette a monument?" "No'm, not unless we get his birthday fer a holler-day."

When coming to San Francisco go to Brooklyn Hotel, 208-212 Bush street. American or European plan. Room and board $1.00 to $1.50 per day; rooms 50 cents to $1.00 per day; single meals 25 cents. Free coach. Chas. Montgomery.

"My imployer is so queer; I can't tell when he's pleased." "Well, you can tell when he's displeased, can't you?"

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Boston is to have free ice water fountains in all parts of the city next summer.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE LTD., 931 Arch st., Philadelphia, Pa.

I never used so quick a cure as Piso's Cure for Consumption.—J. B. Palmer, Box 1171, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25, 1895.

The Golden Gray Eye.

I might pile Ossa upon Pelion in the way of description of gray eyes culled from fiction. There is, however, one type of gray eye whose appearance in story I have not yet noted, says Nina Allen in Lippincott's.

We have had gray eyes which "resembled nothing so much as moss agates." Sea gray eyes are not uncommon. Amelie Rives has bestowed upon Ilva, in "The Witness of the Sun," great violet gray eyes, "like rain washed amethysts," while Mr. Paul Leicester Ford has recently introduced us to a pair of slate colored eyes.

But at the present writing I have yet to meet with golden gray eyes in fiction. They are to be found, however, in nature, the most luminous of all eyes, I think, the iris about the edge a soft old gold or golden brown, gradually melting toward the pupil into a warm gray. This lovely color I have seen in the eyes of a dog and of a child—the eyes of the dog wistful, appealing, pathetic with unutterable things; the child's speaking of a soul as yet undarkened by shades of the prison house and splendid with the light that never was on sea or land.

To the novelist desiring something new in eyes I would respectfully recommend the golden gray.

Verdi and the Priest.

Verdi, when a boy, had a gift for Latin, and the village priest advised him to become a priest. Meanwhile the lad became an office boy in Barezzi's wholesale grocery store, and for a little over $7 a year played the organ in the church at Roncole, but one day it happened that Rev. Dr. Seletti, who had decided that the boy should be a monk, was officiating at mass while Verdi played the organ. The priest was struck with the unusual beauty of the music, and at the close of the service expressed a desire to see the organist. Verdi appeared, and the priest recognized him as the pupil whom he had sought to turn from music to theology.

"Whose music were you playing?" asked Seletti. "It was beautiful."

Verdi said shyly that he had brought no music with him that day and had been improvising. "So I played as I felt," said he.

"Ah!" exclaimed Seletti. "I advised you wrongly. You must be no priest, but a musician."

After that the way was easier. The priestly influence on his side opened many a door to him.—Youth's Companion.

Have It Handy.

He cried out in agony, and they ran to the neighbors for help. Sciatica was torturing him. Better run for St. Jacobs Oil, or have it handy. It is known to cure the worst cases, and cure effectually.

The Moki Indians in Arizona are sun worshipers, and their Christmastide festival is a sun dance. It is much like the snake dance of the midsummer season.

Most of the Hessians taken prisoners during the Revolutionary war became settlers in Virginia.

Catarrh
In the Head

Is an inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages. It is caused by a cold or succession of colds, combined with impure blood. The way to cure it is by purifying and enriching the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine cures catarrh when all other preparations fail. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

Ask your grocer for the celebrated

IXL TAMALES, FRIJOLES, CHILE CON CARNE, CHICKEN SOUP — IN CANS

Manuf'd and Put Up by.... IXL TAMALE CO. (Inc.) 21-23 Tenth St., S. F., Cal.

If your grocer does not sell them write for sample tin at 15c; soup, 25c.

BASE BALL, FOOT BALL.

ATHLETIC AND GYMNASIUM SUPPLIES.

Send For Catalogue.

WILL & FINCK CO. 820 Market St. San Francisco.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

A SAGE BRUSH : : : : : : NIGHTINGALE.

KITTY MIMS is not a common name, nor can it truthfully affirmed that it is at all suggestive of romance. Yet Kitty Mims was a remarkable young woman, but this was due as much to her unusual surroundings as to her undoubted personal charms.

Simon Mims, Kitty's father, was the landlord of the Aurora Hotel, the only tavern in the mining town of Experience, Nevada, that agreed to furnish accommodations for man and beast and kept its pledge to the letter.

Simon Mims was known far and near as "the doctor," and he felt not a little proud of the title. "I ain't never graddyated, as ye mout say," he would explain to strangers who came for a prescription, "but thar's two pains I set on relieving every time, and they're the pains that most troubles folks in these diggings—they're hunger and thirst. Are you troubled that way, friend?"

The population of Experience was mostly transient and largely composed of rough miners, many of them foreigners, who seemed to have acquired the English language in a very profane atmosphere.

The gentler sex was not well represented. Four sets of cotillons exhausted the supply.

But had the ladies been represented by the usual proportion, and had Experience been many times more populous, still Kitty Mims must have been the belle.

Her education was limited to a not very familiar acquaintance with the three Rs. But the miners, one and all, were ready to wager their "bottom dollar" that as a singer "Kitty Mims could give the odds to Neilson, Patti and the hull caboodle of 'em, and then come out many lengths ahead."

Judged by the effect of her efforts, no prima donna that ever trod the boards could surpass her when she sang "The lone starry hours give me, love," which was always followed by a storm of "angkores."

But she came out the strongest in "'Way Down Upon de Swanee Ribber" and "Home, Sweet Home," songs that invariably produced a great deal of coughing on the part of her bearded auditors, and the use of handkerchiefs—just as if they were troubled with sudden colds or dust in their eyes.

Of course Kitty Mims had suitors, and of course she was the cause of much heartburning among her many admirers, for it must be confessed she was not ignorant of her charms, and she used her charms with a fascinating tyranny against which the strongest did not dare revolt.

Rufus Ford, the superintendent of the mine, was a confident, fine-looking fellow, and he boarded at the Aurora Hotel. Up to the time of his meeting Kitty he was in profound ignorance of poetry as an art. But his soul was touched so that he attempted to compose a song in which he designed having "darling Kitty Mims" at the end of every stanza. He failed miserably in the effort, as a more practiced rhymer might have done.

"If the name had only been Ford," he said, "I'd had no trouble with it. There's 'adored' and 'floored' and 'gored' and—and——"

"And 'swored,'" said Tom Reed, coming to the foreman's aid.

Mr. Ford refused any assistance in this direction that savored of profanity, and it may be added that he had no admiration for the young man who volunteered his help.

Tom Reed was a tall, well-built man of six and twenty, "bashful as a gal," his companions said. He was the only man in Experience who neither drank nor gambled.

It was Rufus Ford's privilege to sit at the table on which Kitty Mims waited. He was always Kitty's first partner at the dances, and the very first time a buggy drove down the one street of Experience Kitty sat in it beside the young superintendent.

The older men joked with Simon Mims, and though the landlord was non-committal, he gave the impression that he would not object to Rufus Ford as a son-in-law.

The younger men gradually dropped off one at a time, reluctantly leaving the field to Rufus Ford; the only exception was Tom Reed.

It might be said, however, that Tom Reed was never really in the field. He did not board at the Aurora Hotel.

KITTY MIMS MOUNTED A CHAIR AND SANG THE FAVORITE SONGS.

Kitty had never "sweetened his coffee by looking into it"—a plan that was thought to save her father much sugar. He had never danced with her, though once when he did muster up courage to ask her hand for the next set she was engaged.

Tom Reed spent many of his spare hours at the hotel, watching for Kitty Mims and pretending not to see her when she came in sight.

On her 19th birthday Tom sent her a bouquet of wild flowers he had gathered in the hills that morning—in honor of the occasion the whole camp took a holiday—and in the center of the flowers he hid a golden heart which he had himself rudely fashioned from a nugget he had long kept by him.

It was rumored that Rufus Ford had sent to 'Frisco for a "dime-ant ring," and that Kitty would wear it at the dance that evening.

As often before, the dining-room of the Aurora Hotel did service as a ballroom that night, and from the crowded doorway Tom Reed looked at the dancers, and he caught the flash of a jewel on Kitty's hand.

After the dancing had progressed some time the men about the walls began shouting:

"A song! A song from the sage brush nightingale!" Having no cold to urge as an excuse, and being as willing to oblige them as they were anxious to have her, Kitty Mims mounted a chair amid great applause and sang the favorite songs.

During the evening Kitty managed to get near to where Tom Reed was standing, and she whispered:

"Thank you, Tom."

His eyes did not deceive him. Some of his flowers were in her dark hair, and the golden heart hung from a chain that encircled her smooth, white throat.

Tom Reed did not wait longer, but went to his cabin up the mountain side and lay down, but it was not to sleep. He could not define his feelings, could give, if questioned, no adequate cause for the tumultuous joy at his heart. He was too happy for reason, too much excited for rest.

THERE STOOD KITTY, WHITE-FACED AND EXCITED.

It was near daylight when he fell into a doze, but in his dreams he still saw the blossoms in her hair and the heart of gold upon her breast.

She was calling his name—louder—louder. She was beating on the door.

"Tom Reed! Tom Reed! For God's sake come out! The mine is on fire!"

He sprang up and threw open the door.

There stood Kitty, white-faced and excited.

"See, Tom! see! There are eight men in the shaft and all of them married——"

Tom Reed did not wait to hear more. He saw the pillar of smoke shooting up from the mouth of the mine, about which the people crowded, the bravest not daring to descend the fatal opening. Even Rufus Ford had lost his head and seemed paralyzed.

"What are you about, Tom Reed? Don't go down, man! Don't!" shouted the people.

"Stand by! the fire has not touched the shaft. Pull up—usual signal!"

That was all Tom Reed said. The next instant he was lost to sight. He had gone down the chain, "hand over hand."

After long minutes, a signal came up from the smoking depths. The stationary engine was started, and the bucket rose, holding four blackened, half-suffocated men.

Again the signal was given and again the bucket rose, with four other men, and one of them gasped out: "For heaven's sake, lower away! quick! Tom Reed is roasting!"

The bucket flew down the shaft, from which lurid heat gusts now came with the smoke.

An awful lapse of agonizing seconds, then came a faint signal to "Haul up!"

The bucket flew to the surface enveloped in flame.

A cry of horror burst from the throats of strong men, and Kitty Mims fell, fainting, beside the blackened, blistered form that was snatched from the mouth of the pit.

"Any other man but brave Tom Reed would have died," was the general comment weeks afterward, when it was found Tom would live—live, but never again to look up at the sky and the hills that he loved.

"Why—why did you go down?" asked Kitty, as she sat feeling her fingers—they had no jeweled ring now.

"I thought of the wives of the married men, Kitty. I was single. What mattered it so that I saved them."

"Hush, Tom!"

He felt a tear on his hand and he knew her lips were near his sightless face.

"You will want a wife now, Tom. Let my eyes do for both. Father is willing."

It is the privilege of queens to propose, but then Kitty was a queen, and she is none the less one now that she is Mrs. Reed and the landlady of the Aurora Hotel.

If Tom Reed ever bemoaned his calamity no one knew it—not even the wife, from whom he could have no secrets.—Utica Globe.

The Duke's Fourpence.

A clever Englishwoman has recently written, "There ain't nothin' scanty about a dook. Set him where you will, he makes the page look full." This is a duke of fiction; a duke of fact may be a different person.

A nobleman of this high rank, known in London as remarkably close in money matters, recently hailed a cab to take him to Waterloo Station. When there he alighted and handed up a shilling. The cabman, who naturally expected his tip, began to grumble.

"That's the regular fare," said the duke, promptly. "And why did you take the longest route? Why didn't you drive through Hyde Park?"

"Cause Hyde Park's closed," said the cabman, who surmised with whom he was dealing.

"Hyde Park closed? Why is that?" asked the duke in surprise.

"Cause the Duke of —— dropped a fo'pence there this mornin', and the gates are closed till he finds it," replied the cabman, quite innocently.

Chinese Interpreters to Order.

Germany is sending as interpreters to its Chinese possessions at Kiao-Chou graduates from the Berlin Seminary for Oriental Languages, who have had three years' training in the Chinese taught at Berlin.

CEDAR FOR CIGAR BOXES.

Hunt for a New Source of Supply Made Necessary by the War in Cuba.

Vessels come into New York every week with cargoes of cedar, but since the trouble began in Cuba their trips have been lengthened by a good many hundreds of miles. The best cedar for cigar boxes comes from Cuba, and when this source of supply was shut off quite an important industry was built up in the Bayano River, about thirty miles from Panama. The royal cedar of Panama comes nearer to rivaling the Spanish cedar of Cuba than any heretofore discovered. It has a strong, penetrating odor, is very bitter in taste, of a pronounced red tint, and rich in medicinal properties.

For many years manufacturers of cigar boxes used only the Spanish cedar, cut in the districts where the best Havana tobacco was raised. All other cedar when made up into boxes tended to spoil good cigars, but the Spanish cedar not only helped the cigars to retain their flavor, but even improved it. The cedar found growing on the keys off the Florida coast was excellent for making lead pencils, but it was useless for cigar boxes. Besides deteriorating the cigars by its peculiar odor, the gum in it melted when exposed to the heat and caused considerable trouble. When the war with Spain began the common cedar in the South was used. In Mexico a variety of cedar grows that makes a fair substitute for the Spanish cedar, but it is ruinous to pack first-class Havana cigars in boxes manufactured from it. For the cheap trade it is all right, and smokers of cheap brands of cigars would never notice the peculiar flavor the wood imparts to the tobacco. Formerly when the Spanish cedar was so cheap and plentiful the makers of cheap brands of cigars always packed them in good Spanish cedar cigar boxes to improve their quality. Cigars thus packed for a few months would have a delicate aroma which smokers would attribute to the tobacco, but which was due entirely to the flavor of the cedar.

The cedar forests of the United States were never so extensive as those in South and Central America; but in recent years the drain upon them has been so tremendous that they are rapidly disappearing. The most valuable at one time were those on the islands and keys off the Florida coast. One of the largest lead pencil companies in the world acquired the right to the best of these cedar islands, and it has been systematically denuding the forests ever since. Millions of lead pencils were annually made out of the cedar trees that fifty years ago clothed these keys.

Almost the same is true of other cedar forests in this country. The mountain slopes of Tennessee and other Southern States were at one time clothed with vast stretches of beautiful cedar trees. But they have been going very fast. In Tennessee the bucket factories use annually 5,000,000 feet of cedar lumber; 1,000,000 feet go each year to St. Louis for fence posts, and the telegraph and railroad companies use cedar almost exclusively for their poles and railroad ties.

The famous cedars of Lebanon are the most durable of all cedars, but the tree is of very little value commercially outside of its native habitat. It is cultivated in Europe for ornament, and a few specimens are in existence in this country. It can be grown in parks and gardens, but it does not thrive under natural conditions in the United States. The wood of the tree is fragrant, but it is not so strongly scented as the red cedar of America. The wood is of a reddish white color, and sometimes the grain is so close that it can be carved. As to its durability, mention should be made of the timber work of the roof of the Cordova Cathedral, which was built eleven centuries ago of the cedar of Lebanon.—New York Sun.

A Foolish Wager.

In a Paris cafe, as the story is related in a London newspaper, a man had been astonishing his fellow-workmen by drinking extraordinary quantities of water. One of them remarked, very sensibly, that it must be bad for the health to drink so much.

"Not a bit of it," was the reply, accompanied by the assertion that twenty-four pints of water was about what a man needed to quench his thirst in such weather. A bet was offered and taken. It was arranged that the man should lie on the floor with a funnel between his lips. Into this the liquid was to be poured until the limit of twenty-four pints was reached.

An obliging but ill-advised bystander agreed to pour the water in. The man on his back gulped down pint after pint with apparent ease. After a time, however, somebody noticed that he lay motionless and drank no more; and for the very good reason that he was dead.

A Little Queen's Loneliness.

Jeannette May Fisher has an article in St. Nicholas on "A Girl Queen." The author says: Although the Queen Regent has brought up her daughter as simply as possible, yet there is always a certain amount of ceremony and royal etiquette which must needs be considered. The life of a queen is not all that can be desired. A little story is told which pathetically illustrates the loneliness of this little Queen's early childhood. Wilhelmina when a small child was once overheard by her governess while scolding a favorite doll as follows: "Now, be good and quiet; because, if you don't, I will turn you into a queen, and then you'll not have any one to play with at all!"

His Hobby.

Things not to be smiled at in themselves may take on a humorous aspect through the manner of their expression. An English paper says:

An old country sexton, in showing visitors round the churchyard, used to stop at a certain tombstone and say, "This 'ere is the tomb of Tummas 'Hoper an' 'is eleven woives."

On one occasion a lady said, "Eleven? Dear me; that's rather a lot, isn't it?"

The old man looked at her gravely, and replied, "Well, mum, yer see, it was an 'obby of 'is'n."

Where Doctors Are Generous.

The doctors of Sweden never send bills to the patients, the amount of remuneration being left entirely to the generosity of the latter.

Brains is the lawyer's stock in trade, and he sells them by the case.

What Should Women Do?

One of the great London dailies has opened its columns to letter writers who feel qualified to answer the question, "Should women work?" Another form of the question is, "Should the wife be a sweetheart or a companion in toil?" There have been dozens of letters, and the conclusion which might be drawn from all of them is that a woman's proper place is at the home fireside, but sometimes she is compelled by stern necessity to become a wage earner. The present discussion in The Daily Telegraph has brought out opinions exactly similar to those which appeared in The Record about four years ago, when the employment of women as clerks, bookkeepers and typewriters was pretty thoroughly denounced by men who were out of work or whose pay was so small that they could not undertake the financial responsibility of married life.

The women of London say, as the women of Chicago said, "We would prefer to be housewives, but we are compelled to be independent workers."

The men say, "We would like to marry, but we dare not do so while our pay is kept down by the close competition for which women are somewhat to blame."—Chicago Record.

She Was a Navigator.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Newcomb, who died recently at her home in Malden, Mass., was in many respects a remarkable woman. She was one of the few women that mastered the intricacies of navigation and was able to navigate one of the old time clipper ships across the ocean when her husband was too ill to do so himself. She made a great many voyages with him, he being one of the old line of sea captains that has passed away with the advent of ocean steamers. With him she crossed the Atlantic 44 times and saw a greater part of the world. Her eldest son, Lieutenant Frank H. Newcomb of the United States revenue cutter service, was the hero of the battle of Cardenas on May 11 last. He was in command of the Hudson, which towed the gunboat Winslow out of the range of the deadly fire of the Spanish batteries, for which signal act of bravery he has received the thanks of congress and a special gold medal of honor.—Boston Woman's Journal.

May Be Decorated.

As the subject is being agitated that possibly the president of the United States will confer some insignia upon the women nurses who served in the Spanish-American war, it is of interest to know that in England there is a decoration known as the Royal Red Cross. It consists of a cross of enameled crimson, edged with gold, having on the arms the words, "Faith, Hope, Charity," with the date of the institution. On the reverse side are the royal and imperial cipher and crown. The cross is attached to a dark blue ribbon, edged red, tied in a bow and worn on the left shoulder. This order is bestowed by the sovereign on any woman or nursing sister recommended to her by the secretary of state for special exertions and devotion to the sick and wounded sailors and soldiers.

Don't Mind the Weather.

There is one thing that does not mind the weather, and that is rheumatism; and one thing that does not mind rheumatism is St. Jacobs Oil, as it goes to work upon it and cures right off.

Her Ready Wit.

Though he had long adored her in secret—worshiped, in fact, the ground she pressed beneath the soles of her dainty little No. 3's—he had never yet been able to screw up sufficient courage to put his fate to the test. Poor fellow! He was one of those shy, modest, self depreciating sort of chaps that are growing rapidly scarcer, or he would have tumbled months ago to the fact that he had only to go in and win. Gertrude Alicia knew the state of his feelings right enough, but it had pleased her hitherto to keep him dangling in attendance. At last, however, she made up her mind to land her fish as soon as a favorable chance presented itself.

And the opportunity came at the Smythingtons' little soiree, when the bashful swain, entering the conservatory, discovered his inamorata looking her loveliest amid the palms and flowers.

"Are—are you alone?" he questioned timidly.

In a moment the fair and ready witted girl saw her chance and took it then and there. "A loan, Hen—er—Mr. Finnikin," she said, with lowered eyelids, "a loan? Certainly not—I'm a gift."

And 15 minutes later, when they emerged from their retreat, Henry was asking himself how he could have been such a Juggins as to postpone his happiness so long.—Kansas City Journal.

No household is complete without a bottle of the famous Jesse Moore Whiskey. It is a pure and wholesome stimulant recommended by all physicians. Don't neglect this necessity.

Java's Fire Island.

One of the greatest wonders of Java, "the fire island," a large lake of boiling mud, is nearly two miles in circumference, and in the center immense columns of soft, hot mud may be seen continually rising and falling, like great black timbers thrust forth and then suddenly withdrawn by a giant's hand. Besides the phenomena of the columns, there are two gigantic bubbles near the western edge, which fill up like huge balloons and explode on an average three times per minute.

A Conclusive Calculation.

"I should think that young man would have more sense than to call on a girl every night," said Mabel's father at breakfast.

"The idea!" exclaimed the young woman. "That shows how carelessly you judge. Herbert's the only person I ever saw or heard of who was smart enough to talk seven nights a week without telling all he knew."—Washington Star.

Schilling's Best

Japan, Ceylon, English Breakfast, Oolong, Ideal Blend

Tea

The Foal and the Calf.

It is an interesting study to note in domestic animals the traits of their wild ancestors. There are some characteristics, of course, which are readily recognizable as being similar to those of animals still in a wild state, and for this reason they give a fair idea of the life and surroundings of progenitors. The habits of the dog and cat are too familiar to comment on, but take the foal and compare his traits with those of the calf.

The foal when a few days old can gallop as fast as he ever can in after life. He never leaves the dam, and takes nourishment in small quantities, avoiding a full meal, which would impede swift escape. In lying down no attempt is made at concealment, and when he stands his head is held high. These habits show that the animal's ancestors spent their lives in the open and not in the forests and that they were great travelers.

The calf, on the contrary, fills himself with milk, and is a poor traveler. When danger approaches, his first impulse is to conceal himself. He holds his head low in order to look under the branches of the forest. All his characteristics point to the fact that the ancestral home of cattle was in a moist, wooded country, while the primeval horse roamed the plains.—New York Times.

A Highly Seasoned Dinner.

Colonel John W. Caldwell, who went through the civil war, tells an amusing story about a Louisville company which served in his command. He says:

"We were camped in Tennessee. It was in the spring and 'greens' was the chief ration. A large number of the boys would get leave every day to go and 'pick greens.' One day a farmer came to me and said he had a complaint to lodge against some men of my regiment.

"'They totally destroyed my plant bed,' said he. 'Pulled up all my tobacco plants.'

"'The men of my command are Kentuckians and gentlemen,' said I, 'and I cannot believe that they would wantonly destroy your property. They will take things to eat, but never destroy what they cannot use. However, if you will point out to me the men who did it, I will have them arrested.'

"The man left, and it was not long until the mystery was solved. Dr. Byrne, who was regimental surgeon, was summoned hastily to attend a lot of men of the Louisville company who were rolling in agony and appeared to have cholera. They had eaten the tobacco plants, thinking they were 'greens.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Stands By in Need.

Every living thing has pains and aches sometimes, and the aches and pains of humankind have a friend in St. Jacobs Oil, which stands by in need to cure and restore.

Not Days Enough.

"You ought, like us, to have holidays in honor of your great men," said the Russian beauty.

"But in the American year," said the major, "there are only 365 days."—Philadelphia Press.

The extraordinary precocity of the children of India has called forth the astonishment of a recent traveler, who says that many of them are skilled workmen at an age when children are usually learning the alphabet.

"A Perfect Type of the Highest Order of Excellence in Manufacture."

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa

Absolutely Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

..Costs Less Than ONE CENT a Cup..

Be sure that you get the Genuine Article, made at DORCHESTER, MASS. by

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.

ESTABLISHED 1780.

KLEENO WASHING POWDER.

Something new. Not made of strong alkalies, but a combination of vegetable oils, and Borax, pulverized as fine as flour. Made in California by white labor, and superior to any Eastern washing powder. Send to us for a sample. For sale by all Grocers.

New England Soap Co.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
OFFICE—307 SACRAMENTO STREET.

Sole Agency EQUIPOISE WAIST Corset and Cover Combined

Bones can be removed for washing. Something new in baby goods. Send for FREE catalogue and learn how to dress the baby by using Arnold's Knit Goods for Infants. Money refunded if not satisfactory.

MRS. M. H. OBER
34 Geary Street, San Francisco, Cal.

HERCULES GASOLINE ENGINES,

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal

TUMOR EXPELLED.

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. ELIZABETH WHEELOCK, Magnolia, Iowa, in the following letter describes her recovery from a very critical condition:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been taking your Vegetable Compound, and am now ready to sound its praises. It has done wonders for me in relieving me of a tumor.

"My health has been poor for three years. Change of life was working upon me. I was very much bloated and was a burden to myself. Was troubled with smothering spells, also palpitation of the heart and that bearing-down feeling, and could not be on my feet much.

"I was growing worse all the time, until I took your medicine.

"After taking three boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Lozenges, the tumor passed from me.

"My health has been better ever since, can now walk quite a distance and am troubled no more with palpitation of the heart or bloating. I recommend your medicine to all sufferers from female troubles."

It is hardly reasonable to suppose that any one can doubt the efficiency of Mrs. Pinkham's methods and medicine in the face of the tremendous volume of testimony.

The Owl Drug Co.

1128 MARKET STREET, San Francisco, Cal.
320 S. SPRING STREET, Los Angeles, Cal.
10TH AND BROADWAY, Oakland, Cal.

CUT-RATE DRUGGISTS.

We Save You 25 to 50 per cent on all Drugs, Medicines, Rubber Goods, Trusses. Send for 100-page price list.

FREE! FREE!

On all orders of $1.00 or more, we will include an ounce of Raymond's Fragrant Sachet Powder worth 50c, free of charge, providing you cut this advertisment out and send with order.

We Pay the Freight

On all orders within 100 miles of our store, if order amounts to $5.00 or more and money accompanies the order.

Thompson's Dandelion and Celery Tonic	60
Hood's, Ayer's or Joy's Sarsaparilla	70
Paine's Celery Compound	60
Dr. Baker's Honduras Sarsaparilla	75
Scott's Emulsion	70
Carter's or Thompson's Liver Pills	15
New York Elastic Trusses	1 00
Epsom Salts or Sulphur, per pound	10

Write For Catalogue—Free

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO.

BIG G Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Price $1.00

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

YOUR LIVER Is it Wrong? Get it Right. Keep it Right. Moore's Revealed Remedy will do it. Three doses will make you feel better. Get it from your druggist or any wholesale drug house, or from Stewart & Holmes Drug Co., Seattle.

VETERANS If you made a homestead entry prior to June 22, 1874, for LESS THAN 160 ACRES, you are entitled to an additional entry, which is assignable and worth something. Widows and minor orphans of deceased soldiers have same right. Do not waste postage unless you made an original entry as stated above.

JERE COLLINS, Helena, Mont.

BUY THE GENUINE SYRUP OF FIGS
... MANUFACTURED BY ...
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
NOTE THE NAME.

This Paper is printed with Nathan's News Ink.

S. F. N. U. No. 858. New Series, No. 49.